INTRODUCTION

IN AN AGE OF DWINDLING BUDGETS, tighter deadlines, and shorter attention spans, many creative professionals are contemplating the plausibility of seemingly frivolous design gestures. Designed and curated as a sequel to one of Rockport's most popular titles, 1000 More Graphic Elements demonstrates why the thoughtful and strategic application of special finishing techniques is more important and relevant than ever.

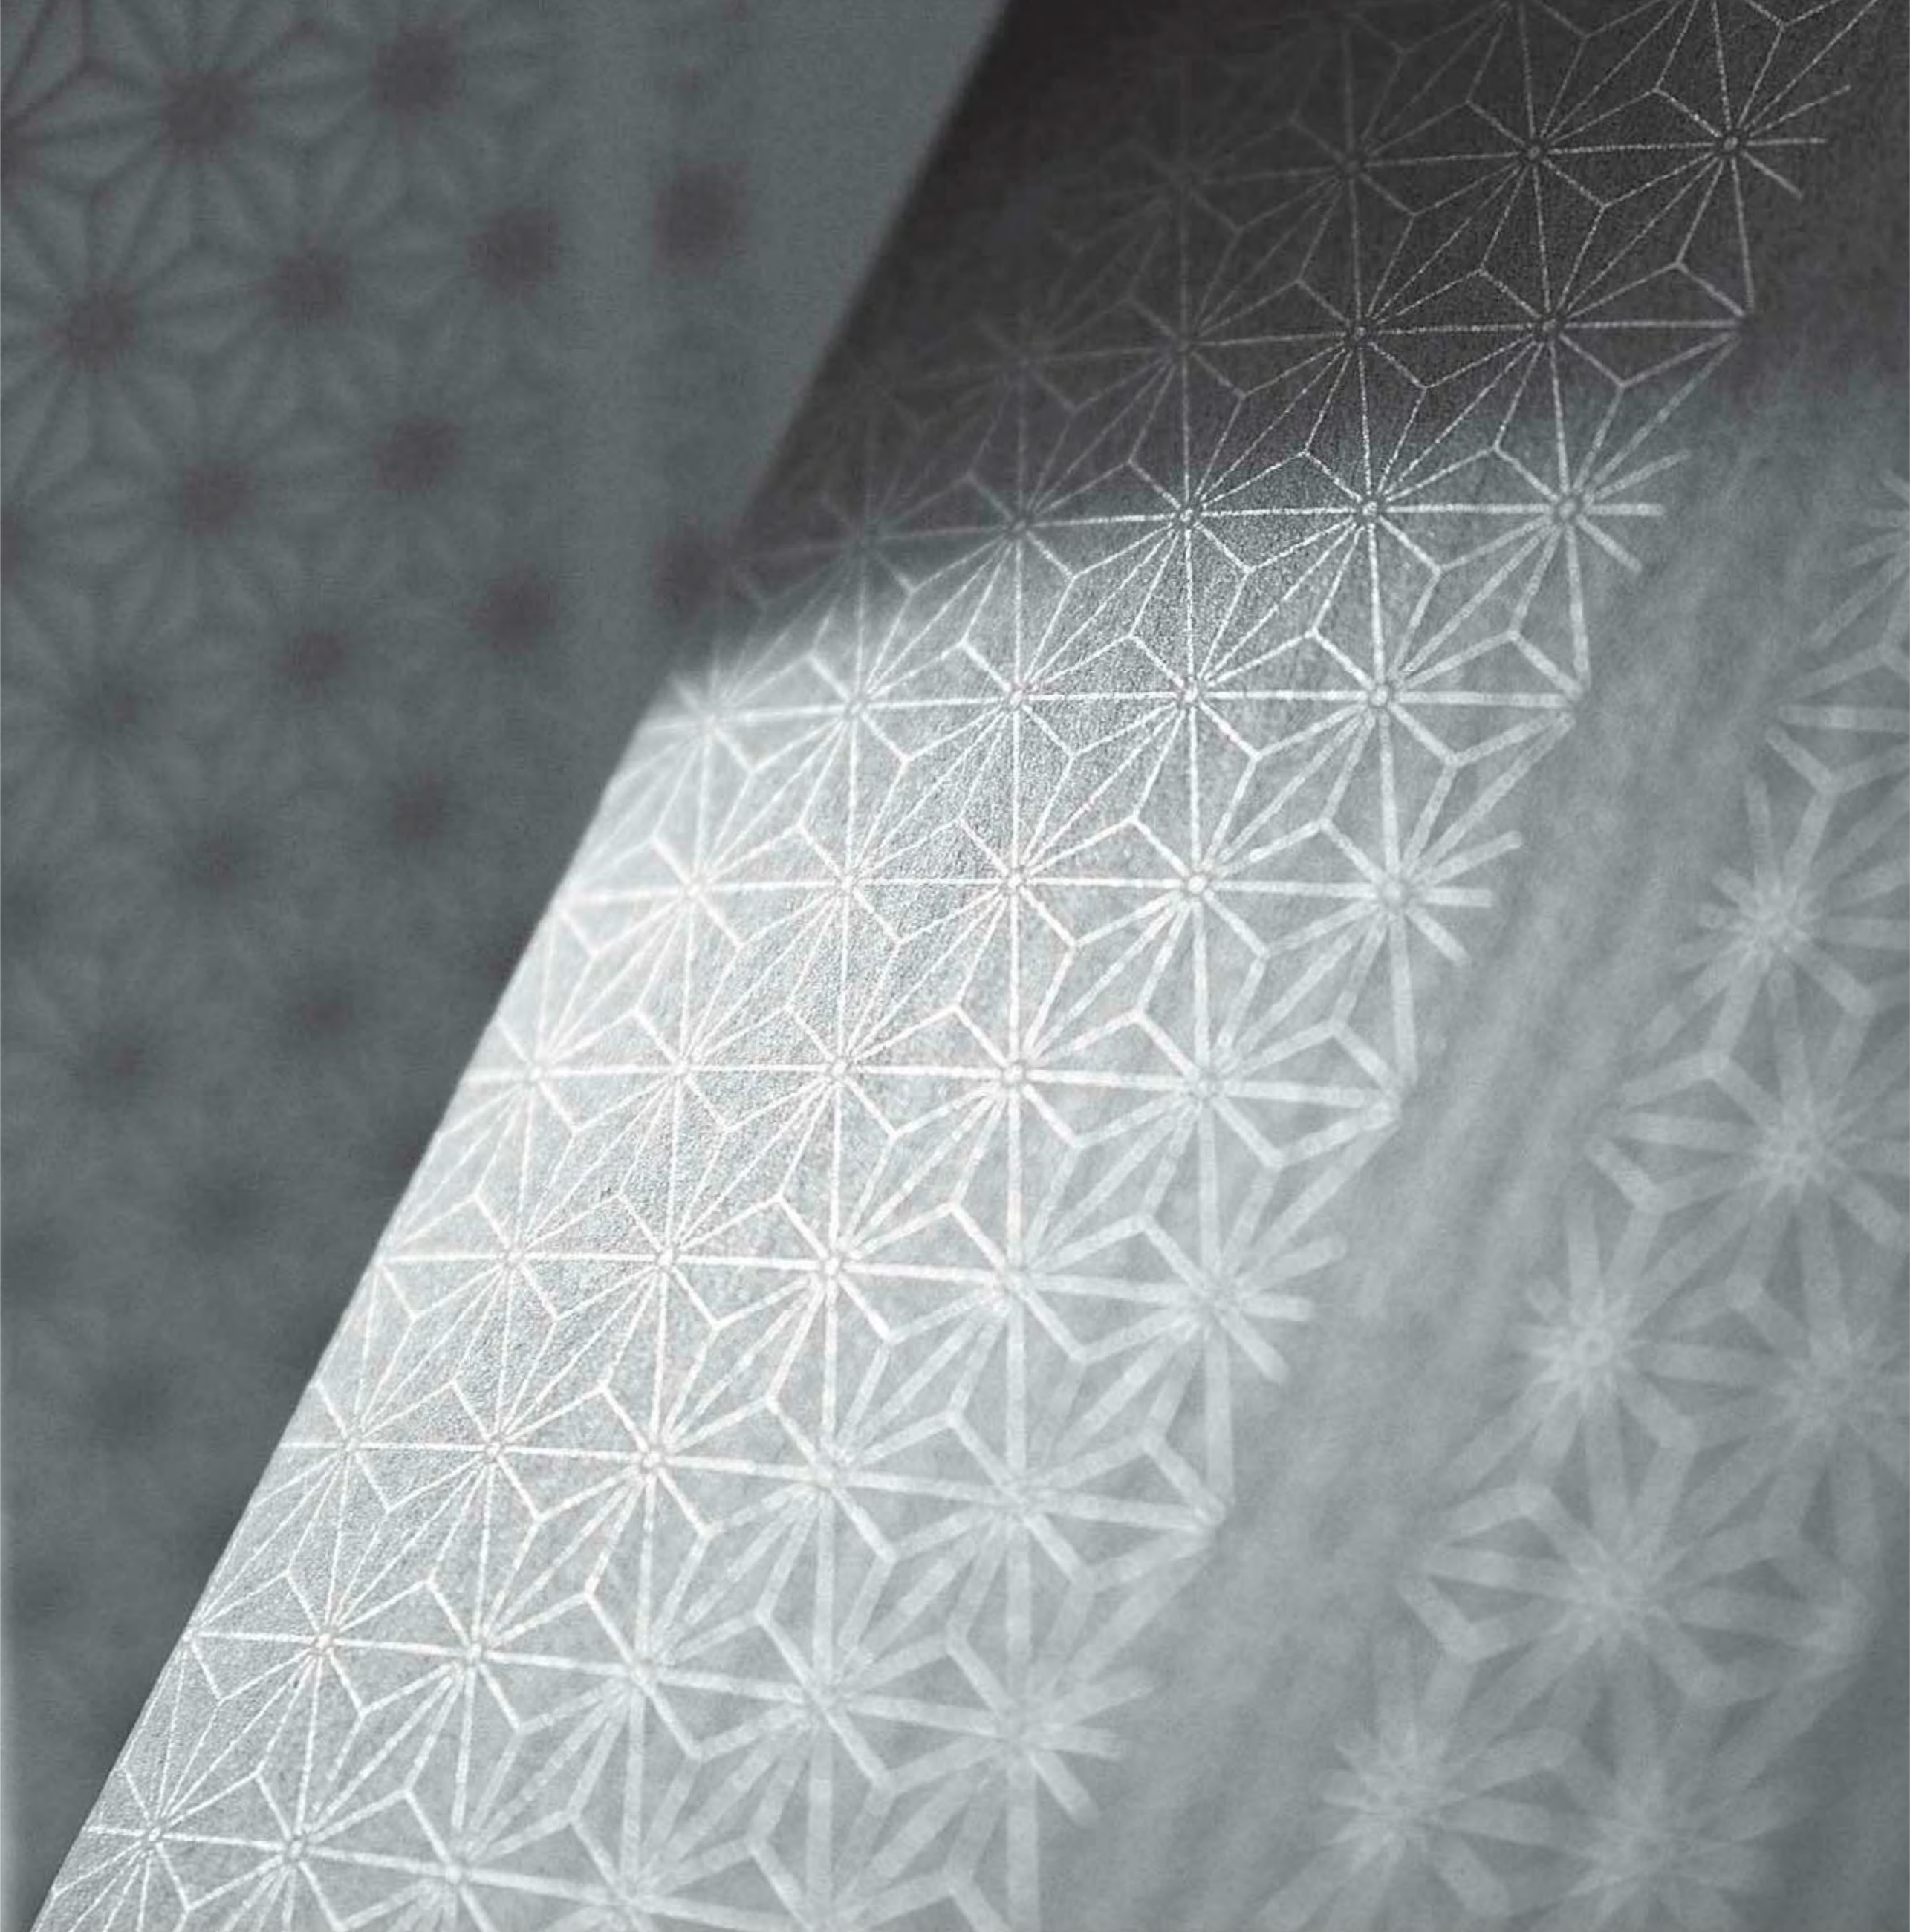

Grant Design Collaborative believes that the printed image and clever copy can only communicate a limited amount of rational information. In order to fully engage consumers, designers must reach deep inside their psyches to tap into emotions. Finishing techniques offer an alternate language or vocabulary, allowing the designer to articulate meaning and intention. Tactile effects, such as foil stamping, letterpress, and jewel-like tip-ons, can enamor the user with a sensory experience and liberate the jaded mind of the typical consumer who is bombarded with thousands of daily brand impressions.

With epidemic attention deficit disorders and an alarming demand for instant gratification, goaded by a shift toward web-based applications, it is essential to inspire consumers to savor the experience of a thoughtfully and beautifully crafted design artifact. Unique finishes and materials create a viewer experience and transform a printed piece into a gift waiting to be opened.

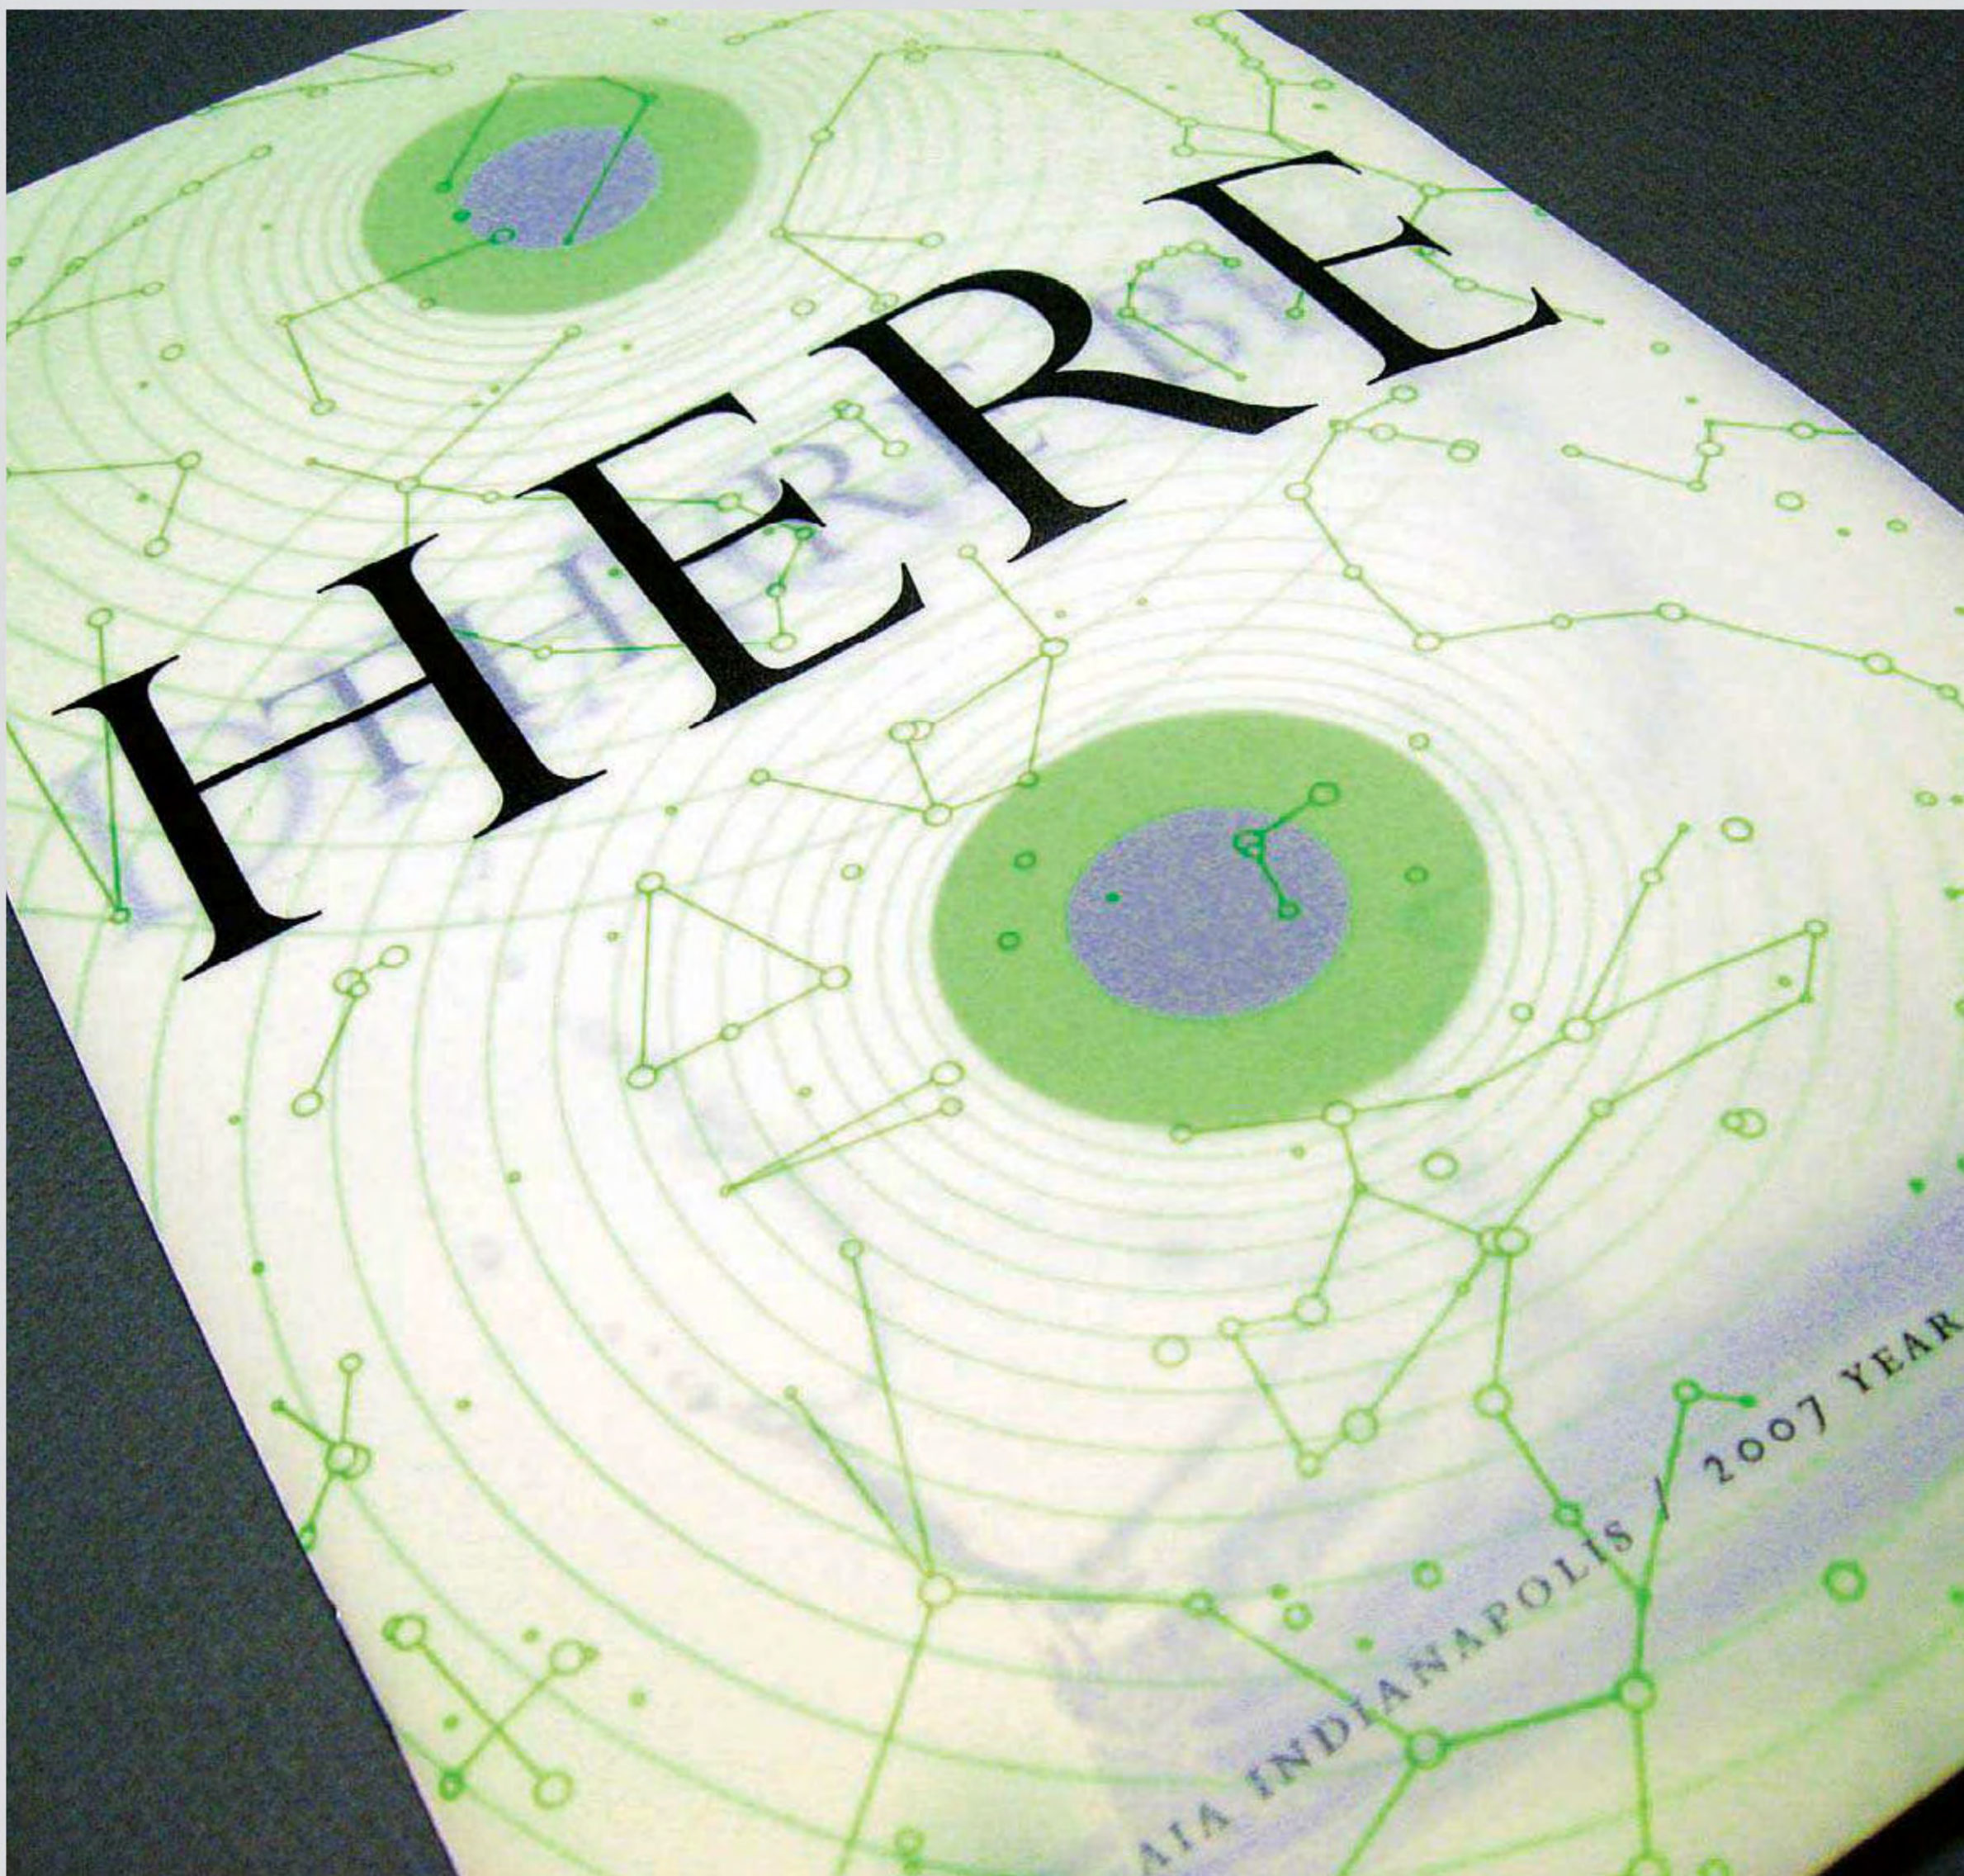

More than a mere continuation of a theme, this volume presents a survey of the current state of graphic design detail. This impressive collection of international and culturally diverse work varies substantially from the first volume, and it is intriguing to note the trends that have emerged within the course of just a few short years. Various assumptions can be made as to why certain techniques, materials, and colors have gained popularity, yet a definitive answer is hard to ascertain. However, Grant Design Collaborative did note one significant trend that points to a greater overall use of restraint. From printing techniques to color palettes, a more refined—albeit more strategic—approach to design has emerged. Simple binding, specialty papers, or minimal embossings are used to maximum effect through striking graphics or spare compositions. In many cases, the human hand has been placed at the forefront of design intention, as “handcrafted” design, literal or figurative, has evolved to a higher level of prominence in the popular consciousness. Similarly, color palettes appear to have shifted in favor of comforting and familiar neutrals and earth tones, although occasional and dramatic hits of warm fluorescents, such as yellow, are often employed for emphasis. Whatever has been lost in conspicuous applications of finishing techniques has been gained in ink, as bold graphics, dynamic compositions, and sophisticated color flourishes push the selections to greater heights. Exceptions abound, yet a clear narrative unfolds: restraint reigns supreme, and a strategic and intentional use of materials and special techniques is driving the use of graphic elements in design at this time.

EMMI

An introduction

Emmi is a graphic design practice established by Emmi Salonen in 2005. We design identities, websites, catalogues, books and other printed matter. Over the years we have developed a strong track record and a long list of happy clients from the worlds of art, culture, commerce and academia. Said clients come in all shapes and sizes, but they are all brands with vitality, passion and direction.

Emmi is based in a converted gun factory in East London, and - if you'll excuse the pun - we pride ourselves on offering our clients that little bit of extra spark.

It's also worth mentioning (although we don't like to make too big a fuss about it) that Emmi has always had a keen interest in environmentally sound solutions.

This is a #2 studio brochure, showcasing our latest selected works and words. If you like what you see, would like to commission work, ask some questions, or just want a cup of tea and a chat about it all, please do get in touch.

Since 2004 Concrete Hermit has worked with selected artists, building its reputation by producing a range of graphically lead products including T-shirts, books and badges.

We decided to create a platform that promoted interesting work fairly and with respect for both the artist and the buyer. We enjoy working with diverse groups of people to produce good, interesting, unusual stuff. We try not to be lead by fashions or markets, the boundaries between contemporary art, commercial art and illustration and visual sub cultures have blurred as technology has opened up information without the physical restrictions of location, countries or borders. The t-shirt is one of the key elements of this global cultural network - so this is where we started. Our collaborations soon developed and produced books, badges and prints.

Concrete Hermit is determined to work with the best and most original artists. We believe that the brand's strength comes from the calibre of the artists we work with and the originality of our products rather than from the ubiquity of our logo. Our coverage in the UK's leading design press is testament to this. We started out as an online store, 2007 sees the opening of our London gallery, a space that gives us new opportunities to collaborate with artists and showcase work.

Special thanks goes to all the artists and people we work with for making Concrete Hermit possible. We get to know each artist that we work with and try to reflect their effort, enthusiasm and creativity in promoting their work.

We're no longer sure what real is but we'll do our best to keep it real - We are post-neo-old-skool.

OUR PROCESS GUIDES AN INDIVIDUAL OR GROUP TO DEVELOP THE SKILLS THAT FOSTER PERFORMANCE AT THE HIGHEST POTENTIAL. WE DO NOT RESOLVE PROBLEMS OR OFFER SOLUTIONS. AND WHILE OUR PROCESS YIELDS DEEP INSIGHTS, IT DOESN'T STOP THERE. IT GIVES LEADERS THE KEYS TO LIVING THEIR INSIGHTS FOR CONTINUED GUIDANCE AND GROWTH.

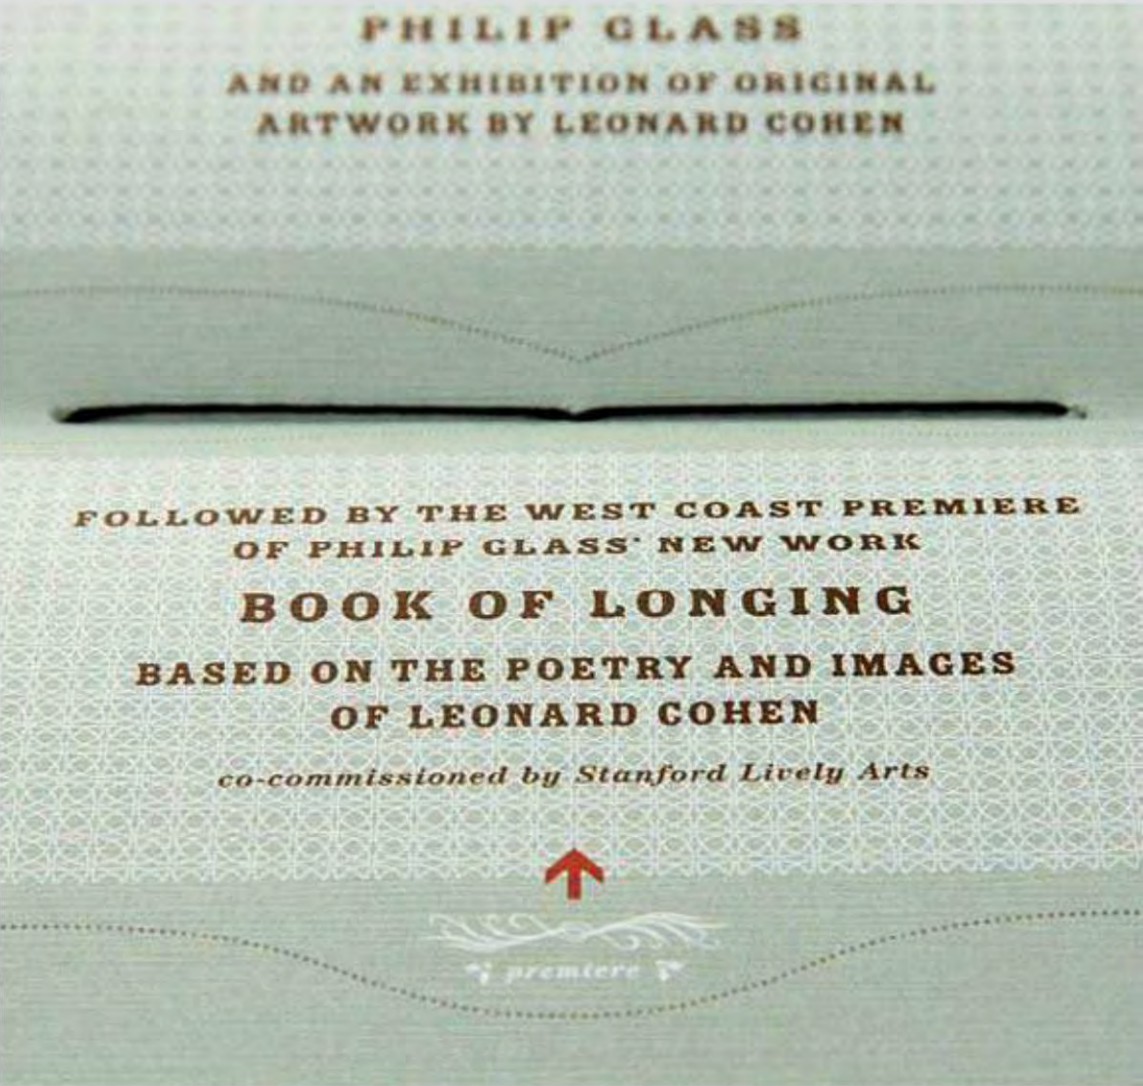

WE SEE A WORLD IN NEED OF HEALTHY, POWERFUL AND BALANCED LEADERS. ABLE TO GUIDE THEMSELVES, THEIR FOLLOWERS AND THEIR COMMUNITIES TO HIGHER AWARENESS AND PERFORMANCE. FROM THERE, WE LOOK TO THESE LEADERS TO IMPACT THE WORLD WITH A GREATER SENSE OF WELL-BEING.

Welcome to a brave new world of heroes: Heroic people, products, and initiatives dedicated to the art of change. Folio is a collaborative effort from InterfaceFLOr companies around the globe to celebrate people who are taking action to make their world – the world we all share – a little better, a little bit at a time. We are realists here at InterfaceFLOr. We have learned by doing that you don't have to know it all yourself, or do it all yourself, to effect change on a global level. It starts with changing what you can. And changing what you care about. In this issue, you'll meet "Five Heroes for Zero," people who are doing that right now. You'll also see the Just™ collection of products from the FairWorks initiative, which introduces the idea of Social Sustainability into the commercial lexicon. And as always with our work, this and every issue will gleam with inspiration to share with other readers. To begin, a tip of the hat to our No.1 cover hero, Scott Harrison, whose story for Charity: Water you'll find on page 24.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

ATLANTA-BASED GRANT DESIGN COLLABORATIVE designs brand and business experiences from product to market. Founded in 1996 by president and creative director Bill Grant, the firm generates enduring results through an integrated design approach to brand strategy, identity, research, naming, print, interactive, products, advertising, publicity, interiors, and video. Grant's diverse team transforms the business landscape for clients, creating opportunities to redefine product categories and invent entirely new ones.

Grant Design Collaborative's business model is to innovate communication design for clients with sound strategy and research. By avoiding subjective decision-making in the creative process, Grant aligns design solutions to the facts accumulated during research and discovery to facilitate obvious and meaningful strategies for products and brands.

Grant Design Collaborative has partnered with a wide variety of firms from enterprising upstarts to established Fortune 500 companies, including Adobe Systems, Association for Contract Textiles (ACT), Blackberry Farm, Blue Ridge Commercial Carpet, Geiger International, Goin' Coastal Seafood, Jaipur Rugs, Georgia-Pacific, Herman Miller, International Paper, Muzak, Persimmon Creek Vineyards, Set Wallcovering Systems, SignatureFD, Smart Papers, Steelcase, and Inn Walden.
