Introduction

A quotation can come from any notable source, spoken or written, and from any language at any time. Quotations interest us especially when they express an idea or thought in an interesting or memorable way, or simply amuse us with their sharp wit. Thus this collection contains not only literary quotations from important authors both past and present, but also quotations from people in many other walks of life. As well as writers, critics, politicians and journalists, we have sought out memorable phrases from scientists, industrialists, entertainers, sportspeople, and many more, to reflect the diversity of modern life. And just as the world has changed since the last edition of this dictionary, so many of the hundreds of new quotations we have selected reflect these changes, and important global and local events.

The coverage is truly international, extending to other varieties of English and to other languages where these provide material that is readily quotable in English. Where appropriate, quotations from languages using the Roman alphabet are given in their original form and are followed by a translation. Where no specific translation has been used, we have aimed to give a good working English version.

Quotations are arranged alphabetically by author, and chronologically (as far as possible) within each author entry, with the year of the quotation put first when this is known. This enables the reader to browse through the quotes of a particular person, and see their thoughts or works as they developed over time. This chronological arrangement is specific to this dictionary, and it makes this dictionary much more than a collection of bons mots. Where possible, each entry also includes a brief biography of the author, and many quotations are supplemented by contextual notes. These will help the reader to understand and appreciate the quotations more fully.

A dependable source is given for each quotation where possible. Where quotations are known from many secondary sources with no traceable primary source they are given as 'attributed'.

The comprehensive index is arranged by keyword. This allows the reader to find quotations on a particular subject. Once you have located your keyword, each entry in the index refers the user to the author, the page number on which the quotation occurs, and the number of the quotation on the page. Quotations are numbered from 1 to 99 and then start again at 1. So a reference to BACON 47:58 points to the quotation by Francis Bacon numbered 58 on page 47. Cross-references within the text use the same system.

Our aim has been to present the most memorable comments on all aspects of human experience, but we appreciate that no selection can be definitive, and the editors would appreciate suggestions for inclusion in future editions.

Abbott, Diane Julie 1953–

British Labour politician, who became the first black woman Member of Parliament in 1987.

- 1 Forests of middle-aged men in dark suits... all slightly redfaced from eating and drinking too much... a nightmare of elderly white males.

Abelard, Peter 1079–1142

French ecclesiast and theologian. At the age of 38, he fell in love with his 17-year-old pupil Héloïse; when the affair was discovered, he was castrated by her relatives. He became a monk and went on to found the monastic school of the Paraclete and to serve as Abbot of St Gildas-de-Rhuys, Brittany. Declared a heretic by his adversaries, he died on his way to defend himself.

- 2 Non enim facile de his, quos plurimum diligimus, turpitudinem suspicamur.
We do not easily suspect evil of those whom we love most.
c.1132 Historia Calamitatum, ch.6.
- 3 Cum itaque membris his vilissimis, quæ pro summæ turpitudinis exercitio pudenda vocantur, nec proprium sustinent nomen, me divina gratia mundavit potius quam privavit, quid aliud egit quam ad puritatem munditiæ conservandam sordida removit et vitia.
When divine grace cleansed rather than deprived me of those most vile members which from their grossly depraved activity are called 'pudenda' ['shameful'], having no proper name of their own, what else did it do but remove filth and foulness so as to preserve unblemished purity?
c.1135 Of his castration. Second letter to Héloïse.
- 4 O quanta qualia sunt illa sabbata, Quæ semper celebrat superna curia.
O what their joy and their glory must be,
Those endless sabbaths the blessed ones see.
Hymnarius Paraclitensis, bk.1, no.29, 'Sabbato. Ad Vesperas' (translated by JM Neale).

Abercrombie, Lascelles 1881–1938

English poet and critic. He wrote several volumes of poetry in the Georgian manner, and a number of works of academic literary criticism.

- 5 The poet's business is not to describe things to us, or to tell us about things, but to create in our minds the very things themselves.
1932 Poetry: Its Music and Meaning, introduction.

Abse, Dannie 1923–

Welsh writer and physician, specialist at a London chest clinic from 1954 to 1989. Best known as a poet, he has also written novels, plays and autobiographical works, including A Poet in the Family (1974) and Goodbye, Twentieth Century (2001).

- 6 I know the colour rose, and it is lovely,
But not when it ripens in a tumour;
And healing greens, leaves and grass, so springlike,
In limbs that fester are not springlike.
1968 'Pathology of Colours'.

- 7 So in the simple blessing of a rainbow,
In the bevelled edge of a sunlit mirror,
I have seen visible, Death's artifact
Like a soldier's ribbon on a tunic tacked.
1968 'Pathology of Colours'.

- 8 The theme of Death is to Poetry what Mistaken Identity is to Drama.
1984 Journal entry, Feb, collected in Journals from the Ant-Heap (1986).

- 9 We British are an aggressive nation. We seem to have become more violent this last decade: look how we drive fast and furious, with fists clenched; listen, at the stadiums, how the crowds shout, 'Kick his fuckin' head in,' or to the sirens of police cars and ambulances in the shoddy streets of Brixton or Liverpool.
1986 Journals from the Ant-Heap, Appendix 1: Authors Take Sides'.

Abu'l-'Alá Al-Ma'arri 973–1058

Syrian poet and scholar. He was blinded by smallpox in childhood and devoted himself to study, memorizing the manuscripts of Syrian libraries. As well as poems, he wrote philosophical and mystical works.

- 10 We live ignorant and die in errancy as we lived.
c.1000 Luzûmiyyât, stanza 4 (translated by R A Nicholson in Studies in Islamic Poetry, 1921).
- 11 The world's best moment is a calm hour passed
In listening to a friend who can talk well.
c.1000 Luzûmiyyât, stanza 32 (translated by R A Nicholson in Studies in Islamic Poetry, 1921).
- 12 We flee from Death's bitter cup; he follows, loving and fain.
c.1000 Luzûmiyyât, stanza 36 (translated by R A Nicholson in Studies in Islamic Poetry, 1921).
- 13 Life is a malady whose one medicine is Death.
c.1000 Luzûmiyyât, stanza 41 (translated by R A Nicholson in Studies in Islamic Poetry, 1921).
- 14 Consider every moment past
A thread from life's frayed mantle cast.
c.1000 Luzûmiyyât, stanza 57 (translated by R A Nicholson in Studies in Islamic Poetry, 1921).

Abzug, Bella originally Bella Savitzky 1920–98

US feminist, lawyer, writer and Congresswoman. She was one of the key figures of the modern feminist movement.

- 15 Richard Nixon self-impeached...[and] gave us General Ford as his revenge.
1976 In Rolling Stone, 2 Dec.

Accius 170–c.86 BC

Roman poet and playwright.

- 16 Oderint, dum metuant.
Let them hate, so long as they fear.
Quoted in Seneca Dialogues, 'De Ira'.

Ace, Goodman 1899–1982

US humorist, best known for his radio shows such as The Easy

Aces (1928–45), with his wife Jane Epstein Ace. He also wrote for television comedians from 1952.

17 Derived from the words Terrible Vaudeville... We call it a medium because nothing's well done.

1954 Of T.V. Letter to Groucho Marx. Collected in The Groucho Letters (1967).

Achebe, Chinua originally Albert Chinualumogo 1930–

Nigerian novelist, poet and essayist. His novel Things Fall Apart (1958) explores tensions in 19c African society. Other works include Anthills of the Savannah (1987, shortlisted for the Booker Prize).

18 Among the Ibo the art of conversation is regarded very highly, and proverbs are the palm-oil with which words are eaten.

1958 Things Fall Apart, ch.1. The title is taken from Yeats's poem 'The Second Coming'.

19 Even now they have not found the mouth with which to tell of their suffering.

1958 Things Fall Apart, ch.20.

20 Whenever people have asked me which among my novels is my favourite I have always evaded a direct answer, being strongly of the mind that in sheer invidiousness that question is fully comparable to asking a man to list his children in the order in which he loves them. A paterfamilias worth his salt will, if he must, speak about the peculiar attractiveness of each child.

1974 Arrow of God, preface to 2nd edn.

Acheson, Dean Gooderham 1893–1971

US lawyer and politician. As Under-Secretary (1945–7) and then Secretary of State (1949–53) in the Truman administration, he helped to establish the Marshall Plan (1947) and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

21 I will undoubtedly have to seek what is happily known as gainful employment, which I am glad to say does not describe holding public office.

1952 On resigning as Secretary of State to resume his career as a lawyer. In Time, 22 Dec.

22 Diplomatic problems used to be discussed by ambassadors... Foreign Ministers were called... somebody thought of the summit meetings... We are nearing the moment when political meetings will be held at a divine level.

1959 Comment to reporters in Florence, Sep. Recalled in This Vast External Realm (1973).

23 The institution of the throne is an anachronistic, feudal institution perfectly adapted to the use of anachronistic feudal-minded groups.

Opposing US Ambassador Joseph Grew's recommendation for the Emperor's retention in postwar Japan. Quoted in Lee Giovanitti and Fred Freed The Decision to Drop the Atomic Bomb (1960).

24 He still had his glorious sense of words drawn from the special reservoir from which Lincoln also drew, fed by Shakespeare and those Tudor critics who wrote the first Prayer Book of Edward VI and their Jacobean successors who translated the Bible.

1961 Of Winston Churchill. Sketches from Life of Men I Have Known.

25 The old house carried an assurance, typically Portuguese, that nothing was urgent.

1961 On the US Embassy residence in Lisbon. Sketches from Life of Men I Have Known.

26 He wanted to be independent of the vagaries of butlers.

1961 Of Winston Churchill, who liked to keep a champagne bottle next to his plate. Sketches from Life of Men I Have Known.

27 He smiled with the spontaneity of a mechanical tiger.

1961 Of Soviet Foreign Minister V M Molotov. Sketches from Life of Men I Have Known.

28 He struck me as looking like a pear on top of two toothpicks.

1962 Of Charles de Gaulle, 22 Oct, after a visit during the Cuban missile crisis. Quoted in David S McLellan and David C Acheson (eds) Among Friends: Personal Letters of Dean Gooderham Acheson (1980).

29 Great Britain has lost an Empire and not yet found a role. The attempt to play a separate power role—that is, a role apart from Europe, based on a special relationship with the United States, on being the head of the Commonwealth—is about to be played out. Her Majesty's Government is now attempting, wisely in my opinion, to re-enter Europe.

1962 Speech at West Point military academy, 5 Dec. According to the New York Times, 23 Nov 1969, Prime Minister Harold Wilson later countered, 'Mr Acheson is a distinguished figure who has lost a State Department and not yet found himself a role'.

30 Fumbling silence in the White House seeps out over the country like a cold fog over a river bed where no stream runs.

1963 Letter to Harry S Truman, 28 May, alluding to the Eisenhower administration. Quoted in David S McLellan and David C Acheson (eds) Among Friends: Personal Letters of Dean Gooderham Acheson (1980).

31 A real Centaur—part man, part horse's ass. A rough appraisal, but curiously true.

1968 Of President Johnson. 13 Apr.

32 Like finding oneself pregnant and trying to fall in love as quickly as possible.

On the weekend of Richard M Nixon's inauguration. Quoted in Douglas Brinkley Dean Acheson: The Cold War Years 1953–71 (1992).

33 I had shown my colors. Those who took their red straight, without a chaser of white and blue, were not mollified.

1969 Present at the Creation.

34 The enormity of the task... [was] just a bit less formidable than that described in the first chapter of Genesis.

1969 Of postwar restructuring. Present at the Creation.

35 The first requirement of a statesman is that he be dull.

1970 In the Observer, 21 Jun.

36 Much in life cannot be affected... but must be borne... without complaint, because complaints are a bore... and undermine the serenity essential to endurance.

Quoted in Gaddis Smith American Secretaries of State (1972).

37 Neither action nor style could have accomplished the result alone. Both were needed.

1975 Of Winston Churchill's charisma. Grapes from Thorns.

38 His speeches were prepared with that infinite capacity for taking pains, which is said to be genius.

1975 Of Winston Churchill. Grapes from Thorns.

- 39 Courageous and loyal to the tips of his stubby fingers.
1975 Of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. Grapes from Thorns.
- 40 Breathless and bewildered like an old lady at a busy intersection.
 On the State Dept under Cordell Hull. Quoted in David S McLellan Dean Acheson: The State Department Years (1976).
- 41 Our name for problems is significant. We call them headaches. You take a powder and they are gone.
 Quoted in David S McLellan Dean Acheson: The State Department Years (1976).
- 42 You can't argue with a river, it is going to flow. You can dam it up...put it to useful purposes...deflect it, but you can't argue with it.
 On the fruitlessness of keeping Russian fishermen from waters that should be off limits. Quoted in David S McLellan Dean Acheson: The State Department Years (1976).
- 43 A memorandum is written not to inform the reader but to protect the writer.
1977 In the Wall Street Journal, 8 Sep.
- 44 The Canadians seem to be held together with string and safety pins.
 Quoted in David S McLellan and David C Acheson (eds) Among Friends: Personal Letters of Dean Gooderham Acheson (1980).
- 45 Trust him as much as you would a rattlesnake with a silencer on its rattle.
1980 Advice to President Truman on J Edgar Hoover. Quoted in David S McLellan and David C Acheson (eds) Among Friends: Personal Letters of Dean Gooderham Acheson (1980).
- 46 How gently, wisely, and justly G M Young deals with him. That is not the way to write biography.
 Collected in David S McLellan and David C Acheson (eds) Among Friends: Personal Letters of Dean Gooderham Acheson (1980). On Young's biography Stanley Baldwin (1952).
- 47 Homage to plain dumb luck.
 Of the effectiveness of the US blockade of Soviet ships bringing missiles to Cuba. Quoted in Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas The Wise Men (1986).
- 48 The Iraqi is really not whacky
 Toady, perhaps, even tacky.
 When they gave him the word
 He gave us the bird
 And joined with the Arabs, by cracky!
 Limerick written during dull meeting of Foreign Ministers.
 Quoted in Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas The Wise Men (1986).
- 49 Charm never made a rooster.
 Of poorly-organized attempts to maintain peace by good intentions. Quoted in James B Reston Deadline (1991).
- 50 It is just as full of propaganda as a dog is full of fleas. In fact, I say it's all fleas and no dog.
 Of Russian Foreign Minister Andre Vishinsky's proposal that the US should withdraw from postwar Europe. Quoted in James B Reston Deadline (1991).
- 51 With a nation, as with a boxer, one of the greatest assurances of safety is to add reach to power.
 Alluding to US bases in Europe. Quoted in James B Reston Deadline (1991).
- 52 If the best minds in the world had set out to find us the worst possible location in the world to fight this damnable war, politically and militarily, the unanimous choice would have been Korea.
 On the Korean War. Quoted in Joseph Goulden Korea (1992).

Ackerman, Diane 1948–

US poet and writer. Her poetry is published in many journals and books, which include Wife of Light (1978) and Lady Faustus (1983). She has published non-fiction and was a staff writer at the New Yorker from 1988 to 1994.

- 53 An occasion, catalyst, or tripwire...permits the poet to reach into herself and haul up whatever nugget of the human condition distracts her at the moment, something that can't be reached in any other way.
 Quoted in the New York Times, 10 Mar 1991.

Ackroyd, Peter 1949–

English novelist, biographer and critic. He has written a number of erudite and playful novels and scholarly biographies, including studies of Dickens and T S Eliot.

- 54 And the smell of the library was always the same—the musty odour of old clothes mixed with the keener scent of unwashed bodies, creating what the chief librarian had once described as 'the steam of the social soup'.
1987 Chatterton, ch.5.

- 55 No poet is ever completely lost. He has the secret of his childhood safe with him, like some secret cave in which he can kneel. And, when we read his poetry, we can join him there.
1987 Chatterton, ch.10.

- 56 He had a fear of the dead, and of all inanimate things, rising up around him to claim him; it is the fear of the pre-eminently solitary child and solitary man.
1990 Of Charles Dickens. Dickens, prologue.

- 57 Is it possible to be nostalgic about old fears?
1992 English Music, ch.1.

- 58 Yes, I have inherited the past because I have acknowledged it at last... And, now that I have come to understand it, I no longer need to look back.
1992 English Music, ch.19.

Acton, John Emerich Edward Dalberg, 1st Baron Acton of Aldenham 1834–1902

English historian. He sat as a Liberal MP (1859–64) and was created baron by Gladstone in 1869. In 1895 he was appointed Professor of Modern History at Cambridge.

- 59 Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely. Great men are almost always bad men. There is no worse heresy than that the office sanctifies the holder of it.
1887 Letter to Bishop Mandell Creighton, 3 Apr.

Adamov, Arthur 1908–70

Russian-born French playwright. A leading exponent of the Theatre of the Absurd, he was the author of such plays as Le Professeur Taranne (1953), Le Ping Pong (1955) and Le Printemps '71 (1961).

- 60 The reason why Absurdist plays take place in No Man's Land with only two characters is primarily financial.
1962 Speech at Edinburgh, 13 Sep.

Adams, Abigail 1744–1818

US first lady, wife of President John Adams, and early feminist.

- 61 In the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make I desire you would remember the ladies, and be more generous and favourable to them than your ancestors. Do not put such unlimited power into the hands of the husbands. Remember all men would be tyrants if they could.

1776 Letter to John Adams, 31 Mar.

62 It is not in the still calm of life, or the repose of a pacific station, that great characters are formed... Great necessities call out great virtues.

1780 Letter to John Quincy Adams, 19 Jan.

Adams, Arthur Henry 1872–1936

New Zealand-born journalist, poet and playwright, whose first collection was Maoriland: and Other Verses (1899). His London Streets (1906) is a colonist's portrayal of the city. He returned to Sydney, Australia, as editor of Bulletin and Lone Hand.

63 The land lies desolate and stripped;
Across its waste has thinly strayed
A tattered host of eucalypt.

From whose gaunt uniform is made
A ragged penury of shade.

1913 'Written in Australia', in The Collected Verses of Arthur H Adams.

Adams, Charles Francis 1807–86

US diplomat and writer, congressman from Massachusetts (1858–61) and Minister to Britain during the American Civil War (1861–8).

64 It would be superfluous in me to point out to your lordship that this is war.

1863 Despatch to Earl Russell during the Civil War, 5 Sep. Quoted in C F Adams Charles Francis Adams (1900), ch.17.

Adams, Douglas Noël 1952–2001

English novelist and scriptwriter. His radio serial The Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy (1978–80) was a cult success, and it and its sequels were also successful novels.

65 Don't Panic.

1979 The Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy, preface. These words are said to be written in large friendly letters on the cover of the Guide.

66 The Answer to the Great Question Of...Life, the Universe and Everything...Is...Forty-two.

1979 The Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy, ch.27.

67 'The first ten million years were the worst,' said Marvin, 'and the second ten million years, they were the worst too. The third ten million I didn't enjoy at all. After that I went into a bit of a decline.'

1980 Marvin, the paranoid android. The Restaurant at the End of the Universe, ch.18.

68 So Long, and Thanks for All the Fish.

1984 Title of novel.

69 It can hardly be a coincidence that no language on earth has ever produced the expression 'as pretty as an airport'.

1988 The Long Dark Tea-Time of the Soul, ch.1.

70 Kate's spirits sank to the very bottom of her being and began to prowling around there making a low growling noise.

1988 The Long Dark Tea-Time of the Soul, ch.1.

71 I love deadlines. I love the whooshing noise they make as they go by.

2001 In The Guardian, 14 May.

Adams, Gerry (Gerard) 1948–

Northern Irish politician. He has been President of Sinn Féin since 1983 (Vice-President 1978–83).

72 We want him to be the last British Prime Minister with jurisdiction in Ireland.

1997 On Tony Blair. In The Irish Times, 8 Oct.

73 Peace cannot be built on exclusion. That has been the price of the last 30 years.

1998 In the Daily Telegraph, 11 Apr.

Adams, Henry Brooks 1838–1918

US historian, son of Charles Francis Adams and grandson of John Quincy Adams. His historical works include Mont Saint Michel and Chartres (1904), and his autobiography The Education of Henry Adams (published privately 1907, publicly 1918) won the 1919 Pulitzer Prize.

74 Some day science may have the existence of mankind in its power and the human race commit suicide by blowing up the race.

1862 Letter to Charles Francis Adams, Jr, 11 Apr.

75 Politics, as a practice, whatever its professions, has always been the systematic organization of hatreds.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.1.

76 All experience is an arch to build on.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.6.

77 A friend in power is a friend lost.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.7.

78 These questions of taste, of feeling, of inheritance, need no settlement. Everyone carries his own inch-rule of taste, and amuses himself by applying it, triumphantly, wherever he travels.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.12.

79 Chaos often breeds life, when order breeds habit.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.16.

80 A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.20, 'Failure'.

81 One friend in a lifetime is much; two are many; three are hardly possible. Friendship needs a certain parallelism of life, a community of thought, a rivalry of aim.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.20.

82 What one knows is, in youth, of little moment; they know enough who know how to learn.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.21.

83 He had often noticed that six months' oblivion amounts to newspaper death, and that resurrection is rare. Nothing is easier, if a man wants it, than rest, profound as the grave.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.22.

84 Practical politics consists in ignoring the facts.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.22.

85 American art, like the American language and American education, was as far as possible sexless.

1907 The Education of Henry Adams, ch.25, 'The Dynamo and the Virgin'.

86 No one means all he says, and yet very few say all they mean, for words are slippery and thought is viscous.

Adams, John 1735–1826

US statesman and second President, a leader of resistance to Britain and central figure in the Declaration of Independence (1776). He became the first US Vice-President under Washington (1789), and later President (1796–1800).

87 A government of laws, and not of men.

1774 In the Boston Gazette, no.7. The phrase was later incorporated into the Massachusetts Constitution (1780).

88 I agree with you that in politics the middle way is none at all.

1776 Letter to Horatio Gates, 23 Mar.

89 The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. It ought to be solemnised with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other—from this time forward, for ever more.

1776 Letter to his wife, 3 Jul, on the vote of Congress for independence from Britain.

90 You and I ought not to die before we have explained ourselves to each other.

1813 Letter to Thomas Jefferson, 15 Jul.

91 What a poor, ignorant, malicious, short-sighted, capulous mass is Tom Paine's common sense.

1819 Letter to Thomas Jefferson, 22 Jun, referring to the Republican's treatise on independence entitled Common Sense.

Adams, John Quincy 1767–1848

US politician and sixth President. Ambassador to Europe and Secretary of State under Monroe, he negotiated the acquisition of Florida from Spain, before becoming President (1825). He failed to win re-election but continued to oppose slavery as a congressman.

92 Fiat justitia, pereat coelum. My toast would be, may our country be always successful, but whether successful or otherwise, always right.

1816 Letter to John Adams, 1 Aug.

► See Decatur 258:8, Ferdinand I 320:1.

93 The American continents, by the free and independent condition that they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonisation by any European powers... In the wars of the European powers in matters relating to ourselves, we have never taken any part; nor does it comport with our policy to do so.

1823 The Monroe Doctrine, 2 Dec.

94 I inhabit a weak, frail, decayed tenement; battered by the winds and broken in on by the storms, and, from all I can learn, the landlord does not intend to repair.

1848 Attributed, as he lay on his deathbed. Quoted in Clifton Fadiman The Faber Book of Anecdotes (1985).

Adams, Judge Richard 1846–1908

Irish judge. After a Law degree, he became a journalist in Cork until he was called to the Irish Bar in 1873. From 1894 he was Judge of the County Court, Limerick.

95 Look here, sir, tell me no more unnecessary lies. Such lies as your attorney advised you are necessary for the presentation of your fraudulent case I will listen to though I shall decide against you whatever you swear, but if you tell me another unnecessary lie, I'll put you in the dock.

Presiding over Limerick County Court. Quoted in A M Sullivan Old Ireland.

96 You have been acquitted by a Limerick jury, and you may now leave the dock without any other stain upon your character.

Quoted in Maurice Healy The Old Munster Circuit.

1 Music, the greatest good that mortals know,
And all of heaven we have below.

1694 'A Song for St Cecilia's Day'.

2 For wheresoe'er I turn my ravished eyes,
Gay gilded scenes and shining prospects rise,
Poetic fields encompass me around,
And still I seem to tread on classic ground.

6 And those who paint 'em truest praise 'em most.

1705 The Campaign, 1.476.

7 This republic has been much more powerful than it is at present, as it is still likelier, to sink than increase in its dominions.

1705 On Venice. Remarks on Several parts of Italy.

8 I remember when our whole island was shaken with an earthquake some years ago, there was an impudent

- mountebank who sold pills which (as he told the country people) were very good against an earthquake.
1710 In The Tatler, no.240, 21 Oct.
- 9 A reader seldom peruses a book with pleasure until he knows whether the writer of it be a black man or a fair man, of a mild or choleric disposition, married or a bachelor.
1711 In The Spectator, no.1, 1 Mar.
- 10 Thus I live in the world rather as a Spectator of mankind, than as one of the species, by which means I have made myself a speculative statesman, soldier, merchant, and artisan, without ever meddling with any practical part of life.
1711 In The Spectator, no.1, 1 Mar.
- 11 Nothing is capable of being well set to music that is not nonsense.
1711 In The Spectator, no.18.
- 12 A perfect tragedy is the noblest production of human nature.
1711 In The Spectator, no.39.
- 13 In all thy humours, whether grave or mellow,
Thou'rt such a touchy, testy, pleasant fellow;
Hast so much wit, and mirth, and spleen about thee,
There is no living with thee, nor without thee.
1711 In The Spectator, no.68, 18 May.
- 14 As Sir Roger is landlord to the whole congregation, he keeps them in very good order, and will suffer nobody to sleep in it [the church] besides himself; for if by chance he has been surprised into a short nap at sermon, upon recovering out of it, he stands up, and looks about him; and if he sees anybody else nodding, either wakes them himself, or sends his servant to them.
1711 In The Spectator, no.112, 9 Jul.
- 15 Sir Roger told them, with the air of a man who would not give his judgement rashly, that much might be said on both sides.
1711 In The Spectator, no.122, 20 Jul.
- 16 It was a saying of an ancient philosopher, which I find some of our writers have ascribed to Queen Elizabeth, who perhaps might have taken occasion to repeat it, that a good face is a letter of recommendation.
1711 In The Spectator, no.221, 13 Nov.
- 17 I have often thought, says Sir Roger, it happens very well that Christmas should fall out in the Middle of Winter.
1712 In The Spectator, no.269, 8 Jan.
- 18 A true critic ought to dwell rather upon excellencies than imperfections, to discover the concealed beauties of a writer, and communicate to the world such things as are worth their observation.
1712 In The Spectator, no.291, 2 Feb.
- 19 These widows, Sir, are the most perverse creatures in the world.
1712 In The Spectator, no.335, 25 Mar.
- 20 Mirth is short and transient, cheerfulness fixed and permanent... Mirth is like a flash of lightning that breaks through a gloom of clouds, and glitters for a moment: cheerfulness keeps up a kind of day-light in the mind, and fills it with a steady and perpetual serenity.
1712 In The Spectator, no.381, 17 May.
- 21 The Knight in the triumph of his heart made several reflections on the greatness of the British Nation; as, that one Englishman could beat three Frenchmen; that we could never be in danger of Popery so long as we took care of our fleet; that the Thames was the noblest river in Europe; that London Bridge was a greater piece of work than any of the Seven Wonders of the World; with many other honest prejudices which naturally cleave to the heart of a true Englishman.
1712 In The Spectator, no.383, 20 May.
- 22 Wide and undetermined prospects are as pleasing to the fancy, as the speculations of eternity or infinitude are to the understanding.

35 Curse on his virtues! they've undone his country.
Such popular humanity is treason.

1713 Cato, act 4, sc.1, l.205–6.

36 What a pity is it

That we can die but once to serve our country!

1713 Cato, act 4, sc.1, l.258–9.

37 Content thyself to be obscurely good.

When vice prevails, and impious men bear sway,
The post of honour is a private station.

1713 Cato, act 4, sc.1, l.319–21.

38 It must be so—Plato, thou reason'st well!—

Else whence this pleasing hope, this fond desire,
This longing after immortality?

Or whence this secret dread, and inward horror,
Of falling into naught? Why shrinks the soul
Back on herself, and startles at destruction

'Tis the divinity that stirs within us;

'Tis heaven itself, that points out an hereafter,

And intimates eternity to man.

Eternity! thou pleasing, dreadful thought!

1713 Cato, act 5, sc.1, l.1–10.

39 From hence, let fierce contending nations know

What dire effects from civil discord flow.

1713 Cato, act 5, sc.1, closing words.

40 'We are always doing,' says he, 'something for Posterity, but I would fain see Posterity do something for us.'

1714 In The Spectator no.583, 20 Aug.

41 There is sometimes a greater judgement shewn in deviating from the rules of art, than in adhering to them; and... there is more beauty in the works of a great genius who is ignorant of all the rules of art, than in the works of a little genius, who not only knows but scrupulously observes them.

1714 In The Spectator, no.592, 10 Sep.

42 I should think myself a very bad woman, if I had done what I do for a farthing less.

1716 The Drummer, act 1, sc.1.

43 See in what peace a Christian can die.

Ade, George 1866–1944

US humorist and dramatist.

45 R-E-M-O-R-S-E!

Those dry Martinis did the work for me;

Last night at twelve I felt immense,

Today I feel like thirty cents.

My eyes are blurred, my coppers hot,

I'll try to eat, but I cannot.

It is no time for mirth and laughter,

The cold, grey dawn of the morning after.

1903 The Sultan of Sulu, act 2.

Adelman, Kenneth Lee 1946–

US political scientist, director of the US Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (1983–8). His works include The Great Universal Embrace: Arms Summitry—a skeptic's account (1989).

46 The history of arms control is a history of great visions eventually mugged by reality.

Agawa, Hiroyuki 1920–

Japanese novelist. His Citadel in Spring (1949) is the semi-autobiographical story of a young man fighting on the losing side of World War II. Much of the story is set in Hiroshima, the city of his birth.

71 It quickly swelled into the shape of a gigantic question mark, the middle of which was a vivid crimson, and as this thunderhead-like column billowed upward through the sky, she could see a red ball of fire at its core.

1949 Of the atomic explosion, Hiroshima. Haru no shiro (Citadel in Spring, translated by Lawrence Rogers), ch.9.

Agnew, Spiro T (heodore) 1918–96

US Republican politician. As liberal Governor of Maryland he introduced anti-racial-discrimination legislation, but by 1968 had become much more conservative. He was Nixon's running mate in the 1968 election, and Vice-President (1969–73).

72 To some extent, if you've seen one city slum, you've seen them all.

1968 Election campaign speech, Detroit, 18 Oct.

73 A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterize themselves as intellectuals.

1969 Of media pundits. Speech, New Orleans, 19 Oct.

74 In the United States today we have more than our fair share of the nattering nabobs of negativism. They have formed their own Four H Club—the hopeless, hysterical, hypochondriacs of history.

1970 Of media pundits. Speech, San Diego, 11 Sep.

75 I was... one of the worst complications he could have had.

1861 Attributed last words.

Alberti, Leon Battista 1404–72

Italian architect, musician, painter and humanist, dubbed 'Alberti the all-sided' by the historian Burckhardt. His work De re aedificatoria (c.1450), is considered the first modern work on architecture.

97 Perhaps the artist who seeks dignity above all in his 'historia', ought to represent very few figures; for as paucity of words imparts majesty to a prince, provided his thoughts and orders are understood, so the presence of only the strictly necessary numbers of bodies confers dignity on a picture.

1436 On Painting (translated by Cecil Grayson).

98 I prefer you to take as your model a mediocre sculpture rather than an excellent painting, for from painted objects we train our hand only to make a likeness, whereas from sculptures we learn to represent both likeness and correct incidence of light.

1436 On Painting (translated by Cecil Grayson).

99 I am really persuaded that if we were to inquire of all the Cities which... have fallen by Siege into the Power of new Masters, who it was that subjected and overcame them, they would tell you, the Architect; and that they were strong enough to have despised the armed Enemy, but not to withstand the Shocks of the Engines, the Violence of the Machines and the Force of other Instruments of War with which the Architect, distressed, demolished and ruined them. On the contrary, they would inform you that their greatest Defense lay in the Art and Assistance of the Architect.

1451–2 Architectura (translated by James Leoni, 1755).

Alcaeus c.620–c.580 BC

Quoted as epigraph in Eric Lax Woody Allen and His Comedy (1975).

48 Death is an acquired trait.

Quoted in Eric Lax Woody Allen and His Comedy (1975), ch.11.

49 I don't want to achieve immortality through my work... I want to achieve it through not dying.

Quoted in Eric Lax Woody Allen and His Comedy (1975), ch.12.

50 And my parents finally realize that I'm kidnapped and they snap into action immediately: they rent out my room.

Quoted in Eric Lax Woody Allen and His Comedy (1975).

51 On the plus side, death is one of the few things that can be done as easily lying down.

1976 Without Feathers, 'Early Essays'.

52 Money is better than poverty, if only for financial reasons.

1976 Without Feathers, 'Early Essays'.

53 That was the most fun I ever had without laughing.

1977 Of sex. Annie Hall (with Marshall Brickman).

54 Don't knock masturbation. It's sex with someone I love.

1977 Annie Hall (with Marshall Brickman).

55 I'm old fashioned. I don't believe in extra-marital relationships. I think people should mate for life, like pigeons or Catholics.

1979 Manhattan (with Marshall Brickman).

56 More than at any other time in history, mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and utter hopelessness. The other, to total extinction. Let us pray we have the wisdom to choose correctly.

1980 Side Effects, 'My Speech to the Graduates'.

57 Eighty percent of success is showing-up.

Quoted in Thomas J Peters and Robert H Waterman Among Friends (1982).

58 I recently turned sixty. Practically a third of my life is over.

Quoted in the Observer, 'Sayings of the Week', 10 Mar 1996.

59 Life does not imitate art. It imitates bad television.

2000 In The Guardian, 31 Dec.

61 Up the airy mountain,
Down the rushy glen,
We daren't go a-hunting,
For fear of little men;
Wee folk, good folk,
Trooping all together;
Green jacket, red cap,
And white owl's feather!
1850 'The Fairies'.

62 Four ducks on a pond,
A grass-bank beyond,
A blue sky of spring,
White clouds on the wing;
What a little thing
To remember for years—
To remember with tears!
1888 'A Memory'.

67 A fashionable gentleman who much concerns himself with the fashions of gentlemen is neither fashionable nor a gentleman.
1975 In Newsweek, 30 Jun.

Alther, Lisa née Reed 1944–

US novelist. She achieved success with her comic novel Kin flicks (1976), and explored the themes of personal and sexual identity in several subsequent books.

68 If this was adulthood, the only improvement she could detect in her situation was that now she could eat dessert without eating her vegetables.
1976 Kin flicks, ch.2.

69 There was nothing wrong with her that a vasectomy of the vocal chords wouldn't fix.
1976 Kin flicks, ch.4.

70 I happen to feel that the degree of a person's intelligence is directly reflected by the number of conflicting attitudes she can bring to bear on the same topic.
1976 Kin flicks, ch.7.

71 He picked her up out of the dirt and turned her into the clod she was today.
1981 Original Sins, pt.4, ch.1.

Altman, Robert 1925–

1978 Unsolicited advice to Lord Snowdon on the ending of his marriage to Princess Margaret, quoted in A Barrow International Gossip (1983).

Amis, Sir Kingsley 1922–95

English novelist and poet. He achieved success with his irreverent novel Lucky Jim (1954), and went on to write a substantial body of novels, poetry and non-fiction.

82 The light did him harm, but not as much as looking at things did; he resolved, having done it once, never to move his eyeballs again. A dusty thudding in his head made the scene before him beat like a pulse. His mouth had been used as a latrine by some small creature of the night, and then as its mausoleum.
1953 Lucky Jim, ch.6.

83 He thought what a pity it was that all his faces were designed to express rage or loathing. Now that something had happened that really deserved a face, he'd none to celebrate it with. As a kind of token, he made his Sex Life in Ancient Rome face.

1953 Lucky Jim, ch.25.

84 Man's love is of man's life a thing apart;
Girls aren't like that.

96 The middle-management of Manhattan stared on, their faces as thin as credit cards.

1984 Money.

97 His name was Shadow, short for Shadow That Comes in Sight, an old Indian name, Apache or Cheyenne. I very much approved of this. You don't want dogs called Spot or Pooch. You don't want dogs called Nigel or Keith. The names of dogs should salute the mystical drama of the animal life. Shadow—that's a good name.

1984 Money.

- 98 My theory is—we don't really go that far into other people, even when we think we do. We hardly ever go in and bring them out. We just stand at the jaws of the cave, and strike a match, and ask quickly if anybody's there.
1984 Money.
- 99 New York is a jungle, they tell you. You could go further, and say that New York is a jungle. New York is a jungle. Beneath the columns of the old rain forest, made of melting macadam, the mean Limpopo of swamped Ninth Avenue bears an angry argosy of crocs and dragons, tiger fish, noise machines, sweating rainmakers.
1984 Money.
- 1 My belief is that everything that's written about you is actually secondary showbiz nonsense, and you shouldn't take any notice of it.
1985 Quoted in John Haffenden Novelists in Interview (1985).
- 2 When success happens to an English writer, he acquires a new typewriter. When success happens to an American writer, he acquires a new life.
1986 The Moronic Inferno, 'Kurt Vonnegut'.

1987 Einstein's Monsters, introduction.
- 5 Someone watches over us when we write. Mother. Teacher. Shakespeare. God.
1989 London Fields, ch.1.
- 6 And meanwhile time goes about its immemorial work of making everyone look and feel like shit.
1989 London Fields, ch.2.
- 7 But we mustn't go too far back... in anybody's life... Because if we do... then nobody is to blame for anything, and nothing matters, and everything is allowed.
1989 London Fields, ch.10.
- 8 Insects are what neurosis would sound like, if neurosis could make a noise with its nose.
1995 The Information, pt.3.
- 9 You see tragedy requires persons of heroic stature. It works on the principle of people being more than human—super-human—and also being only too human. But there just aren't many great figures around now, so the tragic mechanisms can't work.
1995 Explaining why only comedy can reflect contemporary reality. Quoted in an interview in The Scotsman, 7 Apr.
- 10 We live in the age of mass loquacity. We are all writing it or at any rate talking it: the memoir, the apologia, the c.v., the cri de coeur.
2000 Experience.

Ammianus Marcellinus c.330–390 AD

Roman historian, born of Greek parents in Antioch. After a military career he moved to Rome, and devoted himself to literature. He wrote in Latin a history of the Roman Empire.

- 11 Etiam parietes arcanorum soli conscii timebantur.
Even the walls, the only sharers of secrets, were feared.

History, 14.1.7 (translated by J C Rolfe). This became a proverbial expression in the medieval tradition: 'parietes habent aures' (the walls have ears).

Amundsen, Roald Engelbregt Gravning 1872–1928

Norwegian explorer. In 1903–6 he sailed the Northwest Passage in the smack Gjøa. Hearing of a British expedition to the South Pole, he made as if sailing for the Arctic but instead turned south. His party beat that of Captain Scott to the South Pole by one month.

Anderson, Lindsay 1932–94

Indian-born British stage and film director. During the 1950s he made documentary films and won an Oscar for his short film Thursday's Children (1953). His feature film credits include This Sporting Life (1963), If (1968) and The Whales of August (1987).

18 Perhaps the tendency is to treat the films of one's own country like the prophets—with less than justice.

1947 Comment, quoted in Ian Christie Arrows of Desire.

Anderson, Maxwell 1888–1959

US dramatist. He wrote a large number of plays in both prose and verse, many on historical subjects.

19 What Price Glory?

1924 Title of play (with Lawrence Stallings).

20 But it's a long, long while

From May to December;

And the days grow short

When you reach September.

1938 'September Song' (music by Kurt Weill).

Anderson, Poul William 1926–2001

US science fiction and fantasy writer, author of numerous novels and short stories.

21 I have yet to see any problem, however complicated, which, when you looked at it in the right way, did not become still more complicated.

1969 In the New Scientist, 25 Sep.

Anderson, Robert Woodruff 1917–

US dramatist and novelist. His plays, confronting the difficulties of human relationships, include Tea and Sympathy (1953) and I Never Sang for My Father (1968), and he also wrote several screenplays.

22 All you're supposed to do is every once in a while give the boys a little tea and sympathy.

1953 On the duties of a headmaster's wife. Tea and Sympathy, act 1.

Anderson, Sherwood 1876–1941

US author, who left a lucrative job as manager of a paint factory to write full-time. His Winesburg, Ohio (1919) is a naturalistic study of small-town America in 23 stories.

23 The moment one of the people took one of the truths to himself, called it his truth, and tried to live his life by it, he became a grotesque and the truth he embraced a falsehood.

1919 Winesburg, Ohio, 'The Book of the Grotesque'.

Andrade, Carlos Drummond de 1902–87

Brazilian modernist poet. Although trained in pharmacy, he turned to writing and journalism. A friend of Neruda, he shared his devotion to socialism. His writing is characteristically low-key and ironic, focusing on everyday subjects.

24 O marciano encontrou-me na rua e teve medo de minha impossibilidade humana. Como pode existir, penseu consigo, um ser que no existir põe sem tamanha anulação de existência?

The Martian met me in the streets and was frightened by my human impossibility.

He wondered how such a being could exist who could not exist without unmaking so much existence.

1961 Lição de coisas, 'Science Fiction'.

Andrade, Mário de 1893–1945

Brazilian modernist writer. His works reflect a deep interest in Brazilian folk culture, and his highly individual prose style imitates colloquial Brazilian speech.

25 Os guerreiros de cá não buscam mavórticas damas para o enlace epitalâmico; mas antes as preferem dóceis e facilmente trocáveis por pequeninas e voláteis folhas de papel a que o vulgo chamará dinheiro—o 'currículum vitae' da Civilização.

The warriors here do not seek out mettlesome women for epithalamic conjunction, but prefer them docile and willing to exchange with ease their favours for those small and deliquescent leaves of paper which the masses call money—the currículum vitae of Civilization.

Andrews, Julie originally Julia Elizabeth Wells 1935–

British singer and actress. She starred in several long-running Broadway musicals, notably My Fair Lady (1956) and Camelot (1960). Her most popular films have been Mary Poppins (1964) and The Sound of Music (1965).

29 I'd like to thank all those who made this possible—especially Jack Warner

1965 Speech at the Oscar ceremony when she won an Academy Award for her role in Mary Poppins, 5 Apr. Warner had rejected her for the screen role of Eliza in My Fair Lady, although she had played it to great acclaim on the stage, preferring Audrey Hepburn whose singing had to be dubbed. Andrews had instead taken the part in Mary Poppins.

Angell, Roger 1920–

US journalist. Fiction editor at the New Yorker, he is also known for his baseball writing.

30 Such days and moments pass, in ways that this one has not, but there's a weary strength in experience, even in the midst of horror.

46 The cliché of whites being ignorant of blacks was not only true, but understandable. Oh, but we knew them with the intimacy of a surgeon's scalpel.

1981 The Heart of a Woman, ch.12.

47 Genet had been right at least about one thing. Blacks should be used to play whites. For centuries we had probed their faces, the angles of their bodies, the sounds of their voices and even their odors. Often our survival had depended on the accurate reading of a white man's chuckle or the disdainful wave of a white woman's hand.

21 Whaur's yer Wullie Shakespeare noo?

1756 Shout from an enthusiastic member of the audience at the first production of John Home's Douglas at the Canongate Theatre, Edinburgh.

22 Boston, Boston, Boston!

Thou hast naught to boast on,
But a Grand Sluice, and a high steeple;

- A proud conceited ignorant people,
And a coast where souls are lost on.
- 1766 Comment by visitor at the opening of the Grand Sluice, Boston, Lincolnshire, 15 Oct. Quoted in Jennifer Westwood Albion (1985), ch. 6, 'English Shires'.
- 23 Some hae meat and canna eat
And some wad eat that want it;
But we hae meat and we can eat,
And sae the Lord be thankit.
c.1790 'The Selkirk Grace', sometimes attributed to Robert Burns.
- 24 I challenge all the men alive
To say they e'er were gladder,
Than boys all striving,
Who should kick most wind out of the bladder.

- 25 Here's tae us; wha's like us?
Gey few, and they're a' deid.
19c Scottish toast of uncertain origin. 'Damn' and other variations are sometimes substituted for 'gey'.
- 26 This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who, with a fine disregard for the rules of football as played in his time, first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game. AD 1823.
Plaque at Rugby School.
- 27 What can be more palpably absurd than the prospect held out of locomotives travelling twice as fast as stagecoaches?
1825 Quarterly Review, Mar.
- 28 There was a girl in our town,
Silk an' satin was her gown,
Silk an' satin, gold an' velvet,
Guess her name, three times I've telled it.
Quoted in James Orchard Halliwell The Nursery Rhymes of England (1842). The answer, of course, is 'Ann'.
- 29 The deceased Gentleman was, we are informed, a native of Ashbourn, Derbyshire, at which place he was born in the Year of Grace, 217, and was consequently in the 1643rd year of his age. For some months the patriotic Old Man had been suffering from injuries sustained in his native town, so far back as Shrovetide in last year; he was at once removed (by appeal) to London, where he lingered in suspense till the law of death put its icy hand upon him, and claimed as another trophy to magisterial interference one who had long lived in the hearts of the people.
1860 'Death of the Right Honourable Game Football', as published in a court circular. There had been recent attempts in the courts to ban the riotous custom of 'Shrovetide football' pursued at Ashbourn, Derbyshire, and other villages.
- 30 What happens when a game of football is proposed at Christmas among a party of young men assembled from different schools? Alas!... The Eton man is enamoured of his own rules, and turns up his nose at Rugby as not sufficiently aristocratic; while the Rugbeian retorts that 'bullying' and 'sneaking' are not to his taste, and he is not afraid of his shins, or of a 'maul' or 'scrimmage'. On hearing this the Harrovian pricks up his ears, and though he might previously have sided with Rugby, the insinuation against the courage of those who do not allow 'shinning' arouses his ire, and causes him to refuse to lay with one who has offered it. Thus it is found impossible to get up a game.
1861 Editorial in The Field newspaper, illustrating the confusion before the codification of the rules of football and rugby.
- 31 Well-informed people know it is impossible to transmit the voice over wires and that were it possible to do so, the thing would be of no practical value.
1865 Editorial in the Boston Post.
- 32 It is a good plan, if it can previously be so arranged, to have one side with striped jerseys of one colour, say red; and the other with another, say blue. This prevents confusion and wild attempts to run after and wrest the ball from your neighbour. I have often seen this done, and the invariable apology—'I beg your pardon, I thought you were on the opposite side'.
1867 In Routledge's Handbook of Football.
- 33 In affectionate remembrance of English cricket, which died at the Oval on 29th August, 1882. Deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. RIP. NB The body will be cremated and the ashes taken to Australia.

27 Pulchritudo enim creaturae nihil est aliud quam similitudo divinae pulchritudinis in rebus participata.

The beauty of creatures is nothing other than an image of the divine beauty in which things participate.

c.1260 Commentarium in Dionysii De Divinibus Nominibus, bk.4, ch.5.

28 Pange, lingua, gloriosi

*Corporis mysterium, Sanguinisque pretiosi,
Quem in mundi pretium
Fructus ventris generosi
Rex effudit gentium.*

Now, my tongue, the mystery telling
Of the glorious Body sing,
And the Blood, all price excelling,
Which the Gentiles' Lord and King,
In a Virgin's womb once dwelling,
Shed for this world's ransoming.

1263 Pange Lingua Gloriosi, known as the Corpus Christi hymn (translated by J M Neale et al).

29 Tantum ergo sacramentum

*Veneremur cernui;
Et antiquum documentum
Novo cedit ritui.*

Therefore we, before him bending,
This great Sacrament revere;
Types and shadows have their ending,
For the newer rite is here.

1263 Pange Lingua Gloriosi, known as the Corpus Christi hymn (translated by J M Neale et al).

30 Solus homo delectatur in ipsa pulchritudine sensibilibium secundum seipsam.

Only man delights in the beauty of sense objects for their own sake.

c.1268 Summa Theologia, bk.1, question 91, article 3.

31 Ars autem deficit ab operatione naturae.

Art pales when compared to the workings of nature.

Archer, Jeffrey Howard, Lord 1940–

English politician and writer. A Conservative MP (1969–74), he resigned from the Commons after a financial disaster and turned to fiction, becoming a best-selling author of political potboilers. In 2001 he received a four-year jail sentence on charges of perjury and perverting the course of justice.

35 Not a Penny More, Not a Penny Less.

1975 Title of novel.

36 First Among Equals.

1984 Title of novel.

37 I am innocent of the charge, and nothing you will say however clever you are in the wording of out-of-context pieces, however clever you are in letting people know what 'on and off the record' means, there is only one thing that matters in this court of law, sir: I have never had sexual intercourse with her. And that is the truth!

Giving evidence at a libel trial in 1987. Quoted in Michael Crick Jeffrey Archer: Stranger than Fiction (1996).

Archer, Mary 1944–

English scientist. She is married to Jeffrey Archer.

38 I am cross with Jeffrey, but I have formed the judgement that he is a decent and generous spirited man over 35 years and that will not change over one weekend.

Following the revelation that her husband planned to establish a false alibi in his 1987 libel case. In the Observer, 'They said what...?', 28 Nov 1999.

Archimedes c.287–212 BC

Greek mathematician, whose innovations included siege-engines and the Archimedean screw for water raising. He was killed at the Roman siege of Syracuse.

39 Give me a firm spot on which to stand, and I shall move the earth.

Traditionally attributed to Archimedes; a variation can be found in Plutarch Marcellus, 14.

40 Eureka, Eureka! (I found it, I found it!).

Vitruvius 9.9.10. Attributed, on discovering the principle of upthrust on a floating body while having a bath. Archimedes had been given the task of establishing whether there was the proper weight of gold in the crown of Hieron of Syracuse. One day when entering his bath he noticed the water which flowed over the sides as he entered and he correctly perceived that the weight of the water displaced was that of the weight of his body.

Arenas, Reinaldo 1943–90

Cuban novelist. He held several minor positions in Cuba before leaving the country in 1980 for the US. He committed suicide in New York while suffering from AIDS.

41 Nuestro portero descubrió, o creyó descubrir, que su labor no se podía limitar a abrir la puerta del edificio, sino que él, el portero, era el señalado, el elegido, el indicado... para mostrarles a todas aquellas personas una puerta más amplia y hasta entonces invisible o inaccesible; puerta que era la de sus propias vidas. Our doorman discovered (or thought he had discovered) that his tasks could not be limited to just opening the door of the building—but that he, the doorman, was the one chosen, elected, singled out... to show everyone who lived there a wider door, until then either invisible or inaccessible: the door to their own lives.

1989 El portero (The Doorman, 1961), pt.1, ch.1.

Aretino, Pietro 1492–1557

Italian poet, illegitimate son of a nobleman. Banished from his native town, he wandered through Italy. His wit secured the favour of Pope Leo X, subsequently lost with the salacious Sonetti Lussuriosi. Later patrons included Giovanni de Medici, Francis I and Charles V. He reputedly died by falling from a stool while laughing.

42 I am a free man, I do not need to copy Petrarch or Boccaccio. My own genius is enough. Let others worry themselves about style and so cease to be themselves. Without a master, without a model, without a guide, without artifice, I go to work and earn my living, my well-being, and my fame. What do I need more? With a goose quill and a few sheets of paper I mock the universe.
Quoted in J H Plumb (ed) The Horizon Book of the Renaissance (1961, new edn by Penguin, 1982).

Arguedas, José María 1911–69

Peruvian fiction writer and ethnologist. His works reflect the tensions that underlie Peruvian society, in the marginalization of native peoples. He committed suicide.

43 Dónde está la patria, amigo? Ni en el corazón ni en la saliva.
Where is the country, my friend? It is not in the heart or in the saliva.

- 48 All men naturally desire knowledge.
Metaphysics, bk.1, ch.1, 980a (translated by H Tredennick).
- 49 It is through wonder that men now begin and originally began to philosophize; wondering in the first place at obvious perplexities, and then by gradual progression raising questions about the greater matters too.
Metaphysics, bk.1, ch.2, 982 (translated by H Tredennick).
- 50 Every art and every inquiry, and similarly every action and pursuit, is thought to aim at some good; and for this reason the good has rightly been declared to be that at which all things aim.
Nicomachean Ethics, bk.1, ch.1, 1093 (translated by Sir David Ross).
- 51 Human good turns out to be activity of soul exhibiting excellence, and if there is more than one sort of excellence, in accordance with the best and most complete. For one swallow does not make a summer, nor does one day; and so too one day, or a short time, does not make a man blessed and happy.
Nicomachean Ethics, bk.1, ch.7, 1098 (translated by Sir David Ross).
- 52 Virtue, then, is a state of character concerned with choice, lying in a mean... it is a mean between two vices, that which depends on excess and that which depends on defect.
Nicomachean Ethics, bk.2, ch.6, 1006 (translated by Sir David Ross).
- 53 For man, therefore, the life according to reason is best and pleasantest, since reason more than anything else is man.
Nicomachean Ethics, bk.10, ch.7, 1178 (translated by Sir David Ross).
- 54 Tragedy is thus a representation of an action that is worth serious attention, complete in itself and of some amplitude... by means of pity and fear bringing about the purgation of such emotions.
c.330 BC Poetics, ch.6.
- 55 Now a whole is that which has a beginning, a middle, and an end.
c.330 BC Poetics, ch.7, referring to tragedy.
- 56 Man is by nature a political animal; it is his nature to live in a state.
c.330 BC Politics, bk.1, ch.2, 1253a (translated by T A Sinclair).
- 57 Nature, as we say, does nothing without some purpose; and for the purpose of making man a political animal she has endowed him alone among the animals with the power of reasoned speech.
c.330 BC Politics, bk.1, ch.2, 1253b (translated by T A Sinclair).
- 58 It is a bad thing that many from being rich should become poor; for men of ruined fortunes are sure to stir up revolutions.
c.330 BC Politics, bk.4.
- 59 The flute is not an instrument that has a good moral effect—it is too exciting.
c.330 BC Politics.
- 60 For that which has become habitual, becomes as it were natural.
Rhetorica, 1370a (translated by J H Freese).
- 61 Amicus Plato, sed magis amica veritas.
Plato is dear to me, but dearer still is truth.
Proverbial expression, traditionally attributed to Aristotle, going back to a passage in the Ethica Nicomachea, 1069a.

Arlott, (Leslie Thomas) John 1914–91

English cricket commentator and writer, a police detective before joining the BBC in 1945. His voice became the epitome of radio cricket commentary.

- 62 The Master: records prove the title good:
Yet figures fail you, for they cannot say
How many men whose names you never knew
Are proud to tell their sons they saw you play.

They share the sunlight of your summer day
Of thirty years; and they, with you, recall
How, through those well-wrought centuries, your hand
Reshaped the history of bat and ball.

1952 'To John Bery Hobbs on his Seventieth Birthday'.

- 63 Cricket, like the novel, is great when it presents men in the round, when it shows the salty quality of human nature.

1953 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

- 64 Most games are skin-deep, but cricket goes to the bone.

1977 Arlott and Trueman on Cricket.

- 65 Cricket is a game of the most terrifying stresses with more luck about it than any other game I know. They call it a team game, but in fact it is the loneliest game of all.

Another Word from Arlott.

Arlt, Roberto 1900–42

Argentinian fiction writer, dramatist and journalist. The son of German immigrants, his works emphasize the anger and disillusionment of the urban middle class.

- 66 ¡Y yo, yo, Señor, no tendré nunca una querida tan linda como esa querida que lucen los cromos de los libros viciosos!

And I, Sir, I'll never have a mistress as beautiful as those in the pictures of obscene books!

1926 El juguete rabioso ('The Rabid Toy'), ch.2.

1968 Quoted in the Observer, 21 Apr.

- 75 If you still have to ask...shame on you.

Habitual response when asked what is jazz? Quoted in M Jones Salute to Satchmo (1970).

- 76 All music is folk music. I ain't never heard no horse sing a song.

Quoted in the New York Times, 7 Jul 1971.

- 77 A lotta cats copy the Mona Lisa, but people still line up to see the original.

Alluding to his many imitators. Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth Century Music (1994).

Armstrong, Neil A(Iden) 1930–

US astronaut. A former fighter pilot, he commanded Gemini 8 (1966) and in 1969 was a crew member of Apollo 11, and the first man to walk on the moon.

- 78 That's one small step for a man, one giant leap forward for mankind.

1969 His words on becoming the first man to walk on the moon, 20 Jul. Armstrong claimed to have said 'That's one small step for a man...'; but tape-recordings seem to confirm that he omitted the 'a', thereby causing some confusion among his listeners.

- 79 I believe every human has a finite number of heartbeats. I don't intend to waste any of mine running around doing exercises.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Armstrong, Robert, Baron Armstrong of Ilminster 1927–

English civil servant. In 1970 he became principal private secretary to Prime Minister Edward Heath, and later Secretary to the Cabinet and Head of the Home Civil Service under Margaret Thatcher.

- 80 It contains a misleading impression, not a lie. It was being economical with the truth.

Arnold, Matthew 1822–88

English poet and critic. His poems, mainly elegiac in mood and on pastoral themes, include 'The Forsaken Merman' (1849), 'The Scholar-Gipsy' (1853) and 'Thyrsis' (1867). His critical works include Essays in Criticism (1865, 1888) and Culture and Anarchy (1869).

82 Come, dear children, let us away;

Down and away below!

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'The Forsaken Merman', l.1–2.

83 Now the great winds shorewards blow;

Now the salt tides seawards flow;

Now the wild white horses play,

Champ and chafe and toss in the spray.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'The Forsaken Merman', l.4–7.

84 Sand-strewn caverns, cool and deep,

Where the winds are all asleep;

Where the spent lights quiver and gleam;

Where the salt weed sways in the stream.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'The Forsaken Merman', l.35–8.

85 Where great whales come sailing by,

Sail and sail, with unshut eye,

Round the world for ever and aye.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'The Forsaken Merman', l.43–5.

86 Not deep the Poet sees, but wide.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'Resignation', l.214.

87 Yet they, believe me, who await

No gifts from chance, have conquered fate.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'Resignation', l.247–8.

88 Not milder is the general lot

Because our spirits have forgot,

In action's dizzying eddy whirled,

The something that infects the world.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'Resignation', l.275–8.

89 Others abide our question. Thou art free.

We ask and ask: Thou smilest and art still,

Out-topping knowledge.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'Shakespeare'.

90 And thou, who didst the stars and sunbeams know,
Self-schooled, self-scanned, self-honoured, self-secure,
Didst tread on Earth unguessed at. — Better so!

All pains the immortal spirit must endure,

All weakness which impairs, all griefs which bow,

Find their sole speech in that victorious brow.

1849 The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'Shakespeare'.

91 Who saw life steadily, and saw it whole:

The mellow glory of the Attic stage;

Singer of sweet Colonus, and its child.

1849 Of Sophocles. The Strayed Reveller, and Other Poems, 'To a Friend'.

92 France, famed in all great arts, in none supreme.

93 The sea of faith

Lay like the folds of a bright girdle furled.

But now I only hear

Its melancholy, long, withdrawing roar,

Retreating, to the breath

Of the night-wind, down the vast edges drear

And naked shingles of the world.

1851 'Dover Beach', stanza 3.

94 And we are here as on a darkling plain

Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight,

Where ignorant armies clash by night.

1851 'Dover Beach', stanza 4.

95 Be neither saint nor sophist-led, but be a man.

1852 'Empedocles on Etna', act 1, sc.2, l.136.

96 Is it so small a thing

To have enjoyed the sun,

To have lived light in the spring,

To have loved, to have thought, to have done.

1852 'Empedocles on Etna', act 1, sc.2, l.397–400.

97 Because thou must not dream, thou needst not then despair!

1852 'Empedocles on Etna', act 1, sc.2, l.426.

98 And we forget because we must

And not because we will.

1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems, 'Absence'.

99 Only—but this is rare—

When a beloved hand is laid in ours,

When, jaded with the rush and glare

Of the interminable hours,

Our eyes can in another's eyes read clear,

When our world-deafened ear

Is by the tones of a loved voice caressed—

A bolt is shot back somewhere in our breast,

And a lost pulse of feeling stirs again.

The eye sinks inward, and the heart lies plain,

And what we mean, we say, and what we would, we know.

1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems, 'The Buried Life', l.77–87.

1 Come to me in my dreams, and then

By day I shall be well again!

For then the night will more than pay

The hopeless longing of the day.

1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems, 'Longing' (later published as 'Faded Leaves' in Poems: Second Series, 1855).

2 Calm soul of all things! make it mine

To feel, amid the city's jar,

That there abides a peace of thine,

Man did not make, and cannot mar.

1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems, 'Lines written in Kensington Garden'.

3 He spoke, and loosed our heart in tears.

He laid us as we lay at birth

- On the cool flowery lap of earth.
1852 Of William Wordsworth. Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; Memorial Verses, April 1850', 1.47–9.
- 4 With aching hands and bleeding feet
 We dig and heap, lay stone on stone;
 We bear the burden and the heat
 Of the long day, and wish 'twere done.
 Not till the hours of light return,
 All we have built do we discern.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'Morality'.
- 5 Say, has some wet bird-haunted English lawn
 Lent it the music of its trees at dawn?
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'Parting', 1.19–20.
- 6 Resolve to be thyself: and know, that he
 Who finds himself, loses his misery.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'Self-Dependence', 1.31–2.
- 7 Ah! two desires toss about
 The poet's feverish blood.
 One drives him to the world without,
 And one to solitude.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'Stanzas in Memory of the Author of "Obermann"', 1.93–6.
- 8 Still bent to make some port he knows not where,
 Still standing for some false impossible shore.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'A Summer Night', 1.68–9.
- 9 Yes! in the sea of life enisled,
 With echoing straits between us thrown,
 Dotting the shoreless watery wild,
 We mortal millions live alone.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'To Marguerite—Continued', 1.1–4.
- 10 A God, a God their severance ruled!
 And bade betwixt their shores to be
 The unplumbed, salt, estranging sea.
1852 Empedocles on Etna and Other Poems; 'To Marguerite—Continued', 1.22–4.
- 11 I am past thirty, and three parts iced over.
1853 Letter to Arthur Hugh Clough, 12 Feb
- 12 Hark! ah, the Nightingale!
 The tawny-throated!
 Hark! from that moonlit cedar what a burst!
 What triumph! hark—what pain!
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Philomela', 1.1–4.
- 13 Eternal Passion!
 Eternal Pain!
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Philomela', 1.31–2.
- 14 Her cabined ample Spirit,
 It fluttered and failed for breath.
 Tonight it doth inherit
 The vasty hall of death.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Requiescat'.
- 15 Go, for they call you, Shepherd, from the hill.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.1.

1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.20.
- 17 Tired of knocking at Preferment's door.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.35.
- 18 Crossing the stripling Thames at Bab-lock-hithe,
 Trailing in the cool stream thy fingers wet,
 As the slow punt swings round.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.74–6.
- 19 Rapt, twirling in thy hand a withered spray,
 And waiting for the spark from heaven to fall.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.119–20.
- 20 The line of festal light in Christ-Church hall.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.129.
- 21 Thou waitest for the spark from heaven! and we,
 Light half-believers in our casual creeds...
 Who hesitate and falter life away,
 And lose tomorrow the ground won today—
 Ah, do not we, Wanderer, await it too?
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.171–4.
- 22 O born in days when wits were fresh and clear,
 And life ran gaily as the sparkling Thames:
 Before this strange disease of modern life,
 With its sick hurry, its divided aims,
 Its heads o'ertaxed, its palsied hearts, was rife—
 Fly hence, our contact fear!
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.201–6.
- 23 Still nursing the unconquerable hope,
 Still clutching the inviolable shade.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'The Scholar-Gipsy', 1.211–12.
- 24 Curled minion, dancer, coiner of sweet words!
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Sohrab and Rustum', 1.458.
- 25 No horse's cry was that, most like the roar
 Of some pained desert lion, who all day
 Hath trailed the hunter's javelin in his side,
 And comes at night to die upon the sand.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Sohrab and Rustum', 1.501–4.
- 26 Truth sits upon the lips of dying men.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Sohrab and Rustum', 1.656.
- 27 But the majestic river floated on,
 Out of the mist and hum of that low land,
 Into the frosty starlight.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Sohrab and Rustum', 1.875–7.
- 28 Oxus, forgetting the bright speed he had
 In his high mountain cradle in Pamere,
 A foiled circuitous wanderer—till at last
 The longed-for dash of waves is heard, and wide
 His luminous home of waters opens, bright
 And tranquil, from whose floor the new-bathed stars
 Emerge, and shine upon the Aral Sea.
1853 Poems: A New Edition, 'Sohrab and Rustum', 1.886–92.
- 29 Cruel, but composed and bland,
 Dumb, inscrutable and grand,
 So Tiberius might have sat,
 Had Tiberius been a cat.
1855 Poems: Second Series, 'Poor Matthias', 1.40–3.
- 30 For rigorous teachers seized my youth,
 And other its faith, and trimmed its fire,
 Showed me the high, white star of Truth,
 There bade me gaze, and there aspire.
1855 Poems: Second Series, 'Stanzas from the Grande Chartreuse', 1.67–70.
- 31 Wandering between two worlds, one dead,
 The other powerless to be born,
 With nowhere yet to rest my head,
 Like these, on earth I wait forlorn.
1855 Poems: Second Series, 'Stanzas from the Grande Chartreuse', 1.85–8.

- 32 What helps it now, that Byron bore,
With haughty scorn which mocked the smart,
Through Europe to the Aetolian shore
The pageant of his bleeding heart?
That thousands counted every groan,
And Europe made his woe her own?
1855 Poems: Second Series, 'Stanzas from the Grande Chartreuse', l.133–8.
- 33 This truth—to prove, and make thine own:
'Thou hast been, shalt be, art, alone.'
1857 'Isolation. To Marguerite', l.29–30.
- 34 Wordsworth says somewhere that wherever Virgil seems to have composed 'with his eye on the object', Dryden fails to render him. Homer invariably composes
'with his eye on the object', whether the object be moral or a material one: Pope composes with his eye on his style, into which he translates his object, whatever it is.
1861 On Translating Homer, lecture 1.
- 35 Of these two literatures [French and German], as of the intellect of Europe in general, the main effort, for now many years, has been a critical effort; the endeavours, in all branches of knowledge—theology, philosophy, history, art, science—to see the object as in itself it really is.
1861 On Translating Homer, lecture 2.
- 36 [The translator] will find one English book and one only, where, as in the Iliad itself, perfect plainness of speech is allied with perfect nobleness; and that book is the Bible.
1861 On Translating Homer, lecture 3.
- 37 Nothing has raised more questioning among my critics than these words—noble, the grand style... I think it will be found that the grand style arises in poetry, when a noble nature, poetically gifted, treats with simplicity or with severity a serious subject.
1862 On Translating Homer; Last Words.
- 38 Nothing could moderate, in the bosom of the great English middle class, their passionate, absorbing, almost blood-thirsty clinging to life.
1865 Essays in Criticism First Series, preface.
- 39 Beautiful city! so venerable, so lovely, so unravaged by the fierce intellectual life of our century, so serene!... whispering from her towers the last enchantments of the Middle Age... Home of lost causes, and forsaken beliefs, and unpopular names, and impossible loyalties!
1865 Of Oxford. Essays in Criticism First Series, preface.
- 40 I am bound by my own definition of criticism: a disinterested endeavour to learn and propagate the best that is known and thought in the world.
1865 Essays in Criticism First Series, 'The Function of Criticism at the Present Time'.
- 41 Philistinism!—We have not the expression in English.
Perhaps we have not the word because we have so much of the thing.
1865 Essays in Criticism First Series, 'Heinrich Heine'.
- 42 The great apostle of the Philistine, Lord Macaulay.
1865 Essays in Criticism First Series, 'Joubert'.
- 43 The signal-elm, that looks on Ilsley downs,
The Vale, the three lone weirs, the youthful Thames.
1866 New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.14–15. The poem is an elegy for his friend Arthur Hugh Clough, who drowned in 1861.
- 44 And that sweet City with her dreaming spires,
She needs not June for beauty's heightening.
1866 Of Oxford. New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.19–20.
- 45 So have I heard the cuckoo's parting cry,
From the wet field, through the vext garden trees,
Come with the volleying rain and tossing breeze:
'The bloom is gone, and with the bloom go I.'
1866 New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.57–60.
- 46 Too quick despairer, wherefore wilt thou go?
Soon will the high Midsummer pomps come on,
Soon will the musk carnations break and swell.
1866 New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.61–3.
- 47 For Time, not Corydon, hath conquered thee.
1866 New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.80.
- 48 The foot less prompt to meet the morning dew,
The heart less bounding at emotion new,
And hope, once crushed, less quick to spring again.
1866 New Poems, 'Thyrsis', l.138–40.
- 49 It is not in the outward and visible world of material life that the Celtic genius of Wales or Ireland can at this day hope to count for much; it is in the inward world of thought and science. What it has been, what it has done, what it will be or will do, as a matter of modern politics.
1867 'On the Study of Celtic Literature'.
- 50 Let us reunite ourselves with our better mind and with the world through science; and let it be one of our angelic revenges on the Philistines, who among their other sins are the guilty authors of Fenianism, to found at Oxford a chair of Celtic, and to send, through the gentle ministration of science, a message of peace to Ireland.
1867 'On the Study of Celtic Literature'.
- 51 Creep into thy narrow bed,
Creep, and let no more be said!
Vain thy onset! all stands fast.
Thou thyself must break at last.
Let the long contention cease!
Geese are swans, and swans are geese.
Let them have it how they will!
Thou art tired; best be still.
1867 New Poems, 'The Last Word'.
- 52 Coldly, sadly descends
The autumn evening. The field
Strewn with its dank yellow drifts
Of withered leaves, and the elms,
Fade into dimness apace,
Silent;—hardly a shout
From a few boys late at their play!
1867 New Poems, 'Rugby Chapel, November 1857'.
- 53 Our society distributes itself into Barbarians, Philistines, and Populace; and America is just ourselves, with the Barbarians quite left out, and the Populace nearly.
1869 Culture and Anarchy, preface.
- 54 The pursuit of perfection, then, is the pursuit of sweetness and light... He who works for sweetness and light united, works to make reason and the will of God prevail.
1869 Culture and Anarchy, ch.1.
- 55 The men of culture are the true apostles of equality.
1869 Culture and Anarchy, ch.1.
- 56 That vast portion... of the working-class which, raw and half-developed has long lain half-hidden amidst its poverty and squalor, and is now issuing from its hiding-place to assert an Englishman's heaven-born privilege of doing as he likes, and is beginning to perplex us by marching where it likes, meeting where it likes, bawling what it likes, breaking what it likes—to this vast residuum we may with great propriety give the name of Populace.

1869 Culture and Anarchy, ch.3.

57 Hebraism and Hellenism—between these two points of influence moves our world.

1869 Culture and Anarchy, ch.4.

58 'He knows' says Hebraism, 'his Bible!'—whenever we hear this said, we may, without any elaborate defence of culture, content ourselves with answering simply: 'No man, who knows nothing else, knows even his Bible.'
1869 Culture and Anarchy, ch.5.

59 Culture, the acquainting ourselves with the best that has been known and said in the world, and thus with the history of the human spirit.

1873 Literature and Dogma, preface.

60 Culture is the passion for sweetness and light, and (what is more) the passion for making them prevail.

1873 Literature and Dogma, preface.

61 The true meaning of religion is thus not simply morality, but morality touched with emotion.

1873 Literature and Dogma, ch.1.

62 Conduct is three-fourths of our life and its largest concern.

1873 Literature and Dogma, ch.1.

63 The eternal not ourselves that makes for righteousness.

1873 Literature and Dogma, ch.8.

64 But there remains the question: what righteousness really is. The method and secret and sweet reasonableness of Jesus.

1873 Literature and Dogma, ch.12.

65 So we have the Philistine of genius in religion—Luther; the Philistine of genius in politics—Cromwell; the Philistine of genius in literature—Bunyan.

1879 Mixed Essays, 'Lord Falkland'.

66 The theatre is irresistible: organise the theatre.

1882 Irish Essays, 'The French Play in London'.

67 In poetry, no less than in life, he is 'a beautiful and ineffectual angel, beating in the void his luminous wings in vain'.

1888 Of Shelley. Essays in Criticism Second Series, 'Shelley'. The phrase is a quotation from his own work on Byron.

68 More and more mankind will discover that we have to turn to poetry to interpret life for us, to console us, to sustain us. Without poetry, our science will appear incomplete; and most of what now passes with us for religion and philosophy will be replaced by poetry.

1888 Essays in Criticism Second Series, 'The Study of Poetry'.

69 The difference between genuine poetry and the poetry of Dryden, Pope, and all their school, is briefly this: their poetry is conceived and composed in their wits, genuine poetry is conceived and composed in the soul.

1888 Essays in Criticism Second Series, 'Thomas Gray'.

70 Poetry is at bottom a criticism of life.

1888 Essays in Criticism Second Series, 'Wordsworth'.

71 His expression may often be called bald... but it is bald as the bare mountain tops are bald, with a baldness full of grandeur.

Asimov, Isaac 1920–92

Russian-born US science-fiction novelist and popular scientist. A distinguished biochemist and hugely popular writer, he became a familiar media figure. His works include the 'Foundation' series (1951–3). He coined the term 'robotics'.

3 How many people is the earth able to sustain?

1971 Der Spiegel.

4 Science fiction writers foresee the inevitable, and although problems and catastrophes may be inevitable, solutions are not.

1975 'How Easy To See The Future', in Natural History, Apr.

5 If there is a category of human being for whom his work ought to speak for itself, it is the writer.

1976 Comment in D L Fitzpatrick (ed) Contemporary Novelists.

6 It is change, continuing change, inevitable change, that is the dominant factor in our society today... This, in turn, means that our statesmen, our businessmen, our everyman must take on a science fictional way of thinking.

1978 'My Own View', in R Holdstock (ed) Encyclopedia of Science Fiction (1978).

Aslet, Clive William 1955–

English journalist, editor of Country Life (1993–).

Asquith, Herbert Henry, 1st Earl of Oxford and Asquith 1852–1928

British Liberal politician and Prime Minister. He became an MP (1886), Home Secretary (1892–5), Chancellor (1906) and Prime Minister (1908–16). His period in office was marked by the introduction of old age pensions, the Parliament Act of 1911, the declaration of war (1914) and the Sinn Féin rebellion (1916). A coalition with Conservatives hastened his resignation. He wrote Memories and Reflections (1928).

9 We shall never sheath the sword which we have not lightly drawn until Belgium recovers in full measure all and more than all that she has sacrificed, until France is adequately assured against the menace of aggression, until the rights of the smaller nationalities of Europe are placed upon an unassailable foundation and until the military domination of Prussia is wholly and finally destroyed.

1914 Speech at the Guildhall, London, 9 Nov.

10 It is fitting that we should have buried the unknown Prime Minister by the side of the Unknown Soldier.
1923 Remark at the Westminster Abbey funeral of Bonar Law, 5 Nov.

11 One to mislead the public, another to mislead the Cabinet, and the third to mislead itself.
Of the three sets of figures kept by the War Office. Quoted in Alistair Horne Price of Glory (1962).

Asquith, Margot 1864–1945

Scottish society figure and wit, wife of Herbert Asquith (married 1894). Her group 'The Souls' advocated greater freedom for women. She continued her extravagant lifestyle through the war, and when Asquith was forced to resign (1916) wrote two sensational autobiographies.

12 If Kitchener is not a great man, he is, at least, a great poster.
Quoted in P Magnus Kitchener: Portrait of an Imperialist. Lady Asquith uses the phrase in her Memories (1933), but attributes it to her daughter Elizabeth.

13 She tells enough white lies to ice a wedding cake.
Of Lady Desborough. Quoted in The Listener, 11 Jun 1953.

14 David Lloyd George could not see a belt without hitting underneath it.
Quoted in The Listener, 11 Jun 1953.

15 Stafford Cripps has a brilliant mind, until he makes it up.
Quoted in The Wit of the Asquiths (published 1974).

16 F E Smith is very clever, but sometimes he lets his brains go to his head.
Quoted in The Wit of the Asquiths (published 1974).

17 The t is silent, as in Harlow.

Attributed riposte to Jean Harlow who was having trouble pronouncing her name. The line may actually have been spoken by Margot Grahame, an English actress in Hollywood in the 1930s.

18 I have no face, only two profiles clapped together.
Attributed.

Asquith of Yarnbury, (Helen) Violet Bonham-Carter, Baroness 1887–1969

19 Harold Macmillan held his party together by not allowing his left wing to see what his right wing was doing.
Attributed.

Astell, Mary 1668–1731

English writer, the 'first British feminist'. Orphaned in 1684, she moved alone to London in about 1686. In A Serious Proposal to the Ladies (1694) she argues for the education of women. Some Reflections Upon Marriage (1700, 2nd edn 1706) highlights the disadvantages of marriage for women.

20 Your glass will not do you half so much service as a serious reflection of your own minds.
1694 A Serious Proposal to the Ladies For the Advancement of their True and Greatest Interest, 'By a Lover of Her Sex', pt.1.

21 Women are from their very Infancy debarred those advantages, with the want of which they are afterwards reproached, and nursed up in those vices which will hereafter be upbraided to them. So partial are men as to expect brick where they afford no straw.

1694 A Serious Proposal to the Ladies For the Advancement of their True and Greatest Interest, 'By a Lover of Her Sex', pt.1.

22 Fetters of gold are still fetters, and the softest lining can never make them so easy as liberty.

1696 An Essay in Defence of the Female Sex.

23 If absolute sovereignty be not necessary in a State, how comes it to be so in a family?

1706 Some Reflections upon Marriage Occasion'd by the Duke and Duchess of Mazarine's Case which is also consider'd, preface (1706 edn).

24 If all men are born free, how is it that all women are born slaves? as they must be if the being subjected to the inconsistent, uncertain, unknown, arbitrary will of men, be the perfect condition of slavery? and if the essence of freedom consists, as our masters say it does, in having a standing rule to live by? And why is slavery so much condemned and strove against in one case, and so highly applauded, and held so necessary and so sacred in another?

1706 Some Reflections upon Marriage Occasion'd by the Duke and Duchess of Mazarine's Case which is also consider'd, preface (1706 edn).

25 But if marriage be such a blessed state, how comes it, may you say, that there are so few happy marriages? Now in answer to this, is it not to be wondered that so few succeed, we should rather be surprized to find so many do, considering how imprudently men engage, the motive they act by, and the very strange conduct they observe throughout.

1706 Some Reflections upon Marriage Occasion'd by the Duke and Duchess of Mazarine's Case which is also consider'd, preface (1706 edn).

26 A woman indeed can't properly be said to choose, all that is allowed her, is to refuse or accept what is offered.

1706 Some Reflections upon Marriage Occasion'd by the Duke and Duchess of Mazarine's Case which is also consider'd, preface (1706 edn).

Astley, Sir Jacob 1579–1652

English Royalist commander, leader of Charles I's last remaining army which surrendered in March 1646.

27 O Lord! Thou knowest how busy I must be this day: if I forget thee, do not thou forget me.

1642 Prayer before the Battle of Edgehill, 23 Oct. Quoted in Sir Philip Warwick Memoires (1702).

28 You have now done your work and may go play, unless you will fall out amongst yourselves.

1646 Remark to his Parliamentarian captors, Mar. Quoted in Samuel Rawson Gardiner History of the Great Civil War, 1642–9 (1911), vol.3.

Astor (of Hever Castle), Nancy Witcher Astor, Viscountess née Langhorne 1879–1964

31 Como te decía al principio, nadie hace nada y, naturalmente, soy yo, es el Presidente de la República el que lo tiene que hacer todo, aunque salga como el cohetero. Con decir que si no fuera por mí no existiría la fortuna, ya que hasta de diosa ciega tengo que hacer en la lotería.

But, as I told you, nobody ever does a thing, and so naturally it is I, the President of the Republic, who has to do everything, and take all the blame as well. You might almost say that if it weren't for me Fortune wouldn't exist, as I have even to take the part of the blind goddess in the lottery.

1946 El señor presidente (The President, 1963), pt.3, ch.37.

Attlee (of Walthamstow), Clement (Richard) Attlee, 1st Earl 1883–1967

English Labour politician, Deputy Prime Minister in Churchill's war cabinet (1942–5) and Prime Minister (1945–51). During his administration the National Health Service was established and India and Burma were given independence.

40 We believe in a League system in which the whole world should be ranged against an aggressor... We do not think that you can deal with national armaments by piling up national armaments in other countries.

1935 House of Commons, 11 Mar.

41 We have seen today a gallant, civilized and democratic people betrayed and handed over to a ruthless despotism.

1938 House of Commons speech on Czechoslovakia, 3 Oct.

42 I count our progress by the extent to which what we cried in the wilderness five and thirty years ago has now become part of the assumptions of the ordinary man and woman... It is better to argue from what has been done to what may be done, rather than to suggest that very little has been accomplished.

1944 Of the Labour Party. Letter to Harold J Laski, 1 May.

 To elude Him, to lie to Him, yet His love observes
 His appalling promise; His predilection
 As we wander and weep is with us to the end,
 Minding our meanings, our least matter dear to Him.
1944–6 The Age of Anxiety, pt.6, Epilogue.
- 13 There is no love;
 There are only the various envies, all of them sad.
1951 'In Praise of Limestone', 1.58–9.
- 14 To save your world you asked this man to die:
 Would this man, could he see you now, ask why?
1955 'Epitaph for the Unknown Soldier'.

- 15 No good opera plot can be sensible, for people do not sing when they are feeling sensible.
Quoted in Time, 29 Dec 1961.
- 16 It is a sad fact about our culture that a poet can earn much more money writing or talking about his art than he can by practising it.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, foreword.
- 17 Pleasure is by no means an infallible critical guide, but it is the least fallible.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'Reading'.
- 18 Some books are undeservedly forgotten; none are undeservedly remembered.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'Reading'.
- 19 No poet or novelist wishes he were the only one who ever lived, but most of them wish they were the only one alive, and quite a number fondly believe that their wish has been granted.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'Writing'.
- 20 The true men of action in our time, those who transform the world, are not the politicians and statesmen, but the scientists... When I find myself in the company of scientists, I feel like a shabby curate who has strayed by mistake into a drawing room full of dukes.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'The Poet and the City'.
- 21 Man is a history-making creature who can neither repeat his past nor leave it behind.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'D.H. Lawrence'.
- 22 The image of myself which I try to create in my own mind in order that I may love myself is very different from the image which I try to create in the minds of others in order that they may love me.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'Hic et Ille'.
- 23 Among those whom I like or admire, I can find no common denominator, but among those whom I love, I can: all of them make me laugh.
1963 The Dyer's Hand, 'Notes on the Comic'.
- 24 Geniuses are the luckiest of mortals because what they most do is the same as what they most want to do.
1964 Foreword to Dag Hammarskjöld, Markings.
- 25 Some thirty inches from my nose
The frontier of my Person goes,
And all the untilled air between
Is private pagus or demesne.
Stranger, unless with bedroom eyes
I beckon you to fraternize,
Beware of rudely crossing it:
I have no gun, but I can spit.
1966 'Prologue: The Birth of Architecture', postscript.
- 26 Youth may be forgiven when it is brash or noisy, but this does not mean that brashness and noise are virtues.
1966 Collected Shorter Poems 1927–1957, introduction.
- 27 Political history is far too criminal and pathological to be a fit subject of study for the young. Children should acquire their heroes and villains from fiction.
1970 A Certain World.
- 28 All sin tends to be addictive, and the terminal point of addiction is what is called damnation.
1970 A Certain World, 'Hell'.
- 29 Of course, Behaviourism 'works'. So does torture.
1970 A Certain World, 'Behaviourism'
- 30 To my generation no other English poet seemed so perfectly to express the sensibility of a male adolescent. If I do not now turn to him very often, I am eternally grateful to him for the joy he gave me in my youth.
1972 Of A E Housman, 'A Worcestershire Lad', collected in Forewords and Afterwords (1973).
- 31 Music is the best means we have of digesting time.
Quoted in Robert Craft Stravinsky: Chronicle of a Friendship (1972).
- 32 That singular command,
I do not understand,
Bless what there is for being,
What else am I for,
Agreeing or disagreeing?
'Precious Fire', in Collected Poems (1976).
- 33 Thou shall not sin
With statisticians nor commit
A social science.
'Under Which Lyre'.
- 34 My face looks like a wedding-cake left out in the rain.
Quoted in Humphrey Carpenter WH Auden (1981), pt.2, ch.6.

St Augustine originally Aurelius Augustinus AD 354–430

Bishop of Hippo from 395. The son of Numidian Roman citizens (from modern Tunisia), he was converted to Christianity in 386. His works include his Confessions and The City of God.

- 35 Da mihi castitatem et continentiam, sed noli modo.
Grant me chastity and continence, but not yet.
AD 397 Confessions, bk.8, ch.7 (translated by Henry Chadwick).
- 36 Tolle, lege, tolle, lege.
Pick up and read, pick up and read.
AD 397 Confessions, bk.8, ch.12.
- 37 Sero te amavi, pulchritudo tam antiqua et tam nova, sero te amavi!
Late have I loved you, beauty so old and so new: late have I loved you.
AD 397 Confessions, bk.10, ch.27.
- 38 Continentiam iubes; da quod iubes et iube quod vis.
You command continence; give what you command and command what you will.
AD 397 Confessions, bk.10, ch.29.
- 39 Quid est ergo tempus? Si nemo ex me quaerat, scio; si quaerenti explicare velim, nescio.
What, then, is time? I know well enough what it is, provided that nobody asks me; but if I am asked what it is and try to explain, I am baffled.
AD 397 Confessions, bk.11, ch.14 (translated by R S Pine-Coffin).
- 40 Multi quidem facilius se abstinent ut non utantur, quam temperent ut bene utantur.
For many, total abstinence is easier than perfect moderation.
AD 401 On the Good of Marriage, ch.21.
- 41 Dilige et quod vis fac.
Love, and do what you like
AD 413 In Epistolam Joannis ad Parthos, tractatus 7, section 8.
- 42 What varieties man has found out in buildings, attires, husbandry, navigation, sculpture and imagery! What perfection has he shown, in the shows of theatres, in taming, killing, and catching wild beasts! What millions of inventions has he against others, and for himself in poisons, arms, engines, stratagems, and the like! What thousands of medicines for the health, of meats for the throat, of means and figures to persuade, of elegant phrases to delight, of verses for pleasure, of musical inventions and instruments! What excellent inventions are geography, arithmetic, astrology, and the rest! How large is the capacity of man, if we should stand upon particulars!

AD 427 The City of God.

43 All the devastation, the butchery, the plundering, the conflagrations, and all the anguish which accompanied the recent disaster at Rome were in accordance with the general practice of warfare.

AD 427 City of God, vol.1, ch.1, section 8.

44 If you don't believe it, you won't understand it.

Quoted in Erasmus De Libero Arbitrio (1523).

45 Do not plan long journeys, because whatever you believe in you have already seen. When a thing is everywhere, the way to find it is not to travel but to love.

Quoted in Ingrid Cranfield The Challengers (1976).

Augustus originally Gaius Iulius Caesar Octavianus

63 BC–AD 14

First Roman emperor, a senator's son adopted by Caesar in his will (44 BC). With Marcus Antonius and Lepidus he secured power after the battle of Philippi (42 BC) but the triumvirate collapsed and after Actium (31 BC) Caesar was sole ruler of the Roman Empire. He took the title Augustus in 27 BC and expanded the empire until the loss of three legions in Germany (AD 9).

46 Quintili Vare, legiones redde.

Quintilius Varus, give me back my legions.

Quoted in Suetonius, Augustus, section 23.

47 Festina lente.

Hurry slowly.

Quoted in Suetonius Augustus, section 25 (originally quoted in Greek, but better known in the Latin form).

48 Acta est fabula.

The play is over.

AD 14 Last words, attributed. In Suetonius Augustus, section 99.1, the scene of his death-bed is described: 'He summoned a group of friends and asked: 'Have I played my part in the farce of life well enough?' adding the verse: 'If it was any good, please applaud for the play, and send us with pleasure on our way.''

Aung San Suu Kyi 1945–

Burmese human rights activist and a leading campaigner for the National League for Democracy before being detained in 1989 by the country's ruling military junta. She has since spent long periods under house arrest. She was awarded the Nobel peace prize in 1991.

49 There is nothing new in Third World governments seeking to justify and perpetuate authoritarian rule by denouncing liberal democratic principles as alien.

1989 Freedom From Fear, 'In Quest of Democracy'.

50 Regimented minds cannot grasp the concept of confrontation as an open exchange of major differences with a view to settlement through genuine dialogue.

1989 Freedom From Fear, 'In Quest of Democracy'.

51 In societies where men are truly confident of their own worth women are not merely tolerated, they are valued.

1995 Videotaped address at the NGO Forum on Women, Beijing, China, 31 Aug.

Aurelius, Marcus Aurelius Antoninus AD 121–80

Roman emperor. He was consul from 140 to 161, when he succeeded Antoninus Pius to the throne. His Meditations, written in Greek, consist of notes made throughout his life.

52 A little flesh, a little breath, and a Reason to rule all—that is myself.

c. AD 170–180 Meditations, bk.2, no.2 (translated by M Staniforth).

53 Nowhere can a man find a quieter or more untroubled retreat than in his own soul.

c. AD 170–180 Meditations, bk.4, no.3 (translated by M Staniforth).

54 Soon you will have forgotten the world, and the world will have forgotten you.

c. AD 170–180 Meditations, bk.7, no.21 (translated by M Staniforth).

55 To live each day as though one's last, never flustered, never apathetic, never attitudinizing—here is perfection of character.

c. AD 170–180 Meditations, bk.7, no.69 (translated by M Staniforth).

Austen, Jane 1775–1817

English novelist. Her works satirized fashionable society, exploring the role of women. Sense and Sensibility (1811), Pride and Prejudice (1813), Mansfield Park (1814) and Emma (1815) were published anonymously; Persuasion and Northanger Abbey were both published posthumously (1818).

56 It was too pathetic for the feelings of Sophia and myself—we fainted alternately on the sofa.

1790 Love and Freindship, 'Letter the 8th'.

57 She was nothing more than a mere good-tempered, civil and obliging young woman; as such we could scarcely dislike her—she was only an Object of Contempt.

1790 Love and Freindship, 'Letter the 13th'.

58 We met... Dr Hall in such very deep mourning that either his mother, his wife, or himself must be dead.

1799 Letter to Cassandra Austen, 17 May.

59 On every formal visit a child ought to be of the party, by way of provisions for discourse.

1811 Sense and Sensibility, vol.2, ch.6.

60 It is not time or opportunity that is to determine intimacy; it is disposition alone. Seven years would be insufficient to make some people acquainted with each other, and seven days are more than enough for others.

1811 Sense and Sensibility, vol.2, ch.12.

61 It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife.

1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.1, opening lines.

62 Her mind was less difficult to develop. She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper.

1813 Of Mrs Bennet. Pride and Prejudice, ch.1.

63 Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance.

1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.6.

64 May I ask whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study?

1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.14.

- 65 Mr Wickham is blessed with such happy manners as may ensure his making friends—whether he may be equally capable of retaining them, is less certain.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.18.
- 66 From this day you must be a stranger to one of your parents.—Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr Collins, and I will never see you again if you do.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.20.
- 67 Without thinking highly either of men or matrimony, marriage had always been her object; it was the only honourable provision for well-educated young women of small fortune, and however uncertain of giving happiness, must be their pleasantest preservative from want.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.22.
- 68 Next to being married, a girl likes to be crossed in love a little now and then. It is something to think of, and gives her a sort of distinction among her companions.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.24.
- 69 What are men to rocks and mountains? Oh! what hours of transport we shall spend! And when we do return, it shall not be like other travellers, without being able to give one accurate idea of anything. We will know where we have gone—we will recollect what we have seen. Lakes, mountains, and rivers, shall not be jumbled together in our imaginations; nor, when we attempt to describe any particular scene, will we begin quarrelling about its relative situation.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.27.
- 70 You ought certainly to forgive them as a Christian, but never to admit them in your sight, or allow their names to be mentioned in your hearing.
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.57.
- 71 For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?
1813 Pride and Prejudice, ch.57.
- 72 There is not one in a hundred of either sex who is not taken in when they marry. Look where I will, I see that it is so; and I feel that it must be so, when I consider that it is, of all transactions, the one in which people expect most from others, and are least honest themselves.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.5.
- 73 Selfishness must always be forgiven you know, because there is no hope for a cure.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.7.
- 74 We do not look in great cities for our best morality.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.9.
- 75 Let us have no ranting tragedies. Too many characters—Not a tolerable woman's part in the play.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.14.
- 76 A large income is the best recipe for happiness I ever heard of. It certainly may secure all the myrtle and turkey part of it.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.22.
- 77 Shakespeare one gets acquainted with without knowing how. It is part of an Englishman's constitution. His thoughts and beauties are so spread abroad that one touches them everywhere, one is intimate with him by instinct.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.34.
- 78 I must have a London audience. I could never preach, but to the educated; to those who were capable of estimating my composition.
1814 Mansfield Park, ch.34.
- 79 I think I may boast myself to be, with all possible vanity, the most unlearned and uninformed female who ever dared to be an authoress.
1815 Letter to Rev James Clarke, quoted in Justin Wintle and Richard Kenin (eds) The Dictionary of Biographical Quotation (1978).
- 80 She would not have him really suspect such a circumstance as her not being thought perfect by every body.
1816 Emma, ch.1.
- 81 A real, honest, old-fashioned Boarding-school, where a reasonable quantity of accomplishments were sold at a reasonable price, and where girls might be sent to be out of the way and scramble themselves into a little education, without any danger of coming back prodigies.
1816 Emma, ch.3.
- 82 One half of the world cannot understand the pleasures of the other.
1816 Emma, ch.9.
- 83 The sooner every party breaks up the better.
1816 Emma, ch.25.
- 84 I do not know whether it ought to be so, but certainly silly things do cease to be silly if they are done by sensible people in an impudent way. Wickedness is always wickedness, but folly is not always folly. It depends upon the character of those who handle it.
1816 Emma, ch.26.
- 85 Surprises are foolish things. The pleasure is not enhanced, and the inconvenience is often considerable.
1816 Emma, ch.26.
- 86 One has no great hopes from Birmingham. I always say there is something direful in the sound.
1816 Mrs Elton speaking. Emma, ch. 36.
- 87 Goldsmith tells us, when a lovely woman stoops to folly, she has nothing to do but die; and when she stoops to be disagreeable, it is equally to be recommended as a clearer of ill-fame.
1816 Emma, ch.45.
► See Goldsmith 361:47.
- 88 What should I do with your strong, manly, spirited sketches, full of variety and glow?—How could I possibly join them on to the little bit (two inches wide) of ivory on which I work with so fine a brush, as produces little effect after much labour?
1816 Letter to J Edward Austen, 16 Dec.
- 89 Single women have a dreadful propensity for being poor—which is one very strong argument in favour of matrimony.
1817 Letter to Fanny Knight, 13 Mar.
- 90 Pictures of perfection as you know make me sick and wicked.
1817 Of heroines in novels. Letter to Fanny Knight, 23 Mar.
- 91 Oh! it is only a novel!...only some work in which the most thorough knowledge of human nature, the happiest delineation of its varieties, the liveliest effusions of wit and humour are conveyed to the world in the best chosen language.
1818 Northanger Abbey, ch.5.

92 But history, real solemn history, I cannot be interested in...it tells me nothing that does not vex or weary me...the men all so good for nothing, and hardly any women at all.

1818 Northanger Abbey, vol.1, ch.14.

93 Where people wish to attach, they should always be ignorant. To come with a well informed mind, is to come with an inability of administering to the vanity of others, which a sensible person would always wish to avoid. A woman especially, if she have the misfortune of knowing anything, should conceal it as well she can...imbecility in females is a great enhancement of their personal charms.

1818 Northanger Abbey, ch.14.

94 Vanity was the beginning and the end of Sir Walter Elliot's character; vanity of person and of situation.

1818 Persuasion, ch.1.

95 'My idea of good company, Mr Elliot, is the company of clever, well-informed people, who have a great deal of conversation; that is what I call good company.' 'You are mistaken,' said he gently, 'that is not good company, that is the best.'

1818 Persuasion, ch.16.

96 We cannot help ourselves. We live at home, quiet, confined, and our feelings prey upon us. You are forced on exertion. You have always a profession, pursuits, business of some sort or other, to take you back into the world immediately, and continual occupation and change soon weaken impressions.

1818 Of the difference between women and men. Persuasion, ch.23.

97 Men have every advantage of us in telling their story. Education has been theirs in so much higher a degree; the pen has been in their hands.

1818 Persuasion, ch.23.

98 All the privilege I claim for my own sex (it is not a very enviable one, you need not covet it) is that of loving longest, when existence or when hope is gone.

1818 Persuasion, ch.23.

Auster, Paul pseudonym of Paul Benjamin 1947–

US novelist, poet and essayist. He is best known for his novels, which include the New York Trilogy (1985–7) and Mr Vertigo (1994).

99 We construct a narrative for ourselves, and that's the thread we follow from one day to the next. People who disintegrate as personalities are the ones who lose that thread.

Ayer, Sir Alfred Jules 1910–89

English philosopher, professor at Oxford (1947–59). His first book Language, Truth and Logic (1936) was an iconoclastic attack on metaphysical speculation. He wrote many more works, and was knighted in 1970.

8 The traditional disputes of philosophers are, for the most part, as unwarranted as they are unfruitful.

1936 Language, Truth and Logic, ch.1.

9 We shall maintain that no statement which refers to a 'reality' transcending the limits of all possible sense-experience can possibly have any literal significance.

1936 Language, Truth and Logic, ch.1.

10 The criterion which we use to test the genuineness of apparent statements of fact is the criterion of verifiability. We say that a sentence is factually significant to any given person, if, and only if, he knows how to verify the proposition which it purports to express — that is, if he knows what observations would lead him, under certain conditions, to accept the proposition as being true, or reject it as being false.

1936 Language, Truth and Logic, ch.1

- 11 Sentences which simply express moral judgements do not say anything. They are pure expressions of feeling and as such do not come under the category of truth and falsehood.

1936 Language, Truth and Logic, ch.6.

- 12 It appears, then, that ethics, as a branch of knowledge, is nothing more than a department of psychology and sociology.

1936 Language, Truth and Logic, ch.6.

- 13 But if science may be said to be blind without philosophy, it is true also that philosophy is virtually empty without science.

Aytoun, Sir Robert 1570–1638

Scottish poet and courtier at the court of James VI and I in London. He wrote lyrics in English and Latin, and is credited with the prototype of 'Auld Lang Syne'.

- 15 I loved thee once; I'll love no more—
Thine be the grief as is the blame;
Thou art not what thou wast before,
What reason I should be the same?
'To an Inconstant Mistress', stanza 1.

Aytoun, William Edmonstone 1813–65

Scottish lawyer and humorist, who contributed many parodies and burlesque reviews to Blackwood's. His best-known work was Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers and other Poems (1848).

- 16 Fhairshon swore a feud
Against the clan M' Tavish;
Marched into their land
To murder and to ravish;
For he did resolve
To extirpate the vipers,
With four-and-twenty men
And five-and-thirty pipers.
1845 'The Massacre of the Macpherson', stanza 1.

- 17 'He is coming! he is coming!'
Like a bridegroom from his room,
Came the hero from his prison
To the scaffold and the doom.
1848 Lays of the Scottish Cavaliers and other Poems, 'The Execution of Montrose', stanza 14.

- 18 They bore within their breasts the grief
That fame can never heal—
The deep, unutterable woe

Which none save exiles feel.

1977 Illusions.

31 'I don't know they're true,' he said. 'I believe them because it's fun to believe them.'

1977 Illusions.

Bacon, Francis, Viscount St Albans 1561–1626

English philosopher and statesman. Educated as a scholar and a lawyer, he entered the service of the crown and eventually became Lord Chancellor. Key works include Essays (1597–1625), The Advancement of Learning (1605), Novum Organum (1620) and The New Atlantis (1627).

32 I have taken all knowledge to be my province.

1592 Letter to Lord Burghley.

33 Knowledge is power

1597 Meditationes sacrae, 'De Haresibus' (Of Heresies).

34 Opportunity makes a thief.

1598 Letter to the Earl of Essex.

35 For all knowledge and wonder (which is the seed of knowledge) is an impression of pleasure in itself.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1, ch.1, section 3.

36 So let great authors have their due, as time, which is the author of authors, be not deprived of his due, which is further and further to discover the truth.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1, ch.4, section 12.

37 If a man will begin with certainties, he shall end in doubts; but if he will be content to begin with doubts, he shall end in certainties.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1, ch.5, section 8.

38 Learned men...do many times fail to observe decency and discretion in their behaviour and carriage, so as the vulgar sort of capacities do make a judgment of them in greater matters by that which they find them wanting in smaller.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1.

39 Martin Luther...was enforced to awake all antiquity and to call former times to his succour to make a party against the present time, so that the ancient authors both in divinity and in humanity which had long time slept in libraries began generally to be read and revolved.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1.

40 Vain matter is worse than vain words.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1.

41 Time seemeth to be of the nature of a river or stream, which carrieth down to us that which is light and blown up, and sinketh and drowneth that which is weighty and solid.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.1.

42 Antiquities are history defaced, or some remnants of history which have casually escaped the shipwreck of time.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.2, section 1.

43 [Poesy] was ever thought to have some participation of divineness, because it doth raise and erect the mind, by submitting the shows of things to the desires of the mind; whereas reason doth buckle and bow the mind unto the nature of things.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.4, section 2.

44 The knowledge of man is as the waters, some descending from above, and some springing from beneath; the one informed by the light of nature, the other inspired by divine revelation.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.5, section 1.

45 They are ill discoverers that think there is no land, when they can see nothing but sea.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.7, section 5.

46 A dance is a measured pace, as a verse is a measured speech.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.16, section 5.

47 But men must know, that in this theatre of man's life it is reserved only for God and angels to be lookers on.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.20, section 8.

48 We are much beholden to Machiavel and others, that write what men do, and not what they ought to do.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.21, section 9.

49 Did not one of the fathers in great indignation call poesy vinum daemonum?

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.22, section 13. The Latin translates as 'the wine of the devils'.

50 All good moral philosophy is but an handmaid to religion.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.22, section 14.

51 Of knowledge there is no satiety.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2.

52 It is not granted to man to love and to be wise.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2.

53 Tennis is a game of no use in itself.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2.

54 Man seeketh in society comfort, use, and protection.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2.

55 Fortunes...come tumbling into some men's laps.

1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2.

56 It is in life as it is in ways, the shortest way is most

- commonly the foulest, and surely the fairer way is not much about.
1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.2, ch.23, section 45.
- 57 Empires and old women are more happy many times in their cures than learned physicians, because they are more exact and religious in holding to the composition and confection of tried medicines.
1605 The Advancement of Learning, bk.4, ch.2.
- 58 The subtlety of nature is greater many times over than the subtlety of the senses and understanding.
1620 Novum Organum, bk.1, aphorism 10.
- 59 Quod enim mavult homo verum esse, id potius credit. For what a man would like to be true, that he more readily believes.
1620 Novum Organum, bk.1, aphorism 49.
- 60 Those who have handled sciences have been either men of experiment or men of dogmas. The men of experiment are like the ant; they only collect and use; the reasoners resemble spiders, who make cobwebs out of their own substance. But the bee takes a middle course; it gathers its material from the flowers of the garden and of the field, but transforms and digests by a power of its own. Not unlike this is the true business of philosophy.
1620 Novum Organum bk.1, aphorism 95.
- 61 Vim et virtutem et consequentias rerum inventarum notare juvat; quae non in aliis manifestius occurrunt, quam in illis tribus quae antiquis incognitae, et quarum primordia, licet recentia, obscura et ingloria sunt: Artis nimirum Imprimenti, Pulveris Tormentarii, et Acus Nauticae. Haec enim tria rerum faciem et statum in orbe terrarum mutaverunt.
 It is well to observe the force and virtue and consequence of discoveries, and these are to be seen nowhere more conspicuously than in those three which were unknown to the ancients, and of which the origin, though recent, is obscure and inglorious; namely, printing, gunpowder and the magnet [ie the compass]. For these three have changed the whole face and state of things throughout the world.
1620 Novum Organum, bk.1, aphorism 129 (translated by James Spedding).
- 62 Natura enim non imperatur, nisi parendo. For we cannot command Nature except by obeying her.
1620 Novum Organum, bk.1, aphorism 129.
- 63 It would be unsound fancy and self-contradictory to expect that things which have never yet been done can be done except by means which have never yet been tried.
1620 Novum Organum.
- 64 The lame man who keeps the right road outstrips the runner who takes a wrong one. Nay, it is obvious that when a man runs the wrong way, the more active and swift he is the further he will go astray.
1620 Novum Organum.
- 65 Divitiae bona ancilla, pessima domina. Riches are a good handmaid, but the worst mistress.
1623 De Dignitate et Augmentis Scientiarum, Antitheta no.6 (translated by Gilbert Watts, 1640).
- 66 The voice of the people hath some divineness in it, else how should so many men agree to be of one mind?
1623 De Dignitate et Augmentis Scientiarum, Antitheta no.9 (translated by Gilbert Watts, 1640).
- 67 Silentium, stultorum virtus. Silence is the virtue of fools.
1623 De Dignitate et Augmentis Scientiarum, Antitheta no.31 (translated by Gilbert Watts, 1640).
- 68 The end of our foundation is the knowledge of causes, and secret motions of things; and the enlarging of the bounds of human Empire, to the effecting of all things possible.
1624 New Atlantis (published posthumously, 1627).
- 69 Wise nature did never put her precious jewels into a garret four stories high: and therefore...exceeding tall men had ever very empty heads.
1625 Apophthegms.
- 70 Hope is a good breakfast, but it is a bad supper.
1625 Apophthegms.
- 71 What is truth? said jesting Pilate; and would not stay for an answer.
1625 Essays, no.1, 'Of Truth'.
- 72 The inquiry of truth, which is the love-making, or wooing of it, the knowledge of truth, which is the presence of it, and the belief of truth, which is the enjoying of it, is the sovereign good of human nature.
1625 Essays, no.1, 'Of Truth'.
- 73 Men fear death as children fear to go in the dark; and as that natural fear in children is increased with tales, so is the other.
1625 Essays, no.2, 'Of Death'.
- 74 There is no passion in the mind of man so weak, but it mates and masters the fear of death. And therefore death is no such terrible enemy, when a man hath so many attendants about him that can win the combat of him. Revenge triumphs over death; love slights it; honour aspieth to it; grief flieth to it.
1625 Essays, no.2, 'Of Death'.
- 75 It is as natural to die as to be born; and to a little infant, perhaps, the one is as painful as the other.
1625 Essays, no.2, 'Of Death'.
- 76 Death...openeth the gate to good fame, and extinguisheth envy.
1625 Essays, no.2, 'Of Death'.
- 77 All colours will agree in the dark.
1625 Essays, no.3, 'Of Unity in Religion'.
- 78 Revenge is a kind of wild justice, which the more man's nature runs to, the more ought law to weed it out.
1625 Essays, no.4, 'Of Revenge'.
- 79 The virtue of prosperity, is temperance; the virtue of adversity, is fortitude.
1625 Essays, no.5, 'Of Adversity'.
- 80 Prosperity is the blessing of the Old Testament, adversity is the blessing of the New.
1625 Essays, no.5, 'Of Adversity'.
- 81 Prosperity is not without many fears and distastes; and adversity is not without comforts and hopes.
1625 Essays, no.5, 'Of Adversity'.
- 82 Prosperity doth best discover vice, but adversity doth best discover virtue.
1625 Essays, no.5, 'Of Adversity'.
- 83 Let judges also remember that Solomon's throne was

- supported by lions on both sides; let them be lions, but yet lions under the throne.
1625 Essays, no.6, 'Of Judicature'.
- 84 The joys of parents are secret, and so are their griefs and fears.
1625 Essays, no.7, 'Of Parents and Children'.
- 85 Children sweeten labours, but they make misfortunes more bitter.
1625 Essays, no.7, 'Of Parents and Children'.
- 86 He that hath wife and children hath given hostages to fortune; for they are impediments to great enterprises, either of virtue or mischief. Certainly the best works, and of greatest merit for the public, have proceeded from the unmarried or childless men, which both in affection and means have married and endowed the public.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 87 There are some others that account wife and children but as bills of charge.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 88 The most ordinary cause of a single life is liberty, especially in certain self-pleasing and humorous minds, which are so sensible of every restraint, as they will go near to think their girdles and garters to be bonds and shackles.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 89 Unmarried men are best friends, best masters, best servants, but not always best subjects, for they are light to run away, and almost all fugitives are of that condition.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 90 Certainly wife and children are a kind of discipline of humanity; and single men, though they be many times more charitable, because their means are less exhaust, yet... they are more cruel and hardhearted (good to make severe inquisitors), because their tenderness is not so oft called upon.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 91 Wives are young men's mistresses, companions for middle age, and old men's nurses.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 92 He was reputed one of the wise men that made answer to the question when a man should marry? 'A young man not yet, an elder man not at all.'
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 93 It is often seen that bad husbands have very good wives; whether it be that it raiseth the price of their husband's kindness when it comes, or that the wives take a pride in their patience. But this never fails, if the bad husbands were of their own choosing, against their friends' consent; for then they will be sure to make good their own folly.
1625 Essays, no.8, 'Of Marriage and the Single Life'.
- 94 I had rather believe all the fables in the legend, and the Talmud, and the Alcoran, than that this universal frame is without a mind.
1625 Essays, no.9, 'Of Atheism'.
- 95 It is true, that a little philosophy inclineth Man's mind to atheism; but depth in philosophy bringeth men's minds about to religion.
1625 Essays, no.9 'Of Atheism'.
► See Berkeley 79:7.
- 96 For it is a true Rule that Love is ever rewarded, either with the reciproque, or with an inward and secret contempt.
1625 Essays, no.10, 'Of Love'.
- 97 The speaking in perpetual hyperbole is comely in nothing but love.
1625 Essays, no.10, 'Of Love'.
- 98 All rising to great place is by a winding stair.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 99 Men in great place are thrice servants: servants of the sovereign or state, servants of fame, and servants of business.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 1 It is a strange desire to seek power and to lose liberty.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 2 The rising unto place is laborious, and by pains men come to greater pains; and it is sometimes base, and by indignities men come to dignities. The standing is slippery, and the regress is either a downfall, or at least an eclipse, which is a melancholy thing: Cum non sis qui fueris, non esse cur velis vivere.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'. The Latin is taken from Cicero's Familiar Letters, and translates as: 'When you are not what you were, there is no reason to live.'
- 3 Certainly great persons had need to borrow other men's opinions to think themselves happy; for if they judge by their own feeling, they cannot find it; but if they think with themselves what other men think of them, and that other men would fain be as they are, then they are happy.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 4 Men in great fortunes are strangers to themselves.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 5 Merit and good works is the end of man's motion, and conscience of the same is the accomplishment of man's rest.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 6 The vices of authority are chiefly four: delays, corruption, roughness, and facility.
1625 Essays, no.11, 'Of Great Place'.
- 7 In civil business; What first? Boldness; What second, and third? Boldness. And yet boldness is a child of ignorance and baseness.
1625 Essays, no.12, 'Of Boldness'.
- 8 There is in human nature generally more of the fool than of the wise.
1625 Essays, no.12, 'Of Boldness'.
- 9 Mahomet made the people believe that he would call a hill to him, and from the top of it offer up his prayers for the observers of his law. The people assembled: Mahomet called the hill to come to him again and again; and when the hill stood still he was never a whit abashed, but said, 'If the hill will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the hill.'
1625 Essays, no.12, 'Of Boldness'.
- 10 New nobility is but the act of power, but ancient nobility is the act of time.
1625 Essays, no.14, 'Of Nobility'.
- 11 The surest way to prevent seditions... is to take away the matter of them.
1625 Essays, no.15, 'Of Seditions and Troubles'.

- 12 Money is like muck, not good except it be spread.
1625 Essays, no.15, 'Of Seditions and Troubles'.
- 13 The remedy is worse than the disease.
1625 Essays, no.15, 'Of Seditions and Troubles'.
- 14 It were better to have no opinion of God at all than such an opinion as is unworthy of him.
1625 Essays, no.17, 'Of Superstition'.
- 15 In all superstition wise men follow fools.
1625 Essays, no.17, 'Of Superstition'.
- 16 There is a superstition in avoiding superstition.
1625 Essays, no.17, 'Of Superstition'. This is directed against Puritan reformers, who decried both Catholic and Anglican rites as 'superstitious'.
- 17 It is a miserable state of mind to have few things to desire and many things to fear.
1625 Essays, no.19, 'Of Empire'.
- 18 In things that are tender and displeasing, it is good to break the ice by some whose words are of less weight, and to reserve the more weighty voice to come in as by chance.
1625 Essays, no.22, 'Of Cunning'.
- 19 Nothing doth more hurt in a state than that cunning men pass for wise.
1625 Essays, no.22, 'Of Cunning'.
- 20 Be so true to thyself as thou be not false to others.
1625 Essays, no.23, 'Of Wisdom for a Man's Self'.
- 21 It is a poor centre of a man's actions, himself.
1625 Essays, no.23, 'Of Wisdom for a Man's Self'.
- 22 It is the nature of extreme self-lovers, as they will set a house on fire, and it were but to roast their eggs.
1625 Essays, no.23, 'Of Wisdom for a Man's Self'.
- 23 It is the wisdom of the crocodiles, that shed tears when they would devour.
1625 Essays, no.23, 'Of Wisdom for a Man's Self'.
- 24 As the births of living creatures at first are ill-shapen, so are all innovations, which are the births of time.
1625 Essays, no.24, 'Of Innovations'.
- 25 He that will not apply new remedies must expect new evils; for time is the greatest innovator.
1625 Essays, no.24, 'Of Innovations'.
- 26 To choose time is to save time.
1625 Essays, no.25, 'Of Dispatch'.
- 27 The French are wiser than they seem, and the Spaniards seem wiser than they are.
1625 Essays, no.26, 'Of Seeming Wise'.
- 28 It had been hard for him that spake it to have put more truth and untruth together, in a few words, than in that speech: 'Whosoever is delighted in solitude is either a wild beast, or a god.'
1625 Essays, no.27, 'Of Friendship'.
- 29 A crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, where there is no love.
1625 Essays, no.27, 'Of Friendship'.
► See Bible 121:9.
- 30 [Friendship] redoubleth joys, and cutteth griefs in half.
1625 Essays, no.27, 'Of Friendship'.
- 31 As if you would call a physician, that is thought good for the cure of the disease you complain of but is unacquainted with your body, and therefore may put you in the way for a present cure but overthroweth your health in some other kind; and so cure the disease and kill the patient.
1625 Essays, no.27, 'Of Friendship'.
- 32 Riches are for spending; and spending for honour and good actions.
1625 Essays, no.28, 'Of Expense'.
- 33 Neither will it be, that a people overlaid with taxes should ever become valiant and martial.
1625 Essays, no.29, 'Of the True Greatness of Kingdoms'.
- 34 Suspicions amongst thoughts are like bats amongst birds, they ever fly by twilight.
1625 Essays, no.31, 'Of Suspicion'.
- 35 There is nothing makes a man suspect much, more than to know little.
1625 Essays, no.31, 'Of Suspicion'.
- 36 If you dissemble sometimes your knowledge of that you are thought to know, you shall be thought, another time, to know that you know not.
1625 Essays, no.32, 'Of Discourse'.
- 37 When the world was young it begat more children; but now it is old it begets fewer: for I may justly account new plantations to be the children of former kingdoms.
1625 Essays, no.33, 'Of Plantations'.
- 38 If you plant where savages are, do not only entertain them with trifles and jingles, but use them justly and graciously.
1625 Essays, no.33, 'Of Plantations'.
- 39 Nature is often hidden, sometimes overcome, seldom extinguished.
1625 Essays, no.38, 'Of Nature in Men'.
- 40 Chiefly the mould of a man's fortune is in his own hands.
1625 Essays, no.40, 'Of Fortune'.
- 41 If a man look sharply, and attentively, he shall see Fortune; for though she be blind, yet she is not invisible.
1625 Essays, no.40, 'Of Fortune'.
- 42 Beauty is as summer-fruits, which are easy to corrupt, and cannot last.
1625 Essays, no.43, 'Of Beauty'.
- 43 Virtue is like a rich stone, best plain set.
1625 Essays, no.43, 'Of Beauty'.
- 44 That is the best part of beauty, which a picture cannot express.
1625 Essays, no.43, 'Of Beauty'.
- 45 There is no excellent beauty that hath not some strangeness in the proportion.
1625 Essays, no.43, 'Of Beauty'.
- 46 God Almighty first planted a garden; and indeed, it is the purest of human pleasures.
1625 Essays, no.46, 'Of Gardens'.
- 47 It is generally better to deal by speech than by letter.
1625 Essays, no.47, 'Of Negotiating'.
- 48 It is better dealing with men in appetite, than with those that are where they would be.
1625 Essays, no.47, 'Of Negotiating'.
- 49 If you would work any man, you must either know his nature and fashions, and so lead him; or his ends, and so persuade him; or his weakness and disadvantages, and

- so awe him, or those that have interest in him, and so govern him.
1625 Essays, no.47, 'Of Negotiating'.
- 50 There is little friendship in the world, and least of all between equals.
1625 Essays, no.48, 'Of Followers and Friends'.
- 51 To spend too much time in studies is sloth; to use them too much for ornament is affectation; to make judgment wholly by their rules is the humour of a scholar.
1625 Essays, no.50, 'Of Studies'.
- 52 Read not to contradict and confute, nor to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and consider.
1625 Essays, no.50, 'Of Studies'.
- 53 Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested; that is, some books are to be read only in parts; others to be read but not curiously; and some few to be read wholly, and with diligence and attention. Some books also may be read by deputy, and extracts made of them by others.
1625 Essays, no.50, 'Of Studies'.
- 54 If a man write little, he had need have a great memory; if he confer little, he had need have a present wit; and if he read little he had need have much cunning, to seem to know that he doth not.
1625 Essays, no.50, 'Of Studies'.
- 55 Histories make men wise; poets, witty; the mathematics, subtle; natural philosophy, deep; moral, grave; logic and rhetoric, able to contend.
1625 Essays, no.50, 'Of Studies'.
- 56 Light gains make heavy purses.
1625 Essays, no.52, 'Of Ceremonies and Respects'.
- 57 A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds.
1625 Essays, no.52, 'Of Ceremonies and Respects'.
- 58 It was prettily devised of Aesop, 'The fly sat upon the axletree of the chariot-wheel and said, what a dust do I raise.'
1625 Essays, no.54, 'Of Vain-Glory'.
- 59 In the youth of a state arms do flourish; in the middle age of a state, learning; and then both of them together for a time; in the declining age of a state, mechanical arts and merchandise.
1625 Essays, no.58, 'Of Vicissitude of Things'.
- 60 I bequeath my soul to God... For my name and memory, I leave it to men's charitable speeches, and to foreign nations, and the next age.
1626 From his will.
- 61 God's first Creature, which was Light.
New Atlantis (published 1627).
- 62 The end of our foundation is the knowledge of causes, and secret motions of things; and the enlarging of the bounds of human Empire, to the effecting of all things possible.
1627 Of Solomon's House, the centre of Bacon's scientific utopia. New Atlantis (published 1627).
- 63 No man can tickle himself.
Sylva Sylvarum (published 1627), bk.8.
- 64 Generally music feedeth that disposition of the spirits which it findeth.
Sylva Sylvarum (published 1627).
- 65 The world's a bubble; and the life of man
 Less than a span.
The World (published 1629).
- 66 Books must follow sciences, and not sciences books.
A Proposition... Touching Amendment of the Laws of England (published 1657).
- 67 The government of a woman has been a rare thing at all times; felicity in such government a rarer thing still; felicity and long continuance together the rarest thing of all.
 Quoted in JE Neale The Age of Catherine de Medici and Essays in Elizabethan History (1963), p.217.

Bacon, Francis 1909–92

Irish-born painter, who settled in England in 1928 and began painting without formal training. His work draws on surrealism and motion photography, often evoking angst. He was a technical perfectionist, and destroyed much of his work.

- 68 I think of myself as a kind of pulverizing machine into which everything I look at and feel is fed. I believe that I am different from the mixed-media jackdaws who use photographs etc. more or less literally.
 On the use of photographs in his art. Quoted in John Russell Francis Bacon (1979).
- 69 Who can I tear to pieces, if not my friends?... If they were not my friends, I could not do such violence to them.
 Quoted in John Russell Francis Bacon (1979).

Bacon, Martha 1917–81

US educator and author

- 70 She soothed and solaced and celebrated, destroying her gift by maiming it to suit her hearers.
1965 On Phillis Wheatley. In Christian Science Monitor, 24 Jun.

Bacon, Roger known as Doctor Mirabilis c.1214–c.1292

English philosopher, scientist and alchemist, closely associated with Oxford. His major works include the Opus Majus, Opus Minor and Opus Tertium. He became a Franciscan, but was rejected and persecuted for heresy.

- 71 All science requires mathematics... the knowledge of mathematical things is almost innate in us... this is the easiest of sciences. A fact which is obvious in that no one's brain rejects it. For laymen and people who are utterly illiterate know how to count and reckon.
1267 Opus Majus, pt.4, ch.1 (translated by Robert Belle Burke, 1928).
- 72 Mathematics is the door and key to the sciences.
1267 Opus Majus, pt.4, ch.1 (translated by Robert Belle Burke, 1928).
- 73 There are two modes of acquiring knowledge, namely, by reasoning and experience. Reasoning draws a conclusion and makes us grant the conclusion, but does not make the conclusion certain, nor does it remove doubt so that the mind may rest on the intuition of truth unless the mind discovers it by the path of experience.
1267 Opus Majus (translated by Robert Belle Burke, 1928).

Baden-Powell, Robert Stephenson Smyth, 1st Baron 1857–1941

English soldier. He became a hero for his defence of Mafeking

(1899–1900) during the Boer War but is usually remembered as the founder of the Boy Scout movement in 1908 and for his book Scouting for Boys (1908).

74 The scouts' motto is founded on my initials, it is: BE PREPARED, which means, you are always to be in a state of readiness in mind and body to do your DUTY.

1908 Scouting for Boys.

75 Football, in itself, is a grand game for developing a lad physically and also morally...but it is a vicious game when it draws crowds of lads away from playing the game themselves to be merely onlookers at a few paid players.

Baedeker, Karl 1801–59

German editor and publisher, famous for his foreign travel guides. The first, for Coblenz, appeared in 1829, and they continued to be published after his death.

76 On arrival at a Syrian port the traveller's passport is sometimes asked for, but an ordinary visiting-card will answer the purpose equally well.

1876 Palestine and Syria, 'Passports and Custom House'.

77 Oxford is on the whole more attractive than Cambridge to the ordinary visitor; and the traveller is therefore recommended to visit Cambridge first, or to omit it altogether if he cannot visit both.

Baer, George Frederick 1842–1914

US lawyer and industrialist, who led the resistance to the strike by the United Mine Workers of America in 1902.

78 The rights and interests of the laboring man will be protected and cared for, not by the labor agitators, but by the Christian men to whom God, in his infinite wisdom, has given control of the property interests of the country.

1902 Letter to the press during the Pennsylvanian miners' strike.

Bagehot, Walter 1826–77

British economist and journalist. His English Constitution (1867) is still considered a standard work, and Physics and Politics (1872), applying evolution theories to politics, greatly influenced 19c thought.

79 The essence of Toryism is enjoyment...but as far as communicating and establishing your creed are concerned—try a little pleasure. The way to keep up old customs is, to enjoy old customs; the way to be satisfied with the present state of things is, to enjoy that state of things.

1856 Essay on Macaulay.

80 No real English gentleman, in his secret soul, was ever sorry for the death of a political economist.

83 The Times has made many ministries.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.2, 'The Cabinet'.

84 The fancy of the mass of men is incredibly weak; it can see nothing without a visible symbol, and there is much that it can scarcely make out with a symbol.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.4, 'The House of Lords'.

85 The order of nobility is of great use, too, not only in what it creates, but in what it prevents. It prevents the rule of wealth—the religion of gold. This is the obvious and natural idol of the Anglo-Saxon... From this our aristocracy preserves us.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.4, 'The House of Lords'.

86 A severe though not unfriendly critic of our institutions said that the cure for admiring the House of Lords was to go and look at it.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.4, 'The House of Lords'.

87 The great offices, whether permanent or parliamentary, which require mind now give social prestige, and almost only those. An Under-Secretary of State with £2,000 a year is a much greater man than the director of a finance company with £5,000, and the country saves the difference.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.4, 'The House of Lords'.

88 Nations touch at their summits.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.4, 'The House of Lords'.

89 The best reason why monarchy is a strong government is, that it is an intelligible government. The mass of mankind understand it, and they hardly anywhere in the world understand any other.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.6, 'The Monarchy'.

90 Throughout the greater part of his life George III was a kind of 'consecrated obstruction'.

1867 The English Constitution, ch.6, 'The Monarchy'.

91 Above all things our royalty is to be revered, and if you begin to poke about it you cannot reverence it... Its mystery is its life. We must not let in daylight upon magic.

92 Political economy traces in an abstract way the effects of the desire to be rich; and nations must nowadays abound in that passion if they are to have much power or respect in the world.

1876 'Preliminaries of Political Economy', collected in Economic Studies (1880).

93 Men of business have a solid judgment, a wonderful guessing power of what is going to happen, each in his own trade, but they have never practised themselves in reasoning out their judgments and in supporting their guesses by argument; probably if they did so, some of the finer and correcter parts of their anticipations would vanish.

1876 'Postulates of English Political Economy', in Economic Studies (1880).

94 Who can tell without instruction what is likely to be the effect of the new loans of England to foreign nations? We press upon half-finished and half-civilized communities incalculable sums; we are to them what the London money-dealers are to students at Oxford and Cambridge.

1876 'Postulates of English Political Economy', in Economic Studies (1880).

95 No man has come so near to our definition of a constitutional statesman—the powers of a first-rate man and the creed of a second-rate man.

1881 Biographical Studies, 'The Character of Sir Robert Peel'.

96 A constitutional statesman is in general a man of common opinion and uncommon abilities.

Baldwin, James Arthur 1924–87

US writer and civil rights activist. His often autobiographical novels include Go Tell it on the Mountain (1954) and Just Above My Head (1979).

29 At the root of the American Negro problem is the necessity of the American white man to find a way of living with the Negro in order to be able to live with himself.

1953 'Stranger in a Village', in Harper's, Oct.

30 It seems to be typical of life in America, where opportunities, real and fancied, are thicker than anywhere else on the globe, that the second generation has no time to talk to the first.

1955 Notes of a Native Son, 'Notes of a Native Son'.

31 I learned in New Jersey that to be a Negro meant, precisely, that one was never looked at but was simply at the mercy of the reflexes the color of one's skin caused in other people.

1955 Notes of a Native Son, 'Notes of a Native Son'.

32 The writer's greed is appalling. He wants, or seems to want, everything and practically everybody; in another sense, and at the same time, he needs no one at all.

1961 'Black Boy Looks at the White Boy', in Esquire, May.
- 37 If the concept of God has any validity or any use, it can only be to make us larger, freer, and more loving. If God cannot do this, then it is time we got rid of Him.
1962 'Down at the Cross', in the New Yorker, 17 Nov.
- 38 The Fire Next Time.
1963 Title of book of essays. Baldwin took the phrase from the traditional spiritual, 'Home in the Rock'.
- 39 It comes as a great shock around the age of five, six or seven to discover that the flag to which you have pledged your allegiance, along with everybody else, has not pledged its allegiance to you. It comes as a shock to see Gary Cooper killing off the Indians and, although you are rooting for Gary Cooper, that the Indians are you.
1965 Speech at Cambridge Union, 17 Feb, arguing for the motion that 'The American Dream is at the expense of the American Negro'.
- 40 If they take you in the morning, they will be coming for us that night.

Baldwin (of Bewdley), Stanley Baldwin, 1st Earl

1867–1947

English Conservative politician, Chancellor (1922–3) and Prime Minister (1923, 1924–9 and 1935–7). His period of office was marked by the abdication of Edward VIII in 1936.

- 41 A lot of hard-faced men who look as if they had done very well out of the war.
1918 Of the first post-World War I Parliament. Quoted in J M Keynes Economic Consequences of the Peace (1919).
- 42 I met Curzon in Downing Street, and received the sort of greeting a corpse would give an undertaker.
1923 Of his rival for the premiership, Lord Curzon, on the death of Bonar Law. Attributed.
- 43 A platitude is simply a truth repeated until people get tired of hearing it.
1924 Speech in the House of Commons, 29 May.
- 44 There are three classes which need sanctuary more than others—birds, wild flowers, and Prime Ministers.
1925 In the Observer, 24 May.
- 45 The work of a Prime Minister is the loneliest job in the world.
1927 Speech, 9 Jan.
- 46 The papers conducted by Lord Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook are not newspapers in the ordinary acceptance of the term. They are engines of propaganda for the constantly-changing policies, desires, personal wishes, and personal likes and dislikes of two men... What the proprietorship of those papers is aiming at is power, and power without responsibility—the prerogative of the harlot throughout the ages.
1931 Speech, 18 Mar. Rudyard Kipling, Baldwin's cousin, is alleged to be the original author of this famous phrase. Harold Macmillan claimed that the Duke of Devonshire (his father-in-law) responded 'Good God, that's done it, he's lost us the tarts.'
- 47 I think it is well also for the man in the street to realize that there is no power on earth that can protect him from being bombed. Whatever people will tell him, the bomber will always get through. The only defence is in offence, which means that you have to kill more women and children more quickly than the enemy if you want to save yourselves.
1932 Speech in the House of Commons, 10 Nov.
- 48 When you think about the defence of England, you no longer think of the chalk cliffs of Dover. You think of the Rhine. That is where our frontier lies today.
1934 House of Commons, 30 Jul.
- 49 There is a wind of nationalism and freedom blowing round the world, and blowing as strongly in Asia as elsewhere.
1934 Speech, Dec.
- 50 I shall be but a short time tonight. I have seldom spoken with greater regret, for my lips are not yet unsealed. Were these troubles over I would make a case, and I guarantee that not a man would go into the lobby against us.
1935 Speech in the House of Commons, 10 Dec, speaking on the Abyssinian crisis. This is often misquoted as 'My lips are sealed'.
- 51 You will find in politics that you are much exposed to the attribution of false motives. Never complain and never explain.
1943 Advice to Harold Nicholson.
- 52 When the call came for me to form a Government, one of my first thoughts was that it should be a Government of which Harrow would not be ashamed.

'Marie Hamilton'.
- 84 The king sits in Dunfermline town,
Drinking the blude-red wine;
'O whare will I get a skeely skipper,
To sail this new ship of mine?'
'Sir Patrick Spens', opening lines.
- 85 'I saw the new moon late yestreen,
Wi' the auld moon in her arm;
And if we gang to sea, master,
I fear we'll come to harm.'
'Sir Patrick Spens'.
- 86 And lang, lang may the ladies sit,
Wi' their fans into their hand,
Before they see Sir Patrick Spens
Come sailing to the strand!
'Sir Patrick Spens'.
- 87 Half-owre, half-owre to Aberdour,
'Tis fifty fathoms deep,
And there lies gude Sir Patrick Spens,
Wi' the Scots lords at his feet.
'Sir Patrick Spens'.
- 88 'O I forbid you, maidens a',
That wear gowd on your hair,
To come or gae by Carterhaugh,
For young Tam Lin is there.

'There's nane that gaes by Carterhaugh,
But they leave him a wad.
Either their rings or green mantles,
Or else their maidenhead.'
- Janet has kilted her green kirtle
A little aboon her knee,
And she has braided her yellow hair
A little aboon her bree,
And she's awa' to Carterhaugh
As fast as she can hie.
'Tam Lin', opening stanzas.
- 89 True Thomas lay on Huntlie bank,
A ferlie he spied wi' his e'e,
And there he saw a ladye bright,
Come riding down by the Eildon Tree.
'Thomas the Rhymer', opening lines.
- 90 And see ye not yon braid, braid road,
That lies across the lily leven?
That is the path of Wickedness,
Though some call it the Road to Heaven.
'Thomas the Rhymer'.
- 91 There were three ravens sat on a tree,
They were as black as they might be.
The one of them said to his make,
'Where shall we our breakfast take?'
'The Three Ravens'.
- 92 As I was walking all alane,
I heard twa corbies making a mane;
The tane unto the tother say,
'Where sall we gang and dine to-day?'

'In behint yon auld fail dye,
I wot there lies a new-slain knight;
And naebody kens that he lies there,
But his hawk, his hound, and his lady fair.

'His hound is to the hunting gane,
His hawk to fetch the wild-fowl hame,
His lady's ta'en another mate,
So we may mak our dinner sweet.'
'The Twa Corbies', opening stanzas.
- 93 O'er his white banes, when they are bare,
The wind sall blaw for evermair.
'The Twa Corbies'.
- 94 O waly, waly up the bank,
And waly, waly down the brae,
And waly, waly yon burn-side
Where I and my love went to gae.

I lean'd my back unto an aik,

I thoct it was a trustie tree;
But first it bow'd, and syne it brake—
Sae my true love did lichtlie me.

O waly, waly, gin love be bonnie
A little time while it is new;
But when 'tis auld it waxeth cauld
And fades awa' like morning dew.

O wherefore should I busk my heid,
O wherefore should I kame my hair?
For my true love has me forsook,
And says he'll never lo'e me mair.

pre-1566 'Waly, Waly', opening stanzas.

95 But had I wist, before I kiss'd,
That love had been sae ill to win.
I'd lock'd my heart in a case o' gowd,
And pinn'd it wi' a siller pin.

pre-1566 'Waly, Waly', stanza 4.

96 Tom Pearce, Tom Pearce, lend me your grey mare,
All along, down along, out along lee.
For I want for to go to Widdicombe Fair,
Wi' Bill Brewer, Jan Stewer, Peter Gurney, Peter Davey, Dan'l Whiddon, Harry Hawk,
Old Uncle Tom Cobleigh and all.
'Widdicombe Fair'.

97 There lived a wife at Usher's Well,
And a wealthy wife was she;
She had three stout and stalwart sons,
And sent them o'er the sea.
'The Wife of Usher's Well', opening lines.

98 The cock doth crawl, the day doth daw,
The channerin' worm doth chide.
'The Wife of Usher's Well'.

Ballard, J(ames) G(raham) 1930–

British novelist and science-fiction writer, born in China. His best-known work, the novel Empire of the Sun (1984), draws on his childhood experiences in wartime Shanghai, then occupied by Japan.

99 The only truly alien planet is Earth.

1962 'Which Way to Inner Space', in New Worlds, May.

1 He believes that science fiction is the apocalyptic literature of the 20th century, the authentic language of Auschwitz, Eniwetok and Aldermaston. He also believes that inner space, not outer, is the real subject of science fiction.

1965 Author's statement contained in a biographical note to The Drowned World.

2 Science and technology multiply around us. To an increasing extent they dictate the languages in which we speak and think. Either we use those languages, or we remain mute.

1974 Crash.

Balliett, Whitney 1926–

US writer. He became jazz critic of the New Yorker in 1957, and has written several books on music.

3 The Sound of Surprise.

1959 Title of book, much cited as a definition of jazz.

4 A bundle of biases held loosely together by a sense of taste.

1962 His definition of a critic. Dinosaurs in the Morning, introductory note.

Balzac, Honoré de 1799–1850

French writer, one of the great 19c realist novelists. He created a world of characters whose lives are interwoven in his Comédie humaine (1842).

5 Un homme n'a jamais pu élever sa maîtresse jusqu'à lui; mais une femme place toujours son amant aussi haut qu'elle.

A man can never elevate his mistress to his rank, but a woman can always place her lover as high as she.

1829 Physiologie du mariage.

6 Le mariage doit incessamment combattre un monstre qui dévore tout: l'habitude.

Marriage should always combat the monster that devours everything: habit.

1829 Physiologie du mariage.

7 La femme mariée est un esclave qu'il faut savoir mettre sur un trône.

A married woman is a slave whom one must put on a throne.

1829 Physiologie du mariage.

8 Un mari, comme un gouvernement, ne doit jamais avouer de faute.

A husband, like a government, never needs to admit a fault.

1829 Physiologie du mariage.

9 En toute chose, nous ne pouvons être jugés que par nos pairs.

In all things, we should only be judged by our peers.

1830 La Maison du chat-qui-pelote.

10 Dans ces grandes crises, le coeur se brise ou se bronze. In times of crisis, the heart either breaks or boldens.

1830 La Maison du chat-qui-pelote.

11 Le bonheur engloutit nos forces, comme le malheur éteint nos vertus.

Happiness engulfs our strength, just as misfortune extinguishes our virtues.

1831 La Peau de chagrin.

12 La haine est un tonique, elle fait vivre, elle inspire la vengeance; mais la pitié tue, elle affaiblit encore notre faiblesse.

Hatred is a tonic, it makes one live, it inspires vengeance; but pity kills, it weakens our weaknesses still further.

1831 La Peau de chagrin.

13 Beaucoup d'hommes ont un orgueil qui les pousse à cacher leurs combats et à ne se montrer que victorieux.

Many men have pride that causes them to hide their combats and to only show themselves victorious.

1831 La Recherche de l'absolu.

14 À lui la foi, à elle le doute, à elle le fardeau le plus lourd: la femme ne souffre-t-elle pas toujours pour deux?

For him, faith; for her, doubt and for her the heavier load: does not the woman always suffer for both?

1831 La Recherche de l'absolu.

15 L'amour n'est pas seulement un sentiment, il est un art aussi.

Love is not only a feeling; it is also an art.

1831 La Recherche de l'absolu.

16 L'amour a son instinct, il sait trouver le chemin du coeur comme le plus faible insecte marche à sa fleur avec une irrésistible volonté qui ne s'épouvante de rien.
Love has its own instinct. It knows how to find the road to the heart just as the weakest insect moves toward its flower by an irresistible will which fears nothing.
1832 La Femme de trente ans.

17 Le coeur d'une mère est un abîme au fond duquel se trouve toujours un pardon.
A mother's heart is an abyss at the bottom of which there is always forgiveness.
1832 La Femme de trente ans.

18 Les faits ne sont rien, ils n'existent pas, il ne subsiste de nous que des Idées.
Deeds are nothing. They do not exist. Only our ideas survive.

19 Nos beaux sentiments ne sont-ils pas les poésies de la volonté?
Aren't our best feelings poetry of the will?
1835 Le Père Goriot.

20 La passion est toute l'humanité. Sans elle, la religion, l'histoire, le roman, l'art seraient inutiles.
Passion is all of humanity. Without it, religion, history, the novel and art would be useless.
1842 La Comédie humaine, foreword.

21 L'homme n'est ni bon ni méchant, il naît avec des instincts et des aptitudes.
Man is neither good nor evil; he is born with instincts and abilities.
1842 La Comédie humaine, foreword.

22 L'avarice commence où la pauvreté cesse.
Greed begins where poverty ends.
1843 Illusions perdues, 'Les deux poètes'.

23 Les dettes sont jolies chez les jeunes gens de vingt-cinq ans, plus tard, personne ne les leur pardonne.
Debts are becoming for 25-year-olds; after this, no one forgives them.
1843 Illusions perdues, 'Un Grand homme de province'.

Banda, Hastings Kamuzu 1898–1997

Malawian statesman, Prime Minister (1963) and President (1966; Life President from 1971).

Barrymore, John 1882–1942

US actor of the Drew-Barrymore dynasty. He made his stage debut in 1903 and distinguished himself in Shakespearean and other roles before turning to films. Renowned for his chaotic private life, he suffered increasingly from alcoholism.

96 Die? I should say not, old fellow. No Barrymore would allow such a conventional thing to happen to him.

1942 Quoted in Lionel Barrymore We Barrymores (1951), ch.26.

97 My only regret in the theatre is that I could never sit out front and watch me.

Quoted in Eddie Cantor The Way I See It (1959), ch.2.

98 Method acting? There are quite a few methods. Mine involves a lot of talent, a glass, and some cracked ice.

Quoted in Actors about Acting, Loving, Living, Life (1972).

Barrymore, Lionel 1878–1954

US actor, brother of Ethel and John Barrymore. He gave up a successful stage career for the cinema in 1925, finding fame as Dr Gillespie in a series of Dr Kildare films (from 1938).

99 How like father—a curtain call!

1905 Attributed comment, when his father's coffin had to be raised up again after it had snagged on being lowered into the grave.

1 I've played everything but the harp.

Attributed, when asked to suggest his own epitaph.

Barth, John Simmons 1930–

US novelist. His books are much concerned with the processes of story-telling and the making of myths.

2 Everyone is necessarily the hero of his own life story.

1958 The End of the Road, ch.1.

3 Every life has a Scheherazadesworth of stories.

1994 Once Upon A Time, 'Program Note'.

Barth, Karl 1886–1968

Swiss Reformed theologian, champion of neo-orthodoxy and influential in founding the German Confessing Church, which opposed Nazism. His extensive theological output proved highly influential in 20c Christian theology.

4 Jesus Christ, as he is attested to us in Holy Scripture, is the one Word of God whom we have to hear, and whom we have to trust and obey in life and in death.

1934 The Barmen Declaration adopted by the Confessing Church in Germany (translated by DS Bax, 1984).

5 Humanity in its basic form is co-humanity.

1948 Kirchliche Dogmatik vol.3, pt.2 (translated by H Knight as Church Dogmatics, 1960).

6 Basically and comprehensively, therefore, to be human is to be with God.

1948 Kirchliche Dogmatik vol.3, pt.2 (translated by H Knight as Church Dogmatics, 1960).

7 It is a bad sign when Christians are frightened by 'political' sermons—as if Christian preaching could be anything but political.

1954 Gegen den Strom (translated by E M Delacourt and S Godwin as 'The Christian Community and the Civil Community' in Against the Stream, 1954).

8 Whether the angels play only Bach in praising God I am not quite sure; I am sure, however, that en famille they play Mozart.

1968 Quoted in the New York Times.

Barthelme, Donald 1931–89

US novelist and short story writer.

9 The distinction between children and adults, while probably useful for some purposes, is at bottom a specious one, I feel. There are only individual egos, crazy for love.

1964 Come Back, Dr Caligari, 'Me and Miss Mandible'.

10 We like books that have a lot of dreck in them, matter which presents itself as not wholly relevant (or indeed, at all relevant), but which, carefully attended to, can supply a kind of 'sense' of what is going on. This 'sense' is not to be obtained by reading between the lines (for there is nothing there, in those white spaces), but by reading the lines themselves.

1967 Snow White.

11 'Some people', Miss R. said, 'run to conceits or wisdom but I hold to the hard, brown, nutlike word. I might point out that there is enough aesthetic excitement here to satisfy anyone but a damned fool.'

1968 Unspeakable Practices, Unnatural Acts, 'The Indian Uprising'.

12 Endings are elusive, middles are nowhere to be found, but worst of all is to begin, to begin, to begin.

1968 Unspeakable Practices, Unnatural Acts, 'The Dolt'.

13 Doubt is a necessary precondition to meaningful action. Fear is the great mover in the end.

1972 Sadness, 'The Rise of Capitalism'.

14 The self cannot be escaped, but it can be, with ingenuity and hard work, distracted.

1972 Sadness, 'Daumier'.

15 Let me point out, if it has escaped your notice, that what an artist does, is fail.

1972 Sadness, 'The Sandman'.

16 The world is sagging, snagging, scaling, spalling, pilling, pinging, pitting, warping, checking, fading, chipping, cracking, yellowing, leaking, stalling, shrinking, and in dynamic unbalance.

1974 Guilty Pleasures, 'Down the Line with the Annual'.

17 No tale ever happened in the way we tell it. But the moral is always correct.

1975 The Dead Father, ch.6.

Barthes, Roland 1915–80

French literary critic, and major theorist of semiology. He developed a modernist school of criticism which argues for the 'death' of the author, and the need for the reader to recreate the text.

18 Je crois que l'automobile est aujourd'hui l'équivalent assez exact des grandes cathédrales gothiques: je veux dire une grande création d'époque, conçue passionnément par des artistes inconnus, consommée dans son image, sinon dans son usage, par un peuple entier qui s'approprie en elle un objet parfaitement magique. Cars today are almost the exact equivalent of the great Gothic cathedrals...the supreme creation of an era, conceived with passion by unknown artists, and consummated in image if not in usage by a whole population which appropriates them as a purely magical object.

1957 Mythologies, 'La nouvelle Citroën'.

19 Le toucher est le plus démystificateur de tous les sens, à la différence de la vue, qui est le plus magique.

Touch is the most demystifying of all senses, different from sight which is the most magical.

1957 Mythologies, 'La nouvelle Citroën'.

20 Tout refus du langage est une mort.

Any refusal of language is a death.

1957 Mythologies, 'Le mythe, aujourd'hui'.

21 L'endroit le plus érotique d'un corps n'est-il pas là où le vêtement bâille?

Is not the most erotic part of the body wherever the clothing affords a glimpse?

1973 Le Plaisir du texte.

22 L'amoureux qui n'oublie pas quelquefois meurt par excès, fatigue et tension de mémoire (tel Werther). The lover who does not forget sometimes dies from excess, fatigue, and the strain of memory (like Werther).

1977 Fragments d'un discours amoureux.

23 Le langage est une peau: je frotte mon langage contre l'autre.

Language is a skin; I rub my language against another language.

1977 Fragments d'un discours amoureux, 'Déclaration'.

24 Tout ce qui est anachronique est obscène.

Everything anachronistic is obscene.

1977 Fragments d'un discours amoureux, 'Obscène'.

Bartley, Robert Leroy 1937–2003

US journalist. He joined the Wall Street Journal in 1962 as a staff writer, and rose to become Editor and Vice-President. He won a Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing in 1980.

25 You can't beat the market because it's smarter than you are. Intellectually, the only task is trying to determine what the market is telling you.

1992 The Seven Fat Years, ch.3.

26 The mystery is why we even collect these figures; if we kept similar statistics for Manhattan Island, Park Avenue could lay awake at night worrying about its trade deficit.

1992 On the balance of payments record. The Seven Fat Years.

Bartók, Béla 1881–1945

Hungarian composer and pianist. Much influenced by European folk music, he wrote works for piano and strings as well as music for ballet and opera. He died in poverty in the US, having emigrated in 1940.

27 The trouble is that I have to go with so much still to say.

1945 Spoken on his deathbed. Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth Century Music (1994).

28 I cannot conceive of music that expresses absolutely nothing.

Quoted in Machlis Introduction to Contemporary Music (1963).

Baruch, Bernard Mannes 1870–1965

US financier and statesman. He became a powerful political influence, 'the adviser of presidents', and served on many commissions, including the American Atomic Energy Commission.

29 Let us not be deceived—we are today in the midst of a cold war.

1947 Address to the South Carolina legislature, 16 Apr, using an expression suggested to him by editor Herbert Bayard Swope.

30 The cold war is getting warmer.

1948 Address to a Senate committee.

33 The test and use of man's education is that he finds pleasure in the exercise of the mind.

1958 'Science and the Humanities', in the Saturday Evening Post, 3 May.

34 If it were possible to talk to the unborn, one could never explain to them how it feels to be alive, for life is washed in the speechless real.

1959 The House of Intellect.

35 Science is an all-pervasive energy, for it is at once a mode of thought, a source of strong emotion, and a faith as fanatical as any in history.

1964 Science, The Glorious Entertainment.

36 Whoever wants to know the heart and mind of America had better learn baseball.

Quoted in Michael Novak The Joy of Sport (1976), pt 1.

37 Baseball is a kind of collective chess with arms and legs in full play under sunlight.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

38 To watch a football game is to be in prolonged neurotic doubt as to what you're seeing. It's more like an emergency happening at a distance than a game.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Baselitz, Georg 1938–

German avant-garde artist.

39 I have trouble with beauty.

- 49 O beautiful for spacious skies,
For amber waves of grain,
For purple mountain majesties
Above the fruited plain!
America! America!
God shed His grace on thee.
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea.

1893 'America the Beautiful', opening lines.

Bateson, Gregory 1904–80

- 53 Hypocrite lecteur,—mon semblable,—mon frère!

Hypocrite reader—my fellow man—my brother!

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'Au lecteur'.

► See Eliot 306:55.

- 54 *Je sais la douleur est la noblesse unique
Où ne mordront jamais la terre et les enfers.*

I know that pain is the one nobility upon which Hell itself cannot encroach.

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'Bénédiction' (translated by Richard Howard, 1982).

- 55 Le Poète est semblable au prince des nuées

*Qui hante la tempête et se rit de l'archer;
Exilé sur le sol au milieu des huées,*

Ses ailes de géant l'empêchent de marcher.

The Poet is like that prince of the clouds
Who haunts the storms and laughs at the archer;
Exiled to the ground in the midst of jeers,
His giant wings prevent him from walking.

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'L'Albatros'—'Spleen et idéal', no.2.

- 56 Les parfums, les couleurs et les sons se répondent.

Scents, colours, and sounds echo one another.

- 62 J'ai plus de souvenirs que si j'avais mille ans.

I have more memories than if I were one thousand years old.

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'Spleen'.

- 63 Souviens-toi que le Temps est un joueur avide

Qui gagne sans tricher, à tout coup! c'est la loi.

Remember! Time, that tireless gambler, wins on every turn of the wheel: that is the law.

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'L'Horloge' (translated by Richard Howard, 1982).

- 64 Certes, je sortirai quant à moi satisfait

D'un monde où l'action n'est pas la soeur du rêve.

Indeed, for my part, I shall be happy to leave

A world where action is not sister to the dream.

1857 Les Fleurs du mal, 'Le Reniement de Saint-Pierre'.

- 65 Ah! Seigneur! donnez-moi la force et le courage

De contempler mon coeur et mon corps sans dégoût.

Lord! give me the strength and the courage

To see my heart and my body without disgust.

1784 Le Mariage de Figaro, act 2, sc.21.

5 Les Anglais, à la vérité, ajoutent par ci, par là, quelques autres mots en conversant; mais il est bien aisé de voir que God-dam est le fond de la langue.

In truth, the English do add here and there other words when speaking, but it is obvious that Goddamn is the basis of their language.

1784 Le Mariage de Figaro, act 3, sc.5.

Beaumont, Francis c.1584–1616

English dramatist, a friend of Ben Jonson and his circle, particularly John Fletcher, with whom he wrote at least 10 plays. The Woman Hater (1605) and The Knight of the Burning Pestle (c.1607) are thought to be mainly Beaumont's work.

6 What things have we seen,
Done at the Mermaid! heard words that have been
So nimble, and so full of subtil flame,
As if that every one from whence they came,
Had meant to put his whole wit in a jest,
And had resolv'd to live a fool, the rest
Of his dull life.

1605 Letter to Ben Jonson, verses prefacing Jonson's Volpone.

- 7 She's private to herself, and best of knowledge Whom she will make so happy as to sigh for.
c.1607 The Knight of the Burning Pestle, act 1.

Beaumont, Francis and Fletcher, John c.1584–1616,
c.1578–1625

English dramatists.

- 8 It is always good
When a man has two irons in the fire.
1608 The Faithful Friends, act 1.
- 9 PHILASTER: Oh, but thou dost not know
What 'tis to die.
BELLARIO: Yes, I do know, my Lord:
'Tis less than to be born; a lasting sleep;
A quiet resting from all jealousy,
A thing we all pursue; I know besides,
It is but giving over of a game,
That must be lost.
1609 Philaster (published 1620), act 3, sc.1.
- 10 All your better deeds
Shall be in water writ, but this in marble.
1609 Philaster (published 1620), act 5.
- 11 Kiss till the cow comes home.
c.1610 The Scornful Lady (published 1616), act 2, sc.2.
- 12 There is no other purgatory but a woman.
c.1610 The Scornful Lady (published 1616), act 3.
- 13 Upon my buried body lay
Lightly gentle earth
1610–11 The Maid's Tragedy, act 2, sc.1.
- 14 Those have most power to hurt us that we love.
1610–11 The Maid's Tragedy, act 5.
- 15 The terror of his name has stretched itself
Wherever there is sun.
1611 A King and No King, act 2, sc.2.
- 16 What art thou that dost creep into my breast
And dar'st not see my face? Show forth thyself.
I feel a pair of fiery wings displayed
Hither, from thence. You shall not tarry there;
Up and begone. If thou beest love, begone.
1611 A King and No King, act 3, sc.1.
- 17 I see there's truth in no man, nor obedience
But for his own ends.
1611 A King and No King, act 4, sc.2.
- 18 You are no better than you should be.
1612 The Coxcomb, act 4, sc.3.

Beaverbrook, Max (William Maxwell Aitken), 1st
Baron 1879–1964

Canadian-born British newspaper magnate and politician. After entering politics in 1910, he bought the Daily Express (1916) and made it the world's most widely read newspaper, founding the Sunday Express (1921). He was Minister of Supply and Lord Privy Seal during World War II.

- 19 Churchill on top of the wave has in him the stuff of which tyrants are made.
1928–32 Politicians and the War.
- 20 He has all the qualities that go to the making of a leader of the Conservative Party. He is not stupid, but he is very dull. He is not eloquent, but he talks well. He is not honest, politically, but he is most evangelical. He has a little money, but not much. He always conforms to the party policy.

1935 Commenting on Sir Samuel Hoare's appointment as Foreign Secretary.

- 21 Our cock won't fight.
1936 Of Edward VIII. Comment to Winston Churchill during the abdication crisis. Quoted in Francis Donaldson Edward VIII (1974).

1963 Of Lloyd George. The Decline and Fall of Lloyd George, ch.7.
- 25 I am now in my eighty-fourth year and that is approaching the moment when I must bring out my Late Night Final.
c.1963 Quoted in A J P Taylor Beaverbrook (1972), ch.13.
- 26 Here I must say, in my eighty-sixth year, I do not feel greatly different from when I was eighty-five. This is my final word. It is time for me to become an apprentice once more. I have not settled in which direction. But somewhere, sometime soon.
1964 Address at a farewell banquet in London, hosted for him by Roy Thomson, Lord Thomson of Fleet, 25 May. He died two weeks later.
- 27 News, Opinion and Advertisement must all come under the head of Entertainment to a reasonable extent—or they will not be read. People do not read to be bored. Unless a newspaper can make its material in every department interesting it simply is not read. Publicity handout for the Daily Express, quoted in A J P Taylor Beaverbrook (1972), ch.8.
- 28 Success never depended on pandering to the public taste. It has always been founded on simplicity.
Quoted in A J P Taylor Beaverbrook (1972), ch.13.

English Benedictine monk, scholar and historian. His numerous works include saints' lives, hymns, grammatical treatises and biblical commentaries. His Historia Ecclesiastica Gentis Anglorum (731) is the single most valuable source for early English history.

54 Talis, inquiens, mihi videtur, rex, vita hominum praesens in terris, ad comparationem eius, quod nobis incertum est, temporis, quale cum te residente, ad caenam cum ducibus ac ministris tuis tempore brumale... adveniens unus passerum domum citissime, pervolaverit; qui cum per unum ostium ingrediens, mox per aliud exierit. Ipso quidem tempore, quo intus est, hiemis tempestate non tangitur, sed tamen parvissimo spatio serenitatis ad momentum excursu, mox de hieme in hiemem regrediens, tuis oculis elabatur. Ita haec vita hominum ad modicum apparet; quid autem sequatur, quidve praecesserit, prorsus ignoramus.

'Such,' he said, 'O King, seems to me the present life of men on earth, in comparison with that time which to us is uncertain, as if when on a winter's night you sit feasting with your ealdormen and thegns—a single sparrow should fly swiftly into the hall, and coming in at one door, instantly fly out through another. In that time in which it is indoors it is indeed not touched by the fury of the winter, and yet, this smallest space of calmness being passed almost in a flash, from winter going into winter again, it is lost to your eyes. Somewhat like this appears the life of man; but of what follows or what went before, we are utterly ignorant.'

 France, mother of arts, of weapons and of laws.
1558 Les Regrets, no.9.
- 39 *Heureux, qui comme Ulysse, a fait un beau voyage,
 Ou comme cestuy là qui conquit la toison,
 Et puis est retourné, plein d'usage et raison,
 Vivre entre ses parents le reste de son âge!*
 Happy is he who, like Ulysses, has taken a wondrous journey
 Or has won the Golden Fleece,
 And then returns home wise and useful
 To live in his homeland the rest of his days.
1558 Les Regrets, no.31.
- 40 Celuy vit seulement, lequel vit aujourd'hui.
 Only the person who lives for today lives at all.
1558 Les Regrets, no.65.
- 41 *Je n'écris point d'amour, n'estant point amoureux,
 Je n'écris de beauté, n'ayant belle maistresse,
 Je n'écris de douceur, n'esprouvant que rudesse,
 Je n'écris de plaisir, me trouvant douloureux.*
 I cannot write of love, as I am not in love,
 I cannot write of beauty, as I have no beautiful mistress,
 I cannot write of sweetness, as I experience nothing but hardship,
 I cannot write of pleasure, as I am always in pain.
1558 Les Regrets, no.79.

Belli, Carlos Germán 1927–

Peruvian poet, translator and journalist. He travelled widely in South America, Spain, Italy and the United States. His poems are noted for their nihilistic outlook and an orderly precision of language.

- 42 *De los libros el luminoso plectro diríase que pasa
 a ser lía del recto, pues después de tanto leer sin tasa nada ha quedado en casa.*

The luminous plectrum of books can be said to become a portion of the rectum, since after so much eager reading not a thing remains at home.
1961 ; Oh hada cibernética!; 'Cuando el seso tiene la altura de un grano de arena' ('When the brain is as high as a grain of sand').

- 45 Child! do not throw this book about;
 Refrain from the unholy pleasure
 Of cutting all the pictures out!
 Preserve it as your chiefest treasure.
1896 The Bad Child's Book of Beasts, dedication.
- 46 A manner rude and wild
 Is common at your age.
1896 The Bad Child's Book of Beasts, introduction.
- 47 When people call this beast to mind,
 They marvel more and more
 At such a little tail behind,
 So large a trunk before.
1896 The Bad Child's Book of Beasts, 'The Elephant'.
- 48 I shoot the Hippopotamus
 With bullets made of platinum,
 Because if I use the leaden ones
 His hide is sure to flatten 'em.
1896 The Bad Child's Book of Beasts, 'The Hippopotamus'.
- 49 Mothers of large families (who claim to common sense)
 Will find a Tiger will repay the trouble and expense.
1896 The Bad Child's Book of Beasts, 'The Tiger'.

 The Maxim Gun, and they have not.
1898 The Modern Traveller, bk.6.
- 52 I am a Catholic. As far as possible I go to Mass every day.
 As far as possible I kneel down and tell these beads every day. If you reject me on account of my religion, I shall thank God that he has spared me the indignity of being your representative.
1906 Election campaign speech, Salford.
- 53 The chief defect of Henry King
 Was chewing little bits of string.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Henry King'.
- 54 Physicians of the utmost fame
 Were called at once, but when they came

- They answered, as they took their fees,
'There is no cure for this disease.'
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Henry King'.
- 55 'Oh, my friends, be warned by me,
That breakfast, dinner, lunch, and tea
Are all the human frame requires...'
With that the wretched child expires.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Henry King'.
- 56 And always keep a hold of Nurse
For fear of finding something worse.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Jim'.
- 57 We had intended you to be
The next Prime Minister but three:
The stocks were sold; the Press was squared;
The Middle Class was quite prepared.
But as it is!... My language fails!
Go out and govern New South Wales!
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Jim'.
- 58 Matilda told such Dreadful Lies,
It made one Gasp and Stretch one's Eyes;
Her Aunt, who, from her Earliest Youth,
Had kept a Strict Regard for Truth,
Attempted to Believe Matilda:
The effort very nearly killed her.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Matilda'.
- 59 She was not really bad at heart,
But only rather rude and wild;
She was an aggravating child.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Rebecca'.
- 60 Her funeral sermon (which was long
And followed by a sacred song)
Mentioned her virtues, it is true,
But dwelt upon her vices too.
1907 Cautionary Tales, 'Rebecca'.
- 61 It is the best of trades, to make songs, and the second best to sing them.
1909 On Everything.
- 62 I said to Heart, 'How goes it?' Heart replied:
'Right as a Ribstone Pippin!' But it lied.
1910 'The False Heart'.
- 63 When I am living in the Midlands
That are sodden and unkind.
1910 'The South Country'.
- 64 Everywhere the sea is a teacher of truth. I am not sure that the best thing I find in sailing is not this salt of reality.
c.1910 The Cruise of the Nona.
- 65 Do you remember an Inn,
Miranda?
Do you remember an Inn,
And the tedding and the spreading
Of the straw for a bedding,
And the fleas that tease in the High Pyrenees
And the wine that tasted of the tar?
1923 'Tarantella'.
- 66 When I am dead, I hope it may be said,
'His sins were scarlet, but his books were read.'
1923 'On His Books'.
- 67 And even now, at twenty-five,
He has to WORK to keep alive!
Yes! All day long from 10 till 4!
- For half the year or even more;
With but an hour or two to spend
At luncheon with a city friend.
1930 New Cautionary Tales, 'Peter Goole'.
- 68 I am a sundial, and I make a botch
Of what is done much better by a watch.
1938 'On a Sundial'.
- 69 Statistics are the triumph of the quantitative method, and the quantitative method is the victory of sterility and death.
1940 The Silence of the Sea.

Bellow, Saul 1915–

Canadian-born US writer. He moved to Chicago in 1924, and was educated there. His best novels examine Jewish-American identity and the dilemma of liberal humanist values in a fast-changing world. He won the Nobel prize for literature in 1976.

- 70 Everyone knows there is no fineness or accuracy of suppression. If you hold down one thing you hold down the adjoining.
1953 The Adventures of Augie March.
- 71 I am an American, Chicago born—Chicago, that somber city—and go at things as I have taught myself, free-style, and will make the record in my own way: first to knock,
first admitted; sometimes an innocent knock,
sometimes a not so innocent.
1953 The Adventures of Augie March.
- 72 Of course, in an age of madness, to expect to be untouched by madness is a form of madness. But the pursuit of sanity can be a form of madness, too.
1959 Henderson The Rain King, ch.3.
- 73 If I am out of my mind, it's all right with me, thought Moses Herzog.
1961 Herzog, opening words.
- 74 A man may say, 'From now on I'm going to speak the truth.' But the truth hears him and runs away and hides before he's even done speaking.
1961 Herzog.
- 75 I feel that art has something to do with the achievement of stillness in the midst of chaos.
1965 Interview in The Paris Review, no.37, winter issue.
- 76 No wonder the really powerful men in our society, whether politicians or scientists, hold writers in contempt. They do it because they get no evidence from modern literature that anybody is thinking about any significant question.
1965 Interview in The Paris Review, no.37, winter issue.
- 77 I am more stupid about some things than about others;
not equally stupid in all directions; I am not a well-rounded person.
1969 Mr Sammler's Planet, ch.2.
- 78 Conquered people tend to be witty.
1969 Mr Sammler's Planet, ch.2.
- 79 Mr Sammler with his screwy visions! He saw the increasing triumph of Enlightenment—Liberty, Equality, Adultery!
1969 Mr Sammler's Planet, ch.3.
- 80 There is much to be said for exotic marriages. If your husband is a bore, it takes years longer to discover.
1969 Mr Sammler's Planet, ch.6.

- 81 I think that New York is not the cultural centre of America, but the business and administrative centre of American culture.
1969 In radio interview, reported in The Listener, 22 May.
- 82 The idea, anyway, was to ward off trouble. But now the moronic inferno had caught up with me.
1975 Humboldt's Gift. Martin Amis used the phrase The Moronic Inferno as the title for a book of essays on the US (1986).
- 83 The only real distinction at this dangerous moment in human history and cosmic development has nothing to do with medals and ribbons. Not to fall asleep is distinguished. Everything else is mere popcorn.
1975 Humboldt's Gift.
- 84 After all these years wallowing in low seriousness—low seriousness, you understand, is high seriousness that's failed.
1975 Interview in the Sunday Times, 12 Jan.
- 85 The feeling individual appeared weak—he felt only his own weakness. But if he accepted his weakness and his separateness and descended into himself, intensifying his loneliness, he discovered his solidarity with other isolated creatures.
1976 Nobel prize lecture, Stockholm, 12 Dec.
- 86 A novel is balanced between a few true impressions and the multitude of false ones that make up most of what we call life.
1976 Nobel prize lecture, Stockholm, 12 Dec.
- 87 Tears may be intellectual, but they can never be political. They save no man from being shot, no child from being thrown alive into the furnace.
1982 The Dean's December, ch.12.
- 88 As a rule Corde avoided cemeteries and never went near the graves of his parents. He said it was just as easy for your dead to visit you, only by now he would have to hire a hall.
1982 The Dean's December, ch.15.
- 89 The secret motive of the absent-minded is to be innocent while guilty. Absent-mindedness is spurious innocence.
1987 More Die of Heartbreak.
- 90 Erotic practices have become diversified. Sex used to be a single-crop farming, like cotton or wheat; now people raise all kinds of things.
1987 More Die of Heartbreak.
- 91 The modern reader (or viewer, or listener: let's include everybody) is perilously overloaded. His attention is, to use the latest lingo, 'targeted' by powerful forces... Our consciousness is a staging area, a field of operations for all kinds of enterprises, which make free use of it.
1989 Something To Remember Me By, preface.
- 92 But Fonstein belonged to an even more advanced category... their aim is to convert weaknesses and secrets into burnable energy. A first-class man subsists on the matter he destroys, just as the stars do.
1989 Something To Remember Me By; 'The Bellarosa Connection'.

Bemelmans, Ludwig 1898–1962

US writer and restaurateur. He wrote food and travel books, and is best remembered for his 'Madeline' series for children.

 Quoted in Ian Crofton and Donald Fraser A Dictionary of Musical Quotations (1985).

Bendix, Reinhard 1916–91

German-born US sociologist, Professor at the University of California, Berkeley.

- 7 In retrospect it always seems as if everything had to develop just the way it did. I call this view the fallacy of retrospective determinism—which looks at the modern world as a victory of the children of light over the children of darkness if we approve of the development, and of darkness over light if we condemn it.

1984 Force, Fate, and Freedom: On Historical Sociology.

Benedetti, Mario 1920–

Uruguayan fiction writer, poet and essayist, who lived in Cuba in the late 1960s. After returning to Uruguay, he helped establish a leftist coalition for future elections. With the military takeover of 1973 he was forced to leave the country.

- 8 está demás decirte que a esta altura no creo en predicadores ni en generales ni en las nalgas de miss universo ni en el arrepentimiento de los verdugos ni en el catecismo del confort ni en el flaco perdón de dios.
It's not useless to tell you that, at this stage,
I don't believe in preachers or generals or in Miss Universe's buttocks or in the executioner's repentance or in the catechism of comfort or in God's slim forgiving.
1974 Poemas de otros, 'Credo' ('Creed').

Benét, Stephen Vincent 1898–1943

US poet and novelist. He wrote many evocative poems on the history and national identity of America, of which 'American Names' is the most famous.

- 9 I have fallen in love with American names,
The sharp, gaunt names that never get fat,
The snakeskin-titles of mining-claims,
The plumed war-bonnet of Medicine Hat,
Tucson and Deadwood and Lost Mule Flat.
1927 'American Names'.
- 10 There are English counties like hunting-tunes
Played on the keys of a postboy's horn,
But I will remember where I was born.
1927 'American Names'.
- 11 I will get me a bottle of Boston sea
And a blue-gum nigger to sing me blues.
I am tired of loving a foreign muse.
1927 'American Names'.
- 12 I shall not rest quiet in Montparnasse.
I shall not lie easy at Winchelsea.
You may bury my body in Sussex grass,
You may bury my tongue at Champmédy.
I shall not be there, I shall rise and pass.
Bury my heart at Wounded Knee.
1927 'American Names'. Bury My Heart At Wounded Knee was used by Dee Brown as the title of a book on the Indian genocide (1971).
- 13 One cannot balance tragedy in the scales
Unless one weighs it with the tragic heart.
1928 'John Brown's Body'.
- 14 We thought we were done with these things but we were wrong.
We thought, because we had power, we had wisdom.
1935 'A Litany for Dictatorships'.

1962 Speech made during his campaign to disclaim his hereditary peerage, 11 Feb.
- 16 It is as wholly wrong to blame Marx for what was done in his name, as it is to blame Jesus for what was done in his.
Quoted in Alan Freeman The Benn Heresy (1982).
- 17 It is beginning to dawn on people that the influence of a nation is not measured by the size of its military budget, but by its industrial strength.
1991 In The Independent, 18 Apr.
- 18 The dependence of London on Washington for the supply of our so-called independent nuclear weapons is all that remains of the 'special relationship' and... it is really a ball and chain limiting our capacity to play a more positive role in the world.
1991 In The Independent, 18 Apr.
► See Churchill 217:93.
- 19 It is the same each time with progress. First they ignore you, then they say you are mad, then dangerous, then there's a pause, and then you can't find anyone who disagrees.
1991 Speech at the Labour Party Conference, Oct.
- 20 It will be Blair, Blair, Blair just as it was Thatcher, Thatcher, Thatcher.
1997 Replying to a student's question on the supremacy of prime ministerial power.
- 21 We should put the spin-doctors in spin clinics, where they can meet other spin patients and be treated by spin consultants. The rest of us can get on with the proper democratic process.

- 30 One of the few things I have learned in life is that there is invariably something odd about women who wear ankle socks.
1977 The Old Country, act 1.
- 31 We were put to Dickens as children but it never took. That unremitting humanity soon had me cheesed off.
1977 The Old Country, act 2.
- 32 There is no such thing as a good script, only a good film, and I'm conscious that my scripts often read better than they play.
1984 A Private Function, introduction to published screenplay.
- 33 I'm going to throw caution to the winds and have a sweet sherry.
1984 Spoken by Maggie Smith as Joyce Chilvers in A Private Function.
- 34 I want a future that will live up to my past.
1984 Spoken by Maggie Smith as Joyce Chilvers in A Private Function.
- 35 They're going to have to be made to sit up and take notice. They're going to have to be made to realise who we are. My father had a chain of dry cleaners.
1984 A Private Function.
- 36 I'm not good at precise, coherent argument. But plays are suited to incoherent argument, put into the mouths of fallible people.
1991 In the Sunday Times, 24 Nov.
- 37 My claim to literary fame is that I used to deliver meat to a woman who became T. S. Eliot's mother-in-law.
1992 In the Observer, 26 Apr. The lady in question was the mother of Eliot's wife Valerie Fletcher; Bennett's father was the butcher in the same Yorkshire village.

57 This is the editorial age, and the most intellectual of all ages.

1831 In the Courier and Enquirer, 12 Nov.

58 What is to prevent a daily newspaper from being made the greatest organ of social life? Books have had their day—the theatres have had their day—the temple of religion has had its day. A newspaper can be made to take the lead of all these in the great movements of human thought and of human civilisation. A newspaper can send more souls to Heaven, and save more from Hell, than all the churches or chapels in New York—besides making money at the same time.

1836 In the New York Herald, 19 Aug.

59 I have infused life, glowing eloquence, philosophy, taste, sentiment, wit, and humor into the daily newspaper... Shakespeare is the great genius of the drama—Scott of the novel—Milton and Byron of the poem—and I mean to be the genius of the daily newspaper press.

Italian diplomat, lawyer and athlete. In Jan 1943 he and two friends escaped from a POW camp at Nanyuki to climb Mt Kenya with minimal equipment and provisions, before breaking back into the camp again and giving themselves up to the British commandant.

85 I emerged at last, stumbled a few steps in the mud and then I saw it: an ethereal mountain emerging from a tossing sea of clouds framed between two dark barracks—a massive, blue-black tooth of sheer rock inlaid with azure glaciers, austere yet floating fairy-like on the near horizon. It was the first 17,000-foot peak I had ever seen.

I stood gazing until the vision disappeared among the shifting cloud banks.

For hours afterwards I remained spell-bound.

Berryman, John originally John Allyn Smith 1914–72

US poet and novelist. His reputation rests on his complex, often obscure poetry, collected in The Dispossessed (1948), Homage to Mistress Bradstreet (1953) and the extended sequence of Dream Songs (1964).

- 60 We must travel in the direction of our fears.
1942 'A Point of Age'.
- 61 Headstones stagger under great draughts of time after heads pass out, and their world must reel speechless, blind in the end about its chilling star
1953 'Homage to Mistress Bradstreet', stanza 55.
- 62 Life, friends, is boring. We must not say so.
1964 'Dream Song No.14'.
- 63 And moreover my mother taught me as a boy (repeatingly) 'Ever to confess you're bored means you have no
 Inner Resources.' I conclude now I have no inner resources, because I am heavy bored.
1964 'Dream Song No.14'.

- 64 I seldom go to films. They are too exciting said the Honourable Possum.
1964 'Dream Song No.53'.

- 65 Bats have no bankers and they do not drink and cannot be arrested and pay no tax and, in general, bats have it made.
1964 'Dream Song No.63'.

- 66 A lone letter from a young man: that is fame.
1968 'Dream Song No.342'.

- 67 My girls suffered during this month or so,
 so did my seminars & lectures &
 my poetry even. To be a critic, ah, how deeper and more scientific.
1971 'Olympus'.

- 68 The artist is extremely lucky who is presented with the worst possible ordeal which will not actually kill him.
1972 Interview in The Paris Review, winter issue.

Berton, Pierre 1920–

Canadian writer, journalist and broadcaster. His many works include The Mysterious North (1956) and Why We Act Like Canadians (1982).

- 69 A Canadian is somebody who knows how to make love in a canoe.
1973 Interviewed by Dick Brown in The Canadian, 22 Dec.

Best, George 1946–

Northern Irish footballer who was the leading scorer for Manchester United in the Football League First Division in 1967–8, and in 1968 won a European Cup medal and the title of European Footballer of the Year.

- 70 Alcoholics Anonymous might have worked for me if I had been anonymous, but I was not. People kept asking me for my autograph.
2001 In the Observer, 30 Dec.

- 71 I will respect this liver. After all, it's not mine.
 Referring to his liver transplant. In Scoring at Half Time (2003).

- 72 I told the assembled media that I was not the White Pele and that Pele was in fact the Black George Best.
 On his arrival in the United States in 1975. In Blessed (2003).

Bethell, (Mary) Ursula 1874–1945

New Zealand poet, born in England. Her works, celebrating detail in nature, include From a Garden in the Antipodes (1929) and Day and Night: Poems 1924–1935 (1939).

- 73 But beside it I have planted a green Bay-tree,
 —A sweet Bay, an Olive, and a Turkey Fig,
 —A Fig, an Olive, and a Bay.
1929 From a Garden in the Antipodes, 'Detail'.

Bethmann Hollweg, Theobald von 1856–1921

German statesman, Imperial Chancellor (1909–17), who played an important part in events leading to war in 1914. Anxious for a negotiated peace, he was forced from office in 1917.

- 74 Just for a word 'neutrality'—a word which in wartime has so often been disregarded—just for a scrap of paper Great Britain is going to make war on a kindred nation who desires nothing better than to be friends with her.
1914 On Britain's reaction to the German invasion of neutral

Belgium, 4 Aug. Quoted in British Documents on the Origins of the War 1898–1914 (1926), vol.11.

- 75 If the iron dice roll, may God help us.
1914 Speech in the Reichstag.

Bethune, Norman 1890–1939

Canadian physician and revolutionary.

- 76 The function of the artist is to disturb. His duty is to arouse the sleeper, to shake the complacent pillars of the world. He reminds the world of its dark ancestry, and shows the world its present, and points the way to its new birth. He is at once the product and the preceptor of his time.

1937 Letter from Madrid, 5 May. Quoted in Ted Allen and Sydney Gordon The Scalpel, The Sword (1952).

Betjeman, Sir John 1906–84

English poet, writer and broadcaster, whose nostalgic light verse, often masking an underlying melancholy, achieved great popularity. Appointed Poet Laureate in 1972, he was also a defender of traditional architecture and a perceptive social critic.

- 77 Oh! Chintzy, chintzy cheeriness,
 Half dead and half alive.
1930 'Death in Leamington', first published in the London Mercury.
- 78 Sing on, with hymns uproarious,
 Ye humble and aloof,
 Look up! and oh, how glorious
 He has restored the roof!
1931 Mount Zion, 'Hymn'.
- 79 Broad of Church and broad of Mind,
 Broad before and broad behind,
 A keen ecclesiologist,
 A rather dirty Wykehamist.
1931 Mount Zion, 'The Wykehamist'.
- 80 Ghastly Good Taste, or a depressing story of the rise and fall of English architecture.
1933 Title and sub-title of book.
- 81 He sipped at the weak hock and seltzer
 As he gazed at the London skies
 Through the Nottingham lace of the curtains
 Or was it his bees-winged eyes?
1937 Continual Dew, 'The Arrest of Oscar Wilde at The Cadogan Hotel'.
- 82 Spirits of well-shot woodcock, partridge, snipe,
 Flutter and bear him up the Norfolk sky:
 In that red house in a red mahogany book-case
 The stamp collection waits with mounts long dry.
1937 Continual Dew, 'Death of King George V'.
- 83 Come, friendly bombs, and fall on Slough
 It isn't fit for humans now
 There isn't grass to graze a cow
 Swarm over, Death!
1937 Continual Dew, 'Slough'.
- 84 Pam, I adore you, Pam, you great mountainous sports girl,
 Whizzing them over the net, full of the strength of five:
 That old Malvernian brother, you zephyr and khaki
 shorts girl,
 Although he's playing for Woking,
- Can't stand up to your wonderful backhand drive.
1940 Old Lights for New Chancels, 'Pot Pourri from a Surrey Garden'.
- 85 Think of what our Nation stands for,
 Books from Boots' and country lanes,
 Free speech, free passes, class distinction,
 Democracy and proper drains.
 Lord, put beneath Thy special care
 One-eighty-nine Cadogan Square.
1940 Old Lights for New Chancels, 'In Westminster Abbey'.
- 86 The test of an abstract picture, for me, is not my first reaction to it, but how long I can stand it hanging on the wall of a room where I am living.
1944 John Piper.
- 87 Miss J. Hunter Dunn, Miss J. Hunter Dunn, Furnish'd and burnish'd by Aldershot sun,
 What strenuous singles we played after tea,
 We in the tournament—you against me!
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'A Subaltern's Love-Song'.
- 88 Miss Joan Hunter Dunn, Miss Joan Hunter Dunn,
 I can hear from the car-park the dance has begun.
 Oh! full Surrey twilight! importunate band!
 Oh! strongly adorable tennis-girl's hand!
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'A Subaltern's Love-Song'.
- 89 For a full spring-tide of blossom seethed and departed
 hence,
 Leaving land-locked pools of jonquils by sunny garden fence.
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'May-Day Song for North Oxford'.
- 90 And low the mists of evening lie
 And lightly skims the midge.
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'Henley-on-Thames'.
- 91 Rumbling under blackened girders, Midland, bound for Cricklewood,
 Puffed its sulphur to the sunset where that Land of laundries stood.
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'Parliament Hill Fields'.
- 92 Up the hill where stucco houses in Virginia creeper drown—
 And my childish wave of pity, seeing children carrying down
 Sheaves of drooping dandelions to the courts of Kentish Town.
1945 New Bats in Old Belfries, 'Parliament Hill Fields'.
- 93 Bournemouth is one of the few English towns one can safely call 'her'.
1949 Radio talk, later collected in First and Last Loves (1952),
 'Bournemouth'.
- 94 St Endellion! St Endellion! The name is like a ring of bells.
1950 Radio talk, later collected in First and Last Loves (1952), 'St Endellion'.
- 95 Imagine the position of the modern architect. Picture the young fellow to be put into a 'profession' because trade is considered beneath him (another antiquarian prejudice). The young fellow hasn't exactly got a legal mind, like father; he's not much good at essays, so he can't write; he faints at the sight of blood so can't be a doctor.
 What is there for him to do? Architecture of course.
1952 First and Last Loves.
- 96 Oh prams on concrete balconies, what will your children see?
1952 First and Last Loves.

97 History must not be written with bias, and both sides must be given, even if there is only one side.

1952 First and Last Loves.

98 And girls in slacks remember Dad,
And oafish louts remember Mum.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Christmas'.

99 And is it true? And is it true,
This most tremendous tale of all,
Seen in a stained-glass window's hue,
A Baby in an ox's stall?
The Maker of the stars and sea
Become a Child on earth for me?

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Christmas'.

1 Gaily into Ruislip Gardens
Runs the red electric train
With a thousand Ta's and Pardon's
Daintily alights Elaine.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Middlesex'.

2 Then Harrow-on-the-Hill's a rocky island
And Harrow churchyard full of sailor's graves,
And the constant click and kissing of the trolley busses hissing
Is the level to the Wealdstone turned to waves.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Harrow-on-the-Hill'.

3 But I'm dying now and done for,
What on earth was all the fun for?
I am ill and old and terrified and tight.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Sun and Fun—Song of a Night-club Proprietress'.

4 Does Mum, the Persil-user, still believe
That there's no Devil and that youth is bliss?
As certain as the sun behind the Downs
And quite as plain to see, the Devil walks.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Original Sin on the Sussex Coast'.

5 Phone for the fish knives, Norman
As Cook is a little unnerved;
You kiddies have crumpled the serviettes
And I must have things daintily served.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'How To Get On In Society'.

6 In the licorice fields at Pontefract
My love and I did meet
And many a burdened licorice bush
Was blooming round our feet;
Red hair she had and golden skin,
Her sulky lips were shaped for sin,
Her sturdy legs were flannel-slack'd,
The strongest legs in Pontefract.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'The Licorice Fields at Pontefract'.

7 In the Garden City Café with its murals on the wall
Before a talk on 'Sex and Civics' I meditated on the Fall.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Huxley Hall'.

8 It's awf'ly bad luck on Diana
Her ponies have swallowed their bits;
She fished down their throats with a spanner
And frightened them all into fits.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Hunter Trails'.

9 Oh wasn't it naughty of Smudges?
Oh, Mummy, I'm sick with disgust.
She threw me in front of the Judges

And my silly old collarbone's bust.

1954 A Few Late Chrysanthemums, 'Hunter Trails'.

10 I heard the church bells hollowing out the sky
Deep beyond deep, like never-ending stars.

1960 Summoned By Bells, ch.1.

11 Childhood is measured out by sounds and smells
And sights, before the dark of reason grows.

1960 Summoned By Bells, ch.4.

12 The dread of beatings! Dread of being late!
And, greatest dread of all, the dread of games!

1960 Summoned by Bells, ch.7.

Beuys, Joseph 1921–86

German avant-garde artist. Professor of Sculpture at Düsseldorf Academy (1961–71), his works were typically 'assemblages' of rubbish, deliberately anti-formal. He co-founded the German Green Party.

13 A total work of art is only possible in the context of the whole of society. Everyone will be a necessary co-creator of a social architecture, and, so long as anyone cannot participate, the ideal form of democracy has not been reached. Whether people are artists, assemblers of machines or nurses, it is a matter of participating in the whole.

1972 From an interview with G. Jappe (translated by J. Wheelwright), in Studio International, vol.184, no.950, Dec. Quoted in C. Harrison and P. Wood (eds) Art in Theory 1900–1990 (1992).

Bevan, Aneurin 1897–1960

Welsh Labour politician, a miner who took a leading part in the 1926 General Strike, and a brilliant, irreverent orator. He entered politics in 1929 and joined the Labour Party (1931). As Minister of Health (1945–51), he introduced the National Health Service (1948).

14 The worst thing I can say about democracy is that it has tolerated the right honourable gentleman [Neville Chamberlain] for four and a half years.

1929 House of Commons, 23 Jul.

15 We have been the dreamers. We have been the sufferers. Now we are the builders. We want the complete political extinction of the Tory Party—and 25 years of Labour Government, for we cannot do in five years what requires to be done.

1945 Labour Party conference, Blackpool, 18 May.

16 This island is made mainly of coal and surrounded by fish. Only an organizing genius could produce a shortage of coal and a shortage of fish at the same time.

1945 Speech at Blackpool. Reported in the Daily Herald, 25 May.

17 No amount of cajolery, and no attempts at ethical or social seduction, can eradicate from my heart a deep and burning hatred for the Tory Party that inflicted those experiences on me. So far as I am concerned, they are lower than vermin.

1948 Speech on the inter-war depression, made at the inauguration of the National Health Service, 5 Jul.

18 In Place of Fear.

1952 Title of his book about disarmament.

19 We know what happens to people who stay in the middle of the road. They get run over.

1953 In the Observer, Dec.

- 20 A man suffering from petrified adolescence.
Of Winston Churchill. Quoted in Vincent Brome Aneurin Bevan (1953).
- 21 I am not going to spend any time whatsoever attacking the Foreign Secretary. Quite honestly, I am beginning to feel extremely sorry for him. If we complain about the tune, there is no reason to attack the monkey when the organ grinder is present.
1957 Expressing his wish to address Prime Minister Harold Macmillan rather than Selwyn Lloyd on the Suez crisis in the House of Commons, May.
- 22 If you carry this resolution, you will send a Foreign Secretary—whoever he may be—naked into the conference chamber. You call that statesmanship. I call it an emotional spam.
1957 Labour Party conference speech against unilateral disarmament, Oct.
- 23 I read the newspapers avidly. It is my one form of continuous fiction.
1960 In The Times, 29 Mar.
- 24 Politics is a blood sport.
Quoted in Jennie Lee My Life with Nye (1980).

Beveridge, William Henry Beveridge, 1st Baron 1879–1963

British economist, administrator and social reformer, Director of the London School of Economics (1919–37). His Report on Social Insurance and Allied Services (The Beveridge Report, 1942) helped to create the Welfare State.

- 25 The trouble in modern democracy is that men do not approach to leadership until they have lost the desire to lead anyone.
1934 In the Observer, 15 Apr.
- 26 The object of government in peace and in war is not the glory of rulers or of races, but the happiness of the common man.
1942 Social Insurance and Allied Services, pt.7.
- 27 The most urgent tasks in Britain, once war is over, are, on the one hand, the making of a common attack on the giant evils of Want, Disease, Ignorance and Squalor, and on the other hand, the re-equipping of British industry.
1944 Full Employment in a Free Society.
- 28 The state is or can be master of money, but in a free society it is master of very little else.
1948 Voluntary Action, ch.12.

Bevin, Ernest 1881–1951

English Labour politician. He formed the National Transport and General Workers' Union, becoming its General Secretary (1921–40), then entered politics. He was appointed Minister of Labour and National Service in the coalition, and later Foreign Secretary (1945–51).

- 29 The most conservative man in the world is the British trade unionist, when you want to change him.
1927 Speech to Trade Union Congress, 8 Sep.
- 30 If you open that Pandora's box, you never know what Trojan 'orses will appear.
1948 Expressing doubts about the value of the newly formed Council of Europe. Recalled by his secretary Sir Roderick Barclay in Michael Charlton The Price of Victory (1983).
- 31 Well you know, Chris, we've got to give them something and I think we'll give them this talking shop in Strasbourg—the Council of Europe.

1948 Comment to Christopher Mayhew. Quoted in Michael Charlton The Price of Victory (1983).

- 32 A turn-up in a million.
On himself. Quoted in his entry by Baron Francis-Williams in the Dictionary of National Biography (1951–60).
- 33 Anything you make a mistake about, I will get you out of, and anything you do well I will take the credit for.
Attributed, to a subordinate. Quoted in A J P Taylor From the Boer War to the Cold War: Essays on Twentieth-Century Europe (1995).

Bhagavad Gita

A sacred Hindu text, part of the Mahabharata. All translations are from J Mascaro (1978).

- 34 As the Spirit of our mortal body wanders on in childhood and youth and old age, the Spirit wanders on to a new body: of this the sage has no doubts.
Ch.2, v.13.
- 35 As a man leaves an old garment and puts on one that is new, the spirit leaves his mortal body and puts on one that is new.
Ch.2, v.22.
- 36 Leave all things behind, and come unto me for thy salvation. I will make thee free from the bondage of sins. Fear no more.
Ch.18, v.66.

Bible (Old Testament)

All quotations are taken from the King James, or Authorized, translation of the Bible (1611).

- 37 In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.
Genesis 1:1–2.
- 38 And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.
Genesis 1:3.
- 39 And God called the light Day and the darkness he called Night. And the evening and morning were the first day.
Genesis 1:5.
- 40 And God saw that it was good.
Genesis 1:10.
- 41 And God said, Let us create man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.
Genesis 1:26–8.
- 42 And on the seventh day God ended his work which he had made, and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made. And God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it: because that in it he had rested

- from all his work which God created and made.
Genesis 2:2–3.
- 43 And the LORD God formed man out of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.
Genesis 2:7.
- 44 And the LORD God planted a garden eastwards in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleasant for the sight, and good for food; the tree of life also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of knowledge of good and evil.
Genesis 2:8–9.
- 45 And the LORD God took the man and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.
Genesis 2:15–17.
- 46 And the LORD God said, It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him.
Genesis 2:18.
- 47 And the LORD God caused a deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept: and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof; And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh.
Genesis 2:21–4.
- 48 Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made.
Genesis 3:1.
- 49 And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.
Genesis 3:4–5.
- 50 And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also to her husband with her; and he did eat. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons. And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in the cool of the day: and Adam and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the LORD God amongst the trees of the garden.
Genesis 3:6–8. In the Geneva Bible of 1560, the word 'aprons' was rendered 'breeches', and the version was therefore known as the Breeches Bible.
- 51 And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself. And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat?
Genesis 3:10–11.
- 52 And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat. And the LORD God said unto the woman, What is this that thou hast done? And the woman said, The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat.
Genesis 3:12–13.
- 53 And the LORD God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, and above every beast of the field; upon thy belly thou shalt go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life: And I will put enmity between thy seed and her seed; it shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel.
Genesis 3:14–15.
- 54 Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy sorrow and conception; in sorrow thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be for thy husband, and he shall rule over thee.
Genesis 3:16.
- 55 And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life.
Genesis 3:17.
- 56 In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return to the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shall return.
Genesis 3:19.
- 57 And the LORD God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil: and now, lest he put forth his hand, and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever: Therefore the LORD God sent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken. So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the tree of life.
Genesis 3:21–4.
- 58 And Adam knew Eve his wife; and she conceived and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the LORD.
Genesis 4:1.
- 59 And the LORD said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not: Am I my brother's keeper? And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.
Genesis 4:9.
- 60 My punishment is greater than I can bear.
Cain. Genesis 4:10.
- 61 And the LORD said unto him, Therefore whoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And the LORD set a mark upon Cain lest any finding him should kill him.
Genesis 4:15.
- 62 And Cain went out from the presence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.
Genesis 4:16.
- 63 And all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years; and he died.
Genesis 5:27.
- 64 They went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and the female, as God had commanded Noah.
Genesis 7:9.

- 65 But the dove found no rest for the sole of her foot.
Genesis 8:9.
- 66 And the dove came to him in the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf pluckt off: so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth.
Genesis 8:11.
- 67 I will not again curse the ground any more for man's sake; for the imagination of man is evil from his youth; neither will I again smite any more every thing living, as I have done. While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease.
Genesis 8:21–2.
- 68 At the hand of every man's brother will I require the life of man. Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man.
Genesis 9:5–6.
- 69 I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.
Genesis 9:13.
- 70 He was a mighty hunter before the LORD: wherefore it is said, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.
Genesis 10:9.
- 71 Therefore is the name of it called Babel; because the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD scatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.
Genesis 11:9.
- 72 Now the LORD had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee: And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing: And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.
Genesis 12:1–3.
- 73 But the men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the LORD exceedingly.
Genesis 13:13.
- 74 Thou shalt be buried in a good old age.
Genesis 15:15.
- 75 Behold, thou art with child, and shalt bear a son, and shalt call his name Ishmael; because the LORD hath heard thy affliction. And he will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him; and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren.
Genesis 16:11–12.
- 76 And when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said unto him, I am the Almighty God: walk before me, and be thou perfect.
Genesis 17:1.
- 77 And I will establish my covenant between me and thee and thy seed after thee in their generations for an everlasting covenant, to be a God unto thee, and to thy seed after thee. And I will give unto thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land wherein thou art a stranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlasting possession; and I will be their God... Every man child among you shall be circumcised.

Exodus 16:3.
- 22 And it came to pass, when Moses held up his hand, that Israel prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.
Exodus 17:11.
- 23 And God spake all these words, saying, I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.
Thou shalt have no other gods before me.
Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:
Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;
And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.
Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.
Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days thou shalt labour and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:
For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea,

- and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.
Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. Thou shalt not kill.
Thou shalt not commit adultery.
Thou shalt not steal.
Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.
Exodus 20:1–17.
- 24 And if any mischief follow, then thou shalt give life for life, Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot. Burning for burning, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.
Exodus 21:23–4.
- 25 And thou shalt put in the breastplate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim; and thy shall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the LORD: and Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel upon his heart before the LORD continually.
Exodus 28:30.
- 26 And he received them at their hand, and fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

Deuteronomy 6:4–5.
- 46 Ye shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you; (For the LORD thy God is a jealous God among you).
Deuteronomy 6:14–15.
- 47 And he humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he might make thee know that man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live.
Deuteronomy 8:3.
- 48 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, For my righteousness the LORD hath brought me in to possess this land: but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee.
Deuteronomy 9:4.
- 49 If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder... Thou shalt not hearken.
Deuteronomy 13:1–3.
- 50 When thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and

- hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hands.
Deuteronomy 24:19.
- 51 Thou shalt not muzzle the ox when he treadeth out the corn.
Deuteronomy 25:4.
- 52 Cursed be he that removeth his neighbour's landmark. And all the people shall say, Amen.
Deuteronomy 27:17.
- 53 The secret things belong unto the LORD our God; but those things which are revealed belong unto us and our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.
Deuteronomy 29:29.
- 54 I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live.
Deuteronomy 30:19.
- 55 Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak: and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass.
Deuteronomy 32:1–2.
- 56 He found him in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness; he led him about, he instructed him, he kept him as the apple of his eye.
Deuteronomy 32:10.
- 57 Thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatness.
Deuteronomy 32:15.
- 58 As thy days, so shall thy strength be.
Deuteronomy 33:25.
- 59 The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms.
Deuteronomy 33:27.
- 60 So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab... but no man knoweth of his sepulchre unto this day.
Deuteronomy 34:5–6.
- 61 There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee: I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.
Joshua 1:5.
- 62 Have I not commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage: be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.
Joshua 1:9.
- 63 Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window which thou didst let us down by.
Joshua 2:18.
- 64 So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass, when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that the wall fell down flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city.
Joshua 6:20.
- 65 I am going the way of all the earth.
Joshua 23:14.
- 66 Choose you this day whom ye will serve... but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.
Joshua 24:15.
- 67 Then Jael Heber's wife took a nail of the tent, and took an hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him and smote the nail into his temples, and fastened it into the ground: for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died.
Judges 4:21.
- 68 He asked for water, and she brought him milk; she brought forth butter in a lordly dish. She put her hand to the nail, and her right hand to the workmen's hammer; and with the hammer she smote Sisera, she smote off his head, when she had pierced and stricken through his temples. At her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay down: at her feet he bowed he fell: where he bowed, there he fell down dead. The mother of Sisera looked out at a window, and cried through the lattice, Why is his chariot so long in coming? why tarry the wheels of his chariots?
Judges 5:25–8.
- 69 The sword of the LORD, and of Gideon.
Judges 7:18.
- 70 Then said they unto him, Say now Shibboleth: and he said Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him.
Judges 12:6.
- 71 And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.
Judges 14:14.
- 72 If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.
Judges 14:18.
- 73 He smote them hip and thigh.

- 35 And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it; and she painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window.
2 Kings 9:30.
- 36 And he lifted up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side? who? And there looked out to him two or three eunuchs.
2 Kings 9:32.
- 37 So they threw her down: and some of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses: and he trode her under foot.
2 Kings 9:33.
- 38 And they went to bury her: but they found no more of her than the skull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands.
2 Kings 9:35.
- 39 Now, behold, thou trustest upon the staff of this bruised reed, even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that trust on him.
2 Kings 18:21.
- 40 For we are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as were all our fathers: our days on the earth are as a shadow, and there is none abiding.
1 Chronicles 29:15.
- 41 And he died in a good old age, full of days, riches, and honour: and Solomon his son reigned in his stead.
1 Chronicles 29:28.
- 42 And king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, beside that which she had brought unto the king.
2 Chronicles 9:12.
- 43 For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to shew himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect toward him. Herein thou hast done foolishly: therefore from henceforth thou shalt have wars.
2 Chronicles 16:9.

- 44 Be not afraid nor dismayed by reason of this great multitude; for the battle is not yours, but God's.
2 Chronicles 20:15.
- 45 Every one with one of his hands wrought in the work, and with the other hand held a weapon.
Nehemiah 4:17.
- 46 So will I go in unto the king, which is not according to the law: and if I perish, I perish.
Esther 4:16.
- 47 And the LORD said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it.
Job 1:7.
- 48 Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return thither: the LORD gave, and the LORD hath taken away; blessed be the name of the LORD.
Job 1:21.
- 49 Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life. But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face.
Job 2:4-5.
- 50 And he took him a potsherd to scrape himself withal; and he sat down among the ashes. Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still retain thine integrity? curse God, and die.
Job 2:8-9.
- 51 Let the day perish wherein I was born, and the night in which it was said, There is a man child conceived.
Job 3:3.
- 52 There the wicked cease from troubling, and there the weary be at rest.
Job 3:17.
- 53 Shall mortal man be more just than God? shall a man be more pure than his maker?
Job 4:17.
- 54 Yet man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward.
Job 5:7.
- 55 My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle
Job 7:6.
- 56 Wherefore then hast thou brought me forth out of the womb? Oh that I had given up the ghost, and no eye had seen me!
Job 10:18.
- 57 Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection? It is as high as heaven; what canst thou do? deeper than hell; what canst thou know? The measure thereof is longer than the earth, and broader than the sea.
Job 11:7-9.
- 58 No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with you.
Job 12:2.
- 59 With the ancient is wisdom; and in length of days understanding.
Job 12:12.
- 60 Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him: but I will maintain mine own ways before him.
Job 13:15.
- 61 Man that is born of a woman is of few days, and full of trouble. He cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down: he fleeth also as a shadow, and continueth not.
Job 14:1-2.
- 62 I have heard many such things: miserable comforters are ye all.
Job 16:2.
- 63 I am escaped with the skin of my teeth.
Job 19:20.
- 64 For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God.
Job 19:25-6.
- 65 But ye should say, Why persecute we him, seeing the root of the matter is found in me?
Job 19:28.
- 66 Behold, my desire is, that the Almighty would answer me, and that mine adversary had written a book.
Job 31:35.
- 67 Great men are not always wise: neither do the aged understand judgment.
Job 32:9.
- 68 Therefore doth Job open his mouth in vain; he multiplieth words without knowledge.
Job 35:16.
- 69 Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge? Gird up now thy loins like a man; for I will demand of thee, and answer thou me. Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding.
Job 38:2-4.
- 70 When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy.
Job 38:7.
- 71 Hitherto shalt thou come, but no further: and here shall thy proud waves be stayed.
Job 38:11.
- 72 Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of dew?
Job 38:28.
- 73 Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?
Job 38:31.
- 74 Hast thou given the horse strength? hast thou clothed his neck with thunder? Canst thou make him afraid as a grasshopper? the glory of his nostrils is terrible. He paweth in the valley and rejoiceth in his strength: he goeth on to meet the armed men.
Job 39:19-21.
- 75 He swalloweth the ground with fierceness and rage: neither believeth he that it is the sound of the trumpet. He saith among the trumpets, Ha, ha, and he smelleth the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains, and the shouting.
Job 39:24-5.
- 76 Behold now behemoth, which I made with thee; he eateth grass as an ox.
Job 40:15.
- 77 The shady trees cover him with their shadow; the willows of the brook compass him about. Behold, he drinketh up a river, and hasteth not: he trusteth that he

- can draw up Jordan into his mouth.
Job 40:22–3.
- 78 Canst thou draw out leviathan with an hook?
Job 41:1.
- 79 I have heard of thee by the hearing of the ear: but now mine eye seeth thee. Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes.
Job 42:5–6.
- 80 So the LORD blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning.
Job 42:12.
- 81 Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night. And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper. The ungodly are not so: but are like the chaff which the wind driveth away.
Psalms 1:1–4.
- 82 Why do the heathen rage, and the people imagine a vain thing?
Psalms 2:1.
- 83 He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the LORD shall have them in derision.
Psalms 2:4.
- 84 Thou art my Son: this day have I begotten thee. Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel.
Psalms 2:7–9.
- 85 Stand in awe, and sin not: commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be still.
Psalms 4:4.
- 86 O LORD our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth! who hast set thy glory above the heavens. Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings hast thou ordained strength because of thine enemies, that thou mightest still the enemy and the avenger.
Psalms 8:1–2.
- 87 When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; What is man, that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him? For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour. Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet.
Psalms 8:3–6.
- 88 The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God.
Psalms 14:1.
- 89 They are all gone aside, they are all together become filthy: there is none that doeth good, no, not one.
Psalms 14:3.
- 90 LORD, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.
Psalms 15:1–2.
- 91 The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage.
Psalms 16:6.
- 92 For thou wilt not leave my soul in hell; neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption.
Psalms 16:10.
- 93 Keep me as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of thy wings.
Psalms 17:8.
- 94 For by thee I have run through a troop; and by my God have I leaped over a wall.
Psalms 18:29.
- 95 He maketh my feet like hinds' feet, and setteth me upon my high places.
Psalms 18:33.
- 96 Some trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will remember the name of the LORD our God.
Psalms 20:7.
- 97 My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me? why art thou so far from helping me, and from the words of my roaring?
Psalms 22:1.
- 98 But I am a worm, and no man; a reproach of men, and despised of the people. All they that see me laugh me to scorn: they shoot out the lip, they shake the head, saying, He trusted on the LORD that he would deliver him: let him deliver him, seeing he delighted in him.
Psalms 22:6–8.
- 99 I am poured out like water, and all my bones are out of joint: my heart is like wax; it is melted in the midst of my bowels.
Psalms 22:14.
- 1 They pierced my hands and my feet. I may tell all my bones: they look and stare upon me. They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture.
Psalms 22:16–18.
- 2 The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the LORD for ever.
Psalms 23:1–6.
- 3 The earth is the LORD's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein.
Psalms 24:1.
- 4 Lift up your heads, O ye gates; and be ye lift up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in. Who is this King of glory? The LORD strong and mighty, the LORD mighty in battle.
Psalms 24:7–8.
- 5 Remember not the sins of my youth, nor my transgressions.
Psalms 25:7.
- 6 The LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear?

- the LORD is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?
Psalms 27:1.
- 7 Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear: though war should rise against me, in this will I be confident. One thing have I desired of the LORD, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the LORD all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the LORD, and to inquire in his temple.
Psalms 27:3–4.
- 8 Thou hast turned for me my mourning into dancing: thou hast put off my sackcloth, and girded me with gladness.
Psalms 30:11.
- 9 Into thine hand I commit my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, O LORD God of truth.
Psalms 31:5.
- 10 For this shall every one that is godly pray unto thee in a time when thou mayest be found: surely in the floods of great waters they shall not come nigh unto him. Thou art my hiding place; thou shalt preserve me from trouble; thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance. Selah.
Psalms 32:6–7.
- 11 I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye. Be ye not as the horse, or as the mule, which have no understanding: whose mouth must be held in with bit and bridle, lest they come near unto thee.
Psalms 32:8–9.
- 12 I sought the LORD, and he heard me, and delivered me from all my fears.
Psalms 34:4.
- 13 O taste and see that the LORD is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him. O fear the LORD, ye his saints: for there is no want to them that fear him. The young lions do lack, and suffer hunger: but they that seek the LORD shall not want any good thing.
Psalms 34:8–10.
- 14 The children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings.
Psalms 36:7.
- 15 Delight thyself also in the LORD, and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the LORD; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass.
Psalms 37:4–5.
- 16 But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace.
Psalms 37:11.
- 17 I have been young and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread.
Psalms 37:25.
- 18 I waited patiently for the LORD, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock, and established my goings.
Psalms 40:1–2.
- 19 Yea, mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel against me.
Psalms 41:9.
- 20 As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God?
Psalms 42:1–2.
- 21 Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted in me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him for the help of his countenance.
Psalms 42:5.
- 22 Deep calleth unto deep at the noise of thy waterspouts: all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.
Psalms 42:7.
- 23 Yea, for thy sake are we killed all the day long; we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.
Psalms 44:22.
- 24 God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear, though the earth be removed, and though the mountains be carried into the midst of the sea.
Psalms 46:1–2.
- 25 There is a river, the streams whereof shall make glad the city of God, the holy place of the tabernacles of the most High. God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved: God shall help her, and that right early.
Psalms 46:4–5.
- 26 He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear in sunder; he burneth the chariot in the fire.
Be still, and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth.
Psalms 46:9–10.
- 27 Great is the LORD, and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in the mountain of his holiness. Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.
Psalms 48:1–2.
- 28 For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me. Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest. Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me.
Psalms 51:3–5.
- 29 Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom. Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.
Psalms 51:6–7.
- 30 Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me. Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit. Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee.
Psalms 51:10–13.
- 31 Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness. O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise. For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering. The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a - broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

Psalms 51:14–17.
- 32 Oh that I had wings like a dove! for then would I fly away, and be at rest.
Psalms 55:6.
- 33 Lead me to the rock that is higher than I.
Psalms 61:2.
- 34 Truly my soul waiteth upon God: from him cometh my salvation. He only is my rock and my salvation; he is my defence; I shall not be greatly moved.
Psalms 62:1–2.
- 35 O God, thou art my God; early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirsty land, where no water is.
Psalms 63:1.
- 36 Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness.
Psalms 65:11.
- 37 God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; Selah. That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations. Let the people praise thee, O God; let all the people praise thee.
Psalms 67:1–3.
- 38 Sing unto God, sing praises to his name: extol him that rideth upon the heavens by his name JAH, and rejoice before him. A father of the fatherless, and a judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation. God setteth the solitary in families: he bringeth out those which are bound with chains: but the rebellious dwell in a dry land.
Psalms 68:4–6.
- 39 Thou hast ascended on high, thou hast led captivity captive: thou hast received gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious also, that the LORD God might dwell among them.
Psalms 68:18.
- 40 In thee, O LORD, do I put my trust: let me never be put to confusion.
Psalms 71:1.
- 41 Truly God is good to Israel, even to such as are of a clean heart. But as for me, my feet were almost gone; my steps had well nigh slipped. For I was envious at the foolish, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.
Psalms 73:1–3.
- 42 When I thought to know this, it was too painful for me; Until I went into the sanctuary of God; then understood I their end.
Psalms 73:16–17.
- 43 Nevertheless I am continually with thee: thou hast holden me by my right hand. Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory. Whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I desire beside thee. My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion for ever.
Psalms 73:23–6.
- 44 I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it.
Psalms 81:10.
- 45 How amiable are thy tabernacles, O LORD of hosts!
- My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the LORD: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God.
Yea, the sparrow hath found an house, and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young, even thine altars, O LORD of hosts, my King, and my God.
Psalms 84:1–3.
- 46 Who passing through the valley of Baca make it a well; the rain also filleth the pools.
They go from strength to strength, every one of them in Zion appeareth before God.
Psalms 84:6–7.
- 47 For a day in thy courts is better than a thousand. I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness.
Psalms 84:10.
- 48 Glorious things are spoken of thee, O city of God.
Psalms 87:3.
- 49 Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.
Psalms 90:1–2.
- 50 For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.
Psalms 90:4.
- 51 The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labour and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away.
Psalms 90:10.
- 52 So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.
Psalms 90:12.
- 53 Surely he shall deliver thee from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisome pestilence.
He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler.
Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day;
Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday.
A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand, but it shall not come nigh thee.
Psalms 91:3–7.
- 54 Because thou hast made the LORD, which is my refuge, even the most high, thy habitation.
Psalms 91:9.
- 55 They shall still bring forth fruit in old age; they shall be fat and flourishing.
Psalms 92:14.
- 56 He that planted the ear, shall he not hear? he that formed the eye, shall he not see?
Psalms 94:9.
- 57 O come let us sing unto the LORD: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms.
Psalms 95:1–2.

- 58 Harden not your heart, as in the provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness: When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my work. Forty years long was I grieved with this generation, and said, It is a people that do err in their heart, and they have not known my ways: Unto whom I swear in my wrath that they should not enter into my rest.
Psalms 95:8–11.
- 59 O worship the LORD in the beauty of holiness: fear before him, all the earth.
Psalms 96:9.
- 60 Make a joyful noise unto the LORD, all ye lands. Serve the LORD with gladness: come before his presence with singing. Know ye that the LORD he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.
Psalms 100:1–3.
- 61 Of old hast thou laid the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the work of thy hands.
Psalms 102:25.
- 62 Bless the LORD, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies; Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things; so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's.
Psalms 103:1–5.
- 63 The LORD is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy. He will not always chide: neither will he keep his anger for ever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities.
Psalms 103:8–10.
- 64 For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him. As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us.
Psalms 103:11–12.
- 65 Like as a father pitieth his children, so the LORD pitieth them that fear him. For he knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust.
Psalms 103:13–14.
- 66 As for man, his days are as grass: as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone; and the place thereof shall know it no more.
Psalms 103:15–16.
- 67 He causeth the grass to grow for the cattle, and herb for the service of man: that he may bring forth food out of the earth; And wine that maketh glad the heart of man, and oil to make his face to shine, and bread which strengtheneth man's heart.
Psalms 104:14–15.
- 68 Man goeth forth unto his work and to his labour until the evening.
Psalms 104:23.
- 69 So is this great and wide sea, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts. There go the ships: there is that leviathan, whom thou hast made to play therein. These wait all upon thee; that thou mayest give them their meat in due season.
Psalms 104:25–7.
- 70 Their soul abhorreth all manner of meat; and they draw near unto the gates of death.
Psalms 107:18.
- 71 They that go down to the sea in ships, that do business in great waters; These see the works of the LORD, and his wonders in the deep.
Psalms 107:23–4.
- 72 They reel to and fro, and stagger like a drunken man, and are at their wits' end.
Psalms 107:27.
- 73 The LORD said unto my Lord, Sit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool.
Psalms 110:1.
- 74 The LORD hath sworn, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever after the order of Melchizedek.
Psalms 110:4.
- 75 The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom.
Psalms 111:10.
- 76 For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling. I will walk before the LORD in the land of the living. I believed, therefore have I spoken: I was greatly afflicted: I said in my haste, All men are liars.
Psalms 116:8–11.
- 77 Precious in the sight of the LORD is the death of his saints.
Psalms 116:15.
- 78 The stone which the builders refused is become the head stone of the corner. This is the LORD's doing; it is marvellous in our eyes. This is the day which the LORD hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it.
Psalms 118:22–4.
- 79 Blessed be he that cometh in the name of the LORD: we have blessed you out of the house of the LORD.
Psalms 118:26.
- 80 Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way? by taking heed thereto according to thy word.
Psalms 119:9.
- 81 Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against thee.
Psalms 119:11.
- 82 I have more understanding than all my teachers: for thy testimonies are my meditation.
Psalms 119:99.
- 83 How sweet are thy words unto my taste! yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth!
Psalms 119:103.
- 84 Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.
Psalms 119:105.
- 85 The entrance of thy words giveth light; it giveth understanding unto the simple.
Psalms 119:130.
- 86 Great peace have they which love thy law: and nothing shall offend them.
Psalms 119:165.
- 87 I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence

- cometh my help. My help cometh from the LORD, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved: he that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep. The LORD is thy keeper: the LORD is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night. The LORD shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. The LORD shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore.
Psalms 121:1–8.
- 88 I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the LORD.
Psalms 122:1.
- 89 Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee. Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces.
Psalms 122:6–7.
- 90 They that trust in the LORD shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth for ever.
Psalms 125:1.
- 91 They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.
Psalms 126:5–6.
- 92 Except the LORD build the house, they labour in vain that build it: except the LORD keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain. It is vain for you to rise up early, to sit up late, to eat the bread of sorrows: for so he giveth his beloved sleep.
Psalms 127:1–2.
- 93 Lo, children are an heritage of the LORD: and the fruit of the womb is his reward. As arrows are in the hand of a mighty man; so are children of the youth. Happy is the man that hath his quiver full of them: they shall not be ashamed, but they shall speak with the enemies in the gate.
Psalms 127:3–5.
- 94 Thy wife shall be as a fruitful vine by the sides of thine house: thy children like olive plants round about thy table.
Psalms 128:3.
- 95 Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O LORD. Lord, hear my voice: let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications. If thou, LORD, shouldest mark iniquities, O LORD, who shall stand? But, there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared.
Psalms 130:1–4.
- 96 Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity! It is like the precious ointment upon the head, that ran down upon the beard, even Aaron's beard: that went down to the skirts of his garments; As the dew of Hermon, and as the dew that descended upon the mountains of Zion: for there the LORD commanded the blessing, even life for evermore.
Psalms 133:1–3.
- 97 O give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good: for his mercy endureth for ever.
Psalms 136:1.
- 98 By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion. We hanged our harps upon the willows in the midst thereof. For there they that carried us away captive required of us a song; and they that wasted us required of us mirth, saying, Sing us one of the songs of Zion. How shall we sing the LORD's song in a strange land?
Psalms 137:1–4.
- 99 O LORD, thou hast searched me, and known me. Thou knowest my downsitting and mine uprising, thou understandest my thought afar off. Thou compassest my path and my lying down, and art acquainted with all my ways. For there is not a word in my tongue, but, lo, O LORD, thou knowest it altogether. Thou hast beset me behind and before, and laid thine hand upon me. Such knowledge is too wonderful for me; it is high, I cannot attain unto it.
Psalms 139:1–6.
- 1 Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence?
If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there.
If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea;
Even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.
If I say, Surely the darkness shall cover me; even the night shall be light about me.
Yea, the darkness hideth not from thee; but the night shineth as the day: the darkness and the light are both alike to thee.
Psalms 139:7–12.
- 2 I will praise thee; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made: marvellous are thy works; and that my soul knoweth right well. My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret, and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth. Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there was none of them.
Psalms 139:14–16.
- 3 Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting.
Psalms 139:23–4.
- 4 Set a watch, O LORD, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips.
Psalms 141:3.
- 5 The eyes of all wait upon thee; and thou givest them their meat in due season. Thou openest thine hand, and satisfiest the desire of every living thing.
Psalms 145:15–16.
- 6 He telleth the number of the stars; he calleth them all by their names.
Psalms 147:4.
- 7 Let the high praises of God be in their mouth, and a two-edged sword in their hand.
Psalms 149:6.
- 8 Wisdom crieth without; she uttereth her voice in the streets.
Proverbs 1:20.
- 9 Trust in the LORD with all thine heart; and lean not unto

- thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths.
Proverbs 3:5–6.
- 10 For whom the LORD loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.
Proverbs 3:12.
- 11 Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding.
Proverbs 4:7.
- 12 Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding. For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold. She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her. Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. She is a tree of life to them that lay hold upon her: and happy is every one that retaineth her.
Proverbs 3:13–18.
- 13 For the lips of a strange woman drop as an honeycomb, and her mouth is smoother than oil: But her end is bitter as wormwood, sharp as a two-edged sword. Her feet go down to death; her steps take hold on hell.
Proverbs 5:3–5.
- 14 Let thy fountain be blessed: and rejoice with the wife of thy youth. Let her be as the loving hind and pleasant roe; let her breasts satisfy thee at all times; and be thou ravished always with her love.
Proverbs 5:18–19.
- 15 Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise.
Proverbs 6:6.
- 16 Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep: So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.
Proverbs 6:10–11.
- 17 Can a man take fire in his bosom and his clothes not be burned? Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be burned?
Proverbs 6:27–8.
- 18 Wisdom hath builded her house, she hath hewn out her seven pillars.
Proverbs 9:1.
- 19 Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.
Proverbs 9:17.
- 20 The rich man's wealth is his strong city: the destruction of the poor is their poverty.
Proverbs 10:15.
- 21 A false balance is abomination to the LORD: but a just weight is his delight.
Proverbs 11:1.
- 22 He that is surety for a stranger shall smart for it: and he that hateth suretiship is sure.
Proverbs 11:15.
- 23 A virtuous woman is a crown to her husband: but she that maketh ashamed is as rottenness in his bones.
Proverbs 12:4.
- 24 A wise son heareth his father's instruction: but a scorner
- heareth not rebuke.
Proverbs 13:1.
- 25 Hope deferred maketh the heart sick: but when the desire cometh, it is a tree of life.
Proverbs 13:12.
- 26 He that spareth his rod hateth his son: but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes.
Proverbs 13:24.
- 27 There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.
Proverbs 14:12.
- 28 The poor is hated even of his own neighbour: but the rich hath many friends.
Proverbs 14:20.
- 29 In all labour there is profit: but the talk of the lips tendeth only to penury.
Proverbs 14:23.
- 30 A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger.
Proverbs 15:1.
- 31 A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.
Proverbs 15:13.
- 32 Better is little with the fear of the LORD than great treasure and trouble therewith. Better is a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith.
Proverbs 15:16–17.
- 33 A word spoken in due season, how good is it!
Proverbs 15:23.
- 34 A good report maketh the bones fat.
Proverbs 15:30.
- 35 Commit thy works unto the LORD, and thy thoughts shall be established.
Proverbs 16:3.
- 36 Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall.
Proverbs 16:18.
- 37 Children's children are the crown of old men; and the glory of children are their fathers.
Proverbs 17:6.
- 38 A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity.
Proverbs 17:17.
- 39 A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones.
Proverbs 17:22.
- 40 The name of the LORD is a strong tower: the righteous runneth into it, and is safe.
Proverbs 18:10.
- 41 A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.
Proverbs 18:24.
- 42 He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the LORD; and that which he hath given will he pay him again.
Proverbs 19:17.
- 43 The king's heart is in the hand of the LORD, as the rivers of water: he turneth it whithersoever he will.
Proverbs 21:1.
- 44 Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the LORD

- pondereth the hearts.
Proverbs 21:2.
- 45 It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop, than with a brawling woman in a wide house.
Proverbs 21:9.
- 46 Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.
Proverbs 22:6.
- 47 Wilt thou set thine eyes upon that which is not? for riches certainly make themselves wings; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven.
Proverbs 23:5.
- 48 Remove not the old landmark; and enter not into the fields of the fatherless.
Proverbs 23:10.
- 49 If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small.
Proverbs 24:10.
- 50 A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver.
Proverbs 25:11.
- 51 Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth, and a foot out of joint.
Proverbs 25:19.
- 52 If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he be thirsty, give him water to drink: For thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head, and the LORD shall reward thee.
Proverbs 25:21–2.
- 53 As a dog returneth to his vomit, so a fool returneth to his folly.
Proverbs 26:11.
- 54 The slothful man saith, There is a lion in the way; a lion is in the streets.
Proverbs 26:13.
- 55 Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out: so where there is no talebearer, the strife ceaseth.
Proverbs 26:20.
- 56 Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.
Proverbs 27:1.
- 57 Wrath is cruel, and anger is outrageous; but who is able to stand before envy?
Proverbs 27:4.
- 58 Open rebuke is better than secret love. Faithful are the wounds of a friend; but the kisses of an enemy are deceitful.
Proverbs 27:5–6.
- 59 A continual dropping in a very rainy day and a contentious woman are alike.
Proverbs 27:15.
- 60 Hell and destruction are never full; so the eyes of man are never satisfied.
Proverbs 27:20.
- 61 A fool uttereth all his mind: but a wise man keepeth it in till afterwards.
Proverbs 29:11.
- 62 Where there is no vision, the people perish: but he that keepeth the law, happy is he.
Proverbs 29:18.
- 63 Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies.
Proverbs 31:10.
- 64 Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain: but a woman that feareth the LORD, she shall be praised.
Proverbs 31:30.
- 65 Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, vanity of vanities; all is vanity. What profit hath a man of all his labour which he taketh under the sun? One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth for ever.
Ecclesiastes 1:2–4.
- 66 All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again.
Ecclesiastes 1:7.
- 67 The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be done: and there is no new thing under the sun.
Ecclesiastes 1:9.
- 68 For in much wisdom is much grief: and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow.
Ecclesiastes 1:18.
- 69 I said of laughter, It is mad: and of mirth, What doeth it?
Ecclesiastes 2:2.
- 70 To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:
A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted;
A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;
A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance:
A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away;
A time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;
A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.
Ecclesiastes 3:1–8.
- 71 Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better, than that a man should rejoice in his own works; for that is his portion: for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?
Ecclesiastes 3:22.
- 72 Wherefore I praise the dead which are already dead more than the living which are yet alive.
Ecclesiastes 4:2.
- 73 Two are better than one; because they have a good reward for their labour. For if they fall, the one will lift up his fellow: but woe to him that is alone when he falleth; for he hath not another to help him up.
Ecclesiastes 4:9–10.
- 74 And if one prevail against him, two shall withstand him; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.
Ecclesiastes 4:12.
- 75 Better is a poor and a wise child than an old and foolish

- king, who will no more be admonished.
Ecclesiastes 4:13.
- 76 Be not rash with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be hasty to utter any thing before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few.
Ecclesiastes 5:2.
- 77 For as the crackling of thorns under a pot, so is the laughter of a fool: this also is vanity.
Ecclesiastes 7:6.
- 78 Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit.
Ecclesiastes 7:8.
- 79 Say not thou, What is the cause that the former days were better than these? for thou dost not inquire wisely concerning this.
Ecclesiastes 7:10.
- 80 There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in that war; neither shall wickedness deliver those that are given to it.
Ecclesiastes 8:8.
- 81 Then I commended mirth, because a man hath no better thing under the sun, than to eat, and to drink, and to be merry: for that shall abide with him of his labour the days of his life, which God giveth him under the sun.
Ecclesiastes 8:15.
- 82 For to him that is joined to all the living there is hope: for a living dog is better than a dead lion. For the living know that they shall die: but the dead know not any thing, neither have they any more a reward; for the memory of them is forgotten.
Ecclesiastes 9:4–5.
- 83 Go thy way, eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart; for God now accepteth thy works.
Ecclesiastes 9:7.
- 84 Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do; do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest.
Ecclesiastes 9:10.
- 85 I returned, and saw under the sun, that the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, neither yet bread to the wise, nor yet riches to men of understanding, nor yet favour to men of skill; but time and chance happeneth to them all.
Ecclesiastes 9:11.
- 86 Dead flies cause the ointment of the apothecary to send forth a stinking savour: so doth a little folly him that is in reputation for wisdom and honour.
Ecclesiastes 10:1.
- 87 He that diggeth a pit shall fall into it; and whoso breaketh an hedge, a serpent shall bite him.
Ecclesiastes 10:8.
- 88 A feast is made for laughter, and wine maketh merry: but money answereth all things.
Ecclesiastes 10:19.
- 89 Curse not the king, no not in thy thought; and curse not the rich in thy bedchamber: for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter.
Ecclesiastes 10:20.
- 90 Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days.
Ecclesiastes 11:1.
- 91 Rejoice, O young man, in thy youth; and let thy heart cheer thee in the days of thy youth, and walk in the ways of thine heart, and in the sight of thine eyes: but know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee into judgment.
Ecclesiastes 11:9.
- 92 Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them; While the sun, or the light, or the moon, or the stars, be not darkened, nor the clouds return after the rain: In the day when the keepers of the house shall tremble, and the strong men shall bow themselves, and the grinders cease because they are few, and those that look out of the windows be darkened, And the doors shall be shut in the streets, when the sound of the grinding is low, and he shall rise up at the voice of the bird, and all the daughters of musick shall be brought low: Also when they shall be afraid of that which is high, and fears shall be in the way, and the almond tree shall flourish, and the grasshopper shall be a burden, and desire shall fail: because man goeth to his long home, and mourners go about the streets: Or ever the silver cord be loosed, or the golden bowl be broken, or the pitcher be broken at the fountain, or the wheel broken at the cistern. Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was: and the spirit shall return unto God who gave it.
Ecclesiastes 12:1–9.
- 93 And further, by these, my son, be admonished: of making many books there is no end; and much study is a weariness of the flesh.
Ecclesiastes 12:12.
- 94 Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.
Ecclesiastes 12:13.
- 95 The song of songs, which is Solomon's.
Song of Solomon 1:1.
- 96 I am the rose of Sharon, and the lily of the valleys. As the lily among thorns, so is my love among the daughters.
Song of Solomon 2:1–2.
- 97 He brought me to the banquetting house, and his banner over me was love.
Song of Solomon 2:4.
- 98 I charge you, O ye daughters of Jerusalem, by the roes, and by the hinds of the field, that ye stir not up, nor awake my love, till he please.
Song of Solomon 2:7.
- 99 My beloved spake, and said unto me, Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away. For lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone.
Song of Solomon 2:10–11.
- 1 My beloved is mine, and I am his: he feedeth among the lilies.
Song of Solomon 2:16.
- 2 Behold, thou art fair, my love; behold, thou art fair; thou hast doves' eyes within thy locks: thy hair is as a flock of

- goats, that appear from mount Gilead. Thy teeth are like a flock of sheep that are even shorn, which came up from the washing; whereof every one bear twins, and none is barren among them. Thy lips are like a thread of scarlet, and thy speech is comely: thy temples are like a piece of a pomegranate within thy locks. Thy neck is like the tower of David builded for an armoury, whereon there hang a thousand bucklers, all shields of mighty men. Thy two breasts are like two young roes that are twins, which feed among the lilies. Until the day break, and the shadows flee away, I will get me to the mountain of myrrh, and to the hill of frankincense. Thou art all fair, my love; there is no spot in thee.
Song of Solomon 4:1–7.
- 3 A garden inclosed is my sister, my spouse; a spring shut up, a fountain sealed.
Song of Solomon 4:12.
- 4 My beloved put in his hand by the hole of the door, and my bowels were moved for him.
Song of Solomon 5:4.
- 5 How fair and how pleasant art thou, O love, for delights!
Song of Solomon 7:6.
- 6 Love is strong as death; jealousy is cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are coals of fire, which hath a most vehement flame. Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it: if a man would give all the substance of his house for love, it would utterly be contemned.
Song of Solomon 8:6–7.
- 7 Come now, and let us reason together, saith the LORD: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.
Isaiah 1:18.
- 8 They shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.
Isaiah 2:4.
- 9 What mean ye that ye beat my people to pieces, and grind the faces of the poor? saith the Lord GOD of hosts.
Isaiah 3:15.
- 10 Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them!
Isaiah 5:11.
- 11 In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims: each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the LORD of hosts: the whole earth is full of his glory. And the posts of the door moved at the voice of him that cried, and the house was filled with smoke.
Isaiah 6:1–4.
- 12 Then said I, Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips; for mine eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts. Then flew one of the seraphims unto me, having a live coal in his hand, which he had taken with the tongs from off the altar: And he laid it upon my mouth, and said, Lo, this hath touched thy lips; and thine iniquity is taken away, and thy sin purged. Also I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me.
Isaiah 6:5–8.
- 13 Then said I, Lord, how long?
Isaiah 6:11.
- 14 Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.
Isaiah 7:14.
- 15 And he shall be for a sanctuary; but for a stone of stumbling and for a rock of offence to both the houses of Israel, for a gin and for a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
Isaiah 8:14.
- 16 The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined.
Isaiah 9:2.
- 17 For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth even for ever. The zeal of the LORD of hosts will perform this.
Isaiah 9:6–7.
- 18 And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots: And the spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the LORD.
Isaiah 11:1–2.
- 19 The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together: and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice' den. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.
Isaiah 11:6–9.
- 20 Therefore with joy shall ye draw water out of the wells of salvation.
Isaiah 12:3.
- 21 How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning!
Isaiah 14:12.
- 22 And behold joy and gladness, slaying oxen, and killing sheep, eating flesh, and drinking wine: let us eat and drink; for to morrow we shall die.
Isaiah 22:13.
- 23 The earth shall reel to and fro like a drunkard, and shall be removed like a cottage; and the transgression thereof shall be heavy upon it; and it shall fall, and not rise again.
Isaiah 24:20.

- 24 He will swallow up death in victory; and the Lord GOD will wipe away tears from off all faces; and the rebuke of his people shall he take away from off all the earth: for the LORD hath spoken it.
Isaiah 25:8.
- 25 Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee.
Isaiah 26:3.
- 26 For precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little:
For with stammering lips and another tongue will he speak to this people.
Isaiah 28:10–11.
- 27 We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement.
Isaiah 28:15.
- 28 Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste. Judgment also will I lay to the line, and righteousness to the plummet: and the hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies, and the waters shall overflow the hiding place.
Isaiah 28:16–17.
- 29 Forasmuch as this people draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do honour me, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me is taught by the precept of men.
Isaiah 29:13.
- 30 In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength: and ye would not.
Isaiah 30:15.
- 31 And thine ears shall hear a word behind thee, saying, This is the way, walk ye in it, when ye turn to the right hand, and when ye turn to the left.
Isaiah 30:21.
- 32 And a man shall be as an hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land.
Isaiah 32:2.
- 33 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped. Then shall the lame man leap as an hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: for in the wilderness shall waters break out, and streams in the desert. And the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water: in the habitation of dragons, where each lay, shall be grass with reeds and rushes.
Isaiah 35:5–7.
- 34 And an highway shall be there, and a way, and it shall be called The way of holiness; the unclean shall not pass over it; but it shall be for those: the wayfaring men, though fools shall not err therein.
Isaiah 35:8.
- 35 Lo, thou trusted in the staff of this broken reed, on Egypt; whereon if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it: so is Pharaoh king of Egypt to all that trust in him.
Isaiah 36:6.
- 36 Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God.
Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned: for she hath received of the LORD'S hand double for all her sins.
The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the LORD, make straight in the desert a highway for our God.
Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low: and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough places plain:
And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together: for the mouth of the LORD hath spoken it.
The voice said, Cry. And he said, What shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field:
The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: because the spirit of the LORD bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand for ever.
Isaiah 40:1–8.
- 37 He shall feed his flock like a shepherd: he shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young.
Isaiah 40:11.
- 38 Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure, and weighed the mountains in scales, and the hills in a balance?
Isaiah 40:12.
- 39 Behold, the nations are as a drop of a bucket, and are counted as the small dust of the balance: behold, he taketh up the isles as a very little thing.
Isaiah 40:15.
- 40 To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him?
Isaiah 40:18.
- 41 Have ye not known? have ye not heard? hath it not been told you from the beginning? have ye not understood from the foundations of the earth?
Isaiah 40:21.
- 42 Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.
Isaiah 40:30–31.
- 43 A bruised reed shall he not break, and the smoking flax shall he not quench: he shall bring forth judgment unto truth.
Isaiah 42:3.
- 44 Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine. When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.
Isaiah 43:1–2.
- 45 Woe unto him that striveth with his Maker! Let the potsherd strive with the potsherd of the earth. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, What makest thou? or

- thy work, He hath no hands?
Isaiah 45:9.
- 46 Can a woman forget her suckling child, that she should not have compassion on the son of her womb? yea, they may forget, yet will I not forget thee.
Isaiah 49:15.
- 47 How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the LORD shall bring again Zion.
Isaiah 52:7–8.
- 48 Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the LORD hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem. The LORD hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.
Isaiah 52:9–10.
- 49 As many were astonished at thee; his visage was so marred more than any man, and his form more than the sons of men: So shall he sprinkle many nations; the kings shall shut their mouths at him: for that which had not been told them shall they see; and that which they had not heard shall they consider.
Isaiah 52:14–15.
- 50 Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the LORD revealed? For he shall grow up before him as a tender plant, and as a root out of a dry ground: he hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him. He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief: and we hid as it were our faces from him; he was despised, and we esteemed him not. Surely he hath borne our griefs, and carried our sorrows.
Isaiah 53:1–4.
- 51 But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the LORD hath laid on him the iniquity of us all. He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth: he is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before her shearers is dumb, so he openeth not his mouth.
Isaiah 53:5–7.
- 52 He was cut off out of the land of the living; for the transgression of my people was he stricken. And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in his death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth.
Isaiah 53:8–9.
- 53 Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness.
Isaiah 55:1–2.
- 54 Seek ye the LORD while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near.
Isaiah 55:6.
- 55 For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the LORD. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.
Isaiah 55:8–9.
- 56 For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater: So shall my word be that goeth forth out of my mouth: it shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it.
Isaiah 55:10–11.
- 57 For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands.
Isaiah 55:12.
- 58 Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree: and it shall be to the LORD for a name, for an everlasting sign that shall not be cut off.
Isaiah 55:13.
- 59 Peace, peace to him that is far off, and to him that is near, saith the LORD; and I will heal him.
Isaiah 57:19.
- 60 There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked.
Isaiah 57:21.
- 61 Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the LORD is risen upon thee.
Isaiah 60:1.
- 62 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me; because the LORD hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me, to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound; To proclaim the acceptable year of the LORD, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all that mourn; To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, that he might be glorified.
Isaiah 61:1–3.
- 63 But we are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away.
Isaiah 64:6.
- 64 Stand by thyself, come not near to me; for I am holier than thou.
Isaiah 65:5.
- 65 For, behold, I create new heavens and a new earth: and the former shall not be remembered, nor come into mind.
Isaiah 65:17.
- 66 The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and dust shall be the

- serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, saith the LORD.
Isaiah 65:25.
- 67 Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth. See, I have this day set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms, to root out, and to pull down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant.
Jeremiah 1:9–10.
- 68 They have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns, that can hold no water.
Jeremiah 2:13.
- 69 They were as fed horses in the morning: every one neighed after his neighbour's wife.
Jeremiah 5:8.
- 70 But this people hath a revolting and a rebellious heart; they are revolted and gone.
Jeremiah 5:23.
- 71 Saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace.
Jeremiah 6:14.
- 72 Is this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes?
Jeremiah 7:11.
- 73 The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved.
Jeremiah 8:20.
- 74 Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there?
Jeremiah 8:22.
- 75 Can the Ethiopian change his skin, or the leopard his spots? then may ye also do good, that are accustomed to do evil.
Jeremiah 13:23.
- 76 The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it? I the LORD search the heart, I try the reins.
Jeremiah 17:9–10
- 77 The LORD hath appeared of old unto me, saying, Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with lovingkindness have I drawn thee.
Jeremiah 31:3.
- 78 A voice was heard in Ramah, lamentation, and bitter weeping; Rachel weeping for her children refused to be comforted for her children, because they were not.
Jeremiah 31:15.
- 79 How doth the city sit solitary, that was full of people! how is she become as a widow! she that was great among the nations, and princess among the provinces, how is she become tributary!
Lamentations 1:1.
- 80 Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? behold, and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow.
Lamentations 1:12.
- 81 And I said, My strength and my hope is perished from the LORD: Remembering mine affliction and my misery, the wormwood and the gall.
Lamentations 3:18–19.
- 82 It is of the LORD'S mercies that we are not consumed, because his compassions fail not. They are new every morning: great is thy faithfulness.
Lamentations 3:22–3.
- 83 It is good for a man that he bear the yoke in his youth.
Lamentations 3:27.
- 84 The appearance of the wheels and their work was like unto the colour of a beryl: and they four had one likeness: and their appearance and their work was as it were a wheel in the middle of a wheel.
Of his vision in exile. Ezekiel 1:16.
- 85 For thou art not sent to a people of a strange speech and of an hard language, but to the house of Israel; Not many people of a strange speech and of an hard language, whose words thou canst not understand. Surely, had I sent thee to them, they would have hearkened unto thee.
Ezekiel 3:5–6.
- 86 And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within you; and I will take the stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh.
Ezekiel 11:19.
- 87 Son of man, eat thy bread with quaking, and drink thy water with trembling and with carefulness.
Ezekiel 12:18.
- 88 The fathers have eaten sour grapes, and the children's teeth are set on edge.
Ezekiel 18:2.
- 89 I will accept you with your sweet savour, when I bring you out from the people, and gather you out of the countries wherein you have been scattered; and I will be sanctified in you before the heathen. And ye shall know that I am the LORD, when I shall bring you into the land of Israel, into the country for the which I lifted up mine hand to give it to your fathers. And there shall ye remember your ways, and all your doings, wherein ye have been defiled; and ye shall loath yourselves in your own sight for all your evils that ye have committed.
Ezekiel 20:41–3.
- 90 As I live, saith the Lord GOD, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live: turn ye, turn ye from your evil ways; for why will ye die, O house of Israel?
Ezekiel 33:11.
- 91 The hand of the LORD was upon me, and carried me out in the spirit of the LORD, and set me down in the midst of the valley which was full of bones.
Ezekiel 37:1.
- 92 Son of man, can these bones live?
Ezekiel 37:3.
- 93 Prophesy upon these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. Thus saith the Lord GOD unto these bones; Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live: And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am the LORD.
Ezekiel 37:4–6.
- 94 Thou, O king, sawest, and beheld a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible. This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass. His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay. Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands, which smote the image

- upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.
Daniel 2:31–34.
- 95 Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, came forth of the midst of the fire.
Daniel 3:26.
- 96 The same hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar: and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown like eagles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws.
Daniel 4:33.
- 97 In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace: and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote.
Daniel 5:5.
- 98 And this is the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN. This is the interpretation of the thing: MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it, TEKEL; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting. PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians.
Daniel 5:25–8.
- 99 I saw in the night visions and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.
Daniel 7:13.
- 1 And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.
Daniel 12:3–4.
- 2 For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind.
Hosea 8:7.
- 3 When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt.
Hosea 11:1.
- 4 And I will restore to you the years that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the caterpillar, and the palmerworm, my great army which I sent among you.
Joel 2:25.
- 5 And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions.
Joel 2:28.
- 6 Beat your plowshares into swords, and your pruninghooks into spears: let the weak say, I am strong.
Joel 3:10.
- 7 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?
Amos 3:3.
- 8 The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord GOD hath spoken, who can but prophesy?
Amos 3:8.
- 9 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.
Amos 4:12.
- 10 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?
Amos 5:20.
- 11 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the LORD: And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.
Amos 8:11–12.
- 12 But thou, Bethlehem, Ephrathah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel.
Micah 5:2.
- 13 O LORD, revive thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.
Habakkuk 3:2.
- 14 He that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag with holes.
Haggai 1:6.
- 15 I lifted up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.
Zechariah 2:1–2.
- 16 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.
Zechariah 2:8.
- 17 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.
Zechariah 4:6.
- 18 And I said unto them, If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.
Zechariah 11:12.
- 19 Have we not all one father, hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?
Malachi 2:10.
- 20 Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.
Malachi 3:10.
- 21 Then they that feared the LORD spake often one to another: and the LORD hearkened, and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the LORD, and that thought upon his name.
Malachi 3:16.
- 22 For, behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven;

and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch. But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.
Malachi 4:1–2.

- 23 Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD: And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth a curse.
Malachi 4:5–6.

Bible (Apocrypha)

- 24 The first wrote, Wine is the strongest. The second wrote, The king is strongest. The third wrote, Women are strongest: but above all things Truth beareth away the victory.
1 Esdras 3:10–12.
- 25 By this also ye must know that women have dominion over you: do ye not labour and toil, and give and bring all to the woman? Yea, a man taketh his sword, and goeth his way to rob and to steal, to sail upon the sea and upon rivers; And looketh upon a lion, and goeth in the darkness; and when he hath stolen, spoiled, and robbed, he bringeth it to his love.
1 Esdras 4:22–4.
- 26 Then were the entrances of this world made narrow, full of sorrow and travail: they are but few and evil, full of perils, and very painful. For the entrances of the elder world were wide and sure, and brought immortal fruit. If then they that live labour not to enter these strait and vain things, they can never receive those that are laid up for them.
2 Esdras 7:12–14.
- 27 For the world hath lost his youth, and the times begin to wax old.
2 Esdras 14:10.
- 28 Be not greedy to add money to money: but let it be as refuse in respect of our child.
Tobit 5:18.
- 29 For the ear of jealousy heareth all things: and the noise of murmurings is not hid.
Wisdom of Solomon 1:10.
- 30 Nevertheless through envy of the devil came death into the world: and they that do hold of his side do find it.
Wisdom of Solomon 2:24.
- 31 But the souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and there shall no torment touch them. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die: and their departure is taken for misery, And their going from us to be utter destruction: but they are in peace. For though they be punished in the sight of men, yet is their hope full of immortality. And having been a little chastised, they shall be greatly rewarded: for God proved them, and found them worthy for himself.
Wisdom of Solomon 3:1–5.
- 32 And in the time of their visitation they shall shine, and run to and fro like sparks among the stubble.
Wisdom of Solomon 3:7.
- 33 For the bewitching of naughtiness doth obscure things that are honest; and the wanderings of concupiscence doth undermine the simple mind. He being made perfect in a short time, fulfilled a long time.
Wisdom of Solomon 4:12–13.
- 34 Even so we in like manner, as soon as we were born, began to draw to our end, and had no sign of virtue to shew; but were consumed in our own wickedness. For the hope of the ungodly is like dust that is blown away with the wind; like a thin froth that is driven away with the storm; like as the smoke which is dispersed here and there with a tempest, and passeth away as the remembrance of a guest that tarrieth but a day.
Wisdom of Solomon 5:13–14.
- 35 For all men have one entrance into life, and the like going out.
Wisdom of Solomon 7:6.
- 36 For thou hast power of life and death: thou ledest to the gates of hell, and bringest up again.
Wisdom of Solomon 16:13.
- 37 My son, if thou come to serve the Lord, prepare thy soul for temptation.
Ecclesiasticus 2:1.
- 38 Saying, We will fall into the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men: for as his majesty is, so is his mercy.
Ecclesiasticus 2:18.
- 39 Be not curious in unnecessary matters: for more things are shewed unto thee than men understand.
Ecclesiasticus 3:23.
- 40 Be not ignorant of any thing in a great matter or a small.
Ecclesiasticus 5:15.
- 41 A faithful friend is the medicine of life; and they that fear the Lord shall find him.
Ecclesiasticus 6:16.
- 42 Laugh no man to scorn in the bitterness of his soul: for there is one which humbleth and exalteth.
Ecclesiasticus 7:11.
- 43 Miss not the discourse of the elders: for they also learned of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learn understanding, and to give answer as need requireth.
Ecclesiasticus 8:9.
- 44 Open not thine heart to every man, lest he requite thee with a shrewd turn.
Ecclesiasticus 8:19.
- 45 Give not thy soul unto a woman to set her foot upon thy substance.
Ecclesiasticus 9:2.
- 46 Forsake not an old friend; for the new is not comparable to him: a new friend is as new wine; when it is old, thou shalt drink it with pleasure.
Ecclesiasticus 9:10.
- 47 Many kings have sat down upon the ground; and one that was never thought of hath worn the crown.
Ecclesiasticus 11:5.
- 48 Judge none blessed before his death: for a man shall be known in his children.
Ecclesiasticus 11:28.
- 49 He that toucheth pitch shall be defiled therewith; and he

- that hath fellowship with a proud man shall be like unto him.
Ecclesiasticus 13:1.
- 50 Burden not thyself above thy power while thou livest; and have no fellowship with one that is mightier and richer than thyself: for how agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shall be broken.
Ecclesiasticus 13:2.
- 51 All flesh waxeth old as a garment: for the covenant from the beginning is, Thou shalt die the death.
Ecclesiasticus 14:17.
- 52 Desire not a multitude of unprofitable children, neither delight in ungodly sons.
Ecclesiasticus 16:1.
- 53 Be not made a beggar by banqueting upon borrowing, when thou hast nothing in thy purse: for thou shalt lie in wait for thine own life, and be talked on.
Ecclesiasticus 18:33.
- 54 A labouring man that is given to drunkenness shall not be rich: and he that contemneth small things shall fall by little and little.
Ecclesiasticus 19:1.
- 55 Wine and women will make men of understanding to fall away: and he that cleaveth to harlots will become impudent.
Ecclesiasticus 19:2.
- 56 If thou hast heard a word, let it die with thee; and be bold, it will not burst thee.
Ecclesiasticus 19:10.
- 57 As the climbing up a sandy way is to the feet of the aged, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man.
Ecclesiasticus 25:20.
- 58 The stroke of the whip maketh marks in the flesh: but the stroke of the tongue breaketh the bones. Many have fallen by the edge of the sword: but not so many as have fallen by the tongue.
Ecclesiasticus 28:17–18.
- 59 Envy and wrath shorten the life, and carefulness bringeth age before the time.
Ecclesiasticus 30:24.
- 60 Leave off first for manners' sake; and be not unsatiable, lest thou offend.
Ecclesiasticus 31:17.
- 61 Wine is as good as life to a man, if it be drunk moderately: what life is then to a man that is without wine? for it was made to make men glad.
Ecclesiasticus 31:27.
- 62 Let thy speech be short, comprehending much in few words; be as one that knoweth and yet holdeth his tongue.
Ecclesiasticus 32:8.
- 63 In all thy works keep to thyself the preeminence; leave not a stain in thine honour.
Ecclesiasticus 33:22.
- 64 Honour a physician with the honour due unto him for the uses which ye may have of him: for the Lord hath created him. For of the most High cometh healing, and he shall receive honour of the king.
Ecclesiasticus 38:1–2.
- 65 The wisdom of a learned man cometh by opportunity of leisure: and he that hath little business shall become wise. How can he get wisdom that holdeth the plough, and that glorieth in the goad, that driveth oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and whose talk is of bullocks?
Ecclesiasticus 38:24–5.
- 66 Let us now praise famous men, and our fathers that begat us.
Ecclesiasticus 44:1.
- 67 Their bodies are buried in peace; but their name liveth for evermore.
Ecclesiasticus 44:14.
- 68 Here then will we begin the story: only adding thus much to that which hath been said, that it is a foolish thing to make a long prologue, and to be short in the story itself.
Maccabees 2:32.
- 69 And when he was at the last gasp, he said, Thou like a fury takest us out of this present life, but the King of the world shall raise us up, who have died for his laws, unto everlasting life.
Maccabees 7:9.

Bible (New Testament)

- 70 And she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins.
St Matthew 1:21.
- 71 Now all this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken of the Lord by the prophet, saying, Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.
St Matthew 1:22–3
- 72 Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.
St Matthew 2:1–2.
- 73 And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.
St Matthew 2:11.
- 74 And saying, Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. For this is he that was spoken of by the prophet Esaias, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.
St Matthew 3:2–3.
- 75 And the same John had his raiment of camel's hair, and a leathern girdle about his loins; and his meat was locusts and wild honey.
St Matthew 3:4.
- 76 But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees come to his baptism, he said unto them, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?
St Matthew 3:7.
- 77 And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway

- out of the water: and, lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: And lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.
St Matthew 3:16–17.
- 78 Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungred. And when the tempter came to him, he said, If thou be the Son of God, command that these stones be made bread. But he answered and said, It is written, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.
St Matthew 4:1–4.
- 79 Jesus said unto him, It is written again, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.
St Matthew 4:7.
- 80 Again, the devil taketh him up into an exceeding high mountain, and sheweth him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; And saith unto him, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me. Then saith Jesus unto him, Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.
St Matthew 4:8–10.
- 81 The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up.
St Matthew 4:16.
- 82 And he saith unto them, Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.
St Matthew 4:19.
- 83 And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying, Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.
Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.
Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.
Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.
Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.
Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.
Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.
Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.
Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.
St Matthew 5:1–12.
- 84 Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.
St Matthew 5:13.
- 85 Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven.
St Matthew 5:14–16.
- 86 Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil. For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled.
St Matthew 5:17–18.
- 87 For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.
St Matthew 5:20.
- 88 But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.
St Matthew 5:22.
- 89 Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time. Thou shalt not commit adultery: But I say unto you. That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.
St Matthew 5:27–8.
- 90 And if thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell. And if thy right hand offend thee, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.
St Matthew 5:29–30.
- 91 Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also.
St Matthew 5:38–9.
- 92 And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain.
St Matthew 5:41.
- 93 Ye have heard that it hath been said, Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.
St Matthew 5:43–4.
- 94 That ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven: for he maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.
St Matthew 5:45.
- 95 Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.
St Matthew 5:48.
- 96 Therefore when thou doest thine alms, do not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory of men, Verily I say unto you, They have their reward. But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what

- thy right hand doeth: That thine alms may be in secret: and thy Father which seeth in secret himself shall reward thee openly.
St Matthew 6:2–4.
- 97 But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly. But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking.
St Matthew 6:6–7.
- 98 After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.
St Matthew 6:9–13
- 99 Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.
St Matthew 6:19–21.
- 1 No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.
St Matthew 6:24.
- 2 Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they? Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature? And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.
St Matthew 6:26–9.
- 3 But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof.
St Matthew 6:33–4
- 4 Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.
St Matthew 7:1–2.
- 5 And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?
St Matthew 7:3.
- 6 Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.
St Matthew 7:6.
- 7 Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.
St Matthew 7:7–8.
- 8 Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent? If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask him?
St Matthew 7:9–11.
- 9 Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.
St Matthew 7:13–14.
- 10 Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.
St Matthew 7:15.
- 11 Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.
St Matthew 7:20.
- 12 Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven.
St Matthew 7:21.
- 13 Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.
St Matthew 7:24–7.
- 14 The centurion answered and said, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my roof: but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed. For I am a man under authority, having soldiers under me: and I say to this man, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it. When Jesus heard it, he marvelled, and said to them that followed, Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.
St Matthew 8:8–10.
- 15 But the children of the kingdom shall be cast out into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
St Matthew 8:12.
- 16 And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.
St Matthew 8:20.
- 17 But Jesus said unto him, Follow me; and let the dead bury their dead.
St Matthew 8:22.
- 18 And his disciples came to him, and awoke him, saying, Lord, save us: we perish. And he saith unto them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Then he arose, and rebuked

- the winds and the sea; and there was a great calm. But the men marvelled, saying, What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!
St Matthew 8:25–7.
- 19 And as Jesus passed forth from thence, he saw a man, named Matthew, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he saith unto him, Follow me. And he arose, and followed him.
St Matthew 9:9.
- 20 But when Jesus heard that, he said unto them, They that be whole need not a physician, but they that are sick. But go ye and learn what that meaneth, I will have mercy, and not sacrifice: for I am not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.
St Matthew 9:12–13.
- 21 No man putteth a piece of new cloth unto an old garment, for that which is put in to fill it up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse. Neither do men put new wine into old bottles: else the bottles break, and the wine runneth out, and the bottles perish: but they put new wine into new bottles, and both are preserved.
St Matthew 9:16–17.
- 22 But the Pharisees said, He casteth out devils through the prince of the devils.
St Matthew 9:34.
- 23 But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.
St Matthew 10:6.
- 24 Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give.
St Matthew 10:8.
- 25 And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, shake off the dust of your feet.
St Matthew 10:14.
- 26 Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves.
St Matthew 10:16.
- 27 The disciple is not above his master, nor the servant above his lord.
St Matthew 10:24.
- 28 Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father. But the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows.
St Matthew 10:29–31.
- 29 Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword.
St Matthew 10:34.
- 30 He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me. And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me. He that findeth his life shall lose it: and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it.
St Matthew 10:37–9.
- 31 And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward.
St Matthew 10:42.
- 32 And said unto him, Art thou he that should come, or do we look for another?
St Matthew 11:3.
- 33 Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see: The blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, and the poor have the gospel preached to them.
St Matthew 11:4–5.
- 34 And as they departed, Jesus began to say unto the multitudes concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken with the wind? But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed in soft raiment? behold, they that wear soft clothing are in kings' houses. But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet.
St Matthew 11:7–9.
- 35 He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.
St Matthew 11:15.
- 36 And saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.
St Matthew 11:17.
- 37 But wisdom is justified of her children.
St Matthew 11:19.
- 38 Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest unto your souls. For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.
St Matthew 11:28–30.
- 39 A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory.
St Matthew 12:20.
- 40 He that is not with me is against me: and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad.
St Matthew 12:30.
- 41 Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men.
St Matthew 12:31.
- 42 O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh.
St Matthew 12:34.
- 43 But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas: For Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.
St Matthew 12:39–40.
- 44 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for she came from the uttermost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.
St Matthew 12:42.
- 45 When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest, and findeth none. Then

- he saith, I will return into my house from whence I came out; and when he is come, he findeth it empty, swept, and garnished. Then goeth he, and taketh with himself seven other spirits more wicked than himself, and they enter in and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first. Even so shall it be also unto this wicked generation.
St Matthew 12:43–5.
- 46 And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, and said, Behold my mother and my brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother.
St Matthew 12:49–50.
- 47 And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; And when he sowed, some seeds fell by the wayside, and the fowls came and devoured them up: Some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: And when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: But others fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold.
St Matthew 13:3–8.
- 48 He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful.
St Matthew 13:22.
- 49 But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty.
St Matthew 13:23.
- 50 But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.
St Matthew 13:25.
- 51 He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up?
St Matthew 13:28.
- 52 Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed which a man took, and sowed in his field: Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.
St Matthew 13:31–2.
- 53 Again the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it.
St Matthew 13:45–6.
- 54 And they were offended in him. But Jesus said unto them, A prophet is not without honour, save in his own country, and in his own house.
St Matthew 13:57.
- 55 And they say unto him, We have here but five loaves, and two fishes.
St Matthew 14:17.
- 56 And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid.
St Matthew 14:25–7.
- 57 And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?
St Matthew 14:31.
- 58 Not that which goeth into the mouth defileth a man; but that which cometh out of the mouth, this defileth a man.
St Matthew 15:11.
- 59 Let them alone: they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.
St Matthew 15:14.
- 60 And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table.
St Matthew 15:27.
- 61 He answered and said unto them, When it is evening, ye say, It will be fair weather: for the sky is red. And in the morning, It will be foul weather to day: for the sky is red and lowring. O ye hypocrites, ye can discern the face of the sky; but can ye not discern the signs of the times?
St Matthew 16:2–3.
- 62 Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven.
St Matthew 16:18–19.
- 63 But he turned, and said unto Peter, Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art an offence unto me: for thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men.
St Matthew 16:23.
- 64 For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it. For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?
St Matthew 16:25–6.
- 65 And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.
St Matthew 17:20.
- 66 And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.
St Matthew 18:3.
- 67 And whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me. But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.
St Matthew 18:5–6.
- 68 And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye,

- rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire.
St Matthew 18:9.
- 69 For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them.
St Matthew 18:20.
- 70 Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times: but, Until seventy times seven.
St Matthew 18:21–2.
- 71 What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder.
St Matthew 19:6.
- 72 Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.
St Matthew 19:13–14.
- 73 Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. But when the young man heard that saying, he went away sorrowful: for he had great possessions.
St Matthew 19:21–2.
- 74 And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.
St Matthew 19:24.
- 75 When his disciples heard it, they were exceedingly amazed, saying, Who then can be saved? But Jesus beheld them, and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible.
St Matthew 19:25–6.
- 76 But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first.
St Matthew 19:30.
- 77 And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?
St Matthew 20:6.
- 78 Is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? Is thine eye evil, because I am good? So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen.
St Matthew 20:15–16.
- 79 And Jesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all them that sold and bought in the temple, and overthrew the tables of the moneychangers, and the seats of them that sold doves, And said unto them, It is written, My house shall be called the house of prayer; but ye have made it a den of thieves.
St Matthew 21:12–13.
- 80 Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's.
St Matthew 22:21.
- 81 For in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in heaven.
St Matthew 22:30.
- 82 Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord Thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.
St Matthew 22:37–40.
- 83 Ye blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel.
St Matthew 23:24.
- 84 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are like unto whited sepulchres, which indeed appear beautiful outward, but are within full of dead men's bones, and of all uncleanness.
St Matthew 23:27.
- 85 And ye shall hear of wars and rumours of wars: see that ye be not troubled: for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places.
St Matthew 24:6–7.
- 86 Verily I say unto you. This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.
St Matthew 24:34–5.
- 87 For as in the days that were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noe entered into the ark.
St Matthew 24:38.
- 88 Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come. But know this, that if the goodman of the house had known in what watch the thief would come, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken up.
St Matthew 24:42–3.
- 89 His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.
St Matthew 25:21.
- 90 For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath. And cast ye the unprofitable servant into outer darkness: there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.
St Matthew 25:29–30.
- 91 When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory: And before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats: And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.
St Matthew 25:31–3.
- 92 For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.
St Matthew 25:35–6.
- 93 And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the

- least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.
St Matthew 25:40.
- 94 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not always.

- 7 When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance.
St Mark 2:17.
- 8 And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath: Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.
St Mark 2:27–8.
- 9 And if a kingdom be divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand.
St Mark 3:24–5.
- 10 And he said unto them, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.
St Mark 4:9.
- 11 And he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear: with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you: and unto you that hear shall more be given.
St Mark 4:24.
- 12 And he asked him, What is thy name? And he answered, saying, My name is Legion: for we are many.
St Mark 5:9.
- 13 And Jesus, immediately knowing in himself that virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes?
St Mark 5:30.
- 14 And were beyond measure astonished, saying, He hath done all things well: he maketh both the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak.
St Mark 7:37.
- 15 And he looked up, and said, I see men as trees, walking.
St Mark 8:24.
- 16 And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief.
St Mark 9:24.
- 17 But when Jesus saw it, he was much displeased, and said unto them, Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.
St Mark 10:14.
- 18 And there came a certain poor widow, and she threw in two mites, which make a farthing. And he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, Verily I say unto you, That this poor widow hath cast more in, than all they which have cast into the treasury: For all they did cast in of their abundance; but she of her want did cast in all that she had, even all her living.
St Mark 12:42–4.
- 19 And when the centurion, which stood over against him, saw that he so cried out, and gave up the ghost, he said, Truly this man was the Son of God.

St Mark 16:15.
- 21 And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.
St Luke 1:28–9.
- 22 And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.
St Luke 1:38.

- 23 And Mary said,
My soul doth magnify the Lord,
And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.
For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden:
for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.
For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name.
And his mercy is on them that fear him from generation to generation.
He hath shewed strength with his arm; he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.
He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.
He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich
he hath sent empty away.
St Luke 1:46–53.
- 24 And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.
St Luke 2:1.
- 25 And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.
St Luke 2:6–7.
- 26 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men. And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.
St Luke 2:8–15.
- 27 Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: For mine eyes have seen thy salvation, Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people; A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.
St Luke 2:29–32.
- 28 And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.
St Luke 2:52.

proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country.
St Luke 4:23.
- 30 Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to the false prophets.
St Luke 6:26.
- 31 Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.
St Luke 6:38.
- 32 Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.
St Luke 7:47.
- 33 And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.
St Luke 9:23.
- 34 And Jesus said unto him, No man, having put his hand to the plough, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God.
St Luke 9:62.
- 35 And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house. And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again. And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: for the labourer is worthy of his hire.
St Luke 10:5–7.
- 36 And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven.
St Luke 10:18.
- 37 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead. And by chance there came down a certain priest that way: and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.
St Luke 10:30–31.
- 38 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,
And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.
St Luke 10:33–5.
- 39 And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said
Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.
St Luke 10:37.
- 40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.
And Jesus answered and said unto her, Martha, Martha,
thou art careful and troubled about many things:
But one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.
St Luke 10:40–2.
- 41 Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge.
St Luke 11:52.
- 42 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be

- merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee.
St Luke 12:19–20.
- 43 For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?
St Luke 14:28.
- 44 What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.
St Luke 15:4–5.
- 45 Either what woman having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it? And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost. Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.
St Luke 15:8–10.
- 46 And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.
St Luke 15:13.
- 47 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him. And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger! I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.
St Luke 15:16–19.
- 48 And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet: And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it: and let us eat, and be merry: For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.
St Luke 15:20–4.
- 49 It was meet that we should make merry, and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.
St Luke 15:32.
- 50 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.
St Luke 16:8.
- 51 And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.
St Luke 16:9.
- 52 He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.
St Luke 16:10.
- 53 There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day: And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores, And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover the dogs came and licked his sores.
St Luke 16:19–21.
- 54 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried; And in hell he lift up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.
St Luke 16:22–3.
- 55 And beside all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us, that would come from thence.
St Luke 16:26.
- 56 Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.
St Luke 17:21.
- 57 Remember Lot's wife.
St Luke 17:32.
- 58 For every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.
St Luke 18:14.
- 59 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you that, if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.
St Luke 19:40.
- 60 In your patience possess ye your souls.
St Luke 21:19.
- 61 Saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will, but thine, be done.
St Luke 22:42.
- 62 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.
St Luke 22:61.
- 63 Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.
St Luke 23:34.
- 64 And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom. And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To day shalt thou be with me in paradise.
St Luke 23:42–3.
- 65 And the sun was darkened, and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.
St Luke 23:45.
- 66 And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.
St Luke 23:46.
- 67 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen: remember

- how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee.
St Luke 24:5–6.
- 68 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.
St Luke 24:11.
- 69 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

St John 2:4.
- 78 When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was: (but the servants which drew the water knew;) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom, And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.
St John 2:9–10.
- 79 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.
St John 3:3.
- 80 The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.
St John 3:8.
- 81 For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.
St John 3:16.
- 82 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.
St John 3:19.
- 83 He must increase, but I must decrease.
St John 3:30.
- 84 God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.
St John 4:24.
- 85 Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest.
St John 4:35.
- 86 Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.
St John 5:8.
- 87 He was a burning and a shining light; and ye were willing for a season to rejoice in his light.
Of John the Baptist. St John 5:35.
- 88 Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me.
St John 5:39.
- 89 There is a lad here, which hath five barley loaves, and two small fishes: but what are they among so many?
St John 6:9.
- 90 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.
St John 6:35.
- 91 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.
St John 6:37.
- 92 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life. I am that bread of life.
St John 6:47–8.
- 93 It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.
St John 6:63.
- 94 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.
St John 8:7.
- 95 Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.
St John 8:12.
- 96 And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.
St John 8:32.
- 97 If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.
St John 8:36.
- 98 Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of the father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.
St John 8:44.

- 99 Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.
St John 9:25.
- 1 The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.
St John 10:10.
- 2 I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep. But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep. The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep. I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have which are not of this fold: them also must I bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.
St John 10:11–16.
- 3 I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.
St John 11:25.
- 4 Jesus wept.
This is the shortest verse in the Bible. St John 11:35.
- 5 For the poor always ye have with you; but me ye have not always.
St John 12:8.
- 6 That thou doest, do quickly.
Jesus to Judas. St John 13:27.
- 7 A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.
St John 13:34–5.
- 8 Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.
St John 14:1.
- 9 In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also.
St John 14:2–3.
- 10 Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.
St John 14:6.
- 11 Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you, Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.
St John 14:27.
- 12 This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.
St John 15:12–13.
- 13 I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.
St John 16:12.
- 14 These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.
St John 16:33.
- 15 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might be fulfilled.

- 23 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away. Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master. Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God.
St John 20:15–17. The Latin Vulgate translation of the Bible, ascribed to St Jerome, famously renders the phrase 'Do not touch me' as 'Noli me tangere'.
- 24 Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.
Thomas. St John 20:25.
- 25 Be not faithless, but believing. And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God. Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.
St John 20:27–9.
- 26 When thou wast young, thou girdest thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.
St John 21:18.
- 27 It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which

- the Father hath put in his own power. But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.
Acts of the Apostles 1:7–8.
- 28 Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.
Acts of the Apostles 1:11.
- 29 And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.
Acts of the Apostles 2:1–4.
- 30 Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk.
Acts of the Apostles 3:6.
- 31 And he leaping up stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.
Acts of the Apostles 3:8.
- 32 Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.
Acts of the Apostles 4:12.
- 33 We ought to obey God rather than men.
Acts of the Apostles 5:29.
- 34 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.
Acts of the Apostles 6:2–4.
- 35 And the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet, whose name was Saul.
Acts of the Apostles 7:57–8.
- 36 Understandest thou what thou readest? And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me?
Acts of the Apostles 8:30–1.
- 37 Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.
Acts of the Apostles 9:3–5.
- 38 Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works.
Acts of the Apostles 9:36.
- 39 And saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet knit at the four corners, and let down to the earth: Wherein were all manner of fourfooted beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air. And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter; kill, and eat.
Acts of the Apostles 10:11–13.
- 40 What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.
Acts of the Apostles 10:15.
- 41 Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: But in every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with Him.
Acts of the Apostles 10:34–5.
- 42 The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.
Acts of the Apostles 14:11.
- 43 Sirs, why do ye these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you that ye should turn from these vanities unto the living God, which made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein.
Acts of the Apostles 14:15.
- 44 Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.
Acts of the Apostles 16:30–1.
- 45 But the Jews which believeth not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar.
Acts of the Apostles 17:5.
- 46 These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also.
Acts of the Apostles 17:6.
- 47 What will this babbler say?
Acts of the Apostles 17:18.
- 48 Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.
Acts of the Apostles 17:22–3.
- 49 God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands.
Acts of the Apostles 17:24.
- 50 For in him we live, and move and have our being.
Acts of the Apostles 17:28.
- 51 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent.
Acts of the Apostles 17:30.
- 52 Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.
Acts of the Apostles 19:2.
- 53 It is more blessed to give than to receive.
Acts of the Apostles 20:35.
- 54 I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city.
Acts of the Apostles 21:39.
- 55 The chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, But I was free born.
Acts of the Apostles 22:27–8.
- 56 Paul, thou art beside thyself; much learning doth make thee mad.
Acts of the Apostles 26:24.
- 57 Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.
Acts of the Apostles 26:28.
- 58 The just shall live by faith.
Romans 1:17.

- 59 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator.
Romans 1:25.
- 60 For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves.
Romans 2:14.
- 61 God forbid: yea, let God be true, but every man a liar.
Romans 3:4.
- 62 For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God.
Romans 3:23.
- 63 Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is, there is no transgression.
Romans 4:15.
- 64 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations.
Romans 4:18.
- 65 While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.
Romans 5:8.
- 66 Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound.
Romans 5:20.
- 67 What shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin, that grace may abound? God forbid. How shall we, that are dead to sin, live any longer therein?
Romans 6:1–2.
- 68 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.
Romans 6:9.
- 69 For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.
Romans 6:23.
- 70 To will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not. For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.
Romans 7:19.
- 71 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?
Romans 7:24.
- 72 There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.
Romans 8:1.
- 73 For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace.
Romans 8:5–6.
- 74 For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.
Romans 8:15–17.
- 75 For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.
Romans 8:22.
- 76 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.
Romans 8:28.
- 77 If God be for us, who can be against us?
Romans 8:31.
- 78 I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.
Romans 8:38–9.
- 79 Nay but, O man, who art thou that repliest against God? Shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus? Hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?
Romans 9:20–1.
- 80 I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.
Romans 12:1.
- 81 Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord.
Romans 12:11.
- 82 Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.
Romans 12:15.
- 83 Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits. Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.
Romans 12:16–19.
- 84 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.
Romans 12:21.
- 85 Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God.
Romans 13:1.
- 86 Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour. Owe no man any thing, but to love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.
Romans 13:7–8.
- 87 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.
Romans 13:10.
- 88 Doubtful disputations.
Romans 14:1.
- 89 Whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.
Romans 14:8.
- 90 Salute one another with an holy kiss.
Romans 16:16.
- 91 For after that in the wisdom of God the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.
1 Corinthians 1:21.

- 92 But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty.
1 Corinthians 1:27.
- 93 I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase.
1 Corinthians 3:6.
- 94 We are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.
1 Corinthians 4:9.
- 95 What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?
1 Corinthians 6:19.
- 96 It is better to marry than to burn.
1 Corinthians 7:9.
- 97 For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife.
1 Corinthians 7:14.
- 98 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.
1 Corinthians 7:33.
- 99 I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.
1 Corinthians 9:22.
- 1 Know ye not that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run, that ye may obtain.
1 Corinthians 9:24.
- 2 Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.
1 Corinthians 10:12.
- 3 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.
1 Corinthians 10:23.
- 4 For the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.
1 Corinthians 10:26.
- 5 If a man have long hair, it is a shame unto him. But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her: for her hair is given her for a covering.
1 Corinthians 11:15.
- 6 The Lord Jesus the same night in which he was betrayed took bread: And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat: this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come.
1 Corinthians 11:23–6.
- 7 No man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.
1 Corinthians 12:3.
- 8 Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God which worketh all in all.
1 Corinthians 12:4–6.
- 9 Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known. And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.
1 Corinthians 13:1–13.
- 10 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?
1 Corinthians 14:8.
- 11 Let all things be done decently and in order.
1 Corinthians 14:40.
- 12 And last of all he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time. For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. But by the grace of God I am what I am.
1 Corinthians 15:8–9.
- 13 If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.
1 Corinthians 15:19.
- 14 But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.
1 Corinthians 15:20–2.
- 15 He must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.
1 Corinthians 15:26.
- 16 What advantageth it me, if the dead rise not? let us eat and drink; for tomorrow we die.
1 Corinthians 15:32.
► See Parker 638:61.
- 17 Evil communications corrupt good manners.
1 Corinthians 15:33.
- 18 The first man is of the earth, earthy.
1 Corinthians 15:47.
- 19 Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and

- the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.
1 Corinthians 15:51–2.
- 20 O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?
1 Corinthians 15:55.
- 21 Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.
1 Corinthians 16:13.
- 22 Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God; Who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament; not of the letter, but of the spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.
2 Corinthians 3:5–6.
- 23 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels.
2 Corinthians 4:7.
- 24 We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair.
2 Corinthians 4:8.
- 25 For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.
2 Corinthians 5:1.
- 26 For we walk by faith, not by sight.
2 Corinthians 5:7.
- 27 Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.
2 Corinthians 5:17.
- 28 Now then we are ambassadors for Christ.
2 Corinthians 5:20.
- 29 For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.
2 Corinthians 6:2.
- 30 As unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and, behold, we live; as chastened, and not killed; As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.
2 Corinthians 6:9–10.
- 31 So let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver.
2 Corinthians 9:7.
- 32 For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise.
2 Corinthians 11:19.
- 33 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me.
2 Corinthians 12:7.
- 34 My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness.
2 Corinthians 12:9.
- 35 They gave to me and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship.
Galatians 2:9.
- 36 There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.
Galatians 3:28.
- 37 Ye are fallen from grace.
Galatians 5:4.
- 38 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.
Galatians 5:22–3.
- 39 Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.
Galatians 6:7.
- 40 Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.
Galatians 6:9.
- 41 See what a large letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.
Galatians 6:11.
- 42 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.
Ephesians 2:17.
- 43 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God.
Ephesians 2:19.
- 44 Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.
Ephesians 3:8.
- 45 That he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man; That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God.
Ephesians 3:16–19.
- 46 Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.
Ephesians 3:20–1.
- 47 Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another. Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath.
Ephesians 4:25–6.
- 48 Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.
Ephesians 5:16.
- 49 Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit.
Ephesians 5:18.
- 50 Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath.
Ephesians 6:4.
- 51 Not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart; With good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men.
Ephesians 6:6–7.
- 52 Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not - against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. Ephesians 6:11–17.

- 53 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. Philippians 1:21.
- 54 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God: But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name: That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father. Philippians 2:5–11.
- 55 Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. Philippians 2:12.
- 56 Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law, a Pharisee. Paul lists his religious credentials. Philippians 3:5
- 57 But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ. Philippians 3:7.
- 58 Forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Philippians 3:13–14.
- 59 Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things. Philippians 3:19.
- 60 Rejoice in the Lord alway: and again I say, Rejoice. Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand. Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus. Philippians 4:4–7.
- 61 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. Philippians 4:8.
- 62 I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content. Philippians 4:11.
- 63 I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me. Philippians 4:13.
- 64 My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. Philippians 4:19.
- 65 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. Colossians 2:8.
- 66 Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. Colossians 3:2.
- 67 Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds; And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him: Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all. Colossians 3:9–11.
- 68 Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them. Colossians 3:19.
- 69 Let your speech be alway with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man. Colossians 4:6.
- 70 Study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you. 1 Thessalonians 4:11.
- 71 Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. 1 Thessalonians 5:21.
- 72 If any would not work, neither should he eat. 2 Thessalonians 3:10.
- 73 This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief. 1 Timothy 1:15.
- 74 If a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work. A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach; Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous. 1 Timothy 3:1–3.
- 75 But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness. 1 Timothy 4:7–8.
- 76 Let no man despise thy youth. 1 Timothy 4:12.
- 77 Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities. 1 Timothy 5:23.
- 78 For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us be therewith content. 1 Timothy 6:7–8.

- 79 For the love of money is the root of all evil.
1 Timothy 6:10.
- 80 Fight the good fight of faith.
1 Timothy 6:12.
- 81 For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.
2 Timothy 1:7.
- 82 I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.
2 Timothy 1:12.
- 83 Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me.
2 Timothy 1:13.
- 84 All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable of doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.
2 Timothy 3:16.
- 85 Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season.
2 Timothy 4:2.
- 86 I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.
2 Timothy 4:7.
- 87 The Cretans are always liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.
Titus 1:12.
- 88 Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.
Titus 1:15.
- 89 God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom he also made the worlds: Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high.
Hebrews 1:1–3.
- 90 For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit.
Hebrews 4:12.
- 91 Ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat.
Hebrews 5:12.
- 92 Without shedding of blood is no remission.
Hebrews 9:22.
- 93 It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment.
Hebrews 9:27.
- 94 It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.
Hebrews 10:31.
- 95 Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.
Hebrews 11:1.
- 96 These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.
Hebrews 11:13.
- 97 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city.
Hebrews 11:16.
- 98 Of whom the world was not worthy.
Hebrews 11:38.
- 99 Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, Looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.
Hebrews 12:1–2.
- 1 For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth.
Hebrews 12:6.
- 2 For our God is a consuming fire.
Hebrews 12:29.
- 3 Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.
Hebrews 13:1–2.
- 4 Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever.
Hebrews 13:8.
- 5 He that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed. For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord. A double minded man is unstable in all his ways.
James 1:7–8.
- 6 Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.
James 1:17.
- 7 Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass: For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.
James 1:22–4.
- 8 If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.
James 1:26.
- 9 Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.
James 1:27.
- 10 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.
James 2:19.
- 11 Faith without works is dead.
James 2:20.
- 12 Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!
James 3:5.
- 13 And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole

- body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.
James 3:6.
- 14 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be. Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?
James 3:10–11.
- 15 Submit yourselves therefore to God, Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you.
James 4:7–8.
- 16 What is your life? It is even a vapour, that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away. For that ye ought to say, If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that.
James 4:14–15.
- 17 Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge standeth before the door.
James 5:9.
- 18 Swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea be yea; and your nay, nay.
James 5:12.
- 19 The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.
James 5:16.
- 20 He which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.
James 5:20.
- 21 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ.
1 Peter 1:13.
- 22 For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away.
1 Peter 1:24.
- 23 As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby: If so be you have tasted that the Lord is gracious.
1 Peter 2:2.
- 24 But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light.
1 Peter 2:9.
- 25 Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king.
1 Peter 2:17.
- 26 For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.
1 Peter 2:25.
- 27 Giving honour unto the wife, as unto the weaker vessel.
1 Peter 3:7.
- 28 And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves: for charity shall cover the multitude of sins.
1 Peter 4:8.
- 29 Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you.
1 Peter 5:6–7.
- 30 Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour.
1 Peter 5:8.
- 31 The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.
2 Peter 2:22.
- 32 One day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.
2 Peter 3:8–9.
- 33 But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night.
2 Peter 3:10–11.
- 34 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.
1 John 1:8–9.
- 35 If any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous.
1 John 2:1.
- 36 Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God.
1 John 3:1.
- 37 But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?
1 John 3:17.
- 38 Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love.
1 John 4:7–8.
- 39 Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.
1 John 4:10.
- 40 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear.
1 John 4:18.
- 41 If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?
1 John 4:20.
- 42 John to the seven churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come.
Revelation 1:4.
- 43 Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.
Revelation 1:7.
- 44 I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest, write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia.
Revelation 1:10–11.
- 45 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with golden girdle. His head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as

- snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire; And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and his voice as the sound of many waters. And he had in his right hand seven stars: and out of his mouth went a sharp two-edged sword: and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength. And when I saw him, I fell as his feet as dead.
Revelation 1:13–17.
- 46 I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.
Revelation 1:18.
- 47 I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.
Revelation 2:4.
- 48 Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.
Revelation 2:10.
- 49 And he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers.
Revelation 2:27.
- 50 Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.
Revelation 3:8.
- 51 I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So then because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spew thee out of my mouth.
Revelation 3:15–16.
- 52 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.
Revelation 3:20.
- 53 And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal: and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts full of eyes before and behind.
Revelation 4:6–7.
- 54 And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within: and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.
Revelation 4:8.
- 55 Cast their crowns before the throne, saying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.
Revelation 4:10–11.
- 56 Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof? And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.
Revelation 5:2–3.
- 57 And I looked, and behold a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and Hell followed with him.
Revelation 6:8.
- 58 And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?
Revelation 6:16–17.
- 59 A great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands.
Revelation 7:9.
- 60 These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.
Revelation 7:14–17.
- 61 And when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.
Revelation 8:1.
- 62 I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit.
Revelation 9:1.
- 63 And there were stings in their tails.
Revelation 9:10.
- 64 I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter.
Revelation 10:9–10.
- 65 And there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars.
Revelation 12:1.
- 66 And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven. And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.
Revelation 12:7–9.
- 67 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.
Revelation 13:17–18.
- 68 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.
Revelation 14:11.
- 69 Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.
Revelation 14:13.
- 70 And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire.
Revelation 15:2.

71 Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame. And he gathereth them together into a place called in the Hebrew tongue Armageddon.
Revelation 16:15–16.

72 Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters.
Revelation 17:1.

73 And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.
Revelation 17:5.

74 And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.
Revelation 18:21.

75 And I saw heaven opened, and behold a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True, and in righteousness he doth judge and make war.
Revelation 19:11.

76 And he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.
Revelation 19:16.

77 And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years, And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.
Revelation 20:2–3.

78 And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away; and there was found no place for them. And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened: and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works. And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire.
Revelation 20:11–14.

79 And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea. And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.
Revelation 21:1–2.

80 And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away. And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful.
Revelation 21:4–5.

81 I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.
Revelation 21:6.

82 And the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

Revelation 21:21.

83 And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night there.
Revelation 21:25.

84 And he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.
Revelation 22:1–2.

85 He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.
Revelation 22:20–1.

Bible (Vulgate)

A 4c translation of the Bible into Latin, commissioned by Pope Damasus and undertaken by Jerome (382–405). It became known as the versio vulgata, the 'common translation', and is still an official text of the Roman Catholic Church. The quotations given here are those that are well known in their Latin form.

86 Dominus illuminatio mea, et salus mea, quem timebo?
The Lord is the source of my light and my safety, so whom shall I fear?
Psalm 26:1.

87 Asperges me hyssopo, et mundabor; lavabis me, et super nivem dealbabor.
You will sprinkle me with hyssop, and I shall be made clean; you will wash me and I shall be made whiter than snow.
Psalm 50:9 (Psalm 51:7 Authorized Version).

88 Cantate Domino canticum novum, quia mirabilia fecit.
Sing to the Lord a new song, because he has done marvellous things.
Psalm 97:1 (Psalm 98:1 Authorized Version).
► See Book of Common Prayer 143:46.

89 Jubilat Deo, omnis terra; servite Domino in laetitia.
Sing joyfully to God, all the earth; serve the Lord with gladness.
Psalm 99:2 (Psalm 100:2 Authorized Version).
► See Book of Common Prayer 143:66.

90 Beatus vir qui timet Dominum, in mandatis ejus volet nimis!
Happy is the man who fears the Lord, who is only too willing to follow his orders.
Psalm 111:1 (Psalm 112:1 Authorized Version).

91 Non nobis, Domine, non nobis; sed nomini tuo da gloriam.
Not unto us, Lord, not unto us; but to thy name give glory.
Psalm 113 (2nd part):1 (Psalm 115:1 Authorized Version).

92 Laudate Dominum, omnes gentes; laudate eum, omnes populi.
Praise the Lord, all nations; praise him, all people.
Psalm 116:1 (Psalm 117:1 Authorized Version).

93 Nisi Dominus aedificaverit domum, in vanum laboraverunt qui aedificant eam.
Nisi Dominus custodierit civitatem, frustra vigilat qui custodit eam.

- Unless the Lord has built the house, its builders have laboured in vain. Unless the Lord guards the city, the watchman watches in vain.
Psalm 126:1 (Psalm 127:1 Authorized Version).
- 94 De profundis clamavi ad te, Domine; Domine exaudi vocem meam.
Up from the depths I have cried to thee, Lord; Lord, hear my voice.
Psalm 129:1 (Psalm 130:1 Authorized Version).
- 95 Vanitas vanitatum, dixit Ecclesiastes; vanitas vanitatum, et omnia vanitas.
Vanity of vanities, said the preacher; vanity of vanities, and everything is vanity.
Ecclesiastes 1:2.
► See Bible (Old Testament) 100:65.
- 96 Rorate, coeli, desuper, et nubes pluant justum; aperiatur terra, et germinet Salvatorem.
Drop down dew, heavens, from above, and let the clouds rain down righteousness; let the earth be opened, and a saviour spring to life.
Isaiah 45:8.
- 97 Benedicite, omnia opera Domini, Domino; laudate et superexaltate eum in secula.
Bless the Lord, all the works of the Lord; praise him and exalt him above all things for ever.
Daniel 3:57.
- 98 Magnificat anima mea Dominum; et exultavit spiritus meus in Deo salvatore meo.
My soul doth magnify the Lord: and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.
St Luke 1:46.
► See Bible (New Testament) 115:23.
- 99 Esurientes implevit bonis, et divites dimisit inanes.
He hath filled the hungry with good things: and the rich he hath sent empty away.
St Luke 1:53.
► See Bible (New Testament) 115:23.
- 1 Nunc dimittis servum tuum, Domine, secundum verbum tuum in pace.
Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace: according to thy word.
St Luke 2:29.
► See Bible (New Testament) 115:27.
- 2 Pax Vobis.
Peace be unto you.
St Luke 24:36.
- 3 Quo vadis?
Where are you going?
St John 16:5.
- 4 Ecce homo.
Behold the man.
St John 19:5.
- 5 Noli me tangere.
Do not touch me.
St John 20:17.
► See Bible (New Testament) 118:23.

Binyon, (Robert) Laurence 1869–1943

English poet and art critic. He worked at the British Museum (1913–33) and was Norton Professor of Poetry at Harvard (1933–4). He is best remembered for his patriotic elegy 'For the Fallen', which Elgar set to music.

51 With proud thanksgiving, a mother for her children, England mourns for her dead across the sea.

Flesh of her flesh they were, spirit of her spirit,
Fallen in the cause of the free.

1914 'For the Fallen', in The Times, 21 Sep.

52 They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.

At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.

1914 'For the Fallen', in The Times, 21 Sep.

53 Now is the time for the burning of the leaves.

1942 'The Burning of the Leaves'.

54 Rootless hope and fruitless desire are there;
Let them go to the fire, with never a look behind.

The world that was ours is a world that is ours no more.

1942 'The Burning of the Leaves'.

55 Earth cares for her own ruins, naught for ours.

Nothing is certain, only the certain spring.

1942 'The Burning of the Leaves'.

Bioy Casares, Adolfo 1914–99

Argentinian fiction writer, known for his lifelong association with Jorge Luis Borges, with whom he published several anthologies and works of fiction. His own writings are examples of fantastic literature.

56 La eternidad rotativa puede parecer atroz al espectador; es satisfactoria para sus individuos. Libres de malas noticias y de enfermedades, viven siempre como si fuera la primera vez, sin recordar las anteriores.

A circular eternity may seem atrocious to the spectator, but it is satisfactory to individuals inside. Free from bad news and disease, they always live as if it were the first time, and do not remember previous times.

1940 La invención de Morel (The Invention of Morel, 1964).

Bird, Isabella married name Isabella Bishop 1831–1904

English traveller. She travelled and climbed in Australasia, America and the East; then returned to England to marry. When her husband died in 1886, she set off for Tibet and in 1890 travelled between Persia and the Black Sea. In 1894–7 she again visited the Far East, founding hospitals and orphanages, and her last journey was to Africa.

57 A man who any woman might love, but who no sane woman would marry.

1879 Of Rocky Mountain Jim, her guide on her travels on horseback through the Rockies. A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains.

58 One eye was entirely gone, and the loss made one side of the face repulsive, while the other might have been modelled in marble. 'Desperado' was written in large letters all over him. I almost repented of having sought his acquaintance.

1879 Of Rocky Mountain Jim, her guide on her travels on horseback through the Rockies. A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains.

59 I am well as long as I live on horseback...sleep out-of-doors, or in a log cabin, and lead in all respects a completely unconventional life. But each time for a few days...I have become civilised, I have found myself rapidly going down again.

1879 A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains.

60 Japan offers as much novelty perhaps as an excursion to another planet.

1880 Unbeaten Tracks in Japan: An Account of Travels on Horseback in the Interior 1880 (published 1885).

61 Appropriating the fruits of Christian civilisation, but rejecting the tree from which they spring.

1880 Unbeaten Tracks in Japan: An Account of Travels on Horseback in the Interior 1880 (published 1885).

62 It is singular that the Japanese, who rarely commit a solecism in taste in their national costume, architecture, or decorative art, seem to be perfectly destitute of perception when they borrow ours.

Birkenhead, F(rederick) E(dwin) Smith, 1st Earl of 1872–1930

English Conservative politician and lawyer, a brilliant orator. In the Irish crisis (1914) he opposed Home Rule, but helped to negotiate the Settlement of 1921. He resigned after criticism over his conduct as Secretary of State for India (1924–8) to pursue commerce.

63 The world continues to offer glittering prizes to those who have stout hearts and stout swords.

1923 Rectorial address, Glasgow University, 7 Nov.

64 We have the highest authority for believing that the meek shall inherit the Earth; though I have never found any particular corroboration of this aphorism in the records of Somerset House.

1924 Contemporary Personalities, 'Marquess Curzon'.

65 As a matter of fact, we both are, and the only difference between us is that I am trying to be, and you can't help it.

In response to a judge's observation that Smith was being 'extremely offensive'. Quoted in 2nd Earl of Birkenhead Frederick Edwin Earl of Birkenhead (1933), vol.1, ch.9.

66 It is not for me, Your Honour, to attempt to fathom the inscrutable workings of Providence.

In reply to a judge's testy inquiry 'What do you suppose I am on the Bench for, Mr Smith?'. Quoted in 2nd Earl of Birkenhead F. E.: The Life of F. E. Smith, First Earl of Birkenhead (1959), ch.9.

67 Possibly not, My Lord, but far better informed.

In reply to a judge who had complained 'I have read your case, Mr Smith, and I am no wiser now than I was when I started'.
Quoted in 2nd Earl of Birkenhead F. E.: The Life of F. E. Smith, First Earl of Birkenhead (1959), ch.9.

68 I do not deal with subtleties; I am only a lawyer.

Quoted in Richard Fountain The Wit of the Wig (1968).

69 He has devoted the best years of his life to preparing his impromptu speeches.

Bismarck, Otto Edward Leopold, Fürst von (Prince of) 1815–98

Prussian statesman, Prime Minister of Prussia. He expanded territory at the expense of Denmark and Austria, forming a new German Empire of which he was Chancellor (1871–90) until he resigned, disapproving of the policies of the new Kaiser, Wilhelm II.

83 The great questions of our day cannot be solved by speeches and majority votes but by iron and blood.
1862 Speech to the Prussian Chamber, 30 Sep. He later altered the concluding words to the more commonly quoted 'blood and iron'.

84 Politics is not an exact science.
1863 Speech to the Prussian Chamber, 18 Dec.

85 Anyone who has ever looked into the glazed eyes of a soldier dying on the battlefield will think hard before starting a war.
1867 Speech, Berlin, Aug.

86 If we are to negotiate, I envisage that we shall play an essentially modest role; that of an honest broker who really intends to do business.
1878 Speech to the Reichstag, 19 Feb, on preventing war in Europe.

87 If there is ever another war in Europe, it will come out of some damned silly thing in the Balkans.
1898 Attributed deathbed remark. Quoted in the House of Commons, 16 Aug 1945.

88 My map of Africa lies in Europe. Here lies Russia and here lies France, and we are in the middle. That is my map of Africa.
Remarking on his preoccupation with European, as opposed to colonial, territorial concerns. Quoted in A. J. P. Taylor The Struggle for Mastery in Europe 1848–1918 (1954), p.294.

- 21 Whether on Ida's shady brow,
Or in the chambers of the East,
The chambers of the sun that now
From ancient melody have ceased.

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To The Muses'.

- 22 How have you left the ancient love
That bards of old enjoyed in you!
The sound is forced, the notes are few!

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To The Muses'.

- 23 The hills tell each other, and the listening
Valleys hear; all our longing eyes are turned
Up to thy holy feet visit our clime.
Come o'er the eastern hills and let our winds
Kiss thy perfumed garments; let us taste
Thy morn and evening breath. Scatter thy pearls
Upon our love-sick land that mourns for thee.

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To Spring'.

- 24 O thou who passest through our valleys in Thy strength, curb thy fierce steeds, ally the heat
That flames from their large nostrils! thou, O Summer,
Beneath our oaks hast slept while we beheld
With joy thy ruddy limbs and flourishing hair.

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To Summer'.

- 25 O Autumn, laden with fruit, and stained
With the blood of grape, pass not, but sit
Beneath my shady roof; there thou may'st rest,
And tune thy jolly voice to my fresh pipe,
And all the daughters of the year shall dance!
Sing now the lusty song of fruits and flowers.

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To Autumn'.

- 26 O Winter! bar thine adamantine doors.
The north is thine—there hast thou built thy dark
Deep-founded habitation. Shake not thy roofs,
Nor bend thy pillars with thine iron car.

1783 Poetical Sketches, 'To Winter'.

- 27 Does the eagle know what's in the pit
Or wilt thou go ask the mole?
Can wisdom be put in a silver rod,
Or Love in a golden bowl.

1789 Thel's Motto. The Book of Thel.

- 28 Piping down the valleys wild,
Piping songs of pleasant glee,
On a cloud I saw a child,
And he laughing said to me,
'Pipe a song about a lamb!
So I piped with merry cheer.
'Piper, pipe that song again!
So I piped. He wept to hear.

1789 Songs of Innocence, 'Introduction'.

- 29 Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee?
Gave thee life and bid thee feed?
By the stream and o'er the mead;
Gave thee clothing of delight,
Softest clothing, woolly, bright;
Gave thee such a tender voice,
Making all the vales rejoice?

- Little lamb, who made thee?
Dost thou know who made thee?
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Lamb'.
- 30 My mother bore me in the southern wild,
And I am black, but O! my soul is white;
White as an angel is the English child,
But I am black as if bereaved of light.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Little Black Boy'.
- 31 For Mercy has a human heart
Pity a human face:
And Love, the human form divine,
And Peace, the human dress.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Divine Image'.
- 32 And all must love the human form,
In heathen, Turk or Jew;
Where mercy, Love and Pity dwell
There God is dwelling too.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Divine Image'.
- 33 When my mother died I was very young,
And my father sold me while yet my tongue
Could scarcely cry weep weep weep weep.
So your chimneys I sweep, and in soot I sleep.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Chimney Sweep'.
- 34 'Father! father! where are you going?
O do not walk so fast.
Speak, father, speak to your little boy,
Or else I shall be lost.'
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Little Boy Lost'.
- 35 He kissed the hand and by the hand led
And to his mother brought,
Who in sorrow pale, through the lonely dale,
Her little boy weeping sought.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'The Little Boy Found'.
- 36 Then cherish pity, lest you drive an angel from your door.
1789 Songs of Innocence, 'Holy Thursday'.
- 37 Without contraries is no progression. Attraction and repulsion, reason and energy, love and hate, are necessary to human existence.

Love that never told can be;
For the gentle wind does move
Silently, invisibly.
1793 MS Notebooks, p.115.
- 50 Hear the voice of the Bard!
Who present, past and future sees.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'Introduction'.
- 51 Love seeketh not itself to please,
Nor for itself hath any care,
But for another gives its ease,
And builds a heaven in hell's despair.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Clod and the Pebble'.
- 52 Love seeketh only self to please,
To bind another to its delight,
Joys in another's loss of ease
And builds a hell in heaven's despite.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Clod and the Pebble'.
- 53 Ah, sunflower, weary of time,
Who countest the steps of the sun,
Seeking after that sweet golden clime
Where the traveller's journey is done;
Where the youth pined away with desire
And the pale virgin shrouded in snow
Arise from their graves, and aspire
Where my sunflower wishes to go.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'Ah! Sunflower'.
- 54 O rose, thou art sick!
The invisible worm
That flies in the night,
In the howling storm,
Has found out thy bed
Of crimson joy,
And his dark secret love
Does thy life destroy.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Sick Rose'.
- 55 Is this a holy thing to see
In a rich fruitful land,
Babes reduced to misery,
Fed with cold and usurous hand?
1794 Songs of Experience, 'Holy Thursday'.
- 56 I went to the Garden of Love,
And saw what I never had seen:
A chapel was built in the midst
Where I used to play on the green.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Garden of Love'.
- 57 And I saw it was filled with graves,

- And tomb-stones where flowers should be;
And priests in black gowns were walking their rounds,
And blinding with briars my joys and desires.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Garden of Love'.
- 58 I wander through each charter'd street,
Near where the charter'd Thames does flow,
And mark in every face I meet
Marks of weakness, marks of woe.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'London'.
- 59 I was angry with my friend:
I told my wrath, my wrath did end.
I was angry with my foe:
I told it not, my wrath did grow.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'A Poison Tree'.
- 60 My mother groaned! my father wept.
Into the dangerous world I leapt,
Helpless, naked, piping loud
Like a fiend hid in a cloud.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'Infant Sorrow'.
- 61 Tyger! Tyger! burning bright
In the forests of the night,
What immortal hand or eye
Could frame thy fearful symmetry?
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Tyger'.
- 62 When the stars threw down their spears,
And watered heaven with their tears,
Did he smile his work to see?
Did he who made the Lamb make thee?
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Tyger'.
- 63 Dear Mother, dear Mother, the Church is cold,
But the Ale-house is healthy and pleasant and warm.
1794 Songs of Experience, 'The Little Vagabond'.
- 64 Mock on, mock on, Voltaire Rousseau;
Mock on, mock on, 'tis all in vain!
You throw the sand against the wind,
And the wind blows it back again.
1800–3 MS Notebooks, p.7.
- 65 O why was I born with a different face?
Why was I not born like the rest of my race?
1803 Letter to Thomas Butts, 16 Aug.
- 66 To see a world in a grain of sand,
And heaven in a wild flower,
Hold infinity in the palm of your hand,
And eternity in an hour.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.1–4.
- 67 A robin red breast in a cage
Puts all Heaven in a rage.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.5–6.
- 68 Man was made for Joy and Woe,
And when this we rightly know,
Thro' the world we safely go.
Joy and Woe are woven fine,
A clothing for the soul divine.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.56–60.
- 69 The strongest poison ever known
Came from Ceasar's laurel crown.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.97–8.
- 70 The whore and gambler, by the state
Licensed build that nation's fate.
The harlot's cry from street to street
Shall weave old England's winding sheet.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.113–6
- 71 We are led to believe a Lie
When we see with, not thro' the Eye.
c.1803 Auguries of Innocence, 1.125–6
- 72 The fields from Islington to Marybone,
To Primrose Hill and Saint John's Wood,
Were builded over with pillars of gold;
And there Jerusalem's pillars stood.
c.1804–1807 Jerusalem, plate 27.
- 73 He who would do good to another man must do it in Minute Particulars.
General Good is the plea of the scoundrel, hypocrite,
and flatterer;
For Art and Science cannot exist but in minutely organized Particulars.
c.1804–1807 Jerusalem, plate 55.
- 74 I gave you the end of the golden string;
Only wind it into a ball,
It will lead you in at Heaven's gate,
Built in Jerusalem's wall.
c.1804–1807 Jerusalem, plate 77.
- 75 I care not whether a man is good or evil; all that I care
Is whether he is a wise man or a fool. Go! put off
Holiness,
And put on intellect, or my thunderous hammer shall drive thee,
To wrath which thou condemnest, till thou obey my voice.
c.1804–1807 Jerusalem, plate 91.
- 76 Painters are noted for being dissipated and wild.
c.1808 Annotations to Sir Joshua Reynolds' Discourses.
- 77 The man who never in his mind and thoughts travelled to heaven is no artist.
c.1808 Annotations to Sir Joshua Reynolds' Discourses.
- 78 What has Reasoning to do with the Art of Painting?
c.1808 Annotations to Sir Joshua Reynolds' Discourses.
- 79 Knowledge of ideal beauty is not to be acquired. It is born with us. Innate ideas are in every man, born with him; they are truly himself.
c.1808 Annotations to Sir Joshua Reynolds' Discourses.
- 80 When Sir Joshua Reynolds died
All Nature was degraded;
The King dropp'd a tear into the Queen's ear,
And all his pictures faded.
c.1808 Annotations to Sir Joshua Reynolds' Discourses.
- 81 Thy friendship oft has made my heart to ache:
Do be my enemy—for friendship's sake.
1808–11 MS Notebooks, 'To H[ayley]', p.37.
- 82 And did those feet in ancient time
Walk upon England's mountains green?
And was the holy Lamb of God
On England's pleasant pastures seen?
1809 Milton, preface. Stanza 1.
- 83 And did the Countenance Divine
Shine forth upon our clouded hills?
And was Jerusalem builded here
Among these dark Satanic mills?
1809 Milton, preface. Stanza 2.
- 84 Bring me my bow of burning gold!

Bring me my arrows of desire!
Bring me my spear! O clouds, unfold!
Bring me my chariot of fire!
1809 Milton, preface. Stanza 3.

- 85 I will not cease from mental fight,
Nor shall my sword sleep in my hand,
Till we have built Jerusalem
In England's green and pleasant land.
1809 Milton, preface. Stanza 4.

- 86 God appears and God is light
To those poor souls who dwell in night,
But does a human form display
To those who dwell in realms of day.
1809 Milton, 'And Did Those Feet In Ancient Time'.

Blanch, Lesley 1904–

English biographer, traveller and cookery writer.

- 87 She was an Amazon. Her whole life was spent riding at breakneck speed towards the wilder shores of love.
1954 The Wilder Shores of Love, pt.2, ch.1.

Blanchflower, Danny (Robert Dennio) 1926–93

Northern Ireland-born footballer. He won numerous titles as captain of Tottenham Hotspur in the early 1960s and collected a total of 56 caps playing for Northern Ireland before retiring to become a noted football commentator and columnist.

- 88 We try to equalize before the others have scored.
1958 Explaining his tactics as captain of Northern Ireland.
Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).
- 89 The great fallacy is that the game is first and last about winning. It's nothing of the kind. The game is about glory.
It's about doing things in style, with a flourish, about going out and beating the other lot, not waiting for them to die of boredom.
Quoted in Hunter Davis The Glory Game (1972).

Blass, Bill (William Ralph) 1922–2002

US fashion designer.

- 90 When in doubt wear red.
1982 In news summaries, 31 Dec.

Blavatsky, Helena Petrovna 1831–91

Russian-born mystic, founder of the Theosophical Society. Her works include Isis Unveiled (1877).

- 91 'Theosophy' is the essence of all religion and of absolute truth, a drop of which only underlies every creed.
1889 The Key to Theosophy.
- 92 Theosophy, on earth, is like the white ray of the spectrum, and each religion only one of the seven colours.
1889 The Key to Theosophy.

Blest Gana, Alberto 1830–1920

Chilean novelist and Ambassador to France and England. He lived in Paris until the end of his career. He pioneered the documentary social novel in Spanish American literature.

- 93 Entre nosotros el dinero ha hecho desaparecer más preocupaciones de familia que en las viejas sociedades europeas. En éstas hay lo que llaman aristocracia de dinero, que jamás alcanza con su poder... a hacer olvidar enteramente la oscuridad de la cuna, al paso que en Chile... todo va cediendo su puesto a la riqueza.

Among us, money has dissolved more worries than among ancient European societies. The latter have what they call the moneyed aristocracy, which, despite all its power, never gets to forget its humble origins; on the other hand, in Chile everything yields to wealth.

1862 Martín Rivas, ch.2 (translated 1918).

Blinder, Alan 1945–

US economist, Professor at Princeton University (1982–) and Vice Chair of the Federal Reserve System Board (1994–6).

- 94 Economists have the least influence on policy where they know the most and are most agreed... the most influence on policy where they know the least and disagree most.

1987 Hard Heads, Soft Hearts.

- 95 If you try to give an on-the-one-hand-or-the-other-hand answer, only one of the hands tends to get quoted.
1995 On economic forecasting. In the Wall Street Journal, 23 Jun.

Blix, Hans 1928–

Swedish diplomat. He was appointed Executive Chairman of the UN Monitoring, Verification and Inspection Commission for Iraq in 2000.

- 97 We have not found any smoking guns.
2003 Of weapons inspections in Iraq. To reporters, 9 Jan.
- 98 Iraq appears not to have come to a genuine acceptance—not even today—of the disarmament which was demanded of it and which it needs to carry out to win the confidence of the world and to live in peace.
2003 Security Council update on weapons inspections in Iraq, 27 Jan.
- 99 These reports do not contend that weapons of mass destruction remain in Iraq, but nor do they exclude that possibility. They point to lack of evidence and inconsistencies, which raise question marks, which must be straightened out, if weapons dossiers are to be closed and confidence is to arise.
2003 Security Council update on weapons inspections in Iraq, 27 Jan.

Blixen, Karen, Baroness pseudonym Isak Dinesen 1885–1962

Danish novelist and story teller. Her book Out of Africa (1938) is set on the Kenyan coffee plantation she managed with her husband (also cousin) Baron Bror Blixen. She was divorced in 1921, and returned to Denmark in 1931.

1 What is man, when you come to think upon him, but a minutely set, ingenious machine for turning, with infinite artfulness, the red wine of Shiraz into urine?

1934 Seven Gothic Tales, 'The Dreamers'.

2 The true aristocracy and the true proletariat of the world are both in understanding with tragedy. To them it is the fundamental principle of God, and the key, the minor key, to existence. They differ in this way from the bourgeoisie of all classes, who deny tragedy, who will not tolerate it, and to whom the word tragedy means in itself unpleasantness.

1937 Out of Africa, pt.5, ch.1.

Bloom, Allan 1930–92

US writer and educator, Professor of Political Science at the University of Chicago. His best-known work is The Closing of the American Mind (1987).

3 The liberally educated person is one who is able to resist the easy and preferred answers, not because he is obstinate but because he knows others worthy of consideration.

1987 The Closing of the American Mind, preface.

4 Education is the taming or demonstration of the soul's raw passions—not suppressing them or exciting them, which would deprive the soul of its energy—but forming and informing them as art.

1987 The Closing of the American Mind.

Bloom, André Borisovich, Anthony, Metropolitan of Sourozh 1914–2003

Russian churchman and writer, Head of the Russian Orthodox Church in Great Britain and Ireland.

5 It is not the constant thought of their sins, but the vision of the holiness of God that makes the saints aware of their own sinfulness.

1966 Living Prayer.

6 A miracle is not the breaking of the laws of the fallen world. It is the re-establishment of the laws of the kingdom.

1966 Living Prayer.

Bloom, Harold 1930–

US literary critic and writer, Professor of English (1965–77) and Humanities (1974–) at Yale. His many works include The Breaking of the Vessels (1981).

9 All things they have in common, being so poor,

And their one fear, Death's shadow at the door.

Each sundown makes them mournful, each sunrise

Brings back the brightness in their failing eyes.

1920 'Almswomen'.

10 And night this toppling reed, still as the dead

The great pike lies, the murderous patriarch,

Watching the water-pit shelving and dark

Where through the plash his lithe bright vassals tread.

1920 'The Pike'.

11 Unrecorded, unrenowned,

Men from whom my ways begin,

Here I know you by your ground

But I know you not within—

There is silence, there survives

Not a moment of your lives.

1922 'Forefathers'.

12 Then is not death at watch

Within those secret waters?

What wants he but to catch

Earth's heedless sons and daughters?

1925 'The Midnight Skaters'.

13 Dance on this ball-floor thin and wan,

Use him as though you love him;

Court him, elude him, reel and pass,

And let him hate you through the glass.

1925 'The Midnight Skaters'.

14 Cuinchy... was a slaughter yard... Who that had been there for but a few hours could ever forget the sullen sorcery and mad lineaments of Cuinchy?

1928 Undertones of War; 'I.V. The Sudden Depths'. Cuinchy, near Arras, was the scene of heavy fighting in 1914.

15 This was my country and it may be yet,

But something flew between me and the sun.

1928 'The Resignation'.

16 I have been young, and now am not too old;

And I have seen the righteous forsaken,

His health, his honour and his quality taken.

This is not what we were formerly told.

1929 'Report On Experience'.

17 Mastery in poetry consists largely in the instinct for not ruining or smothering or tinkering with moments of vision.

1930 'Leigh Hunt'.

18 I am for the woods against the world,

But are the woods for me?

1931 'The Kiss'.

19 Cricket to us was more than play,

It was a worship in the summer sun.

'Pride of the Village'. Quoted in Alan Ross (ed) The Penguin Cricketer's Companion (1978).

Blunkett, David 1947–

English Labour politician. Blind from birth, he has been MP for Sheffield (Brightside) since 1987 and Home Secretary since 2001.

20 Let me say this very slowly indeed. Watch my lips: no selection by examination or interview under a Labour Government.

1995 Speech at the Labour Party Conference, 5 Oct.

21 They should go back home and re-create their countries which we have freed from tyranny, whether it be Kosovo or now Afghanistan. I have no sympathy whatsoever with young men in their twenties who do not get back home and rebuild their countries.

2002 On asylum seekers, 18 Sep.

22 I haven't given up on the idea that we're going to nail this individual.

2004 On the convicted football hooligan Garry Mann, who escaped his sentence when he was repatriated from Portugal before the paperwork was complete, 20 Jun.

Blythe, Ronald George 1922–

English writer. He is best known for his book Akenfield (1963), a portrait of an English village told in interviews with linking commentary.

23 As for the British churchman, he goes to church as he goes to the bathroom, with the minimum of fuss and with no explanation if he can help it.

1963 The Age of Illusion, ch.12.

24 An industrial worker would sooner have a £5 note but a countryman must have praise.

1969 Akenfield, ch.5.

25 Suffolk used to worship Sunday, not God.

1969 Akenfield, ch.6.

26 One of the reasons why old people make so many journeys into the past is to satisfy themselves that it is still there.

1979 The View in Winter, introduction.

Boccioni, Umberto 1882–1916

Italian artist, futurist painter and sculptor. A key figure in the drafting of the Futurist Manifesto (1910), he later turned to sculpture, attempting to convey motion and light in three-dimensional form.

27 It is necessary to destroy the pretended nobility, entirely literary and traditional, of marble and bronze... The sculptor can use twenty different materials, or even more, in a single work, provided that the plastic emotion requires it.

1912 In the Technical Manifesto of Futurist Sculpture (11 Apr, Milan).

Bodenheim, Maxwell 1892–1954

US writer and critic.

28 Poetry is the impish attempt to paint the color of the wind.

Quoted in Ben Hecht's play Winkelberg (1958).

29 Nam in omni adversitate fortunae infelicissimum est genus infortunii, fuisse felicem.

In all adversity of fortune, the most wretched kind is once to have been happy.

523 De consolatione philosophiae, bk.2, pt.4 (translated by V E Watts).

Bogan, Louise 1897–1970

US poet and critic, poetry editor of the New Yorker for many years. Her work is intense and deeply personal.

30 Women have no wideness in them

They are provident instead,
Content in the tight hot cell of their hearts
To eat dusty bread.

1923 'Women'.

31 But childhood prolonged cannot remain a fairy-land. It becomes a hell.

1940 On Katherine Mansfield. 'Childhood's False Eden'.

40 In Scotland, land of the omnipotent No.

1969 'A Memory of Death'.

41 That which once united man

Now drives him apart. We are not helpless
Creatures crashing onwards irresistibly to doom.
There is time for everything and time to choose
For everything. We are that time, that choice.
Everybody gets what he deserves.

1969 'June 1967 at Buchenwald'.

42 The poet lives as long as his lines are imprinted on the minds of his readers.

1989 MacDiarmid, epilogue.

1986 Line delivered by Ray Mc Anally as Cardinal Altamirano in The Mission.

Bonavia, David 1940–88

British journalist and Editor of the Far East Economic Review. His main field of interest was China.

51 Their civilization is based on the most forthrightly materialistic value system in the history of mankind.

If they see pie in the sky, they immediately start figuring out how to get it down onto the dinner table.

1961 The Chinese.

Bond, Carrie Jacobs 1862–1946

US songwriter and lyricist.

52 When you come to the end of a perfect day,

And you sit alone with your thought,
While the chimes ring out with a carol gay
For the joy that the day has brought,
Do you think what the end of a perfect day
Can mean to a tired heart,
When the sun goes down with a flaming ray,
And the dear friends have to part?

1910 'A Perfect Day'.

Bonds, Barry Lamar 1964–

US baseball player.

53 Don't talk about him no more.

German Lutheran pastor and theologian, executed for implication in a plot against Hitler. His theology, especially his plea for 'religionless Christianity', was influential in mid- and late-20c theology.

56 The Church knows nothing of a sacredness of war. The Church which prays 'Our Father' asks God only for peace.

1932 Draft of a new Catechism with F Hildebrandt, in Gesammelte Schriften, vol.3 (1947, translated by E Robinson and J Bowden in No Rusty Sword, 1965).

57 The cross is God's truth about us, and therefore it is the only power that can make us truthful. When we know the cross we are no longer afraid of the truth.

1937 Nachfolge (translated as The Cost of Discipleship).

58 Billige Gnade ist Gnade ohne Nachfolge, Gnade ohne Kreuz, Gnade ohne den lebendigen, menschengewordenen Jesus Christus.

Cheap grace is grace without discipleship, grace without the cross, grace without Jesus Christ, living and incarnate.

1937 Nachfolge (translated as The Cost of Discipleship).

59 If religion is only a garment of Christianity—and even this garment has looked very different at different times—then what is religionless Christianity?

1944 Letter to Eberhardt Bethge, 30 Apr. Collected in Widerstand und Ergebung (1951, translated 1953).

60 Death is the supreme Festival on the road to freedom.

1945 Letter, collected in Widerstand und Ergebung (1951, translated 1953).

61 Es ist der Vorzug und das Wesen der Starken, dass sie die großen Entscheidungsfragen stellen und zu ihnen klar Stellung nehmen können. Die Schwachen müssen sich immer zwischen Alternativen entscheiden, die nicht die ihren sind.

It is the nature, and the advantage, of strong people that they can bring out the crucial questions and form a clear opinion about them. The weak always have to decide between alternatives that are not their own.

1951 Widerstand und Ergebung; 'Ein paar Gedanken über Verschiedenes' (translated 1953).

Book of Common Prayer

The idea of a new prayer book was developed initially by Thomas Cranmer during the reigns of Edward VI and Elizabeth I. The final text was published in 1662.

65 Dearly beloved brethren, the Scripture moveth us in sundry places to acknowledge and confess our manifold sins and wickedness.

Morning Prayer, Sentences of the Scriptures.

66 We have erred and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against thy holy laws.

We have left undone those things which we ought to have done. And we have done those things which we ought not to have done. And there is no health in us.

Morning Prayer, General Confession.

67 A godly, righteous, and sober life.

Morning Prayer, General Confession.

68 And forgive us our trespasses, As we forgive them that trespass against us.

Morning Prayer, the Lord's Prayer.

69 Glory be to the Father, and to the Son: and to the Holy Ghost;

As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be: world without end. Amen.

Morning Prayer, Gloria.

70 Lord God of Sabaoth.

Morning Prayer, Te Deum.

71 I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth: And in Jesus Christ his only Son our Lord, Who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, Born of the Virgin Mary, Suffered under Pontius Pilate, Was crucified, dead, and buried: He descended into hell; The third day he rose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven, And sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead. I believe in the Holy Ghost; The holy Catholick Church; The Communion of Saints; The Forgiveness of sins; The Resurrection of the body, And the life everlasting. Amen.

Morning Prayer, Apostle's Creed.

72 Give peace in our time, O Lord.

Morning Prayer, versicle.

73 The author of peace and lover of concord, in knowledge of whom standeth our eternal life, whose service is perfect freedom.

Morning Prayer, Second Collect, for Peace.

74 Neither run into any kind of danger.

Morning Prayer, Third Collect, for Grace.

75 Pour upon them the continual dew of thy blessing.

Morning Prayer, Prayer for the Clergy and People.

76 O God, from whom all holy desires, all good counsels, and all just works do proceed: Give unto thy servants that peace which the world cannot give.

Evening Prayer, Second Collect.

77 Lighten our darkness, we beseech thee, O Lord; and by thy great mercy defend us from all perils and dangers of this night.

Evening Prayer, Third Collect, for Aid against Perils.

78 Whosoever will be saved: before all things it is necessary that he hold the Catholic Faith.

Athanasian Creed.

79 And yet they are not three Gods: but one God.

Athanasian Creed.

80 O God the Father of heaven: have mercy upon us miserable sinners.

Litany.

81 From envy, hatred, and malice, and all uncharitableness, Good Lord, deliver us.

Litany.

82 All sorts and conditions of men.

Prayer for all Conditions of Men.

- 83 All who profess and call themselves Christians.
Prayer for all Conditions of Men.
- 84 We bless thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life; but above all for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ; for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory.
General Thanksgiving.
- 85 Almighty God, give us grace that we may cast away the works of darkness, and put upon us the armour of light, now in the time of this mortal life.
Collects, 1st Sunday in Advent.
- 86 Hear them, read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest them. Of all the holy Scriptures. Collects, 2nd Sunday in Advent.
- 87 Have mercy upon all Jews, Turks, Infidels, and Hereticks, and take from them all ignorance, hardness of heart, and contempt of thy word.
Collects, Good Friday.
- 88 Lord of all power and might, who art the author and giver of all good things.
Collects, 7th Sunday after Trinity.
- 89 Serve thee with a quiet mind.
Collects, 21st Sunday after Trinity.
- 90 Lord, we beseech thee to keep thy household the Church in continual godliness.
Collects, 22nd Sunday after Trinity.
- 91 The glory that shall be revealed.
Collects, St Stephen's Day.
- 92 Almighty God, unto whom all hearts be open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid: Cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love thee, and worthily magnify thy holy Name; through Christ our Lord. Amen.
Holy Communion, Collect.
- 93 For I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, and visit the sins of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, and shew mercy unto thousands in them that love me and keep my commandments.
Holy Communion, Second Commandment.
- 94 All things visible and invisible.
Holy Communion, Nicene Creed.
- 95 Very God of very God, Begotten, not made, Being of one substance with the Father, By whom all things were made: Who for us men and for our salvation came down from heaven.
Holy Communion, Nicene Creed.
- 96 And I believe in the Holy Ghost, The Lord and giver of life, Who proceedeth from the Father and Son, Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified, Who spake by the Prophets.
Holy Communion, Nicene Creed.
- 97 And I believe in one Catholick and Apostolick Church.
Holy Communion, Nicene Creed.
- 98 Let us pray for the whole state of Christ's Church militant here in earth.
Holy Communion, Introduction to Prayer for the Church militant.
- 99 Draw near with faith.
Holy Communion, Invitation.
- 1 Ye that do truly and earnestly repent you of your sins, and are in love and charity with your neighbours, and intend to lead a new life.
Holy Communion, Invitation.
- 2 We acknowledge and bewail our manifold sins and wickedness, Which we from time to time most grievously have committed, By thought, word, and deed, Against thy Divine Majesty, Provoking most justly thy wrath and indignation against us.
Holy Communion, General Confession.
- 3 Hear what comfortable words our Saviour Christ saith unto all that truly turn to him.
Holy Communion, Words of Encouragement.
- 4 It is meet and right so to do.
Holy Communion, versicles and responses.
- 5 Therefore with Angels, and Archangels, and with all the company of heaven, we laud and magnify thy glorious Name; evermore praising thee, and saying: Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts, heaven and earth are full of thy glory: Glory be to thee, O Lord most High. Amen.
Holy Communion, Praise.
- 6 A full, perfect, and sufficient sacrifice, oblation, and satisfaction, for the sins of the whole world.
Holy Communion, Prayer of Consecration.
- 7 We do not presume to come to this thy Table, O merciful Lord, trusting in our own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. We are not worthy so much as to gather up the crumbs under thy Table. But thou art the same Lord, whose property is always to have mercy: Grant us therefore, gracious Lord, so to eat the flesh of thy dear Son Jesus Christ, and to drink his blood, that our sinful bodies may be made clean by his body, and our souls washed through his most precious blood, and that we may evermore dwell in him, and he in us. Amen.
Holy Communion, Prayer of Humble Access.
- 8 The Body of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was given for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life: Take and eat this in remembrance that Christ died for thee, and feed on him in thy heart by faith with thanksgiving.
Holy Communion.
- 9 The Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which was shed for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life: Drink this in remembrance that Christ's Blood was shed for thee, and be thankful.
Holy Communion.
- 10 The peace of God, which passeth all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in the knowledge and love of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord: And the blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost, be amongst you and remain with you always. Amen.
Holy Communion, Blessing.
- 11 O merciful God, grant that the old Adam in this Child may be so buried, that the new man may be raised up in him. Amen.
Publick Baptism of Infants, Blessing.
- 12 We receive this Child into the Congregation of Christ's flock, and do sign him with the sign of the Cross, in token that hereafter he shall not be ashamed to confess the faith of Christ crucified, and manfully to fight under his banner against sin, the world, and the devil, and to - continue Christ's faithful soldier and servant unto his life's end. Amen.

Publick Baptism of Infants, Reception of the Child.
- 13 I should renounce the devil and all his works, the pomps and vanity of this wicked world, and all the sinful lusts of the flesh.
Catechism.
- 14 To keep my hands from picking and stealing, and my tongue from evil-speaking, lying, and slandering.
Catechism.
- 15 To learn and labour truly to get mine own living, and to do my duty in that state of life, unto which it shall please God to call me.
Catechism.
- 16 An outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace given unto us.
Catechism.
- 17 Children being now come to the years of discretion.
Confirmation, Preface.
- 18 If any of you know cause or just impediment, why these two persons should not be joined together in holy Matrimony, ye are to declare it. This is the first time of asking.
Solemnization of Matrimony, the Banns.
- 19 Dearly beloved, we are gathered together here in the sight of God, and in the face of this Congregation, to join together this man and this woman in holy Matrimony; which is an honourable estate, instituted of God.
Solemnization of Matrimony, Exhortation.
- 20 Therefore is not by any to be enterprized, nor taken in hand, unadvisedly, lightly, or wantonly, to satisfy men's carnal lusts and appetites, like brute beasts that have no understanding; but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly, and in the fear of God.
Solemnization of Marriage, Exhortation.
- 21 First, It was ordained for the procreation of children, to be brought up in the fear and nurture of the Lord, and to the praise of his holy Name.
Solemnization of Marriage, Exhortation.
- 22 Thirdly, It was ordained for the mutual society, help, and comfort, that the one ought to have of the other, both in prosperity and adversity. Into which holy estate these two persons present come now to be joined.
Solemnization of Marriage, Exhortation.
- 23 Therefore if any man can shew any just cause, why they may not lawfully be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter for ever hold his peace.
Solemnization of Marriage, Exhortation.
- 24 Wilt thou have this woman to thy wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of Matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honour, and keep her, in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all other, keep thee only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?
Solemnization of Marriage, Betrothal.
- 25 Wilt thou have this man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of Matrimony? Wilt thou obey him, and serve him, love, honour and keep him, in sickness and in health; and, forsaking all other, keep thee only unto him, so long as
- ye both shall live?
Solemnization of Marriage, Betrothal.
- 26 To have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health, to love and to cherish, till death us do part, according to God's holy ordinance; and thereto I plight thee my troth.
Solemnization of Marriage, Betrothal.
- 27 To love, cherish, and to obey.
Solemnization of Marriage, Betrothal. This is the bride's form of the oath.
- 28 With this ring I thee wed, with my body I thee worship, and with all my worldly goods I thee endow.
Solemnization of Marriage, Wedding.
- 29 Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder.
Solemnization of Marriage, Priest's Declaration.
- 30 Consented together in holy wedlock.
Solemnization of Marriage, Minister's Declaration.
- 31 Peace be to this house.
Visitation of the Sick.
- 32 Almighty God, the fountain of all goodness.
Morning Prayer, Prayer for the Royal Family.
- 33 Man that is born of a woman hath but a short time to live, and is full of misery.
Burial of the Dead, Anthem.
- 34 In the midst of life we are in death.
Burial of the Dead, Anthem.
- 35 We therefore commit his body to the ground; earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; in sure and certain hope of the Resurrection to eternal life, through our Lord Jesus Christ.
Burial of the Dead, Committal.
- 36 Why do the heathen so furiously rage together, and why do the people imagine a vain thing? The kings of the earth stand up, and the rulers take counsel together, against the Lord, and against his Anointed.
Psalm 2:1–2.
- 37 The Lord will abhor both the blood-thirsty and deceitful man.
Psalm 5:6.
- 38 Make thy way plain before my face.
Psalm 5:8.
- 39 Let them perish through their own imaginations.
Psalm 5:11.
- 40 Up, Lord, and let not man have the upper hand.
Psalm 9:19.
- 41 But they are all gone out of the way, they are altogether become abominable: there is none that doeth good, no not one.
Psalm 14:4.
- 42 The lot is fallen unto me in a fair ground: yea, I have a goodly heritage.
Psalm 16:7.
► See Kipling 473:53.
- 43 The heavens declare the glory of God: and the firmament sheweth his handywork. One day telleth another: and one night certifieth another. There is neither speech nor language: but their voices are heard among them. Their sound is gone out into all lands: and

- their words into the ends of the world.
Psalm 19:1–4.
- 44 Thou shalt prepare a table before me against them that trouble me: thou hast anointed my head with oil, and my cup shall be full.
Psalm 23:5.
- 45 Into thy hands I commend my spirit.
Psalm 31:6.
- 46 Sing unto the Lord a new song: sing praises lustily unto him with a good courage.
Psalm 33:3.
- 47 I myself have seen the ungodly in great power, and flourishing like a green bay-tree. I went by, and lo, he was gone: I sought him, but his place could no where be found. Keep innocency, and take heed unto the thing that is right: for that shall bring a man peace at the last.
Psalm 37:36–8.
- 48 Lord, let me know mine end, and the number of my days: that I may be certified how long I have to live.
Psalm 39:5.
- 49 My bones are smitten asunder as with a sword: while mine enemies that trouble me cast me in the teeth; Namely, while they say daily unto me: Where is now thy God?
Psalm 42:12–13.
- 50 Instead of thy fathers thou shalt have children, whom thou mayest make princes in all lands.
Psalm 45:17.
- 51 He maketh wars to cease in all the world: he breaketh the bow, and knappeth the spear in sunder, and burneth the chariots in the fire. Be still then, and know that I am God.
Psalm 46:9–10.
- 52 God is gone up with a merry noise: and the Lord with the sound of the trumpet.
Psalm 47:5.
- 53 And I said, O that I had wings like a dove: for then would I flee away, and be at rest.
Psalm 55:6.
- 54 Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful unto me, for my soul trusteth in thee: and under the shadow of thy wings shall be my refuge, until this tyranny be over-past.
Psalm 57:1.
- 55 They are as venomous as the poison of a serpent: even like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ears; Which refuseth to hear the voice of the charmer: charm he never so wisely.
Psalm 58:4–5.
- 56 They go to and fro in the evening: they grin like a dog, and run about through the city.
Psalm 59:6.
- 57 He is the God that maketh men to be of one mind in an house, and bringeth the prisoners out of captivity: but letteth the runagates continue in scarceness.
Psalm 68:6.
- 58 Why hop ye so, ye high hills? this is God's hill, in the which it pleaseth him to dwell: yea, the Lord will abide in it for ever.
Psalm 68:16.
- 59 Thou art gone up on high, thou hast led captivity captive, and received gifts for men.
Psalm 68:18.
- 60 Thy rebuke hath broken my heart; I am full of heaviness: I looked for some to have pity on me, but there was no man, neither found I any to comfort me. They gave me gall to eat: and when I was thirsty they gave me vinegar to drink.
Psalm 69:21–2.
- 61 So the Lord awaked as one out of sleep: and like a giant refreshed with wine.
Psalm 78:66.
- 62 O how amiable are thy dwellings, thou Lord of hosts!
Psalm 84:1.
- 63 Lord, thou hast been our refuge from one generation to another. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever the earth and the world were made: thou art God from everlasting, and world without end.
Psalm 90:1–2.
- 64 O come, let us sing unto the Lord; let us heartily rejoice in the strength of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving; and shew ourselves glad in him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God; and a great King above all gods. In his hand are all the corners of the earth; and the strength of the hills is his also. The sea is his, and he made it; and his hands prepared the dry land. O come, let us worship and fall down, and kneel before the Lord our Maker. For he is the Lord our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand.
Psalm 95:1–7.
- 65 Today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts: as in the provocation, and as in the day of temptation in the wilderness; When your fathers tempted me: proved me, and saw my works.
Psalm 95:8–9.
- 66 O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands: serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.
Psalm 100:1.
- 67 Whose feet they hurt in the stocks: the iron entered into his soul.
Psalm 105:18.
- 68 Their soul abhorred all manner of meat: and they were even hard at death's door.
Psalm 107:18.
- 69 Lord, I am not high-minded: I have no proud looks.
Psalm 131:1.
- 70 Such knowledge is too wonderful and excellent for me: I cannot attain unto it.
Psalm 139:5.
- 71 I will give thanks unto thee, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made: marvellous are thy works, and that my soul knoweth right well.
Psalm 139:13.
- 72 O put not your trust in princes, nor in any child of man: for there is no help in them.
Psalm 146:2.
- 73 We therefore commit his body to the deep, to be turned into corruption, looking for the resurrection of the body, (when the Sea shall give up her dead).

Bookchin, Murray pseudonym of Lewis Herber 1921–
US writer on social, ecological and environmental issues.

79 Once regarded as the herald of enlightenment in all spheres of knowledge, science is now increasingly seen as a strictly instrumental system of control. Its use as a system of manipulation and its role in restricting human freedom now parallel in every detail its use as a means of natural manipulation.

US actor, usually remembered as the assassin of President Abraham Lincoln. He was hunted down and shot several days after the killing.

80 Sic semper tyrannis! The South is avenged!
1865 Attributed, as he shot Lincoln at Ford's Theatre, Washington DC, 14 Apr. 'Sic semper tyrannis', Thus always to tyrants, is the motto of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Booth, Junius Brutus 1796–1852

English-born US actor, a leading rival of Edmund Kean in London, particularly admired as Shylock and Richard III. He continued his success after emigrating in 1821, but succumbed to alcohol-induced melancholia.

81 Where's the stage and what's the play?
Attributed, on being found drunk backstage shortly before making his first entrance.

Booth, Martin 1944–2004

English writer educated in Hong Kong. The Dragon and the Pearl (1994) is an account of life there.

82 At any one time, 15 per cent of the buildings of Hong Kong are being either demolished or rebuilt, renovated or restructured.

Borgia, Cesare 1476–1507

Italian soldier, illegitimate son of Pope Alexander VI. He served in the papal army and was created Duke of Romagna, but was defeated in 1506 under Pope Julius II. Macchiavelli praised him as a model prince, but he was commonly perceived as a cruel dictator.

95 Aut Caesar, aut nihil.

Either Caesar or nothing.

Motto. It goes back to a couplet composed in 1507, after Borgia's death, by Fausto Maddalena Romano: 'Borgia Caesar erat, factis et nomine Caesar, /aut nihil, aut Caesar dixit: utrumque fuit.'
(Borgia was Caesar: he was Caesar in name and in fact. He said /

Why* (1953), ch.12.

Bossidy, John Collins 1860–1928

US doctor and versifier.

8 And this is good old Boston,
The home of the bean and the cod,
Where the Lowells talk to the Cabots
And the Cabots talk only to God.

1910 Toast delivered at Holy Cross alumni dinner, Boston.

Boswell, James 1740–95

Scottish man of letters and biographer of Dr Johnson, whom he first met in 1763. Their great friendship led, after Johnson's death, to Boswell's literary masterpiece, the Life of Samuel Johnson (1791).

9 I think there is a blossom about me of something more distinguished than the generality of mankind.

1763 Journal entry, 20 Jan. Collected in F A Pottle (ed) *Boswell's
London Journal* (1950).

10 JOHNSON: Well, we had a good talk.

BOSWELL: Yes, Sir; you tossed and gored several persons.

1768 Conversation, summer, recorded in The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.

11 I am, I flatter myself, completely a citizen of the world. In my travels through Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Corsica, France, I never felt myself from home.

1773 Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides (ed F A Pottle, 1936), entry for 14 Aug.

12 A man, indeed, is not genteel when he gets drunk; but most vices may be committed very genteelly: a man may debauch his friend's wife genteelly: he may cheat at cards genteelly.

1775 The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2, entry for 6 Apr.

Botha, P(ieter) W(illem) 1932–

South African statesman, Prime Minister (1978–84) and President (1984–9). His attempts at limited constitutional reform were met with a right-wing defection from his ruling National Party (1982).

13 We simply could not go on with policies that were a failure economically and internationally, and which we could not morally justify. To allocate rights and privileges on the basis of a physical characteristic was tantamount to sinning against God.

1991 Interviewed by Donald Woods, BBC T V, Feb.

Botham, Ian Terence 1955–

English cricketer. He established a record number of Test wickets (373) and scored 5,057 runs in Tests for England, including 14 Test centuries.

14 Cricket is full of theorists who can ruin your game in no time.

1980 Ian Botham on Cricket.

15 I want to stress again one aspect of the game which is most important. Never argue with an umpire.

1980 Ian Botham on Cricket.

Bottomley, Gordon 1874–1948

English poet and playwright. His interest in Celtic folklore is reflected in much of his work, and he is best remembered for his Poetry of Thirty Years (1925) and some of his plays.

16 When you destroy a blade of grass
You poison England at her roots;
Remember no man's foot can pass
Where evermore no green life shoots.

1912 'To Ironfounders and Others'.

17 Your worship is your furnaces
Which, like old idols, lost obscenes,
Have molten bowels; your vision is Machines for making more machines.

1912 'To Ironfounders and Others'.

Boucicault, Dion(ysus Lardner) originally Dionysius Lardner Bursiquot c.1820–1890

Irish playwright, actor and director. His many works include popular melodramas such as The Corsican Brothers (1852), The Colleen Bawn (1860) and The Shaughraun (1875). He also promoted theatrical reforms, including the box set.

18 Men talk of killing time, while time quietly kills them.

1841 London Assurance, act 2, sc.1.

19 It's a mighty pleasant thing to die like this, once in a way, and hear all the good things said about ye afther you're dead and gone, when they can do you no good.

1874 Aside by Conn. The Shaughraun, act 3, sc.2.

20 His first holiday.

His own suggested epitaph. Attributed.

Boulanger, Nadia 1887–1979

French musician and teacher. She studied at the Paris Conservatoire (1879–1904) and wrote many vocal and instrumental works.

21 Do not take up music unless you would rather die than not do so.

Advice to her pupils. Quoted in Alan Kendall The Tender Tyrant: Nadia Boulanger (1976).

Boulding, Kenneth Ewart 1910–93

British-born US economist and social philosopher (or 'social ecologist'), president of the American Economic Association and professor at the Universities of Michigan and Colorado.

22 We know very little about what it is that moves great masses of men to action, and until we know more about this it is fitting for the social scientist to maintain a becoming modesty in the presence of a great deal to be modest about.

1966 The Impact of the Social Sciences.

23 Science might almost be redefined as the process of substituting unimportant questions which can be answered for important questions which cannot.

1969 The Image.

24 Almost the whole pollution–environmental problem is summed up in the proposition that all goods are generally produced jointly with bads.

1972 In Sam H Schurr (ed) Energy, Economic Growth, and the Environment (1972).

Boulton, Sir Harold Edwin 1859–1935

English songwriter. He compiled and wrote many collections of national songs, including the well-known 'Glorious Devon' (1902) and 'Skye Boat Song' (1908).

25 When Adam and Eve were dispossessed
Of the garden hard by Heaven,
They planted another one down in the west,
'Twas Devon, glorious Devon!

1902 'Glorious Devon'.

26 Speed, bonnie boat, like a bird on the wing,
'Onward!' the sailors cry;
Carry the lad that's born to be king
Over the sea to Skye.

1908 'Skye Boat Song'. The date and authorship of the original song are uncertain, but this is now the most famous version.

Bourassa, Henri 1868–1952

Canadian politician. He entered the Commons as an Independent Liberal (1896) and founded the Quebec Nationalist party, opposing involvement with Britain and the US. He was founding editor of Le Devoir, a Montreal newspaper.

27 Our special task, as French Canadians, is to insert into America the spirit of Christian France.

1918 La Langue, Gardienne de la Foi.

Bourdillon, F(rancis) W(illiam) 1852–1951

English poet.

28 The night has a thousand eyes,
And the day but one;
Yet the light of the bright world dies,
With the dying sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes,
And the heart but one;
Yet the light of a whole life dies,
When love is done.

1878 Among the Flowers, 'Light'.

Bowen, Catherine Shober née Drinker 1897–1973

US writer, biographer and essayist, whose many books include The Lion and the Throne (biography of Sir Edward Coke, 1957) and Miracle at Philadelphia (1966).

29 In writing biography, fact and fiction shouldn't be mixed.
And if they are, the fiction parts should be printed in red ink, the fact parts in black ink.

1958 In Publisher's Weekly, 24 Mar. Bowen's biographies were frequently partly fictionalized.

Bowen, Frank Charles 1894–

30 Irish hurricane, a flat calm with drizzling rain.

1929 Sea Slang, a Dictionary of the Old-Timers' Expressions and Epithets.

Bowie, David real name David Robert Jones 1947–

English rock singer and actor. His career blossomed throughout the 1970s as he adopted a range of extreme stage images to suit a variety of musical styles and concepts.

31 You must understand that this is not a woman's dress I'm wearing. It's a man's dress.

Quoted in Maxim Jakubowski The Wit and Wisdom of Rock and Roll (1983).

Bowles, Paul Frederick 1910–99

US novelist, poet, travel writer, translator and composer. He studied music in Paris, and began writing fiction after World War II. He lived in Tangier from 1952, and much of his work is set there.

32 The Sheltering Sky.

1947 Title of novel.

33 Too much importance is given the writer and not enough to his work. What difference does it make who he is and what he feels, since he's merely a machine for transmission of ideas. In reality he doesn't exist—he's a cipher, a blank. A spy sent into life by the forces of death. His main objective is to get the information across the border, back into death.

1966 Letter to James Leo Herlihy, 30 Apr.

34 The wind howls and the countryside is the colour of a lion. For a week the cicadas have been screaming; I think by now most of them have burst, for there are far fewer.

1969 Letter to Ned Rorem, 20 Aug.

35 It was an experiment, and I think a successful one, in communal living. It worked largely because Auden ran it; he was exceptionally adept at getting the necessary money out of us when it was due.

1972 On an artist's house in New York. Without Stopping: An Autobiography, ch.12.

36 My curiosity about alien cultures was avid and obsessive. I had a placid belief that it was good for me to live in the midst of people whose motives I did not understand; this unreasoned conviction was clearly an attempt to legitimize my curiosity.

1972 Without Stopping: An Autobiography, ch.14.

37 The act of living had been enjoyable; at some point when I was not paying attention, it had turned into a different sort of experience, to whose grimness I had grown so accustomed that I now took it for granted.

1972 Without Stopping: An Autobiography, ch.17.

38 I envy you if you're able to sustain a uniform degree of interest throughout Ulysses. People are always saying they do. People also claim to be clairvoyant and to levitate.

1981 Letter to Millicent Dillon, 1 Jul.

39 The only effort worth making is the one it takes to learn the geography of one's own nature.

1989 In the Sunday Times, 23 Jul.

Boycott, Geoffrey 1940–

English cricketer, who made 108 appearances for England. He scored a total of 8,114 Test runs.

40 To have some idea what it's like, stand in the outside lane of a motorway, get your mate to drive his car at you at 95 mph and wait until he's 12 yards away, before you decide which way to jump.

1989 Of the experience of facing fast bowlers. Quoted in Helen Exley Cricketer Quotations (1992).

Boyd, L(ouis) M(alcolm) 1927–

41 Most business meetings are staged to supply people who'd rather talk than work with people who'd rather listen than work.

1990 'Grab Bag', in the San Francisco Chronicle, 7 Apr.

Boyd, William Andrew Murray 1952–

Scottish writer, born in Ghana. A lecturer in English at Oxford (1980–3) and TV critic with the New Statesman, he then concentrated on fiction and screenplays. His novels include A Good Man in Africa (1981), Brazzaville Beach (1990) and Any Human Heart (2002).

42 Like Rome, Nkongsamba was built on seven hills, but there all similarity ended. Set in undulating tropical rain forest, from the air it resembled nothing so much as a giant pool of capulous vomit on somebody's expansive unnown lawn.

1981 A Good Man in Africa, ch.1.

43 Morgan liked to imagine the town as some immense yeast culture, left in a deep cupboard by an absent-minded lab technician, festering uncontrolled, running rampant in the ideal growing conditions.

1981 A Good Man in Africa, ch.1.

44 My first act on entering this world was to kill my mother.

1988 The New Confessions, opening words.

45 The natural world is full of irregularity and random alteration, but in the antiseptic, dust-free, shadowless, brightly lit, abstract realm of the mathematicians they

Bracken, Peg 1918–

US writer and humorist. Her books include The I Hate to Cook Book (1960) and I Didn't Come Here to Argue (1969).

50 Cheese for dessert is rather like Paradise Lost in that everyone thinks he ought to like it, but still you don't notice too many people actually curling up with it.

1960 The I Hate to Cook Book, ch.9.

Bracken, Thomas 1843–98

New Zealand poet, journalist and politician, born in Ireland. He emigrated in 1869. His work, characterized by Victorian sentimentality, includes Lays and Lyrics: God's Own Country and Other Poems (1893).

51 Oh, God! that men would see a little clearer,
Or judge less harshly where they cannot see;
Oh, God! that men would draw a little nearer
To one another, they'd be nearer Thee,
And understood.

1905 Not Understood, and Other Poems, 'Not Understood'.

Bradbury, Malcolm Stanley 1932–2000

English novelist, critic and teacher. His novels include The History Man (1975) and Rates of Exchange (1982).

52 It had always seemed to Louis that a fundamental desire to take postal courses was being sublimated by other people into sexual activity.

1959 Eating People Is Wrong, ch.5.

53 I like the English. They have the most rigid code of immorality in the world.

1959 Eating People Is Wrong, ch.5.

54 Reading someone else's newspaper is like sleeping with someone else's wife. Nothing seems to be precisely in the right place, and when you find what you are looking for, it is not clear then how to respond to it.

1965 Stepping Westward, bk.1, ch.1.

55 My experience of ships is that on them one makes an interesting discovery about the world. One finds one can do without it completely.

1965 Stepping Westward, bk.1, ch.2.

56 They don't spend themselves in relationships until they know what the odds are; long hours spent as babies lying in the rain outside greengrocers' shops have made them tough.

1965 Stepping Westward, bk.2, ch.4.

57 English history is all about men liking their fathers, and American history is all about men hating their fathers and trying to burn down everything they ever did.

1965 Stepping Westward, bk.2, ch.5.

58 The English are polite by telling lies. The Americans are polite by telling the truth.

1965 Stepping Westward, bk.2, ch.5.

59 'We stay together, but we distrust each other.'
'Ah, yes, ...but isn't that a definition of marriage?'

1976 Who Do You Think You Are?, 'A Very Hospitable Person'.

61 The British have long had a taste for bad books, but they like them well written.

1981 In the Observer, 25 Oct.

62 In Slaka, sex is just politics with the clothes off.

1983 Rates of Exchange, pt.4, ch.3.

63 Here we have a saying: a good friend is someone who visits you when you are in prison. But a really good friend is someone who comes to hear your lectures.

1983 Rates of Exchange, pt.4, ch.3.

64 Conversation is never easy for the British, who are never keen to express themselves to strangers or, for that matter, anyone, even themselves.

1983 Rates of Exchange, pt.5, ch.3.

65 You probably know, the better class of Briton likes to send his children away to school until they're old and intelligent enough to come home again. Then they're too old and intelligent to want to.

1983 Rates of Exchange, pt.5, ch.3.

66 There were moments when Henry was glad he was a writer, for writers could live in their own minds and didn't have to go out at all.

1987 Cuts.

67 The modern novel has been many things, and functioned at many levels. It would keep D.H. Lawrence poor, and make Jilly Cooper and Jeffrey Archer rich.

1993 The Modern British Novel, preface.

68 The post-war period has not been marked by a great aesthetic debate about the novel comparable to that of the earlier half of the century, in part because the role of the writer and critic divided, the writer going off to the marketplace and the critic to the university (which eventually turned out to be much the same thing).

1993 The Modern British Novel, preface.

Bradbury, Ray (mond Douglas) 1920–

US science-fiction writer, one of the earliest writers in the genre to be recognized for his literary merits. His short-story collections include The Martian Chronicles (1950) and The Illustrated Man (1951); novels include Fahrenheit 451 (1953) and Something Wicked This Way Comes (1962).

79 In Criticks hands, beware thou dost not come;

And take thy way where yet thou art not known,
If for thy Father askt, say, thou hadst none:

And for thy Mother, she alas is poor,
Which caus'd her thus to send thee out of door.

1650 The Tenth Muse Lately Sprung Up In America, 'The Author to Her Book'.

80 I am obnoxious to each carping tongue

Who says my hand a needle better fits,
A poet's pen all scorn I should thus wrong

For such despite they cast on female wits;

If what I do prove well, it won't advance,

They'll say it's stolen, or else, it was by chance.

Bridges, Robert Seymour 1844–1930

English Poet Laureate and hymn writer who qualified and practised as a doctor, and a friend of Gerard Manley Hopkins. As wartime Poet Laureate he compiled an anthology The Spirit of Man (1916) to lift the nation's spirits.

25 So sweet love seemed that April morn,
When first we kissed beside the thorn,
So strangely sweet, it was not strange
We thought that love could never change.

But I can tell—let truth be told—
That love will change in growing old;
Though day by day is nought to see,
So delicate his motions be.

1894 'So Sweet Loved Seemed'.

26 All my hope on God is founded
He does still my trust renew,
Me through change and chance he guideth,
Only good and only true.

God unknown,
He alone
Calls my heart to be his own.

1899 Hymn.

27 And I replied unto all these things which encompass the door of my flesh, 'Ye have told me of my god, that ye are not he: tell me something of him'. And they cried all with a great voice, 'He made us'. My questioning them was my mind's desire, and their Beauty was their answer.

1916 The Spirit of Man: The Confessions of St Augustine.

Bridges, (Henry) Styles 1898–1961

US Senator. He was Republican Governor of New Hampshire (1935–37) and then Senator (1937–61). He opposed the New Deal and was a supporter of Joseph McCarthy.

30 The Angel of Death has been abroad throughout the land. You may almost hear the beating of his wings.

1855 Of the Crimean War. Speech, House of Commons, 23 Feb.

31 This regard for the liberties of Europe, this care at one time for the protestant interest, this excessive love for the balance of power, is neither more nor less than a gigantic system of outdoor relief for the aristocracy of Great Britain.

1858 Speech, Birmingham, 29 Oct.

32 England is the mother of Parliaments.

1865 Speech, Birmingham, 18 Jan.

33 There is no nation on the continent of Europe that is less able to do harm to England, and there is no nation on the continent of Europe to whom we are less able to do harm, than Russia. We are so separate that it seems impossible that the two nations, by the use of reason or common sense at all, could possibly be brought into conflict with each other.

1878 Speech, Birmingham, 13 Jan.

Brillat-Savarin, Jean Anthelme 1755–1826

French politician, gastronome and writer, Mayor of Belley in 1793. During the French Revolution he took refuge in Switzerland and America. His Physiologie du goût (1825) is an elegant and witty compendium of the art of dining.

34 Dis-moi ce que tu manges, je te dirai ce que tu es.

Tell me what you eat and I will tell you what you are.

Brodkey, Harold 1930–96

US writer and journalist. He died of AIDS.

48 I have AIDS. I am surprised that I do. I have not been exposed since 1977, which is to say that my experience, my adventures in homosexuality took place largely in the 1960s and '70s, and back then I relied on time and abstinence to indicate my degree of freedom from infection—and to protect others and myself.

57 Were we to choose our leaders on the basis of their reading experience and not their political programs, there would be much less grief on earth. I believe—not empirically, alas, but only theoretically—that for someone who has read a lot of Dickens to shoot his like in the name of an idea is harder than for someone who has read no Dickens.

1987 Nobel prize acceptance speech.

58 There are worse crimes than burning books. One of them is not reading them.

1991 Comment at a press conference in Washington, DC, 15 May, on accepting the US poet laureateship.

Bronowski, Jacob 1908–74

Polish-born British mathematician, poet and humanist. He was a popular broadcaster, particularly on the BBC's Brains Trust and The Ascent of Man (1973).

62 Dissent is the native activity of the scientist, and it has got him into a good deal of trouble in the last years. But if that is cut off, what is left will not be a scientist. And I doubt whether it will be a man.

1953 'The Sense of Human Dignity', lecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 19 Mar.

63 Science has nothing to be ashamed of, even in the ruins of Nagasaki. The shame is theirs who appeal to other values than the human imaginative values which science has evolved.

1953 'The Sense of Human Dignity', lecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 19 Mar.

64 At bottom, the society of scientists is more important than their discoveries. What science has to teach us here is not its techniques but its spirit: the irresistible need to explore.

1956 Science and Human Values.

65 Man masters nature not by force but by understanding. This is why science has succeeded where magic failed: because it has looked for no spell to cast on nature.

1956 Universities Quarterly, vol.10, issue 3.

66 Sooner or later every one of us breathes an atom that has been breathed before by anyone you can think of who has lived before us—Michelangelo or George Washington or Moses.

1966 Quoted in the New York Times, 13 Oct 1969.

67 No science is immune to the infection of politics and the corruption of power.

Brontë, Anne 1820–49

English novelist and poet, younger sister of Charlotte and Emily. Her first novel Agnes Grey (1847) was published under the pseudonym Acton Bell. She also wrote The Tenant of Wildfell Hall (1848).

71 To think a soul so near divine,
Within a form, so angel fair,
United to a heart like thine,
Has gladdened once our humble sphere.

1846 'A Reminiscence', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.

72 My soul is awakened, my spirit is soaring
And carried aloft on the wings of the breeze;
For above and around me the wild wind is roaring,
Arousing to rapture the earth and the seas.

1846 'Line Composed in a Wood on a Windy Day', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.

73 All true histories contain instruction; though in some, the treasure may be hard to find, and when found, so trivial in quantity that the dry, shrivelled kernel scarcely compensates for the trouble of cracking the nut.

1847 Agnes Grey, ch.1.

74 He'll be all right when he's married, as Mama says; and reformed rakes make the best husbands, everybody knows. I only wish he were not so ugly—that's all I think about—but then there's no choice here in the country.

1847 Agnes Grey, ch.13.

75 What is it that constitutes virtue, Mrs Graham? Is it the circumstance of being able and willing to resist temptation; or that of having no temptation to resist?

1848 The Tenant of Wildfell Hall, ch.3.

Brontë, Charlotte 1816–55

English novelist and poet, elder sister of Emily and Anne. Her four novels are Jane Eyre (1847), Shirley (1849), Villette (1853) and The Professor (1857).

76 We wove a web in childhood,
A web of sunny air;
We dug a spring in infancy
Of water pure and fair;
We sowed in youth a mustard seed,
We cut an almond rod;
We are now grown up to riper age—
Are they withered in the sod?

1835 'We Wove a Web in Childhood'.

77 But two miles more and then we rest!
Well, there is still an hour of day,
And long the brightness of the west
Sit then, awhile, here in this wood
So total is the solitude,
We safely may delay.

1846 'Regret', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.

78 Women are supposed to be very calm generally; but women feel just as men feel: they need exercise for their faculties, and a field for their efforts as much as their brothers do; they suffer from too rigid a restraint, too

- absolute a stagnation, precisely as men would suffer... it is thoughtless to condemn them, or laugh at them, if they seek to do more than custom has pronounced necessary for their sex.
1847 Jane Eyre, ch.12.
- 79 I grant an ugly woman is a blot on the fair face of creation; but as to the gentleman, let them be solicitous to possess only strength and valour: let their motto be:—Hunt, shoot, and fight: the rest is not worth a flip.
1847 Jane Eyre ch.17.
- 80 The soul fortunately, has an interpreter—often an unconscious, but still a truthful interpreter—in the eye.
1847 Jane Eyre, ch.28.
- 81 Reader, I married him.
1847 Jane Eyre, ch.38.
- 82 Conventionality is not morality. Self-righteousness is not religion. To attack the first is not to assail the last. To pluck the mask from the face of the Pharisee, is not to lift an impious hand to the Crown of Thorns.
1848 Jane Eyre (2nd edn), preface.
- 83 Of late years an abundant shower of curates has fallen upon the north of England.
1849 Shirley, ch.1.
- 84 I describe imperfect characters. Every character in this book will be found to be more or less imperfect, my pen refusing to draw anything in the model line.
1849 Shirley, ch.5.
- 85 Old maids like the houseless and unemployed poor, should not ask for a place and an occupation in the world: the demand disturbs the happy and the rich.
1849 Shirley, ch.22.
- 86 Liberty lends us her wings and Hope guides us by her star.
1853 Villette, ch.6.
- 87 Out of association grows adhesion, and out of adhesion amalgamation.
1853 Villette, ch.25.
- 88 What animal magnetism drew thee and me together—I know not.
1857 The Professor, ch.1.
- 89 Unlawful pleasure, trenching on another's rights, is delusive and envenomed pleasure—its hollowness disappoints at the time, its poison cruelly tortures afterwards, its effects deprave forever.
1857 The Professor, ch.20.

Brontë, Emily Jane 1818–48

English novelist and poet, sister of Anne and Charlotte. Her poems were first published under the pseudonym Ellis Bell. Her only novel is the intense and powerful Wuthering Heights (1847).

- 90 The night is darkening round me,
The wild winds coldly blow;
But a tyrant spell has bound me
And I cannot, cannot go.
1837 'The Night is Darkening Round Me'.
- 91 The winter wind is loud and wild,
Come close to me, my darling child;
Forsake thy books, and mateless play;
And, while the night is gathering grey,
We'll talk its pensive hours away.

1846 'Faith and Despondency', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.

- 92 No coward soul is mine,
No trembler in the world's storm-troubled sphere:
I see Heaven's glories shine,
And faith shines equal, arming me from fear.
1846 'No Coward Soul is Mine', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.
- 93 Cold in the earth—and the deep snow piled above thee,
Far, far, removed, cold in the dreary grave!
Have I forgot, my only Love, to love thee,
Severed at last by Time's all-serving wave?
1846 'Remembrance', in Poems by Currer, Ellis and Acton Bell.
- 94 I've dreamt in my life dreams that have stayed with me ever after, and changed my ideas; they've gone through and through me, like wine through water, and altered the colour of my mind.
1847 Wuthering Heights, ch.9.
- 95 As different as a moonbeam from lightning, or frost from fire.
1847 Wuthering Heights, ch.9.
- 96 My love for Linton is like the foliage in the woods. Time will change it, I'm well aware, as winter changes the trees.
My Love for Heathcliff resembles the eternal rocks beneath—a source of little visible delight but necessary.
Nelly, I am Heathcliff.
1847 Wuthering Heights, ch.9.
- 97 He might as well plant an oak in a flower-pot, and expect it to thrive, as imagine he can restore her to vigour in the soil of his shallow cares!
1847 Wuthering Heights, ch.14.
- 98 The more the worms writhe, the more I yearn to crush out their entrails!
1847 Heathcliff. Wuthering Heights, ch.14.
- 99 I lingered around them, under the benign sky; watched the moths fluttering among the heath and hare-bells; listened to the soft wind breathing through the grass;
and wondered how anyone could ever imagine unquiet slumbers, for the sleepers in that quiet earth.
1847 Wuthering Heights, ch.34, closing words.

Brooke, Frances née Moore 1724–89

English writer. In Canada (1763–8) with her minister husband, she produced 'Canada's first novel', The History of Emily Montague (1769). She wrote other novels and plays, and edited a periodical, The Old Maid.

- 1 I no longer wonder the elegant arts are unknown here;
the rigor of the climate suspends the very powers of the understanding; what then must become of those of the imagination?... Genius will never mount high, where the faculties of the mind are benumbed half the year.
1769 The History of Emily Montague, 'Letter 49'.

Brooke, Rupert Chawner 1887–1915

English poet, icon of the World War I 'lost generation'. His early verse was published in 1911, and his reputation was established by the posthumous publication of 1914 and Other Poems (1915). He died of blood poisoning on Skiros.

- 2 Breathless, we flung us on the windy hill.
Laughed in the sun, and kissed the lovely grass.
1910 'Sonnet'.

- 3 But there's wisdom in women, of more than they have known,
And thoughts go blowing through them, are wiser than their own.
1913 'There's Wisdom in Women'.
- 4 Then, the cool kindliness of sheets, that soon
Smooth away trouble; and the rough male kiss
Of blankets.
1914 'The Great Lover'.
- 5 The benison of hot water; furs to touch;
The good smell of old clothes.
1914 'The Great Lover'.
- 6 If I should die, think only this of me:
That there's some corner of a foreign field
That is for ever England.
There shall be
In that rich dust a richer dust concealed;
A dust whom England bore, shaped, made aware,
Gave, once, her flowers to love, her ways to roam,
A body of England's, breathing English air,
Washed by the rivers, blest by suns of home.
1914 'The Soldier'.
- 7 In hearts at peace, under an English heaven.
1914 'The Soldier'.
- 8 Blow out, you bugles, over the rich Dead!
There's none of these so lonely and poor of old,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.
1914 'The Dead'.
- 9 Naught broken save this body, lost but breath;
Nothing to shake the laughing heart's long peace there
But only agony, and that has ending;
And the worst friend and enemy is but Death.
1914 'Peace'.
- 10 Here tulips bloom as they are told;
Unkempt about those hedges blows
An English unofficial rose.
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.
- 11 And spectral dance, before the dawn,
A hundred Vicars down the lawn;
Curates, long dust, will come and go
On lissom, clerical, printless toe;
And oft between the boughs is seen
The sly shade of a Rural Dean.
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.
- 12 God! I will pack, and take a train,
And get me to England once again!
For England's the one land, I know,
Where men with Splendid Hearts may go.
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.
- 13 For Cambridge people rarely smile,
Being urban, squat, and packed with guile.
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.
- 14 They love the Good; they worship Truth;
They laugh uproariously in youth;
(And when they get to feeling old,
They up and shoot themselves, I'm told).
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.
- 15 Stands the Church clock at ten to three?
And is there honey still for tea?
1915 'The Old Vicarage, Grantchester'.

- 16 Fish (fly-replete, in depth of June, Dawdling away their wat'ry noon).
1915 'Heaven'.
- 17 Fish say, they have their stream and pond;
But is there anything beyond?
1915 'Heaven'.
- 18 But somewhere, beyond Space and Time
Is wetter water, slimier slime!
1915 'Heaven'.
- 19 Unfading moths, immortal flies,
And the worm that never dies.
And in that heaven of all their wish,
There shall be no more land, say fish.
1915 'Heaven'.

beliefs wounded.
1989 In The Spectator, 23 Mar.
- 27 I reflected how easy it is for a man to reduce women of a certain age to imbecility. All he has to do is give an impersonation of desire, or better still, of secret knowledge, for a woman to feel herself a source of power.
1993 A Family Romance, ch.7.
- 28 In youth Beatrice had been attractive, but what was attractive about her was not her appearance but her disposability.

Browne, Sir Thomas 1605–82

English writer and physician. His meditative Religio Medici appeared in an authorized version in 1643. Other works include Pseudodoxia Epidemica, or Enquiries into... Vulgar and Common Errors (1646) and Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial) (1658).

- 53 For my religion, though there be several circumstances that might persuade the world I have none at all—as the general scandal of my profession, the natural course of my studies, the indifferency of my behaviour and discourse in matters of religion, neither violently defending one, nor with that common ardour and contention opposing another—yet in despite hereof I dare without usurpation assume the honourable style of a Christian.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 1.
- 54 My common conversation I do acknowledge austere, my behaviour full of rigor, sometimes not without morosity; yet at my devotion I love to use the civility of my knee, my hat, and hand, with all those outward and sensible motions which may express or promote my invisible devotion.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 3.
- 55 Those vulgar heads that look asquint on the face of truth.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 3.
- 56 In brief, where the Scripture is silent, the church is my text; where that speaks, 'tis but my comment; where there is a joint silence of both, I borrow not the rules of my religion from Rome or Geneva, but the dictates of my own reason.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 5.
- 57 Where we desire to be informed, 'tis good to contest with men above ourselves; but to confirm and establish our opinions, 'tis best to argue with judgements below our own, that the frequent spoils and victories over their reasons may settle in ourselves an esteem and confirmed opinion of our own.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 58 Every man is not a proper champion for truth, nor fit to take up the gauntlet in the cause of verity.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 59 Every man's own reason is his best Oedipus.
1634–5 Oedipus here means riddle-solver. Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 60 For indeed heresies perish not with their authors, but like the river Arethusa, though they lose their currents in one place, they rise up again in another.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 61 Men are lived over again; the world is now as it was in ages past.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 62 Methinks there be not impossibilities enough in religion for an active faith.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 63 I desire to exercise my faith in the difficultest points, for to credit ordinary and visible objects is not faith but persuasion.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 6.
- 64 I love to lose myself in a mystery, to pursue my reason to an O altitudo!
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 9.
- 65 Who can speak of eternity without a solecism, or think thereof without an ecstasy? Time we may comprehend, 'tis but five days elder than ourselves.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 11.
- 66 We carry with us the wonders we seek without us: there is all Africa and her prodigies in us.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 15.
- 67 We are that bold and adventurous piece of nature which he that studies wisely learns in a compendium what others labour at in a divided piece and endless volume.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 15.
- 68 Nature is not at variance with art nor art with nature, they both being the servants of his providence: art is the perfection of nature.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 16.
- 69 All things are artificial, for nature is the art of God.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 16.
- 70 Obstinacy in a bad cause, is but constancy in a good.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 25.
- 71 Persecution is a bad and indirect way to plant religion.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 25.
- 72 There are many...canonized on earth, that shall never be Saints in Heaven.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 26.
- 73 I am not so much afraid of death, as ashamed thereof.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 40.
- 74 Certainly there is no happiness within this circle of flesh, nor is it in the optics of these eyes to behold felicity; the first day of our Jubilee is death.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 44.
- 75 I have tried if I could reach that great resolution...to be honest without a thought of Heaven or Hell.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 47.
- 76 To believe only in possibilities, is not faith, but mere Philosophy.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 48.
- 77 There is no road or ready way to virtue.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 55.
- 78 The world was before the creation and at an end before it had a beginning; and thus was I dead before I was alive. Though my grave be England, my dying place was Paradise, and Eve miscarried of me before she conceived of Cain.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.1, section 59.
- 79 All places, all airs make unto me one country; I am in England, everywhere, and under any meridian.
1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.2, section 1.
- 80 It is the common wonder of all men, how among so many millions of faces, there should be none alike.

1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.2, section 1.

- 81 I could be content that we might procreate like trees, without conjunction, or that there were any way to perpetuate the World without this trivial and vulgar way of coition: it is the foolishlest act a wise man commits in all his life.

1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.2, section 9.

- 82 We all labour against our own cure, for death is the cure of all diseases.

1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.2, section 9.

- 83 Whilst I study to find how I am a microcosm of little world, I find myself something more than the great.
There is surely a piece of divinity in us; something that was before the elements, and owes no homage unto the sun.

1634–5 Religio Medici (published 1643), pt.2, section 11.

- 84 Old mortality, the ruins of forgotten times.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), Epistle Dedicatory.

- 85 Were the happiness of the next world as closely apprehended as the felicities of this, it were a martyrdom to live.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.4.

- 86 The long habit of living indisposeth us for dying.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 87 Adversity stretcheth our days.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 88 We cannot hope to live so long in our names as some have done in their persons.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 89 'Tis too late to be ambitious.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 90 There is no antidote against the opium of time.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 91 To be nameless in worthy deeds exceeds an infamous history... Who would not rather have been the good thief than Pilate?

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 92 Man is a noble animal, splendid in ashes, and pompous in the grave.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 93 Life is a pure flame, and we live by an invisible sun within us.

1658 Hydriotaphia (Urn Burial), ch.5.

- 94 Life itself is but the shadow of death, and souls departed but the shadows of the living. All things fall under this name. The sun itself is but the dark simulacrum, and light but the shadow of God.

1658 The Garden of Cyrus, ch.2.

- 95 The quincunx of heaven runs low, and 'tis time to close the five parts of knowledge.

1658 The Garden of Cyrus, ch.5.

- 96 All things began in order, so shall they end, and so shall they begin again; according to the ordainer of order and mystical mathematics of the city of heaven.

1658 The Garden of Cyrus, ch.5.

- 97 Nor will the sweetest delight of gardens afford much comfort in sleep; wherein the dullness of that sense shakes hands with delectable odours; and though in the bed of Cleopatra, can hardly with any delight raise up the ghost of a rose.

1658 The Garden of Cyrus, ch.5.

Browne, William 1692–1774

English physician and poet.

- 98 The King to Oxford sent a troop of horse,
For Tories own no argument but force;
With equal skill to Cambridge books he sent,
For Whigs admit no force but argument.
Literary Anecdotes.

- 99 Thou large-brained woman and large-hearted man.

1844 Poems, 'To George Sand. A Desire', l.1.

- 1 And because I was a poet, and because the public praised me,
With their critical deductions for the modern writer's fault;
I could sit at rich men's tables,—though the courtesies that raise me,
Still suggested clear between us, the pale spectrum of the salt.

1844 Poems, 'Lady Geraldine's Courtship', stanza 9.

- 2 And the rolling anapaestic
Curled, like vapour over shrines.

1844 Poems, 'Wine of Cyprus', stanza 10.

- 3 I am floated along, as if I should die
Of Liberty's exquisite pain.

1849 'The Runaway Slave at Pilgrim's Point', stanza 36.

- 4 Straightway I was 'ware
So weeping, how a mystic shape did move
Behind me, and drew me backward by the hair
And a voice said in mastery while I strove...
'Guess now who holds thee!'—'Death', I said, but there
The silver answer rang... 'Not Death, but Love.'

1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 1.

- 5 If thou must love me, let it be for naught
Except for love's sake only.

1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 14.

- 6 When our two souls stand up erect and strong,
Face to face, silent, drawing nigh and nigher,
Until their lengthening wings break into fire
At either curvèd point,... what bitter wrong,
Can the earth do to us, that we should not long
Be here contented?

1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 22.

- 7 Let the world's sharpness like a clasping knife
Shut in upon itself, and do no harm
In this close hand of love.

1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 24.

- 8 First time he kissed me, but only kissed

- The fingers of this hand wherewith I write,
And ever since it grew more clean and white...
1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 38.
- 9 How do I love thee? Let me count the ways!—
I love thee to the depth and breadth and height
My soul can reach, when feeling out of sight
For the ends of Being and Ideal Grace.
1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 43.
- 10 I love thee with the love I seemed to lose
With my lost Saints,—I love thee with the breath
Smiles, tears, of all my life!—and, if God choose,
I shall but love thee better after death.
1850 Poems, 'Sonnets from the Portuguese', sonnet 43.
- 11 God answers sharp and sudden on some prayers,
And thrusts the thing we have prayed for in our face,
A gauntlet with a gift in't.
1856 Aurora Leigh, bk. 2.
- 12 The music soars within the little lark,
And the lark soars.
1856 Aurora Leigh, bk. 2.
- 13 Since when was genius found respectable?
1856 Aurora Leigh, bk. 6.
- 14 Earth's crammed with heaven,
And every common bush afire with God.
1856 Aurora Leigh, bk. 7.
- Browning, Guy 1964—
English writer and broadcaster.
- 15 A shoal of a million fish might not be able to write Romeo and Juliet but they can change direction as one in the blink of an eye. Using language a human team leader can give an order to a team of six and have it interpreted in six completely different ways.
1999 In The Guardian, 24 Jul.
- 16 Major cities are divided into two parts; the bits that are in the guidebook and the bits that aren't. If you don't take a guidebook, you'll see a different city.
2002 In The Guardian, 21 May.
- 17 Maths is the purest science in that you don't need any test tubes or animal testing to do it. All the other sciences eventually boil down to maths, apart from biology, which boils down to soup.

- Browning, Robert 1812–89
English poet, who married Elizabeth Browning (1846). His poetry offers a wide range of characters, dramatic situations, and a rich variety of forms and rhythms. His work includes Men and Women (1855), Dramatis Personae (1864) and The Ring and the Book (1868–9).
- 18 God is the perfect poet,
Who in his person acts his own creations.
1835 Paracelsus, pt. 2, l. 648–9.
- 19 The year's at the spring,
And days at the morn;
Morning's at seven;
The hill-side's dew-pearled;
The lark's on the wing;
The snail's on the thorn;
God's in His heaven—
All's right with the world.
1841 Pippa Passes, pt. 1.
- 20 Like a god going thro' his world there stands
One mountain, for a moment in the dusk,
Whole brotherhoods of cedars on its brow
1841 Pippa Passes, pt. 2.
- 21 There's a great text in Galatians,
Once you trip on it, entails
Twenty-nine distinct damnations,
One sure, if another fails.
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister'.
- 22 My scrofulous French novel
On grey paper with blunt type!
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'Soliloquy of the Spanish Cloister'.
- 23 The moth's kiss, first!
Kiss me as if you made believe
You were not sure, this eve,
How my face, your flower, had pursed
Its petals up.
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'In a Gondola'.
- 24 What's become of Waring
Since he gave us all the slip?
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'Waring'. The first line was used as the title of a novel by Anthony Powell.
- 25 Hamelin Town's in Brunswick,
By famous Hanover city;
The river Weser, deep and wide,
Washes its wall on the southern side;
A pleasanter spot you never spied.
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin'.
- 26 Rats!
They fought the dogs and killed the cats,
And bit the babies in the cradles.
And ate the cheeses out of the vats.
1842 Dramatic Lyrics, 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin'.
- 27 I sprang to the stirrup, and Joris, and he;
I galloped, Dirck galloped, we galloped all three.

Just for a riband to stick in his coat.
1845 Of Wordsworth. Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'The Lost Leader'.
- 29 Never glad confident morning again!
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'The Lost Leader'.
- 30 Oh, to be in England
Now that April's there,
And whoever wakes in England
Sees, some morning, unaware,
That the lowest boughs and the brushwood sheaf
Round the elm-tree bole are in tiny leaf,
While the chaffinch sings on the orchard bough
In England—now!
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'Home-Thoughts, from Abroad'.
- 31 That's the wise thrush; he sings each song twice over,
Lest you think he never could recapture
The first fine careless rapture!
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'Home-Thoughts, from Abroad'.

- 32 'Here and here did England help me: how can I help England?'—say.
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'Home- Thoughts, from the Sea'.
- 33 And then how I shall lie through centuries,
And hear the blessed mutter of the mass,
And see God made and eaten all day long,
And feel the steady candle-flame, and taste
Good strong thick stupefying incense-smoke!
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'The Bishop Orders his Tomb'.
- 34 A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spurt of a lighted match,
And a voice less loud, through its joys and fears,
Than the two hearts beating each to each!
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'Meeting at Night'.
- 35 There may be heaven; there must be hell.
1845 Dramatic Romances and Lyrics, 'Time's Revenges'.

You get about the best thing God invents.
1855 Men and Women, 'Fra Lippo Lippi'.
- 39 This world's no blot for us
Nor blank; it means intensely, and means good:
To find its meaning is my meat and drink.
1855 Men and Women, 'Fra Lippo Lippi'.
- 40 Hark—the dominant's persistence till it must be answered to!
1855 Men and Women, 'A Toccata of Galuppi's'.
- 41 What of soul was left, I wonder, when the kissing had to stop?
1855 Men and Women, 'A Toccata of Galuppi's'.
- 42 Dear, dead woman, with such hair, too—what's become of all the gold
Used to hang and brush their bosoms? I feel chilly and grown old.
1855 Men and Women, 'A Toccata of Galuppi's'.
- 43 'Tis the Last Judgement's fire must cure this place,
Calcine its clods and set my prisoners free.
1855 Men and Women, 'Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came'.
- 44 As for the grass, it grew as scant as hair in leprosy—thin dried blades pricked the mud which underneath looked kneaded up with blood.
One stiff blind horse, his every bone a-stare, stood stupefied.
1855 Men and Women, 'Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came'.
- 45 I never saw a brute I hated so;
He must be wicked to deserve such pain.
1855 Men and Women, 'Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came'.
- 46 It was roses, roses, all the way.
1855 Men and Women, 'The Patriot'.
- 47 And find a poor devil has ended his cares
At the foot of your rotten-runged rat-riddled stairs?
Do I carry the moon in my pocket?
1855 Men and Women, 'Master Hughes of Saxe-Gotha'.
- 48 Just when we are safest, there's a sunset-touch,
A fancy from a flower-bell, some one's death,
A chorus-ending from Euripides,—
And that's enough for fifty hopes and fears
As old and new at once as Nature's self,
To rap and knock and enter in our soul.
Take hands and dance there, a fantastic ring,
Round the ancient idol, on his base again,—
The grand Perhaps.
1855 Men and Women, 'Bishop Blougram's Apology'.
- 49 All we have gained then by our unbelief
Is a life of doubt diversified by faith,
For one of faith diversified by doubt:
We called the chess-board white,—we call it black.
1855 Men and Women, 'Bishop Blougram's Apology'.
- 50 You, for example, clever to a fault,
The rough and ready man who write apace,
Read somewhat seldom, think perhaps even less.
1855 Men and Women, 'Bishop Blougram's Apology'.
- 51 No, when the fight begins within himself,
A man's worth something.
1855 Men and Women, 'Bishop Blougram's Apology'.
- 52 He said true things but called them by wrong names.
1855 Men and Women, 'Bishop Blougram's Apology'.
- 53 Ah, did you once see Shelley plain,
And did he stop to speak to you
And did you speak to him again?
How strange it seems, and new!
1855 Men and Women, 'Memorabilia'.
- 54 So free we seem, so fretted fast we are!
1855 Men and Women, 'Andrea del Sarto'.
- 55 Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp,
Or what's a heaven for?
1855 Men and Women, 'Andrea del Sarto', l.97–8.
- 56 Your ghost will walk, you lover of trees,
(If love remains)
In an English lane.
1855 Men and Women, 'De Gustibus'.
- 57 Open your heart and you will see graved inside of it, 'Italy.'
Such lovers old are I and she;
So it always was, so it still shall be!
1855 Men and Women, 'De Gustibus'.
- 58 Stand still, true poet that you are!
I know you; let me try and draw you.
Some night you'll fail us: when afar
You rise, remember one man saw you,
Knew you, and named a star!
1855 Men and Women, 'Popularity'.
- 59 I would that you were all to me,
You that are just so much, no more.
1855 Men and Women, 'Two in the Campagna'.
- 60 Only I discern—
Infinite passion, and the pain
Of finite hearts that yearn.
1855 Men and Women, 'Two in the Campagna'.
- 61 There they are, my fifty men and women
Naming me the fifty poems finished!
Take them, Love, the book and me together.
Where the heart lies, let the brain lie also.
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E. B. B.', stanza 1.

- 62 Suddenly, as rare things will, it vanished.
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', stanza 4.
- 63 Dante, who loved well because he hated,
 Hated wickedness that hinders loving.
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', stanza 5.
- 64 Proves she like some portent of an iceberg
 Swimming full upon the ship it founders
 Hungry with huge teeth of splintered crystals?
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', stanza 17.
- 65 What's come to perfection perishes.
 Things learned on earth, we shall practise in heaven.
 Work done least rapidly, Art most cherishes.
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', stanza 17.
- 66 God be thanked, the meanest of his creatures
 Boasts two soul-sides, one to face the world with,
 One to show a woman when he loves her!
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', stanza 18.
- 67 Wrote one song—and in my brain I sing it,
 Drew one angel—borne, see, on my bosom!
1855 Men and Women, 'One Word More. To E.B.B.', closing lines.
- 68 But God has a few of us to whom he whispers in the ear;
 The rest may reason and welcome; 'tis we musicians know.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Abt Vogler'.
- 69 Grow old along with me!
 The best is yet to be,
 The last of life, for which the first was made:
 Our times are in His hand
 Who saith, 'A whole I planned,
 Youth shows but half; trust God:
 See all nor be afraid!'
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Rabbi ben Ezra', stanza 1.
- 70 Time's wheels runs back or stops: Potter and clay endure.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Rabbi ben Ezra', stanza 27.
- 71 My times be in Thy hand!
 Perfect the cup as planned!
 Let age approve of youth, and Death complete the same!
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Rabbi ben Ezra', stanza 32.
- 72 Stung by the splendour of a sudden thought.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'A Death in the Desert'.
- 73 For I say, this is death and the sole death,
 When a man's loss comes to him from his gain,
 Darkness from light, from knowledge ignorance,
 And lack of love from love made manifest.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'A Death in the Desert'.
- 74 Progress, man's distinctive mark alone,
 Not God's, and not the beasts'; God is, they are,
 Man partly is and wholly hopes to be.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'A Death in the Desert'.
- 75 And it is good to cheat the pair, and gibe,
 Letting the rank tongue blossom into speech.
 Setebos, Setebos, and Setebos!
 Thinketh, He dwelleth i' the cold o' the moon.
 Thinketh He made it, with the sun to match,
 But not the stars; the stars came otherwise.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Caliban upon Setebos', stanza 1.
- 76 Let twenty pass, and stone the twenty-first,
 Loving not, hating not, just choosing so.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Caliban upon Setebos', stanza 1.
- 77 We loved, sir—used to meet:
 How sad and bad and mad it was—
 But then, how it was sweet!
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Confessions', stanza 9.
- 78 There's more hateful form of foolery—
 The social sage's, Solomon of saloons
 And philosophic diner-out.
1864 Dramatis Personae, 'Mr Sludge, The Medium', stanza 1.
- 79 Well, British Public, ye who like me not,
 (God love you!)
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.1, 1.410
- 80 'Go get you manned by Manning and new-manned
 By Newman and, mayhap, wise-manned to boot
 By Wiseman.'
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.1, 1.444-6.
- 81 Youth means love,
 Vows can't change nature, priests are only men.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.1, 1.1056-7.
- 82 O lyric love half angel and half bird
 And all a wonder and a wild desire.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.1, 1.1391-2.
- 83 In the great right of an excessive wrong.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.3, 1.1055.
- 84 Faultless to a fault.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.9, 1.1175.
- 85 Why comes temptation but for a man to meet and master and make crouch beneath his foot,
 And so be pedestalled in triumph?
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.10, 1.1184-6.
- 86 White shall not neutralize the black, nor good
 Compensate bad in man, absolve him so:
 Life's business being just the terrible choice.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.10, 1.1235-7.
- 87 There's a new tribunal now
 Higher than God's,—the educated man's!
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.10, 1.1975-6.
- 88 Into that sad obscure sequestered state
 Where God unmakes but to remake the soul
 He else made first in vain; which must not be.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.10, 1.2129-31.
- 89 It is the glory and good of Art,
 That Art remains the one way possible
 Of speaking truth, to mouths like mine, at least.
1868-9 The Ring and the Book, bk.12, 1.838-40.
- 90 But, thanks to wine-less and democracy,
 We've still our stage where truth calls spade a spade!
1875 'Aristophanes' Apology', stanza 1.
- 91 Ignorance is not innocence but sin.
1875 The Inn Album, canto 5.
- 92 I want to know a butcher paints,
 A baker rhymes for his pursuit,
 Candlestick-maker much acquaints
 His soul with song, or, haply mute,
 Blows out his brains upon the flute.
1876 'Shop', stanza 21.
- 93 Good, to forgive;
 Best, to forget!
 Living, we fret;
 Dying, we live.
1878 La Saisiaz, prologue.

- 94 At midnight in the silence of the sleep-time,
When you set your fancies free.
1889 Asolando, epilogue.
- 95 One who never turned his back but marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break,
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong
would triumph,
Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better,
Sleep to wake.
1889 Asolando, epilogue.
- 96 Greet the unseen with a cheer!
1889 Asolando, epilogue.

Broyard, Anatole 1920–90

Literary critic, writer and editor at the New York Times.

- 97 She has always ridden the passions as if they were a magnificent horse.
1978 On Edna O'Brien. In the New York Times, 1 Jan.
- 98 Such a fatigue of adjectives, a drone of alliterations, a huffing of hyphenated words hurdling the meter like tired horses. Such a faded upholstery of tears, stars, bells, bones, flood and blood... a thud of consonants in tongue, night, dark, dust, seed, wound and wind.
1974 On Dylan Thomas's poetry. Aroused by Books.
- 99 I remember a table in Barchester Towers that had more character than the combined heroes of three recent novels I've read.
1974 Aroused by Books.
- 1 When Harriet goes to bed with a man, she always takes her wet blanket with her.
1974 On a character in Iris Owen's After Claude (1973). *Aroused

- 3 Who's your fat friend?
c.1813 Of the Prince Regent. Remark addressed to his companion, whom the Prince had acknowledged while studiously ignoring Brummell. Quoted in Jesse Life of George Brummell (1844), vol.1.

Brunet, Michel 1917–85

Canadian historian.

- 4 The thing which amazes me is that I know perfectly well, as a historian, that there is corruption in any government—there's always corruption. It's bad when it's more than fifteen percent.
Interviewed by Ramsay Cook in Eleanor Cook (ed) The Craft of History (1973).

Brunner, John Kilian Houston 1934–95

English science-fiction writer, an important contributor to the more literary aspirations of the genre. Stand On Zanzibar (1969)

Woodrow Wilson (1913), he resigned in 1915 over the USA's second Lusitania note to Germany.

- 8 There are two ideas of government. There are those who believe that, if you will only legislate to make the well-to-do prosperous, their prosperity will leak through on those below. The Democratic idea, however, has been that if you legislate to make the masses prosperous, their prosperity will find its way up through every class which rests upon them.
1896 Speech at the Democratic National Convention, 10 Jul.
- 9 What shall we say of the intelligence, not to say religion, of those who are so particular to distinguish between fishes and reptiles and birds, but put a man with an immortal soul in the same circle with the wolf, the hyena, and the skunk? What must be the impression made upon children by such a degradation of man?
Statement issued in Dayton, Tennessee, 28 Jul 1925, by Mrs W J Bryan, shortly after the end of the Scopes trial and her husband's death.

Bryant, David 1931–

The unshorn fields, boundless and beautiful,
For which the speech of England has no name—
The Prairies.
1832 Poems, 'The Prairies'.

Bryson, Bill 1951–

US author, particularly known for his humorous travel memoirs.

- 14 My mother only ever said two things. She said, 'I don't know, dear.' And she said, 'Can I get you a sandwich, honey?'
1989 The Lost Continent, ch.1.
- 15 There are three things you just can't do in life. You can't beat the phone company, you can't make a waiter see you until he's ready to see you, and you can't go home again.
1989 The Lost Continent, ch.2.
- 16 It sometimes occurs to me that the British have more heritage than is good for them.
1995 Notes from a Small Island.
- 17 I have a small tattered clipping that I sometimes carry with me and pull out for purposes of private amusement. It's a weather forecast from the Western Daily Mail and it says, in toto: 'Outlook: Dry and warm, but cooler with some rain.'
1995 Notes from a Small Island.
- 18 Hunters will tell you that a moose is a wily and ferocious forest creature. In fact, a moose is a cow drawn by a three-year-old.
1998 Notes from a Big Country.
- 19 He was the only person in American history for whom attaining the White House was a bad career move.
1998 On Herbert Hoover. Notes from a Big Country.
- 20 In the first three months of this year the US edition of Time did not have a single report from France, Italy, Spain or Japan, to name just a few of the countries that seem to have escaped its notice.
1998 Notes from a Big Country.
- 21 According to an opinion poll, 13 per cent of women in the United States cannot say whether they wear their tights under their knickers or over them. That's something like a million women walking around in a state of chronic foundation garment uncertainty.
1998 Notes from a Big Country.

Buber, Martin 1878–1965

- 24 You think that a wall as solid as the earth separates civilisation from barbarism. I tell you the division is a thread, a sheet of glass.
1916 The Power-House, ch.3, 'Tells of a Midsummer Night'.
- 25 Civilisation is a conspiracy.
1916 The Power-House, ch.3, 'Tells of a Midsummer Night'.
- 26 It's a great life if you don't weaken.
1919 Mr Standfast, ch.5.
- 27 Look at the Irish! They are the cleverest propagandists extant, and managed to persuade most people that they were a brave, generous, humorous, talented, warm-hearted race, cruelly yoked to a dull mercantile England, when, God knows, they were exactly the opposite.
1924 The Three Hostages.
- 28 To live for a time close to great minds is the best kind of education.
1940 Memory Hold-the-Door, ch.2.

- 43 Glory is to God what style is to an artist... To behold God's glory, to sense his style, is the closest you can get this side of Paradise, just as to read King Lear is the closest you can get to Shakespeare.
1973 Wishful Thinking.

- 44 There is no event so commonplace but that God is present in it, always hiddenly, always leaving you room to recognize him or not to recognize him... Listen to your life. See it for the fathomless mystery it is. In the boredom and pain of it no less than in the excitement and gladness: touch, taste, smell your way to the heavenly and hidden heart of it because in the last analysis all moments are key moments, and life itself is grace.

1983 Now and Then.

Buffett, Warren Edward 1930–

58 Beneath the rule of men entirely great, the pen is mightier than the sword.

1839 Richelieu, act 2, sc.2.

Bunting, Basil 1900–85

English poet. He was encouraged by Pound and worked with Ford Madox Ford on The Transatlantic Review, but never found a wide audience. The long poem Briggflatts (1966) is his best-known work.

59 Our doom

is, to be sifted by the wind, heaped up, smoothed down like silly sands.

We are less permanent than thought.

1972 Title of film.

Bunyan, John 1628–88

English writer and preacher. His father was a tinker and he received little formal education. His works, including an autobiography Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners (1666) and probably most of The Pilgrim's Progress (1st part 1678, 2nd part 1684), were written while imprisoned for nonconformity.

66 Oh, the diligence of Satan! Oh, the desperateness of man's heart!

1666 Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners.

67 This miry slough, is such a place as cannot be mended: It is the descent whither the scum and filth that attends conviction for sin doth continually run, and therefore is it called the Slough of Despond.

1678 The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.1.

68 The valley of Humiliation.

1678 The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.1.

75 For though when he was here, he was Fool in every man's mouth, yet now he is gone he is highly commended of all.

1684 The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.2.

- 76 He that is down needs fear no fall,
He that is low no pride.

He that is humble ever shall
Have God to be his guide.

1684 The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.2.

- 77 My Sword, I give to him that shall succeed me in my Pilgrimage, and my Courage and Skill, to him that can get it. My Marks and Scars I carry with me, to be a witness for me, that I have fought his Battles, who now will be my Rewarder... As he went, he said, Death, where is thy Sting? And as he went down deeper, he said, Grave where is thy Victory? So he passed over, and the Trumpets sounded for him on the other side.

1684 Mr Valiant-for-Glory. The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.2.

- 78 He that lives in sin and looks for happiness hereafter is like him that soweth cockle and thinks to fill his barn with wheat or barley.

1684 The Pilgrim's Progress, pt.2.

Burbank, Luther 1849–1926

US plant breeder and natural scientist.

1884 Of the Democratic party. Speech at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City, 29 Oct.

Burgess, Anthony real name John Anthony Burgess Wilson 1917–94

English writer. He is widely regarded as among the most important novelists of his generation, notably for his controversial dystopian novel A Clockwork Orange (1962).

- 81 Who ever heard of a clockwork orange? Then I read a malenky bit out loud in a sort of very high type preaching goloss: 'The attempt to impose upon man, a creature of growth and capable of sweetness, to ooze juicily at the last round the bearded lips of God, to attempt to impose, I say, laws and conditions appropriate to a mechanical creation, against this I raise my sword-pen.'

1962 A Clockwork Orange.

- 82 He said it was artificial respiration, but now I find I am to have his child.

- 83 Bath twice a day to be really clean, once a day to be passably clean, once a week to avoid being a public menace.

1963 Inside Mr Enderby, pt.2, ch.1.

- 84 Rome's just a city like anywhere else. A vastly overrated city, I'd say. It trades on belief just as Stratford trades on Shakespeare.

1963 Inside Mr Enderby, pt.2, ch.1.

- 85 Pax Romana. Where they made a desolation they called it a peace. What absolute nonsense! It was a nasty, vulgar sort of civilization, only dignified by being hidden under a lot of declensions.

1963 Inside Mr Enderby, pt.2, ch.2.

- 86 Keep away from physicians. It is all probing and guessing and pretending to them. They leave it to Nature to cure in her own time, but they take the credit. As well as very fat fees.

1964 Nothing Like the Sun.

- 87 The possession of a book becomes a substitute for reading it.

- 2 It is a general popular error to imagine the loudest complainers for the public to be the most anxious for its welfare.
1769 Observations on a Late Publication on the Present State of the Nation, 2nd edn.
- 3 To complain of the age we live in, to murmur at the present possessors of power, to lament the past, to conceive extravagant hopes of the future, are the common dispositions of the greatest part of mankind.
1770 Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents.
- 4 When bad men combine, the good must associate; else they will fall, one by one, an unpitied sacrifice in a contemptible struggle.
1770 Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents.
- 5 It is therefore our business carefully to cultivate in our minds, to rear to the most perfect vigour and maturity, every sort of generous and honest feeling that belongs to our nature. To bring the dispositions that are loved in private life into the service and conduct of the commonwealth; so to be patriots, as not to forget we are gentlemen.
1770 Thoughts on the Cause of the Present Discontents.
- 6 The greater the power, the more dangerous is the abuse.
1771 Speech on the Middlesex Election, House of Commons, 7 Feb.
- 7 Parliament is a deliberative assembly of one nation. You choose a Member indeed; but when you have chosen him, he is not the Member for Bristol, but he is a Member of Parliament.
1774 Speech to Bristol voters.
- 8 The concessions of the weak are the concessions of fear.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 9 The use of force alone is but temporary. It may subdue for a moment; but it does not remove the necessity of subduing again; and a nation is not governed, which is perpetually to be conquered.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 10 Nothing less will content me, than whole America.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 11 All Protestantism, even the most cold and passive, is a sort of dissent. But the religion most prevalent in our northern colonies is a refinement on the principle of resistance; it is the dissidence of dissent, and the Protestantism of the Protestant religion.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 12 It is not, what a lawyer tells me I may do; but what humanity, reason, and justice, tells me I ought to do.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 13 Freedom and not servitude is the cure of anarchy; as religion, and not atheism, is the true remedy for superstition.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 14 Slavery they can have anywhere. It is a weed that grows in every soil.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 15 It is the love of the people; it is their attachment to their government, from the sense of the deep stake they have in such a glorious institution, which gives you your army and your navy, and infuses into both that liberal obedience, without which your army would be a base rabble, and your navy nothing but rotten timber.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 16 A great empire and little minds go ill together.
1775 On Conciliation with America.
- 17 All government, indeed every human benefit and enjoyment, every virtue and every prudent act, is founded on compromise and barter.

- 20 Among a people generally corrupt, liberty cannot long exist.
1777 Letter to the Sheriffs of Bristol.
- 21 If any man ask me what a free government is, I answer that for any practical purpose, it is what the people think it so.
1777 Letter to the Sheriffs of Bristol.
- 22 People crushed by law have no hope but from power. If laws are their enemies, they will be enemies to laws; and those, who have much to hope and nothing to lose, will always be dangerous, more or less.
1777 Letter to Charles James Fox, 8 Oct.
- 23 Individuals pass like shadows, but the Commonwealth is fixed and stable.
1780 Speech, House of Commons, 11 Feb.
- 24 The people are the masters.
1780 Speech, House of Commons, 11 Feb.
- 25 Bad laws are the worst sort of tyranny.
1780 Speech, Bristol.

1793 'Mary Morison', stanza 2.
- 44 O my Luv'e's like a red, red rose
That's newly sprung in June;
O my luv'e's like the melody
That's sweetly play'd in tune.
As fair art thou, my bonie lass,
So deep in luv'e am I;
And I will luv'e thee still, my Dear,
Till a' the seas gang dry.
Till a' the seas gang dry, my Dear,
And the rocks melt wi' the sun:
O I will love thee still, my Dear,
While the sands o' life shall run.

Burroughs, Edgar Rice 1875–1950

US novelist. He was a hugely successful writer of popular fiction, much of it in the science-fiction and fantasy genres, and is best known as the creator of Tarzan. The much-quoted line 'Me Tarzan, you Jane', does not appear in any story, and is a misattribution by actor Johnny Weissmuller.

56 Tarzan of the Apes.

1912 Title of story.

Burroughs, William S(eward) 1914–97

US writer. He wandered through the USA and Europe after graduating from Harvard, becoming a heroin addict in New York (1944). His novels draw on his experiences, establishing him as a spokesman of the 'beat' generation.

57 The face of 'evil' is always the face of total need.

1959 The Naked Lunch, introduction.

58 I think there are innumerable gods. What we on earth call God is a little tribal God who has made an awful mess.

1965 In Paris Review, Fall.

59 After one look at this planet any visitor from outer space would say 'I WANT TO SEE THE MANAGER.'

1985 The Adding Machine, 'Women: A Biological Mistake'.

60 You can't fake quality any more than you can fake a good meal.

1987 The Western Lands, ch.2.

61 No problems can be solved, and all solutions lead to more problems.

Comment to Allen Ginsberg. Quoted in Barry Miles Ginsberg (1989), ch.17.

62 Nothing exists until or unless it is observed. An artist is making something exist by observing it.

1992 Painting and Guns, 'The Creative Observer'.

63 Virtue is simply happiness, and happiness is a by-product of function. You are happy when you are functioning.

1992 Painting and Guns, 'The Creative Observer'.

Burt, Benjamin Hapgood 1880–1950

US songwriter.

- 64 All Dressed Up and No Place to Go.
1913 Song title, The Beauty Shop (music by Silvio Hein).
- 65 One evening in October, when I was one-third sober,
 An' taking home a 'load' with manly pride;
 My poor feet began to stutter, so I lay down in the gutter,
 And a pig came up an' lay down by my side.
 Then we sang 'It's all fair weather when good fellows get together,'
 Till a lady passing by was heard to say:
 'You can tell a man who boozes by the company he chooses,'
 And the pig got up and slowly walked away.
1933 'The Pig Got Up and Slowly Walked Away'.

Burton, C(harles) L(uther) 1876–1961

Canadian businessman.

- 66 I hold no brief for private enterprise. But I have unshakable faith in individual enterprise.
1952 A Sense of Urgency: Memoirs of a Canadian Merchant.
- 67 Life, if you have a bent for it, is a beautiful thing. It consists, I do believe, of having a sense of urgency.
1952 A Sense of Urgency: Memoirs of a Canadian Merchant.

Burton, Robert pseudonym Democritus Junior 1577–1640

English writer and clergyman. Educated at Oxford, he remained at Christ Church for life. His Anatomy of Melancholy (1621) is a vast, witty compendium of Jacobean knowledge and superstition about the 'disease' of melancholy; it went through several editions in his lifetime.

- 68 All my joys to this are folly,
 Naught so sweet as melancholy.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, 'The Author's Abstract of Melancholy'.
- 69 A loose, plain, rude writer... I call a spade a spade.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, 'Democritus to the Reader'.
- 70 All poets are mad.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, 'Democritus to the Reader'.
- 71 I may not here omit those two main plagues, and common dotages of human kind, wine and women, which have infatuated and besotted myriads of people.
 They go commonly together.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.1, section 2, member 3,
 subsection 13.
- 72 Hinc quam sit calamus saevior ense patet.
 From this it is clear how much the pen is worse than the sword.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.1, section 2, member 4,
 subsection 4.
- 73 See one promontory (said Socrates of old), one mountain, one sea, one river, and see all.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.1, section 2, member 4,
 subsection 7.
- 74 One was never married, and that's his hell; another is,
 and that's his plague.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.1, section 2, member 4,
 subsection 7.
- 75 Who cannot give good counsel? 'tis cheap, it costs them nothing.

1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.2, section 3, member 1,
 subsection 1.

- 76 What is a ship but a prison?
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.2, section 3, member 4,
 subsection 1.
- 77 Tobacco, divine, rare, superexcellent tobacco, which goes far beyond all their panaceas, potable gold, and philosopher's stones, a sovereign remedy to all diseases... But, as it is commonly abused by most men, which take it as tinkers do ale, 'tis a plague, a mischief, a violent purger of goods, lands, health, hellish, devilish, and damned tobacco, the ruin and overthrow of body and soul.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.2, section 4, member 2,
 subsection 1.
- 78 But this love of ours is immoderate, inordinate, and not to be comprehended in any bounds. It will not contain itself within the union of marriage or apply to one object, but is a wandering, extravagant, a domineering, a boundless, an irrefragable, a destructive passion.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.3, section 2, member 1,
 subsection 2.
- 79 No cord nor cable can so forcibly draw, or hold so fast, as love can do with a twined thread. The scorching beams under the equinoctial or extremity of cold within the circle Arctic, where the very seas are frozen, cold or torrid zone cannot avoid or expel this heat, fury, and rage of mortal men.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.3, section 2, member 1,
 subsection 2.
- 80 Of women's unnatural, unsatiable lust, what country, what village doth not complain?
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.3, section 2, member 1,
 subsection 2.
- 81 A passion of the brain, as all other melancholy, by reason of corrupt imagination.
1621 Of love. Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.3, section 2, member 1,
 subsection 2.
- 82 One religion is as true as another.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, pt.3, section 4, member 2,
 subsection 1.
- 83 Be not solitary, be not idle.
1621 Anatomy of Melancholy, closing words.

Buruma, Ian 1951–British writer. His works include The Wages of Guilt (1994).

- 4 You teach a child to read, and he or her will be able to pass a literacy test.
2001 Speaking in Townsend, Tennessee, 21 Feb.
- 5 According to the Oxford English Dictionary, Mr Jefferson contributed more new words to the language than any other US President. I especially like his term for barbaric pirates: barbaresques. I'm also impressed by his words, debarrass and graffage. The other day I tried a new word for our press corps: misunderestimate. It's not quite in Jefferson's league, but I am giving it my best shot.
2001 Speaking in Washington, 12 Apr.
- 6 We spent a lot of time talking about Africa, as we should. Africa is a nation that suffers from incredible disease.
2001 Speaking in Gothenburg, Sweden, 14 Jun.
- 7 We cannot let terrorist and rogue nations hold this nation hostile or hold our allies hostile.
2001 Speaking in Des Moines, Iowa, 21 Aug.
- 8 Whether we bring our enemies to justice, or bring justice to our enemies, justice will be done.
2001 Address to a joint session of Congress, 20 Sep.
- 9 Every nation, in every region, now has a decision to make. Either you are with us, or you are with the terrorists. From this day forward, any nation that continues to harbor or support terrorism will be regarded by the United States as a hostile regime.
2001 Address to a joint session of Congress, 20 Sep.
- 10 States like these, and their terrorist allies, constitute an axis of evil, arming to threaten the peace of the world. By seeking weapons of mass destruction, these regimes pose a grave and growing danger.
2002 State of the Union Address, 29 Jan.
- 11 Our war on terror is well begun, but it is only begun. This campaign may not be finished on our watch—yet it must be and it will be waged on our watch.
2002 State of the Union Address, 29 Jan.
- 12 For a century and a half now, America and Japan have formed one of the great and enduring alliances of modern times.

2003 Speaking in Washington, 13 Apr.
- 16 Our country puts $1 billion a year up to help feed the hungry. And we're by far the most generous nation in the world when it comes to that, and I'm proud to report that. This isn't a contest of who's the most generous. I'm just telling you as an aside. We're generous. We shouldn't be bragging about it. But we are. We're very generous.

2003 Speaking in Washington, 16 Jul.

17 The best way to get news is from objective sources. And the most objective sources I have are people on my staff who tell me what's happening in the world.

2003 On Fox News, 22 Sep.

18 See, free nations are peaceful nations. Free nations don't attack each other. Free nations don't develop weapons of mass destruction.

19 The illiteracy level of our children are appalling.

2004 Speaking in Washington, 23 Jan.

20 Iraqis are sick of foreign people coming in their country and trying to destabilize their country. And we will help them rid Iraq of these killers.

2004 Interview on Al Arabiya Television, 4 May.

21 When I speak about the blessings of liberty, coarse videos and crass commercialism are not what I have in mind.

2004 Speaking in Istanbul, 29 Jun.

22 See if Saddam did this. See if he's linked in any way. In the wake of the 11 September 2001 attacks. Quoted in Richard A Clarke Against All Enemies: Inside America's War on Terror (2004).

Bush, Vannevar 1890–1974

US electrical engineer and physicist, Dean of Engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He later led the US Office of Scientific Research.

23 To pursue science is not to disparage things of the spirit.

1953 Speech at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 5 Oct.

24 It was through the Second World War that most of us suddenly appreciated for the first time the power of man's concentrated efforts to understand and control the forces of nature. We were appalled by what we saw.

1967 Science is Not Enough.

25 Knowledge for the sake of understanding, not merely to prevail, that is the essence of our being. None can define its limits, or set its ultimate boundaries.

Bussy-Rabutin, Comte de 1618–93

French soldier and poet.

29 L'absence est à l'amour ce qu'est au feu le vent; Il éteint le petit, il allume le grand.

Absence is to love what wind is to fire;

It extinguishes the small, it kindles the great.

1665 Histoire Amoureuse des Gaules. Maximes d'Amour, pt.2.

30 Comme vous savez, Dieu est d'ordinaire pour les gros escadrons contre les petits.

As you know, God is usually on the side of the big squadrons against the small.

Butler, Joseph 1692–1752

English moral philosopher, cleric and Christian apologist. Originally a dissenter, he joined the Church of England and became Bishop of Bristol, and later of Durham.

31 But to us, probability is the very guide of life.

1736 The Analogy of Religion, introduction.

32 Sir, the pretending to extraordinary revelations and gifts of the Holy Ghost is a horrid thing, a very horrid thing.

Comment to John Wesley. Quoted in John Wesley Works, pt.13.

Butler (of Saffron Walden), R(ichard) A(usten) Butler, Baron 1902–82

British Conservative politician. He became Chancellor of the Exchequer, Home Secretary and Deputy Prime Minister, and narrowly lost the premiership to Alec Douglas-Home, becoming Foreign Secretary (1963–4).

33 After all, it is not every man who nearly becomes Prime Minister of England.

35 The best Prime Minister we've got.

Attributed comment on Harold Macmillan, made on a train going to the Party Conference in Brighton.

Butler, Samuel 1612–80

English satirist, who served in noble households and in government. His Hudibras (1663–78), a burlesque satire on Puritanism, was a special favourite of Charles II. Despite royal favour, he died in penury.

36 A client is fain to hire a lawyer to keep from the injury of other lawyers—as Christians that travel in Turkey are forced to hire Janissaries, to protect them from the insolencies of other Turks.

1660 Prose Observations.

37 But here our authors make a doubt
Whether he were more wise or stout.
Some hold the one and some the other;
But howsoe'er they make a pother,
The difference was so small his brain
Outweighed his rage but half a grain;
Which made some take him for a tool

- That knaves do work with, called a fool.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.29–36.
- 38 We grant, although he had much wit,
He was very shy of using it;
As being loath to wear it out,
And therefore bore it not about,
Unless on holidays, or so,
As men their best apparel do.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.45–50.
- 39 'Tis known he could speak Greek
As naturally as pigs squeak.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.51–2.
- 40 He was in logic a great critic,
Profoundly skilled in analytic.
He could distinguish and divide
A hair 'twixt south and southwest side.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.65–8.
- 41 For every why he had a wherefore.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.132.
- 42 He knew what's what, and that's as high
As metaphysic wit can fly.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.149–50.
- 43 And with as delicate a hand
Could twist as tough a rope of sand;
And weave fine cobwebs, fit for skull
That's empty when the moon is full;
Such as take lodgings in a head
That's to be let unfurnishèd.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.155–60.
- 44 And still be doing, never done:
As if Religion were intended
For nothing else but to be mended.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.202–4.
- 45 For rhyme the rudder is of verses,
With which like ships they steer their courses.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.457–8.
- 46 Great actions are not always true sons
Of great and mighty resolutions.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 1, l.877–8.
- 47 Ay me! what perils do environ
The man that meddles with cold iron!
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 3, l.1–2.
- 48 I'll make the fur
Fly 'bout the ears of the old cur.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 3, l.277–8.
- 49 I am not now in fortune's power
He that is down can fall no lower.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 3, l.871–2.
- 50 Learning, that cobweb of the brain,
Profane, erroneous, and vain.
1663 Hudibras, pt.1, canto 3, l.1339–40.
- 51 She that with poetry is won
Is but a desk to write upon.
1664 Hudibras, pt.2, canto 1, l.591–2.
- 52 Love is a boy, by poets styled,
Then spare the rod, and spoil the child.
1664 Hudibras, pt.2, canto 1, l.843–4.
- 53 Oaths are but words, and words but wind.
1664 Hudibras, pt.2, canto 2, l.107.
- 54 For saints may do the same things by
The spirit, in sincerity,
Which other men are tempted to.
1664 Hudibras, pt.2, canto 2, l.235–7.
- 55 Doubtless the pleasure is as great
Of being cheated, as to cheat.
As lookers-on feel most delight,
That least perceive a juggler's sleight,
And still the less they understand,
The more th' admire his sleight of hand.
1664 Hudibras, pt.2, canto 3, l.1–6.
- 56 For in what stupid age or nation
Was marriage ever out of fashion?
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 1, l.817–18.
- 57 What makes all doctrines plain and clear?
About two hundred pounds a year.
And that which was prov'd true before,
Prove false again? Two hundred more.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 1, l.1277–80.
- 58 For if it be but half denied,
'Tis half as good as justified.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 2, l.803–4.
- 59 For, those that fly, may fight again,
Which he can never do that's slain.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 3, l.243–4.
- 60 He that complies against his will
Is of his own opinion still.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 3, l.547.
- 61 Neither have the heart to stay,
Nor wit enough to run away.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 3, l.569–60.
- 62 For money has a power above
The stars and fate, to manage love.
1678 Hudibras, pt.3, canto 3, l.1279–80.

Butler, Samuel 1835–1902

English writer and parliamentary secretary. His Utopian satire Erewhon (1872) and its supplement Erewhon Revisited (1901) deal with the origins of religious belief. His autobiographical novel The Way of All Flesh was published posthumously (1903).

- 63 I am forgetting myself into admiring a mountain which is of no use for sheep. This is wrong. A mountain here is only beautiful if it has good grass on it.
1863 Of Mt Cook. A First Year in Canterbury Settlement.
- 64 The wish to spread those opinions that we hold conducive to our own welfare is so deeply rooted in the English character that few of us can escape its influence.
1872 Erewhon.
- 65 Exploring is delightful to look forward to and back upon, but it is not comfortable at the time, unless it be of such an easy nature as not to deserve the name.
1872 Erewhon.
- 66 A hen is only an egg's way of making another egg.
1877 Life and Habit, ch.8.
- 67 It was very good of God to let Carlyle and Mrs Carlyle marry one another and so make only two people miserable instead of four.
1884 Letter to Miss E.M. A. Savage, 21 Nov.
- 68 Life is like playing a violin solo in public and learning the - instrument as one goes on.

1895 Speech at the Somerville Club, 27 Feb.
- 69 It has been said that although God cannot alter the past, historians can; it is perhaps because they can be useful to Him in this respect that He tolerates their existence.
1901 Erewhon Revisited, ch.14.
- 70 All animals, except man, know that the principal business of life is to enjoy it.
1903 The Way of All Flesh, ch.19.
- 71 The advantage of doing one's praising for oneself is that one can lay it on so thick and exactly in the right places.
1903 The Way of All Flesh, ch.34.
- 72 Young as he was, his instinct told him that the best liar is he who makes the smallest amount of lying go the longest way.
1903 The Way of All Flesh, ch.39.
- 73 A man's friendships are, like his will, invalidated by marriage.
1903 The Way of All Flesh, ch.75.
- 74 'Getting into the key of C sharp,' he said, 'is like an unprotected female travelling on the Metropolitan Railway, and finding herself at Shepherd's Bush, without quite knowing where she wants to go to. How is she ever to get safe back to Clapham Junction?'
1903 The Way of All Flesh.
- 75 There's many a good tune played on an old fiddle.
1903 The Way of All Flesh.
- 76 As soon as any art is pursued with a view to money, then farewell, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, all hope of genuine good work.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 77 Justice is being allowed to do whatever I like. Injustice is whatever prevents my doing it.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 78 An apology for the Devil: It must be remembered that we have only heard one side of the case. God has written all the books.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912), ch.14.
- 79 Handel is so great and so simple that no one but a professional musician is unable to understand him.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 80 The healthy stomach is nothing if not conservative. Few radicals have good digestions.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 81 Science, after all, is only an expression for our ignorance of our own ignorance.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 82 To live is like to love—all reason is against it, and all healthy instinct for it.
 Collected in H F Jones (ed) The Notebooks of Samuel Butler (1912).
- 83 The three most important things a man has are, briefly, his private parts, his money, and his religious opinions.
 Collected in Further Extracts from the Notebooks (1934).
- 84 Jesus! with all thy faults I love thee still.
 Collected in Further Extracts from the Notebooks (1934).

- 85 A lawyer's dream of heaven: every man reclaimed his own property at the resurrection, and each tried to recover it from all his forefathers.
 Collected in Further Extracts from the Notebooks (1934).

Butler, William 1535–1618

English royal physician.

- 86 Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did.
 Of the strawberry. Quoted in Izaak Walton The Compleat Angler (3rd edn, 1661), pt.1, ch.5.

Butterfield, Sir Herbert 1900–79

English historian, Professor of Modern History at Cambridge.

- 87 We can do worse than remember the principle which both gives us a firm Rock and leaves us the maximum elasticity for our minds—Hold to Christ, and for the rest be totally uncommitted.
1949 Christianity and History.
- 88 In a profound sense we may say that the crucifixion, however else we may interpret it, accuses human nature, accuses all of us in the very things that we think are our righteousness.
1951 History and Human Relations.

Byatt, Dame A(nton)ia S(us)an née Drabble 1936–

- 89 There is something both gratifying and humiliating in watching a man who has taken you for a routinely silly woman begin to take you seriously.
1985 Still Life, ch.18, 'Hic Ille Raphael'.
- 90 Autobiographies tell more lies than all but the most self-indulgent fiction.
1987 'The Day That E.M. Forster Died'.
- 91 He's one of those men who argues by increments of noise—so that as you open your mouth he says another, cleverer, louder thing.
1990 Possession, ch.15.
- 92 [J K] Rowling speaks to an adult generation that hasn't known and doesn't care about mystery. They are inhabitants of urban jungles, not of the real wild. They don't have the skills to tell ersatz magic from the real thing, for as children they daily invested the ersatz with what imagination they had.
2003 In the New York Times, 8 Jul.

Byrd, William 1543–1623

English composer and organist. A firm Catholic, prosecuted as a recusant, he wrote music for both Catholic and Anglican services, as well as madrigals, songs and music for strings.

- 93 The exercise of singing is delightful to nature and good to preserve the health of Man.
1588 Psalmes, Sonets and Songs.

Byrne, David 1952–

Scottish rock singer and guitarist, member of Talking Heads.

- 94 Book learning, or intelligence of one sort, doesn't guarantee you intelligence of another sort. You can behave just as stupidly with a good college education.
2004 In Scotland on Sunday, 29 Feb.

Byron, George Gordon, 6th Baron Byron of Rochdale 1788–1824

English Romantic poet. Lame from birth, he later dramatized himself as a gloomy, romantic man of mystery, the 'Byronic hero'. Suspected of an incestuous affair with his half-sister, he left for Venice, where he wrote Beppo (1818) and Don Juan (1819–24). He died fervently supporting the Greek war of independence against the Turks.

- 95 Yet, when confinement's lingering hour was done,
 Our sport, our studies, and our souls were one:
 Together we impell'd the flying ball;
 Together waited in our tutor's hall;
 Together join'd in cricket's manly toil.
1807 Hours of Idleness, 'Childish Recollections'. Of his childhood days at Harrow public school.
- 96 I'll publish, right or wrong:
 Fools are my theme, let satire be my song.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.5–6.
- 97 A man must serve his time to every trade
 Save censure—critics all are ready made.
 Take hackneyed jokes from Miller, got by rote,
 With just enough of learning to misquote.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.63–6.
- 98 Be warm, but pure; be amorous, but be chaste.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.306.
- 99 The petrifications of a plodding brain.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.416.
- 1 Then let Ausonia, skilled in every art
 To soften manners, but corrupt the heart,
 Pour her exotic follies o'er the town,
 To sanction Vice, and hunt Decorum down.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.618–21.
- 2 Let simple Wordsworth chime his childish verse,
 And brother Coleridge lull the babe at nurse.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.917–18.
- 3 And glory, like the phoenix midst her fires,
 Exhales her odours, blazes, and expires.
1809 English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, 1.959–60.
- 4 Never under the most despotic of infidel Governments did I behold such squalid wretchedness as I have seen since my return, in the very heart of a Christian country.
 And what are your remedies? After months of inaction, and months of action worse than inactivity, at length comes forth the grand specific—the never-failing nostrum of all state physicians from the days of Draco to the present time; death. Is there not blood enough upon your penal code that more must be poured forth to ascend to Heaven and testify against you?
1812 Maiden speech, House of Lords, 27 Feb, against a proposal to introduce the death penalty for machine-wrecking.
- 5 A land of meanness, sophistry and mist.
1812 Of Scotland. 'The Curse of Minerva', 1.138.
- 6 Each breeze from foggy mount and marshy plain
 Dilutes with drivel every drizzly brain,
 Till, burst at length, each wat'ry head o'er flows,
 Foul as their soil, and frigid as their snows.
1812 Of Scotland and the Scots. 'The Curse of Minerva', 1.139–42.
- 7 The laughing dames in who he did delight,
 Whose large blue eyes, fair locks, and snowy hands,
 Might shake the saintship of an anchorite.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 1, stanza 11.
- 8 Adieu, adieu! my native shore
 Fades o'er the waters blue.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 1, stanza 13.
- 9 Here all were noble, save Nobility.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 1, stanza 85.
- 10 None are so desolate but something dear,
 Dearer than self, possesses or possessed
 A thought, and claims the homage of a tear.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 24.
- 11 Oh, lovely Spain! renown'd, romantic land!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 35.
- 12 Dark Sappho! could not verse immortal save
 That beast imbued with such immortal fire?
 Could she not live who life eternal gave?
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 39.
- 13 Fair Greece! sad relic of departed worth!
 Immortal, though no more! though fallen, great!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 73.
- 14 Hereditary bondsmen! know ye not
 Who would be free themselves must strike the blow?
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 76.
- 15 And yet how lovely in thine age of woe,
 Land of lost gods and godlike men! art thou!
1812–18 Of Greece. Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 85.
- 16 Art, Glory, Freedom fail, but Nature still is fair.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 87.
- 17 What is the worst of woes that wait on age?
 What stamps the wrinkle deeper on the brow?
 To view each loved one blotted from life's page,
 And be alone on earth, as I am now.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 2, stanza 98.
- 18 Once more upon the waters! yet once more!
 And the waves bound beneath me as a steed
 That knows his rider.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 2.
- 19 The wandering outlaw of his own dark mind.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 3.
- 20 Years steal
 Fire from the mind as vigour from the limb;
 And life's enchanted cup but sparkles near the brim.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 8.
- 21 Where rose the mountains, there to him were friends;
 Where rolled the ocean, thereon was his home;
 Where a blue sky, and glowing clime, extends,
 He had the passion and the power to roam.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 13.
- 22 The very knowledge that he lived in vain,
 That all was over on this side the tomb,
 Had made Despair a smilingness assume.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 16.
- 23 There was a sound of revelry by night,
 And Belgium's capital had gathered then
 Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright

- The lamps that shone o'er fair women and brave men;
A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again,
And all went merry as a marriage bell;
But hush! hark! a deep sound strikes like a rising knell!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 21.
- 24 He rushed into the field, and, foremost fighting, fell.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 23.
- 25 Quiet to quick bosoms is a hell.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 42.
- 26 I live not in myself, but I become Portion of that around me; and to me,
High mountains are a feeling, but the hum
Of human cities torture.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 72.
- 27 His love was passion's essence:—as a tree
On fire by lightning, with ethereal flame
Kindled he was, and blasted.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 78.
- 28 Sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer.
1812–18 Of Edward Gibbon. Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 107.
- 29 I have not loved the world, nor the world me.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 113.
- 30 I stood
Among them, but not of them; in a shroud
Of thoughts which were not their thoughts.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 3, stanza 113.
- 31 I stood in Venice, on the Bridge of Sighs;
A palace and a prison on each hand:
I saw from out the wave her structures rise
As from the stroke of the enchanter's wand:
A thousand years their cloudy wings expand
Around me, and a dying Glory smiles
O'er the far times, when many a subject land
Look'd to the winged Lion's marble pier,
Where Venice sate in state, thron'd on her hundred isles!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 1.
- 32 Fair Italy!
Thou art the garden of the world, the home
Of all Art yields, and Nature can decree;
Even in thy desert, what is like to thee?
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 26.
- 33 The moon is up, and yet it is not night;
Sunset divides the sky with her—a sea
Of glory streams along the Alpine height
Of blue Friuli's mountains; Heaven is free
From clouds, but of all colours seems to be Melted to one vast Iris of the West,
Where the day joins the past eternity.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 27.
- 34 Italia! oh Italia! thou who hast
The fatal gift of beauty.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 42.
- 35 Oh Rome! my country! city of the soul!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 78.
- 36 From mighty wrongs to petty perfidy
Have I not seen what human things could do?
From the loud roar of foaming calumny
To the small whisper of the asp paltry few,
And subtler venom of the reptile crew,
The Janus glance of whose significant eye,
Learning to lie with silence, would seem true,
And without utterance, save the shrug or sigh,
Deal round to happy fools its speechless obloquy.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 136.
- 37 But I have lived, and have not lived in vain:
My mind may loose its force, my blood its fire,
And my frame perish even in conquering pain;
But there is that within me which shall tire
Torture and Time, and breathe when I expire.
Something unearthly, which they deem not of,
Like the remembered tone of a mute lyre,
Shall on their softened spirits sink, and move
In hearts all rocky now the late remorse of love.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 137.
- 38 The seal is set.—Now welcome, thou dread power!
Nameless, yet thus omnipotent, which here
Walk'st in the shadow of the midnight hour
With a deep awe, yet all distinct from fear;
Thy haunts are ever where the dead walls rear
Their ivy mantles, and the solemn scene
Derives from thee a sense so deep and clear
That we become a part of what has been,
And grow unto the spot, all-seeing but unseen.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 138.
- 39 There were his young barbarians all at play,
There was their Dacian mother—he, their sire,
Butchered to make a Roman holiday.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 141.
- 40 A ruin—yet what ruin! from its mass
Walls, palaces, half-cities, have been reared.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 143.
- 41 While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand;
When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall;
And when Rome falls—the World.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 145.
- 42 Oh! that desert were my dwelling-place,
With one fair spirit for my minister,
That I might all forget the human race,
And, hating no one, love but only her!
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 177.
- 43 There is a pleasure in the pathless woods,
There is a rapture on the lonely shore,
There is society, where none intrudes,
By the deep sea, and music in its roar:
I love not man less, but nature more.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 178.
- 44 Roll on, thou deep and dark blue Ocean—roll!
Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain;
Man marks the earth with ruin—his control
Stops with the shore.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 179.
- 45 When for a moment, like a drop of rain,
He sinks into thy depths with bubbling groan,
Without a grave, unkindled, uncoffined, and unknown.
1812–18 Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 179.
- 46 Dark-heaving;—boundless, endless, and sublime—
The image of eternity.
1812–18 Of the sea. Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, canto 4, stanza 183.

- 47 Such hath it been—shall be—beneath the sun
The many still must labour for the one.
1814 The Corsair, canto 1, stanza 8.
- 48 There was a laughing devil in sneer,
That raised emotions both of rage and fear;
And where his frown of hatred darkly fell,
Hope withering fled, and Mercy sighed farewell!
1814 The Corsair, canto 1, stanza 9.
- 49 Deep in my soul that tender secret dwells,
Lonely and lost to light for evermore,
Save when to thine my heart responsive swells,
Then trembles into silence as before.
1814 The Corsair, 'Medora's Song', canto 1, stanza 14.
- 50 The spirit burning but unbent
May writhe, rebel—the weak alone repent!
1814 The Corsair, canto 2, stanza 10.
- 51 Oh! too convincing—dangerously dear—
In woman's eye the unanswerable tear!
1814 The Corsair, canto 2, stanza 15.
- 52 Shakespeare's name, you may depend upon it, stands absurdly too high and will go down. He had no invention as to stories, none whatever. He took all his plots from old novels, and threw their stories into dramatic shape...
That he threw over whatever he did write some flashes of genius, nobody can deny; but this was all.
1814 Letter to James Hogg, 24 Mar.
- 53 She walks in beauty like the night
Of cloudless climes and starry skies;
And all that's best of dark and bright
Meet in her aspect and her eyes:
Thus mellowed to that tender light
Which heaven to gaudy day denies.
1815 'She Walks in Beauty'.
- 54 There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away.
1816 'Stanzas for Music'.
- 55 The mind can make
Substance, and people planets of its own
With beings brighter than have been, and give
A breath to forms which can outlive all flesh.
1816 The Dream, stanza 1.
- 56 Sorrow is knowledge: they who know the most
Must mourn the deepest o'er the fatal truth,
The tree of knowledge is not that of Life.
1817 Manfred, act 1, sc.1.
- 57 How beautiful is all this visible world!
How glorious in its action and itself!
But we, who name ourselves its sovereigns, we,
Half dust, half deity, alike unfit
To sink or soar, with our mixed essence make
A conflict of its elements, and breathe
The breath of degradation and of pride.
1817 Manfred, act 1, sc.2.
- 58 In short he was a perfect cavaliero,
And to his very valet seemed a hero.
1818 Beppo, stanza 33.
- 59 His heart was one of those which most enamour us,
Wax to receive, and marble to retain.
1818 Beppo, stanza 34.
- 60 Our cloudy climate, and our chilly women.
1818 Beppo, stanza 49.
- 61 Old man! 'tis not so difficult to die.
1819 Manfred (2nd edn), act 3, sc.4.
- 62 And Coleridge, too, has lately taken wing,
But, like a hawk encumbered with his hood,
Explaining metaphysics to the nation—
I wished he would explain his explanation.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, dedication, stanza 2.
- 63 But—Oh! ye lords of ladies intellectual,
Inform us truly, have they not hen-pecked you all?
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 22.
- 64 Married, charming, chaste, and twenty-three.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 59.
- 65 What men call gallantry, and gods adultery,
Is much more common where the climate's sultry.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 63.
- 66 Christians have burnt each other, quite persuaded
That all the Apostles would have done as they did.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 83.
- 67 He thought about himself, and the whole earth,
Of man the wonderful, and of the stars,
And how the deuce they ever could have birth;
And then he thought of earthquakes, and of wars,
How many miles the moon might have in girth,
Of air-balloons, and of the many bars
To perfect knowledge of the boundless skies;
And then he thought of Donna Julia's eyes.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 92.
- 68 A little still she strove, and much repented,
And whispering 'I will ne'er consent'—consented.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 117.
- 69 Sweet is revenge—especially to women.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 124.
- 70 'Tis sweet to win, no matter how, one's laurels
By blood or ink; 'tis sweet to put an end
To strife; 'tis sometimes sweet to have our quarrels,
Particularly with a tiresome friend;
Sweet is old wine in bottles, ale in barrels;
Dear is the helpless creature we defend Against the world; and dear the schoolboy spot
We ne'er forget, though there we are forgot.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 126.
- 71 But sweeter still than this, than these, than all,
Is first and passionate love—it stands alone,
Like Adam's recollection of his fall;
The tree of knowledge hath been pluck'd—all's known
And life yields nothing further to recall
Worthy of this ambrosial sin, so shown,
No doubt in fable, as the unforgiven
Fire which Prometheus filch'd for us from heaven.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 127.
- 72 Pleasure's a sin, and sometimes sin is a pleasure.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 133.
- 73 Man's love is of man's life a thing apart,
'Tis woman's whole existence.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 194.
► See Amis 14:84.
- 74 If ever I should condescend to prose,
I'll write poetical commandments, which Shall supersede beyond all doubt all those
That went before; in these I shall enrich

- My text with many things that no one knows,
And carry precept to the highest pitch:
I'll call the work 'Longinus o'er a Bottle,
Or, Every Poet his own Aristotle'.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 204.
- 75 Thou shalt believe in Milton, Dryden, Pope;
Thou shalt not set up Wordsworth, Coleridge, Southey;
Because the first is crazed beyond all hope,
The second drunk, the third so quaint and moutheay:
With Crabbe it may be difficult to cope,
And Campbell's Hippocrene is somewhat drouthy:
Thou shalt not steal from Samuel Rogers, nor Commit flirtation with the muse of Moore.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 205.
- 76 So for a good old-gentlemanly vice,
I think I must take up with avarice.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 1, stanza 216.
- 77 There's nought, no doubt, so much the spirit calms
As rum and true religion.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 2, stanza 34.
- 78 It was a wild and breaker-beaten coast,
With cliffs above, and a broad sandy shore,
Guarded by shoals and rocks as by an host,
With here and there a creek, whose aspect wore
A better welcome to the tempest-tost;
And rarely ceased the haughty billow's roar,
Save on the dead long summer days, which make
The outstretch'd ocean glitter like a lake.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 2, stanza 177.
- 79 Few things surpass old wine; and they may preach
Who please,—the more because they preach in vain,
Let us have wine and woman, mirth and laughter,
Sermons and soda water the day after.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 2, stanza 178.
- 80 Man, being reasonable, must get drunk;
The best of Life is but intoxication.
Glory, the grape, love, gold, in these are sunk
The hopes of all men, and of every nation.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 2, stanza 179.
- 81 They looked up to the sky, whose floating glow
Spread like a rosy ocean, vast and bright;
They gazed upon the glittering sea below,
Whence the broad moon rose circling into sight;
They heard the wave's splash, and the wind so low,
And saw each other's dark eyes darting light
Into each other—and, beholding this,
Their lips drew near, and clung to a kiss.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 2, stanza 185.
- 82 In her first passion woman loves her lover,
In all the others all she loves is love.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 3.
- 83 'Tis melancholy, and a fearful sign
Of human frailty, folly, also crime,
That love and marriage rarely can combine,
Although they both are born in the same clime;
Marriage from love, like vinegar from wine
A sad, sour, sober beverage—by time
Is sharpened from its high celestial flavour,
Down to a very homely household savour.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 5.
- 84 Think you, if Laura had been Petrarch's wife,
He would have written sonnets all his life?
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 8.
- 85 All tragedies are finished by a death,
All comedies are ended by a marriage;
The future states of both are left to faith.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 9.
- 86 He was the mildest mannered man
That ever scuttled ship or cut a throat,
With such true breeding of a gentleman,
You never could divine his real thought.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 41.
- 87 The mountains look on Marathon—
And Marathon looks on the sea;
And musing there an hour alone,
I dreamed that Greece might still be free.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 3, stanza 86.
- 88 And if I laugh at any mortal thing
'Tis that I may not weep.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 4, stanza 4.
- 89 But after being fired at once or twice,
The ear becomes more Irish, and less nice.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 4, stanza 41.
- 90 I have a passion for the name of 'Mary,'
For once it was a magic sound to me;
And still it half calls up the realms of fairy,
Where I beheld what never was to be.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 5, stanza 4.
- 91 There is a tide in the affairs of women,
Which taken at the flood, leads—God knows where.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 6, stanza 2.
- 92 Gaunt Famine never shall approach the throne.
Though Ireland starve, great George weighs twenty stone.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 8, stanza 126.
- 93 And, after all what is a lie? 'Tis but
The truth in masquerade.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 11, stanza 37.
- 94 Now hatred is by far the longest pleasure;
Men love in haste, but they detest at leisure.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 13, stanza 4.
- 95 The English winter—ending in July,
To recommence in August.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 13, stanza 42.
- 96 Society is now one polished horde,
Formed of two mighty tribes, the Bored and Bored.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 13, stanza 95.
- 97 'Tis strange but true; for truth is always stranger;
Stranger than fiction.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 14, stanza 101.
- 98 All present life is but an interjection,
An 'Oh!' or 'Ah!' of joy or misery,
Or a 'Ha! ha!' or 'Bah!'—a yawn or 'Pooh!'
Of which perhaps the latter is most true.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 15, stanza 1.
- 99 There's music in the sighing of a reed;
There's music in the gushing of a rill;
There's music in all things, if men had ears:
Their earth is but an echo of the spheres.
1819–24 Don Juan, canto 15, stanza 5.
- 1 Between two worlds life hovers like a star,
'Tixt night and morn, upon the horizon's verge.

How little do we know that which we are!
How less what we may be!

1819–24 Don Juan, canto 15, stanza 99.

- 2 Eat, drink, and love; the rest's not worth a fillip.

1821 Sardanapalus, act 1, sc.2.

- 3 Oh, talk not to me of a name great in story;
The days of our youth are the days of our glory;
And the myrtle and ivy of sweet two-and-twenty
Are worth all your laurels, though ever so plenty.

1821 'Stanzas Written on the Road between Florence and Pisa, November 1821'.

- 4 The angels all were singing out of tune,
And hoarse with having little else to do,
Excepting to wind up the sun and moon,
Or curb a runaway young star or two.

1822 The Vision of Judgement, stanza 2.

- 5 As he drew near, he gazed upon the gate
Ne'er to be entered more by him or Sin,
With such a glance of supernatural hate,
As made Saint Peter wish himself within;
He pattered with his keys at a great rate,
And sweated through his apostolic skin:
Of course his perspiration was but ichor,
Or some such other spiritual liquor.

1822 The Vision of Judgement, stanza 25.

- 6 And when the tumult dwindled to a calm,
I left him practising the hundredth psalm.

1822 The Vision of Judgement, stanza 106.

- 7 For what were all these country patriots born?
To hunt, and vote, and raise the price of corn?

1823 The Age of Bronze, stanza 14.

- 8 I awoke one morning and found myself famous.

Of the instant popularity of Childe Harold. Quoted in Thomas Moore Letters and Journals of Lord Byron (1830), vol.1.

Byron, Henry James 1834–84

English playwright and actor. His most successful plays included Our Boys (1874) and the comedies War to the Knife (1865) and A Hundred Thousand Pounds (1866), as well as numerous burlesques and extravaganzas.

- 9 Life's too short for chess.

1874 Our Boys.

Byron, Robert 1905–41

English traveller, critic of art and architecture and historian, who travelled extensively in Europe and Asia. His best-known book is The Road to Oxiana (1937). He drowned in 1941 when his ship to the Mediterranean was torpedoed.

- 10 The existence of St Sophia is atmospheric; that of St Peter's, overpowering, imminently substantial. One is a church to God; the other a salon for his agents. One is consecrated to reality, the other to illusion. St Sophia, in fact, is large, and St Peter's is vilely, tragically small.

1929 The Byzantine Achievement.

- 11 Herat, 8 December. What a day it was! God save me from any more adventures on a drained stomach.

1937 The Road to Oxiana.

- 12 I shall have warmonger put on my passport.

c.1938 Comment in response to the rise of Nazism, opposing the policy of appeasement. Quoted in Bruce Chatwin's introduction to The Road to Oxiana (1980 edn).

C

Cabell, James Branch 1879–1958

US novelist and critic. Jurgen (1919) is the best known of a sequence of 18 novels, collectively known as Biography of Michael. His Preface to the Past (1936) is a book of criticism.

- 13 I am willing to taste any drink once.

1919 Jurgen, ch.1.

- 14 A man possesses nothing certainly save a brief loan of his own body.

1919 Jurgen, ch.20.

- 15 I shall marry in haste and repeat at leisure.

1919 Jurgen, ch.26.

► See Congreve 231:1.

- 16 Drunkenness is a joy reserved for the Gods: so do men partake of it impiously, and so are they very properly punished for their audacity.

1919 Jurgen, ch.28.

- 17 Poetry is man's rebellion against being what he is.

1919 Jurgen.

- 18 The optimist proclaims that we live in the best of all possible worlds; and the pessimist fears this is true.

1926 The Silver Stallion, bk.4, ch.26.

Cabrera Infante, Guillermo 1929–

Cuban novelist, scriptwriter, film critic and diplomat. He supported Castro's revolutionary forces initially, but later left the country and settled in London (1965), becoming a British subject. Tres tristes tigres (1967, translated as Three Trapped Tigers, 1971) is full of puns, neologisms and humorous word play.

- 19 Hablando siempre y siempre contando chismes y haciendo chistes y siempre y también filosofando o estetizando o moralizando, siempre: la cuestión era hacer ver como que no trabajábamos porque en La Habana, Cuba, esa es la única manera de ser gente bien. Talking all the time and telling jokes or gossiping all the time and always and also philosophizing or aestheticizing or moralizing, but always: the thing was to make it look like we didn't have to work because in Havana, Cuba, this is the only way to be high society. . .

1967 Tres tristes tigres (Three Trapped Tigers, 1971), 'Bachata'.

Cadoria, Brigadier General Sherian G(race) 1940–

US soldier. In 1985 she became the highest-ranking black woman in the US military. She retired in 1990.

1989 In US News and World Report, 13 Feb.

Caesar, Irving 1895–1996

US librettist and lyricist.

- 21 Tea for two, and two for tea.

1924 No! No! Nanette, 'Tea for Two' (with Otto Harbach. Music by Vincent Youmans).

Caesar, Gaius Julius 100/102–44 BC

Roman general and statesman. As consul (59 BC) and proconsul (58–50 BC) he extended Roman power in Gaul and Britain. Refusing to disband his army, he came into conflict with the Senate, supported by Pompey, whom Caesar defeated in the civil war that followed. He became dictator for life, but was assassinated in 44 BC. His works include the Commentarii ('War Commentaries'), De Bello Gallico ('On the Gallic War', 7 vols) and De Bello Civili ('On the Civil War', 3 vols).

22 Gallia est omnis divisa in partes tres.

Gaul as a whole is divided into three parts.

51 BC De Bello Gallico, bk.1, section 1, opening words.

23 Fere libenter homines id quod volunt credunt.

Men are nearly always willing to believe what they wish.

51 BC De Bello Gallico, bk.3, section 18.

24 lacta est alea.

The die is cast.

49 BC Comment on crossing the river Rubicon (the border between his province and Italy) with his troops, thereby committing himself to civil war. Quoted in Suetonius Lives of the Twelve Caesars, 'Divus Iulius', section 32.

25 Veni, vidi, vici.

I came, I saw, I conquered.

46 BC Said to have been written on a titulus (placard) carried along in Caesar's triumph after a campaign in Pontus (Asia Minor) during the civil war (46 BC). Quoted in Suetonius Lives of the Twelve Caesars, 'Divus Iulius', section 37. Another source reports that Caesar used this expression in a letter to the Senate after the same campaign (cf Plutarch, Caesar 50, 3–4).

26 Caesar's wife must be above suspicion.

Attributed. Based on an episode in Plutarch Caesar 10.6, which tells that Caesar divorced his wife after accusations of impiety, although he defended her in court.

27 Et tu, Brute?

You too, Brutus?

Attributed last words, when struck by his murderers, Cassius and Brutus. The tradition is based on Suetonius Lives of the Twelve Caesars, 'Divus Iulius', section 82: 'Some say that when he saw Marcus Brutus about to deliver the second blow, he reproached him in Greek with: 'You too, my son?' (the Greek is kai su, teknon).

Cage, John 1912–92

US ultra-modernist composer. His experiments included 'aleatory' music, in which the role of chance determines how a piece will develop. Silence (1961), M (1973), and Empty Works (1979) are among his books.

28 Which is more musical, a truck passing by a factory or a truck passing by a music school?

1961 Silence.

29 I have nothing to say and I am saying it and that is poetry.

1961 'Lecture on Nothing'.

Cagney, James 1899–1986

US film actor. A leading role in Public Enemy (1931) established him as the quintessential screen gangster. He won an Academy Award for his performance in Yankee Doodle Dandy (1942).

Calhoun, John Caldwell 1782–1850

US statesman and orator, Vice-President under John Q Adams and then Andrew Jackson. His Address to the People of South Carolina (1831) set forth his theory of state rights.

35 The Government of the absolute majority, instead of the Government of the people, is but the Government of the strongest interests; and when not efficiently checked, it is the most tyrannical and oppressive that can be devised.

1833 Speech, US Senate, 15 Feb.

Caligiuri, Paul 1964–

US footballer.

36 The world knows the American athlete is superior. It's only a matter of time before we develop the world's best soccer teams.

2002 In The Times, 28 Dec.

Caligula properly Gaius Julius Caesar Germanicus AD 12–41

Roman Emperor (AD 37–41), nicknamed Caligula as a child from his little soldier's boots (caligae). His extravagant, autocratic, vicious and mentally unstable behaviour resulted in his assassination.

37 Utinam populus Romanus unam cervicem haberet!

Would that the Roman people had but one neck!

c.40 AD Quoted in Suetonius Lives of the Twelve Caesars, 'Gaius Caligula', section 30.

Callaghan (of Cardiff), (Leonard) James Callaghan, Baron 1912–

English Labour politician. As Chancellor of the Exchequer he introduced controversial corporation and selective employment taxes. He was Home Secretary (1967–70), Foreign Secretary (1974–6) and Prime Minister (1976–9).

38 Britain has lived for too long on borrowed time, borrowed money, and even borrowed ideas.

1976 Quoted in the Observer, 3 Oct.

- 39 There is no virtue in producing socially well adjusted members of society who are unemployed because they do not have the skills. Nor at the other extreme must they be technically efficient robots.

1976 Speech at Ruskin College, Oxford, reprinted in the Times Higher Education Supplement, 15 Oct. This speech began the so-called 'Great Debate' on education.

- 40 A lie can travel halfway round the world before the truth has got its boots on.

1976 Speech in the House of Commons, Nov.

► See Spurgeon 811: 41.

- 41 Either back us or sack us.

1977 Speech, Labour Party Conference, 5 Oct.

- 42 Crisis? What crisis?

1979 Headline in The Sun, 11 Jan, alluding to his remark on returning from the Guadalupe summit to be confronted by widespread strikes. His actual words were, 'I don't think that other people in the world would share the view that there is mounting chaos.'

Callanan, Jeremiah John 1795–1829

Irish poet. Born in Cork and sent by his parents to study for the priesthood, he developed instead his interest in lyrical poetry. He supported himself by teaching and writing. He gained general celebrity with 'Gougane Barra' (1826).

- 43 There grows the wild ash; and a time-stricken willow

Looks chidingly down on the mirth of the billow,
As, like some gay child that sad monitor scorning,
It lightly laughs back to the laugh of the morning.

1826 'Gougane Barra'.

Callow, Simon Phillip Hugh 1949–

English actor and director.

- 44 When he speaks, I hear Shakespeare think.

On Sir John Gielgud. Quoted in The Guardian, 14 Apr 2004.

Calonne, Charles Alexandre de 1734–1802

French politician. Appointed Controller-General in 1783, he was exiled in 1787 when he failed to provide a statement of accounts to explain the treasury deficit. Napoleon I permitted his return in 1802.

- 45 Madame, si c'est possible, c'est fait; impossible? cela se fera.

Madam, if a thing is possible, consider it done; the impossible? that will be done.

Quoted in J Michelet Histoire de la Révolution Française (1847), vol.1, pt.2. This has been adapted as the slogan of the US army: 'The difficult we do immediately; the impossible takes a little longer.'

Calvino, Italo 1923–85

Italian modernist writer and journalist, born in Cuba. A fascist under compulsion, he later joined the Resistance (1943) and wrote for the Communist L'unità in the 1940s. His novels combine fantasy with a hard satirical wit.

- 51 When you were quite a little boy somebody ought to have said 'hush' just once.

1912 Letter to George Bernard Shaw, 1 Nov.

- 52 The deep, deep peace of the double-bed after the hurly-burly of the chaise-longue.

Her definition of marriage, quoted in Alexander Woolcott While Rome Burns (1934), 'The First Mrs Tanqueray'.

- 53 It doesn't matter what you do in the bedroom as long as you don't do it in the street and frighten the horses.

Quoted in Daphne Fielding The Duchess of Jermyn Street (1964), ch.2. Sometimes attributed to Edward VII.

- 54 Watching Tallulah Bankhead on the stage is like watching somebody skating on very thin ice—and the English want to be there when she falls through.

Quoted in The Times, 13 Dec 1968.

Campbell, (Ignatius) Roy Dunnachie 1901–57

South African poet, who spent much of his life in Britain. He moved from an early liberalism to outspoken right-wing Catholicism, and is best remembered for his early lyric poems.

- 55 South Africa, renowned both far and wide

- For politics and little else besides.
1928 'The Wayzgoose'.
- 56 You praise the firm restraint with which they write—
I'm with you there, of course:
They use the snaffle and the curb all right,
But where's the bloody horse?
1930 'On Some South African Novelists'.
- 57 Of all the clever people round me here
I most delight in Me—
Mine is the only voice I care to hear,
And mine the only face I like to see.
1930 'Home Thoughts in Bloomsbury'.
- 58 Write with your spade, and garden with your pen,
Shove your couplets to their long repose.
And type your turnips down the field in rows.
1931 'The Georgiad', pt.2.
- 59 Burn, with Athens and with Rome,
A sacred city of the mind.
1936 'Toledo, July 1936'.
- 60 I will go stark: and let my meanings show
Clear as a milk-white feather in a crow
Or a black stallion on a field of snow.
1936 'A Good Resolution'.
- 61 He shouldered high his voluntary Cross,
Wrestled his hardships into forms of beauty,
And taught his gorgon destinies to sing.
1943 'Luis de Camões'.
- 62 Giraffes!—a People
Who live between the earth and skies,
Each in his own religious steeple,
Keeping a light-house with his eyes.
1946 'Dreaming Spires'.
- 63 Translations, like wives, are seldom faithful if they are in the least attractive.
1949 The Poetry Review, Jun/ Jul.
- 64 I hate 'Humanity' and all such abstracts: but I love people. Lovers of 'Humanity' generally hate people and children, and keep parrots or puppy dogs.
1951 Light On A Dark Horse, ch.13.

Campbell, Thomas 1777–1844

Scottish poet and journalist, Editor from 1820 to 1830 of The New Monthly Magazine, to which he contributed many poems. He is buried in Westminster Abbey.

- 65 On the green banks of Shannon, when Sheelah was nigh,
No blithe Irish lad was so happy as I;
No harp like my own could so cheerily play,
And wherever I went was my poor dog Tray.
1799 'The Harper', stanza 1.
- 66 'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view,
And robes the mountain in its azure hue.
1799 The Pleasures of Hope, pt.1, l.7–8.
- 67 Hope, for a season, bade the world farewell,
And Freedom shrieked—as Kosciusko fell!
1799 The Pleasures of Hope, pt.1, l.381–2.
- 68 What millions died—that Caesar might be great!
1799 The Pleasures of Hope, pt.2, l.174.
- 69 What though my wingèd hours of bliss have been,
Like angel-visits, few and far between?
1799 The Pleasures of Hope, pt.2, l.375–6.

- 70 A chieftain to the Highlands bound
Cries 'Boatman, do not tarry!
And I'll give thee a silver pound
To row us o'er the ferry.'
1809 'Lord Ullin's Daughter', stanza 1.
- 71 And yet, amidst that joy and uproar,
Let us think of them that sleep,
Full many a fathom deep,
By thy wild and stormy steep,
Elsinore!
1809 'The Battle of the Baltic', stanza 8.
- 72 To-morrow let us do or die!
1809 'Gertrude of Wyoming', pt.3, stanza 37.
- 73 An original something, fair maid you would win me
To write—but how shall I begin?
For I fear I have nothing original in me—
Excepting Original Sin.
1843 'To a Young Lady, Who Asked Me to Write Something Original for Her Album'.
- 74 Now Barabbas was a publisher.
Attributed. Quoted in Samuel Smiles A Publisher and his Friends: Memoir and Correspondence of the late John Murray (1891), vol.1, ch.14. The quote is sometimes attributed to Byron.

Campion, Jane 1954–

- 75 Remember your own childhood. That complete certainty you had, looking at the grown-ups, that you would never be like that. It was a lonely feeling, but euphoric, too.
1994 Interview with Sarah Gristwood in The Times Magazine,
'Jane Campion: A Childhood', 1 Jan.

Campion, Thomas 1567–1620

English physician, poet and composer. As well as poetry in Latin and English he wrote four Books of Airs for voice and lute (1601–17) and Observations in the Art of English Poesie (1602), defending classical structures.

- 76 My sweetest Lesbia, let us live and love,
And though the sager sort our deeds reprove,
Let us not weigh them. Heaven's great lamps do dive
Into their west, and straight again revive,
But soon as once set is our little light,
Then must we sleep one ever-during night.
1601 A Book of Airs, no.1, 'My Sweetest Lesbia', translation of a song by Catullus.
► See Catullus 200:5.
- 77 As her lute doth live or die,
Led by her passion, so must I:
For when of pleasure she doth sing,
My thoughts enjoy a sudden spring,
But if she doth of sorrow speak,
Ev'n from my heart the strings do break.
1601 A Book of Airs, no.6, 'When to Her Lute Corinna Sings'.
- 78 I care not for these ladies that must be wooed and prayed.
Give me kind Amaryllis, the wanton country maid.
1601 A Book of Airs, 'I Care Not for These Ladies'.

79 Rose-cheeked Laura, come,
Sing thou smoothly with thy beauty's
Silent music, either other
Sweetly gracing.
1602 Second Book of Airs, 'Rose-Cheeked Laura'.

80 There is a garden in her face,
Where roses and white lilies grow,
A heavenly paradise is that place,
Wherein all pleasant fruits do flow.
There cherries grow, which none may buy
Till 'Cherry ripe!' themselves do cry.
1617 Fourth Book of Airs, 'There is a Garden in her Face'.

81 Fain would I wed a fair young man that night and day could please me,
When my mind or body grieved that had the power to ease me.
Maids are full of longing thoughts that breed a bloodless sickness,
And that, oft I hear men say, is only cured by quickness.
1617 Fourth Book of Airs, 'Fain Would I Wed'.

82 Yet I would not die a maid, because I had a mother,
As I was by one brought forth, I would bring forth another.
1617 Fourth Book of Airs, 'Fain Would I Wed'.

Campo, Estanislao de 1834–80

Argentinian soldier, political journalist and gaucho (pampas cowboy) poet. Fausto, a long poetic dialogue in six episodes, relates a gaucho's impressions of a performance of Gounod's Faust in Buenos Aires.

83 Por hembras yo no me pierdo.
La que me empaca su amor
pasa por el cernidor
y...sí te vi, no me acuerdo.
I make no fuss about females.
The one who gives me her love
Gets sifted in my private sieve and... I don't think we ever met.
1866 Fausto (translated as Faust, 1943), pt.3.

Camus, Albert 1913–60

French writer. Active in the French Resistance, he found fame with his Existentialist novel L'Étranger (1942). Other works include La Peste (1947), La Chute (1956), plays and political writings. He was awarded a Nobel prize in 1957 and he died in a car accident.

84 Intellectuel = celui qui se dédouble.
Intellectual: someone whose mind watches itself.
Carnets, 1935–42 (published 1962).

85 La politique et le sort des hommes sont formés par des hommes sans idéal et sans grandeur. Ceux qui ont une grandeur en eux ne font pas de politique.
Politics and the fate of mankind are shaped by men without ideals and without greatness. Those who have greatness within them do not go in for politics.
Carnets, 1935–42 (published 1962).

86 L'absurde est la notion essentielle et la première vérité.
The absurd is the fundamental idea and the first truth.
1942 Le Mythe de Sisyphe (The Myth of Sisyphus, 1955).

87 Il n'y a qu'un problème philosophique vraiment sérieux: c'est le suicide. Juger que la vie vaut ou ne vaut pas la peine d'être vécue, c'est répondre à la question fondamentale de la philosophie.

There is but one truly serious philosophical problem, and that is suicide. Judging whether life is or is not worth living amounts to answering the fundamental question of philosophy.

1942 Le Mythe de Sisyphe (The Myth of Sisyphus, 1955), 'Absurdity and Suicide'.

88 L'homme se trouve devant l'irrationnel. Il sent en lui son désir de bonheur et de raison. L'absurde naît de cette confrontation entre l'appel humain et le silence déraisonnable du monde.

Man stands face to face with the irrational. He feels within him his longing for happiness and for reason. The absurd is born of this confrontation between the human need and the unreasonable silence of the world.

1942 Le Mythe de Sisyphe (The Myth of Sisyphus, 1955), 'The Absurd Walls'.

89 Il n'est pas de destin que ne se surmonte par le mépris.
There is no fate that cannot be surmounted by scorn.

1942 Le Mythe de Sisyphe (The Myth of Sisyphus, 1955).

90 La lutte elle-même vers les sommets suffit à remplir un cœur d'homme. Il faut imaginer Sisyphe heureux.
The struggle itself towards the heights is enough to fill a human heart. One must imagine that Sisyphus is happy.

1942 Le Mythe de Sisyphe (The Myth of Sisyphus, 1955).

91 Aujourd'hui, maman est morte. Ou peut-être hier, je ne sais pas.

Mother died today. Or perhaps it was yesterday, I don't know.

1942 L'Étranger.

92 Peut-on être un saint sans Dieu: C'est le seul problème concret que je connaisse aujourd'hui.

Can one become a saint without God? That is the only concrete problem I know of today.

1947 La Peste.

93 Il y a dans les hommes plus de choses à admirer que de choses à mépriser.

There are more things to admire in people than to despise.

1947 La Peste.

94 Qu'est-ce qu'un homme révolté? Un homme qui dit non.
What is a rebel? A man who says no.

1951 L'Homme révolté.

95 Toutes les révolutions modernes ont abouti à un renforcement de l'État.

All modern revolutions have ended in a reinforcement of the State.

1951 L'Homme révolté.

96 Tout révolutionnaire finit en oppresseur ou en hérétique.
Every revolutionary ends as an oppressor or a heretic.

1951 L'Homme révolté.

97 Le style, comme la popeline, dissimule trop souvent de l'eczéma.

Style, like sheer silk, too often hides eczema.

1956 La Chute, ch.1 (translated by Stuart Gilbert).

98 Vous savez ce qu'est le charme: une manière de s'entendre répondre oui sans avoir posé aucune question claire.

You know what charm is: a way of getting the answer yes

- without having asked any clear question.
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 99 Chacun exige d'être innocent, à tout prix, même si, pour cela, il faut accuser le genre humain et le ciel.
 Everyone insists on his or her innocence, at all costs, even if it means accusing the rest of the human race and heaven.
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 1 C'est si vrai que nous nous confions rarement à ceux qui sont meilleurs que nous.
 It is true that we seldom confide in those who are better than ourselves.
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 2 N'attendez pas le jugement dernier. Il a lieu tous les jours.
 Do not wait for the last judgment. It happens every day.
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 3 Combien de crimes commis simplement parce que leur auteur ne pouvait supporter d'être en faute!
 How many crimes are committed merely because their authors could not endure being wrong!
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 4 La vérité, comme la lumière, aveugle. Le mensonge, au contraire, est un beau crépuscule qui met chaque objet en valeur.
 Truth, like light, blinds. A lie, on the contrary, is a beautiful twilight which shows the value of each object.
1956 La Chute (translated by Stuart Gilbert).
- 5 All that I know surely about morality and the obligations of man, I owe to football.
1957 'What I owe to Football', in France Football. In his youth, Camus kept goal for the Oran football club in Algiers.
- 6 A novel is never anything but a philosophy put into images.
 Recalled on his death, 4 Jan 1960.

Canmore, Malcolm d.1093

King of Scotland. The son of Duncan (who was killed by Macbeth), he spent his youth in Northumbria and returned in 1057 to take the throne after Macbeth's death.

- 7 Excellentioris personæ semper casus in vitium, minoris lapsus, comparatione scandali multe longius antecedit.
 The scandal of an exalted person's fall into vice, when compared to the lapse of one lesser, always far exceeds it.
c.1057 Quoted in John Fordun's Chronicle of Scotland (c.1384), bk.5, ch.4.

Cannadine, David 1950–

English historian and academic.

- 8 Prince Albert...discovered the impotence of being earnest.
1991 Of Queen Victoria's consort. The Pleasure of the Past.
- 9 Neville Chamberlain had greatness thrust upon him—and in trying to prove he could bear it, collapsed under the weight.
1991 The Pleasure of the Past.

Cannan, Edwin 1861–1935

English economist, Professor at the London School of Economics. He was editor of the standard edition of Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations in 1904.

- 10 It often happens that a man of considerable eminence in his own profession, but without the smallest acquaintance with the fundamentals of economics, will make a suggestion which is precisely on a level with the proposition that the locomotive would be much more efficient if its weight were taken off the driving wheels so that they could revolve more easily. The editor of an important magazine accepts with joy the contribution in which he develops his ideas, and the public feebly thinks that there may be something in it, and is confirmed in this view by the fact that professional economists are as disinclined to publish a refutation of it as the Astronomer Royal is to answer the theorists who declare that the world is flat.
1914 Wealth, ch.6.

Canning, George 1770–1827

English statesman. He became Foreign Secretary in 1822 on the death of his political opponent Castlereagh, and began a programme of liberalization. On Liverpool's resignation in 1827, he formed his own administration but died the same year.

 As London is to Paddington.
c.1803 'The Oracle'. Henry Addington, 1st Viscount Sidmouth (1757–1844) was Prime Minister (1801–4) and a political rival of Pitt, who served in his administration.
- 12 And finds, with keen discriminating sight,
 Black's not so black;—nor white so very white.
1821 'New Morality', 1.199–200.
- 13 Give me the avowed, erect and manly foe;
 Firm I can meet, perhaps return the blow;
 But of all plagues, good Heaven, thy wrath can send,
 Save me, oh, save me, from the candid friend.
1821 'New Morality', 1.207–8.
- 14 In matters of commerce
 The fault of the Dutch
 Is offering too little
 And asking too much.
1826 Dispatch enciphered to Sir Charles Bagehot, English ambassador at The Hague, 31 Jan.
- 15 I called the New World into existence, to redress the balance of the Old.
1826 Speech to the Commons, on Portugal, 12 Dec.

Cantillon, Richard c.1680–1734

Irish-born banker and economist who made a fortune in Paris after the collapse of the Mississippi Company. His single surviving work is Essai sur la nature du Commerce en Général ('Essay on the Nature of Trade', published 1755).

- 16 If all the Labourers in a Village breed up several Sons to the same work there will be too many Labourers to cultivate the Lands belonging to the Village, and the surplus Adults must go to seek a livelihood elsewhere, which they generally do in Cities.
1730–4 Essay on the Nature of Trade.
- 17 The Crafts which require the most Time in training or most Ingenuity and Industry must necessarily be the best paid.
1730–4 Essay on the Nature of Trade.
- 18 Men multiply like Mice in a barn if they have unlimited Means of Subsistence.
1730–4 Essay on the Nature of Trade.

Cantona, Eric 1966–

22 None of these people have anything interesting to say, and none of them can write, not even Mr Kerouac. What they do isn't writing at all—it's typing.

1959 On the Beat novelists. Television discussion, reported in the New Republic, 9 Feb.

23 Venice is like eating an entire box of chocolate liqueurs in one go.

1961 In the Observer, 26 Nov.

24 Even an attorney of modest talent can postpone doomsday year after year, for the system of appeals that pervades American jurisprudence amounts to a legalistic wheel of fortune, a game of chance, somewhat fixed in the favor of the criminal, that the participants play interminably.

1965 In Cold Blood, ch.4.

25 Buddy, it's fruitcake weather!

1966 Of December in Alabama. A Christmas Memory.

26 I don't care what anybody says about me as long as it isn't true.

Quoted in David Frost The Americans (1970); 'When Does A Writer Become A Star'.

27 Writing has laws of perspective, of light and shade, just as painting does, or music. If you are born knowing them, fine. If not, learn them. Then rearrange the rules to suit yourself.

1974 Interview in Paris Review, Summer.

28 When God hands you a gift, he also hands you a whip; and the whip is intended for self-flagellation solely.

1979 In Vogue, Dec. Collected in Music for Chameleons (1980), 'Music for Chameleons'.

29 Writing stopped being fun when I discovered the difference between good writing and bad, and then made an even more terrifying discovery—the difference between very good writing and true art: it is subtle, but savage.

1979 In Vogue, Dec.

30 Great fury, like great whisky, requires long fermentation.

1980 Music for Chameleons, 'Handcarved Coffins'.

31 Finishing a book is just like you took a child out in the yard and shot it.

Quoted in Linda Botts (ed) Loose Talk (1980).

32 The chic old blue-haired ladies... chew in mute chandeliered isolation.

Of elderly residents of the Ritz. Answered Prayers (1986).

33 The morals of a baboon and the guts of a butterfly.

Carballido, Emilio 1925–

Mexican short-story writer and dramatist. He is one of the most popular Latin American playwrights.

39 Es usted un homo sapiens, mamífero vertebrado... Se encuentra en el periodo de domesticación, y sería colocado en una jaula al menor sintoma de ferocidad. En la escuela, en los laboratorios o en las oficinas de gobierno sabemos todo cuanto puede saberse de usted, de sus semejantes o de los otros seres en la escala zoológica.

You are a homo sapiens, a vertebrate mammal... You are currently being tamed, and you would be put in a cage if you showed any sign of fierceness. At school, in the laboratories and in government offices we know as much as can be known about you, about your fellow beings and about the other beings in the zoological scale.

Carew, Thomas 1595–1639

English Cavalier poet, courtier and statesman. His most notable works include 'Rapture', 'To Ben Jonson' and an elegy for John Donne.

49 Why should the follies of this dull age
Draw from thy pen such an immodest rage
As seems to blast thy else-immortal bays,
When thine own tongue proclaims thy itch of praise?
Such thirst will argue drought.

1631 'To Ben Jonson, Upon occasion of his Ode of Defiance annexed to his play of The New Inn'.

50 The wiser world doth greater thee confess
Than all men else, than thy self only less.

1631 'To Ben Jonson, Upon occasion of his Ode of Defiance annexed to his play of The New Inn'.

51 Can we not force from widowed poetry,
Now thou art dead, great Donne, one elegy
To crown thy hearse?

1633 'An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's, Dr. John Donne'.

52 Unkneaded dough-baked prose.

1633 'An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's, Dr. John Donne'.

53 You committed holy rapes upon our will.

1633 'An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's, Dr. John Donne'.

54 The Muses' garden, with pedantic weeds
O'erspread, was purged by thee; the lazy seeds
Of servile imitation thrown away,
And fresh invention planted.

1633 'An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's, Dr. John Donne'.

55 Here lies a king, that ruled as he thought fit
The universal monarchy of wit.

1633 'An Elegy upon the Death of the Dean of Paul's, Dr. John Donne'.

56 And so our souls that cannot be embraced
Shall the embraces of our bodies taste.

1640 'A Rapture'.

57 I'll seize the rosebuds in their perfumed bed,
The violet knots, like curious mazes spread
O'er all the garden, taste the ripened cherry,
The warm, firm apple, tipped with coral berry.
Then will I visit with a wandering kiss
The vale of lilies and the bower of bliss,
And where the beauteous region doth divide
Into two milky ways, my lips shall slide
Down those smooth alleys, wearing as I go
A track for lovers on the printed snow.

1640 'A Rapture'.

58 All things are lawful there that may delight
Nature or unrestrained appetite.

59 Then tell me why

This goblin Honour which the world adores
Should make men atheists and not women whores.

1640 'A Rapture'.

60 Ask me no more whither dost haste

The nightingale when May is past;
For in your sweet dividing throat
She winters, and keeps warm her note.

1640 'A Song'.

61 Ask me no more if east or west
The Phoenix builds her spicy nest;
For unto you at last she flies,
And in your fragrant bosom dies.

1640 'A Song'.

62 Give me more love or more disdain;

The torrid or the frozen zone:
Bring equal ease unto my pain;
The temperate affords me none.

1640 'Mediocrity in Love Rejected'.

63 So though a virgin, yet a bride
To every Grace, she justified
A chaste polygamy, and died.

Carey, Peter 1943–

Australian novelist and short-story writer, twice winner of the Booker Prize for Oscar and Lucinda (1988) and True History of the Kelly Gang (2001).

65 Glass is a thing in disguise, an actor, is not solid at all, but a liquid... an old sheet of glass will not only take on a royal and purplish tinge but will reveal its true liquid nature by having grown fatter at the bottom and thinner at the top, and... It is invisible, solid, in short a joyous and paradoxical thing, as good a material as any to build a life from.

Carleton, William 1794–1869

Irish writer, the youngest of 14 children born to peasant parents. His sketches were collected as Traits and Stories of the Irish Peasantry (1830, 2nd series 1833). Other works include The Squanders of Castle Squander (1852).

68 I remember on one occasion, when she was asked to sing the English version of the touching melody 'The Red-Haired Man's Wife', she replied, 'I will sing it for you; but the English words and the air are like a quarrelling man and wife; the Irish melts into the tune, but the English doesn't.'

Carlyle, Jane Baillie née Jane Baillie Welsh 1801–66

Wife of Thomas Carlyle. She married Carlyle in 1826, supporting him loyally through his depressions and ill-health, though resisting his suggestions that she write herself. After her death, Carlyle wrote a memoir of her in Reminiscences (1881) and edited her letters and diaries.

69 I am not at all the sort of person you and I took me for.

1822 Letter to Thomas Carlyle, 2 May.

70 Medical men all over the world having merely entered into a tacit agreement to call all sorts of maladies people are liable to, in cold weather, by one name; so that one sort of treatment may serve for all, and their practice thereby be greatly simplified.

1837 Letter to John Welsh, 4 Mar.

71 When I think of what I is
And what I used to was,
I gin to think I've sold myself
For very little cas.

1855 Journal entry, 5 Nov. Collected in James Anthony Froude (ed) Letters and Memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle (1883), vol.2.

72 I scorched my intellect into a cinder of stolidity.

Carlyle, Thomas 1795–1881

Scottish historian and essayist. His best-known work, Sartor Resartus, on social philosophy, appeared in 1833–4. In 1834 he moved to London, where his major works included The French Revolution (3 vols, 1837) and Frederick the Great (6 vols, 1858–65).

74 His fellow creatures are still objects of reverence and love, though their basenesses are plainer to no eye than to his. To reconcile these contradictions is the task of all good men.

77 It is no very good symptom either of nations or individuals, that they deal much in vaticination.

1829 Signs of the Times.

78 Seldom can the unhappy be persuaded that the evil of the day is sufficient for it; and the ambitious will not be content with the present splendour, but paints yet more glorious triumphs, on the cloud curtain of the future.

1829 Signs of the Times.

79 Meanwhile, we too admit that the present is an important time... We were wise indeed, could we discern truly the signs of our own time; and by knowledge of its wants and advantages, wisely adjust our own position in it.

1829 Signs of the Times.

80 Were we required to characterise this age of ours by any single epithet, we should be tempted to call it, not an Heroical, Devotional, Philosophical, or Moral Age, but above all others, the Mechanical Age. It is the Age of Machinery, in every outward and inward sense of the word.

1829 Signs of the Times.

81 We remove mountains, and make seas our smooth highway; nothing can resist us. We war with rude Nature; and, by our resistless engines, come off always victorious, and loaded with spoils.

1829 Signs of the Times.

82 Wealth has more and more increased, and at the same time gathered itself more and more into masses, strangely altering the old relations, and increasing the distance between the rich and the poor.

1829 Signs of the Times.

83 Men are grown mechanical in head and in the heart, as well as in the hand. They have lost faith in individual endeavour, and in natural force of any kind.

1829 Signs of the Times.

84 By our skill in Mechanism, it has come to pass, that in the management of external things we excel all other ages; while in whatever respects the pure mortal nature, in true dignity of soul and character, we are perhaps inferior to most civilised ages.

1829 Signs of the Times.

85 We are Giants in physical power: in a deeper than metaphorical sense, we are Titans, that strive, by heaping mountain on mountain, to conquer Heaven also.

- 51 A tal punto me hunden mis palabras, como dichas por otro, por un juez que yo llevara dentro sin saberlo y se valiera de mis propios medios físicos para expresarse, que me aterro, al oírme, de lo difícil que es volver a ser hombre cuando se ha dejado de ser hombre.

As though they were coming from the lips of another, from a judge I carried within me without knowing it, and who made use of my own faculties to express himself, my words took such hold upon me that it frightened me to realize, as I listened to myself, how hard it is to become a man when one has ceased to be a man.

1953 Los pasos perdidos (translated as The Lost Steps, 1956), ch.1, pt.2.

Carr, E(dward) H(allet) 1892–1982

- 62 'And what is the use of a book,' thought Alice, 'without pictures or conversations?'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.1, 'Down the Rabbit-Hole'.
- 63 'Even if my head would go through,' thought poor Alice, 'it would be of very little use without my shoulders.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.1, 'Down the Rabbit-Hole'.
- 64 'Curiouser and curiouser!' cried Alice (she was so much surprised, that for the moment she quite forgot how to speak good English).
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.2, 'The Pool of Tears'.
- 65 How doth the little crocodile
Improve his shining tail,
And pour the waters of the Nile
On every golden scale!

How cheerfully he seems to grin,
How neatly spreads his claws,
And welcomes little fishes in,
With gently smiling jaws!
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.2, 'The Pool of Tears'.
- 66 'I'll be judge, I'll be jury,' said cunning old Fury;
'I'll try the whole cause, and condemn you to death.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.3, 'A Caucus-Race and a Long Tale', told by the Dormouse.
- 67 'You are old, Father William,' the young man said,
'And your hair has become very white;
And yet you incessantly stand on your head—
Do you think, at your age, it is right?'

'In my youth,' Father William replied to his son,

- 'I feared it might injure the brain;
But now that I'm perfectly sure I have none,
Why, I do it again and again.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.5, 'Advice from a Caterpillar'.
► See Southey 805:96.
- 68 'If everybody minded their own business,' the Duchess said, in a hoarse growl, 'the world would go round a deal faster than it does.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.6, 'Pig and Pepper'.
- 69 Speak roughly to your little boy,
And beat him when he sneezes:
He only does it to annoy,
Because he knows it teases.
1865 The Duchess's lullaby. Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.6, 'Pig and Pepper'.
- 70 'All right,' said the Cat; and this time it vanished quite slowly, beginning with the end of the tail, and ending with the grin, which remained some time after the rest of it had gone.
1865 The disappearance of the Cheshire Cat. Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.6, 'Pig and Pepper'.
- 71 'Then you should say what you mean,' the March Hare went on.
'I do,' Alice hastily replied; 'at least—at least I mean what I say—that's the same thing, you know.'
'Not the same thing a bit!' said the Hatter. 'Why, you might just as well say that "I see what I eat" is the same thing as "I eat what I see!"'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.7, 'A Mad Tea-Party'.
- 72 Twinkle, twinkle, little bat!
How I wonder what you're at!
Up above the world you fly!
Like a teatray in the sky.
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, Ch. 7, 'A Mad Tea-Party'.
- 73 'Take some more tea,' the March Hare said to Alice, very earnestly.
'I've had nothing yet,' Alice replied in an offended tone, 'so I can't take more.'
'You mean you can't take less,' said the Hatter: 'It's very easy to take more than nothing.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.7, 'A Mad Tea-Party'.
- 74 Off with her head!
1865 The Queen of Hearts. Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.8, 'The Queen's Croquet Ground'.

- 76 Take care of the sense, and the sounds will take care of themselves.
1865 The Duchess. Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.9, 'The Mock Turtle's Story'.
- 77 'Just about as much right,' said the Duchess, 'as pigs have to fly.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.9, 'The Mock Turtle's Story'.
- 78 'That's the reason they're called lessons,' the Gryphon remarked: 'because they lessen from day to day.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.9, 'The Mock Turtle's Story'.
- 79 'I only took the regular course.'
'What was that?' inquired Alice.
- 'Reeling and Writhing, of course, to begin with,' the Mock Turtle replied; 'and then the different branches of Arithmetic—Ambition, Distraction, Uglification, and Derision.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.9, 'The Mock Turtle's Story'.
- 80 The Drawing-master was an old conger-eel, that used to come once a week: he taught us Drawing, Stretching, and Fainting in Coils.
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.9, 'The Mock Turtle's Story'.
- 81 'Will you walk a little faster?' said a whiting to a snail, 'There's a porpoise close behind us and he's treading on my tail.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.10, 'The Lobster-Quadrille'.
- 82 Will you, won't you, will you, won't you, will you join the dance?
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.10, 'The Lobster-Quadrille'.
- 83 Beautiful Soup, so rich and green,
Waiting in a hot tureen!
Who for such dainties would not stoop?
Soup of the evening, beautiful Soup!
1865 Song of the Mock Turtle. Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.10.
- 84 'Tis the voice of the lobster; I heard him declare,
'You have baked me too brown, I must sugar my hair.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.10, 'The Lobster-Quadrille'.
- 85 The Queen of Hearts, she made some tarts,
All of a summer day:
The Knave of Hearts, he stole those tarts
And took them quite away!
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.11, 'Who Stole the Tarts?'.
- 86 'Where shall I begin, please your Majesty?' he asked.
'Begin at the beginning,' the King said, gravely, 'and go on till you come to the end; then stop.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.12, 'Alice's Evidence'.
- 87 'That's not a regular rule: you invented it just now.'
'It's the oldest rule in the book,' said the King.
'Then it ought to be Number One,' said Alice.
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.12, 'Alice's Evidence'.
- 88 'No, no!' said the Queen. 'Sentence first—verdict afterwards.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.12, 'Alice's Evidence'.
- 89 'Why,' said the Dodo, 'the best way to explain it is to do it.'
1865 Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, ch.3, 'A Caucus-Race and a Long Tale'.
- 90 'Twas brillig, and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe;
All mimsy were the borogoves,
And the mome raths outgrabe.
- 'Beware the Jabberwock, my son!
The jaws that bite, the claws that catch!
Beware the Jubjub bird, and shun
The frumious Bandersnatch!'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.1, 'Looking-Glass House'.
- 91 And, as in uffish thought he stood,

- The Jabberwock, with eyes of flame,
Came whiffing through the tulgey wood,
And burbled as it came!
- One, two! One, two! And through and through
The vorpal blade went snicker-snack!
He left it dead and with its head
He went galumphing back.
- 'And hast thou slain the Jabberwock?
Come to my arms, my beamish boy!
Oh frabjous day! Callooh! Callay!
He chortled in his joy.
- 1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.1, 'Looking-Glass House'.
- 92 Curtsey while you're thinking what to say. It saves time.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.2, 'The Garden of Live Flowers'.
- 93 'When you say "hill",' the Queen interrupted, 'I could show you hills, in comparison with which you'd call that a valley.'
'No, I shouldn't,' said Alice, surprised into contradicting her at last: 'a hill can't be a valley, you know. That would be nonsense—'
The Red Queen shook her head. 'You may call it "nonsense" if you like,' she said, 'but I've heard nonsense, compared with which that would be as sensible as a dictionary!'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.2, 'The Garden of Live Flowers'.
- 94 Now, here, you see, it takes all the running you can do, to keep in the same place. If you want to get somewhere else, you must run at least twice as fast as that!
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.2, 'The Garden of Live Flowers'.
- 95 Speak in French when you can't think of the English for a thing—turn out your toes as you walk—and remember who you are!
1871 The Red Queen's advice to Alice as she begins the chess game. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.2, 'The Garden of Live Flowers'.
- 96 'You shouldn't make jokes,' Alice said, 'if it makes you so unhappy.'
1871 Alice to the gnat. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.3, 'Looking-Glass Insects'.
- 97 Tweedledum and Tweedledee
Agreed to have a battle;
For Tweedledum said Tweedledee
Had spoilt his nice new rattle.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 98 'Contrariwise,' continued Tweedledee, 'if it was so, it might be; and if it were so, it would be: but as it isn't it ain't. That's logic.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 99 The sun was shining on the sea,
Shining with all his might:
He did his very best to make
The billows smooth and bright—
And this was odd, because it was
The middle of the night.
1871 Tweedledee. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 1 The Walrus and the Carpenter
Were walking close at hand;
They wept like anything to see
Such quantities of sand:
'If this were only cleared away,'
They said, 'it would be grand!'
1871 Tweedledee. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 2 'The time has come,' the Walrus said,
'To talk of many things:
Of shoes—and ships—and sealing-wax—
Of cabbages—and kings—
And why the sea is boiling hot—
And whether pigs have wings.'
1871 Tweedledee. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 3 'You know,' he said very gravely, 'it's one of the most serious things that can possibly happen to one in a battle—to get one's head cut off.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.4, 'Tweedledum and Tweedledee'.
- 4 The rule is, jam to-morrow and jam yesterday—but never jam to-day.
1871 The White Queen. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.5, 'Wool and Water'.
- 5 'It's a poor sort of memory that only works backwards,' the Queen remarked.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.5, 'Wool and Water'.
- 6 Consider anything, only don't cry!
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.5, 'Wool and Water'.
- 7 Alice laughed. 'There's no use trying,' she said: 'one can't believe impossible things.'
'I daresay you haven't had much practice,' said the Queen. 'When I was your age, I always did it for half-an-hour a day. Why, sometimes I've believed as many as six impossible things before breakfast.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.5, 'Wool and Water'.
- 8 'It's very provoking,' Humpty Dumpty said after a long silence, looking away from Alice as he spoke, 'to be called an egg—very!'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 9 With a name like yours you might be any shape, almost.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 10 'They gave it me,' Humpty Dumpty continued thoughtfully... 'for an un-birthday present.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 11 'The question is,' said Humpty Dumpty, 'which is to be master—that's all.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 12 'That's a great deal to make one word mean,' Alice said in a thoughtful tone.
'When I make a word do a lot of work like that,' said Humpty Dumpty, 'I always pay it extra.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 13 'Slithy' means 'lithe and slimy'... You see it's like a portmanteau—there are two meanings packed up into one word.
1871 Humpty Dumpty explaining the Jabberwock poem. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 14 'I can repeat poetry as well as other folk if it comes to that—'

- 'Oh, it needn't come to that!' Alice hastily said.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 15 'There's glory for you!'
 'I don't know what you mean by "glory",' Alice said.
 'I meant, "there's a nice knock-down argument for you!"'
 'But "glory" doesn't mean "a nice knock-down argument",' Alice objected.
 'When I use a word,' Humpty Dumpty said in a rather scornful tone, 'it means just what I choose it to mean—neither more nor less.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.6, 'Humpty Dumpty'.
- 16 The Lion and the Unicorn were fighting for the crown: The Lion beat the Unicorn all round the town. Some gave them white bread, some gave them brown; Some gave them plum-cake and drummed them out of town.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.7, 'The Lion and the Unicorn'.
- 17 He's an Anglo-Saxon Messenger—and those are Anglo-Saxon attitudes.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.7, 'The Lion and the Unicorn'.
- 18 The Lion looked at Alice wearily. 'Are you animal—or vegetable—or mineral?' he said, yawning at every other word.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.7, 'The Lion and the Unicorn'.
- 19 I must have two you know—to come and go. One to come, and one to go.
1871 The King speaking of his messengers. Through the Looking-Glass, ch.7, 'The Lion and the Unicorn'.
- 20 It's as large as life and twice as natural!
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.7, 'The Lion and the Unicorn'.
- 21 'It's long,' said the Knight, 'but it's very, very beautiful. Everybody that hears me sing it—either it brings the tears into their eyes, or else—'
 'Or else what?' said Alice, for the Knight had made a sudden pause.
 'Or else it doesn't, you know.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.8, 'It's My Own Invention'.
- 22 I'll tell thee everything I can:
 There's little to relate.
 I saw an aged, aged man,
 A-sitting on a gate.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.8, 'It's My Own Invention'.
- 23 Or madly squeeze a right-hand foot
 Into a left-hand shoe.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.8, 'It's My Own Invention'.
- 24 Un-dish-cover the fish, or dishcover the riddle.
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.9, 'Queen Alice'.
- 25 'Fan her head!' the Red Queen anxiously interrupted. 'She'll be feverish after so much thinking.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.9, 'Queen Alice'.
- 26 'Do you know Languages? What's the French for fiddle-de-dee?'
 'Fiddle-de-dee's not English,' Alice replied gravely.
 'Who ever said it was?' said the Red Queen.
 Alice thought she saw a way out of the difficulty this time. 'If you'll tell me what language 'fiddle-de-dee' is, I'll tell you the French for it!' she exclaimed triumphantly. But the Red Queen drew herself up rather stiffly, and said 'Queens never make bargains.'
1871 Through the Looking-Glass, ch.9, 'Queen Alice'.
- 27 What I tell you three times is true.
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the First: The Landing'.
- 28 He would answer to 'Hi!' or to any loud cry,
 Such as 'Fry me!' or 'Fritter-my-wig!'
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the First: The Landing'.
- 29 His intimate friends called him 'Candle-ends',
 And his enemies, 'Toasted-cheese'.
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the First: The Landing'.
- 30 'What's the good of Mercator's North Poles and Equators, Tropics, Zones and Meridian lines?'
 So the Bellman would cry: and the crew would reply,
 'They are merely conventional signs!'
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the Second: The Bellman's Speech'.
- 31 But the principal failing occurred in the sailing,
 And the Bellman, perplexed and distressed,
 Said he had hoped, at least, when the wind blew due East,
 That the ship would not travel due West!
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the Second: The Bellman's Speech'.
- 32 They sought it with thimbles, they sought it with care;
 They pursued it with forks and hope;
 They threatened its life with a railway-share;
 They charmed it with smiles and soap.
1876 The Hunting of the Snark, 'Fit the Fifth: The Beaver's Lesson'.
- 33 He thought he saw an Elephant,
 That practised on a fife:
 He looked again, and found it was
 A letter from his wife.
 'At length I realize,' he said
 'The bitterness of life!'
1889 Sylvie and Bruno, ch.5.
- 34 He thought he saw a Rattlesnake
 That questioned him in Greek,
 He looked again and found it was
 The Middle of Next Week.
 'The one thing I regret,' he said,
 'Is that it cannot speak!'
1889 Sylvie and Bruno, ch.6.

Carson, Edward Henry, Baron 1854–1935

81 When morning gilds the skies.

1854 Title and first line of hymn.

82 See amid the winter's snow,
Born for us on earth below,
See, the Lamb of God appears,
Promised from eternal years!

Hail thou ever-blessèd morn!
Hail, redemption's happy dawn!
Sing through all Jerusalem:
Christ is born in Bethlehem!
1858 'See Amid the Winter's Snow'.

Cather, Willa Sibert 1873–1947

US novelist, poet and journalist. Her best-known books are the trilogy on pioneering life, O Pioneers! (1913), The Song of the Lark (1915) and My Antonia (1918).

83 The history of every country begins in the heart of a man or a woman.

1913 O Pioneers!, pt.1, ch.5.

84 Isn't it queer: there are only two or three human stories, and they go on repeating themselves as fiercely as if they had never happened before; like the larks in this country, that have been singing the same five notes over for thousands of years.

1913 O Pioneers!, p.2, ch.4.

85 I like trees because they seem more resigned to the way they have to live than other things do.

1913 O Pioneers!, pt.2, ch.8.

86 Artistic growth is, more than it is anything else, a refining of the sense of truthfulness.

1915 The Song of the Lark, pt.6, ch.11.

87 Winter lies too long in country towns; hangs on until it is stale and shabby, old and sullen.

1918 My Antonia, bk.2, ch.7.

88 The dead might as well speak to the living as the old to the young.

1922 One of Ours, bk.2, ch.6.

89 When it has left a place where we have always found it, it is like shipwreck; we drop from security into something malevolent and bottomless.

1926 Of kindness. My Mortal Enemy.

90 Oh, the Germans classify, but the French arrange.

1927 Death Comes to the Archbishop, prologue.

91 The irregular and intimate quality of things made entirely by the human hand.

1927 Death Comes to the Archbishop, bk.1, ch.3.

92 Most of the basic material a writer works with is acquired before the age of fifteen.

Quoted in René Rapin Willia Cather (1930).

93 Only solitary men know the full joys of friendship. Others have their family—but to a solitary and an exile his friends are everything.

1931 Shadows On The Rock, bk.3, ch.5.

94 Religion and art spring from the same root and are close kin. Economics and art are strangers.

1936 In Commonweal, 17 Apr.

95 Every fine story must leave in the mind of the sensitive reader an intangible residuum of pleasure, a cadence, a quality of voice that is exclusively the writer's own, individual, unique.

1936 Not Under Forty, 'Miss Jewett'.

Catiline full name Lucius Sergius Catilina c.108–62 BC

Roman conspirator, from an obscure senatorial family. In 63 BC, he plotted to murder Cicero and other hostile senators, and to seize power, but was arrested and executed.

96 Idem velle atque idem nolle, ea demum firma amicitia est.

Agreements in likes and dislikes—this, and only this is what constitutes true friendship.

Quoted in Sallust De Catilinae coniuratione, bk.20, pt.4 (translated by J C Rolfe).

Cato full name Marcus Porcius Cato known as 'the Elder' or 'the Censor' 234–149 BC

97 All mankind rules its women, and we rule all mankind, but our women rule us.

Criticizing the prevalent domination of women. Quoted (in Greek) in Plutarch Regum et imperatorum apophthegmata, pt.198d (translated by F C Babbitt).

98 Orator vir bonus dicendi peritus.

An orator is a good man, skilled in speaking.

Quoted in Quintilian Institutio Oratoria, bk.12, pt.1, section 1 (translated by H E Butler).

99 Rem tene, verba sequentur.

Stick to your subject, and words will follow.

Attributed advice to orators. Quoted in Gaius Julius Victor Ars Rhetorica, 'De inventione'.

1 Delenda est Carthago.

Carthage must be destroyed.

Attributed. Quoted in Florus Epitome, bk.1, pt.31 (Cato inexplibili odio delendam esse Carthaginem, et cum de alio consulatur, pronuntiabat, Cato bore an unquenchable hatred to Carthage and used to announce that Carthage had to be destroyed, even when he was consulted on a different subject) and Pliny Naturalis Historia, bk.15, ch.74.

Cattell, Raymond B(ernard) 1905–98

British psychologist, designer of intelligence and personality tests. Associated with the eugenics movement in the 1930s, he believed that the large size and low IQs of lower-class families would undermine the nation's intellect.

2 The Fight for our National Intelligence.

1937 Title of book.

Catto, Henry E(dward) 1930–

US government official, chief of protocol at the White House (1974–6), Ambassador to the UK (1989–91) and Director of the US Information Agency (1991–3).

3 Like being the captain of a mine-sweeper, if you do your job well, nobody notices. If you don't, there's a hell of an explosion.

1988 On his role as chief of protocol. In the Washington Post, 22 Mar.

Catullus full name Gaius Valerius Catullus c.84–c.54 BC

Latin poet, mainly known for his passionate love poems for Lesbia. Her true name was Clodia, and she was probably the sister of Cicero's enemy P Clodius Pulcher.

4 Cui dono lepidum novum libellum arida modo pumice expoliturum?

Corneli, tibi.

Who shall I give my nice new little book to, my little book polished with dry pumice? To you, Cornelius.

Dedication to Cornelius Nepos, the biographer. Carmina, no.1.

5 Vivamus, mea Lesbia, atque amemus, rumoresque senum severiorum omnes unius aestimemus assis.

Let us live, my Lesbia, and let us love!

Let us not give one penny if old men protest and disapprove.

Carmina, no.5.

► See Campion 186:76.

- 6 Quaeris, quot mihi basiationes tuae, Lesbia, sint satis superque?
You ask me, Lesbia, how many kisses it will take to make me fully satisfied?
Carmina, no.7.
- 7 Nam risu inepto res ineptior nulla est.
For there is nothing more ridiculous than a ridiculous laugh.
Carmina, no.39.
- 8 Ille mi par esse Deo videtur, ille, si fas est, superare Divos, qui sedens adversus identidem te spectat et audit dulce ridentem.
He seems to me to be like a god, even superior to the Gods, if it is permitted to say so, the man who sits gazing on you all day and listens to your sweet laughter.
Carmina, no.51.
- 9 Otium et reges prius et beatas perdidit urbes.
Often has leisure ruined great kings and fine cities.
Carmina, no.51.
- 10 Odi et amo. quare id faciam, fortasse requiris. nescio sed fieri sentio et excrucior.
I hate and I love. You ask me to explain, perhaps. I don't know. But I feel it happen and the pain is dreadful.
Carmina, no.85.

Caulfield, Sir Bernard 1914–94

English high court judge.

- 11 Remembering Mary Archer in the witness box. Your vision of her probably will never disappear. Has she elegance? Has she fragrance? Would she have, without the strain of this trial, radiance?
Summing up in 1987 libel trial in which Jeffrey Archer contested a newspaper's claim that he had sex with a prostitute. Quoted in Michael Crick Jeffrey Archer: Stranger than Fiction (1996).

Causley, Charles 1917–2003

English poet of verse for adults and children, much of it set in his native Cornwall.

- 12 You must take off your clothes for the doctor
And stand as straight as a pin,
His hand of stone on your white breastbone
Where the bullets all go in.
1953 'Recruiting Drive'.
- 13 Timothy Winters comes to school
With eyes as wide as a football pool,
Ears like bombs and teeth like splinters:
A blitz of a boy is Timothy Winters.
1957 'Timothy Winters'.
- 14 Who is the smiling stranger
With hair as white as gin,
What is he doing with the children
And who could have let him in?
1961 'Innocent's Song'.

Cavafy, Constantine pseudonym of Konstantinos Pétros Kaváfis 1863–1933

Egyptian-born Greek poet who spent much of his life working as a civil servant in Alexandria. Most of his work was published posthumously, including in English translation Poems (1951) and Complete Poems (1961).

- 15 And now, what will become of us without any barbarians? Those people were a kind of solution.
1904 'Waiting for the Barbarians' (translated by E Keeley and P Sherrard).
- 16 Have Ithaka always in your mind
Your arrival there is what you are destined for.
1911 'Ithaka' (translated by E Keeley and P Sherrard).
- 17 New places you will not find, you will not find another sea
The city will follow you.
1911 'The Town' (translated by E Keeley and P Sherrard).

Cavell, Edith Louisa 1865–1915

English nurse, matron of a Red Cross hospital in Brussels during World War I. She was arrested by the Germans in 1915, charged with helping Allied soldiers escape to Holland, and executed when she did not deny the charges.

- 18 Standing, as I do, in view of God and eternity, I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness towards anyone.
1915 On the eve of her execution. Reported in The Times, 23 Oct.

Cavendish, Margaret, Duchess of Newcastle 1624–74

24 Funny you should ask. As a matter of fact I did have a light temperature when I set out.

Response to a Berlin nightclubber's ambiguous question, 'Sind Sie normal?'. Quoted in Jonathan Keates 'The Delightful Lord David', in the Times Literary Supplement, 1 Mar 1991. Keates also describes how Cecil had confessed that, had he visited Sodom and Gomorrah, he would probably only have noticed the cathedral.

Cecil, Robert Arthur James Gascoyne, 5th Marquis of Salisbury 1893–1972

English Conservative statesman. Opposition Leader in the Lords (1945–51), he became Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations in Churchill's Government and Leader of the Lords (1951–7).

25 The Colonial Secretary [Iain Macleod] has been too clever by half. I believe that he is a very fine bridge player. It is not considered immoral, or even bad form, to outwit one's opponent at bridge. It almost seems to me as if the Colonial Secretary, when he abandoned the sphere of bridge for the sphere of politics, brought his bridge technique with him.

1961 Speech, House of Lords.

Cecil, Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne, 3rd Marquis of Salisbury 1830–1903

English Conservative statesman and three times Prime Minister (1885–6, 1886–92, 1895–1902), often serving as his own Foreign Secretary. He remained as head of government during the Boer War (1899–1902), and then retired.

26 Peace without honour is not only a disgrace, but, except as a temporary respite, it is a chimera.

1864 In the Quarterly Review, Apr.

27 Under a more heroic Minister, and in a less self-seeking age, it is probable that England would have preferred the risk, whatever its extent, to the infamy of betraying an ally whom she had enticed into peril. But our Ministry is not heroic; and our generation, though not indifferent to glory, prefers it when it is safe and cheap.

1864 On Palmerston's failure to defend Denmark against Prussia, in the Quarterly Review, Jul.

28 Horny-handed sons of toil.

1873 In the Quarterly Review, Oct.

29 English policy is to float lazily downstream, occasionally putting out a diplomatic boathook to avoid collisions.

1877 Letter to Lord Lytton, 9 Mar.

30 The commonest error in politics is sticking to the carcasses of old policies.

1877 Speech, Hatfield, 25 May.

31 Randolph and the Mahdi have occupied my thoughts about equally. The Mahdi pretends to be half mad, but is very sane in reality. Randolph occupies exactly the converse position.

1884 Of Lord Randolph Churchill. Letter to Lady John Manners, May.

32 We are part of the community of Europe, and we must do our duty as such.

1888 Speech, Caernarvon, 10 Apr.

33 It is a superstition of an antiquated diplomacy that there is any necessary antagonism between Russia and Great Britain.

1896 Speech, London Guildhall, 9 Nov.

Céline, Louis-Ferdinand pseudonym of Louis Ferdinand Destouches 1894–1961

French novelist, author of Journey to the End of Night (1932), and other misanthropic works. He wrote anti-Semitic tracts before World War II and collaborated with the Germans. He escaped to Denmark after the war, but returned to France in 1951.

34 Entre le pénis et les mathématiques...il n'existe rien. Rien!

Between the penis and mathematics...there's nothing. Nothing!

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

35 Voyager, c'est bien utile, ça fait travailler l'imagination. Tout le reste n'est que déceptions et fatigues. Notre voyage à nous est entièrement imaginaire. Voilà sa force. To travel is useful. It engages the imagination. Everything else is deceitful and boring. Our own voyage is entirely imaginary. And therein lies its force.

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

36 Quand on a pas d'imagination, mourir c'est peu de chose, quand on en a, mourir c'est trop.

For those who have no imagination, death means little. For those who have one, death is often too much.

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

37 C'est l'actuel qui compte. Invoquer sa postérité, c'est faire un discours aux asticots.

It is the present that counts. To invoke one's posterity is to make a speech to maggots.

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

38 La plupart des gens ne meurent qu'au dernier moment; d'autres commencent et s'y prennent vingt ans d'avance et parfois davantage. Ce sont les malheureux de la terre. Most people only die at the last moment; others begin early and take twenty years and sometimes more. These are the most miserable people on earth.

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

39 Des pauvres, c'est-à-dire des gens dont la mort n'intéresse personne.

The poor—that is, the people whose death interests no one.

1932 Voyage au bout de la nuit (Journey to the End of Night, translated by John H P Marks, 1960).

40 Les Anglais, c'est drôle quand même comme dégaine, c'est mi-curé, mi-garçonnet.

The English are funny and peculiar, half-clergymen and half-little boys.

1936 Mort à crédit.

Cellini, Benvenuto 1500–71

Italian goldsmith and sculptor, known for his autobiography as much as for his art.

41 A painting is merely the image of a tree, a man, or any other object reflected in a fountain. The difference between a painting and sculpture is the difference between a shadow and the thing which casts it.

1547 Letter to Benedetto Varchi.

Cennini, Cennino c.1370–c.1440

Florentine painter and writer, best remembered for his Il Libro dell'Arte, a practical guide for the art student.

- 42 Do not fail, as you go on, to draw something every day, for no matter how little it is it will be well worth while, and it will do you a world of good.
c.1400 Il Libro dell'Arte ('The Craftsman's Handbook').
- 43 There is another cause which, if you indulge it, can make your hand so unsteady that it will waver more, and flutter far more, than leaves do in the wind, and this is indulging too much in the company of women.
c.1400 Il Libro dell'Arte ('The Craftsman's Handbook').

Cervantes, Miguel de 1547–1616

Spanish writer, best known for his novel Don Quixote (in two parts 1605, 1615), the first part of which is thought to have been written in prison in La Mancha. Other works include La Galatea (1585), a pastoral romance, and many plays, only two of which survive.

- 44 La mejor salsa del mundo es el hambre.
Hunger is the best sauce in the world.
1615 Don Quixote, pt.2, ch.5.
- 45 El pan comido y la compañía deshecha.
With the bread eaten, the company breaks up.
1615 Don Quixote, pt.2, ch.7.
- 46 Para todo hay remedio, si no es para la muerte.
There's a remedy for everything except death.
1615 Don Quixote, pt.2, ch.10.
- 47 Dos linajes sólo hay en el mundo, como decía una abuela mía, que son el tener y el no tener.
There are but two families in the world, as my grandmother used to say—the Haves and the Havenots.
1615 Don Quixote, pt.2, ch.20.
- 48 Digo, paciencia y barajar.
What I say is, patience, and shuffle the cards.
1615 Don Quixote, pt.2, ch.23.

Césaire, Aimé Fernand 1913–

Caribbean poet known for his visionary, surrealist style and as a Marxist and anti-colonialist.

- 49 Ma bouche sera la bouche des malheurs qui n'ont point de bouche, ma voix, la liberté de celles qui s'affaissent au cachot du désespoir.
My voice will be the voice of those who suffer and have no voice. My voice, the freedom of those weakened in the dungeon of despair.
1939 Cahier d'un retour au pays natal.
- 50 Je vois l'Afrique multiple et une verticale dans la tumultueuse péripétie avec ses bourrelets, ses nodules, un peu à part, mais à portée du siècle, comme un coeur de réserve.
I see several Africas and one vertical in the tumultuous event with its screens and nodules, a little separated, but within the century, like a heart in reserve.
1960 Ferrements, 'Pour saluer le Tiers-Monde'.

Cézanne, Paul 1839–1906

French Post-Impressionist painter, a friend of Zola who persuaded him to go to Paris to paint in 1862. His paintings foreshadow Cubism, emphasizing underlying forms with glowing colours.

- 51 May I repeat what I told you here: treat nature by the cylinder, the sphere, the cone, everything in perspective.
1904 Letter to Émile Bernard, 15 Apr.
- 52 The Louvre is the book in which we learn to read.
1905 Letter to Émile Bernard.
- 53 Monet is only an eye, but my God what an eye!
Attributed, in conversation with Ambroise Vollard. Quoted in Cooper Claude Monet (1957).
- 54 I wished to copy nature but I could not. But I was satisfied when I discovered that the sun could not be reproduced but that it must be represented by something else—colour.
Quoted in D Hooker (ed) Art of the Western World (1989).

Chalmers, Patrick Reginald 1872–1942

English writer and banker, an authority on field sports.

- 55 What's lost upon the roundabouts we pulls up on the swings!
1912 Green Days and Blue Days, 'Roundabouts and Swings'.

Chamberlain, Sir (Joseph) Austen 1863–1937

English Conservative politician, successively Chancellor of the Exchequer, Secretary for India, Unionist leader, Foreign Secretary and First Lord of the Admiralty. He received the 1925 Nobel peace prize for negotiating the Locarno Pact.

- 56 I yield to no one in my devotion to this great League of Nations, but not even for this will I destroy that smaller but older league of which my own country was the birthplace, and of which it remains the centre... Beware how you so draw tight the bonds, how you so pile obligation on obligation and sanction on sanction, lest at last you find that you are not living nations but dead states.
1927 Speech, League of Nations Assembly, Geneva, 9 Sep.

Chamberlain, Joseph 1836–1914

English Liberal politician. He was President of the Board of Trade, but resigned over Gladstone's Home Rule bill (1880). Leader of the Liberal Unionists from 1889, he was also Secretary of State for the Colonies (1895), and retired in 1903.

- 57 Lord Salisbury constitutes himself the spokesman of a class, of the class to which he himself belongs, who 'toil not neither do they spin'.
1883 Speech, 30 Mar.
- 58 Provided that the City of London remains, as it is at present, the clearing-house of the world, any other nation may be its workshop.
1904 Speech at the Guildhall, 19 Jan.
- 59 The day of small nations has passed away. The day of Empires has come.
1904 Speech at Birmingham, 12 May, advocating preferential trade within the British Empire as a means of ensuring Britain's security.

Chamberlain, (Arthur) Neville 1869–1940

English politician, who played a leading part in the formation of the National Government (1931). As Prime Minister (1937–40) he advocated appeasement of Italy and Germany. He resigned as a result of criticism of his war leadership.

60 In war, whichever side may call itself the victor, there are no winners, but all are losers.

1938 Speech at Kettering, 3 Jul.

61 How horrible, fantastic, incredible it is that we should be digging trenches and trying on gas-masks here because of a quarrel in a far away country between people of whom we know nothing.

1938 Radio broadcast, 27 Sep, referring to Germany's annexation of the Sudetenland.

62 This morning I had another talk with the German Chancellor, Herr Hitler, and here is the paper that bears his name upon it as well as mine: 'We regard the agreement signed last night and the Anglo-German naval agreement, as symbolic of the desire of our two people never to go to war with one another again.'

1938 Speech on the signing of the Munich Agreement, Heston airport, 30 Sep.

63 My good friends, this is the second time in our history that there has come back from Germany to Downing Street peace with honour. I believe it is peace for our time. Go home and have a nice, quiet sleep.

1938 Speech from the window of No. 10 Downing Street to the crowds outside, 30 Sep, having returned that day from signing the Munich Agreement. The earlier peace referred to was the Treaty of Berlin which Beaconsfield brought back in 1878.

► See also Disraeli 277:85.

64 We should seek by all means in our power to avoid war, by analysing possible causes, by trying to remove them, by discussion in a spirit of collaboration and good will. I cannot believe that such a programme would be rejected by the people of this country, even if it does mean the establishment of personal contact with the dictators.

1938 Speech in the House of Commons, 6 Oct.

65 This morning, the British ambassador in Berlin handed the German Government a final note stating that, unless we heard from them by 11 o'clock, that they were prepared at once to withdraw their troops from Poland, a state of war would exist between us. I have to tell you that no such undertaking has been received, and that consequently this country is at war with Germany.

1939 Radio broadcast, 3 Sep.

66 Whatever may be the reason—whether it was that Hitler thought he might get away with what he had got without fighting for it, or whether it was that after all the preparations were not sufficiently complete—however, one thing is certain—he missed the bus.

1940 Speech at Central Hall, Westminster, 4 Apr.

Chamberlain, Wilt(on Norman) 1936–99

US basketball player. Over seven feet tall, he set many individual scoring records.

67 Nobody roots for Goliath.

1967 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Chamfort, Sébastien-Roch Nicolas 1741–94

French writer. He joined the Jacobins at the outbreak of the French Revolution, but his remarks on the terror brought him into disfavour. Threatened with arrest, he attempted suicide, dying several days later.

68 Guerre aux châteaux, paix aux chaumières.

War to the castles, peace to the cottages.

1790 Motto for the Revolution.

69 Society is composed of two large classes; those who have more dinners than appetites, and those with more appetites than dinners.

Maximes et Pensées (1795), ch.1.

70 Vivre est une maladie dont le sommeil nous soulage toutes les 16 heures. C'est un palliatif. La mort est le remède.

Living is an illness to which sleep provides relief every 16 hours. It's a palliative. Death is the remedy.

Maximes et Pensées (1795), ch.2.

71 Sois mon frère, ou je te tue.

Be my brother, or I kill you.

His interpretation of the motto 'Fraternité ou la mort'. Quoted in P R Angus (ed) Oeuvres Complètes (1824), vol.1.

Chandler, Raymond 1888–1959

US crime writer, brought up in England. He returned to America and lived in California. He is best known for his creation of Philip Marlowe, a cynically philosophical, wise-cracking private detective whose career is closely involved with a series of beautiful and seductive femmes fatales.

72 I was neat, clean, shaved and sober, and I didn't care who knew it.

1939 Philip Marlowe. The Big Sleep, ch.1.

73 The General spoke again, slowly, using his strength as carefully as an out-of-work showgirl uses her last good pair of stockings.

79 If my books had been any worse, I should not have been invited to Hollywood, and if they had been any better, I should not have come.

1945 Letter to Charles W Morton, 12 Dec.

80 Just don't get too complicated Eddie. When a guy gets too complicated he's unhappy. And when he's unhappy—his luck runs out.

1945 The Blue Dahlia.

81 Would you convey my compliments to the purist who reads your proofs and tell him or her that I write in a sort of broken-down patois which is something like the way a Swiss waiter talks, and that when I split an infinitive, God damn it, I split it so it will stay split.

1947 Letter to Edward Weeks at Atlantic Monthly, 18 Jan.

82 By the way, do you ever read the Bible? I suppose not very often, but I had occasion to the other night and believe me it is a lesson in how not to write for the movies. The worst kind of overwriting. Whole chapters that could have been said in one paragraph. And the dialogue!

1947 Letter to Edgar Carter, 28 Mar.

83 It wasn't exactly carelessness; her knowledge of literate English contained such vast areas of desert that she took it for granted that half of what she wrote would be meaningless to her.

1947 On the shortcomings of his ex-secretary. Letter to Erle Stanley Gardner, 1 Jul.

84 California, the department-store state. The most of everything and the best of nothing.

85 A big hard-boiled city with no more personality than a paper cup.

1949 Of Los Angeles. The Little Sister, ch.26.

86 It is pretty obvious that the debasement of the human mind caused by a constant flow of fraudulent advertising is no trivial thing. There is more than one way to conquer a country.

1951 Letter to Carl Barndt, 15 Nov.

87 Some people are better off dead—like your wife and my father for instance.

1951 Line delivered by Robert Walker as Bruno in the film Strangers on a Train (with Czenzi Ormonde), based on the novel by Patricia Highsmith.

88 A preoccupation with words for their own sake is fatal to good film-making. It's not what films are for.

1951 To Dale Warren, 7 Nov.

89 If people could deal with each other honestly, they would not need agents.

1952 'Ten Per Cent of Your Life', in Atlantic Monthly, Feb.

90 Alcohol is like love... The first kiss is magic, the second is intimate, the third is routine. After that you take the girl's clothes off.

1953 The Long Good-Bye, ch.4.

91 A dead man is the best fall guy in the world. He never talks back.

1953 The Long Good-Bye, ch.10.

92 By his standards anyone who noticed how many walls the room had would be observant.

1953 On an interviewer. Letter to Roger Machell, 15 Mar.

93 I suppose all writers are crazy, but if they are any good, I believe they have a terrible honesty.

1957 Letter to Edgar Carter, 3 Jun.

94 Dashiell Hammett took murder out of the Venetian vase and dropped it into the alley.

On the moving of murder mysteries from the English country house to more realistic areas. Quoted in Contemporary Authors (1979).

95 As elaborate a waste of human intelligence as you can find outside an advertising agency.

Of chess. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

96 The streets were dark with something more than night.

Quoted in the Smithsonian, May 1994.

Chanel, Gabrielle known as Coco 1883–1971

French couturier. In the 1920s she came to prominence with designs notable for simple elegance and comfort, such as her 'chemise' dress and collarless cardigan jacket. She also developed a perfume, Chanel No.5.

97 Fashion is made to become unfashionable.

1957 In Life, 19 Aug.

98 Youth is something very new: twenty years ago no one mentioned it.

Quoted in Marcel Haedrich Coco Chanel: Her Life, Her Secrets (1972), ch.1 (translated by Charles Lam Markmann).

99 A fashion for the young? That is a pleonasm: there is no fashion for the old.

Quoted in Marcel Haedrich Coco Chanel: Her Life, Her Secrets (1972), ch.1 (translated by Charles Lam Markmann).

1 Nature gives you the face you have when you are twenty. Life shapes the face you have at thirty. But it is up to you to earn the face you have at fifty.

25 Those who set in motion the forces of evil cannot always control them afterwards.

1901 The Marrow of Tradition, ch.35.

Chesterfield, Philip Dormer Stanhope, 4th Earl of 1694–1773

English statesman and orator, a member of the Pelham ministry (1744), Irish Lord-Lieutenant (1745) and Secretary of State (1746–8). His Letters to his Son (published 1774) are a worldly guide to manners and success.

26 The difference in this case between a man of sense and a fop, is, that the fop values himself upon his dress; the man of sense laughs at it, at the same time that he knows he must not neglect it.

1745 Letter to his son, 19 Nov.

27 Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

1746 Letter to his son, 10 Mar.

28 An injury is much sooner forgotten than an insult.

1746 Letter to his son, 9 Oct.

29 I recommend you to take care of the minutes, for hours will take care of themselves.

1747 Letter to his son, 6 Nov.

30 Advice is seldom welcome; and those who want it the most always like it the least.

1748 Letter to his son, 29 Jan.

31 Wear your learning, like your watch in a private pocket: and do not merely pull it out and strike it, merely to show that you have one.

1748 Letter to his son, 22 Feb.

32 There is nothing so illiberal and so ill-bred, as audible laughter.

1748 Letter to his son, 9 Mar.

33 It must be owned, that the Graces do not seem to be natives of Great Britain; and I doubt, the best of us here have more of rough than polished diamond.

1748 Letter to his son, 11 Nov.

34 Style is the dress of thoughts.

1749 Letter to his son, 24 Nov.

35 Fashion is more tyrannical at Paris than in any other place in the world; it governs even more absolutely than their king, which is saying a great deal. The least revolt against it is punished by proscription. You must observe and conform to all the minutiae of it, if you will be in fashion there yourself; and if you are not in fashion, you are nobody.

1750 Letter to his son, 30 Apr.

36 The chapter of knowledge is very short, but the chapter of accidents is a very long one.

1753 Letter to Solomon Dayrolles, 16 Feb.

37 In matters of religion and matrimony I never give any advice; because I will not have anybody's torments in this world or the next laid to my charge.

1765 Letter to Arthur Charles Stanhope, 12 Oct.

38 In case my godson Philip Stanhope shall at anytime keep or be concerned in keeping any racehorse or pack of hounds, or reside one night at Newmarket, that infamous seminary of iniquity and ill-manners, during the course of the races there, or shall resort to the said races or shall lose in one day at any game or bet whatsoever the sum of £500 then in any of the cases aforesaid it is my express will that he, my said godson, shall forfeit and pay out of my estate the sum of £50,000 to and for the use of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster.

1773 Clause in his will.

39 David, you are an actor everywhere but upon the stage. Attributed, in conversation with the actor David Garrick.

40 The pleasure is momentary, the position ridiculous, and the expense damnable.

Of sex. Attributed.

Chesterton, G(ilbert) K(eith) 1874–1936

English critic, novelist and poet, one of the most colourful and provocative writers of his day. His amiable detective-priest Father Brown first appeared in The Innocence of Father Brown (1911). Many of his essays and articles were published in his own G.K.'s Weekly.

41 I share all your antipathy to the noisy Plebeian excursionist. A visit to Ramsgate during the season and the vision of the crowded, howling sands has left in me feelings which all my Radicalism cannot allay. At the same time I think that the lower orders are seen unfavourably when enjoying themselves. In labour and trouble they are more dignified and less noisy.

1891 Letter to E.C. Bentley. Collected in Maisie Ward Gilbert Keith Chesterton (1943).

42 With monstrous head and sickening cry
And ears like errant wings,
The devil's walking parody
Of all four-footed things.

1900 'The Donkey'.

43 Fools! For I also had my hour;
One far fierce hour and sweet:
There was a shout about my ears,
And palms before my feet.

1900 'The Donkey'.

44 Literature is a luxury; fiction is a necessity.
1901 The Defendant, 'Defence of Penny Dreadfuls'.

45 All slang is metaphor, and all metaphor is poetry.
1901 The Defendant, 'Defence of Slang'.

46 'My country right or wrong', is a thing that no patriot would think of saying except in a desperate case. It is like saying, 'My mother, drunk or sober'.

1901 The Defendant, 'Defence of Patriotism'.

► See Decatur 258:8.

47 The human race, to which so many of my readers belong, has been playing at children's games from the beginning, and will probably do it till the end, which is a nuisance for the few people who grow up.

1904 The Napoleon of Notting Hill, ch.1.

48 The word 'orthodoxy' not only no longer means being right; it practically means being wrong.

1905 Heretics, ch.1.

49 There is no such thing on earth as an uninteresting subject; the only thing that can exist is an uninterested person.

1905 Heretics, ch.3.

50 In the case of Smith, the name is so poetical that it must be an arduous and heroic matter for the man to live up to it... The name shouts poetry at you.

1905 Heretics, ch.3.

51 Charity is the power of defending that which we know to be indefensible. Hope is the power of being cheerful in circumstances which we know to be desperate.

1905 Heretics, ch.12.

52 Science in the modern world has many uses; its chief use, however, is to provide long words to cover the errors of the rich.

1905 Heretics, ch.13.

53 A good novel tells us the truth about its hero; but a bad novel tells us the truth about its author.

1905 Heretics, ch.15.

54 The artistic temperament is a disease that afflicts amateurs. It is a disease which arises from men not having sufficient power of expression to utter and get rid of the element of art in their being.

1905 Heretics, ch.17.

55 Bigotry may be roughly defined as the anger of men who have no opinions.

1905 Heretics, ch.20.

56 There is a great man who makes every man feel small. But the real great man is the man who makes every man feel great.

1906 Charles Dickens, ch.1.

57 The madman is not the man who has lost his reason. The madman is the one who has lost everything except his reason.

1908 Orthodoxy, ch.2.

58 Poets do not go mad; but chess players do.

painting', based on semi-abstract geometric figures. In the 1930s he renounced his earlier work and returned to an academic style.

- 15 If a work of art is to be truly immortal, it must pass quite beyond the limits of the human world, without any sign of common sense and logic. In this way the work will draw nearer to dream and to the mind of a child.
Quoted in Saranne Alexandrian Surrealist Art (1970).

Chisholm, Caroline née Jones 1808–77

English-born Australian social worker and philanthropist.
She married an army officer and settled in New South Wales in 1838, where she worked with impoverished immigrant women and children. Her petition to Earl Grey helped persuade the British Government to grant free passage to the families of convicts.

- 16 If Her Majesty's Government be really desirous of seeing a well-conducted community spring up in these Colonies, the social wants of the people must be considered... For all the clergy you can despatch, all the schoolmasters you can appoint, all the churches you can build, and all the books you can export, will never do much good without what a gentleman in that Colony very appropriately called 'God's police'—wives and little children—good and virtuous women.
1847 Emigration and Transportation Relatively Considered; in a Letter, Dedicated, by Permission, to Earl Grey, 17 Jun. The phrase
'God's police' was adopted by Australian feminist Anne

Summers in her feminist critique of Australian culture, Damned Whores and God's Police (1975).

- 24 The artist must possess the courageous soul that dares and defies.
1899 The Awakening, ch.39.
- 25 I trust I will not be giving away professional secrets to say that many readers would be surprised, perhaps shocked, at the questions which some newspaper editors will put to a defenseless woman under the guise of flattery.
1899 'On Certain Brisk Days', in the St Louis Post-Dispatch, 26 Nov.

Christiansen, Arthur 1904–63

British journalist, Editor of the Daily Express (1933–58).

- 26 Whenever possible print a woman's age.
1957 Quoted in Francis Williams Dangerous Estate.
- 27 The people who lived behind those clean lace curtains in row after row of identical boxes were newspaper readers, and every word in at any rate my newspaper must be clear and comprehensible to them, must be interesting to them, must encourage them to break away from littleness, stimulate their ambition, help them to want to build a better land.
1961 Headlines all my Life, ch.1.
- 28 Remember the people in the back streets of Derby.
1961 Headlines all my Life, ch.1.
- 29 Show me a contented newspaper editor and I will show you a bad newspaper.

- 30 No matter how many media for the dissemination of news are created, there is one rule that should never be broken: TELL THE PEOPLE!
1961 Headlines all my Life, ch.18.
- 31 My approach to newspapers was based on the idea that when you looked at the front page you said: 'Good heavens'; when you looked at the middle page you said: 'Holy smoke'; and by the time you got to the back page—well, I'd have to utter a profanity to show how exciting it was.
1961 Headlines all my Life, ch.19.

Christie, Dame Agatha Mary Clarissa née Miller

1890–1976

English author, who wrote more than 70 classic detective novels including The Mysterious Affair at Styles (1920), Murder on the Orient Express (1934) and Death on the Nile (1937).

- 32 He tapped his forehead. 'These little grey cells. It is up to them—as you say over here.'
1920 The Mysterious Affair at Styles, ch.10.
- 33 Life nowadays is dominated and complicated by the remorseless Zip. Blouses zip up, skirts zip down, ski-ing suits zip everywhere... Why? Is there anything more deadly than a Zip that turns nasty on you?
1946 Come, Tell Me How You Live, ch.1.
- 34 Here, in the west of Ireland, the Romans had never marched, tramp, tramp, tramp: had never fortified a camp: had never built a well-ordered, sensible, useful road. It was a land where common sense and an orderly way of life were unknown.
Hercule Poirot looked down at the tips of his patent-leather shoes and sighed. He felt forlorn and very much alone. The standards by which he lived were here not appreciated.
1947 The Labours of Hercules.
- 35 War settles nothing... to win a war is as disastrous as to lose one.
1977 An Autobiography, ch.10.

Church, Richard 1893–1972

English author, known for his poems, novels, literary criticism, travel books and children's stories.

41 We have to accept the verbal portraits, as indeed we have to accept paintings and sculptures, as well as photographs, of the immortals whose influence on our lives is often greater than that of our own family members.

In praise of biography. Quoted in Christian Science Monitor, 30 Apr 1963.

42 He delights to expose the raw nerves of evil, showing it as a force in the world, a skeletonlike figure working visible mischief in the ordinary everyday affairs of men and women and children.

Of Graham Greene. Recalled on Greene's death in the New York Times, 4 Apr 1991.

Churchill, Charles 1731–64

English satirical poet. His works savagely attacked many well-known figures of his time, including Samuel Johnson, Tobias Smollett and William Hogarth. He is best known for The Rosciad (1761).

43 A pert, prim Prater of the northern race,
Guilt in his heart, and famine in his face.

1761 Of the Scottish-born judge Alexander Wedderburn, later Lord Loughborough. The Rosciad, 1.75–6.

44 Fashion—a word which knaves and fools may use,
Their knavery and folly to excuse.

1761 The Rosciad, 1.455–6.

45 So much they talked, so very little said.

1761 The Rosciad, 1.550.

46 But, spite of all the criticizing elves,
Those who would make us feel, must feel themselves.

1761 The Rosciad, 1.961–2.

47 Keep up appearances; there lies the test;
The world will give thee credit for the rest.

Outward be fair, however foul within;
Sin if thou wilt, but then in secret sin.

1762 Night, 1.311–12.

48 Just to the windward of the law.

1763 The Ghost, bk.3, 1.56.

49 A joke's a very serious thing.

1763 The Ghost, bk.3, 1.1386.

50 Apt Alliteration's artful aid.

1763 The Prophecy of Famine, 1.86.

51 The danger chiefly lies in acting well;
No crime's so great as daring to excel.

1763 An Epistle to William Hogarth, 1.51–2.

52 Be England what she will,
With all her faults, she is my country still.

1764 The Farewell, 1.27–8.

53 It can't be Nature, for it is not sense.

1764 The Farewell, 1.200.

Churchill, Jeanette née Jeanette Jerome 1852–1921

US-born wife of Lord Randolph Henry Spencer Churchill, daughter of a prominent New York businessman.

54 There is no such thing as a moral dress... It's people who are moral or immoral.

1921 'That Moral Dress', in the Daily Chronicle, 16 Feb.

Churchill, Lord Randolph Henry Spencer 1849–95

English politician, the leader of a guerrilla band of Conservatives known as the 'Fourth Party' (from 1880) and father of Sir Winston Churchill. He was Chancellor of the Exchequer and leader of the House of Commons (1886).

55 Ulster will not be a consenting party. Ulster, at the proper time, will resort to the supreme arbitrament of force; Ulster will fight and Ulster will be right.

1886 Public letter, 7 May.

56 This monstrous mixture of imbecility, extravagance and political hysteria, better known as the Bill for the future government of Ireland—this farrago of superlative nonsense, is to be put in motion for this reason and no other: to gratify the ambition of an old man in a hurry.

1886 Pamphlet attacking Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, Jun.

57 I could never make out what those damned dots meant. Of decimal points. Quoted in Winston Churchill Lord Randolph Churchill (1906).

58 The duty of an Opposition is to oppose.

Remark attributed by his son, Winston Churchill. The phrase was used earlier by Edward Stanley, 14th Earl of Derby, who attributed it to Mr Tierney (4 Jun 1841).

Churchill, Sir Winston Leonard Spencer 1874–1965

English statesman, Prime Minister (1940–5, 1951–2) and writer. He became a Conservative MP in 1900 but turned Liberal in 1904 and was made First Lord of the Admiralty (1911) and Chancellor of the Exchequer (1924–9). He returned to the Conservative Party in 1929 and on Chamberlain's defeat formed a coalition government to pursue the war with Germany.

59 Business carried on as usual during alterations on the map of Europe.

1914 Of the British people's view of World War I. Speech at the Guildhall, London, 9 Nov.

60 In war: resolution. In defeat: defiance. In victory: magnanimity. In peace: goodwill.

c.1918 The Second World War (1948), vol.1, epigraph. According to Sir Edward Marsh, in A Number of People (1939), the phrase occurred to Churchill shortly after the end of World War I. Some sources attribute it to Marsh himself.

61 Of all tyrannies in history, the Bolshevik tyranny is the worst, the most destructive, the most degrading. Every British and French soldier killed last year was really done to death by Lenin and Trotsky—not in fair war, but by the treacherous desertion of an ally without parallel in the history of the world.

1919 Speech, London, 11 Apr.

62 The community lacks goods and a million and a quarter people lack work. It is certainly one of the highest functions of national finance and credit to bridge the gap between the two.

1925 Letter to Otto Niemeyer, 22 Feb. Collected in DE Moggridge Maynard Keynes (1992).

63 The day must come when the nation's whole scale of living must be reduced. If that day comes, Parliament must lay the burden equally on all classes.

1925 Speech as Chancellor of the Exchequer, House of Commons, 7 Aug.

64 Jellicoe was the only man on either side who could lose the war in an afternoon.

1927 On Admiral Jellicoe, commander of the Grand Fleet in World War I. The World Crisis, pt.1, ch.5.

65 The loss of India would mark and consummate the downfall of the British Empire. That great organism would pass at a stroke out of life into history. From such a catastrophe there could be no recovery.

1930 Speech to the Indian Empire Society, London, 12 Dec.

66 Mr Gladstone read Homer for fun, which I thought served him right.

1930 My Early Life.

67 Those who can win a war well can rarely make a good peace, and those who could make a good peace would never have won the war.

1930 My Early Life.

68 The War was decided in the first twenty days of fighting, and all that happened afterwards consisted in battles which, however formidable and devastating, were but desparate and vain appeals against the decision of Fate.

1930 His preface to E L Spears Liaison 1914.

69 I remember, when I was a child, being taken to the celebrated Barnum's circus, which contained an exhibition of freaks and monstrosities, but the exhibit on the programme which I most desired to see was the one described as 'The Boneless Wonder'. My parents judged that the spectacle would be too revolting and demoralizing for my youthful eyes, and I have waited 50 years to see the boneless wonder sitting on the Treasury Bench.

1931 Alluding to Ramsay MacDonald. Speech in the House of Commons, 28 Jan.

70 It is alarming and odious to see Mr Gandhi, a seditious Middle Temple lawyer, now posing as a fakir of a type well-known in the East, striding half-naked up the steps of the vice-regal palace, while he is still conducting a defiant campaign of civil disobedience, to parley on equal terms with the representative of the King-Emperor.

1931 Speech, 23 Feb.

71 That long frontier from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans, guarded only by neighbourly respect and honourable obligations, is an example to every country and a pattern for the future of the world.

1939 Address at the Canada Club, London, 20 Apr.

72 This is no war for domination or imperial aggrandisement or material gain... It is a war... to establish, on impregnable rocks, the rights of the individual and it is a war to establish and revive the stature of man.

1939 Speech in the House of Commons, 3 Sep, on the declaration of war against Germany by Britain and France.

73 I cannot forecast to you the action of Russia. It is a riddle wrapped inside a mystery inside an enigma. But perhaps there is a key; that key is Russian national interest.

1939 Radio broadcast, 1 Oct.

74 You ask what is our aim. I can answer in one word—victory. Victory at all costs, victory in spite of all terror, victory, however long and hard the road may be.

1939 Radio broadcast, 1 Oct.

75 I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat.

1940 Speech in the House of Commons on assuming the premiership, 13 May.

76 We shall not flag or fail. We shall go on to the end. We shall fight in France, we shall fight on the seas and oceans, we shall fight with growing confidence and growing strength in the air, we shall defend our island whatever the cost may be. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills. We shall never surrender.

1940 Speech in the House of Commons, 4 Jun, after the Dunkirk evacuation.

77 Let us therefore brace ourselves to our duties, and so bear ourselves that, if the British Empire and its Commonwealth last for a thousand years, men will still say: 'This was their finest hour.'

1940 Speech, 18 Jun. Quoted in A J P Taylor English History 1914–45, p.491.

78 Never in the field of human conflict has so much been owed by so many, to so few.

1940 On the Battle of Britain pilots. Speech, House of Commons, 20 Aug.

79 No one can guarantee success in war, but only deserve it.

1940 Letter to Lord Wavell, 26 Nov. Quoted in Winston Churchill The Second World War, vol.2 (1949), ch.27.

- 80 Here is the answer that I will give to President Roosevelt... Give us the tools, and we will finish the job.
1941 Radio broadcast, 9 Feb.
- 81 No one has been a more consistent opponent of Communism than I have for the last 25 years. I will unsay no word that I have spoken about it, but all that fades away before the spectacle that is now unfolding. The past, with its crimes, its follies, and its tragedies, flashes away. I see the Russian soldiers standing on the threshold of their native land, guarding the fields that their fathers have tilled from time immemorial. Any man or state who fights on against Nazidom will have our aid. Any man or state who marches with Hitler is our foe.
1941 Radio broadcast on the German invasion of Russia, 22 Jun.
- 82 When I warned the French that Britain would fight on alone, General Weygand told their Prime Minister and his divided Cabinet that in three weeks England will have her neck wrung like a chicken. Some chicken, some neck!
1941 Speech to the Canadian Parliament, 30 Dec.
- 83 What kind of people do they think we are?
1941 Of the Japanese. Speech to Congress, Dec.
- 84 Commanders and senior officers should die with troops. The honour of the British Empire and the British Army is at stake.
1942 Telegram to Wavell, the commander in chief of armed forces in Singapore, 10 Feb, after being told that a Japanese victory was inevitable. Recalled in The Second World War, vol.4 (1951).
- 85 The latest refinements of science are linked with the cruelties of the Stone Age.
1942 Speech, 26 Mar, in devastated war-time London.
- 86 Now this is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning.
1942 Speech at the Mansion House, London, 10 Nov, referring to the Battle of Egypt.
- 87 I have not become the King's First Minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire.
1942 Speech at the Mansion House, London, 10 Nov.
- 88 We make this wide encircling movement in the Mediterranean, having for its primary object the recovery of the command of that vital sea, but also having for its object the exposure of the under-belly of the Axis, especially Italy, to heavy attack.
1942 Speech in the House of Commons, 11 Nov.
- 89 There is no finer investment for any community than putting milk into babies. Healthy citizens are the greatest asset any country can have.
1943 Speech on BBC radio, 21 Mar.
- 90 The Bomb brought peace, but man alone can keep that peace.
1945 Speech in the House of Commons, 16 Aug.
- 91 If this is a blessing, it is certainly very well disguised.
1945 On his defeat in the first post-war general election, quoted in Richard Nixon Memoirs (1978).
- 92 From Stettin in the Baltic to Trieste in the Adriatic, an iron curtain has descended across the Continent.
1946 Speech at Fulton, Missouri, 5 Mar. He had used the phrase in a telegraph to President Truman, 12 May 1945, when he said of the Russian-held territories that 'An iron curtain is drawn down upon their front'.
- 93 Would a special relationship between the United States and the British Commonwealth be inconsistent with our overriding loyalty to the world organization?
1946 Speech at Fulton, Missouri, Mar.
- 94 No one pretends that democracy is perfect or all-wise. Indeed, it has been said that democracy is the worst form of Government except all those other forms that have been tried from time to time.
1947 Speech in the House of Commons, 11 Nov.
- 95 Science bestowed immense new powers on man, and, at the same time, created conditions which were largely beyond his comprehension and still more beyond his control.
1949 Speech, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 31 Mar.
- 96 I am ready to meet my maker. Whether my maker is ready for the ordeal of meeting me is another matter.
1949 Speech, Nov.
- 97 I have only one purpose—the destruction of Hitler, and my life is much simplified thereby. If Hitler invaded Hell, I would at least make a favourable reference to the Devil in the House of Commons.
Recalled in The Second World War, vol.3 (1950), ch.20.
- 98 Perhaps it is better to be irresponsible and right than to be responsible and wrong.
1950 Radio broadcast, 26 Aug.
- 99 If you recognize anyone, it does not mean that you like him. We all, for instance, recognize the honourable Member for Ebbw Vale.
1952 Of Ernest Bevin, in a House of Commons debate on 1 Jul on British recognition of communist China.
- 1 I have lived 78 years without hearing of bloody places like Cambodia.
1953 Comment, 28 Apr. Quoted in Lord Moran Winston Churchill, The Struggle for Survival (1966).
- 2 Talking jaw is better than going to war.
1954 White House speech, 26 Jun. His comment is often rendered 'To jaw-jaw is always better than to war-war'.
- 3 I have never accepted what many people have kindly said—that I inspired the nation. It was the nation and the race living around the globe that had the lion heart. I had the luck to be called upon to give the roar.
1954 Speech to both Houses of Parliament in Westminster Hall, Nov, on the occasion of his 80th birthday.
- 4 An appeaser is someone who feeds a crocodile, hoping it will eat him last.
Attributed. Quoted in Reader's Digest, Dec 1954.
- 5 In defeat unbeatable: in victory unbearable. Of Montgomery. Quoted in Sir Edward Howard Marsh Ambrosia and Small Beer (1964), ch.5.
- 6 Scientists should be on tap, but not on top.
Quoted in Randolph S Churchill Twenty-One Years (1965).
- 7 An empty taxi arrived at 10 Downing Street, and when the door was opened Attlee got out.
Attributed. Quoted in Kenneth Harris Attlee (1982), ch.16.
- 8 An ineffectual attempt to direct an uncontrollable sphere into an inaccessible hole with instruments ill-adapted for the purpose.
Quoted in Michael Hobbs The Golf Quotations Book (1992).
- 9 All I wanted was compliance with my wishes after reasonable discussion.

Attributed. Quoted in A. J. P. Taylor From the Boer War to the Cold War: Essays on Twentieth-Century Europe (1995).

10 Do not criticize your Government when out of the country. Never cease to do so when at home.
Attributed.

11 There, but for the grace of God, goes God.
Of Sir Stafford Cripps. Attributed.

12 I am so bored with it all.
Attributed last words.

Ciardi, John 1916–85

US poet, critic and translator. His translation of Dante's Inferno is much admired.

13 This island rock in space turns flowering endlessly
To peaks of cloud still mounting where you took
Your last high passage and your faltering luck.
1947 'Elegy for Kurt Porjeszcz, Missing in Action, 1 April, 1945'.

14 At the next vacancy for God, if I am elected,
I shall forgive last the delicately wounded who, having been slugged no harder than anyone else, never got up again, neither to fight back,
nor to finger their jaws in painful admiration.
1959 'In Place of a Curse'.

15 You don't have to suffer to be a poet. Adolescence is enough.
1962 In the Saturday Review, Fall issue.

Cibber, Colley 1671–1757

English actor and dramatist. He worked for most of his career at the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane, and in 1696 established himself as both playwright and actor with his first comedy, Love's Last Shift. From 1730 he was Poet Laureate.

16 One had as good be out of the World, as out of the Fashion.
1696 Love's Last Shift: or, The Fool in Fashion, act 2, sc.1.

17 Perish the thought!
1700 Richard III, act 5 (his adaptation of Shakespeare's play).

18 Stolen sweets are best.
1709 The Rival Fools, act 1.

Cicero full name Marcus Tullius Cicero 106–43 BC

Roman orator and statesman, exiled after his unconstitutional execution of the Catiline conspirators. Although recalled by the people (57 BC) he lost the respect of both Caesar and Pompey by his vacillations. He wrote most of his major works on rhetoric and philosophy in retirement in Rome. His speeches against Mark Antony after Caesar's death (The Philippics) cost him his life.

19 Quo usque tandem abutere, Catilina, patientia nostra?
In heaven's name, Catiline, how long will you abuse our patience?
63 BC Opening line of the first of four speeches against the conspirator L. Sergius Catilina, 8 Nov. In Catilinam 1.1.

20 Salus populi suprema est lex.
The good of the people is the chief law.
52 BC De Legibus, bk.3, ch.3.

21 Silent enim leges inter arma.
For laws are silent in time of war.
51 BC Pro Milone, ch.11.

22 Cui bono?
Who benefits?
51 BC Pro Milone, ch.12 (and elsewhere).

23 Nervos belli, pecuniam infinitam.
The sinews of war, unlimited money.
44 BC Fifth Philippic, ch.5.

24 Nihil tam absurde dici potest quo non dicatur ab aliquo philosophorum.
There is nothing so absurd that it has not been said by some philosopher.
c.44 BC De Divinatione, bk.2, section 58.

25 Civis Romanus sum.
I am a Roman citizen.
In Verrem 5.147. This is a reference to the tradition that Roman citizens in foreign courts could often expect preferential treatment. The Roman governor Verres, whom Cicero was prosecuting, had ignored this fact altogether, even executing Roman citizens.

26 Cedant arma togae, concedant laurea laudi.
Let war yield to peace, laurels to paeans.
De Officiis, bk.1, ch.77.

27 Mens cuiusque is est quisque: non ea figura quae digito demonstrari potest.
The mind is the true self, not the person that can be pointed to with the finger.
De Republica bk.6, ch.24.

28 O fortunatam natam me consule Romam!
O lucky Rome, born when I was consul!
Cicero was consul in 63 BC. His only extant line of poetry, quoted in Juvenal, Satires 10, l.122.

29 O tempora, o mores!
What times! what morals!
Favourite phrase, used on various occasions. See In Catilinam 1.1, In Verrem 4.25 and Pro rege Deiotaro 11.31.

Cisneros, Henry 1947–

US politician, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development (1993–7).

1993 Of US cities, rife with racial tension. In US News and World Report, 19 Apr.

31 We have to be honest, we have to be truthful and speak to the one dirty secret in American life, and that is racism.
1993 In US News and World Report, 19 Apr.

Cixous, Hélène 1937–

French feminist author and critic who has argued that women write differently from men by virtue of their bodies.

32 On dit que la vie et la mort sont au pouvoir de la langue.
It is said that life and death are under the power of language.
1969 Dedans.

33 La seule différence incontestable n'est pas celle des sexes ou des âges ou des forces, mais celle des vifs et des morts.
The only incontestable difference is not that of sex or age or strength, but that of the living and the dead.
1969 Dedans.

34 J'ai peu de mots. Mon père qui les avait tous, est parti si précipitamment, qu'il n'a pas eu le temps de me les donner.

I have few words. My father, who had all of them, left so suddenly that he did not have the time to give them all to me.

1969 Dedans.

35 Le temps et le monde et la personne ne se rencontrent qu'une seule fois.

Time, the world and the person only encounter one another once.

1969 Dedans.

36 Je me cherche à travers les siècles et je ne me vois nulle part.

I have searched for myself across time and have not found myself anywhere.

1974 Prénoms du soleil (translated by Morag Shiach in Hélène Cixous: A Politics of Writing).

37 Des mots sont arrachés vivants à la langue défunte.

Words are taken alive from a defunct language.

1976 La.

38 On ne s'éveille qu'au contact de l'amour. Et avant ce temps, on n'est que jardins sans douleurs, espaces fourmillant de corps érotiques, champs de mers poissonneuses, chairs sans soucis.

One wakes only to the touch of love. Before then, we are only gardens without sorrows, spaces swarming with erotic bodies, landscapes of seas full of fish, flesh without cares.

1976 La.

39 Quand je n'écris pas, c'est comme si j'étais morte.

When I do not write, it's as though I'm dead.

Quoted in Jean-Louis Rambures Comment travaillent les écrivains (1978).

40 Je ne suis pas innocente. L'innocence est une science du sublime. Et je ne suis qu'au tout début de l'apprentissage.

I am not innocent. Innocence is a science of the sublime. And I am only at the very beginning of the apprenticeship.

1979 Vivre l'orange / To Live the Orange (bilingual text, translated by Ann Liddle and Sarah Cornell).

41 Je voudrais tant être une femme sans y penser.

I would like so much to be a woman without thinking about it.

1983 Le Livre de Promethea.

Clare, John 1793–1864

English poet, whose work reflects the harsh rural world of the 19c. He became mentally unstable in 1823 and spent the last 23 years of his life in a lunatic asylum.

44 The present is the funeral of the past,
And man the living sepulchre of life.

1845 'The Present is the Funeral of the Past'.

45 I am—yet what I am, none cares or knows;

My friends forsake me like a memory lost:

I am the self-consumer of my woes.

1848 'I Am'.

46 I long for scenes where man hath never trod

A place where woman never smiled or wept

There to abide with my Creator God

And sleep as I in childhood sweetly slept,

Untroubling and untroubled where I lie

The grass below, above, the vaulted sky.

1848 'I Am'.

47 He could not die when the trees were green,

For he loved the time too well.

'The Dying Child' (published 1873).

Clark, Alan Kenneth McKenzie 1928–99

English Conservative politician, noted for his diaries, which were published from 1993. He was the son of the art historian Kenneth Clark.

48 There are no true friends in politics. We are all sharks circling, and waiting, for traces of blood to appear in the water.

1990 Diary entry, 30 Nov.

49 Safe is spelled D-U-L-L. Politics has got to be a fun activity.

70 I wish to complain about this parrot what I have purchased not half an hour ago from this very boutique.

1968 As Mr Praline in the 'Dead Parrot' sketch, Monty Python's Flying Circus.

71 Don't mention the war. I mentioned it once but I think I got away with it.

1975 As Basil Fawlty in Fawlty Towers, 'The Germans'.

72 Loving your neighbour as much as yourself is practically bloody impossible... You might as well have a commandment that states, 'Thou shalt fly'.

1993 In The Times.

Clemenceau, Georges 1841–1929

French statesman, leader of the extreme left, known as 'The Tiger'. He was Premier (1906–9, 1917–20) and presided at the 1919 Peace Conference.

73 La guerre, c'est une chose trop grave pour la confier à des militaires.

War is too serious a business to be left to generals.

Quoted in Hampden Jackson Clemenceau and the Third Republic (1946), but also attributed elsewhere to others.

74 He died as he had lived—like a second lieutenant.

1891 On the death of General Boulanger, who had shot himself on the grave of his mistress, who had died two months earlier. In La Justice. Quoted in Edgar Holt The Tiger: The Life of Georges Clemenceau 1841–1929 (1976).

75 Your verdict, gentlemen, will be less upon us than upon yourselves. We appear before you. You appear before history.

1898 Addressing the jury as a member of the defence at Zola's trial, 22 Feb, following the publication of J'Accuse.

76 Politique intérieure, je fais la guerre; politique extérieure, je fais toujours la guerre. Je fais toujours la guerre.

My home policy? I wage war. My foreign policy? I wage war. Always, everywhere, I wage war.

1918 Speech to the Chamber of Deputies, 8 Mar.

77 Il est plus facile de faire la guerre que la paix.

It is far easier to make war than to make peace.

1919 Speech at Verdun, 20 Jul.

78 America is the only country in history that miraculously has gone directly from barbarism to decadence without the usual interval of civilization.

Attributed. This has also been attributed to George Bernard Shaw.

79 We have won the war. Now we have to win the peace—and that may be more difficult.

Quoted in David R. Watson George Clemenceau; A Political Biography (1974).

Cleveland, (Stephen) Grover 1837–1908

22nd and 24th US President (1885–9, 1893–7). He supported civil service reform and lower tariffs, and in his second term he took a strong stance against Britain in its boundary dispute with Venezuela.

81 Had Cain been Scot, God would have changed his doom
Nor forced him wander, but confined him home.

1647 'The Rebel Scot'.

82 Mystical grammar of amorous glances,
Feeling of pulses the physic of love,
Rhetorical courtings, and musical dances;
Numbering of kisses arithmetic prove.

1651 'Mark Antony'.

83 Virtue's no more in womankind
But the green sickness of the mind.
Philosophy, their new delight,
A kind of charcoal appetite.

1653 'The Antiplatonic'.

84 Give me a lover bold and free,
Not eunuched with formality.

1653 'The Antiplatonic'.

85 Like an ambassador that beds a queen
With the nice caution of a sword between.

1653 'The Antiplatonic'.

Really, who knows?...

Ah, for a child in the street I could strike; for the full-blown lady—

Somehow, Eustace, alas! I have not felt the vocation.

1858 Amours de Voyage, canto 2, pt.4.

31 I do not like being moved: for the will is excited; and action is a most dangerous thing: I tremble for something factitious,
Some malpractice of heart and illegitimate process;
We are so prone to these things with our terrible notions of duty.

been wronged?

1854 Referring to the Crimean War, House of Commons, 22 Dec.

Cockburn, Alison née Rutherford 1713–94

Scottish poet, whose best-known lyric 'The Flowers of the Forest' commemorates a calamity in Ettrick Forest. Walter Scott was her protégé.

54 I've seen the smiling of Fortune beguiling,
I've felt all its favours and found its decay;
Sweet was its blessing, kind its caressing,
But now it is fled, fled far, far away.
1765 'The Flowers of the Forest'.

55 O fickle Fortune, why this cruel sporting?
Why thus torment us poor sons of day?
Nae mair your smiles can cheer me, nae mair your frowns can fear me,
For the flowers of the forest are a' wade away.
1765 'The Flowers of the Forest'. wade = weeded. The last line is often rendered 'For the flowers of the forest are withered away'.

75 The creation of music is just as natural as the air we breathe. I believe music is really a free thing, and any way you can enjoy it, you should.
1958 Sleeve-note, Something Else!

76 Many people apparently don't trust their reactions to art or to music unless there is a verbal explanation for it. In music the only thing that matters is whether you feel it or not.

78 So for the mother's sake the child was dear,
And dearer was the mother for the child.
1797 'Sonnet to a Friend Who Asked Me How I Felt When the Nurse First Presented My Infant to Me.'

79 No sound is dissonant which tells of life.
1797 'This Lime-Tree Bower my Prison.'

80 It is an ancient Mariner,
And he stoppeth one of three.
'By thy long grey beard and glittering eye,
Now wherefore stopp'st thou me?'
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.1.

81 He holds him with his glittering eye—
The Wedding-Guest stood still,
And listens like a three years' child:
The Mariner hath his will.
The Wedding-Guest sat on a stone:
He cannot choose but hear;
And thus spake on that ancient man,
The bright-eyed Mariner.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.1.

82 'God save thee, ancient Mariner!
From the fiends that plague thee thus!
Why look'st thou so?'—With my cross-bow
I shot the Albatross.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.1.

83 We were the first that ever burst
Into that silent sea.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.2.

84 As idle as a painted ship
Upon a painted ocean.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.2.

85 Water, water, everywhere,
Nor any drop to drink.
The very deep did rot: O Christ!
That ever this should be!
Yes, slimy things did crawl with legs
Upon the slimy sea.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.2.

86 I fear thee ancient Mariner!
I fear thy skinny hand!
And thou art long, and lank, and brown,
As is the ribbed sea-sand.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.4.

87 And a thousand thousand slimy things
Lived on; and so did I.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.4.

88 A spring of love gushed from my heart,
And I blessed them unaware.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.4.

89 We were a ghastly crew.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.5.

90 Like one, that on a lonesome road
Doth walk in fear and dread,
And having once turned round walks on,
And turns no more his head;
Because he knows, a frightful fiend
Doth close behind him tread.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.6.

91 No voice, but oh! the silence sank
Like music on my heart.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.6.

92 He prayeth well, who loveth well
Both man and bird and beast.
He prayeth best, who loveth best
All things both great and small.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.7.

93 He went like one that hath been stunned,
And is of sense forlorn:
A sadder and wiser man,
He rose the morrow morn.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.7.

- 94 O let me be awake, my God!
Or let me sleep away.
1798 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner', pt.7.
- 95 The frost performs its secret ministry,
Unhelped by any wind.
1798 'Frost at Midnight'.
- 96 Bells, the poor man's only music.
1798 'Frost at Midnight'.
- 97 And hark! the Nightingale begins its song,
'Most musical, most melancholy' bird!
A melancholy bird?...his song
Should make all Nature lovelier, and itself
Be loved like Nature!
1798 'The Nightingale'.
- 98 Belovèd, what are names but air?
Choose thou whatever suits the line;
Call me Sappho, call me Chloris,
Call me Lalage or Doris,
Only, only call me Thine.
1799 'Names', a translation from G E Lessing's German original
(first published in the Morning Post, 1803).
- 99 All thoughts, all passions, all delights
Whatever stirs this mortal frame,
All are but ministers of Love,
And feed his sacred flame.
1799 'Love'.
- 1 Those sounds which oft have raised me, whilst they awed,
And sent my soul abroad,
Might now perhaps their wonted impulse give,
Might startle this dull pain, and make it move and live!
1802 'Dejection: An Ode', stanza 1.
- 2 I may not hope from outward forms to win
The passion and the life, whose fountains are within.
1802 'Dejection: An Ode', stanza 3.
- 3 Ah! from the soul itself must issue forth
A light, a glory, a fair luminous cloud
Enveloping the Earth—
And from the soul itself must there be sent
A sweet and potent voice, of its own birth
Of all sweet sounds the life and element!
1802 'Dejection: An Ode', stanza 4.
- 4 O pure of heart! thou need'st not ask of me
What this strong music in the soul may be!
What, and wherein it doth exist,
This light, this glory, this fair luminous mist,
This beautiful and beauty-making power.
1802 'Dejection: An Ode', stanza 5.
- 5 'Alas!' said she, 'we ne'er can be Made happy by compulsion!'
1809 'The Three Graves', pt.4, stanza 12.
- 6 What is an Epigram? a dwarfish whole,
Its body brevity, and wit its soul.
1809 'Epigram'.
- 7 Alas! they had been friends in youth;
But whispering tongues can poison truth;
And constancy lives in realms above;
And life is thorny; and youth is vain;
And to be wroth with one we love
Doth work like madness on the brain.
1816 'Christabel', pt.2.
- 8 On awaking he...instantly and eagerly wrote down the lines that are here preserved. At this moment he was unfortunately called out by a person on business from Porlock.
1816 Preliminary note to 'Kubla Khan', explaining the reasons for the fragmented end of the poem.
- 9 In Xanadu did Kubla Khan
A stately pleasure-dome decree:
Where Alph, the sacred river, ran Through caverns measureless to man
Down to a sunless sea.
1816 'Kubla Khan', opening lines.
- 10 A savage place! as holy and enchanted
As e'er beneath a waning moon was haunted
By woman wailing for her demon-lover!
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 11 And from this chasm, with ceaseless turmoil seething,
As if this earth in fast thick pants were breathing,
A mighty fountain momentally was forced.
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 12 It was a miracle of rare device,
A sunny pleasure-dome with caves of ice!
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 13 Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
Then reached the caverns measureless to man,
And sank in tumult to a lifeless ocean:
And 'mid this tumult Kubla heard from far
Ancestral voices prophesying war!
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 14 A damsel with a dulcimer
In a vision once I saw:
It was an Abyssinian maid,
And on her dulcimer she played,
Singing of Mount Abora.
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 15 And all who heard should see them there,
And all should cry, Beware! Beware!
His flashing eyes, his floating hair!
Weave a circle round him thrice,
And close your eyes with holy dread,
For he on honey-dew hath fed,
And drunk the milk of Paradise.
1816 'Kubla Khan'.
- 16 Until you understand a writer's ignorance, presume yourself ignorant of his understanding.
1817 Biographia Literaria, ch.12.
- 17 That willing suspension of disbelief for the moment, which constitutes poetic faith.
1817 Biographia Literaria, ch.14.
- 18 Kean is original; but he copies from himself. His rapid descents from the hyper-tragic to the infra-colloquial, though sometimes productive of great effect, are often unreasonable. To see him act, is like reading
Shakespeare by flashes of lightning.
1823 Of Edmund Kean. Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 27 Apr.
- 19 He who begins by loving Christianity better than Truth will proceed by loving his own sect or church better than Christianity, and end by loving himself better than all.
1825 Aids to Reflection: Moral and Religious Aphorisms.

- 20 Summer has set in with its usual severity.
1826 Letter to Vincent Novello, 9 May.
- 21 Prose = words in their best order;—poetry = the best words in the best order.
1827 Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 12 Jul.
- 22 The man's desire is for the woman; but the woman's desire is rarely other than for the desire of the man.
1827 Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 23 Jul.
- 23 In Köhln, a town of monks and bones,
 And pavements fang'd with murderous stones
 And rags, and hags, and hideous wenches;
 I counted two and seventy stenches,
 All well defined, and several stinks!
 Ye Nymphs that reign o'er sewers and sinks,
 The river Rhine, it is well known,
 Doth wash your city of Cologne;
 But tell me, Nymphs, what power divine
 Shall henceforth wash the river Rhine?
1828 'Cologne', first published in Friendship's Offering (1834), as 'Lightheartedness in Rhyme', no.4.
- 24 If men could learn from history, what lessons it might teach us! But passion and party blind our eyes, and the light which experience gives is a lantern on the stern, which shines only on the waves behind us!
1831 Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 18 Dec.
- 25 Farce is nearer tragedy in its essence than comedy is.
1833 Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 25 Aug.
- 26 Of no age—nor of any religion, or party or profession. The body and substance of his works came out of the unfathomable depths of his own oceanic mind.
1834 Of Shakespeare. Table Talk (published 1835), entry for 15 Mar.
- 27 Iago's soliloquy—the motive-hunting of motiveless malignity.
The Literary Remains of Samuel Taylor Coleridge (published 1836), bk.2, 'Notes on the Tragedies of Shakespeare: Othello'.

Colette full name Sidonie Gabrielle Colette 1873–1954

French writer. Her first husband, Henri Gauthier-Villars, published her early Claudine series under his pen-name 'Willy'. Her writing is marked by its exploration of the sensual. Later works include Chéri (1920) and Gigi (1944).

- 28 Quand elle lève ses paupières, on dirait qu'elle se déshabille.
 When she raises her eyelids it's as if she were taking off all her clothes.
1903 Claudine et Annie, ch.3 (translated by Antonia White).
- 29 Il découvrirait...le monde des émotions qu'on nomme, à la légère, physiques.
 He was discovering...the world of the emotions that are so lightly called physical.
1923 Le Blé en herbe.
- 30 Ne porte jamais de bijoux artistiques, ça déconsidère complètement une femme.
 Don't ever wear artistic jewellery; it wrecks a woman's reputation.
1944 Gigi.

Collingwood, Cuthbert, Baron 1748–1810

English admiral. He rose from midshipman to become second-in-command to Nelson at Trafalgar, on board the Royal Sovereign.

- 31 Now, gentlemen, let us do something today which the world may talk of hereafter.
1805 Remark to troops before the Battle of Trafalgar, 21 Oct. Quoted in G L Newnham Collingwood (ed) A Selection from the Correspondence of Lord Collingwood (1828), vol.1.

Collingwood, R(obin) G(eorge) 1889–1943

English philosopher and historian, with a strong archaeological interest. He wrote widely on the philosophy of history although his work was not well known until well after his death.

- 32 Perfect freedom is reserved for the man who lives by his own work and in that work does what he wants to do.
1924 Speculum Mentis.
- 33 A man ceases to be a beginner in any given science and becomes a master in that science when he has learned that...he is going to be a beginner all his life.
1942 New Leviathan, pt.1 ch.1.

Collins, Billy 1941–

US poet.

- 34 The name of the author is the first to go followed obediently by the title, the plot, the heartbreaking conclusion, the entire novel which suddenly becomes one you have never read, never even heard of.
2000 Taking off Emily Dickinson's Clothes: Selected Poems, 'Forgetfulness'.

Collins, Charles 1874–1926

English songwriter. He wrote rapid patter songs for use by music-hall stars of the day such as Harry Champion.

- 35 Any old iron, any old iron,
 Any any old old iron?
 You look neat
 Talk about a treat,
 You look dapper from your napper to your feet.
 Dressed in style, brand new tile,
 And your father's old green tie on,
 But I wouldn't give you tuppence for your old watch chain;
 Old iron, old iron?
1911 'Any Old Iron' (with E A Sheppard and Fred Terry). The second line is commonly rendered 'Any any any old iron?'.
- 36 My old man said, 'Follow the van,
 Don't dilly-dally on the way!'
 Off went the cart with the home packed in it,
 I walked behind with my old cock linnet.
 But I dillied and dallied, dallied and dillied,
 Lost the van and don't know where to roam.
 You can't trust the 'specials' like the old time 'coppers'
 When you can't find your way home.
1919 'Don't Dilly-Dally on the Way' (with Fred Leigh).

Collins, Michael 1890–1922

Irish patriot and leader of the IRA. He signed the treaty of 1921 giving Ireland dominion status, believing it the best possible at the time, and after attempting to form a government under the terms of the treaty was killed in an ambush by hardline republicans.

- 37 Think—what I have got for Ireland? Something which she has wanted these past seven hundred years. Will anyone be satisfied with the bargain? Will anyone? I tell you this—early this morning I signed my death warrant. I thought at the time how odd, how ridiculous—a bullet may just as well have done the job five years ago.

1921 Letter, written after signing the peace treaty with Great Britain, 6 Dec.

Collins, Michael 1930–

Italian-born US astronaut who as a crew member of Apollo 11 piloted the spacecraft during its historic mission to the moon (1969). He orbited the moon alone in the command unit while Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin made the first manned lunar landing.

38 I knew I was alone in a way that no earthling has ever been before.

1972 In Time, Dec 11.

Collins, Phil 1951–

English singer, drummer and songwriter. He joined Genesis as drummer in 1970, and took over as lead vocalist when Peter Gabriel left the group (1985). He has also had a successful solo career.

39 I suppose Phil Collins offers something for everybody, and in hipdom that's not cool. But in the real world, there's no shame in that at all.

Quoted in Guinness Rockopedia (1998).

Collins, William 1721–59

English poet, first published at the age of 17. His poetry, which is original and even experimental for the day, includes the 'Ode to Simplicity', 'Dirge in Cymbeline', 'Ode to Evening' and 'How Sleep the Brave'.

40 Too nicely Jonson knew the critic's part,
Nature in him was almost lost in Art.
1743 'Verses addressed to Sir Thomas Hanmer'.

41 To fair Fidele's grassy tomb
Soft maids and village hinds shall bring
Each opening sweet of earliest bloom,
And rifle all the breathing spring.
1744 'Dirge in Cymbeline'.

42 How sleep the brave, who sink to rest,
By all their country's wishes blest!
1746 'How Sleep the Brave' (published 1748), no.1.

43 By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung.
1746 'How Sleep the Brave' (published 1748), no.2.

44 O thou, the friend of man assigned,
With balmy hands his wounds to bind,
And charm his frantic woe:
When first Distress with dagger keen
Broke forth to waste his destined scene,
His wild unsated foe!
1747 Odes on Several Descriptive and Allegoric Subjects, 'Ode to Pity', no.1.

45 Ah Fear! Ah frantic Fear!
I see, I see thee near.
1747 Odes on Several Descriptive and Allegoric Subjects, 'Ode to Fear', 1.5–6.

46 Though taste, though genius bless
To some divine excess,
Faints the cold work till thou inspire the whole;

What each, what all supply
May court, may charm our eye,
Thou, only thou can'st raise the meeting soul!
1747 Odes on Several Descriptive and Allegoric Subjects, 'Ode to Simplicity', no.8.

47 Now air is hushed, save where the weak-eyed bat
With short shrill shriek flits by on leathern wing,
Or where the beetle winds
His small but sullen horn,
As oft he rises midst the twilight path,
Against the pilgrim borne in heedless hum.
1747 Odes on Several Descriptive and Allegoric Subjects, 'Ode to Evening', 1.9–14.

48 While Spring shall pour his showers, as oft he wont,
And bathe thy breathing tresses, meekest Eve!
While Summer loves to sport
Beneath thy lingering light;
While fallow Autumn fills thy lap with leaves,
Or Winter, yelling through the troublous air,
Affrights thy shrinking train,
And rudely rends thy robes.
1747 Odes on Several Descriptive and Allegoric Subjects, 'Ode to Evening', 1.41–8.

49 With eyes up-raised, as one inspired,
Pale Melancholy sate retired,
And from her wild sequestered seat,
In notes by distance made more sweet,
Poured thro' the mellow horn her pensive soul.
1747 'The Passions, An Ode for Music', 1.57–61.

50 Love of peace, and lonely musing,
In hollow murmurs died away.
1747 'The Passions, An Ode for Music', 1.67–8.

Colombo, John Robert 1936–

Canadian editor and poet.

51 Canada could have enjoyed:
English government,
French culture,
And American know-how.
Instead it ended up with:
English know-how,
French government,
And American culture.
1965 'O Canada', collected in Al Purdy (ed) The New Romans (1968).

Colton, Charles Caleb 1780–1832

British clergyman and writer. He was also a successful sportsman and was known for his gambling, which eventually led to his financial ruin and suicide.

52 Men will wrangle for religion; write for it; fight for it—anything but live for it.
1820 Lacon, vol.1, no.25.

53 When you have nothing to say, say nothing.
1820 Lacon, vol.1, no.183.

54 Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.
1820 Lacon, vol.1, no.217.

55 Examinations are formidable even to the best prepared, for the greatest fool may ask more than the wisest man can answer.
1820 Lacon, vol.1, no.322.

56 If you would be known, and not know, vegetate in a village; if you would know, and not be known, live in a city.

1820 Lacon, vol.1, no.334.

Coltrane, John 1926–67

US jazz saxophonist. He was the most influential tenor and soprano saxophonist of the postwar era.

57 The main thing a musician would like to do is to give a picture to the listener of the many wonderful things he knows and senses in the universe.

1966 Quoted in sleeve-note to the re-issue of Coltrane's Sound (originally published 1961).

Colum, Padraic 1881–1972

Irish poet, playwright, novelist, biographer, critic and children's writer, a central figure in the Irish Literary Renaissance. Reflecting a peasant background, his work was realistic rather than romantic. His collections include Wild Earth (1907).

58 Sunset and silence! A man: around him earth savage, earth broken;
Beside him two horses—a plough!

Earth savage, earth broken, the brutes, the dawn-man
there in the sunset,
And the Plough that is twin to the Sword, that is founder of cities!

1907 Wild Earth, 'The Plougher'.

59 My young love said to me, 'My brothers won't mind,
And my parents won't slight you for your lack of kind.'
Then she stepped away from me, and this she did say,
'It will not be long, love, till our wedding day.'

1907 Wild Earth, 'She Moved through the Fair'.

60 Then the wet, winding roads,
Brown bogs with black water;
And my thoughts on white ships
And the King o' Spain's daughter.

1907 'A Drover'.

61 Oh, to have a little house!
To own the hearth and stool and all!
The heaped-up sods upon the fire,
The pile of turf against the wall!
To have a clock with weights and chains
And pendulum swinging up and down,
A dresser filled with shining delph,
Speckled and white and blue and brown!

c.1907 'An Old Woman of the Roads'.

Columbus, Christopher Spanish name Cristóbal Colón 1451–1506

Genoese explorer, and discoverer of the New World (1492). His Carta del descubrimiento (1493) is the first European historical document about America.

62 Toda la cristiandad debe tomar alegría y hacer grandes fiestas, y dar gracias solemnes a la Santa Trinidad, con muchas oraciones solemnes por el tanto ensalzamiento que habrán, en tornándose tantos pueblos a nuestra Santa Fe, y después por los bienes temporales que no solamente a la España, mas a todos los cristianos tendrán aquí refugio y ganancia.

All Christendom ought to feel joyful and make great celebrations and give solemn thanks to the Holy Trinity with many solemn prayers for the great exaltation which it will have, in the turning of so many people to our holy faith, and afterwards for material benefits, since not only Spain but all Christians will hence have refreshment and profit.

1493 Carta del descubrimiento (translated as The Letter in Spanish of Christopher Columbus, 1889).

Comden, Betty pseudonym of Elizabeth Cohen 1919–

68 'Well, of course, people are only human,' said Dudley to his brother, as they walked to the house behind the women. 'But it really does not seem much for them to be.'

1939 A Family and a Fortune, ch.2.

69 People don't resent having nothing nearly as much as too little.

1939 A Family and a Fortune, ch.4.

70 It will be a beautiful family talk, mean and worried and full of sorrow and spite and excitement. I cannot be asked to miss it in my weak state. I should only fret.

1939 A Family and a Fortune, ch.10.

71 As regards plots I find real life no help at all. Real life

- seems to have no plots.
1945 Orion, no.1, 'A Conversation'.
- 72 And people in life hardly seem definite enough to appear in print. They are not good or bad enough, or clever or stupid enough, or comic or pitiful enough.
1945 Orion, no.1, 'A Conversation'.
- 73 We must use words as they are used, or stand aside from life.
1955 Mother and Son, ch.9.
- 74 There is more difference within the sexes than between them.
1955 Mother and Son, ch.10.
- 75 When I die people will say it is the best thing for me. It is because they know it is the worst. They want to avoid the feeling of pity.
1961 The Mighty and Their Fall, ch.4.
- 76 There are different kinds of wrong. The people sinned against are not always the best.
1961 The Mighty and Their Fall, ch.7.
- 77 There's not much to say. I haven't been at all deedy.
1969 When asked about her life. In The Times, 30 Aug.

US educator, President of Harvard University (1933–53).

- 79 There is only one proved method of assisting the advancement of pure science—that of picking men of genius, backing them heavily, and leaving them to direct themselves.
1945 Letter to the New York Times, 13 Aug.
- 80 It seems as though I were in a lunatic asylum, but I am never sure who is the attendant and who the inmate.
1950 Of Washington. Letter to Bernard Baruch, Feb. Quoted in James G Hershberg James B Conant (1993).
- 81 A Harvard education consists of what you learn at Harvard while you are not studying.
 Quoted in Time, 29 Sep 1986.

Condon, Richard 1915–96

US writer. He made his reputation with his successful novel of political intrigue, The Manchurian Candidate (1959).

- 82 In Mexico the gods ruled, the priests interpreted and interposed, and the people obeyed. In Spain, the priests ruled, the king interpreted and interposed, and the gods obeyed. A nuance in an ideological difference is a wide chasm.
1961 A Talent for Loving, bk.1, ch.6.
- 83 He was an unzipped fly caught in forever amber.
1967 The Ecstasy Business, ch.1.
- 84 What is art is not likely to be decided for decades or longer after the work has been produced—and then is often redecided—so we must not think badly if we

- regard literature as entertainment rather than as transcendent enlightenment.
1976 Comment in D L Fitzpatrick (ed) Contemporary Novelists.
- 85 She felt sexual urgings towards Yvonne in the manner that politicians feel an enormous sexual pull towards mirrors.

1693 Sir Joseph to Bluffe. The Old Bachelor, act 4, sc.9.
- 1 Thus grief still treads upon the heels of pleasure:
 Married in haste, we may repent at leisure.
1693 Sharper to Setter. The Old Bachelor, act 5, sc.1.
- 2 Some by experience find those words mis-placed:
 At leisure married, they repent in haste.
1693 Setter to Sharper. The Old Bachelor, act 5, sc.1.
- 3 I could find it in my heart to marry thee, purely to be rid of thee.
1693 Belinda to Bellmore. The Old Bachelor, act 5, sc.10.
- 4 Courtship to marriage, as a very witty prologue to a very dull play.
1693 Bellmore to Belinda. The Old Bachelor, act 5, sc.10.
- 5 It is the business of a comic poet to paint the vices and follies of human kind.
1693 The Double Dealer, epistle dedicatory.
- 6 Retired to their tea and scandal, according to their ancient custom.
1693 Mellefont to Charles. The Double Dealer, act 1, sc.1.
- 7 There is nothing more unbecoming a man of quality than to laugh; Jesu, 'tis such a vulgar expression of the passion!
1693 Lord Froth to Brisk. The Double Dealer, act 1, sc.4.
- 8 Tho' marriage makes man and wife one flesh, it leaves
 'em still two fools.
1693 Cynthia to Mellefont. The Double Dealer, act 2, sc.3.
- 9 She lays it on with a trowel.
1693 Brisk to Lord Froth. The Double Dealer, act 3, sc.10.
- 10 See how love and murder will out.
1693 The Double Dealer, act 4, sc.6.
- 11 No mask like open truth to cover lies,
 As to go naked is the best disguise.
1693 The Double Dealer, act 5, sc.6.
- 12 Has he not a rogue's face?... a haunting-look to me... has a damned Tyburn-face, without the benefit o' the Clergy.
1695 Of Sir Sampson. Love for Love, act 2, sc.7.
- 13 I came upstairs into the world; for I was born in a cellar.
1695 Jeremy. Love for Love, act 2, sc.7.
- 14 I know that's a secret, for it's whispered every where.
1695 Tattle to Scandal. Love for Love, act 3, sc.3.
- 15 He that first cries out stop thief, is often he that has stolen the treasure.
1695 Scandal to Mrs Foresight. Love for Love, act 3, sc.14.
- 16 Women are like tricks by sleight of hand, which, to admire, we should not understand.
1695 Valentine. Love for Love, act 4, sc.21.
- 17 A branch of one of your antediluvian families, fellows that the flood could not wash away.
1695 Sir Sampson to Angelica. Love for Love, act 5, sc.2.
- 18 To find a young fellow that is neither a wit in his own eye, nor a fool in the eye of the world, is a very hard task.
1695 Sir Sampson to Angelica. Love for Love, act 5, sc.2.
- 19 Aye, 'tis well enough for a servant to be bred at an University. But the education is a little too pedantic for a gentleman.
1695 Tattle to Jeremy. Love for Love, act 5, sc.3.
- 20 Nay, for my part I always despised Mr Tattle of all things; nothing but his being my husband could have made me like him less.
1695 Mrs Frail to Mrs Foresight. Love for Love, act 5, sc.11.
- 21 I confess freely to you, I could never look long upon a Monkey, without very Mortifying Reflections.
1695 Letter to John Dennis, 10 Jul.
- 22 Music hath charms to soothe a savage breast,
 To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak.
1697 Almeria to Leonora. The Mourning Bride, act 1, sc.1.
- 23 Heaven has no rage, like love to hatred turned,
 Nor Hell a fury, like a woman scorned.
1697 Zara. The Mourning Bride, act 3, sc.8.
- 24 Is he then dead?
 What, dead at last, quite, quite for ever dead!
1697 Almeria to Leonora. The Mourning Bride, act 5, sc.11.
- 25 They come together like the Coroner's Inquest, to sit upon the murdered reputations of the week.
1700 Fainall to Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 1, sc.1.
- 26 She once used me with that insolence that in revenge I took her to pieces; sifted her, and separated her failings;
 I studied 'em, and got 'em by rote. The catalogue was so large that I was not without hopes, one day or other, to hate her heartily.
1700 The Way of the World, act 1, sc.3.
- 27 Ay, ay, I have experience: I have a wife, and so forth.
1700 Fainall to Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 1, sc.3.
- 28 FAINALL: 'Tis for the honour of England that all Europe should know that we have blockheads of all ages.
 MIRABELL: I wonder there is not an Act of Parliament to save the credit of the nation, and prohibit the exportation of fools.
1700 The Way of the World, act 1, sc.5.
- 29 A wit should no more be sincere than a woman constant;
 one argues a decay of parts, as t'other of beauty.
1700 The Way of the World, act 1, sc.6.
- 30 What, he speaks unseasonable truths sometimes, because he has not wit enough to invent an evasion.
1700 The Way of the World, act 1, sc.6.
- 31 I always take blushing either for a sign of guilt, or of ill breeding.
1700 Petulant to Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 1, sc.9.
- 32 To pass over youth in dull indifference, to refuse the sweets of life because they once must leave us, is as preposterous as to wish to have been born old, because we one day may be old. For my part, my youth may wear and waste, but it shall never rust in my possession.
1700 The Way of the World, act 2, sc.1.
- 33 Say what you will, 'tis better to be left than never to have been loved.
1700 Mrs Warwood to Mrs Fainall. The Way of the World, act 2, sc.1.
- 34 Beauty is the lover's gift.
1700 Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 2, sc.4.
- 35 Here she comes i' faith full sail, with her fan spread and streamers out, and a shoal of fools for tenders.
1700 Of Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 2, sc.5.

36 Nobody knows how to write letters; and yet one has 'em, one does not know why.—They serve one to pin up one's hair.

1700 The Way of the World, act 2, sc.5.

37 WITWOUND: Madam, do you pin up your hair with all your letters?

MILLAMANT: Only with those in verse, Mr Witwound. I never pin up my hair with prose.

1700 The Way of the World, act 2, sc.5.

38 To please a fool is some degree of folly.

1700 The Way of the World, act 2, sc.6.

39 A fellow that lives in a windmill has not a more whimsical dwelling than the heart of a man that is lodged in a woman.

1700 The Way of the World, act 3, sc.7.

40 A little disdain is not amiss; a little scorn is alluring.

1700 Lady Wishfort to Foible. The Way of the World, act 3, sc.5.

41 Love's but the frailty of the mind,
When 'tis not with ambition joined;
A sickly flame, which if not fed expires;
And feeding, wastes in self-consuming fires.

1700 The Way of the World, act 3, sc.12.

42 Marriage is honourable, as you say; and if so, wherefore should cuckoldom be a discredit, being derived from so honourable a root?

1700 The Way of the World, act 3, sc.12.

43 I confess I have deserted the high place I once held of sighing at your feet.

1700 The Way of the World, act 3, sc.12.

44 O, nothing is more alluring than a levee from a couch in some confusion.

1700 Lady Wishfort to Foible. The Way of the World, act 4, sc.1.

45 Don't let us be familiar or fond, nor kiss before folks, like my Lady Fadler and Sir Francis: nor go to Hyde-Park together the first Sunday in a new chariot, to provoke eyes and whispers, and then never be seen there together again; as if we were proud of one another the first week, and ashamed of one another ever after... Let us be very strange and well-bred: Let us be as strange as if we had been married a great while, and as well-bred as if we were not married at all.

1700 Millamant to Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 4, sc.5.

46 These articles subscribed, if I continue to endure you a little longer, I may by degrees dwindle into wife.

1700 Millamant to Mirabell. The Way of the World, act 4, sc.5.

47 I hope you do not think me prone to any iteration of nuptials.

1700 Lady Wishfort to Whitwell disguised as Sir Roland. The Way of the World, act 4, sc.12.

48 Music alone with sudden charms can bind
The wand'ring sense, and calm the troubled mind.
c.1701 'Hymn to Harmony'.

49 Would I were free from this restraint,
Or else had hopes to win her;
Would she could make of me a saint,
Or I of her a sinner.

'Pious Selinda Goes to Prayers'.

Connally, Tom (Thomas Terry) 1877–1963

US Congressman and lawyer. He was Representative for Texas (1917–29) and a Senator (1929–53). A Democrat, he supported southern business interests and opposed anti-lynching legislation. He was a strong supporter of the UN and NATO.

54 Don't you ever shake that lanky Yankee finger at me.

1963 To Senator Charles Tobey. Reported in Time, 8 Nov.

Connell, James 1852–1929

Irish socialist and songwriter.

55 The people's flag is deepest red;

It shrouded oft our martyred dead.

And ere their limbs grew stiff and cold,

Their heart's blood dyed its every fold.

Then raise the scarlet standard high!

Within its shade we'll live or die.

Tho' cowards flinch and traitors sneer,

We'll keep the red flag flying here.

1889 'The Red Flag', official anthem of the Labour Party.

Connery, Sir Sean 1930–

Scottish actor who became an international film star in the role of secret agent James Bond.

56 It is Scotland's rightful heritage that its people should create a modern Parliament... This entire issue is above and beyond any political party.

1997 Speech in Edinburgh. In the Daily Record, 8 Sep.

57 We have waited nearly 300 years. My hope is that it will evolve with dignity and integrity and it will truly reflect the new voice of Scotland. My position on Scotland has never changed in 30-odd years. Scotland should be nothing less than an equal of other nations in the world.

1999 On the Scottish Parliament. In the Daily Telegraph, 27 Apr.

Connolly, Billy 1942–

Scottish comedian and actor.

58 Marriage is a wonderful invention; but then again so is a bicycle repair kit.

Duncan Campbell Billy Connolly (1976).

59 I spent the whole time battering people I liked and singing with my arm round people I loathed.

Talking about his drinking days. Quoted in Pamela Stephenson Billy (2001).

60 I decided to stop drinking while it was still my idea.

Quoted in Pamela Stephenson Billy (2001).

- 61 For me, it's about the desire to win. My audience becomes a crowd of wild animals and I have to be the lion-tamer or be eaten.
Quoted in Pamela Stephenson Billy (2001).

Connolly, Cyril Vernon 1903–74

English author and journalist. He founded and edited the influential cultural journal Horizon (1939–50). His best-known books are Enemies of Promise (1938) and The Unquiet Grave (1944).

- 62 Better to write for yourself and have no public, than to write for the public and have no self.
1933 In the New Statesman, 25 Feb.
- 63 Destroy him as you will, the bourgeois always bounces up—execute him, expropriate him, starve him out en masse, and he reappears in your children.
1937 In the Observer, 7 Mar.
- 64 A great writer creates a world of his own and his readers are proud to live in it. A lesser writer may entice them in for a moment, but soon he will watch them filing out.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.1.
- 65 Literature is the art of writing something that will be read twice; journalism what will be read once.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.3.
- 66 As repressed sadists are supposed to become policemen or butchers, so those with an irrational fear of life become publishers.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.10.
- 67 I should like to see the custom introduced of readers who are pleased with a book sending the author some small cash token... Not more than a hundred pounds—that would be bad for my character—not less than half a crown—that would do no good to yours.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.13.
- 68 Whom the gods wish to destroy they first call promising.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.13.
- 69 There is no more sombre enemy of good art than the pram in the hall.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.14.
- 70 All charming people have something to conceal, usually their total dependence on the appreciation of others.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.16.
- 71 Humorists are not happy men. Like Beachcomber or Saki or Thurber they burn while Rome fiddles.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.16.
- 72 A private school has all the faults of a public school without any of its compensations.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.19.
- 73 I have called this style the Mandarin style... It is the style of those writers whose tendency is to make their language convey more than they mean or more than they feel, it is the style of most artists and all humbugs.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.20.
- 74 Were I to deduce any system from my feelings on leaving Eton, it might be called The Theory of Permanent Adolescence.
1938 Enemies of Promise, ch.24.
- 75 The more books we read, the sooner we perceive that the only function of a writer is to produce a masterpiece.

No other task is of any consequence.

1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.1.

- 76 There is no fury like an ex-wife looking for a new lover.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.1.
- 77 In the sex war thoughtlessness is the weapon of the male, vindictiveness of the female.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.1.
- 78 Life is a maze in which we take the wrong turning before we have learnt to walk.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.1.
- 79 Everything is a dangerous drug to me except reality, which is unendurable.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.1.
- 80 The civilization of one epoch becomes the manure of the next.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 81 The disasters of the world are due to its inhabitants not being able to grow old simultaneously.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 82 Imprisoned in every fat man a thin one is wildly signalling to be let out.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 83 The true index of a man's character is the health of his wife.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 84 We are all serving a life-sentence in the dungeon of self.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 85 Our memories are card-indexes consulted, and then put back in disorder by authorities whom we do not control.
1944 The Unquiet Grave, pt.2.
- 86 It is closing time in the gardens of the West and from now on an artist will be judged only by the resonance of his solitude or the quality of his despair.
1949 Horizon, no.120–1, Dec 1949–Jan 1950 (double issue, the final issue of the journal).
- 87 A romantic interest in our own sex, not necessarily carried as far as physical experiments, was the intellectual fashion.
Of Oxford during his student days. Quoted in Peter Quennell The Marble Foot (1977).

Connolly, James 1868–1916

Irish Labour leader and insurgent. He organized the Irish Socialist Republican party and founded The Workers' Republic, the first Irish socialist paper. He lectured in the US and organized strikes in Ireland, and was executed for his part in the 1916 Easter rebellion.

- 88 It is an axiom enforced by all the experience of the ages, that they who rule industrially will rule politically.
1909 Socialism Made Easy.
- 89 Don't be 'practical' in politics. To be practical in that sense means that you have schooled yourself to think along the lines, and in the grooves that those who rob you would desire you to think.
1909 Socialism Made Easy.
- 90 The day has passed for patching up the capitalist system; it must go. And in the work of abolishing it the Catholic and the Protestant, the Catholic and the Jew, the Catholic and the Freethinker, the Catholic and the Buddhist, the Catholic and the Mahometan will cooperate together... For, as we have said elsewhere, Socialism is neither Protestant nor Catholic, Christian nor Freethinker, Buddhist, Mahometan, nor Jew; it is only HUMAN.

1910 Labour, Nationality, and Religion.

91 The worker is the slave of capitalist society, the female worker is the slave of that slave.

1915 The Re-conquest of Ireland.

Connor, Sir William Neil pseudonym Cassandra

1909–67

English journalist, a columnist with the Daily Mirror from 1935 until his death.

92 As I was saying when I was interrupted, it is a powerful hard thing to please all of the people all of the time.

1946 On resuming his Cassandra column in the Daily Mirror, Sep, after the end of World War II.

Conrad, Joseph originally Jozef Teodor Konrad Nalecz Korzeniowski 1857–1924

Polish-born British novelist who joined an English merchant ship in 1878, and was naturalized in 1884 as a master mariner. The sea provided the background for much of his work, notably Heart of Darkness (1899) and Lord Jim (1900).

93 It is only those who do nothing that make no mistakes, I suppose.

1896 An Outcast of the Islands, pt.3, ch.2.

94 Any work that aspires, however humbly, to the condition of art should carry its justification in every line.

1897 The Nigger of the Narcissus, preface.

95 My task which I am trying to achieve is, by the power of the written word to make you hear, to make you feel—it is, before all, to make you see. That—and no more, and it is everything.

1897 The Nigger of the Narcissus, preface.

96 The conquest of the earth, which mostly means the taking it away from those who have a different complexion or slightly flatter noses than ourselves, is not a pretty thing when you look into it too much. What redeems it is an idea only.

1899 Heart of Darkness, pt.1 (first published in Blackwood's Magazine, collected in Youth: A Narrative, and Two Other Stories, 1902).

97 We live, as we dream—alone.

1899 Heart of Darkness, pt.1 (first published in Blackwood's Magazine, collected in Youth: A Narrative, and Two Other Stories, 1902).

98 Exterminate all the brutes!

1899 Heart of Darkness, pt.2 (first published in Blackwood's Magazine, collected in Youth: A Narrative, and Two Other Stories, 1902).

99 He cried in a whisper at some image, at some vision—he cried out twice, a cry that was no more than a breath: 'The horror! The horror!'

1899 Kurtz's final words. Heart of Darkness, pt.3 (first published in Blackwood's Magazine, collected in Youth: A Narrative, and Two Other Stories, 1902).

1 Mistah Kurtz—he dead.

1899 Heart of Darkness, pt.3 (first published in Blackwood's Magazine, collected in Youth: A Narrative, and Two Other Stories, 1902).

2 A man that is born falls into a dream like a man who falls into the sea... The way is to the destructive element submit yourself, and with the exertions of your hands and feet in the water make the deep, deep sea keep you up.

1900 Lord Jim, ch.20.

3 You shall judge a man by his foes as well as by his friends.

1900 Lord Jim, ch.34.

4 Suddenly a puff of wind, a puff faint and tepid and laden with strange odours of blossoms, of aromatic wood, comes out of the still night—the first sigh of the east on my face.

1902 'Youth'.

5 The mysterious East, perfumed like a flower, silent like death, dark like a grave.

1902 'Youth'.

6 I remember my youth and the feeling that it will never come back any more—the feeling that I could last for ever, outlast the sea, the earth, and all men; the deceitful feeling that lures us on to joys, to perils, to love, to vain effort—to death; the triumphant conviction of strength, the heat of life in the handful of dust, the glow in the heart that with every year grows dim, grows cold, grows small, and expires—and expires, too soon, too soon—before life itself.

1902 'Youth'.

7 Action is consolatory. It is the enemy of thought and the friend of flattering illusions.

1904 Nostromo, pt.1, ch.6.

8 Liberty of the imagination should be the most precious possession of a novelist.

1905 'Books'.

9 To be hopeful in an artistic sense it is not necessary to think that the world is good. It is enough to believe that there is no impossibility of it being made so.

1905 'Books'.

10 Of all the inanimate objects, of all men's creations, books are the nearest to us, for they contain our very thoughts, our ambitions, our indignations, our illusions, our fidelity to truth, and our persistent leaning towards error. But most of all they resemble us in their precarious hold on life.

1905 'Books'.

11 The terrorist and the policeman both come from the same basket.

1907 The Secret Agent, ch.4.

12 Some kind of moral discovery should be the object of every tale.

1911 Under Western Eyes, prologue.

13 Words, as is well known, are the great foes of reality.

1911 Under Western Eyes, prologue.

14 The scrupulous and the just, the noble, humane, and devoted natures; the unselfish and the intelligent may begin a movement—but it passes away from them. They are not the leaders of a revolution. They are its victims.

1911 Under Western Eyes, pt.2, ch.3.

15 A belief in a supernatural source of evil is not necessary; men alone are quite capable of every wickedness.

1911 Under Western Eyes, pt.2, ch.4.

16 All ambitions are lawful except those which climb upwards on the miseries or credulities of mankind.

1912 Some Reminiscences, preface.

17 On the contrary, the mere fact of dealing with matters outside the general run of everyday experience laid me under the obligation of a more scrupulous fidelity to the truth of my own sensations. The problem was to make unfamiliar things credible.

1915 Within the Tides, preface.

18 Thinking is the great enemy of perfection. The habit of profound reflection, I am compelled to say, is the most pernicious of all the habits formed by civilized man.

1915 Victory, author's note.

19 It is not the clear-sighted who rule the world. Great achievements are accomplished in a blessed, warm fog.

1915 Victory, author's note.

20 It was amazing to think that in those miles of human habitations there was not probably half a dozen pounds of nails.

1917 Of Bangkok. The Shadow-Line.

21 In plucking the fruit of memory one runs the risk of spoiling its bloom.

1920 The Arrow of Gold, author's note.

Conran, Shirley Ida née Pearce 1932–

English designer, fashion editor and author, first wife of the designer and businessman Sir Terence Conran. Her books include Superwoman (1975) and Lace (1982).

22 Our motto: Life is too short to stuff a mushroom.

1975 Superwoman, epigraph.

Constable, John 1776–1837

English landscape painter. With Turner, one of Britain's most important and best-loved landscape painters.

24 A gentleman's park is my aversion. It is not beauty because it is not nature.

1822 In R B Beckett (ed) Constable's Correspondence, Suffolk Records Society (1962–70).

25 In Claude's landscape all is lovely—all amiable—all is amenity and repose;—the calm sunshine of the heart.

1836 Lecture, 2 Jun. Quoted in CR Leslie Memoirs of the Life of John Constable (1843).

26 When I set down to make a sketch from nature, the first thing I try to do is to forget that I have ever seen a picture. Quoted in CR Leslie Memoirs of the Life of John Constable (1843).

27 There is nothing ugly; I never saw an ugly thing in my life: for let the form of an object be what it may—light, shade and perspective will always make it beautiful.

Quoted in CR Leslie Memoirs of the Life of John Constable (1843).

28 He seems to paint with tinted steam.

Of Turner. Quoted in Treasures of the Fitzwilliam Museum (1982).

Constant (de Rebecque), (Henri) Benjamin

1767–1830

French novelist and politician. He supported the Revolution in Paris (1795) and was banished (1802) for opposing Napoleon. On his return in 1814 he became leader of the liberal opposition. His best-known novel Adolphe (1816) is based on his relationship with Mme de Staël.

29 L'art pour l'art, sans but, car tout but dénature l'art. Mais l'art atteint au but qu'il n'a pas.

Art for art's sake, with no purpose, for any purpose perverts art. But art achieves a purpose which is not its own.

36 Chicken masala is now Britain's true national dish, not only because it is the most popular, but because it is a perfect illustration of the way Britain absorbs and adapts external influences.

2001 Speech to the Social Market Foundation, London, 19 Apr.

37 Iraq probably has no weapons of mass destruction in the commonly understood sense of the term—namely a credible device capable of being delivered against a strategic city target.

2003 Speech to the House of Commons, following his resignation as Leader of the House, 17 Mar.

38 What has come to trouble me most over past weeks is the suspicion that if the hanging chads in Florida had gone the other way and Al Gore had been elected, we would not now be about to commit British troops.

2003 Speech to the House of Commons, following his resignation as Leader of the House, 17 Mar.

Cooke, (Alfred) Alistair 1908–2004

English-born US journalist and broadcaster, best known for his 'Letter from America', first broadcast by the BBC in 1946, which became the world's longest-running radio series with the same presenter. He retired shortly before his death.

39 All Presidents start out pretending to run a crusade, but after a couple of years they find they are running something much less heroic, much more intractable: namely, the Presidency.

1963 In The Listener.

40 An episode out of George Orwell rewritten by Charles Dickens.

1979 Of Gerald R Ford's succession to the US presidency on Richard M Nixon's resignation. The Americans.

41 Like a christening, a wedding, a graduation ceremony, a holy war, a revolution even... a fireworks display, a gaudy promise of what life ought to be, not life itself.

1979 Of elections. The Americans.

42 But after all it's not the winning that matters, is it? Or is it? It's—to coin a word—the amenities that count: the smell of the dandelions, the puff of the pipe, the click of the bat, the rain on the neck, the chill down the spine, the slow, exquisite coming on of sunset and dinner and rheumatism.

Quoted in Helen Exley Cricketer Quotations (1992).

43 Canned music is like audible wallpaper.

Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth Century Music (1994).

Coolidge, (John) Calvin 1872–1933

US Republican politician and 30th President (1923–9). A strong supporter of US business interests, he was re-elected in 1924 but refused renomination in 1928.

44 Civilization and profits go hand in hand.

1920 Speech, New York, 27 Nov.

45 There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, at any time.

1919 Telegram to the President of the American Federation of Labor, while Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts during the Boston police strike.

46 The chief business of the American people is business.

1925 Speech to the Society of Newspaper Editors, Washington, 17 Jan.

47 Prosperity is only an instrument to be used, not a deity to be worshipped.

1928 Speech, Boston, 11 Jun.

48 Perhaps one of the most important accomplishments of my Administration has been minding my own business.

1929 Press conference, Mar.

49 Patriotism is easy to understand in America. It means looking out for yourself while looking out for your country.

51 The tendency of democracies is, in all things, to mediocrity.

1838 The American Democrat, 'On the Disadvantages of Democracy'.

52 Equality of condition is incompatible with civilization, and is found only to exist in those communities that are but slightly removed from the savage state. In practice, it can only mean a common misery.

1838 The American Democrat, 'On the Disadvantages of a Monarchy'.

53 Individuality is the aim of political liberty.

1838 The American Democrat, 'Individuality'.

54 It is a misfortune that necessity has induced men to accord greater license to this formidable engine, in order to obtain liberty, than can be borne with less important objects in view; for the press, like fire, is an excellent servant, but a terrible master.

1838 The American Democrat, 'On the Press'.

Cooper, William pseudonym of Harry Summerfield Hoff 1910–2002

English novelist. A barbed and witty satirist, he was a forerunner of the 'angry young man' school of the 1950s.

55 I would gladly have thrashed her for it. Unfortunately, thrashing your young woman doesn't make her admire you more as a novelist.

60 There are so many kinds of awful men—
One can't avoid them all. She often said
She'd never make the same mistake again:
She always made a new mistake instead.

1986 'Rondeau Redoublé'.

61 Bloody men are like bloody buses—
You wait for about a year
And as soon as one approaches your stop
Two or three others appear.

1992 Serious Concerns, 'Bloody Men', stanza 1.

62 My heart has made its mind up
And I'm afraid it's you.

Copland, Aaron 1900–90

US composer. His early works employed jazz idioms, and he later drew on US folk tradition, as in the ballets Billy the Kid (1938) and Appalachian Spring (1944). He also composed film scores, operas and symphonies.

65 The whole problem can be stated quite simply by asking,
'Is there a meaning to music?' My answer would be, 'Yes'.
And 'Can you state in so many words what the meaning is?' My answer to that would be 'No'.

1939 What to Listen for in Music.

66 The difference between Beethoven and Mahler is the difference between watching a great man walk down the street and watching a great actor act the part of a great man walking down the street.

Quoted in the Wall Street Journal, 9 Jun 1995.

Coppola, Francis Ford 1939–

Cornford, Frances née Darwin 1886–1960

English poet, the granddaughter of Charles Darwin. She lived most of her life in Cambridge, and her poetry deals with the minute details of emotion.

68 A young Apollo, golden-haired,
Stands dreaming on the verge of strife,
Magnificently unprepared

For the long littleness of life.

1910 Of Rupert Brooke. 'Youth'.

69 O fat white woman whom nobody loves,
Why do you walk through the fields in gloves,
When the grass is soft as the breast of doves
And shivering-sweet to the touch?

Oh why do you walk through the fields in gloves,
Missing so much and so much?

1910 'To a Fat Lady Seen from a Train'.

international understanding through sport.

- 85 Women have but one task, that of crowning the winner with garlands.

1902 Quoted in Colin Jarman *The Guinness Dictionary of Sports
Quotations* (1990).

- 86 The most important thing in the Olympic games is not winning but taking part—just as the most important thing in life is not the triumph but the struggle. The essential thing in life is not conquering but fighting well.
1908 Speech to Olympic Games officials, London, 24 Jul.

Coué, Émile 1857–1926

French pharmacist, pioneer of 'auto-suggestion'. He opened a

1782 Poems, 'Charity', 1.189.
- 59 Spare the poet for his subject's sake.
1782 Poems, 'Charity', 1.636.
- 60 The man that hails you Tom or Jack,
 And proves by thumps upon your back
 How he esteems your merit,
 Is such a friend, that one had need
 Be very much his friend indeed
 To pardon or to bear it.
1782 Poems, 'Friendship', 1.169–74.
- 61 Remorse, the fatal egg by pleasure laid.
1782 Poems, 'The Progress of Error', 1.239.
- 62 As creeping ivy clings to wood or stone,
 And hides the ruin that it feeds upon,
 So sophistry, cleaves close to, and protects
 Sin's rotten trunk, concealing its defects.
1782 Poems, 'The Progress of Error', 1.285–8.
- 63 How much a dunce that has been sent to roam
 Excels a dunce that has been kept at home.
1782 Poems, 'The Progress of Error', 1.415–6.
- 64 Laugh at all you trembled at before.
1782 Poems, 'The Progress of Error', 1.592.
- 65 Our severest winter, commonly called the spring.
1783 Letter to Rev William Unwin, 8 Jun.
- 66 There is a mixture of evil in everything we do; indulgence encourages us to encroach, while we
- exercise the rights of children, we become childish.
1783 Letter to Rev William Unwin, 7 Sep.
- 67 Thus first necessity invented stools,
 Convenience next suggested elbow-chairs,
 And luxury the accomplished sofa last.
1785 The Task, bk.1, 'The Sofa', 1.86–8.
- 68 God made the country, and man made the town.
1785 The Task, bk.1, 'The Sofa', 1.749.
- 69 At eve
 The moonbeam, sliding softly in between
 The sleeping leaves, is all the light they wish,
 Birds warbling all the music.
1785 The Task, bk.1, 'The Sofa'.
- 70 England, with all thy faults I love thee still—
 My country!
1785 The Task, bk.2, 'The Timepiece', 1.206–7.
- 71 There is a pleasure in poetic pains
 Which only poets know.
1785 The Task, bk.2, 'The Timepiece', 1.285–6.
- 72 Variety's the spice of life,
 That gives it all its flavour.
1785 The Task, bk.2, 'The Timepiece', 1.606–7.
- 73 Defend me, therefore, common sense, say I,
 From reveries so airy, from the toil
 Of dropping buckets into empty wells,
 And growing old in drawing nothing up!
1785 The Task, bk.3, 'The Garden', 1.187–90.
- 74 Detested sport,
 That owes its pleasure to another's pain.
1785 Of hunting. The Task, bk.3, 'The Garden', 1.326–7.
- 75 Studious of laborious ease.
1785 The Task, bk.3, 'The Garden', 1.361.
- 76 Now stir the fire, and close the shutters fast,
 Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round,
 And, while the bubbling and loud-hissing urn
 Throws up a steamy column, and the cups,
 That cheer but not inebriate, wait on each,
 So let us welcome peaceful evening in.
1785 The Task, bk.4, 'The Winter Evening', 1.34–9.
- 77 But war's a game, which, were their subjects wise,
 Kings should not play at. Nations would do well
 To extort their truncheons from the puny hands
 Of heroes, whose infirm and baby minds
 Are gratified with mischief, and who spoil,
 Because men suffer it, their toy the world.
1785 The Task, bk.5, 'The Winter Morning Walk', 1.187–92.
- 78 Knowledge dwells
 In heads replete with thoughts of other men;
 Wisdom in minds attentive to their own.
1785 The Task, bk.6, 'The Winter Walk at Noon', 1.89–91.
- 79 Knowledge is proud that he has learned so much;
 Wisdom is humble that he knows no more.
1785 The Task, bk.6, 'The Winter Walk at Noon', 1.96–7.
- 80 Nature is but a name for an effect,
 Whose cause is God.
1785 The Task, bk.6, 'The Winter Walk at Noon', 1.223.

Crabbe, George 1754–1832

English poet and clergyman, whose early career was spent in poverty until Edmund Burke befriended him. His best-known poem, The Village (1783), is a bleak account of rural life.

- 81 Lo! the poor toper whose untutored sense,
Sees bliss in ale, and can with wine dispense;
Whose head proud fancy never taught to steer,
Beyond the muddy ecstasies of beer.
1775 Inebriety, a Poem, pt.1, l.132–5.
- 82 With awe, around these silent walks I tread;
These are the lasting mansions of the dead.
1781 The Library (published 1808), l.105–6.
- 83 Lo! all in silence, all in order stand,
And mighty folios first, a lordly band:
Then quartos their well-ordered ranks maintain,
And light octavos fill a spacious plain;
See yonder, ranged in more frequented rows,
A humbler band of duodecimos.
1781 The Library (published 1808), l.128–33.
- 84 Fashion, though Folly's child, and guide of fools,
Rules e'en the wisest, and in learning rules.
1781 The Library (published 1808), l.167–8.
- 85 Coldly profane and impiously gay.
1781 The Library (published 1808), l.265.
- 86 Yes, thus the Muses sing of happy swains,
Because the Muses never knew their pains:
They boast their peasants' pipes, but peasants now
Resign their pipes and plod behind the plough.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.21–4.
- 87 I grant indeed that fields and flocks have charms,
For him that gazes or for him that farms.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.39–40.
- 88 I paint the cot,
As truth will paint it, and as bards will not.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.53–4.
- 89 Where Plenty smiles—alas! she smiles for few,
And those who taste not, yet behold her store,
Are as the slaves that dig the golden ore,
The wealth around them makes them doubly poor.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.136–9.
- 90 The cold charities of man to man.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.245.
- 91 A potent quack, long versed in human ills,
Who first insults the victim whom he kills;
Whose murd'rous hand a drowsy bench protect,
And whose most tender mercy is neglect.
1783 The Village, bk.1, l.282.
- 92 The murmuring poor, who will not fast in peace.
1785 The Newspaper, l.158.
- 93 A master passion is the love of news.
1785 The Newspaper, l.279.
- 94 Our farmers round, well pleased with constant gain,
Like other farmers, flourish and complain.
1807 Poems, 'The Parish Register', pt.1, l.273–4.
- 95 'What is a church?'—Our honest sexton tells,
''Tis a tall building, with a tower and bells.'
1810 The Borough, letter 2, 'The Church', l.11–12.
- 96 Virtues neglected then, adored become,
And graces slighted, blossom on the tomb.
1810 The Borough, letter 2, 'The Church', l.133–4.

97 Ye Lilies male! think (as your tea you sip,
While the Town small-talk flows from lip to lip;
Intrigues half-gathered, conversation-scrap,
Kitchen-cabals, and nursery-mishaps),
If the vast world may not some scene produce,
Some state where your small talents might have use.
1810 The Borough, letter 3, 'The Vicar', l.69–74.

98 Habit with him was all the test of truth,
'It must be right: I've done it from my youth.'
1810 The Borough, letter 3, 'The Vicar', l.138–9.

99 There anchoring, Peter chose from man to hide,
There hang his head, and view the lazy tide
In its hot slimy channel slowly glide;
Where the small eels that left the deeper way
For the warm shore, within the shallows play;
Where gaping mussels, left upon the mud,
Slope their slow passage to the fallen flood.
1810 The Borough, letter 22, 'Peter Grimes', l.185–91.

1 He nursed the feelings these dull scenes produce,
And loved to stop beside the opening sluice;
Where the small stream, confined in narrow bound,
Ran with a dull, unvaried, sad'ning sound;
Where all presented to the eye or ear,
Oppressed the soul! with misery, grief, and fear.
1810 The Borough, letter 22, 'Peter Grimes', l.194–9.

2 That all was wrong because not all was right.
1812 Tales, 'The Convert', l.313.

3 He tried the luxury of doing good.
1819 Tales of the Hall, 'Boys at School', l.139.

4 'The game,' said he, 'is never lost till won.'
1819 Tales of the Hall, 'Gretna Green', l.334.

5 The face the index of a feeling mind.
1819 Tales of the Hall, 'Lady Barbara', l.124.

6 Secrets with girls, like loaded guns with boys,
Are never valued till they make a noise.
1819 Tales of the Hall, 'The Maid's Story', l.84–5.

Craik, Dinah Maria née Mulock 1826–87

English novelist, essayist and poet. She published over 20 novels, the best known being John Halifax, Gentleman (1858). Although sentimental, her work emphasizes the self-reliance of women.

7 Leonora, Leonora,
How the word rolls—Leonora—
Lion-like, in full-mouthed sound,
Marching o'er the metric ground
With a tawny tread sublime;
So your name moves, Leonora,
Down my desert rhyme.
1881 Collected Poems, 'Leonora'.

Crane, (Harold) Hart 1899–1932

US poet. He was an alcoholic who led a troubled life which ended in suicide. He has come to be regarded as one of the most important US poets of the 20c.

8 The Cross alone has flown the wave.
But since the Cross sank, much that's warped and cracked
Has followed in its name, has heaped its grave.
1920 'The Mermen', in The Dial, no.85, Jul.

- 9 The bottom of the sea is cruel.
1926 White Buildings, 'Voyages', pt.1.
- 10 And onwards, as bells off San Salvador
Salute the crocus lustres of the stars,
In these poinsettia meadows of her tides.
1926 White Buildings, 'Voyages', pt.2.
- 11 Bequeath us no earthly shore until
Is answered in the vortex of our grave
The seal's wide spindrift gaze toward paradise.
1926 White Buildings, 'Voyages', pt.2.
- 12 Light wrestling there incessantly with light,
Star kissing star through wave on wave unto
Your body rocking!
1926 White Buildings, 'Voyages', pt.3.
- 13 Slow tyranny of moonlight, moonlight loved
And changed.
1926 White Buildings, 'Voyages', pt.5.
- 14 O Sleepless as the river under thee,
Vaulting the sea, the prairies' dreaming sod,
Unto us lowliest sometime sweep, descend
And of the curvship lend a myth to God.
1927 'To Brooklyn Bridge', in The Dial, Jun.
- 15 You who desired so much—in vain to ask—
Yet fed your hunger like an endless task,
Dared dignify the labor, bless the quest—
Achieved that stillness ultimately best,
Being, of all, least sought for: Emily, hear!
1929 'To Emily Dickinson', in The Nation, 29 Jun.
- 16 The last bear, shot drinking in the Dakotas
Loped under wires that span the mountain stream.
Keen instruments, strung to a vast precision
Bind town to town and dream to ticking dream.
1930 The Bridge, 'The River'.
- 17 Hobo-trekkers that forever search
An empire wilderness of freight and rails.
1930 The Bridge, 'The River'.
- 18 Dead echoes! But I knew her body there,
Time like a serpent down her shoulder, dark,
And space, an eaglet's wing, laid on her hair.
1930 The Bridge, 'The River'.
- 19 Few evade full measure of their fate.
1930 The Bridge, 'The River'.
- 20 Thin squeaks of radio static,
The captured fume of space foams in our ears.
1930 The Bridge, 'Cape Hatteras'.
- 21 Stars scribble on our eyes the frosty sagas,
The gleaming cantos of unvanquished space.
1930 The Bridge, 'Cape Hatteras'.
- 22 Cowslip and shad-blow, flaked like tethered foam
Around bared teeth of stallions, bloomed that spring
When first I read thy lines, rife as the loam
Of prairies, yet like breakers cliffward leaping!
1930 Of Walt Whitman. The Bridge, 'Cape Hatteras'.
- 23 Our Meistersinger, thou set breath in steel;
And it was thou who on the boldest heel
Stood up and flung the span on even wing
Of that great Bridge, our Myth, whereof I sing.
1930 On Whitman and Brooklyn Bridge. The Bridge, 'Cape Hatteras'.
- 24 Our tongues recant like beaten weather vanes.

1930 The Bridge, 'The Tunnel'.

- 25 The phonographs of hades in the brain
Are tunnels that re-wind themselves, and love
A burnt match skating in a urinal.
1930 The Bridge, 'The Tunnel'.

- 26 The bell-rope that gathers God at dawn
Dispatches me as though I dropped down the knell
Of a spent day.
1932 'The Broken Tower', in the New Republic, 8 Jun.

Crane, Stephen 1871–1900

- 27 The Red Badge of Courage.

1895 Title of novel.

- 28 'It is bitter—bitter,' he answered;
'But I like it
Because it is bitter,
And because it is my heart.'

1895 The Black Riders, 'The Heart'. The speaker is a 'naked, bestial' creature which the narrator sees eating its heart in the desert.

- 29 None of them knew the color of the sky.

1898 The Open Boat.

- 30 A man said to the universe:

'Sir, I exist!'

'However,' replied the universe,

'The fact has not created in me

A sense of obligation.'

1899 A Man Said to the Universe.

- 1634 Of the water which Jesus turned into wine at Cana.
Epigrammata Sacra, 'Aquaë in Vinum Versae' (translated by Dryden).
- 34 Wellcome, all Wonders in one sight!
Eternity shut in a span.
Summer in Winter, Day in Night.
Heaven in Earth and God in Man.
1646 'Hymn of the Nativity' (published 1652), l.79.
- 35 I would be married, but I'd have no wife,
I would be married to a single life.
1646 'On Marriage'.
- 36 Th' have left thee naked, Lord, O that they had!
This garment too I would they had denied.
Thee with thyself they have too richly clad,
Opening the purple wardrobe of thy side.
O never could be found garments too good
For thee to wear, but these, of thine own blood.
1646 'On Our Crucified Lord, Naked and Bloody'.
- 37 And now where'er he strays
Among the Galilean mountains
Or more unwelcome ways,
He's followed by two faithful fountains;
Two walking baths; two weeping motions;
Portable and compendious oceans.
1646 'Saint Mary Magdalene, or The Weeper'.
- 38 What heaven-entreated heart is this,
Stands trembling at the gate of bliss,
Holds fast the door, yet dares not venture
Fairly to open it, and enter?
1646 'To the Noblest and Best of Ladies, the Countess of Denbigh'.
- 39 Say, lingering fair! why comes the birth
Of your brave soul so slowly forth?
1646 'To the Noblest and Best of Ladies, the Countess of Denbigh'.
- 40 What yet fantastic bands
Keep the free heart from its own hands!
1646 'To the Noblest and Best of Ladies, the Countess of Denbigh'.
- 41 Yield, then, O yield, that love may win
The fort at last, and let life in.
1646 'To the Noblest and Best of Ladies, the Countess of Denbigh'.

'The Flaming Heart Upon the Book and Picture of Saint Teresa', collected in Carmen Deo Nostro (published posthumously, 1652).

Craster, Mrs Edmund d.1874

- 44 The centipede was happy quite,
Until the toad in fun
Asked him which leg went after which,
Which drove him into such a pitch
He lay distracted in a ditch,
Considering how to run.
Attributed.

1953 Announcement, with James Watson, to the patrons of The Eagle public house in Cambridge on solving the structure of DNA.
► See Watson 890:96.
- 48 Almost all aspects of life are engineered at the molecular level, and without understanding molecules we can only have a very sketchy understanding of life itself.
1988 What Mad Pursuit, ch.5.

Cripps, Arthur S(hearly) 1869–1952

English clergyman. He was the writer of occasional verse, mainly on rural or religious themes.

- 49 England has greater counties—
Their peace to hers is small;
Low hills, rich fields, calm rivers,
In Essex seek them all.
Quoted in S P B Mais and Tom Stephenson (eds) Lovely Britain (c.1930).

Cripps, Sir (Richard) Stafford 1889–1952

English Labour politician and economist, expelled from the Party for his opposition to appeasement (1939). In 1945 he was readmitted and subsequently became Chancellor of the Exchequer, with a successful austerity policy.

87 En perseguirme, Mundo, Qué interesas?

En qué te ofendo, cuando sólo intento poner bellezas en mi entendimiento y no mi entendimiento en las bellezas?

World, in hounding me, what do you gain?

How can it harm you if I choose, astutely, rather to stock my mind with things of beauty, than waste its stock on every beauty's claim?

1688 Poesía, teatro y prosa. 'Quéjase de la suerte' (translated as 'She Complains about Her Fate', 1985).

88 Aprendamos a ignorar, pensamiento, pues hallamos que cuanto añado al discurso, tanto le usurpo a los años.

Thought, let's learn not to know, since so plainly it appears that whatever we add to our minds we take away from our years.

1688 A Sor Juana Anthology. 'Acusa la hidropesía de mucha ciencia' (translated as 'She Condemns the Bloatedness of Much Learning', 1985).

89 Este natural impulso que Dios puso en mí...su Majestad sabe por qué y para qué; y sabe que le he pedido que apague la luz de mi entendimiento dejando sólo lo que baste para guardar su Ley, pues lo demás sobra, (según algunos) en una mujer; y aun hay quien dice que daña.

This natural impulse which God has implanted in me...only His Majesty knows why and wherefore and His Majesty also knows that I have prayed to Him to extinguish the light of my mind, only leaving sufficient to keep His Law, since any more is overmuch, so some say, in a woman, and there are even those who say it is harmful.

1691 Poesía, teatro y prosa. 'Respuesta a sor Filotea' ('An Answer to Sister Filotea', 1982).

English statesman. As Viceroy of India from 1898 he introduced many social and political reforms and partitioned Bengal. He resigned after a disagreement with Kitchener (1905), but returned to politics as Lord Privy Seal (1915) and Foreign Secretary (1919–24).

51 It is only when you get to see and realize what India is—that she is the strength and the greatness of England—that you feel that every nerve a man may strain, every energy he may put forward, cannot be devoted to a nobler purpose than keeping tight the cords that hold India to ourselves.

1893 Speech at Southport, 15 May.

52 I hesitate to say what the functions of the modern journalist may be, but I imagine that they do not exclude the intelligent anticipation of the facts even before they occur.

1898 House of Commons, 29 Mar.

53 To fight for the right, to abhor the imperfect, the unjust,

d

or the mean, to swerve neither to the right hand nor the left, to care nothing for flattery or applause or odium or abuse—it is so easy to have any of them in India—never to let your enthusiasm be soured or your courage grow dim but to remember that the Almighty has placed your hand on the greatest of his ploughs, in whose furrow the nations of the future are germinating and taking shape, to drive the blade a little forward in your time and to feel that somewhere among those millions you have left, a little justice, or happiness or prosperity, a sense of manliness or moral dignity, a spring of patriotism, a dawn of intellectual enlightenment or a stirring of duty where it did not exist before—that is enough, that is the Englishman's justification in India.

1906 Farewell speech on departing from Bombay as Viceroy of India.

54 I never knew that the lower classes had such white skins.

1988 Nervous Conditions, ch.1.

Dangerfield, George

86 Ireland is one of the few countries—perhaps the last—where the boundaries between politics and art have never been fixed.

1935 The Strange Death of Liberal England.

Daniel, Samuel 1562–1619

English poet and dramatist. A private tutor and courtier, he wrote masques, plays and epistles. His poetic works include the sonnet sequence Delia (1592) and the epic Civil Wars Between the Two Houses of Lancaster and York (1594–1609).

87 I that have loved thee thus before thou fadest,
My faith shall wax, when thou art in thy waning.
The world shall find this miracle in me,
That fire can burn when all the matter's spent.

1592 Delia, sonnet 33.

88 Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable Night,
Brother to Death, in silent darkness born,
Relieve my languish and restore the light;
With dark forgetting of my care return.
And let the day be time enough to mourn
The shipwreck of my ill adventured youth:
Let waking eyes suffice to wail their scorn
Without the torment of the night's untruth.

1592 Delia, sonnet 54.

89 O thou whom envy ev'n is force t'admire!

1594 'To the Right Honourable, the Lady Mary, Countess of Pembroke'. Daniel was part of the group of writers who met at Wilton, which also included Jonson and Drayton, and he tutored Pembroke's son.

90 Unless above himself he can Erect himself, how poor a thing is man!

1594 'To the Lady Margaret, Countess of Cumberland'.

91 Custom that is before all law, Nature that is above all art.

1603 A Defence of Rhyime.

92 But years hath done this wrong,
To make me write too much, and live too long.

1605 Philotas, 'To the Prince', dedication.

Dante Alighieri originally Durante 1265–1321

Italian poet and scholar, author of The Divine Comedy (a poet's journey through hell, purgatory and paradise, begun c.1307). A White Gueft, he was exiled from his native Florence when the Black Guefts triumphed in 1309. He died in Ravenna.

93 Nel mezzo del cammin di nostra vita mi ritrovai per una selva oscura ché la diritta via era smarrita.

In the middle of the journey of our life
I found myself in a dark wood where the straight path was lost.

c.1320 Divina Commedia, 'Inferno', canto 1, 1.1–3.

94 Lasciate ogni speranza voi ch'entrate.

Abandon all hope ye who enter here.

c.1320 Inscription above the gates of Hell. Divina Commedia, 'Inferno', canto 3, 1.9.

95 *Nessun maggior dolore,
Che ricordarsi del tempo felice
Nella miseria.*

There is no greater pain than to remember a happy time when one is in misery.

c.1320 Divina Commedia, 'Inferno', canto 5, 1.121–3.

96 E quindi uscimmo a riveder le stelle.

Thence we came forth to see the stars again.

c.1320 Divina Commedia, 'Inferno', canto 34, 1.139.

97 Lì si vedrà la superbia ch'assetta, che fa lo Scotto e l'Inghilese folle, sì che non può soffrir dentro a sua meta.

There shall you see the pride which causes thirst, which makes the Scots and the English mad,
so that they cannot remain within their boundaries.

c.1320 Divina Commedia, 'Paradiso', canto 1, 1.121–3.

98 E'n la sua voluntade è nostra pace.

2 Si hay poesía en nuestra América, ella está en las cosas viejas: en Palenke y Uatlán, en el indio legendario y el inca sensual y fino y en el gran Moctezuma de la silla de oro. Lo demás es tuyo, demócrata Walt Whitman.

If there is poetry in our America, it is in ancient items: in Palenke and Uatlán, in the legendary Indian and in the sensuous and elegant Inca and the great Moctezuma.

The rest is yours, democratic Walt Whitman.

1896 Prosas profanas, 'Palabras liminares'.

3 *Yo persigo una forma que no encuentra mi estilo, botón de pensamiento que busca ser la rosa;
se anuncia con un beso que en mis labios se posa al abrazo imposible de la Venus de Milo.*

I seek a form that my style cannot discover,
a bud of thought that wants to be a rose;
it is heralded by a kiss that is placed on my lips in the impossible embrace of the Venus de Milo.

1896 Prosas profanas, 'Yo persigo una forma...' (translated as 'I seek a form...', 1922).

4 *Dichoso el árbol que es apenas sensitivo,
y más la piedra dura porque ésa ya no siente, pues no hay dolor más grande que el dolor de ser vivo, ni mayor pesadumbre que la vida consciente.*

Blessed is the almost insensitive tree, more blessed is the hard stone that doesn't feel,
for no pain is greater than the pain of being alive,
and no sorrow more intense than conscious life.

1901 Cantos de vida y esperanza, 'Lo fatal' ('Fatalism').

Dark, Eleanor née O'Reilly pseudonym Patricia O'Rane 1901–85

Australian novelist and poet. Her works include the historical trilogy The Timeless Land (1941), Storm of Time (1948) and No Barrier (1953).

- 5 Silence ruled this land. Out of silence mystery comes, and magic, and the delicate awareness of unreasoning things.
1941 The Timeless Land, pt.1, '1788'.

Darman, Richard G(ordon) 1943–

US government official and businessman, Director of the Office of Management and the Budget in President Bush's Cabinet (1988–93).

- 6 I am now celebrating the 20th anniversary of the first request for my resignation. I look forward to many more. Address to the White House press room. Quoted in Brian Kelly Adventures in Porkland (1992).

Darnell, Bill c.1940–

Canadian ecologist and activist, one of the original founders of the Greenpeace Foundation in Vancouver, British Columbia.

- 7 Make it a green peace.
1970 Quoted in Robert Hunter Warriors of the Rainbow (1979).

Darrow, Clarence Seward 1857–1938

US lawyer. He undertook the defence of John T Scopes (1925) for the teaching of Darwinism in school.

- 8 I do not consider it an insult but rather a compliment to be called an agnostic. I do not pretend to know where many ignorant men are sure—that is all that agnosticism means.
1925 Speech in defence of John T Scopes, 15 Jul.

Darwin, Charles Robert 1809–82

English naturalist. He joined the HMS Beagle scientific survey (1831–6) to South America and Australasia, which led eventually to his theory of evolution and the publication of many scientific works, including The Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection (1859).

- 9 The naturalist in England, in his walks, enjoys a great advantage over others in frequently meeting with something worthy of attention; here he suffers a pleasant nuisance in not being able to walk a hundred yards without being fairly tied to the spot by some new and wondrous creature.
1832 In Brazil. Journey of Researches into the Geology and Natural History of the Various Countries Visited during the Voyage of HMS 'Beagle' Round the World (published 1839).
- 10 I have called this principle, by which each slight variation, if useful, is preserved, by the term of Natural Selection, in order to mark its relation to man's power of selection.
1859 The Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection, ch.3.
- 11 From the war of nature, from famine and death, the most exalted object which we are capable of conceiving, namely, the production of the higher animals, directly follows. There is grandeur in this view of life.
1859 The Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection, ch.14.
- 12 Great is the power of steady misrepresentation—but the history of science shows how, fortunately, this power does not long endure.

1859 The Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection.

- 13 I have tried lately to read Shakespeare, and found it so intolerably dull that it nauseated me.
1860 The Life and Letters of Charles Darwin, vol.1.
- 14 False facts are highly injurious to the progress of science, for they often long endure; but false views, if supported by some evidence, do little harm, as every one takes a salutary pleasure in proving their falseness.
1871 The Descent of Man and Selection in Relation to Sex, ch.13.
- 15 The chief distinction in the intellectual powers of the two sexes is shewn by man's attaining to a higher eminence in whatever he takes up, than can woman—whether requiring deep thought, reason, or imagination, or merely the use of the senses and hands.
1871 The Descent of Man and Selection in Relation to Sex, ch.19.
- 16 We must however acknowledge, as it seems to me, that man with all his noble qualities... still bears in his bodily frame the indelible stamp of his lowly origin.
1871 The Descent of Man and Selection in Relation to Sex, ch.21.
- 17 I must begin with a good body of facts and not from a principle (in which I always suspect some fallacy) and then as much deduction as you please.
1874 Letter to J Fiske, 8 Dec.
- 18 A mathematician is a blind man in a dark room looking for a black cat which isn't there.
Quoted in John D Barrow Pie in the Sky, Counting, Thinking and Being (1992).

Darwin, Sir Francis 1848–1925

English botanist, son of Charles Darwin. He became a Reader in Botany at Oxford (1888) and produced his father's Life and Letters (1887–1903).

- 19 In science the credit goes to the man who convinces the world, not to the man to whom the idea first occurs.
1914 'Francis Galton', in Eugenics Review, vol.6, issue 1, Apr.

Daugherty, Harry Micajah 1860–1941

US politician, manager of Warren G Harding's political career from 1902. He was tried and acquitted (1927) on fraud charges.

- 20 A group of senators, bleary eyed for lack of sleep, will have to sit down at about two o'clock in the morning around a table in a smoke-filled room in some hotel, and decide the nomination.
1920 On the Republicans' failure to choose a presidential candidate at their convention.

David, Hal 1921–

US lyricist. He frequently worked with Burt Bacharach. His lyrics include What the World Needs Now Is Love and Do You Know the Way to San Jose.

- 21 Raindrops Keep Fallin' on My Head.
1969 Title of song. (Music by Burt Bacharach.)

Davidson, John 1857–1909

Scottish poet and writer. He moved to London in 1885, publishing Fleet Street Eclogues (1893) and Ballads and Songs (1894). He committed suicide by drowning himself at Penzance.

- 22 The difficultest job a man can do, is to come it brave and meek with thirty bob a week,

and feel that that's the proper thing for you.
1894 Ballads and Songs, 'Thirty Bob a Week', stanza 15.

23 It's naked child against hungry wolf;
it's playing bowls upon a splitting wreck;
it's walking on a string across a gulf with millstones fore-and-aft about your neck;
but the thing is daily done by many and many a one;
and we fall, face forward, fighting, on the deck.
1894 Ballads and Songs, 'Thirty Bob a Week', stanza 16.

24 In anguish we uplift
A new unhallowed song:
The race is to the swift,
The battle to the strong.
1899 'War Song', stanza 1.
► See Bible 101:85.

25 And blood in torrents pour
In vain—always in vain,
For war breeds war again.
1899 'War Song', stanza 7.

26 When the pods went pop on the broom, green broom,
And apples began to be golden-skinned,
We harboured a stag in the Priory coomb.
1906 Holiday and Other Poems, 'A Runnable Stag', stanza 1.

27 A stag of warrant, a stag, a stag,
A runnable stag, a kingly crop,
Brow, bay and tray and three on top,
A stag, a runnable stag.
1906 Holiday and Other Poems, 'A Runnable Stag', stanza 1.

Davie, George Elder 1912–

Scottish philosopher, a pioneer in studies of the Scottish Enlightenment.

28 The Democratic Intellect.
1961 Title of book.

Davies, (Sarah) Emily 1830–1921

English feminist and educational reformer who campaigned vigorously for equal opportunities for women in education.

29 If neither governesses or mothers know, how can they teach? So long as education is not provided for them, how can it be provided by them?
1868 Paper read at the Annual Meeting of the National Association for the Promotion of Social Sciences, published in Thoughts on Some Questions Relating to Women 1860–1908.

30 We have persuaded ourselves that Englishmen of the present day are such a nervously excitable race, that the only chance for their descendants is to keep the mothers in a state of coma. The fathers, we think are incurable.
1868 Paper read at the Annual Meeting of the National Association for the Promotion of Social Sciences, published in Thoughts on Some Questions Relating to Women 1860–1908.

Davies, Sir John 1569–1626

English poet and civil servant. He held high office in Ireland where he supported severe repressive measures and was nominated Chief Justice (1626). His poems include Orchestra, or a Poem of Dancing (1596) and Hymns to Astrea (1599).

31 Dancing is a frenzy and a rage.
1596 Orchestra, or a Poem of Dancing, stanza 16.

32 This wondrous miracle did Love devise,

For dancing is love's proper exercise.
1596 Orchestra, or a Poem of Dancing, stanza 18.

33 Learn then to dance, you that are princes born,
And lawful lords of earthly creatures all;
Imitate them, and thereof take no scorn,
(For this new art to them is natural)
And imitate the stars celestial.
For when pale death your vital twist shall sever,
Your better parts must dance with them forever.
1596 Orchestra, or a Poem of Dancing, stanza 60.

34 Skill comes so slow, and life so fast doth fly,
We learn so little and forget so much.
1599 Nosce Teipsum, stanza 19.

35 I know my life's a pain and but a span,
I know my sense is mocked in every thing;
And to conclude, I know myself a man,
Which is a proud and yet a wretched thing.
1599 Nosce Teipsum, stanza 45.

36 Wedlock, indeed, hath oft compared been
To public feasts where meet a public rout,
Where they that are without would fain go in
And they that are within would fain go out.
1608 'A Contention Betwixt a Wife, a Widow, and a Maid for Precedence', l.193–6.

Davies, Nigel 1960–

English chess player.

37 One very important aspect of actually achieving something is, I believe, the ability to avoid making excuses, in all their guises.
Quoted on www.chessville.com.

Davies, Ray(mond Douglas) 1944–

British songwriter and rock musician, founder of The Kinks (1963). His lyrics are noted for their lightly satirical commentary.

38 One week he's in polka-dots, the next week he's in stripes
'Cos he's a dedicated follower of fashion.
1966 'Dedicated Follower of Fashion'.

Davies, Robertson 1913–95

Canadian novelist, playwright, critic and essayist. After the Deptford trilogy (1970–5) he wrote another trilogy, including What's Bred in the Bone (1985), shortlisted for the Booker Prize.

39 There is more to marriage than four bare legs under a blanket.
1957 Love and Libel.

40 'Mary, what made you do it?'
She looked him honestly in the face and gave the answer that became famous in Deptford: 'He was very civil,
'Masa. And he wanted it so badly.'
1970 Mrs. Dempster explains to her parson husband why she had sex with a tramp. Fifth Business, pt.1, ch.10.

41 I saw corpses, and grew used to their unimportant look, for a dead man without any of the panoply of death is a desperately insignificant object.
1970 Of World War I. Fifth Business, pt.2, ch.1.

42 When a man is down on his luck he seems to consume all he can get of coffee and doughnuts.

1970 Fifth Business, pt.4, ch.1.

- 43 He was killed by the usual cabal: by himself, first of all; by the woman he knew; by the woman he did not know; by the man who granted his inmost wish; and by the inevitable fifth, who was keeper of his conscience and keeper of the stone.

1970 Fifth Business, pt.6, ch.8.

- 44 Canada is not really a place where you are encouraged to have large spiritual adventures.

1972 Interviewed by Peter C Newman, 'The Master's Voice', in Maclean's, Sep.

- 45 The ideal companion in bed is a good book.

Interviewed by Terence M Green, recorded in J Madison Davis (ed) Conversations with Robertson Davies (1989).

Davies, Ron(ald) 1946–

Welsh Labour politician, Secretary of State for Wales (1997–8).

- 46 It was a moment of madness for which I have subsequently paid a very, very heavy price.

1998 Talking about the episode on Clapham common which led to his resignation as Welsh Secretary. Television interview, 30 Oct.

Davies, W(illiam) H(enry) 1871–1940

Welsh poet, who emigrated to the US at the age of 22. He lost a leg there while jumping a train and returned to England, where he lived as a tramp until his poetry found a public. He also wrote novels and autobiographical works.

- 47 It was the Rainbow gave thee birth,
And left thee all her lovely hues.

1910 'The Kingfisher'.

- 48 What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare?

1911 'Leisure'.

- 49 A rainbow and a cuckoo's song
May never come together again;
May never come
This side the tomb.

1914 'A Great Time'.

- 50 And hear the pleasant cuckoo, loud and long—
The simple bird that thinks two notes a song.

1916 'April's Charms'.

- 58 An artist's first responsibility is to himself.

1961 Ebony, Jan.

- 59 You could be a great musician, an innovative and important artist, but nobody cared if you didn't make the white people who were in control some money.

1989 Autobiography, ch.10.

Davis, Sammy, Jnr 1925–90

US jazz musician, actor, dancer and comedian.

- 60 Being a star has made it possible for me to get insulted in places where the average Negro could never hope to go and get insulted.

1965 Yes I Can, pt.3, ch.23.

Davis, Steve 1957–

English snooker player. He won the world championships six times.

- 61 Billiards is very similar to snooker, except there are only three balls and no one watches it.

1988 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Davis, Stuart 1894–1964

US Cubist painter.

- 62 An artist who has travelled on a steam train, driven an automobile, or flown in an airplane doesn't feel the same way about form and space as one who has not.

1940 'Is There a Revolution in the Arts?', in Bulletin of America's Town Meeting of the Air, vol.5, no.19 (19 Feb).

63 It has been often said, even by proponents of those pictures known in aesthetic slang as Cubist and Abstract, that they have no subject matter. Such a statement is equivalent to saying that life has no subject matter.

1943 'The Cube Root', in Art News, vol.41, 1 Feb.

Davis, Thomas Osborne 1814–45

Irish poet and politician, head of the Young Ireland Movement. He cofounded the weekly Nation in 1842, and wrote patriotic verses which became anthems of the Sinn Féin movement.

64 'Did they dare, did they dare, to slay Owen Roe O'Neil?'
'Yes, they slew with poison him they feared to meet with steel.'

'May God wither up their hearts! May their blood cease to flow!

May they walk in living death, who poisoned Owen Roe!'

1842 'Lament for the Death of Owen Roe O'Neil'.

65 Sagest in the council was he, kindest in the hall:
Sure we never won a battle—'twas Owen won them all.
Had he lived, had he lived, our dear country had been free;

But he's dead, but he's dead, and 'tis slaves we'll ever be.

1842 'Lament for the Death of Owen Roe O'Neil'.

66 They fought as they revelled, fast, fiery, and true,
And, though victors, they left on the field not a few;
And they who survived fought and drank as of yore,
But the land of their heart's hope they never saw more,
For in far, foreign fields, from Dunkirk to Belgrade
Lie the soldiers and chiefs of the Irish Brigade.

1845 The Spirit of the Nation, 'The Battle-Eve of the Brigade'.

67 Our colonel comes from Brian's race,
His wounds are in his breast and face.

1845 The Spirit of the Nation, 'Clare's Dragons'.

68 Viva la the New Brigade!
Viva la the Old One, too!
Viva la, the Rose shall fade,
And the Shamrock shine for ever new!

1845 The Spirit of the Nation, 'Clare's Dragons'.

69 Come in the evening, or come in the morning,
Come when you're looked for, or come without warning.

1846 'The Welcome'.

Davison, Emily Wilding 1872–1913

English militant suffragette, who campaigned fiercely for women's emancipation. She was frequently imprisoned, and died after running in front of the King's horse at the 1913 Derby.

70 As I am a woman and women do not count in the State, I refuse to be counted. Rebellion against tyrants is obedience to God.

1911 Comment on uncompleted Census paper, quoted in Gertrude Colmore The Life of Emily Wilding Davison (1913).

Dawkins, Richard 1941–

British ethologist, Professor at Oxford. He has done much to popularize the theories of Charles Darwin, most notably in his work The Selfish Gene (1976).

71 There is a better reason for studying zoology than its possible 'usefulness', and the general likeableness of animals. This reason is that we animals are the most complicated and perfectly designed pieces of machinery in the known universe. Put it like that, and it is hard to see why anybody studies anything else!

1976 The Selfish Gene, preface.

72 We are survival machines—robot vehicles blindly programmed to preserve the selfish molecules known as genes. This is a truth which still fills me with astonishment.

1976 The Selfish Gene, ch.2.

73 It has no vision, no foresight, no sight at all. If it can be said to play the role of watchmaker in nature, it is the blind watchmaker.

1986 Of natural selection. The Blind Watchmaker, ch.1.

Day, Clarence Shepard 1874–1935

US humorist, best known for his writings in the New Yorker and for his autobiographical sketches in Life With Father (1935).

75 The poets of each generation seldom sing a new song. They turn themes men always have loved, and sing them in the mode of their times.

1921 The Crow's Nest, 'Humpty-Dumpty and Adam'.

76 The real world is not easy to live in. It is rough; it is slippery. Without the most clear-eyed adjustments we fall and get crushed. A man must stay sober: not always, but most of the time.

1921 The Crow's Nest, 'In His Baby Blue Ship'.

77 I meant to be prompt, but it never occurred to me that I had better try to be early.

1935 Life With Father, 'Father teaches me to be prompt'.

78 Imagine the Lord talking French! Aside from a few odd words in Hebrew, I took it for granted that God had never spoken anything but the most dignified English.

1935 Life With Father, 'Father interferes'.

79 'If you don't go to other men's funerals,' he told Father stiffly, 'they won't go to yours.'

1935 Life With Father, 'Father interferes'.

80 Father declared he was going to buy a new plot in the cemetery, a plot all for himself. 'And I'll buy one on a corner,' he added triumphantly, 'where I can get out.'

1935 Life With Father, penultimate paragraph.

Have known the lightning's hour,
The poet's inward pride,
The certainty of power.
1933 The Magnetic Mountain, pt.3, no.24.
- 84 You that love England, who have an ear for her music,
The slow movement of clouds in benediction,
Clear arias of light thrilling over her uplands,
Over the chords of summer sustained peacefully.
1933 The Magnetic Mountain, pt.4, no.32.
- 85 Do not expect again a phoenix hour,
The triple-towered sky, the dove complaining,
Sudden the rain of gold and heart's first ease
Traced under trees by the eldritch light of sundown.
1935 'From Feathers to Iron'.
- 86 Now we lament one
Who danced on a plume of words,
Sang with a fountain's panache,
Dazzled like slate roofs in sun
After rain, was flighty as birds
And alone as a mountain ash.
The ribald, inspired urchin
Leaning over the lip
Of his world, as over a rock pool
Or a lucky dip,
Found everything brilliant and virgin.
1953 'In Memory of Dylan Thomas'.

English jurist. A Whig MP (1818–26), he was Attorney-General in Earl Grey's administration (1830–2) and Lord Chief Justice (1832–50).

- 98 Trial by jury itself, instead of being a security to persons who are accused, will be a delusion, a mockery, and a snare.
1844 Judgement in O'Connell v The Queen, 4 Sep.

Denning, Alfred Thompson, Lord 1899–1999

English judge. As Master of the Rolls (1962–82) he earned a reputation for his outspoken opinions.

- 99 A wrong decision can make me very miserable. But I have trust in God. If you have this trust you don't have to worry, as you don't have the sole responsibility.
1982 Speech on his retirement.

Dennis, C(larence Michael) J(ames) 1876–1938

Australian poet and journalist. His poems have been popular for their vernacular humour.

- 1 Me pal 'e trots 'er up an' does the toff—
'E allus was a bloke fer showin' off.
'This 'ere's Doreen,' 'e sez. 'This 'ere's the Kid.'
I dips me lid.
1915 Songs of a Sentimental Bloke, 'The Intro'. Bill persuades his friend to introduce him to a girl.

Dennis, John 1657–1734

English playwright and critic. He was among the most famous critics of his day, but his own plays met with little success and he was one of the targets of Alexander Pope's satire in The Dunciad.

- 2 Damn them, see how the rascals use me! They will not let my play run, and yet they steal my thunder!
1709 Attributed, when watching a production of Macbeth that featured a thunder machine he had designed for use in his own play Appius and Virginia, which had been denied a long run. Said to be the origin of the phrase 'to steal one's thunder'.
3 A man who could make so vile a pun would not scruple to pick a pocket.
Of Dennis. In the Gentleman's Magazine 1781, editorial note.

Depp, Johnny (John Christopher) 1963–

US actor.

- 4 If you were waiting for the opportune moment, that was it.
2003 As Captain Jack Sparrow in Pirates of the Caribbean (screenplay by Ted Elliott and Terry Rossio).
5 I'm not swimming in the soup bowl. I'm not getting overcooked in that big stew pot.
2004 On why he lives in France rather than in Los Angeles. Quoted in Scotland on Sunday, 2 May.

De Quincey, Thomas 1785–1859

English writer. He ran away from school in 1802, lived with a prostitute in London, became an opium addict at Oxford, lived for a time in the Lake District and moved to Edinburgh in 1828.

- 6 A duller spectacle this earth of ours has not to show than a rainy Sunday in London.
1821 Confessions of an English Opium Eater (originally serialized in the London Magazine, published 1822).
7 Thou hast the keys of Paradise, oh just, subtle, and mighty opium!
1821 Confessions of an English Opium Eater (originally serialized in the London Magazine, published 1822).
8 Books, we are told, propose to instruct or to amuse. Indeed!... The true antithesis to knowledge, in this case, is not pleasure, but power. All that is literature seeks to communicate power; all that is not literature, to communicate knowledge.
1823 Letters to a Young Man whose Education has been Neglected, no.3, in the London Magazine, Jan–Jul.
9 Murder Considered as One of the Fine Arts.
1827 Title of essay, in Blackwood's Magazine, Feb.
10 If once a man indulges himself in murder, very soon he comes to think little of robbing; and from robbing he comes next to drinking and sabbath-breaking, and from that to incivility and procrastination.
1839 'On Murder Considered as One of the Fine Arts' (supplementary paper), in Blackwood's Magazine, Nov.

Derby, Edward Geoffrey Smith Stanley, 14th Earl of 1799–1869

English statesman and Conservative Prime Minister (1852, 1858–9, 1866–8), formerly a Whig. He entered the Lords in 1844 and headed the Protectionists from 1846, the year he became Party leader.

- 11 The foreign policy of the noble Earl, Lord Russell, may be summed up in two truly expressive words: meddle and muddle.
1864 Speech in the House of Lords, Feb, referring to the Prime Minister's policy on the American Civil War.

Desai, Anita née Mazumbar 1937–

- 12 Do you know anyone who would—secretly, sincerely, in his innermost self—really prefer to return to childhood?
1980 The Clear Light of Day, ch.1.

Desbiens, Jean-Paul 1927–

Canadian writer and educator.

- 13 Education is impossible without love, without loving a few of the great men of the past.
1965 For Pity's Sake (translated by Frédéric Côte).

Desbordes-Valmore, Marceline 1786–1859

French poet. She worked in the theatre and published children's stories before turning to poetry. Her poems are written in an open, informal style, often as dialogues.

- 14 *Par toi tout le bonheur que m'offre l'avenir
Est dans mon souvenir.*

Through you, all the happiness that the future offers
Is in my memory.

1819 Élegies, Marie et romances, 'Le Souvenir'.

15 Ce qu'on donne à l'amour est à jamais perdu.

What one gives in love is forever lost.

1830 Poésies, 'L'isolement'.

16 J'ai vécu d'aimer, j'ai donc vécu de larmes.

I lived to love. I lived, therefore, in tears.

1860 Poésies posthumes, 'Rêve intermittent d'une nuit triste'.

Descartes, René 1596–1650

French philosopher and mathematician. He travelled widely before settling in Holland and writing his major works (both popular, in French, and scholarly, in Latin): the Discours de la méthode (1637), Meditationes de prima philosophia (1641), and Principia philosophiae (1644).

17 La lecture de tous les bons livres est comme une conversation avec les plus honnêtes gens des siècles passés, qui en ont été les auteurs, et même une conversation étudiée en laquelle ils ne nous découvrent que les meilleures de leurs pensées.

The reading of good books is like a conversation with the best men of past centuries—in fact like a prepared conversation, in which they reveal their best thoughts.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 1st discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

18 Le bon sens est la chose du monde la mieux partagée: car chacun pense en être si bien pourvu, que ceux même qui sont les plus difficiles à contenter en toute autre chose n'ont point coutume d'en désirer plus qu'ils ont. En quoi il n'est pas vraisemblable que tous se trompent; mais plutôt cela témoigne que la puissance de bien juger et distinguer le vrai d'avec le faux, qui est proprement ce qu'on nomme le bon sens ou la raison, est naturellement égale en tous les hommes.

Good sense is the most fairly distributed thing in the world; for everyone thinks himself so well supplied with it, that even those who are hardest to satisfy in every other way do not usually desire more of it than they already have. In this matter it is not likely that everybody is mistaken; it rather goes to show that the power of judging well and distinguishing truth from falsehood, which is what we properly mean by good sense or reason, is naturally equal in all men.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 1st discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

19 Pour ce qu'alors je désirais vaquer seulement à la recherche de la vérité, je pensai qu'il fallait que je...rejetasse comme absolument faux tout ce en quoi je pourrais imaginer le moindre doute, afin de voir s'il ne resterait point, après cela, quelque chose en ma création qui fût entièrement indubitable.

Since my present aim was to give myself up to the pursuit of truth alone, I thought I must...reject as if absolutely false anything as to which I could imagine the least doubt, in order to see if I should not be left at the end believing something that was absolutely indubitable.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 4th discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

20 Je pris garde que, pendant que je voulais ainsi penser que tout était faux, il fallait nécessairement que moi, qui le pensais, fusse quelque chose.

I noticed that while I was trying to think everything false, it must needs be that I, who was thinking this, was something.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 4th discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

21 Je pense, donc je suis.

I think, therefore I am.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 4th discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach). Often quoted as 'Cogito, ergo sum', but Descartes wrote the French version before the Latin.

22 Je pouvais prendre pour règle générale, que les choses que nous concevons fort clairement et fort distinctement sont toutes vraies.

I could take it as a general rule that whatever we conceive very clearly and very distinctly is true.

1637 Discours de la méthode (Discourse on Method), 4th discourse (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

23 Animadverti jam ante aliquot annos quam multa, ineunte aetate, falsa pro veris admiserim, et quam dubia sint quaecunque istis postea superextruxi, ac proinde funditus omnia semel in vita esse evertenda, atque a primis fundamentis denno inchoandum, si quid aliquando firmum et mansurum cupiam in scientiis stabilire.

Some years ago now I observed the multitude of errors that I had accepted as true in my earliest years, and the dubiousness of the whole superstructure I had since then reared on them; and the consequent need of making a clean sweep for once in my life, and beginning again from the very foundations, if I would establish some secure and lasting result in science.

1641 Meditationes, 1st meditation (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

24 Supponam igitur non optimum Deum, fontem veritatis, sed genium aliquum malignum, eundemque summe potentem et callidum, omnem suam industriam in eo posuisse, ut me falleret.

I will suppose then, not that there is a supremely good God, the source of truth; but that there is an evil spirit, who is supremely powerful and intelligent, and does his utmost to deceive me.

1641 Meditationes, 1st meditation (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

25 Agnoscam fieri non posse ut existam talis naturae qualis sum, nempe ideam Dei in me habens, nisi revera Deus etiam existeret, Deus, inquam, ille idem cujus idea in me est.

I could not possibly exist with the nature I actually have, that is, one endowed with the idea of God, unless there really is a God; the very God, I mean, of whom I have an idea.

1641 Meditationes, 3rd meditation (translated by G E M Anscombe and Peter Geach).

Deschamps, Eustache c.1345–1406

The absent are always in the wrong.

1717 L'Obstacle imprévu, act 1, sc.6.

Dettori, Frankie (Lanfranco) 1970–

Italian jockey. He was Champion Jockey (1994, 1995) and in 1996 achieved the unparalleled feat of winning all seven races on the card at Ascot.

29 When I'm good, I can be really good—I can do things even I didn't think I could do. I would say my worst is still not so bad, either.

2003 Quoted in The Times, 27 Sep.

De Valera, Éamon 1882–1975

Irish statesman, born in the US. He narrowly escaped execution for his part in the 1916 Easter Rebellion, and became leader of Sinn Féin (1917–26). He was Prime Minister (1932–48, 1951–4, 1957–9) and President (1959–73).

30 Why doesn't he use a spoon?

1921 On being told that David Lloyd George had said talking to him was like trying to pick up mercury with a fork.

31 Whenever I wanted to know what the Irish people wanted, I had only to examine my own heart and it told me straight off what the Irish people wanted.

1922 Speech to the Irish Parliament, 6 Jan.

Devlin, Denis 1908–59

Irish poet and diplomat, born in Scotland. His poetry, which assimilates Christian iconography into cosmopolitan settings, was not appreciated until after his death.

32 And sad, Oh sad, that glen with one thin stream

He met his death in; and a farmer told me

There was but one small bird to shoot: it sang

'Better Beast and know your end, and die

Than Man with murderous angels in his head.'

c.1956 'The Tomb of Michael Collins'.

De Voto, Bernard 1897–1955

US historian and writer, known for 'The Easy Chair' in Harper's Magazine from 1935. His works include the historical trilogy beginning with The Year of Decision: 1846 (1943) and he edited Twain's work.

33 The proper union of gin and vermouth is a great and sudden glory; it is one of the happiest marriages on earth, and one of the shortest lived.

1949 In Harper's Magazine, Dec.

34 Novelists, whatever else they may be besides, are also children talking to children—in the dark.

1950 The World of Fiction.

35 When evening quickens in the street, comes a pause in the day's occupation that is known as the cocktail hour.

1951 The Hour.

36 You can no more keep a martini in the refrigerator than you can keep a kiss there.

1951 The Hour.

De Vries, Peter 1910–93

US novelist and humorist, best known for The Tunnel of Love (1954).

37 It is the final proof of God's omnipotence that he need not exist in order to save us.

1958 The Mackerel Plaza, ch.1.

38 Look at it this way: Psychoanalysis is a permanent fad.

1973 Forever Panting.

Dewar, Donald Campbell 1937–2000

Scottish Labour politician. He was Secretary of State for Scotland (1997–9) and the first First Minister of the new Scottish Parliament (1999–2000).

39 He could start a party in an empty room—and often did—filling it with good cheer, Gaelic songs, and argument.

1994 Of John Smith, leader of the Labour Party, at his funeral, 19 May.

40 'There shall be a Scottish Parliament.' Through long years, those words were first a hope, then a belief, then a promise. Now they are a reality.

1999 Speech at the official opening of the Scottish Parliament, 1 Jul.

41 We look forward to the time when this moment will be seen as a turning point: the day when democracy was renewed in Scotland, when we revitalized our place in this our United Kingdom.

1999 Speech at the official opening of the Scottish Parliament, 1 Jul.

42 This is about more than our politics and our laws. This is about who we are, how we carry ourselves.

1999 Speech at the official opening of the Scottish Parliament, 1 Jul.

Dewey, John 1859–1952

US philosopher and educator. A leading pragmatist, he developed an influential philosophy of education which stressed learning through experience. His writings include The Quest for Certainty (1929) and The Child and the Curriculum (1902).

43 When physics, chemistry, biology, medicine, contribute to the detection of concrete human woes and to the development of plans for remedying them and relieving the human estate, they become moral; they become part of the apparatus of moral inquiry or science...

When the consciousness of science is fully impregnated with the consciousness of human value, the greatest dualism which now weighs humanity down, the split between the material, the mechanical and the scientific and the moral and ideal will be destroyed.

1920 Reconstruction in Philosophy.

44 The function of criticism is the reeducation of perception of works of art... The conception that its business is to appraise, to judge in the legal and moral sense, arrests the perception of those who are influenced by the criticism that assumes this task.

1934 Art as Experience.

De Wolfe, Elsie 1865–1950

English actress, interior decorator and hostess, the wife of the British diplomat Sir Charles Mendl.

45 Beige! Just my color.

On seeing the Acropolis for the first time. Quoted in Nina Campbell and Caroline Seebohm Elsie de Wolfe: A Decorative Life (1992), ch.1.

Diaghilev, Sergei 1872–1929

Russian impresario. His Ballets Russes company, formed in 1911, created a sensation throughout Europe and launched the careers of such dancers as Balanchine, Fokine, Nijinsky and Pavlova.

46 Étonne-moi!

Astonish me!

1912 Attributed, when Jean Cocteau complained that he was getting insufficient direction when designing the scenario for a new ballet. Quoted in Wallace Fowlie (ed) Journals of Jean Cocteau (1956), ch.1.

Diana, Princess of Wales 1961–97

British princess. She married Charles, Prince of Wales, in 1981 and they were divorced in 1996.

47 I'm as thick as a plank.

Remark quoted in Sunday Today, 25 Jan 1987.

48 There were three of us in this marriage, so it was a bit crowded.

1995 Of her marriage to Charles, Prince of Wales, and his relationship with Camilla Parker-Bowles. Television interview on BBC1's Panorama, 20 Nov.

49 I'd like to be a queen in people's hearts but I don't see myself being Queen of this country.

1995 Television interview on BBC1's Panorama, 20 Nov.

Díaz, Jorge 1930–

Chilean dramatist, born in Argentina. He has lived in Spain since 1965. His plays are influenced by the theatre of the absurd and other avant-garde experimental movements.

50 ¡Pero la verdad es que estoy cansada, horriblemente cansada de ser la esposa femenina de ese animal masculino que se rasca, pierde el pelo sistemáticamente y canta tangos pasados de moda!... Quisiera... quisiera engordar, fumar un puro y enviudar de una manera indolora y elegante.

The truth is, I'm tired, frightfully tired of being the feminine spouse to the masculine animal who scratches himself, systematically loses his hair and sings outdated tangos!... I'd like... I'd like to get fat, to smoke cigars and to become a widow in a painless and elegant fashion.

1961 El cepillo de dientes (The Toothbrush), act 1.

Díaz, Porfirio 1830–1915

President of Mexico. He supported Juárez in the War of Reform and gained the presidency through rebellion in 1877.

51 Poor Mexico, so far from God and so close to the United States.

1846 Attributed, at the beginning of the American–Mexican War (1846–8).

Dibdin, Charles 1745–1814

English songwriter, who wrote his first operetta (The Shepherd's Artifice, performed at Covent Garden 1762) as a boy. He wrote nearly 100 sea songs and 70 dramatic pieces.

52 For a soldier I listed, to grow great in fame, And be shot at for sixpence a day.

1791 'Charity'.

53 Did you ever hear of Captain Wattle?

He was all for love, and a little for the bottle.

1797 'Captain Wattle and Miss Roe'.

54 Then trust me, there's nothing like drinking

So pleasant this side of the grave;

It keeps the unhappy from thinking,

And makes e'en the valiant more brave.

'Nothing Like Grog'. First published 1803.

55 What argufies pride and ambition?

Soon or late death will take us in tow:

Each bullet has got its commission,

And when our time's come we must go.

'Each Bullet Has Got Its Commission'. First published 1803.

Dick, Philip K(indred) 1928–82

US science-fiction writer. His output was prolific, marked by a strong literary sensibility as well as a powerful, often chilling imagination and humour.

56 Dr Bloodmoney, Or How We Got Along After The Bomb.

1965 Title of novel.

57 I mean, after all; you have to consider that we're only made out of dust. That's admittedly not much to go on and we shouldn't forget that. But even considering, I mean, it's sort of a bad beginning, we're not doing too bad. So I personally have faith that even in this lousy situation we're faced with we can make it. You get me?

1966 The Three Stigmata of Palmer Eldritch, closing words.

58 Do Androids Dream Of Electric Sheep?

1968 Title of novel, later the basis for the film Blade Runner.

59 Reality is that which, when you stop believing in it, doesn't go away.

1972 Quoted in introduction to I Hope I Shall Arrive Soon (1986).

60 Drug misuse is not a disease, it is a decision, like the decision to step out in front of a moving car. You would call that not a disease but an error of judgement.

1977 A Scanner Darkly, author's note.

61 The basic tool for the manipulation of reality is the manipulation of words. If you can control the meaning of words, you can control the people who must use the words.

1986 I Hope I Shall Arrive Soon. 'How To Build A Universe That Doesn't Fall Apart Two Days Later'.

Dickens, Charles John Huffam 1812–70

English novelist. After a childhood of poverty and hardship, during which his father was sent to a debtors' prison, he became one of England's most popular and prolific novelists, exposing the inhumanities of the 19c with an idiosyncratic blend of wit, satire, sentiment and seriousness and a gallery of memorable characters.

62 Grief never mended no broken bones, and as good people's wery scarce, what I says is, make the most on 'em.

1836–7 Sketches by Boz, 'Gin Shops'.

- 63 We shall never forget the mingled feelings of awe and respect with which we used to gaze on the exterior of Newgate in our schoolboy days...[the doors] looking as if they were made for the express purpose of letting people in, and never letting them out again.
1836-7 Sketches by Boz, 'Criminal Courts'.
- 64 A smattering of everything, and a knowledge of nothing.
1836-7 Sketches by Boz, 'Sentiment'.
- 65 He had used the word in its Pickwickian sense.
1836-7 Of Mr Blotton, a member of the Pickwick Club. Pickwick Papers, ch.1.
- 66 'Heads, heads—take care of your heads!' cried the loquacious stranger, as they came out under the low archway, which in those days formed the entrance to the coachyard. 'Terrible place—dangerous work—five children—mother—tall lady, eating sandwiches—forgot the arch—crash—knock—children look round—mother's head off—sandwich in her hand—no mouth to put it in—head of a family off—shocking, shocking!
1836-7 Jingle. Pickwick Papers, ch.2.
- 67 'I was ruminating,' said Mr Pickwick, 'on the strange mutability of human affairs.' 'Ah! I see—in at the palace door one day, out at the window the next. Philosopher, Sir?' 'An observer of human nature, sir,' said Mr Pickwick.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.2.
- 68 'Ah! You should keep dogs—fine animals—sagacious creatures—dog of my own once—Pointer—surprising instinct—out shooting one day—entering enclosure—whistled—dog stopped—whistled again—Ponto—no go; stock still—called him—Ponto, Ponto—wouldn't move—dog transfixed—staring at a board—looked up, saw an inscription—"Gamekeeper has orders to shoot all dogs found in this enclosure"—wouldn't pass it—wonderful dog—valuable dog that—very.'
1836-7 Jingle. Pickwick Papers, ch.2.
- 69 Kent, sir—everyone knows Kent—apples, cherries, hops and women.
1836-7 Jingle. Pickwick Papers, ch.2.
- 70 There are very few moments in a man's existence when he experiences so much ludicrous distress, or meets with so little charitable commiseration, as when he is in pursuit of his own hat.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.4.
- 71 There was a fine gentle wind, and Mr Pickwick's hat rolled sportively before it. The wind puffed, and Mr Pickwick puffed, and the hat rolled over and over as merrily as a lively porpoise in a strong tide.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.4.
- 72 I wants to make your flesh creep.
1836-7 The Fat Boy. Pickwick Papers, ch.8.
- 73 'It's always best on these occasions to do what the mob do.' 'But suppose there are two mobs?' suggested Mr Snodgrass. 'Shout with the largest,' replied Mr Pickwick.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.13.
- 74 And a wery good name it is—only one I know, that ain't got a nickname to it.
1836-7 Sam Weller comments on Job Trotter's Christian name. Pickwick Papers, ch.16.
- 75 Tongue; well, that's a wery good thing when it an't a woman's.
1836-7 Sam Weller's father. Pickwick Papers, ch.19.
- 76 Poverty and oysters always seem to go together.
1836-7 Sam Weller. Pickwick Papers, ch.22.
- 77 Dumb as a drum vith a hole in it, sir.
1836-7 Sam Weller. Pickwick Papers, ch.25.
- 78 Our noble society for providing the infant negroes in the West Indies with flannel waistcoats and moral pocket handkerchiefs.
1836-7 Rev Mr Stiggins. Pickwick Papers, ch.27.
- 79 Poetry's unnat'ral; no man ever talked poetry 'cept a beadle on boxin' day, or Warren's blackin', or Rowland's oil, or some o' them low fellows; never you let yourself down to talk poetry, my boy.
1836-7 Sam Weller's father. Pickwick Papers, ch.33.
- 80 It's my opinion, sir, that this meeting is drunk, sir!
1836-7 Rev Mr Stiggins. Pickwick Papers, ch.33.
- 81 'Yes, I have a pair of eyes,' replied Sam, 'and that's just it. If they was a pair o' patent double million magnifyin' gas microscopes of hextra power, p'raps I might be able to see through a flight o' stairs and a deal door; but bein' only eyes, you see, my wision's limited.'
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.34.
- 82 Miss Bolo rose from the table considerably agitated, and went straight home, in a flood of tears, and a sedan chair.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.35.
- 83 We know, Mr. Weller—we, who are men of the world—that a good uniform must work its way with the women, sooner or later.
1836-7 The Gentleman in Blue. Pickwick Papers, ch.37.
- 84 You're a amiably-disposed young man, sir, I don't think.
1836-7 Sam Weller's father. Pickwick Papers, ch.38.
- 85 It's a regular holiday to them—all porter and skittles.
1836-7 Pickwick Papers, ch.41.
- 86 Anythin' for a quiet life, as the man said wen he took the sitation at the lighthouse.
1836-7 Sam Weller. Pickwick Papers, ch.43.
- 87 The fact is, that there was considerable difficulty in inducing Oliver to take upon himself the office of respiration—a troublesome practice, but one which custom has rendered necessary to our easy existence; and for some time he lay gasping on a little flock mattress, rather unequally poised between this world and the next: the balance being decidedly in favour of the latter. Now, if during this brief period, Oliver had been surrounded by careful grandmothers, anxious aunts, experienced nurses, and doctors of profound wisdom, he would most inevitably and indubitably have been killed in no time.
1837-9 Oliver Twist, ch.1.
- 88 Please, sir, I want some more.
1837-9 Oliver. Oliver Twist, ch.2.
- 89 It was a nice sickly season just at this time. In commercial phrase, coffins were looking up.
1837-9 Oliver Twist, ch.6.
- 90 What a fine thing capital punishment is! Dead men never repent; dead men never bring awkward stories to light. Ah, it's a fine thing for the trade! Five of 'em strung up in a - row; and none left to play booty, or turn white-livered!

1837-9 Fagin. Oliver Twist, ch.9.
- 91 'Hard,' replied the Dodger. 'As nails,' added Charley Bates.
1837-9 Oliver Twist, ch.9.
- 92 There is a passion for hunting something deeply implanted in the human breast.
1837-9 Oliver Twist, ch.10.
- 93 'I'll eat my head.'
1837-9 Mr Grimwig. Oliver Twist, ch.14.
- 94 I only know two sorts of boys. Mealy boys, and beef-faced boys.

1838-9 Fanny Squeers. Nicholas Nickleby, ch.15.
- 6 'What's the water in French, sir?' 'L'eau,' replied Nicholas. 'Ah!' said Mr Lillyvick, shaking his head mournfully, 'I thought as much. Lo, eh? I don't think anything of that language—nothing at all.'
1838-9 Nicholas Nickleby, ch.16.
- 7 'It's very easy to talk,' said Mrs Mantalini. 'Not so easy when one is eating a demnition egg,' replied Mr Mantalini; 'for the yolck runs down the waistcoat, and yolck of egg does not match any waistcoat but a yellow waistcoat, demmit.'
1838-9 Nicholas Nickleby, ch.17.
- 8 Language was not powerful enough to describe the infant phenomenon.
1838-9 Nicholas Nickleby, ch.23.
- 9 'I'm always ill after Shakespeare,' said Mrs Witterly. 'I scarcely exist the next day; I find the re-action so very great after a tragedy... and Shakespeare is such a delicious creature.'
1838-9 Nicholas Nickleby, ch.27.

- 13 My life is one demd horrid grind!
1838-9 Mr Mantalini. Nicholas Nickleby, ch.64.
- 14 What is the odds so long as the fire of soul is kindled at the taper of conviviality, and the wing of friendship never moults a feather!
1840-1 Dick Swiveller. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.2.
- 15 Fan the sinking flame of hilarity with the wing of friendship; and pass the rosy wine.
1840-1 Dick Swiveller. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.7.
- 16 She's all my fancy painted her, Sir, that's what she is.
1840-1 Dick Swiveller. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.7.
- 17 Codlin's the friend, not Short.
1840-1 Codlin. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.19.
- 18 And don't you think you must be a very wicked little child... to be a wax-work child at all?
1840-1 Miss Monflathers to Nell. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.31.
- 19 'Did you ever taste beer?'
'I had a sip of it once,' said the small servant.
'Here's a state of things!' cried Mr. Swiveller, raising his eyes to the ceiling. 'She never tasted it—it can't be tasted in a sip!'
1840-1 The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.57.
- 20 They moved so gently, that their footsteps made no noise; but there were sobs from among the group, and sounds of grief and mourning.
1840-1 The death of little Nell. The Old Curiosity Shop, ch.71.
- 21 Something will come of this. I hope it mayn't be human gore!

1841 Mr Tappertit. Barnaby Rudge, ch.22.
- 24 Oh gracious, why wasn't I born old and ugly?
1841 Miss Miggs. Barnaby Rudge, ch.70.
- 25 Was there ever such a sunny street as this Broadway! The pavement stones are polished with the tread of feet until - they shine again... Heaven save the ladies, how they dress! We have seen more colours in these ten minutes, than we should have seen elsewhere, in as many days. What various parasols! what rainbow silks and satins! what pinking of thin stockings and pinching of thin shoes, and fluttering of ribbons and silk tassels, and display of rich cloaks with gaudy hoods and linings!

1842 American Notes.
- 26 Politics are much discussed, so are banks, so is cotton. Quiet people avoid the question of the Presidency... the great constitutional feature of this institution being, that directly the acrimony of the last election is over, the next one begins.
1842 American Notes.
- 27 'Bah!' said Scrooge, 'Humbug!'
1843 A Christmas Carol, stave 1.
- 28 'You are fettered,' said Scrooge, trembling. 'Tell me why?' 'I wear the chain I forged in life,' replied the Ghost. 'I made it link by link, and yard by yard; I girded it on of my own free will, and of my own free will I wore it.'
1843 A Christmas Carol, stave 1.
- 29 'God bless us every one!' said Tiny Tim, the last of all.
1843 A Christmas Carol, stave 3.
- 30 But however and whenever we part from one another, I am sure we shall none of us forget poor Tiny Tim.
1843 A Christmas Carol, stave 4.
- 31 It was a turkey! He could never have stood upon his legs, that bird. He would have snapped 'em off short in a minute, like sticks of sealing-wax.
1843 A Christmas Carol, stave 5.
- 32 The Lord No Zoo.
1843-4 Toby Chuzzlewit. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.1.
- 33 'The name of those fabulous animals (pagan, I regret to say) who used to sing in the water, has quite escaped me.' Mr George Chuzzlewit suggested 'Swans.' 'No,' said Mr Pecksniff. 'Not swans. Very like swans, too. Thank you.' The nephew... propounded 'Oysters.' 'No,' said Mr Pecksniff. '... nor oysters. But by no means unlike oysters... Wait! Sirens. Dear me! sirens, of course.'
1843-4 Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.4.
- 34 Any man may be in good spirits and good temper when he's well dressed. There an't much credit in that. If I was very ragged and very jolly, then I should begin to feel I had gained a point, Mr. Pinch.
1843-4 Mark Tapley. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.5.
- 35 His moral character... was full of promise, but of no performance.
1843-4 Of Mr Pecksniff. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.5.
- 36 Affection beaming in one eye, and calculation shining out of the other.
1843-4 Of Mrs Todgers. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.8.
- 37 Let us be moral. Let us contemplate existence.
1843-4 Mr Pecksniff. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.9.
- 38 Here's the rule for bargains: 'Do other men, for they would do you.' That's the true business precept.
1843-4 Jonas Chuzzlewit. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.11.
- 39 Buy an annuity cheap, and make your life interesting to yourself and everybody else that watches the speculation.
1843-4 Jonas Chuzzlewit. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.18.
- 40 'Mrs Harris,' I says, 'leave the bottle on the chimley-piece, and don't ask me to take none, but let me put my lips to it when I am so disposed.'
1843-4 Mrs Gamp. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.19.
- 41 Features are an index to the heart.
1843-4 Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.24.
- 42 At the same moment a peculiar fragrance was borne upon the breeze, as if a passing fairy had hiccuped, and had previously been to a wine vaults.
1843-4 On Mrs Gamp's entering a room. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.25.
- 43 Gamp would certainly have drunk its little shoes right off its feet, as with our precious boy he did, and arterwards send the child a errand to sell his wooden leg for any money it 'ud fetch as matches in the rough, and bring it home in liquor.
1843-4 Mrs Gamp. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.25.
- 44 She's the sort of woman... one would almost feel disposed to bury for nothing: and do it neatly, too!
1843-4 Mould speaking about Mrs Gamp. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.25.
- 45 He'd make a lovely corpse.
1843-4 Mrs Gamp speaking of Jonas Chuzzlewit. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.25.
- 46 We never knows wot's hidden in each other's hearts; and if we had glass winders there, we'd need keep the shutters up, some on us, I do assure you!
1843-4 Mrs Gamp. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.29.
- 47 A lane was made; and Mrs Hominy... came slowly up it, in a procession of one.
1843-4 Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.34.
- 48 'Mind and matter,' said the lady in the wig, 'glide swift into the vortex of immensity. Howls the sublime, and softly sleeps the calm Ideal, in the whispering chambers of Imagination.'
1843-4 A Transcendental literary lady. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.34.
- 49 Farewell! Be the proud bride of a ducal coronet, and forget me!... Unalterably, never yours, Augustus.
1843-4 Augustus Moddle. Martin Chuzzlewit, ch.54.
- 50 Oh let us love our occupations,
Bless the squire and his relations,
Live upon our daily rations,
And always know our proper stations.
1844 Lady Bowley. The Chimes, second quarter.
- 51 The earth was made for Dombey and Son to trade in, and the sun and moon were made to give them light. Rivers and seas were formed to float their ships; rainbows gave them promise of fair weather; winds blew for or against their enterprises; stars and planets circled in their orbits, to preserve inviolate a system of which they were the centre.
1846-8 Dombey and Son, ch.1.
- 52 Dombey and Son had often dealt in hides, but never in hearts. They left that fancy ware to boys and girls, and boarding-schools and books.
1846-8 Dombey and Son, ch.1.
- 53 'The sea, Floy, what is it that it keeps on saying?' She told him that it was only the noise of the rolling waves.
'Yes, yes,' he said. 'But I know that they are always saying something. Always the same thing. What place is over there?' ...

- She told him there was another country opposite, but he said he didn't mean that; he meant farther away—farther away!
Very often afterwards, in the midst of their talk, he would break off, to try to understand what it was that the waves were always saying; and would rise up in his couch to look towards that invisible region, far away.
1846-8 Of little Paul Dombey. Dombey and Son, ch.8.
- 54 She was dry and sandy with working in the graves of deceased languages. None of your live languages for Miss Blimber. They must be dead—stone dead—and then Miss Blimber dug them up like a Ghoul.
1846-8 Dombey and Son, ch.11.
- 55 As to Mr Feeder, B.A., Doctor Blimber's assistant, he was a kind of human barrel-organ, with a little list of tunes at which he was continually working, over and over again, without any variation.
1846-8 Dombey and Son, ch.11.
- 56 When found, make a note of.
1846-8 Captain Cuttle. Dombey and Son, ch.15.
- 57 Train up a fig-tree in the way it should go, and when you are old sit under the shade of it.
1846-8 Captain Cuttle. Dombey and Son, ch.19.
- 58 The bearings of this observation lays in the application on it.
1846-8 Captain Bunsby. Dombey and Son, ch.23.
- 59 Say, like those wicked Turks, there is no What's-his-name but Thingummy, and What-you-may-call-it is his prophet!
1846-8 Mrs Skewton. Dombey and Son, ch.27.
- 60 If you could see my legs when I take my boots off, you'd form some idea of what unrequited affection is.
1846-8 Mr Toots. Dombey and Son, ch.48.
- 61 I am a lone lorn creetur... and everythink goes contrairy with me.
1849-50 Mrs Gumidge. David Copperfield, ch.3.
- 62 'I feel it more than other people,' said Mrs Gumidge.
1849-50 David Copperfield, ch.3.
- 63 I'd better go into the house, and die and be a riddance!
1849-50 Mrs Gumidge. David Copperfield, ch.3.
- 64 Barkis is willin'.
1849-50 Barkis's proposal of marriage to Peggotty. David Copperfield, ch.5.
- 65 Experientia does it—as papa used to say.
1849-50 Mrs Micawber. David Copperfield, ch.11.
- 66 I never will desert Mr Micawber.
1849-50 Mrs Micawber. David Copperfield, ch.12.
- 67 Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen nineteen six, result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds ought and six, result misery.
1849-50 Mr Micawber. David Copperfield, ch.12.
- 68 I am well aware that I am the umblest person going... My mother is likewise a very umble person. We live in a numble abode.
1849-50 Uriah Heep. David Copperfield, ch.16.
- 69 We are so very umble.
1849-50 Uriah Heep. David Copperfield, ch.17.
- 70 The mistake was made of putting some of the trouble out of King Charles's head into my head.
1849-50 Mr Dick. David Copperfield, ch.17.
- 71 'Orses and dorgs is some men's fancy. They're wittles and drink to me—lodging, wife, and children—reading, writing and 'rithmetic—snuff, tobacker, and sleep.
1849-50 Man on the Canterbury coach. David Copperfield, ch.19.
- 72 I only ask for information.
1849-50 Rosa Dartle. David Copperfield, ch.20.
- 73 'It was as true,' said Mr Barkis, '...as taxes is. And nothing's truer than them.'
1849-50 David Copperfield, ch.21.
- 74 What a world of gammon and spinnage it is, though, ain't it?
1849-50 Miss Mowcher. David Copperfield, ch.22.
- 75 Accidents will occur in the best-regulated families.
1849-50 Mr Micawber. David Copperfield, ch.28.
- 76 'People can't die, along the coast,' said Mr Peggotty, 'except when the tide's pretty nigh out. They can't be born, unless it's pretty nigh in—not properly born, till flood. He's a going out with the tide.'
1849-50 On the death of Barkis. David Copperfield, ch.30.
- 77 Mrs Crupp had indignantly assured him that there wasn't room to swing a cat there; but, as Mr Dick justly observed to me... 'You know, Trotwood, I don't want to swing a cat. I never do swing a cat. Therefore, what does that signify to me!'
1849-50 David Copperfield, ch.35.
- 78 'No better opening anywhere,' said my aunt, 'for a man who conducts himself well, and is industrious.'
1849-50 Of Mr Micawber's prospects in Australia. David Copperfield, ch.52.
- 79 Fog everywhere. Fog up the river, where it flows among green aits and meadows; fog down the river, where it rolls defiled among the tiers of shipping, and the waterside pollutions of a great (and dirty) city. Fog on the Essex marshes, fog on the Kentish heights. Fog creeping into the cabooses of collier-brigs; fog lying out on the yards, and hovering in the rigging of great ships... And hard by Temple Bar, in Lincoln's Inn Hall, at the very heart of the fog, sits the Lord High Chancellor in his High Court of Chancery.
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.1.
- 80 But Jarndyce and Jarndyce still drags its dreary length before the court, perennially hopeless.
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.1.
- 81 The evil of it is, that it is a world wrapped up in too much jeweller's cotton and fine wool, and cannot hear the rushing of the larger worlds, and cannot see them as they circle round the sun. It is a deadened world, and its growth is sometimes unhealthy for want of air.
1852-3 Of the world of fashion. Bleak House, ch.2.
- 82 This is a London particular... A fog, miss.
1852-3 Mr Guppy to Esther. Bleak House, ch.3.
- 83 I expect a judgement. Shortly.
1852-3 Miss Flyte. Bleak House, ch.3. The judgement predicted, in the case of Jarndyce v Jarndyce, fails to materialize for many decades.
- 84 The wind's in the east... I am always conscious of an uncomfortable sensation now and then when the wind is blowing in the east.
1852-3 Mr Jarndyce. Bleak House, ch.6.

- 85 It is said that the children of the poor are not brought up, but dragged up.
1852-3 Mr Jarndyce. Bleak House, ch.6.
- 86 I don't feel any vulgar gratitude to you. I almost feel as if you ought to be grateful to me, for giving you the opportunity of enjoying the luxury of generosity... For anything I can tell, I may have come into the world expressly for the purpose of increasing your stock of happiness.
1852-3 Harold Skimpole. Bleak House, ch.6.
- 87 An oyster of the old school whom nobody can open.
1852-3 Of Mr Tulkinghorn. Bleak House, ch.10.
- 88 He was wery good to me, he wos!
1852-3 Jo speaking of Nemo. Bleak House, ch.11.
- 89 'For I don't,' says Jo, 'I don't know nothink.'
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.16.
- 90 You are a human boy, my young friend. A human boy. O glorious to be a human boy!...
O running stream of sparkling joy
To be a soaring human boy!
1852-3 Rev Mr Chadband. Bleak House, ch.19.
- 91 Jobling, there are chords in the human mind.
1852-3 Mr Guppy. Bleak House, ch.20.
- 92 'It is,' says Chadband, 'the ray of rays, the sun of suns, the moon of moons, the star of stars. It is the light of Terewth.'
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.25.
- 93 'Old girl,' said Mr Bagnet, 'give him my opinion. You know it.'
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.27.
- 94 It is a melancholy truth that even great men have their poor relations.
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.28.
- 95 Never have a mission.
1852-3 Mr Jellyby. Bleak House, ch.30.
- 96 The one great principle of the English law is, to make business for itself. There is no other principle distinctly, certainly, and consistently maintained through all its narrow turnings.
1852-3 Bleak House, ch.39.
- 97 He is not a genuine foreign-grown savage; he is the ordinary home-made article. Dirty, ugly, disagreeable to all the senses, in body a common creature of the common streets, only in soul a Heathen. Homely filth begrimes him, homely parasites devour him, homely sores are in him, homely rags are on him: native ignorance, the growth of English soil and climate, sinks his immortal nature lower than the beasts that perish.
1852-3 Of Jo. Bleak House, ch.47.
- 98 Dead, your Majesty. Dead, my lords and gentlemen. Dead, Right Reverends and Wrong Reverends of every order. Dead, men and women, born with Heavenly compassion in your hearts. And dying thus around us every day.
1852-3 On the death of Jo. Bleak House, ch.47.
- 99 Now, what I want is, Facts. Teach these boys and girls nothing but Facts. Facts alone are wanted in life.
1854 Mr Gradgrind. Hard Times, bk.1, ch.1.
- 1 The speaker, and the schoolmaster, and the third grown person present, all backed a little, and swept with their eyes the inclined plane of little vessels then and there arranged in order, ready to have imperial gallons of facts poured into them until they were full to the brim.
1854 Hard Times, bk.1, ch.1.
- 2 'Girl number twenty unable to define a horse!' said Mr Gradgrind... 'Girl number twenty possessed of no facts, in reference to one of the commonest of animals!'... 'Bitzer' said Thomas Gradgrind. 'Your definition of a horse.'
'Quadruped. Graminivorous. Forty teeth, namely twenty-four grinders, four eye-teeth, and twelve incisive. Sheds coat in the spring; in marshy countries, sheds hoofs, too. Hoofs hard, but requiring to be shod with iron. Age known by marks in mouth.' Thus (and much more) Bitzer.
'Now girl number twenty,' said Mr Gradgrind. 'You know what a horse is.'
1854 Hard Times, bk.1, ch.2.
- 3 It was a town of red brick, or of brick that would have been red if the smoke and ashes had allowed it; but, as matters stood it was a town of unnatural red and black as the painted face of a savage.
1854 Of Coketown. Hard Times, bk.1, ch.5.
- 4 Coketown... ugly citadel, where Nature was as strongly bricked out as killing airs and gases were bricked in.
1854 Hard Times, bk.1, ch.10.
- 5 I see traces of the turtle soup, and venison, and gold spoon in this.
1854 Mr Bounderby. Hard Times, bk.1, ch.11.
- 6 Ah, Rachel, aw a muddle! Fro' first to last, a muddle!
1854 Stephen Blackpool. Hard Times, bk.3, ch.6.
- 7 People muth be amuthed. They can't be alwayth a learning, nor yet they can't be alwayth a working, they an't made for it.
1854 Mr Sleary. Hard Times, bk.3, ch.8.
- 8 Whatever was required to be done, the Circumlocution Office was beforehand with all the public departments in the art of perceiving—HOW NOT TO DO IT.
1855-7 Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.10.
- 9 Take a little time—count five-and-twenty, Tattycoram.
1855-7 Mr Meagles. Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.16.
- 10 In company with several other old ladies of both sexes.
1855-7 Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.17.
- 11 It was not a bosom to repose upon, but it was a capital bosom to hang jewels upon.
1855-7 Of Mrs Merdle. Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.21.
- 12 There's milestones on the Dover Road!
1855-7 Mr F's Aunt. Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.23.
- 13 I revere the memory of Mr F. as an estimable man and most indulgent husband, only necessary to mention Asparagus and it appeared or to hint at any little delicate thing to drink and it came like magic in a pint bottle it was not ecstasy but it was comfort.
1855-7 Flora Finching. Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.24.
- 14 As to marriage on the part of a man, my dear, Society requires that he should retrieve his fortunes by marriage. Society requires that he should gain by marriage. Society requires that he should found a handsome establishment by marriage. Society does not see, otherwise, what he has to do with marriage.
1855-7 Mrs Merdle. Little Dorrit, bk.1, ch.33.

- 15 Mrs General had no opinions. Her way of forming a mind was to prevent it from forming opinions... Mrs General was not to be told of anything shocking. Accidents, miseries, and offences, were never to be mentioned before her. Passion was to go to sleep in the presence of Mrs General, and blood was to change to milk and water. The little that was left in the world, when all these deductions were made, it was Mrs General's province to varnish.
1855-7 Little Dorrit, bk.2, ch.2.
- 16 Father is rather vulgar, my dear. The word Papa, besides, gives a pretty form to the lips. Papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes, and prism, are all very good words for the lips: especially prunes and prism.
1855-7 Mrs General. Little Dorrit, bk.2, ch.5.
- 17 That it is at least as difficult to stay a moral infection as a physical one; that such a disease will spread with the malignity and rapidity of the Plague; that the contagion, when it has once made head, will spare no pursuit or condition, but will lay hold on people in the soundest health, and become developed in the most unlikely constitutions; is a fact as firmly established by experience as that we human creatures breathe an atmosphere.
1855-7 Little Dorrit, bk.2, ch.13.
- 18 Once a gentleman, and always a gentleman.
1855-7 Rigaud. Little Dorrit, bk.2, ch.28.
- 19 It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair, we had everything before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going direct to Heaven, we were all going direct the other way.
1859 A Tale of Two Cities, bk.1, ch.1.
- 20 I pass my whole life, miss, in turning an immense pecuniary Mangle.
1859 Mr Lorry. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.1, ch.4.
- 21 If it was ever intended that I should go across salt water, do you suppose Providence would have cast my lot in an island?
1859 Miss Pross. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.1, ch.4.
- 22 If you must go flopping yourself down, flop in favour of your husband and child, and not in opposition to 'em.
1859 Jerry Cruncher. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.2, ch.1.
- 23 I care for no man on earth, and no man on earth cares for me.
1859 Sydney Carton. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.2, ch.4.
- 24 Although it's a long time on the road, it is on the road and coming. I tell thee it never retreats, and never stops.
1859 Madame Defarge. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.2, ch.16.
- 25 It is a far, far better thing that I do, than I have ever done; it is a far, far better rest that I go to than I have ever known.
1859 Sydney Carton. A Tale of Two Cities, bk.3, ch.15.
- 26 Cleanliness is next to Godliness, and some people do the same by their religion.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.4.

- 28 Your sister is given to government.
1860-1 Joe Gargery. Great Expectations, ch.7.
- 29 In the little world in which children have their existence, whosoever brings them up, there is nothing so finely perceived and so finely felt, as injustice.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.8.
- 30 I had cherished a profound conviction that her bringing me up by hand, gave her no right to bring me up by jerks.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.8.
- 31 It is a most miserable thing to feel ashamed of home.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.14.
- 32 Probably every new and eagerly expected garment ever put on since clothes came in, fell a trifle short of the wearer's expectation.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.19.
- 33 You wouldn't mind being at once introduced to the Aged, would you?
1860-1 Wemmick introduces Pip to his father. Great Expectations, ch.25.
- 34 I loved Estella... I loved her against reason, against promise, against peace, against hope, against happiness, against all discouragement that could be.
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.29.
- 35 Words cannot state the amount of aggravation and injury wreaked upon me by Trabb's boy, when passing abreast of me, he pulled up his shirt-collar, twined his side-hair, stuck an arm akimbo, and smirked extravagantly by, wriggling his elbows and body, and drawing to his attendants, 'Don't know yah, don't know yah, 'pon my soul don't know yah!'
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.30.
- 36 'Halloa! Here's a church!... Let's go in!... Here's Miss Skiffins! Let's have a wedding.'
1860-1 Great Expectations, ch.55.

1864-5 Mr Boffin speaking of Silas Wegg. Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.5.
- 39 Mrs Boffin... is a highflyer at Fashion.
1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.5.
- 40 'Was you thinking at all of poetry?' Mr Wegg inquired, musing.
'Would it come dearer?' Mr Boffin asked.
'It would come dearer,' Mr Wegg returned. 'For when a person comes to grind off poetry night after night, it is but right he should expect to be paid for its weakening effect on his mind.'
1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.5.
- 41 These two ignorant and unpolished people had guided themselves so far on in their journey of life, by a religious sense of duty and desire to do right.
1864-5 Of Mr and Mrs Boffin. Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.9.
- 42 Mr Podsnap was well to do, and stood very high in Mr Podsnap's opinion.
1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.11.
- 43 A certain institution in Mr Podsnap's mind which he called 'the young person' may be considered to have been embodied in Miss Podsnap, his daughter... The - question about everything was, would it bring a blush into the cheek of the young person?

1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.11.
- 44 'Our Language,' said Mr Podsnap, with a gracious consciousness of being always right, 'is Difficult. Ours is a Copious Language, and Trying to Strangers. I will not Pursue my Question... It merely referred,' Mr Podsnap explained, with a sense of meritorious proprietorship, 'to our Constitution, Sir. We Englishmen are Very Proud of our Constitution, Sir. It Was Bestowed Upon Us By Providence. No Other Country is so Favoured as This Country.'
1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.11.
- 45 Mr Podsnap settled that whatever he put behind him he put out of existence... 'I don't want to know about it; I don't choose to discuss it; I don't admit it!'
1864-5 Our Mutual Friend, bk.1, ch.11.

 But gallanter, I know,
 Who charge within the bosom
 The Cavalry of Woe.
c.1859 Complete Poems, no.126 (first published 1890).
- 55 Musicians wrestle everywhere—
 All day—among the crowded air
 I hear the silver strife—
 And—waking—long before the morn—
 Such transport breaks upon the town
 I think it that 'New Life!'
c.1860 Complete Poems, no.157 (first published 1891).
- 56 'Faith' is a fine invention
 When Gentlemen can see—
 But Microscopes are prudent
 In an Emergency.

 To a discerning Eye—
 Much Sense—the starkest Madness—
c.1862 Complete Poems, no.435 (first published 1890).
- 62 They shut me up in Prose—
 As when a little girl
 They put me in the Closet—
 Because they liked me 'still'.
c.1862 Complete Poems, no.613 (first published 1935).
- 63 The Brain—is wider than the Sky.
c.1862 Complete Poems, no.632 (first published 1896).
- 64 I cannot live with You—
 It would be Life—
 And Life is over there—
 Behind the Shelf.
c.1862 Complete Poems, no.640 (first published 1890).
- 65 One need not be a Chamber—to be Haunted—
 One need not be a House—
 The brain has Corridors—surpassing Material Place—
c.1863 Complete Poems, no.670 (first published 1891).
- 66 Because I could not stop for Death—
 He kindly stopped for me—
 The carriage held but just Ourselves—
 And Immortality.

 Make this Bed with Awe—
 In it wait till Judgement break
 Excellent and Fair.
c.1864 Complete Poems, no.829 (first published 1891).
- 68 Of Consciousness, her awful Mate
 The soul cannot be rid—
 As easy the secreting her
 Behind the Eyes of God.
c.1864 Complete Poems, no.894 (first published 1945).
- 69 Faith—is the Pierless Bridge
 Supporting what We see

- Unto the Scene that We do not.
c.1864 Complete Poems, no.915 (first published 1929).
- 70 Death is a dialogue between
The Spirit and the Dust.
c.1864 Complete Poems, no.976 (first published 1890).
- 71 Tell all the Truth but tell it slant—
Success in Circuit lies
Too bright for our infirm Delight
The Truth's superb surprise.
c.1868 Complete Poems, no.1129 (first published 1945).
- 72 A word is dead
When it is said,
Some say.
I say it just Begins to live
That day.
?1872 Complete Poems, no.1212 (first published 1894).
- 73 The abdication of Belief
Makes the Behavior small—
Better an ignis fatuus
Than no illumine at all.
c.1882 Complete Poems, no.1551 (first published 1945).
- 74 He ate and drank the precious Words,
His Spirit grew robust;
He knew no more that he was poor,
Nor that his frame was Dust.
c.1883 Complete Poems, no.1587 (first published 1890).
- 75 The Pedigree of Honey
Does not concern the Bee—
A Clover, any time, to him,
Is Aristocracy—
c.1884 Complete Poems, no.1627 (first published 1890).
- 76 'Eternity' is there,
We say, as of a station.
Meanwhile, he is so near,
He joins me in my Ramble—
Divides abode with me—
No Friend have I that so persists
As this Eternity.
Complete Poems, no.1684 (first published 1914).

Last words, attributed.

Dickinson, John 1732–1808

US revolutionary statesman, leader of conservative opposition to the British. His draft formed the basis of the Articles of Confederation.

- 81 Then join hand in hand, brave Americans all—
By uniting we stand, by dividing we fall.
1768 'The Liberty Song'.
- 82 We have counted the cost of this contest, and find nothing so dreadful as voluntary slavery... Our cause is just, our union is perfect.
1775 Declaration of reasons for taking up arms against Britain,
8 Jul, presented to Congress. Quoted in C J Stille The Life and Times of John Dickinson (1891), ch.5.

Diderot, Denis 1713–84

French philosopher, novelist, essayist, playwright and critic. A leading figure in the Enlightenment, he is best remembered for his ambitious Encyclopédie (1751–72). Other writings include sentimental dramas and theoretical studies of the theatre.

- 83 Il ne faut point donner d'esprit à ses personnages; mais savoir les placer dans des circonstances qui leur en donnent.
You should not give wit to your characters, but know instead how to put them in situations which will make them witty.
1757 Entretiens sur le fils naturel, pt.2.
- 84 Les passions détruisent plus de préjugés que la philosophie. Et comment le mensonge leur résisterait-il? Elles ébranlent quelquefois la vérité.
Passions destroy more prejudices than philosophy. And how would lies resist passions? Passions sometimes weaken the truth.
1757 Entretiens sur le fils naturel, pt.2.
- 85 Les beautés ont, dans les arts, le même fondement que les vérités dans la philosophie. Qu'est-ce que la vérité? La conformité de nos jugements avec les êtres. Qu'est-ce que la beauté d'imitation? La conformité de l'image avec la chose.
Beauty has in art the same foundation as does truth in philosophy. What is the truth? The conformity of our judgements with beings. What is the beauty of imitation? The conformity of the image with the thing.
1757 Entretiens sur le fils naturel, pt.3.
- 86 Une danse est un poème.
A dance is a poem.
1757 Entretiens sur le fils naturel, pt.3.
- 87 Soit donc que vous composiez, soit donc que vous jouiez, ne pensez non plus au spectateur que s'il n'existait pas. Imaginez sur le bord du théâtre, un grand mur qui vous sépare du parterre; jouez comme si la toile ne se levait pas.
Whether you compose or act, think no more of the spectator than if he did not exist. Imagine at the edge of the stage a large wall which separates you from the orchestra; act as if the curtain never rose.
1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique, introducing the theatrical concept of the 'fourth wall'.
- 88 Le génie se sent; mais il ne s'imité point.
Genius is felt, but it is not imitated.
1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.
- 89 En général, plus un peuple est civilisé, poli, moins ses mœurs sont poétiques; tout s'affaiblit en s'adoucissant.
In general, the more civilized and refined the people, the less poetic are its morals; everything weakens as it mellows.
1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.

90 La poésie veut quelque chose d'énorme, de barbare et de sauvage.

Poetry needs something on the scale of the grand, the barbarous, the savage.

1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.

91 Le public ne sait pas toujours désirer le vrai.

The public does not always know how to desire the truth.

1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.

92 Le rôle d'un auteur est un rôle assez vain; c'est celui d'un homme qui se croit en état de donner des leçons au public. Et le rôle du critique? Il est bien plus vain encore; c'est celui d'un homme qui se croit en état de donner des leçons à celui qui se croit en état d'en donner au public.

The role of the author is vain enough; it is that of a person who considers himself able to give lessons to the public. And the role of the critic? It is vainer still; it is that of a person who considers himself able to give lessons to he who considers himself able to give them to the public.

1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.

93 Ce n'est que par la mémoire que nous sommes un même individu pour les autres et pour nous-mêmes. Il ne me reste peut-être pas, à l'âge que j'ai, une seule molécule du corps que j'apportai en naissant.

It is only in memory that we are the same person for others and for ourselves. At the age I am now, there is probably not a single molecule of my body that I had when born.

1758 Discours sur la poésie dramatique.

94 Mes pensées sont mes catins.

My thoughts are my prostitutes.

1761–74 Le Neveu de Rameau.

95 Rien ne dissemble plus de lui que lui-même.

Nothing resembles him less than himself.

1761–74 Le Neveu de Rameau.

96 Voyez-vous cet oeuf. C'est avec cela qu'on renverse toutes les écoles de théologie, et tous les temples de la terre.

See this egg. It is with this that all the schools of theology and all the temples of the earth are to be overturned.

1769 Le Rêve de d'Alembert (published 1830), pt.1.

97 Tous les jours on couche avec des femmes qu'on n'aime pas, et l'on ne couche pas avec des femmes qu'on aime.

Every day we sleep with women we do not love and don't sleep with the women we do love.

c.1773 Jacques le fataliste et son maître (published 1796).

98 L'esprit de l'escalier.

Staircase wit.

1773–8 That is, the witty reply that comes to mind after leaving the company, while descending the stairs. Paradoxe sur le comédien (published 1830).

99 Two qualities essential for the artist: morality and perspective.

1776–81 Pensées détachées sur la peinture.

1 One composition is meagre, though it has many figures; another is rich, though it has few.

1776–81 Pensées détachées sur la peinture.

2 Paint as they spoke in Sparta.

1776–81 Pensées détachées sur la peinture.

3 L'homme est né pour la société; séparez-le, isolez-le, ses idées se désuniront, son caractère se tournera, mille affections ridicules s'élèveront dans son coeur; des pensées extravagantes germeront dans son esprit, comme les ronces dans une terre sauvage.

Man is born to live in society: separate him, isolate him, and his ideas disintegrate, his character changes, a thousand ridiculous affectations rise up in his heart; extreme thoughts take hold in his mind, like the brambles in a wild field.

1796 La Religieuse.

Didion, Joan 1934–

US writer, a respected essayist on US life and culture. Her works include the novel A Book of Common Prayer (1977) and the non-fiction titles The White Album (1979) and Political Fictions (2001).

4 Innocence ends when one is stripped of the delusion that one likes oneself.

1961 'On Self Respect', collected in Slouching Towards Bethlehem (1968).

5 Was there ever in anyone's life span a point free in time, devoid of memory, a night when choice was any more than the sum of all the choices gone before?

1963 Run River, ch.4.

6 New York was no mere city. It was instead an infinitely romantic notion, the mysterious nexus of all love and power, the shining and perishable dream itself. To think of 'living' there was to reduce the miraculous to the mundane; one does not 'live' at Xanadu.

1967 'Goodbye To All That', collected in Slouching Towards Bethlehem (1968).

7 We tell ourselves stories in order to live.

1979 The White Album, 'The White Album, 1'.

8 Everything was unmentionable but nothing was unimaginable.

1979 Of Los Angeles in 1968–9. The White Album, 'The White Album, 10'.

9 To believe in 'the greater good' is to operate, necessarily, in a certain ethical suspension.

1979 The White Album, 'The Woman's Movement'.

12 It was a bitter birthday present from evolution.

1974 Of self-consciousness. Pilgrim at Tinker Creek, ch.6.

13 I don't know what it is about fecundity that so appals. I suppose it is the teeming evidence that birth and growth, which we value, are ubiquitous and blind, that life itself is so astonishingly cheap, that nature is as careless as it is bountiful, and that with extravagance goes a crushing waste that will one day include our own cheap lives.

1974 Pilgrim at Tinker Creek, ch.10.

- 14 I think the dying pray at the last not please but thank you as a guest thanks his host at the door.
1974 Pilgrim at Tinker Creek, ch.15.

- 49 Man is only truly great when he acts from the passions.
1844 Coningsby, bk.4, ch.13.
- 50 Consider Ireland. Thus you have a starving population, an absentee aristocracy, and an alien Church—and in addition, the weakest executive in the world. That is the Irish Question.
1844 Speech, House of Commons, 16 Feb.
- 51 I am neither a Whig nor a Tory. My politics are described in one word, and that word is England.
1844 Speech, House of Commons.
- 52 To do nothing and get something, formed a boy's ideal of a manly career.
1845 Sybil, bk.1, ch.5.
- 53 'Two nations; between whom there is no intercourse and no sympathy; who are as ignorant of each other's habits, thoughts and feelings, as if they were dwellers in different zones, or inhabitants of different planets; who are formed by a different breeding, are fed by a different food, are ordered by different manners, and are not governed by the same laws.' 'You speak of—' said Egremont, hesitatingly. 'THE RICH AND THE POOR.'
1845 Sybil, bk.2, ch.5.
- 54 Little things affect little minds.

1845 Speech, House of Commons, 17 Mar.
- 58 A majority is always the best repartee.
1847 Tancred, bk.2, ch.14.
- 59 London is a modern Babylon.
1847 Tancred, bk.5, ch.5.
- 60 Justice is truth in action.
1851 Speech, House of Commons, 11 Feb.
- 61 He has to learn that petulance is not sarcasm, and that insolence is not invective.
1852 Of Sir Charles Wood. Speech, House of Commons, 16 Dec.
- 62 England does not love coalitions.
1852 Speech, House of Commons, 17 Dec.
- 63 The blue ribbon of the turf.
1852 Of the Derby race. Life of Lord George Bentinck, ch.26.
- 64 If a traveller were informed that such a man was Leader of the House of Commons, he may well begin to comprehend how the Egyptians came to worship an insect.
1852 Of Lord John Russell. Attributed.
- 65 His temper, naturally morose, has become licentiously peevish. Crossed in his Cabinet, he insults the House of Lords and plagues the most eminent of his colleagues with the crabbed malice of a maundering witch.
1855 Of Lord Aberdeen, whose disagreements with his Whig–Peelite coalition over the Crimean War eventually forced his resignation.
- 66 Finality is not the language of politics.
1859 Speech, House of Commons, 28 Feb.

1873 Rectorial address, Glasgow, 19 Nov.
- 81 Upon the education of the people of this country the fate of this country depends.
1874 Speech, House of Commons, 15 Jun.
- 82 Posterity will do justice to that unprincipled maniac Gladstone—an extraordinary mixture of envy, vindictiveness, hypocrisy and superstition and with one commanding characteristic. Whether Prime Minister or Leader of the Opposition, whether preaching, praying, speechifying, or scribbling—never a gentleman. He is so vain that he wants to figure in history as the settler of all the great questions; but a parliamentary Constitution is not favourable to such ambitions. Things must be done by parties, not by persons using parties as tools.
c.1874 Letter.
- 83 I am dead: dead, but in the Elysian fields.
1876 On his elevation to the House of Lords.
- 84 Gladstone, like Richelieu, cannot write. Nothing can be more unmusical, more involved, or more uncouth than all his scribblement.
1877 Letter, 3 Oct.
- 85 Lord Salisbury and myself have brought you peace—but a peace, I hope, with honour.
1878 Declaration, 16 Jul, on returning from the Berlin Congress with the guarantees it had produced of continuing peace in Europe.

- 28 Shall I leave all this constant company,
And follow headlong, wild uncertain thee?
1594–5 Satires, no.1.
- 29 For if one eat my meat, though it be known
The meat was mine, the excrement is his own.
1594–5 Satires, no.2.
- 30 Kind pity chokes my spleen.
1594–5 Satires, no.3.
- 31 On a huge hill,
Cragged, and steep, Truth stands, and he that will Reach her, about must, and about must go.
1594–5 Satires, no.3.
- 32 Are not your kisses then as filthy, and more,
As a worm sucking an envenomed sore?
Doth not thy fearful hand in felling quake,
As one which gathering flowers, still fears a snake?
Is not your last act harsh, and violent,
As when a plough a stony ground doth rent?
c.1595 Elegies, no.8, 'The Comparison'.
- 33 Filled with her love, may I be rather grown Mad with much heart than idiot with none.
c.1595 Elegies, no.10, 'The Bracelet'.
- 34 I will not look upon the quickening sun,
But straight her beauty to my sense shall run;
The air shall note her soft, the fire most pure;
Water suggest her clear, and the earth sure;
Time shall not lose our passages.
c.1595 Elegies, no.12, 'His Parting from Her'.
- 35 Come, madam, come, all rest my powers defy,
Until I labour, I in labour lie.
The foe oft-times having the foe in sight,
Is tired with standing though he never fight.
Off with that girdle, like heaven's zone glistening,

- But a far fairer world encompassing.
Unpin that spangled breastplate which you wear,
That busy fools may be stopped there.
Unlace yourself, for that harmonious chime
Tells me from you that now 'tis your bed time.
c.1595 Elegies, no.19, 'To His Mistress Going to Bed'.
- 36 License my roving hands, and let them go
Before, behind, between, above, below.
O my America! my new-found-land,
My kingdom, safest when with one man manned.
c.1595 Elegies, no.19, 'To His Mistress Going to Bed'.
- 37 I wonder, by my troth, what thou and I
Did, till we loved? were we not weaned till then?
But sucked on country pleasures, childishly?
c.1595–1605 'The Good Morrow', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 38 Now thou hast loved me one whole day,
Tomorrow when thou leav'st, what wilt thou say?
c.1595–1605 'Woman's Constancy', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 39 Go, and catch a falling star,
Get with child a mandrake root,
Tell me, where all past years are,
Or who cleft the Devil's foot.
c.1595–1605 'Song: Go and catch a falling star', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 40 Sweetest love I do not go,
For weariness of thee,
Nor in hope the world can show
A fitter Love for me;
But since that I
Must die at last, 'tis best,
To use myself in jest
Thus by feigned deaths to die.
c.1595–1605 'Song: Sweetest love I do not go', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 41 Busy old fool, unruly sun,
Why dost thou thus,
Through windows, and through curtains, call on us?
Must to thy motions lovers' seasons run?
Saucy pedantic wretch, go chide
Late schoolboys, and sour prentices,
Go tell court-huntmen that the King will ride,
Call country ants to harvest offices;
Love, all alike, no season knows, nor clime,
Nor hours, days, months, which are the rags of time.
c.1595–1605 'The Sun Rising', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 42 She's all states, and all princes I,
Nothing else is.
Princes do but play us; compared to this,
All honour's mimic, all wealth alchemy.
c.1595–1605 'The Sun Rising', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 43 For God's sake, hold your tongue, and let me love,
Or chide my palsy, or my gout,
My five grey hairs, or ruined fortune flout,
With wealth your state, your mind with arts improve,
Take you a course, get you a place,
Observe his honour, or his grace,
Or the King's real, or his stamped face
Contemplate; what you will, approve,

- So you will let me love.
c.1595–1605 'The Canonization', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 44 Alas, alas, who's injured by my love?
 What merchant's ships have my sighs drowned?
 Who says my tears have overflowed his ground?
 When did my colds a forward spring remove?
 When did the heats which my veins fill
 Add one more to the plaguey bill?
 Soldiers find wars, and lawyers find out still Litigious men, which quarrels move,
 Though she and I do love.
c.1595–1605 'The Canonization', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 45 'Tis the year's midnight, and it is the day's.
c.1595–1605 'Nocturnal upon St Lucy's Day', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).

c.1595–1605 'The Progress of the Soul', stanza 39, collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 48 I am two fools, I know,
 For loving, and for saying so
 In whining poetry.
c.1595–1605 'The Triple Fool', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 49 Twice or thrice had I loved thee,
 Before I knew thy face or name;
 So in a voice, so in a shapeless flame
Angels affect us oft, and worshipped be;
 Still when, to where thou wert, I came,
 Some lovely glorious nothing did I see.
c.1595–1605 'Air and Angels', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 50 He which hath business, and makes love, doth do
 Such wrong, as when a married man doth woo.
c.1595–1605 'Break of Day', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 51 O more than moon,
 Draw not up seas to drown me in thy sphere,
 Weep me not dead, in thine arms, but forbear
 To teach the sea what it may do too soon.
c.1595–1605 'A Valediction: Of Weeping', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 52 Mark but this flea, and mark in this
 How little that which thou deny'st me is;
 It sucked me first, and now sucks thee,
 And in this flea our two bloods mingled be.
c.1595–1605 'The Flea', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 53 Come live with me, and be my love,
 And we will some new pleasures prove
 Of golden sands, and crystal brooks:
 With silken lines, and silver hooks.
c.1595–1605 'The Bait', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
 ► See Marlowe 553:17, Raleigh 677:98.
- 54 As virtuous men pass mildly away,
 And whisper to their souls, to go,
 Whilst some of their sad friends do say,
 The breath goes now, and some say, no:
- So let us melt, and make no noise,
 No tear-floods, nor sigh-tempests move;
 'Twere profanation of our joys
 To tell the laity of our love.
c.1595–1605 'A Valediction: Forbidding Mourning', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 55 Our two souls therefore, which are one,
 Though I must go, endure not yet
 A breach, but an expansion,
 Like gold to airy thinness beat.
c.1595–1605 'A Valediction: Forbidding Mourning', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 56 Thy firmness makes my circle just,
 And makes me end, where I begun.
c.1595–1605 'A Valediction: Forbidding Mourning', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 57 Where, like a pillow on a bed,
 A pregnant bank swelled up, to rest
 The violet's reclining head,
 Sat we two, one another's best.
c.1595–1605 'The Ecstasy', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 58 Our eye-beams twisted, and did thread
 Our eyes, upon one double string.
c.1595–1605 'The Ecstasy', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 59 So to engraft our hands, as yet
 Was all the means to make us one,
 And pictures in our eyes to get
 Was all our propagation.
- And whilst our souls negotiate there,
 We like sepulchral statues lay;
 All day, the same our postures were,
 And we said nothing all the day.
c.1595–1605 'The Ecstasy', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 60 I had rather owner be
 Of thee one hour, than all else ever.
c.1595–1605 'A Fever', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 61 To what a cumbersome unwieldiness
 And burdenous corpulence my love had grown,
 But that I did, to make it less,
 And keep it in proportion,
 Give it a diet, made it feed upon
 That which love worst endures, discretion.
?1595–1605 'Love's Diet', collected in Songs and Sonnets (1633).
- 62 And seeing the snail, which everywhere doth roam,
 Carrying his own house still, still is at home,
 Follow (for he is easy paced) this snail,
 Be thine own palace, or the world's thy gaol.
1597–8 'To Sir Henry Wotton'.
- 63 More than kisses, letters mingle souls.
1597–8 'To Sir Henry Wotton'.
- 64 John Donne, Anne Donne, Un-done.
1602 Letter to his wife from prison. Quoted in Izaak Walton The Life of Doctor Donne (1640).
- 65 Immensity cloistered in thy dear womb.
1609 La Corona, 'Nativity'.
- 66 At the round earth's imagined corners, blow
 Your trumpets, angels, and arise, arise

- From death, you numberless infinities
Of souls, and to your scattered bodies go.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.7.
- 67 Death be not proud, though some have called thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so,
For those, whom thou think'st thou dost overthrow,
Die not, poor death, nor yet canst thou kill me.
From rest and sleep, which but thy pictures be,
Much pleasure, then from thee much more must flow,
And soonest our best men with thee do go,
Rest of their bones and soul's delivery.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.10.
- 68 One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And Death shall be no more: Death, thou shalt die!
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.10.
- 69 Oh let me then His strange love still admire.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.11.
- 70 Batter my heart, three-personed God; for You
As yet but knock, breathe, shine, and seek to mend.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.14.
- 71 Take me to You, imprison me, for I,
Except You enthrall me, never shall be free,
Nor ever chaste, except You ravish me.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.14.
- 72 I am a little world made cunningly
Of elements and an angelic sprite.
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.15.
- 73 What if this present were the world's last night?
c.1610–1615 Holy Sonnets, no.19.
- 74 And new philosophy calls all in doubt,
The element of fire is quite put out;
The sun is lost, and th'earth, and no man's wit
Can well direct him, where to look for it.
1611 'An Anatomy of the World: The First Anniversary'.

- 78 Verse hath a middle nature: heaven keeps souls,
The grave keeps bodies, verse the fame enrols.
1611 'An Anatomy of the World: The First Anniversary'.
- 79 It comes equally to us all, and makes us all equal when it comes. The ashes of an oak in the chimney are no epitaph of that oak, to tell me how high or how large that was; it tells me not what flocks it sheltered while it stood, nor what men it hurt when it fell...and when a whirlwind hath blown the dust of the churchyard into the church, and the man sweeps out the dust of the church into the churchyard, who will undertake to sift those dusts again, and to pronounce, This is the Patrician, this the noble flower, and this the yeomanly, this the Plebeian bran.
c.1621 Of death. Sermon, 8 Mar.
- 80 Since I am coming to that holy room
Where, with Thy choir of saints forevermore,
I shall be made Thy Music, as I come
I tune the instrument here at the door,
And what I must do then, think now before.
c.1623 'Hymn to God My God, in My Sickness'.
- 81 Wilt thou forgive that sin, where I begun,
Which is my sin, though it was done before?
Wilt thou forgive those sins through which I run
And do them still, though still I do deplore?
When thou hast done, thou hast not done,
For I have more.
c.1623 'Hymn to God the Father'.
- 82 It is too little to call man a little world; except God, man is a diminutive to nothing.

- 84 No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main.
1624 Devotions upon Emergent Occasions, Meditation no.17.
- 85 Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind; and therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee.
1624 Devotions upon Emergent Occasions, Meditation no.17.
- 86 My God, my God, thou art a direct God, may I not say a literal God... But thou art also... a figurative, a metaphorical God too.

Language of God'.
- 87 The air is not so full of motes, of atoms, as the church is of mercies.
1624 Sermons, 'Christmas Day, 1624'.
- 88 He brought light out of darkness, not out of a lesser light;
he can bring thy summer out of winter, though thou have no spring... God comes to thee, not as in the dawning of the day, not as in the bud of the spring, but as the sun at noon to illustrate all shadows, as the sheaves in harvest to fill all penuries. All occasions invite his mercies, and all times are his seasons.
1624 Sermons, 'Christmas Day, 1624'.
- 89 All the four Monarchies, with all their thousands of years, and all the powerful Kings and all the beautiful Queens of this world, were but as a bed of flowers, some gathered at six, some at seven, some at eight, all in one morning, in respect to this day.
1626 On eternity. Sermon, 30 Apr.
- 90 I throw myself down in my Chamber, and I call in, and invite God, and his Angels thither, and when they are there, I neglect God and his Angels, for the noise of a fly, for the rattling of a coach, for the whining of a door.
1626 Sermon preached at the funeral of Sir William Cockayne,
12 Dec.
- 91 How imperfect is all our knowledge!
1626 Sermon preached at the funeral of Sir William Cockayne,
12 Dec.
- 92 Young men mend not their sight by using old men's spectacles.
1626 Sermon preached at the funeral of Sir William Cockayne,
12 Dec.
- 93 And if there be any addition to knowledge, it is rather a new knowledge than a greater knowledge; rather a singularity in a desire of proposing something that was not known at all before than an improving, an advancing, a multiplying of former inceptions; and by that means, no knowledge comes to be perfect.

1626 Sermon preached at the funeral of Sir William Cockayne, 12 Dec.

- 94 He that purchases a manor will think to have an exact survey of the land, but who thinks of taking so exact a survey of his conscience, how that money was got that purchased that manor? We call that a man's means, which he hath; but that is truly his means, what way he came by it.

1626 Sermon preached at the funeral of Sir William Cockayne, 12 Dec.

- 95 The world is a great volume, and man the index of that book.

1626 'Sermon preached at the Funeral of Sir William Cockayne', 12 Dec.

- 96 Let man's soul be a sphere, and then, in this, The intelligence that moves, devotion is.

'Good Friday, 1613. Riding Westward', published 1635.

Donoghue, Denis 1928–

Irish literary critic, Professor at New York University.

- 97 If there is a distinctive Irish experience, it is one of division, exacerbated by the fact that division in a country so small seems perverse. But the scale doesn't matter.

1986 We Irish.

Donoso, José 1924–96

Chilean novelist. After teaching at several universities in Chile and the US, he lived in Europe for 15 years before returning to Chile. El obsceno pájaro de la noche (1970), his masterpiece, presents a hallucinatory and grotesque vision of Chilean society.

- 98 Los servidores acumulan los privilegios de la miseria... conservan los instrumentos de la venganza porque van acumulando en sus manos ásperas y verrugosas esa otra mitad de sus patrones, la mitad inútil, descartada, lo sucio y lo feo que ellos... les han ido entregando con el insulto de cada enagua gastada que les regalan.

Servants accumulate the privileges of misery... They save up the instruments of vengeance because their coarse warty hands collect, bit by bit, that other side of their employers—the useless, discarded side, the filth and the sordidness that... they've been putting into their servants' hands with the insult of each shabby skirt they gave them.

1970 El obsceno pájaro de la noche, ch.4 (translated as The Obscene Bird of Night, 1973).

Doolittle, James Harold 1896–1993

US air force officer. He was the Commanding General, US 8th Air Force, in the ETO (European Theatre of Operations) in 1944.

- 99 Next to a letter from home, Captain Miller, your organization is the greatest morale builder in the ETO.
1944 Of Glenn Miller's wartime band. Comment on stage after a concert for the troops at Wycombe Abbey, 29 Jul. The words were later attributed to General Eisenhower in the publicity for the film The Glenn Miller Story (1954).

Doram-Smith, Sir Reginald Hugh 1899–1977

Irish-born British politician, a former army colonel who became an MP in 1935, Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries (1939–40) and Governor of Burma (1941–6).

- 1 Let 'Dig for Victory' be the motto of everyone with a garden and of every able-bodied man and woman capable of digging an allotment in their spare time.

1939 Radio broadcast, 3 Oct.

Dorgan, Tad (Thomas Aloysius) 1877–1929

US cartoonist and sportswriter. He was known for his satirical cartoons and colourful use of slang.

- 2 Yes, We Have No Bananas.

1922 Cartoon caption, later used as the title of a song by Irving Conn and Frank Silver (1923) and as an advertising slogan for Elders and Fyffes, British banana importers.

Dos Passos, John Roderigo 1896–1970

US novelist, playwright, travel writer and poet. He is best known for his novels such as Manhattan Transfer (1925) and the massive, formally experimental epic trilogy U.S.A. (1930–6).

- 3 U.S.A. is the slice of a continent. U.S.A. is a group of holding companies, some aggregations of trade unions, a set of laws bound in calf, a radio network, a chain of moving picture theatres, a column of stock quotations rubbed out and written in by a Western Union boy on a black-board, a public library full of old newspapers and dogeared historybooks with protests scrawled in the margins in pencil. U.S.A. is the world's greatest river valley fringed with mountains and hills. U.S.A. is a set of bigmouthed officials with too many bank accounts. U.S.A. is a lot of men buried in their uniforms in Arlington Cemetery. U.S.A. is the letters at the end of an address when you are away from home. But mostly U.S.A. is the speech of the people 1938 U.S.A., 'U.S.A.' (new prologue to collected trilogy).

- 4 People don't choose their careers. They are engulfed by them.

1959 In the New York Times, 25 Oct.

Dostoevsky, Fyodor Mikhailovich 1821–81

Russian novelist. He was condemned to death in 1849 for his revolutionary connections, but was instead sent to hard labour in Siberia until 1859.

- 5 The formula 'Two and two is five' is not without its attractions.

1864 Notes from Underground.

- 6 All people seem to be divided into 'ordinary' and 'extraordinary'. The ordinary people must lead a life of strict obedience and have no right to transgress the law because... they are ordinary. Whereas the extraordinary people have the right to commit any crime they like and transgress the law in any way just because they happen to be extraordinary.

1866 Crime and Punishment, pt.3, ch.5 (translated by David Magarshak).

- 7 Power is given only to him who dares to stoop and take it... one must have the courage to dare.

1866 Crime and Punishment, pt.5, ch.4 (translated by David Magarshak).

8 If you were to destroy in mankind the belief in immortality, not only love but every living force maintaining the life of the world would at once be dried up.

1879–80 The Brothers Karamazov, bk.2, ch.6.

9 If the devil doesn't exist, but man has created him, he has created him in his own image and likeness.

1879–80 The Brothers Karamazov, bk.5, ch.4.

10 So long as man remains free he strives for nothing so incessantly and so painfully as to find someone to worship.

1879–80 The Brothers Karamazov, bk.5, ch.5.

11 Love all God's creation, the whole of it and every grain of sand in it. Love every leaf, every ray of God's lights. Love the animals, love the plants, love everything. If you love everything, you will perceive the divine mystery in things.

1879–80 The Brothers Karamazov, bk.6, ch.3.

Douglas, Lord Alfred Bruce 1870–1945

English poet. He is remembered chiefly for his relationship with Oscar Wilde, which precipitated Wilde's downfall.

12 I am the love that dare not speak its name.

1894 'Two Loves'.

13 All good poetry is forged slowly and patiently, link by link, with sweat and blood and tears.

1919 Collected Poems, introduction.

Douglas, Charles 1840–74

New Zealand explorer, who travelled over much uncharted territory in the South Island of New Zealand.

14 I am perfectly aware that the mosquito and sandfly have a purpose in this world, but why don't they attend to it? Their destiny is to keep down microscopic insects...but their sphere of use is when they are in the grub state. Why don't they stick at that and not trouble innocent unoffending prospectors who can't carry a curtain?

1891 Quoted in J Pascoe (ed) Mr Explorer Douglas (1957).

15 I believe the reason I escaped, both this time and on other occasions, was the idea of perishing never entered my head. Nothing is so bad as terror for lowering a man's stamina.

1891 Quoted in J Pascoe (ed) Mr Explorer Douglas (1957).

Douglas, Gavin c.1474–1522

Scottish poet and, from 1515, Bishop of Dunkeld. His translation of Virgil's Aeneid is considered to be one of the greatest achievements of Scots vernacular literature.

16 First I protest, beau schiris, by your leif
Beis weill advisit my werk or ye reproof;
Consider it warely, read ofter than anis,
Weill, at ane blenk, slee poetry nocht ta'en is.

c.1513 Eneados, bk.1, prologue.

17 Riveris ran reid on spate with water broun,
And burnis hurlis all their bankis down.

c.1513 Eneados, bk.7, prologue.

18 And all small fowlys singis on the spray:
Welcum the lord of lycht and lamp of day.

c.1513 Eneados, bk.12, prologue.

Douglas, Keith Castellain 1920–44

English poet. Only one volume of his poems was published in his lifetime, and he was killed in action shortly after the D-Day landings in Normandy.

19 Remember me when I am dead and simplify me when I'm dead.

1941 'Simplify Me When I'm Dead'.

20 For here the lover and killer are mingled who had one body and one heart.
And death, who had the soldier singled has done the lover mortal hurt.

1943 'Vergissmeinnicht'.

21 If at times my eyes are lenses through which the brain explores constellations of feeling my ears yielding like swinging doors admit princes to the corridors into the mind, do not envy me.
I have a beast on my back.

1944 'Bête Noire'.

22 And all my endeavours are unlucky explorers come back, abandoning the expedition;
the specimens, the lilies of ambition still spring in their climate, still unpicked;
but time, time is all I lacked to find them, as the great collectors before me.

1944 'On a Return from Egypt, 1943–44' (published 1946).

Douglas, (George) Norman 1868–1952

Scottish novelist, travel writer and essayist. His works include Siren Land (1911), an account of his travels in Italy, and the novel South Wind (1917).

23 Bouillabaisse is only good because cooked by the French, who, if they cared to try, could produce an excellent and nutritious substitute out of cigar stumps and empty matchboxes.

1911 Siren Land, 'Rain on the Hills'.

24 Don Francesco was a fisher of men, and of women. He fished ad maiorem Dei gloriam, and for the fun of the thing. It was his way of taking exercise.

1917 South Wind, ch.2.

25 You can tell the ideals of a nation by its advertisements.

1917 South Wind, ch.6.

26 Many a man who thinks to found a home discovers that he has merely opened a tavern for his friends.

1917 South Wind, ch.20.

27 It is the drawback of all sea-side places that half the landscape is unavailable for purposes of human locomotion, being covered by useless water.

1921 Alone, 'Mentone'.

28 As to abuse—I thrive on it. Abuse, hearty abuse, is a tonic to all save men of indifferent health.

1928 Some Limericks.

29 Education is a state-controlled manufactory of echoes.

1929 How About Europe?

30 To find a friend one must close one eye. To keep him—two.

1941 Almanac.

31 A child of eight is many-sided. By eighteen most of his auspicious angles have been polished away; he is standardised; transformed, perhaps into the perfect citizen. Your perfect citizen may be a fine fellow, but he is not the perfect man.

1946 Late Harvest.

Douglas, William Orville 1898–1980

US lawyer, Associate Justice of the US Supreme Court (1939–80). His consistently liberal decisions were occasionally controversial, such as the stay of execution granted to the Rosenbergs, convicted spies, in 1953.

- 32 It is procedure that spells much of the difference between rule by law and rule by whim or caprice.
1951 Ruling to strike the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee and two other organizations from the Attorney General's list of subversive groups until final adjudication, 30 Apr.
- 33 We are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being.
1952 Ruling to allow the release of public school students for religious instruction, 28 Apr.
- 34 If the individual is no longer to be sovereign, if the police can pick him up whenever they do not like the cut of his jib... we enter a new regime.
1968 Dissenting opinion in ruling to uphold the police right 'to stop and frisk', 10 Jun.

Douglass, Frederick originally Frederick Augustus Washington Bailey 1817–95

US abolitionist. Born a slave, in 1838 he escaped and changed his name. He lectured on slavery in Great Britain (1845–47) and £150 was collected so that he could purchase his freedom.

- 35 The white man's happiness cannot be purchased by the black man's misery.
1849 'The Destiny of Colored Americans' in The North Star, 16 Nov.
- 36 To imagine that we shall ever be eradicated is absurd and ridiculous. We can be remodified, changed, and assimilated, but never extinguished.
1849 'The Destiny of Colored Americans' in The North Star, 16 Nov.
- 37 Where justice is denied, where poverty is enforced, where ignorance prevails, and where one class is made to feel that society is an organized conspiracy to oppress, rob, and degrade them, neither persons nor property will be safe.
1886 Speech in Washington DC, commemorating the 24th anniversary of emancipation.
- 38 No man can point to any law in the U.S. by which slavery was originally established. Men first make slaves and then make laws.
1889 Speech, Bethel Literary and Historical Association, Washington DC, Apr.

Dove, Rita Frances 1952–

US poet. Her poetry collections include Thomas and Beulah (1986, Pulitzer Prize), On the Bus with Rosa Parks (1999) and American Smooth (2004). From 1993 to 1995 she was US Poet Laureate.

- 39 A good poem is like a bouillon cube. It's concentrated and it nourishes you when you need it.
1989 In Time, 18 Oct.

Dowd, Maureen 1952–

US newspaper columnist, winner of the 1999 Pulitzer Prize for distinguished commentary.

- 40 President Clinton returned today... to the university where he didn't inhale, didn't get drafted, and didn't get a degree.
1994 On President Clinton's visit to Oxford where as a Rhodes Scholar he had tried marijuana, avoided conscription, and left to attend Yale Law School. In the New York Times, 9 Jun.

1995 Advice for political survival in Washington. In the US News and World Report, 9 Jan.

Dowland, John 1563–1626

English lutenist and songwriter. Having failed, as a Catholic, to win a place at the court of Elizabeth I, he made his name in Europe before returning home. His First Book of Songs appeared in 1597 and ran to five editions by 1613.

- 42 Who loves not music and the heavenly muse,
 That man God hates.
1614 Commendatory poem to William Leighton's Tears or Lamentations of a Sorrowful Soule.

Downey, Dr Richard 1881–1953

English prelate, Bishop of Liverpool.

- 43 If Stalin had learned to play cricket, the world might now be a better place.
1948 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Dowson, Ernest 1867–1900

English poet. A member of the 'decadent' school, he studied at Oxford and became part of the Rhymers' Club. He developed friendships with W B Yeats and Arthur Symonds and lived in France, where he died of alcoholism.

- 44 I have forgot much, Cynara! Gone with the wind,
 Flung roses, roses, riotously with the throng,
 Dancing, to put thy pale, lost lilies out of mind;
 But I was desolate and sick of an old passion,
 Yea, all the time, because the dance was long:
 I have been faithful to thee, Cynara! in my fashion.
1896 Verses, 'Non Sum Qualis Eram Bonae Sub Regno Cynarae'.
- 45 They are not long, the days of wine and roses:
 Out of a misty dream
 Our path emerges for a while, then closes
 Within a dream.
1896 'Vitae Summa Brevis'.

Doyle, Sir Arthur Conan 1859–1930

Scottish physician and writer. His stories of the brilliant and resourceful detective Sherlock Holmes and his assistant, Dr Watson, are among the most enduringly popular works of crime fiction ever written. He also wrote historical romances and other novels.

- 46 London, that great cesspool into which all the loungers and idlers of the Empire are irresistibly drained.
1887 A Study in Scarlet, ch.1.
- 47 It is a capital mistake to theorize before one has all the evidence. It biases the judgement.
1887 A Study in Scarlet, ch.3.

- 48 Where there is no imagination there is no horror.
1887 A Study in Scarlet, ch.5.
- 49 It is a mistake to confound strangeness with mystery.
1887 A Study in Scarlet, ch.7.
- 50 Our ideas must be as broad as Nature if they are to interpret Nature.
1887 A Study in Scarlet, ch.7.
- 51 Detection is, or ought to be, an exact science, and should be treated in the same cold and unemotional manner. You have attempted to tinge it with romanticism, which produces much the same effect as if you worked a love-story or an elopement into the fifth proposition of Euclid.
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.1.
- 52 The most winning woman I ever knew was hanged for poisoning three little children for their insurance money.
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.2.
- 53 I never make exceptions. An exception disproves the rule.
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.2.
- 54 How often have I said to you that when you have eliminated the impossible, whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth?
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.6.
- 55 You know my methods. Apply them.
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.6.
- 56 'It is the unofficial force—the Baker Street irregulars.' As he spoke, there came a swift pattering of naked feet upon the stairs, a clatter of high voices, and in rushed a dozen dirty and ragged little street Arabs.
1890 The Sign of Four, ch.8.
- 57 The bow was made in England,
Of true wood, of yew wood,
The wood of English bows.
1891 The White Company, 'Song of the Bow'.
- 58 Singularity is almost invariably a clue. The more featureless and commonplace a crime is, the more difficult it is to bring it home.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Boscombe Valley Mystery'.
- 59 You know my method. It is founded upon the observance of trifles.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Boscombe Valley Mystery'.
- 60 It has long been an axiom of mine that the little things are infinitely the most important.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'A Case of Identity'.
- 61 Depend upon it, there is nothing so unnatural as the commonplace.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'A Case of Identity'.
- 62 The case has, in some respects, been not entirely devoid of interest.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'A Case of Identity'.
- 63 It is quite a three-pipe problem, and I beg that you won't speak to me for fifty minutes.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Red-Headed League'.
- 64 To Sherlock Holmes she is always the woman. I have seldom heard him mention her under any other name. In his eyes she eclipses and predominates the whole of her sex.
- 1892 Of Irene Adler. The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'Scandal in Bohemia'.
- 65 You see, but you do not observe.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'Scandal in Bohemia'.
- 66 A man should keep his little brain attic stocked with all the furniture that he is likely to use, and the rest he can put away in the lumber room of his library, where he can get it if he wants it.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Five Orange Pips'.
- 67 It is my belief, Watson, founded upon my experience, that the lowest and vilest alleys in London do not present a more dreadful record of sin than does the smiling and beautiful countryside.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Copper Beeches'.
- 68 Crime is common. Logic is rare. Therefore it is upon the logic rather than upon the crime that you should dwell.
1892 The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Copper Beeches'.
- 69 A long shot, Watson; a very long shot!
1894 The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes, 'Silver Blaze'.
- 70 Ex-Professor Moriarty of mathematical celebrity... is the Napoleon of crime, Watson.
1894 The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Final Problem'.
- 71 'Excellent!', I cried.
'Elementary', said he.
1894 The Memoirs of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Crooked Man'. The famous phrase 'Elementary, my dear Watson' does not in fact appear in any of the Conan Doyle books. It may have originated with a review of the film The Return of Sherlock Holmes in the New York Times, 19 Oct 1929.
- 72 They were the footprints of a gigantic hound!
1902 The Hound of the Baskervilles, ch.2.
- 73 A study of family portraits is enough to convert a man to the doctrine of reincarnation.
1902 The Hound of the Baskervilles, ch.13.
- 74 You mentioned your name as if I should recognise it, but I assure you that, beyond the obvious facts that you are a bachelor, a solicitor, a Freemason, and an asthmatic, I know nothing whatever about you.
1905 The Return of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Norwood Builder'.
- 75 Now, Watson, the fair sex is your department.
1905 The Return of Sherlock Holmes, 'The Second Stain'.
- 76 It is horrible, yet fascinating, this struggle between a set purpose and an utterly exhausted frame.
1908 Of the final moments of the 1908 Olympic marathon, in which the Italian runner Dorando Pietri had to be helped over the finishing line and was thus disqualified. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).
- 77 'I am inclined to think—' said I.
'I should do so,' Sherlock Holmes remarked, impatiently.
1915 The Valley of Fear, ch.1.
- 78 Mediocrity knows nothing higher than itself, but talent instantly recognises genius.
1915 The Valley of Fear, ch.1.

Doyle, Charles (Mike) 1928–

New Zealand poet, primarily of the city and suburbs. His collections include A Splinter of Glass (1956) and Messages for Herod (1965). He has lived in Canada since 1968.

83 If only to be born were being invented
Merely, or, better still, to concoct oneself
From an antique alembic, a receipt. How splendid
To take the phial cleanly from its shelf;

Powders and liquids, all one's favourite hues
Making the being one would be, the looker at stars
Or storks on the spires of Denmark, drinker of dew,
Or an eye simply.
'Phials', collected in Quadrant, 1964.

Doyle, Roddy 1958–

Irish novelist. His works include the 'Barrytown trilogy'—The Commitments (1987), The Snapper (1990) and The Van (1991)—and the Booker Prize-winning Paddy Clarke Ha Ha Ha (1993).

84 The Irish are the niggers of Europe... An' Dubliners are the niggers of Ireland... An' the northside Dubliners are the niggers o' Dublin—Say it loud. I'm black and I'm proud.

1987 The Commitments.

85 'A song belongs to no man,' said Joey The Lips. 'The Lord holds copyright on all songs.'

'Me arse,' said Outspan.

1987 The Commitments.

86 I said one Hail Mary and four Our Fathers, because I preferred the Our Father to the Hail Mary and it was longer and better.

1993 Paddy Clarke Ha Ha Ha.

Drabble, Margaret 1939–

English novelist, critic and editor. Her novels often deal with the experiences and difficulties of educated young women.

87 Sometimes it seems the only accomplishment my education ever bestowed on me was the ability to think in quotations.

1963 A Summer Birdcage, ch.1.

88 Perhaps the rare and simple pleasure of being seen for what one is compensates for the misery of being it.

1963 A Summer Birdcage, ch.7.

89 What fools middle-class girls are to expect other people to respect the same gods as themselves and E M Forster.

1963 A Summer Birdcage, ch.11.

90 Lord knows what incommunicable small terrors infants go through, unknown to all.

1965 The Millstone.

91 England's not a bad country... It's just a mean, cold, ugly, divided, tired, clapped-out, post-imperial, post-industrial slag-heap covered in polystyrene hamburger cartons.

1989 A Natural Curiosity.

Drake, Sir Francis c.1540–1596

Elizabethan seaman, the first Englishman to circumnavigate the world. In 1585 he sailed on a successful expedition to the Spanish Indies. He commanded the fleet that defended England against the Spanish Armada in 1588.

92 The singeing of the King of Spain's beard.

1587 His description of an expedition to Cadiz, quoted in Francis Bacon Considerations Touching a War with Spain (1629).

93 The advantage of time and place in practical actions is half the victory; which being lost is irrecoverable.

1588 Letter to Elizabeth I, 13 Apr.

94 There is plenty of time to win this game, and to thrash the Spaniards too.

1588 Attributed, while finishing a game of bowls at Plymouth Hoe, 20 Jul, before sailing to meet the Armada. Quoted in the Dictionary of National Biography (1917–), vol.5, p.1342.

Drapeau, Jean 1916–99

a man can have a baby.

1973 Comment at press conference, Montreal, 29 Jan. The games went well over budget.

Drayton, Michael 1563–1631

English poet and dramatist. After his first work The Harmony of the Church (1591) was condemned by the Church, he turned to pastoral and historical themes. Polyolbion (1616–22) is a topographical survey of Britain. Only one play survives, The First Part of Sir John Oldcastle (1600).

96 She wore a frock of frolic green.

1593 Idea, the Shepherd's Garland, 'The Eighth Eclogue'.

97 So in all humours sportively I range;
My muse is rightly of the English strain,
That cannot long one fashion entertain.

1594 Ideas Mirrour, 'To the Reader of These Sonnets'.

98 Dear, why should you command me to my rest,
When now the night doth summon all to sleep?
Methinks this time becometh lovers best;
Night was ordained together friends to keep.

1594 Ideas Mirrour, sonnet 37.

99 When Time shall turn those amber locks to grey,
My verse again shall gild and make them gay.

1597 England's Heroic Epistles, 'Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey, to the Lady Geraldine'.

1 Fair stood the wind for France
When we our sails advance,
Nor now to prove our chance
Longer will tarry.

1606 Poems Lyrick and Pastorall, 'To the Cambro-Britons and Their Harp, His Ballad of Agincourt', describing Henry V's expedition to France, 1415.

2 Upon Saint Crispin's day
Fought was this noble fray,
Which fame did not delay
To England to carry;
Oh, when shall English men
With such acts fill a pen,
Or England breed again
Such a King Harry?

1606 Of the Battle of Agincourt. Poems Lyrick and Pastorall, 'To the Cambro-Britons and Their Harp, His Ballad of Agincourt'.

- 3 But she, good sir,
Did not prefer
You, for that I was ranging;
But for that she Found faith in me
And she loved to be changing.

1606 Poems Lyrick and Pastorall, 'To His Rival'.

- 4 That shire which we the Heart of England well may call.

1612–22 Of Warwickshire. Polyolbion, song 13, l.2.

- 5 Neat Marlowe, bathed in the Thespian springs,
Had in him those brave translunary things
That the first poets had; his raptures were
All air and fire, which made his verses clear,
For that fine madness still he did retain
Which rightly should possess a poet's brain.

1619 'To My Most Dearly Loved Henry Reynolds, Esquire, of Poets and Poesie'.

- 6 Since there's no help, come let us kiss and part;
Nay, I have done, you get no more of me,
And I am glad, yea glad with all my heart
That thus so cleanly I myself can free;
Shake hands forever, cancel all our vows,
And when we meet at any time again,
Be it not seen in either of our brows
That we one jot of former love retain.

1619 Idea, sonnet 61.

- 7 The walls of spiders' legs are made,
Well mortised and finely laid;
He was the master of his trade
It curiously builded;
The windows of the eyes of cats,
And for the roof, instead of slats,
Is covered with the skins of bats,
With moonshine that are gilded.

1627 Nymphidia, the Court of Fairy.

Drennan, William 1754–1820

Irish patriot and poet.

- 8 Nor one feeling of vengeance presumed to defile
The cause, or the men, or the Emerald Isle.

1795 Erin, stanza 3.

- 10 Sincerity is all that counts is a widespread modern heresy. Think again. Bolsheviks are sincere. Fascists are sincere. Lunatics are sincere. People who believe that the earth is flat are sincere. They can't all be right. Better make certain first that you have something to be sincere about, and with.

1937 In the Daily Express.

Drucker, Peter Ferdinand 1909–

Austrian-born US management consultant, Professor of Social Science and Management at Claremont Graduate University, California.

- 11 Entrepreneurship can be learned, but it can't be taught, so schools are not much good.

1988 Interviewed in 'Adam Smith' The Roaring '80s (1988), ch.2.

- 12 If you ever run into an industry that says it needs better people, sell its shares. There are no better people. You have to use ordinary, every-day people and make them capable of doing the work.

1991 In the Los Angeles Times, 17 Sep.

Drummond, Thomas 1797–1840

Scottish engineer and statesman, developer of the Drummond Light (limelight). He was appointed Under-Secretary for Ireland in 1835.

1838 Letter to the Earl of Donoughmore, 22 May.

Dryden, John 1631–1700

English poet, critic and playwright. He was made Poet Laureate in 1668 and his satirical verses such as Absalom and Achitophel (1681) were highly regarded. Among his best plays are Marriage-à-la-Mode (1672) and All for Love (1678); his works were prefaced with critical essays, including the seminal Essay of Dramatic Poesy (1668). He became a Catholic in 1685 and on refusing to swear allegiance to William and Mary was deprived of his laureateship.

- 14 An horrid stillness first invades the ear,
And in that silence we the tempest fear.

1660 Astraea Redux, l.7–8.

- 15 His colours laid so thick on every place,
As only showed the paint, but hid the face.

1660 Epistle 'To my honoured friend Sir Robert Howard', l.75–6.

- 16 I strongly wish for what I faintly hope:
Like the day-dreams of melancholy men,
I think and think on things impossible,
Yet love to wander in that golden maze.

1664 The Rival Ladies, act 3, sc.1.

- 17 And love's the noblest frailty of the mind.

1665 The Indian Emperor, act 2, sc.2.

- 18 Repentance is the virtue of weak minds.

1665 The Indian Emperor, act 3, sc.1.

- 19 For all the happiness mankind can gain
Is not in pleasure, but in rest from pain.

1665 The Indian Emperor, act 4, sc.1.

- 20 By viewing nature, nature's handmaid art,
Makes mighty things from small beginnings grow:
Thus fishes first to shipping did impart,
Their tail the rudder, and their head the prow.

1667 Annus Mirabilis, stanza 155.

- 21 For secrets are edged tools,
And must be kept from children, and from fools.

1667 Sir Martin Mar-All, act 2, sc.2.

- 22 I am resolved to grow fat and look young till forty, and then slip out of the world with the first wrinkle and the reputation of five-and-twenty.
1668 The Maiden Queen, act 3, sc.1.
- 23 Every age has a kind of universal genius, which inclines those that live in it to some particular studies.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 24 A thing well said will be wit in all languages... though it may lose something in the translation.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; 'The Wit of the Ancients: The Universal'.
- 25 Shakespeare... was the man who of all modern, and perhaps ancient poets, had the largest and most comprehensive soul. All images of Nature were still present to him, and he drew them, not laboriously, but luckily; when he describes anything, you more than see it, you feel it too. Those who accuse him to have wanted learning, give him the greater commendation: he was naturally learned; he needed not the spectacles of books to read Nature; he looked inwards, and found her there... He is many times flat, insipid; his comic wit degenerating into clenches, his serious swelling into bombast. But he is always great.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 26 He invades authors like a monarch; and what would be theft in other poets, is only victory in him.
1668 Of Ben Jonson. An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 27 If by the people you understand the multitude, the hoi polloi, 'tis no matter what they think; they are sometimes in the right, sometimes in the wrong: their judgement is a mere lottery.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 28 One cannot say he wanted wit, but rather that he was frugal of it.
1668 Of Ben Jonson. An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 29 You seldom find him making love in any of his scenes or endeavouring to move the passions; his genius was too sullen and saturnine to do it gracefully, especially when he knew he came after those who had performed both to such an height.
1668 Of Ben Jonson. An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 30 If I would compare [Jonson] with Shakespeare, I must acknowledge him the more correct poet, but Shakespeare the greater wit.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 31 Shakespeare was the Homer, or father of our dramatic poets; Jonson was the Virgil, the pattern of elaborate writing; I admire him, but I love Shakespeare.
1668 An Essay of Dramatic Poesy; Shakespeare and Ben Jonson Compared.
- 32 And he, who servilely creeps after sense, Is safe, but ne'er will reach an excellence.
1669 Tyrannic Love, prologue.
- 33 All delays are dangerous in war.
1669 Tyrannic Love, act 1, sc.1.
- 34 Pains of love be sweeter far Than all other pleasures are.
1669 Tyrannic Love, act 4, sc.1.
- 35 I am as free as nature first made man, Ere the base laws of servitude began, When wild in woods the noble savage ran.
1670 The Conquest of Granada, pt.1, act 1, sc.1.
- 36 Forgiveness to the injured does belong; But they ne'er pardon, who have done the wrong.
1670 The Conquest of Granada, pt.2, act 1, sc.2.
- 37 Thou strong seducer, opportunity!
1670 The Conquest of Granada, pt.2, act 4, sc.3.
- 38 I am to be married within these three days; married past redemption.
1672 Marriage-à-la-Mode, act 1, sc.1.
- 39 The very Janus of poets; he wears almost every where two faces; and you have scarce begun to admire the one, ere you despise the other.
1672 Of Shakespeare. Essay on the Dramatic Poetry of the Last Age.
- 40 So poetry, which is in Oxford made An art, in London only is a trade.
1673 'Prologue to the University of Oxon... at the Acting of The Silent Woman'.
- 41 Sure the poet... spewed up a good lump of clotted nonsense at once.
1674 Notes and Observations on the Empress of Morocco, 'The First Act'.
- 42 Death, in itself, is nothing; but we fear, To be we know not what, we know not where.
1675 Aureng-Zebe, act 4, sc.1.
- 43 None would live past years again, Yet all hope pleasure in what yet remain; And, from the dregs of life, think to receive, What the first sprightly running could not give.
1675 Aureng-Zebe, act 4, sc.1.
- 44 They, who would combat general authority with particular opinion, must first establish themselves a reputation of understanding better than other men.
1677 'The Author's Apology for Heroic Poetry and Heroic Licence', an essay prefacing State of Innocence, a libretto based on Paradise Lost.
- 45 Virgil and Horace [were] the severest writers of the severest age.
1677 'The Author's Apology for Heroic Poetry and Heroic Licence', an essay prefacing State of Innocence, a libretto based on Paradise Lost.
- 46 A propriety of thoughts and words; or, in other terms, thought and words elegantly adapted to the subject.
1677 Definition of wit. 'The Author's Apology for Heroic Poetry and Heroic Licence', an essay prefacing State of Innocence, a libretto based on Paradise Lost.
- 47 All human things are subject to decay, And, when fate summons, monarchs must obey.
1678 MacFlecknoe (published 1682), 1.1-2.
- 48 Shadwell alone, of all my sons, is he Who stands confirmed in full stupidity.
1678 Richard Flecknoe selects Shadwell as heir to the kingdom of dullness. MacFlecknoe (published 1682), 1.17-18.
- 49 The rest to some faint meaning make pretence, But Shadwell never deviates into sense. Some beams of wit on other souls may fall,

- Strike through and make a lucid interval;
But Shadwell's genuine night admits no ray,
His rising fogs prevail upon the day.
1678 MacFlecknoe (published 1682), l.19–24.
- 50 Thy genius calls thee not to purchase fame
In keen iambics, but mild anagram:
Leave writing plays, and choose for thy command
Some peaceful province in Acrostic Land.
There thou mayest wings display and altars raise,
And torture one poor word ten thousand ways.
1678 MacFlecknoe (published 1682), l.203–8.
- 51 Errors, like straws, upon the surface flow;
He who would search for pearls must dive below.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, prologue.
- 52 Then he defies the world and bids it pass.
1678 Of Antony. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 1.
- 53 Virtue's his path; but sometimes 'tis too narrow
For his vast soul; and then he starts out wide,
And bounds into a vice.
1678 Of Antony. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 1.
- 54 Sure there's contagion in the tears of friends.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 1.
- 55 My love's a noble madness.
1678 Cleopatra to Iris. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 2, sc.1.
- 56 Give, you gods,
Give to your boy, your Caesar,
The rattle of a globe to play withal,
This gewgaw world, and put him cheaply off:
I'll not be pleased with less than Cleopatra.
1678 Anthony. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 2, sc.1.
- 57 Moderate sorrow
Fits vulgar love, and for a vulgar man:
But I have lov'd with such transcendent passion,
I soar'd, at first, quite out of reason's view,
And now am lost above it.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 2.
- 58 O that faint word, respect! how I disdain it!
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 2.
- 59 My heart's so full of joy,
That I shall do some wild extravagance
Of love in public; and the foolish world,
Which knows not tenderness, will think me mad.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 2.
- 60 We were so clos'd within each other's breasts
The rivets were not found that join'd us first.
That does not reach us yet: we were so mix'd,
As meeting streams, both to ourselves were lost;
We were one mass; we could not give or take,
But from the same; for he was I, I he!
1678 Antony speaking of his friendship with Dollabella. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 3.
- 61 What I have left is from my native spring;
I've still a heart that swells, in scorn of fate,
And lifts me to my banks.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 3.
- 62 The worst your malice can,
Is but to say the greatest of mankind
Has been my slave. The next, but far above him
In my esteem, is he whom law calls yours,
But whom his love made mine.
- 1678 Cleopatra boasts to Octavia of her conquest of Caesar and Antony. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 3.
- 63 Men are but children of a larger growth;
Our appetites as apt to change as theirs,
And full as craving too, and full as vain.
1678 Dollabella. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 4, sc.1.
- 64 Nature meant me
A wife, a silly, harmless, household dove,
Fond without art, and kind without deceit;
But Fortune, that has made a mistress of me,
Has thrust me out to the wide world, unfurnish'd
Of falsehood to be happy.
1678 Cleopatra. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 4.
- 65 Welcome, thou kind deceiver!
Thou best of thieves; who with an easy key,
Dost open life, and, unperceived by us,
Even steal us from ourselves.
1678 Cleopatra speaking of love. All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 5, sc.1.
- 66 My whole life
Has been a golden dream of love and friendship.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 5.
- 67 All the learn'd are cowards by profession.
1678 All for Love, or The World Well Lost, act 5.
- 68 In pious times, ere priestcraft did begin,
Before polygamy was made a sin.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.1–2.
- 69 Then Israel's monarch, after Heaven's own heart,
His vigorous warmth did, variously, impart
To wives and slaves: and, wide as his command,
Scattered his Maker's image through the land.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.7–10. An oblique reference to Charles II, who had no legitimate, but many illegitimate, children.
- 70 Whate'er he did was done with so much ease,
In him alone, 'twas natural to please.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.27–8.
- 71 His motions all accompanied with grace;
And paradise was opened in his face.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.29–30.
- 72 The Jews, a headstrong, moody, murmuring race.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.45.
- 73 But when to sin our biased nature leans,
The careful Devil is still at hand with means;
And providently pimps for ill desires.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.79–81.
- 74 Plots, true or false, are necessary things,
To raise up commonwealths and ruin kings.
1681 Alluding to the alleged Popish plot to murder the King, which brought about the Exclusion crisis. Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.83–4.
- 75 Some truth there was, but dashed and brewed with lies,
To please the fools, and puzzle all the wise.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.114–15.
- 76 Pleased with the danger, when the waves went high
He sought the storms; but for a calm unfit,
Would steer too nigh the sands to boast his wit.
1681 Alluding to Anthony Ashley Cooper, first Earl of Shaftesbury, leader of the Exclusion forces. Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.160–2.

- 77 Great wits are sure to madness near allied,
And thin partitions do their bands divide.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.163–4.
- 78 Why should he, with wealth and honour blest,
Refuse his age the needful hours of rest?
Punish a body which he could not please;
Bankrupt of life, yet prodigal of ease?
And all to leave what with his toil he won
To that unfeathered two-legged thing, a son.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.165–70.
- 79 In friendship false, implacable in hate:
Resolved to ruin or to rule the state.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.173–4.
- 80 He stood at bold defiance with his prince;
Held up the buckler of the people's cause
Against the crown, and skulked behind the laws.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.205–7.
- 81 Politicians neither love nor hate.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.223.
- 82 The people's prayer, the glad diviner's theme,
The young men's vision and the old men's dream!
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.238–9.
► See Bible 106:5.
- 83 What cannot praise effect in mighty minds,
When flattery soothes, and when ambition blinds!
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.303–4.
- 84 Desire of power, on earth a vicious weed,
Yet, sprung from high, is of celestial seed:
In God 'tis glory; and when men aspire,
'Tis but a spark too much of heavenly fire.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.305–9.
- 85 All empire is no more than power in trust.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.411.
- 86 Better one suffer, than a nation grieve.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.416.
- 87 But far more numerous was the herd of such
Who think too little and who talk too much.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.533–4.
- 88 A man so various that he seemed to be
Not one, but all mankind's epitome.
Stiff in opinions, always in the wrong;
Was everything by starts, and nothing long:
But, in the course of one revolving moon,
Was chemist, fiddler, statesman, and buffoon.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.545–60.
- 89 In squandering wealth was his peculiar art:
Nothing went unrewarded, but desert.
Beggared by fools, whom still he found too late:
He had his jest, and they had his estate.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.559–62.
- 90 Youth, beauty, graceful action seldom fail:
But common interest always will prevail:
And pity never ceases to be shown
To him, who makes the people's wrongs his own.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.723–6.
- 91 For who can be secure of private right,
If sovereign sway may be dissolved by might?
Nor is the people's judgement always true:
The most may err as grossly as the few.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.779–82.
- 92 Government itself at length must fall
To nature's state, where all have right to all.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.793–4.
- 93 The court he practised, not the courtier's art:
Large was his wealth, but larger was his heart.
1681 Of the loyalist James Butler, Duke of Ormond. Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.825–6.
- 94 Swift was the race, but short the time to run.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.837.
- 95 Never was patriot yet, but was a fool.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.968.
- 96 From plots and treasons Heaven preserve my years,
But save me most from my petitioners.
Unsatiated as the barren womb or grave;
God cannot grant so much as they can crave.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.985–8.
- 97 Beware the fury of a patient man.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.1005.
- 98 For lawful power is still superior found,
When long driven back, at length it stands the ground.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.1, l.1024–5.
- 99 Doeg, though without knowing how or why,
Made still a blund'ring kind of melody;
Spurred boldly on, and dashed through thick and thin,
Through sense and nonsense, never out nor in;
Free from all meaning, whether good or bad,
And in one word, heroically mad.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.2, l.1412–17.
- 1 Rhyme is the rock on which thou art to wreck.
1681 Absalom and Achitophel, pt.2, l.1486.
- 2 But 'tis the talent of our English nation,
Still to be plotting some new reformation.
1681 Sophonisba (2nd edn).
- 3 There is a pleasure sure,
In being mad, that none but madmen know!
1681 The Spanish Friar, act 1, sc.1.
- 4 And, dying, bless the hand that gave the blow.
1681 The Spanish Friar, act 2, sc.2.
- 5 We loathe our manna, and we long for quails.
1682 The Medal, l.131.
- 6 But treason is not owned when 'tis descried;
Successful crimes alone are justified.
1682 The Medal, l.207–8.
- 7 And this unpolished rugged verse I chose
As fittest for discourse and nearest prose.
1682 Religio Laici, l.453–4.
- 8 Farewell, too little, and too lately known,
Whom I began to think and call my own.
1684 'To the Memory of Mr Oldham'. John Oldham was the author of Satires upon the Jesuits (1681).
- 9 Bold knaves thrive without one grain of sense,
But good men starve for want of impudence.
1684 Constantine the Great, epilogue.
- 10 Mute and magnificent, without a tear.
1685 Threnodia Augustalis, stanza 2.
- 11 Freedom which in no other land will thrive,
Freedom an English subject's sole prerogative.
1685 Threnodia Augustalis, stanza 10.
- 12 Her pencil drew whate'er her soul designed,

- And oft the happy draft surpassed the image in her mind.
1686 'To the Pious Memory of the Accomplished Young Lady Mrs Anne Killigrew'.
- 13 O double sacrilege on things divine,
 To rob the relic, and deface the shrine!
1686 'To the Pious Memory of the Accomplished Young Lady Mrs Anne Killigrew'. Killigrew had died of smallpox.
- 14 And doomed to death, though fated not to die.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.1, l.8.
- 15 For truth has such a face and such a mien
 As to be loved needs only to be seen.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.1, l.33–4.
- 16 My thoughtless youth was winged with vain desires,
 My manhood, long misled by wandering fires,
 Followed false lights; and when their glimpse was gone
 My pride struck out new sparkles of her own...
 Good life be now my task: my doubts are done;
 (What more could fright my faith than Three in One?)
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.1, l.71–6.
- 17 Reason to rule, but mercy to forgive:
 The first is law, the last prerogative.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.1, l.261–2.
- 18 Either be wholly slaves or wholly free.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.2, l.285.
- 19 Much malice mingled with a little wit
 Perhaps may censure this mysterious writ.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.3, l.1–2.
- 20 For present joys are more to flesh and blood
 Than a dull prospect of a distant good.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.3, l.364–5.
- 21 By education most have been misled;
 So they believe, because they so were bred.
 The priest continues what the nurse began,
 And thus the child imposes on the man.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.3, l.389–92.
- 22 T'abhor the makers, and their laws approve,
 Is to hate traitors and the treason love.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.3, l.706–7.
- 23 For those whom God to ruin has designed,
 He fits for fate, and first destroys their mind.
1687 The Hind and the Panther, pt.3, l.1093–4.
- 24 Three poets, in three distant ages born,
 Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.
 The first in loftiness of thought surpassed,
 The next in majesty, in both the last:
 The force of Nature could no farther go;
 To make a third, she joined the former two.
1688 'Epigram on Milton', engraved on the frontispiece to the 1688 edition of Paradise Lost. The three poets are Homer, Virgil and Milton.
- 25 That fairy kind of writing which depends only upon the force of imagination.
1691 King Arthur, dedication.
- 26 War is the trade of kings.
1691 King Arthur, act 2, sc.2.
- 27 Fairest Isle, all isles excelling,
 Seat of pleasures, and of loves;
 Venus here will choose her dwelling,
 And forsake her Cyprian groves.
1691 King Arthur, act 5, 'Song of Venus'.
- 28 Music, Music for a while
 Shall all your cares beguile.
1692 Oedipus (with Nathaniel Lee).
- 29 How easy it is to call rogue and villain, and that wittily!
 But how hard to make a man appear a fool, a blockhead,
 or a knave, without using any of those opprobrious terms! To spare the grossness of the names, and to do the thing yet more severely, is to draw a full face, and to make the nose and cheeks stand out, and yet not to employ any depth of shadowing.
1693 A Discourse Concerning the Original and Progress of Satire,
 'The Art of Satire'.
- 30 A man may be capable, as Jack Ketch's wife said of his servant, of a plain piece of work, a bare hanging; but to make a malefactor die sweetly was only belonging to her husband.
1693 A Discourse Concerning the Original and Progress of Satire,
 'The Art of Satire'.
- 31 Ovid, the soft philosopher of love.
1694 Love Triumphant, act 2, sc.1.
- 32 Thou tyrant, tyrant Jealousy,
 Thou tyrant of the mind!
1694 Love Triumphant, act 3, sc.1, 'Song of Jealousy'.
- 33 Happy, happy, happy, pair!
 None but the brave,
 None but the brave,
 None but the brave deserves the fair.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.4–7.
- 34 With ravished ears
 The monarch hears,
 Assumes the god,
 Affects to nod,
 And seems to shake the spheres.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.42–6.
- 35 Drinking is the soldier's pleasure;
 Rich the treasure;
 Sweet the pleasure;
 Sweet is pleasure after pain.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.57–60.
- 36 Fallen from his high estate,
 And welt'ring in his blood:
 Deserted at his utmost need
 By those his former bounty fed;
 On the bare earth expos'd he lies,
 With not a friend to close his eyes.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.78–83.
- 37 Revolving in his altered soul
 The various turns of chance below.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.85–6.
- 38 War, he sung, is toil and trouble;
 Honour but an empty bubble.
 Never ending, still beginning,
 Fighting still, and still destroying,
 If the world be worth thy winning,
 Think, oh think, it worth enjoying.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.97–102.
- 39 Sighed and looked, and sighed again.
1697 Alexander's Feast, l.120.
- 40 Let old Timotheus yield the prize,
 Or both divide the crown:
 He raised a mortal to the skies;

- She drew an angel down.
1697 Of 'Divine Cecilia'. Alexander's Feast, 1.177–80.
- 41 We must beat the iron while it is hot, but we may polish it at leisure.
1697 Aeneis (his translation of Virgil's Aeneid), dedication.
- 42 Arms, and the man I sing, who, forced by fate,
 And haughty Juno's unrelenting hate,
 Expelled and exiled, left the Trojan shore.
1697 Aeneis (his translation of Virgil's Aeneid), bk.1, 1.1–3.
- 43 What judgement I had increases rather than diminishes; and thoughts, such as they are, come crowding in so fast upon me, that my only difficulty is to choose or reject; to run them into verse or give them the other harmony of prose.
1700 Fables Ancient and Modern, preface.
- 44 We can only say that he lived in the infancy of our poetry, and that nothing is brought to perfection at the first.
1700 Fables Ancient and Modern, preface, 'In Praise of Chaucer'.
- 45 [Chaucer] must have been a man of a most wonderful comprehensive nature, because, as it has been truly observed of him, he has taken into the compass of his Canterbury Tales the various manners and humours of the whole English nation in his age.
1700 Fables Ancient and Modern, preface, 'In Praise of Chaucer'.
- 46 A perpetual fountain of good sense.
1700 Of Chaucer. Fables Ancient and Modern, preface.
- 47 'Tis sufficient to say, according to the proverb, that here is God's plenty.
1700 Of the Canterbury Tales. Fables Ancient and Modern, preface, 'In Praise of Chaucer'.
- 48 One of our great poets is sunk in his reputation, because he could never forgive any conceit which came in his way; but swept like a drag-net, great and small. There was plenty enough, but the dishes were ill-sorted; whole pyramids of sweetmeats, for boys and women; but little of solid meat for men.
1700 Of Abraham Cowley. Fables Ancient and Modern, preface.
- 49 Refined himself to soul, to curb the sense
 And made almost a sin of abstinence.
1700 'The Character of a Good Parson', 1.10–11.
- 50 He trudged along unknowing what he sought,
 And whistled as he went, for want of thought.
1700 Cymon and Iphigenia, 1.84–5.
- 51 She hugged the offender, and forgave the offence.
1700 Cymon and Iphigenia, 1.367.
- 52 Of seeming arms to make a short essay,
 Then hasten to be drunk, the business of the day.
1700 Cymon and Iphigenia, 1.407–8.
- 53 Better to hunt in fields, for health unbought,
 Than fee the doctor for a nauseous draught.
 The wise, for cure, on exercise depend;
 God never made his work, for man to mend.
1700 Epistle, 'To my honoured kinsman John Driden', 1.92–5.
- 54 Even victors are by victories undone.
1700 Epistle, 'To my honoured kinsman John Driden', 1.164.
- 55 But love's a malady without a cure.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.2, 1.110.
- 56 Fool, not to know that love endures no tie,
 And Jove but laughs at lovers' perjury.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.2, 1.148–9.
- 57 And Antony, who lost the world for love.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.2, 1.607.
- 58 Repentance is but want of power to sin.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.3, 1.813.
- 59 Since every man who lives is born to die,
 And none can boast sincere felicity,
 With equal mind, what happens, let us bear,
 Nor joy nor grieve too much for things beyond our care.
 Like pilgrims to th'appointed place we tend;
 The world's an inn, and death the journey's end.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.3, 1.883–8.
- 60 A virgin-widow, and a mourning bride.
1700 Palamon and Arcite, bk.3, 1.927.
- 61 A very merry, dancing, drinking,
 Laughing, quaffing, and unthinking time.
1700 The Secular Masque, 1.39–40.
- 62 Joy ruled the day, and Love the night.
1700 The Secular Masque, 1.81.
- 63 All, all of a piece throughout;
 Thy chase had a beast in view;
 Thy wars brought nothing about;
 Thy lovers were all untrue.
 'Tis well an old age is out,
 And time to begin a new.
1700 The Secular Masque, 1.92–7.

Dubin, Al 1891–1945

Swiss-born US lyricist.

- 64 Come and meet those dancing feet
 On the avenue I'm taking you to Forty-Second Street.
1932 From the title song, Forty-Second Street. Music by Harry Warren.
- 65 You're Getting to be a Habit with Me.
1932 Title of song in Forty-Second Street. Music by Harry Warren.

 We've got a lot of what it takes to get along.
1933 From the song 'We're in the Money' featured in Gold Diggers of 1933. Music by Harry Warren.
- 67 I Only Have Eyes For You.
1934 Title of song from the film Dames. Music by Harry Warren.
- 68 You may not be an angel
 Cause angels are so few
 But until the day that one comes along
 I'll string along with you.
1934 From the song 'I'll String Along With You' in *Twenty Million
 Sweethearts*. Music by Harry Warren.
- 69 Come on along and listen to
 The Lullaby of Broadway
 The hip hooray and bally hoo
 The Lullaby of Broadway.
1935 From the song 'Lullaby of Broadway' in Gold Diggers of 1935. Music by Harry Warren.

Du Bois, W(illiam) E(dward) B(urghardt) 1868–1963

US writer. He became a leading figure in and spokesman for the black community, and wrote a number of pioneering books on black life and social reform.

- 70 The problem of the twentieth century is the problem of the colour line.

- 1900 Address to the Pan-African Conference, London.
- 71 To be a poor man is hard, but to be a poor race in a land of dollars is the very bottom of hardships.
1903 The Souls of Black Folk, ch.1.
- 72 Herein lies the tragedy of the age: not that men are poor...not that men are wicked...but that men know so little of men.
1903 The Souls of Black Folk, ch.12.
- 73 If there is anybody in this land who thoroughly believes that the meek shall inherit the earth they have not often let their presence be known.
1924 The Gift of Black Folk, ch.9.
- 74 One thing alone I charge you. As you live, believe in life! Always human beings will live and progress to a greater, broader and fuller life. The only possible death is to lose belief in this truth simply because the great end comes slowly, because time is long.
1957 Written 26 Jun, and read as an oration at his funeral.
- 75 Today I see more clearly than yesterday that back of the problem of race and color, lies a greater problem which both obscures and implements it: and that is the fact that so many civilized persons are willing to live in comfort even if the price of this is poverty, ignorance and disease of the majority of their fellowmen; that to maintain this privilege men have waged war until today war tends to become universal and continuous, and the excuse for this war continues largely to be color and race.
Preface to reprint of The Souls of Black Folk (1969).

Du Bos, Jean-Baptiste 1670–1742

French critic, whose work influenced aesthetic theory.

- 76 Les larmes d'un inconnu nous émeuvent même avant que nous sachions le sujet qui le fait pleurer.
The tears of someone we do not know move us even before we know the reason why he weeps.
1719 Réflexions critiques sur la poésie et la peinture.
- 77 Le sentiment enseigne bien mieux si l'ouvrage touche que toutes les dissertations composées par les critiques.
Feeling teaches much more than all the writing of critics if the work touches us.
1719 Réflexions critiques sur la poésie et la peinture.

Dudek, Louis 1918–2001

Canadian poet, critic, teacher and aphorist, whose works attempt to liberate Canadian poetry from its British influences. His early lyric poetry was followed by longer poems such as En México (1958).

- 78 Aphorisms give you more for your time and money than any other literary form. Only the poem comes near to it, but then most good poems either start off from an aphorism or arrive at one... Aphorisms and epigrams are the corner-stones of literary art.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 79 Fame is based on what people say about you, reputation on what they think of you.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 80 If there is a heaven it's no doubt already filled—with horses, chickens, lambs, and other poor creatures. People will simply not get in.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).

- 81 All the ills of mankind spring from belonging to a race, a nation, a city, a group of some kind. The ideal would be to belong to none, and to care for all—but who is capable of that?
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 82 Intellectually, most people never wash. They never free their minds of the accumulated rubbish of centuries.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 83 Imagination should be integrated with life, not turned into a separate activity, art, that monopolizes one's whole existence.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 84 Hatred is generalized, but love is for the particular.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).
- 85 The twentieth century had a wonderful capacity for seeing nothing as the sum of everything.
Collected in Notebooks 1960–1994 (1994).

Duell, Charles H

- 86 Everything that can be invented has been invented.
1899 Letter to President William McKinley, suggesting that an Office of Patents was no longer necessary.

Duesenberry, James Stemble 1918–

US economist, Emeritus Professor at Harvard.

- 87 Economics is all about how people make choices. Sociology is all about why they don't have any choices to make.
1960 In the National Bureau of Economic Research's Demographic and Economic Change in the Developed World.

Duffield, George 1818–88

US Presbyterian minister and hymnwriter.

- 88 Stand Up! Stand Up For Jesus!
1858 The Psalmist, title of hymn. Duffield's inspiration for the hymn came from the dying words of the evangelist Dudley Atkins Tyng to him: 'Tell them to stand up for Jesus.'

Dugommier, General Jean François Coquille 1736–94

General of the French Republic.

- 89 Récompensez, avancez ce jeune homme; car, si l'on était ingrat envers lui, il s'avancerait de lui-même.
Reward that young man, promote him; for if his services are not recognised, he will promote himself.
1794 Comment to the Minister for War, speaking of the 24-year-old Napoleon Bonaparte, after the siege of Toulon. Quoted in John Julius Norwich Venice (1981).

Dulles, John Foster 1888–1959

US Republican politician, Secretary of State from 1953 until his resignation just a week before his death. His vigorous diplomacy led to many personal conferences with statesmen in other countries.

- 90 You have to take chances for peace, just as you must take chances in war... The ability to get to the verge without getting into the war is the necessary art. If you try to run away from it, if you are scared to go to the brink, you are lost.
1956 Quoted in 'How Dulles Averted War', in Life magazine,

16 Jan. His biographer Peter Grose in Gentleman Spy (1994) claims Dulles 'never actually used the word 'brinkmanship', but the label stuck to him as the legacy of a diplomatic strategy that was reckless for the nuclear age'.

- 91 The Soviets sought not a place in the sun, but the sun itself. Their objective was the world. They would not tolerate compromise on goals, only on tactics.
Comment to his brother Allen. Quoted in Peter Grose Gentleman Spy (1994).

Dumas, Alexandre, père 1802–70

French novelist and playwright. He began writing plays, but turned to travelogues and historical novels, including Le Comte de Monte Cristo (The Count of Monte Cristo, 1844–5).

- 92 Tous pour un, un pour tous.
All for one, one for all.

- 93 Cherchons la femme.
Let us look for the woman.
1854–5 Les Mohicans de Paris.

Dumas, Alexandre, fils 1824–95

French writer, illegitimate son of Dumas père. In addition to his novel La Dame aux camélias (1848), he produced many brilliant dramas, essays, letters and speeches, and may have aided George Sand with her work for the stage.

- 94 The demi-monde does not represent the crowd of courtesans, but the class of declassed women... It is divided from that of honest women by public scandal, and divided from that of the courtesans by money.
1855 On the first performance of his play La Dame aux camélias, 20 Mar, the first recorded use of the phrase. Quoted in Joanna Richardson The Courtesans (1967), p.227.
- 95 All generalizations are dangerous, even this one.
Attributed.

du Maurier, Dame Daphne 1907–89

English novelist and short-story writer.

- 96 Last night I dreamt I went to Manderley again.
1938 Rebecca, opening words.
- 97 Every book is like a purge; at the end of it one is empty... like a dry shell on the beach, waiting for the tide to come in again.
1956 In the Ladies Home Journal, Nov.

Dunbar, Paul Laurence 1872–1906

US poet, the son of escaped slaves. He wrote several volumes of poetry in dialect, including Lyrics of Lowly Life (1896).

- 98 We wear the mask that grins and lies,
It hides our cheeks and shades our eyes.
1895 'We Wear the Mask', stanza 1.
- 99 I know why the caged bird sings!
1895 'Sympathy', stanza 3. This was used by Maya Angelou as the title of her autobiography in 1970.

Dunbar, William c.1460–c.1520

Scottish poet, thought to have graduated from St Andrew's University in 1479. He was a courtier of James IV, and wrote many short poems, remarkable for their range of style and subject.

- 1 He that may be but sturt or stryfe,

And leif ane lusty plesand lyfe,

And bindis him with ane wicket wyfe,
He wirkis sorrow to him sell.

early 16c 'Ane His Awyn Enemy', l.6–10.

- 2 Now of wemen this I say for me,
Off ertly thingis nane may bettir be;
Thay suld haif wirschep and great honoring
Off men, aboif all uthir ertly thing.
early 16c 'In Prais of Wemen', l.1–4.

- 3 Be riche in patience, gif thow in gudis be pure;
Quho levis mirry, he levis nichtely:
Without glaidnes availis no tressour.
early 16c 'No Tressour Availis without Glaidnes', l.22–4.

- 4 Be courtly ay in clething and costly arrayit,
That hurtis yow nought worth a hen; yowr husband pays for all.
early 16c The Tua Mariit Wemen and the Wedo, l.268–9.

- 5 London, thou art of townes A per se.
Soveraign of cities, someliest in sight,
Of high renoun, riches, and royaltie;
Of lordis, barons, and many goodly knyght;
Of most delectable lusty ladies bright;
Of famous prelatris in habitis clerical;
Of merchauntis full of sybstaunce and myght;
London, thou art the flour of Cities all.
c.1501 'To the City of London', attributed to 'A Rhymer of Scotland'. Dunbar was a member of the Scots party negotiating the marriage of James I V to Margaret Tudor, and is popularly credited with the verse.

- 6 I that in heill wes and gladnes
Am trublit now with gret seiknes
And feblit with infermite:
Timor mortis conturbat me.
c.1505 'Lament for the Makaris', stanza 1. The Latin is from the Office for the Dead: 'The fear of death disturbs me'.

- 7 Sen for the deid remeid is none,
Best is that we for dede dispone
Eftir our deid that lif may we:
Timor mortis conturbat me.
c.1505 'Lament for the Makaris', stanza 25.

- 8 In to thir dirk and drublie dayis,
Quhone sabill all the hevin arrayis
With mystie vapouris, cluddis and skyis,
Nature all curage me denyis
Off sangis, ballattis, and of playis.
'Meditatioun in Wytir', stanza 1.

Duncan, Isadora originally Angela Duncan 1878–1927

US dancer. She was hailed as one of the most innovative dancers of her day, espousing a free-flowing interpretative style of dance that was quite distinct from conventional ballet.

unedifying hyperbole.
1992 'Language and Liberty', introduction to the Faber Book of Twentieth Century Scottish Poetry.
- 21 What I tell my students is there are three places where poems must happen and a poem must happen in these three places simultaneously for it to be a good poem. It happens between the ears, that's intelligence; behind the left nipple, heart and feeling; between the tongue and teeth, the noise it makes.
1999 Interview in The Dark Horse, Autumn.

Dunne, Finley Peter 1867–1936

- 27 There is nothing in Socialism that a little age or a little money will not cure.
Attributed.

Dürer, Albrecht 1471–1528

German painter and engraver. He travelled widely (1490–4) and in 1498 published his first major series of woodcuts, illustrations of the Apocalypse. He was employed by Emperor Maximilian I and later Charles V.

- 28 The art of painting cannot be truly judged save by such as are themselves good painters; from others verily it is hidden even as a strange tongue.
c.1512 Quoted in William Martin Conway Literary Remains of Albrecht Dürer (1889).
- 29 He that would be a painter must have a natural turn thereto. Love and delight are better teachers of the Art of Painting than compulsion is.
c.1512 On Painting. Quoted in William Martin Conway Literary Remains of Albrecht Dürer (1889).

Durkheim, Émile 1858–1917

French sociologist, appointed to the first chair of sociology in France in 1913.

- 30 The economic services that it can render are picayune compared to the moral effect that it produces, and its true function is to create in two or more persons a feeling of solidarity.

31 The division of labor does not present individuals to one another, but social functions.

1893 The Division of Labor in Society (translated by George Simpson, 1933).

32 Our excessive tolerance of suicide is due to the fact that, since the state of mind from which it springs is a general one, we cannot condemn it without condemning ourselves; we are too saturated with it not partly to excuse it.

1897 Suicide: a Study in Sociology (translated by John A Spaulding and George Simpson, 1952).

33 All known religious beliefs, whether simple or complex, present one common characteristic: they presuppose a classification of all things, real and ideal, of which men think, into two classes or opposed groups, generally designated...profane and sacred.

1912 The Elementary Forms of the Religious Life (translated by Joseph Ward Swain, 1965).

34 If the idea of society were extinguished in individual minds and the beliefs, traditions and aspirations of the group were no longer felt and shared by individuals, society would die. We can say of it what we just said of divinity: it is real only in so far as it has a place in the human consciousness, and this place is whatever we may give it.

1912 The Elementary Forms of the Religious Life (translated by Joseph Ward Swain, 1965).

Durocher, Leo 1906–91

US baseball manager, noted for his toughness.

35 Nice guys finish last.

1946 When asked if he regretted beating the New York Giants, who had been described as a 'nice bunch of guys'. He later used this as a book title, 1975.

Letter to Sibelius.

Dworkin, Andrea 1946–

US radical feminist, civil-rights activist and writer, whose work examines the relationship between male power and pornography. In 1983 she made an unsuccessful attempt to define pornography as sexual discrimination under law.

46 A man wants what a woman has—sex. He can steal it (rape), persuade her to give it away (seduction), rent it (prostitution), lease it over the long term (marriage in the United States), or own it outright (marriage in most societies).

1976 In Ms, vol.5, no.6, Dec. Collected as 'Phallic Imperialism: why economic recovery will not work for us' in Letters from a War Zone (1988).

47 The power of money is a distinctly male power. Money speaks, but it speaks with a male voice. In the hands of women, money stays literal, count it out, it buys what it is worth or less. In the hands of men, money buys women, sex, status, dignity, esteem, recognition, loyalty, all manner of possibility.

1981 Pornography: Men Possessing Women.

48 One of the differences between marriage and prostitution is that in marriage you only have to make a deal with one man.

Dyer, Sir Edward c.1545–1607

English poet, diplomat and courtier, a friend of Sir Philip Sidney. Only a few of his poems survive.

50 My mind to me a kingdom is;
Such perfect joy therein I find

That it excels all other bliss
That world affords or grows by kind.
Though much I want which most men have,
Yet still my mind forbids to crave.
1588 'In Praise of a Contented Mind'.

- 51 No princely pomp, no wealthy store,
No force to win the victory,
No wily wit to salve a sore,
No shape to feed each gazing eye;
To none of these I yield as thrall.
For why my mind doth serve for all.
1588 'In Praise of a Contented Mind'.

- 52 Some weigh their pleasure by their lust,
Their wisdom by their rage of will,
Their treasure is their only trust;
And cloakèd craft their store of skill.
But all the pleasure that I find
Is to maintain a quiet mind.
1588 'In Praise of a Contented Mind'.

- 53 My wealth is health and perfect ease;
My conscience clear my chief defence;
I neither seek by bribes to please,
Nor by deceit to breed offence.
Thus do I live; thus will I die.
Would all did so well as I!
1588 'In Praise of a Contented Mind'.

Dylan, Bob pseudonym of Robert Allen Zimmerman 1941–

US singer and song-writer. His early acoustic, folk-influenced songs such as 'Blowin' in the Wind' were succeeded in 1965 by rock 'n' roll, with 'Mr Tambourine Man' and 'Like a Rolling Stone'.

- 54 How many roads must a man walk down
Before you can call him a man?...
The answer, my friend, is blowin' in the wind,
The answer is blowin' in the wind.
1962 'Blowin' in the Wind'.
- 55 But I can't think for you,
You'll have to decide,
Whether Judas Iscariot
Had God on his side.
1963 'With God on Our Side'.
- 56 Ah, but I was so much older then,
I'm younger than that now.
1964 'My Back Pages'.

- 60 Hey! Mr Tambourine Man, play a song for me.
I'm not sleepy and there is no place I'm going to.
1965 'Mr Tambourine Man'.
- 61 Folk music is a bunch of fat people.
Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth Century Music (1994).

Dyson, Freeman J(ohn) 1923–

English-born US theoretical physicist, a nuclear weapons designer who has subsequently undertaken major work in arms control and disarmament. His works include Weapons and Hope (1984) and The Sun, the Genome, and the Internet (1999).

- 62 For insight into human affairs I turn to stories and poems rather than to sociology. This is the result of my upbringing and background. I am not able to make use of the wisdom of the sociologists because I do not speak their language.
1979 Disturbing the Universe, ch.1.
- 63 Science and technology, like all original creations of the human spirit, are unpredictable. If we had a reliable way to label our toys good and bad, it would be easy to regulate technology wisely. But we can rarely see far enough ahead to know which road leads to damnation. Whoever concerns himself with big technology, either to push it forward or to stop it, is gambling in human lives.
1979 Disturbing the Universe, ch.1.

Dyson, Will(iam Henry) 1880–1938

Australian-born radical cartoonist of the London Daily Herald.

- 64 Curious! I seem to hear a child weeping.

Eagleton, Terry 1943–

English literary critic and Professor of Cultural Theory in the Department of English and American Studies at the University of Manchester.

- 65 Homosexuality was the badge of the upper class and the sign of a revolt against it; and it is small wonder that someone locked for a lifetime in this impossible contradiction should end up with cirrhosis of the liver.
1993 Review of Sean French's Patrick Hamilton: a Life (1993). In the London Review of Books, 2 Dec.
- 66 If there are indeed any iron laws of history, one of them is surely that in any major crisis of the capitalist system, a sector of the liberal middle class will shift to the left, and then shift smartly back again once the crisis has blown over.
1993 In the London Review of Books, 2 Dec.

Earhart, Amelia 1897–1937

US aviator. In 1932 she was the first woman to fly solo across the Atlantic and in 1935 she was the first person to fly alone from Hawaii to California.

- 67 Of course I realized there was a measure of danger. Obviously I faced the possibility of not returning when first I considered going. Once faced and settled there really wasn't any good reason to refer to it.
1928 20 Hours: 40 Minutes—Our Flight in the Friendship, ch.5.

Eastwood, Clint 1930–

US actor and director. He achieved fame initially for his roles in westerns, but more recently has directed several well-respected films, including Unforgiven (1992) and Mystic River (2003).

Eberhart, Richard Ghormley 1904–

US poet and academic.

72 If I could only live at the pitch that is near madness

When everything is as it was in my childhood

Violent, vivid and of infinite possibility.

1947 'If I Could Only Live at the Pitch That Is Near Madness'.

73 You would think the fury of aerial bombardment

Would rouse God to relent; the infinite spaces

Are still silent. He looks on shock-pried faces.

History, even, does not know what is meant.

1951 'The Fury of Aerial Bombardment'.

74 Was man made stupid to see his own stupidity?

Is God by definition indifferent, beyond us all?

Is the eternal truth man's fighting soul

Wherein the Beast ravens in its own avidity?

1951 'The Fury of Aerial Bombardment'.

English astronomer and physicist, Professor of Astronomy (from 1913) and Director of the Observatory (from 1914) at Cambridge University.

83 Let us draw an arrow arbitrarily. If as we follow the arrow we find more and more of the random element in the world, then the arrow is pointing towards the future; if the random element decreases the arrow points towards the past... I shall use the phrase 'time's arrow' to express this one-way property of time which has no analogue in space.

1928 The Nature of the Physical World, ch.4. Martin Amis used the phrase 'Time's Arrow' for the title of his 1991 novel.

84 I ask you to look both ways. For the road to a knowledge of the stars leads through the atom; and important knowledge of the atom has been reached through the stars.

1928 Stars and Atoms, lecture 1.

85 I think it is something of the same sort of security we should seek in our relationship with God. The most flawless proof of the existence of God is no substitute for it; and if we have that relationship, the most convincing disproof is turned aimlessly aside. If I may say it with reverence, the soul and God laugh together over so odd a conclusion.

Eden, Sir (Robert) Anthony, 1st Earl of Avon

1897–1977

Anglo-Irish politician and Conservative Prime Minister (1955–7). He ordered British forces to occupy the Suez Canal Zone (1956), an action which caused widespread condemnation.

89 Everybody is always in favour of general economy and particular expenditure.

1956 In the Observer, 17 Jun.

90 We best avoid wars by taking even physical action to stop small ones. Everybody knows that the United Nations is not in a position to do that... We must face the fact that the United Nations is not yet the internal equivalent of our own legal system and rule of law. Police action must be to separate the belligerents and to prevent a resumption of hostilities.

1804 The Contrast, ch.1.

1 What a misfortune it is to be born a woman!... Why seek for knowledge, which can prove only that our wretchedness is irremediable? If a ray of light break in upon us, it is but to make darkness more visible; to show us the new limits, the Gothic structure, the impenetrable barriers of our prison.

1806 Leonora, letter 1.

2 There need, at all events, be none of this, if people would but live upon their own estates, and kill their own mutton.

1812 Sir Terence O'Fay. The Absentee, ch.5.

3 Those enemies to Ireland—those cruel absentees!

1812 Count O'Halloran. The Absentee, ch.8.

4 Deeds, not words.

1812 Sir James Brooke's motto. The Absentee, ch.9.

5 Let me not, even in my own mind, commit the injustice of taking a speck for the whole.

O'er the world's tempestuous sea.

1821 Sacred Lyrics, Set 2, 'Lead us, Heavenly Father'.

Edward II 1284–1327

King of England (from 1307). His invasion of Scotland resulted in defeat by Robert the Bruce at Bannockburn (1314). He was eventually murdered.

15 Forasmuch as there is great noise in the city caused by hustling over large balls, from which many evils may arise, which God forbid, we command and forbid on behalf of the King, on pain of imprisonment, such game to be used in the city in future.

1314 Royal proclamation, banning football from the streets of London.

Edward III 1312–77

King of England (from 1327). He started hostilities against France in 1337 and assumed the title of King of France in 1340. Victories at Crecy (1346) and Poitiers (1356) led to a large concession of territory by the French. He also invaded Scotland.

16 Also say to them, that they suffre hym this day to wynne his spurres, for if god be pleased, I well this journey be his, and the honoure thereof.

Edward VII 1841–1910

King of the UK (from 1901), son of Queen Victoria. In 1863 he married Alexandra of Denmark. His scandalous behaviour as Prince of Wales led to his exclusion from affairs of state, but as King he made several visits to improve international relations.

18 Because a man has a black face and a different religion from ours, there is no reason why he should be treated as a brute.

1875 Letter from India to Lord Granville, 30 Nov.

Edward VIII 1894–1972

King of the UK (1936). He succeeded his father George V in 1936, but abdicated (11 Dec) because of his proposed marriage to divorcee Mrs Wallis Simpson. As Duke of Windsor, he lived in Paris except during his governorship of the Bahamas (1940–5).

19 These works brought all these people here. Something should be done to get them at work again.

1936 Comment while viewing the derelict Dowlais Iron and Steel Works, 18 Nov. It is often rendered 'Something must be done'.

20 I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility, and to discharge my duties as King as I would wish, without the help and support of the woman I love.

1936 Radio broadcast to the nation, 11 Dec, following his abdication to marry Wallis Simpson.

English sporting writer. A London journalist, he wrote Boxiana: or Sketches of Ancient and Modern Pugilism (1812–13), and is best remembered for Life in London (1821), a description of the life of a 'man about town'.

- 24 Here lies, bowl'd out by Death's unerring ball,
A cricketer renowned, by name John Small;
But though his name was small, yet great was his fame,
For nobly did he play the 'noble game'.
His life was like his innings—long and good;
Full ninety summers had Death withstood,
At length the ninetieth winter came—when (Fate
Not leaving him one solitary mate)
This last of Hambledonians, old John Small,
Gave up his bat and ball—his leather, wax and all.

Ehrlichman, John 1925–99

US government official, Special Counsel to the Nixon White House, implicated in the Watergate scandal.

- 27 He's the Big Enchilada.
1973 On the possibility of pinning the blame for Watergate on Attorney General John Mitchell. Taped conversation, 27 Mar.
- 28 I think we ought to let him hang there. Let him twist slowly, slowly in the wind.
1973 Of Patrick Gray, regarding his nomination as Director of the FBI. Taped conversation with John Dean, reported in the Washington Post, 27 Jul.

Eichelbaum, Samuel 1894–1969

Argentinian playwright and fiction writer. He began writing in a naturalistic style, but later adopted an emotional realism to show the effect of social environment on the individual.

- 29 ¡No hay políticos malos! Y buenos, tampoco, ¡qué caray!
Los políticos no son ni buenos ni malos. Son hombres de oficio. Como los carpinteros y los albañiles.
There are no bad politicians! There aren't any good ones either, damn it! Politicians are neither bad nor good. They are professionals, like carpenters or masons.
1940 Un guapo del 900 ('A Handsome Man from the Nineteen Hundreds'), act 1.

Einstein, Albert 1879–1955

German-born theoretical physicist, who took Swiss (1901) and US (1940) citizenship. His early work on the photoelectric effect pioneered quantum theory and won him the 1921 Nobel prize. He is best known for his special (1905) and general (1916) theories of relativity. After Hitler's rise to power he lectured in the US, and later urged international control of atomic weapons.

- 30 $E = mc^2$
1905 Zur Elektrodynamik bewegter Körper ('The Electrodynamics of Moving Bodies').

- 31 Raffiniert ist der Herrgott, aber boshaft ist er nicht.
God is subtle, but he is not malicious.
1921 Said on a visit to Princeton University, May, and later carved above a fireplace there.
- 32 Jedenfalls bin ich überzeugt, dass der nicht würfelt.
Anyway, I am sure that he [God] does not play dice.
1926 Letter to Max Born, 4 Dec.
► See Hawking 385:31.
- 33 One of the strongest motives that lead people to give their lives to art and science is the urge to flee from everyday life, with its drab and deady dullness and thus to unshackle the chains of one's own transient desires, which supplant one another in an interminable succession so long as the mind is fixed on the horizon of daily environment.
1933 Prologue to Max Planck Where is Science Going? (1933).
- 34 I think and think for months and years. Ninety-nine times, the conclusion is false. The hundredth time I am right.
1934 The World as I See It.
- 35 It may be possible to set up a nuclear reaction in uranium by which vast amounts of power could be released... This new phenomenon would also lead to the construction of... extremely powerful bombs of a new type.
1939 Letter to President Franklin D Roosevelt.
- 36 Science without religion is lame, religion without science is blind.
1941 Science, Philosophy and Religion: A Symposium, ch.13.
- 37 The most beautiful emotion we can experience is the mystical. It is the power of all true art and science. He to whom this emotion is a stranger, who can no longer wonder and stand rapt in awe, is as good as dead. To know that what is impenetrable to us really exists, manifesting itself as the highest wisdom and the most radiant beauty, which our dull faculties can comprehend only in their most primitive forms—this knowledge, this feeling, is at the center of true religiousness. In this sense, and in this sense only, I belong to the rank of devoutly religious men.
Quoted in Philipp Frank Einstein: His Life and Times (1947), ch.12, section 5.
- 38 Science can only state what is, not what should be.
1950 Out of My Later Years.
- 39 Perfections of means and confusion of goals seem—in my opinion—to characterize our age.
1950 Out of My Later Years.
- 40 The man of science is a poor philosopher.
1950 Out of My Later Years.
- 41 The whole of science is nothing more than a refinement of everyday thinking.
1950 Out of My Later Years.
- 42 Education is what remains, if one has forgotten everything one learned in school.
1950 Out of My Later Years.
- 43 If A is success in life, then A equals x plus y plus z. Work is x; y is play; and z is keeping your mouth shut.
1950 In the Observer, 15 Jan.
- 44 The most incomprehensible thing about the world is that it is comprehensible.
1950 In Life Magazine.

45 If only I had known, I would have become a watchmaker.

1955 On his part in developing the atom bomb. In the New Statesman, 16 Apr.

46 The grand aim of all science is to cover the greatest number of empirical facts by logical deduction from the smallest number of hypotheses or axioms.

1970 Quoted in Life Magazine, 9 Jan.

47 As far as the laws of mathematics refer to reality, they are not certain, and as far as they are certain, they do not refer to reality.

Quoted in Fritjof Capra The Tao of Physics (1975), ch.2.

48 Everything should be made as simple as possible, but not simpler.

Quoted in Newsweek, 16 Apr 1979.

Eisenhower, Dwight D(avid) 1890–1969

US soldier and Republican politician, whose success as Supreme Commander of Allied forces during World War II and later of NATO swept him to victory as 34th US President (1953–61). His main concerns were foreign policy and anti-communism.

49 The eyes of the world are upon you. The hopes and prayers of liberty-loving people everywhere march with you.

1944 Despatch to US forces on D-Day, 6 Jun.

50 Neither a wise man nor a brave man lies down on the tracks of history to wait for the train of the future to run over him.

1952 In Time, 6 Oct.

51 I shall go to Korea, to try to end the war.

1952 Presidential campaign pledge, Oct.

52 A soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a prisoner's chains.

1953 Inaugural address, 20 Jan.

53 History does not long entrust the care of freedom to the weak or the timid.

1953 Inaugural address, 20 Jan.

54 I just won't get into a pissing contest with that skunk.

1953 Comment to his brother Milton, refusing to publicly contend with Senator Joseph R McCarthy. Quoted in Piers Brandon Ike (1986).

55 You have a row of dominoes set up. You knock over the first one, and what will happen to the last is that it will go over very quickly.

1954 Explaining the domino theory in relation to SE Asia, 7 Apr.

56 There can be no law if we were to invoke one code of international conduct for those who oppose us and another for our friends.

1956 Speech on the Suez crisis, 31 Oct.

57 If the United Nations once admits that international disputes can be settled by using force, we will have destroyed the foundation of the organization and our best hope of establishing a world order.

1957 Address to the nation on Israel's invasion of Egypt, 20 Feb.

58 In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced powers exists and will persist.

1961 Farewell address to the nation, 17 Jan.

59 Now, on Friday noon, I am to become a private citizen. I am proud to do so. I look forward to it.

1961 Concluding his farewell address to the nation, 17 Jan.

60 I want... the $60 GI job and no medals on my chest.

1963 To President Truman, 25 Nov. Quoted in Michael R Beschloss Eisenhower (1990).

61 There's one thing to be said about being President—nobody can tell you when to sit down.

1964 Speech.

62 A fine man who, in the middle of a stormy lake, knows nothing of swimming.

His initial impression of President Harry S Truman while he was military chief of staff. Quoted in Michael R Beschloss Eisenhower (1990).

63 Just what does he think the Presidency is?

On being warned by a doctor to avoid 'irritation, frustration, anxiety, fear, and above all else, anger'. Quoted in Michael R Beschloss Eisenhower (1990).

64 This embattled shore, portal of freedom, is forever hallowed by the ideals, the valor and the sacrifices of our fellow countrymen.

Inscription at US cemetery near St-Laurent. Quoted in the New York Times, 5 Jun 1994.

Eisenstaedt, Alfred 1898–1995

German-born US photographer and photojournalist, renowned for his candid pictures of both everyday life and historic occasions.

65 The most important thing about photographing people is not clicking the shutter... it is clicking with the subject.

1966 Witness to Our Time.

66 I want to be a mouse in a mousehole.

1995 On the unobtrusiveness of the photographer. In NPR broadcast, 24 Aug.

Elgar, Sir Edward 1857–1934

English composer. His Enigma Variations (1899) and the oratorio The Dream of Gerontius (1900) established his reputation as the leading English composer of his generation. He was Master of the King's Musick from 1924.

67 To my friends pictured within.

1899 Dedication to the Enigma Variations.

68 My idea is that there is music in the air, music all around us, the world is full of it and you simply take as much as you require.

Quoted in R J Buckley Sir Edward Elgar (1905), ch.4.

Elgin, James Bruce 1811–63

English government official. In 1860 he was in China, enforcing the treaty of Tientsin (1858), and his actions included the burning of the Summer Palace in Beijing.

69 You can scarcely imagine the beauty and magnificence of the buildings we burnt.

1860 Letter, 18 Aug. Quoted in Nigel Cameron Barbarians and Mandarins (1989), ch.16.

Eliot, George pseudonym of Mary Ann Evans 1819–80

English novelist, renowned for her powers of observation and characterization. Her novels include Adam Bede (1859), The Mill on the Floss (1860), Silas Marner (1861) and her masterpiece, Middlemarch (1871–2).

- 70 Life is too precious to be spent in this weaving and unweaving of false impressions, and it is better to live quietly under some degree of misrepresentation than to attempt to remove it by the uncertain process of letter-writing.
1856 Letter to Mrs Peter Taylor, 8 Jun. Collected in G S Haight (ed) The George Eliot Letters (1954), vol.2.
- 71 In every parting there is an image of death.
1858 Scenes of Clerical Life, ch.10.
- 72 Errors look so very ugly in persons of small means—one feels they are taking quite a liberty in going astray; whereas people of fortune may naturally indulge in a few delinquencies.
1858 Scenes of Clerical Life, ch.25.
- 73 He knew two kinds of Methodists—the ecstatic and the bilious.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.2.
- 74 We are apt to be kinder to the brutes that love us than to the women that love us. Is it because the brutes are dumb?
1859 Adam Bede, ch.4.
- 75 Young souls, in such pleasant delirium as hers, are as unsympathetic as butterflies sipping nectar.
1859 Of Hetty. Adam Bede, ch.9.
- 76 I aspire to give no more than a faithful account of men and things as they have mirrored themselves in my mind.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.17.
- 77 Our deeds determine us, as much as we determine our deeds; and until we know what has been or will be the peculiar combination of outward with inward facts, which constitute a man's critical actions, it will be better not to think ourselves wise about his character.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.29.
- 78 A maggot must be born i' the rotten cheese to like it.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.32.
- 79 There's no pleasure i' living, if you're to be corked up for iver, and only dribble your mind out by the sly, like a leaky barrel.
1859 Mrs Poyser. Adam Bede, ch.32.
- 80 He was like a cock who thought the sun had risen to hear him crow.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.33.
- 81 Deep, unspeakable suffering may well be called a baptism, a regeneration, the initiation into a new state.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.42.
- 82 We hand folks over to God's mercy, and show none ourselves.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.42.
- 83 The mother's yearning, that completest type of the life in another life which is the essence of real human love, feels the presence of the cherished child even in the debased, degraded man.
1859 Adam Bede, ch.43.
- 84 If art does not enlarge men's sympathies, it does nothing morally.
1859 Letter to Charles Bray, 5 Jul.
- 85 He would punish everyone who deserved it: why, he wouldn't have minded being punished himself if he deserved it; but, then, he never did deserve it.
1860 Of Tom Tulliver. The Mill on the Floss, bk.1, ch.5.
- 86 Anger and jealousy can no more bear to lose sight of their objects than love.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.1, ch.10.
- 87 The Catholics, bad harvests, and the mysterious fluctuations of trade—three evils mankind had to fear.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.1, ch.12.
- 88 In a mind charged with an eager purpose and an unfinished vindictiveness, there is no room for new feelings.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.4, ch.3.
- 89 Our life is determined for us—and it makes the mind very free when we give up wishing and only think of bearing what is laid upon us and doing what is given us to do.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.5, ch.1.
- 90 The dead level of provincial existence.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.5, ch.3.
- 91 The happiest women, like the happiest nations, have no history.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.6, ch.3.
- 92 I should like to know what is the proper function of women, if it is not to make reasons for husbands to stay at home, and still stronger reasons for bachelors to go out.
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.6, ch.6.
- 93 'Character' says Novalis, in one of his questionable aphorisms, 'character is destiny.'
1860 The Mill on the Floss, bk.6, ch.6.
- 94 Half the sorrows of women would be averted if they could repress the speech they know to be useless; nay, the speech they have resolved not to make.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.2.
- 95 There is no private life which has not been determined by a wider public life.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.3.
- 96 An election is coming. Universal peace is declared, and the foxes have a sincere interest in prolonging the lives of the poultry.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.5.
- 97 Speech is often barren; but silence also does not necessarily brood over a full nest. Your still fowl, blinking at you without remark, may all the while be sitting on one addled egg; and when it takes to cackling will have nothing to announce but that addled delusion.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.15.
- 98 A woman can hardly ever choose...she is dependent on what happens to her. She must take meaner things, because only meaner things are within her reach.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.27.
- 99 There's many a one who would be idle if hunger didn't pinch him; but the stomach sets us to work.
1866 Felix Holt, ch.30.
- 1 Women were expected to have weak opinions; but the great safeguard of society and of domestic life was, that opinions were not acted on. Sane people did what their neighbours did, so that if any lunatics were at large, one might know and avoid them.
1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.1.
- 2 A woman dictates before marriage in order that she may have an appetite for submission afterwards.
1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.9.

3 He said he should prefer not to know the sources of the Nile, and that there should be some unknown regions preserved as hunting-grounds for the poetic imagination.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.9.

4 Among all forms of mistake, prophecy is the most gratuitous.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.10.

5 Plain women he regarded as he did the other severe facts of life, to be faced with philosophy and investigated by science.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.11.

6 Any one watching keenly the stealthy convergence of human lots, sees a slow preparation of effects from one life on another, which tells like a calculated irony on the indifference or the frozen stare with which we look at our unintroduced neighbour.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.1, ch.11.

7 To point out other people's errors was a duty that Mr Bulstrode rarely shrank from.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.2, ch.13.

8 If we had a keen vision and feeling of all ordinary human life, it would be like hearing the grass grow and the squirrel's heart beat, and we should die of that roar which lies on the other side of silence.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.2, ch.20.

9 We do not expect people to be deeply moved by what is not unusual. That element of tragedy which lies in the very fact of frequency, has not yet wrought itself into the coarse emotion of mankind.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.2, ch.25.

10 A woman, let her be as good as she may, has got to put up with the life her husband makes for her.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.3, ch.25.

11 It is an uneasy lot at best, to be what we call highly taught and yet not to enjoy: to be present at this great spectacle of life and never to be liberated from a small hungry shivering self.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.3, ch.29.

12 A man is seldom ashamed of feeling that he cannot love a woman so well when he sees a certain greatness in her: nature having intended greatness for men.

1871–2 Middlemarch, bk.4, ch.39.

13 Gossip is a sort of smoke that comes from the dirty tobacco-pipes of those who diffuse it: it proves nothing but the bad taste of the smoker.

1876 Daniel Deronda, bk.2, ch.13.

14 A difference of taste in jokes is a great strain on the affections.

1876 Daniel Deronda, bk.2, ch.15.

15 There is a great deal of unmapped country within us which would have to be taken into account in an explanation of our gusts and storms.

1876 Daniel Deronda, bk.3, ch.24.

16 Friendships begin with liking or gratitude—roots that can be pulled up.

1876 Daniel Deronda, bk.4, ch.32.

enshrined the disillusionment of the post-World War I generation and the advance of modernism. His most significant poetic works are The Waste Land (1922) and Four Quartets (1935–42). In 1948 he was awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

17 Let us go then, you and I,

When the evening is spread out against the sky
Like a patient etherized upon a table.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917), opening lines.

18 In the room the women come and go

Talking of Michelangelo.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

19 Should I, after tea and cakes and ices,

Have the strength to force the moment to its crisis?

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

20 For I have known them all already, known them all—

Have known the evenings, mornings, afternoons,
I have measured out my life with coffee spoons;
I know the voices dying with a dying fall
Beneath the music from a farther room.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

21 I should have been a pair of ragged claws

Scuttling across the floors of silent seas.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

22 I am no prophet—and here's no great matter;

I have seen the moment of my greatness flicker,
And I have seen the eternal Footman hold my coat, and snicker,
And in short, I was afraid.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

23 No! I am not Prince Hamlet, nor was meant to be;

Am an attendant lord, one that will do
To swell a progress, start a scene or two,
Advise the prince.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

24 I grow old... I grow old...

I shall wear the bottoms of my trousers rolled.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

25 Do I dare to eat a peach?

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

26 I have heard the mermaids singing, each to each.

I do not think that they will sing to me.

1915 'The Love Song of J Alfred Prufrock' (first published in Poetry magazine, collected in Prufrock and Other Observations, 1917).

Eliot, T(homas) S(tearns) 1888–1965

US-born English poet, dramatist and critic, whose work

- 27 The winter evening settles down
With smell of steaks in passageways
Six o'clock.
The burnt-out ends of smoky days.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'Preludes', pt.1.
- 28 The morning comes to consciousness
Of faint stale smells of beer
From the sawdust-trampled street.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'Preludes', pt.2.
- 29 Held in a lunar synthesis,
Whispering lunar incantations
Dissolve the floors of memory
And all its clear relations
Its divisions and precisions.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'Rhapsody on a Windy Night'.
- 30 Midnight shakes the memory
As a madman shakes a dead geranium.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'Rhapsody on a Windy Night'.
- 31 Stand on the highest pavement of the stair—
Lean on a garden urn—
Weave, weave the sunlight in your hair.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'La Figlia Che Piange'.
- 32 Sometimes these cogitations still amaze
The troubled midnight and the noon's repose.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'La Figlia Che Piange'.
- 33 I am aware of the damp souls of housemaids
Sprouting despondently at area gates.
1917 Prufrock and Other Observations, 'Morning at The Window'.
- 34 Webster was much possessed by death
And saw the skull beneath the skin;
And breastless creatures under ground
Leaned backward with a lipless grin.
1919 'Whispers of Immortality'.
- 35 Uncorseted, her friendly bust
Gives promise of pneumatic bliss.
1919 'Whispers of Immortality'.
- 36 Polyphiloprogenitive
The sapient sutlers of the Lord
Drift across the window-panes
In the beginning was the Word.
1919 'Mr Eliot's Sunday Morning Service'.
- 37 Apeneck Sweeney spreads his knees
Letting his arms hang down to laugh,
The zebra stripes along his jaw
Swelling to maculate giraffe.
1919 'Sweeney among the Nightingales'.
- 38 And let their liquid siftings fall
To stain the stiff dishonoured shroud.
1919 'Sweeney among the Nightingales'.
- 39 Here I am, an old man in a dry month,
Being read to by a boy, waiting for rain.
1919 'Gerontion'.
- 40 Signs are taken for wonders. 'We would see a sign!'
The word within the word, unable to speak a word,
Swaddled with darkness. In the juvenescence of the year
Came Christ the tiger.
1919 'Gerontion'.
- 41 After such knowledge, what forgiveness? Think now
History has many cunning passages, contrived corridors
And issues, deceives with whispering ambitions,
Guides us by vanities.
1919 'Gerontion'.
- 42 Neither fear nor courage saves us. Unnatural vices
Are fathered by our heroism. Virtues
Are forced upon us by our impudent crimes.
1919 'Gerontion'.
- 43 Tenants of the house,
Thoughts of a dry brain in a dry season.
1919 'Gerontion'.
- 44 Where are the eagles and the trumpets?
Buried beneath some snow-deep Alps.
Over buttered scones and crumpets
Weeping, weeping multitudes
Droop in a hundred A.B.C.'s.
1920 'Cooking Egg'.
- 45 The emotion of art is impersonal.
1920 The Sacred Wood, 'Tradition and Individual Talent'.
- 46 Poetry is not a turning loose of emotion, but an escape from emotion; it is not the expression of personality but an escape from personality.
1920 The Sacred Wood, 'Tradition and Individual Talent'.
- 47 The only way of expressing emotion in the form of art is by finding an 'objective correlative'... such that when the external facts, which must terminate in sensory experience, are given, the emotion is immediately evoked.
1920 The Sacred Wood, 'Hamlet and His Problems'.
- 48 The bad poet dwells partly in a world of objects and partly in a world of words, and he never can get them to fit.
1920 The Sacred Wood, 'Swinburne as a Poet'.
- 49 Immature poets imitate; mature poets steal; bad poets deface what they take, and good poets make it into something better, or at least something different.
1920 The Sacred Wood, 'Philip Massinger'.
- 50 In the seventeenth century a dissociation of sensibility set in from which we have never recovered; and this dissociation, as is natural, was due to the influence of the two most powerful poets of the century, Milton and Dryden.
1921 Selected Essays (1932), 'The Metaphysical Poets'.
- 51 When a poet's mind is perfectly equipped for its work, it is constantly amalgamating disparate experience... in the mind of the poet these experiences are always forming new wholes.
1921 Selected Essays (1932), 'The Metaphysical Poets'.
- 52 April is the cruellest month, breeding
Lilacs out of the dead land, mixing
Memory and desire, stirring
Dull roots with spring rain.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.1, 'The Burial of the Dead'.
- 53 And I will show you something different from either
Your shadow at morning striding behind you
Or your shadow at evening rising to meet you;
I will show you fear in a handful of dust.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.1, 'The Burial of the Dead'.
- 54 Unreal City,
Under the brown fog of a winter dawn,

- A crowd flowed over London Bridge, so many,
I had not thought death had undone so many.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.1, 'The Burial of the Dead'.
- 55 'You! hypocrite lecteur!—mon semblable,—mon frère!'
1922 The Waste Land, pt.1, 'The Burial of the Dead'.
► See Baudelaire 64:53.
- 56 The Chair she sat in, like a burnished throne,
Glowed on the marble.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.2, 'A Game of Chess'.
► See Shakespeare 764:23.
- 57 O O O that Shakespeherian Rag—
It's so elegant
So intelligent.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.2, 'A Game of Chess'.
- 58 Hurry up please it's time.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.2, 'A Game of Chess'.
- 59 Sweet Thames, run softly till I end my song,
Sweet Thames, run softly, for I speak not loud or long.
But at my back in a cold blast I hear
The rattle of the bones, and chuckle spread from ear to ear.
1922 The Waste Land, pt.3, 'The Fire Sermon'.
► See Marvell 556:62.
- 60 I Tiresias, old man with wrinkled dugs
Perceived the scene, and foretold the rest—
I too awaited the expected guest.
He, the young man carbuncular, arrives,
A small house agent's clerk, with one bold stare,
One of the low on whom assurance sits
As a silk hat on a Bradford millionaire.

- 74 But set down
This, set down
This: were we led all that way for Birth or Death? There was a Birth, certainly,
We had evidence and no doubt. I had seen birth and death
But had thought they were different; this Birth was Hard and bitter agony for us, like Death, our death.
We returned to our places, these Kingdoms,
But no longer at ease here, in the old dispensation,
With an alien people clutching their gods.
I should be glad of another death.

- 17 Do not let me hear
Of the wisdom of old men, but rather of their folly.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.2.
- 18 The only wisdom we can hope to acquire
Is the wisdom of humility: humility is endless.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.2.
- 19 O dark dark dark. They all go into the dark,
The vacant interstellar spaces, the vacant into the vacant.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.3.
- 20 And what you do not know is the only thing you know
And what you own is what you do not own
And where you are is where you are not.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.3.
- 21 The wounded surgeon plies the steel
That questions the distempered part;
Beneath the bleeding hands we feel
The sharp compassion of the healer's art
Resolving the enigma of the fever chart.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.4.
- 22 The dripping blood our only drink,
The bloody flesh our only food:
In spite of which we like to think
That we are sound, substantial flesh and blood—
Again, in spite of that, we call this Friday good.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.4.
- 23 And so each venture
Is a new beginning, a raid on the inarticulate
With shabby equipment always deteriorating
In the general mess of imprecision of feeling,
Undisciplined squads of emotion.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.5.
- 24 There is only the fight to recover what has been lost
And found and lost again and again: and now, under conditions
That seem unpropitious. But perhaps neither gain nor loss.
For us, there is only the trying. The rest is not our business.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.5.
- 25 Home is where one starts from. As we grow older
The world becomes stranger, the pattern more complicated
Of dead and living.
1940 Four Quartets, 'East Coker', pt.5.
- 26 Love is most nearly itself
When here and now cease to matter.

1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.1.
- 29 The tolling bell
Measures time not our time, rung by the unhurried
Ground swell, a time
Older than the time of chronometers.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.1.
- 30 We had the experience but missed the meaning,
And approach to the meaning restores the experience
In a different form, beyond any meaning
We can assign to happiness.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.2.
- 31 Time the destroyer is time the preserver.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.2.
- 32 You cannot face it steadily, but this thing is sure,
That time is no healer: the patient is no longer here.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.3.
- 33 And right action is freedom
From past and future also.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.5.
- 34 For most of us, there is only the unattended
Moment, the moment in and out of time.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.5.
- 35 These are only hints and guesses,
Hints followed by guesses; and the rest
Is prayer, observance, discipline, thought and action.
The hint half guessed, the gift half understood, is Incarnation.
1941 Four Quartets, 'The Dry Salvages', pt.5.
- 36 Here the impossible union
Of spheres of existence is actual,
Here the past and future
Are conquered, and reconciled.

- 38 And glow more intense than blaze of branch, or brazier,
Stirs the dumb spirit: no wind, but pentecostal fire
In the dark time of the year. Between melting and freezing
The soul's sap quivers.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.1.
- 39 And what you thought you came for
Is only a shell, a husk of meaning
From which the purpose breaks only when it is fulfilled
If at all. Either you had no purpose
Or the purpose is beyond the end you figured
And is altered in fulfilment.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.1.
- 40 And what the dead had no speech for, when living,
They can tell you, being dead: the communication Of the dead is tongued with fire beyond the language of the living.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.1.
- 41 Dust in the air suspended
Marks the place where a story ended.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.2.
- 42 In the uncertain hour before the morning
Near the ending of interminable night
At the recurrent end of the unending.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.2.
- 43 Since our concern was speech, and speech impelled us
To purify the dialect of the tribe
And urge the mind to aftersight and foresight.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.2.
- 44 From wrong to wrong the exasperated spirit
Proceeds, unless restored by that refining fire
Where you must move in measure, like a dancer.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.2.
- 45 History may be servitude,
History may be freedom.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.3.
- 46 This is the use of memory:
For liberation—not less of love but expanding
Of love beyond desire, and so liberation
From the future as well as the past.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.3.
- 47 The dove descending breaks the air
With flame of incandescent terror
Of which the tongues declare
The one discharge from sin and error.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.4.
- 48 We shall not cease from exploration
And the end of all our exploring
Will be to arrive where we started
And know the place for the first time.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.4.
- 49 What we call the beginning is often the end
And to make an end is to make a beginning.
The end is where we start from.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.5.
- 50 A people without history
Is not redeemed from time, for history is a pattern
Of timeless moments.
1942 Four Quartets, 'Little Gidding', pt.5.
- 51 And all shall be well and
All manner of thing shall be well
When the tongues of flame are in-folded
Into a crowned knot of fire
And the fire and the rose are one.

makes life worth living.
1948 Notes towards a Definition of Culture, ch.1.
- 53 You've missed the point completely, Julia:
There were no tigers. That was the point.
1950 The Cocktail Party, act 1, sc.1, opening lines.
- 54 What is hell?
Hell is oneself,
Hell is alone, the other figures in it
Merely projections. There is nothing to escape from
And nothing to escape to. One is always alone.
1950 The Cocktail Party, act 1, sc.3.

Elizabeth I 1533–1603

Queen of England (from 1558), daughter of Henry VIII and Anne Boleyn. Imprisoned by her Catholic half-sister Mary (later Mary I), she ascended the throne as a Protestant ruler on Mary's death. After several conspiracies she had Mary, Queen of Scots executed (1587) and her subsequent persecution of Catholics led Philip of Spain to send an Armada, which was defeated (1588). Elizabeth never married.

- 55 If I am to disclose to you what I should prefer if I follow the inclination of my nature, it is this: beggar-woman and single, far rather than queen and married!
1563 Attributed reply to an imperial envoy. Quoted in J E Neale
Queen Elizabeth I (1979).
- 56 Though I be a woman yet I have as good a courage answerable to my place as ever my father had. I am your anoointed queen. I will never be by violence constrained to do anything. I thank God I am indeed endued with such qualities that if I were turned out of the realm in my petticoat I were able to live in any place of Christendom.
1566 Speech to a parliamentary delegation, 5 Nov. Quoted in Christopher Haigh Elizabeth I (1988).
- 57 The doubt of future foes exiles my present joy.
c.1568 'The Doubt of Future Foes'.
- 58 No foteball player be used or suffered within the City of London and the liberties thereof upon pain of imprisonment.
1572 Royal proclamation, banning football from the streets of London.
- 59 My care is like my shadow in the sun,
Follows me flying, flies when I pursue it,
Stands and lies by me, doth what I have done.
c.1582 'On Monsieur's Departure'.
- 60 I know that I have the body of a weak and feeble woman, but I have the heart and stomach of a king—and a king of England too; and think foul scorn that Parma or Spain, or any Prince of Europe, should dare to invade the borders of my realm.
1588 Address at Tilbury on the approach of the Spanish Armada.

61 My lord, we make use of you, not for your bad legs, but for your good head.

c.1590 To her gout-stricken courtier William Cecil. Quoted in F Chamberlain Sayings of Queen Elizabeth (1923).

62 To be a King and to wear a crown is a thing more glorious to them that see it than it is pleasant to them that bear it.

1601 Address to parliament. Quoted in G R Elton Renaissance and Reformation 1300–1648 (2nd edn, 1968), p.134.

63 Little man, little man! The word ‘must’ is not to be used to princes!

1603 To Robert Cecil when, during her last illness, he told her that she must go to bed. Quoted in Christopher Haigh Elizabeth I (1988), p.24.

64 Like strawberry wives, that laid two or three great strawberries at the mouth of their pot, and all the rest were little ones.

Of the Commission of Sales. Quoted in Francis Bacon Apophthegms New and Old (1625), no.54.

Elizabeth II 1926–

Queen of the UK and Head of the Commonwealth, daughter of George VI. She was proclaimed Queen on 6 February 1952, and crowned on 2 June 1953. She married Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, in 1947.

65 I think that people will concede that, on this of all days, I should begin my speech with the words, ‘My husband and I’.

1972 Speech at a banquet to celebrate her silver wedding anniversary, 20 Nov.

66 Experience shows that great enterprises seldom end with a tidy and satisfactory flourish. Together, we are doing our best to re-establish peace and civil order in the Gulf region, and to help those members of civil and ethnic minorities who continue to suffer through no fault of their own. If we succeed, our military success will have achieved its true objective.

1991 Commenting on the aftermath of the Gulf War in the first address by a British monarch to Congress, 16 May.

67 1992 is not a year I shall look back on with undiluted pleasure. In the words of one of my more sympathetic correspondents, it has turned out to be an annus horribilis.

1992 Speech at the Guildhall, 24 Nov.

Elizabeth, Queen, the Queen Mother 1900–2002

Queen Consort of King George VI, mother of Elizabeth II. Until her marriage to the King in 1923, she was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon.

68 I’m glad we’ve been bombed. It makes me feel I can look the East End in the face.

1940 Comment to a London policeman, 13 Sep. Quoted in John Wheeler-Bennet King George VI (1948), pt.3, ch.6.

Elkin, Stanley Lawrence 1930–95

US novelist and short-story writer. His novels include Boswell (1964), The Magic Kingdom (1985) and The MacGuffin (1991).

69 All books are the Book of Job, high moral tests and tasks set in fairy tales, landmined and unforgiving as golf greens, as steeplechase and gameboard and obstacle course.

1991 ‘The Future of the Novel’, in the New York Times, 17 Feb.

70 Story is just just deserts... man in the crucible like jack in the box.

74 When it sounds good, it is good.

1957 Such Sweet Thunder, programme note.

75 Bubber was the first man I heard use the expression, ‘it don’t mean a thing if it ain’t got that swing.’ Everything, and I repeat, everything had to swing.

1965 Of trumpeter Bubber Miley. ‘The Most Essential Instrument’, in Jazz Journal, Dec.

76 New music? Hell, there’s been no new music since Stravinsky.

1970 Quoted in D Jewell Duke (1977).

77 Music is my mistress, and she plays second fiddle to none.

1973 Music Is My Mistress.

Elliot, Jean also known as Jane Elliot 1727–1805

Scottish poet and songwriter, whose only surviving work, based on traditional versions, was written as a lament for the Battle of Flodden.

78 I’ve heard the liltin at our yowe-milking,
Lasses a-liltin before the dawn o’ day;
But now they are moaning on ilka green loaning:
‘The Flowers of the Forest are a’ wede away’.

1769 ‘The Flowers of the Forest’, stanza 1.

► See Cockburn 224:55.

Elliott, Charlotte 1789–1871

English religious poet and hymnwriter.

79 Just as I am, without one plea
But that Thy blood was shed for me,
And that Thou bid’st me come to Thee,
O Lamb of God, I come!

1834 Invalid’s Hymn Book, ‘Just As I Am’.

Elliott, Sir Claude Aurelius 1888–1973

English schoolmaster, head and Provost of Eton College.

80 I’ve often thought I should like to have a set of postcards printed: ‘Dear Sir or Madam, Thank you for your communication. Go to hell. Yours sincerely.’
Quoted in the Times Literary Supplement, 22 Jan 1988.

Ellis, George 1753–1815

British poet, born in the West Indies. He co-founded the Tory Anti-Jacobin (1797) and made important translations of Middle English verse.

- 82 All civilization has from time to time become a thin crust over a volcano of revolution.
1922 Little Essays of Love and Virtue.
- 83 What we call morals is simply blind obedience to words of command.
1923 The Dance of Life.

Ellison, Harlan Jay 1934–

US novelist, essayist, critic and editor. He has written mainly in the genres of science fiction and fantasy, where he has been a radical and outspoken contributor.

- 84 I Have No Mouth And I Must Scream.
1967 Title of story collection.
- 85 The reason men are greater than animals isn't because we can dream of the stars... it's because we have something they haven't. Greed.
1970 The Glass Teat, introduction.
- 86 Our childhoods are sowing the wind, our adulthoods are reaping the whirlwind.
1974 Approaching Oblivion, introduction.
- 87 All The Lies That Are My Life.
1989 Title of autobiography.

Ellison, Ralph Waldo 1914–94

US novelist, best known for his classic account of black urban existence, Invisible Man (1952), his only completed novel. He also wrote essays on music and culture.

- 88 I am an invisible man. No, I am not a spook like those who haunted Edgar Allen Poe; nor am I one of your Hollywood-movie ectoplasms. I am a man of substance, of flesh and bone, fibre and liquids—and I might even be said to possess a mind. I am invisible, understand, simply because people refuse to see me... When they approach me they see only my surroundings, themselves, or figments of their imagination—indeed, everything and anything except me.
1952 Invisible Man, prologue.
- 89 I was never more hated than when I tried to be honest... On the other hand, I've never been more loved and appreciated than when I tried to 'justify' and affirm someone's mistaken beliefs; or when I've tried to give my friends the incorrect, absurd answers they wished to hear.
1952 Invisible Man, epilogue.
- 90 All novels are about certain minorities: the individual is a minority.
1955 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

- 91 Part of the problem for the invisible man was that he was invisible to himself, that he didn't grasp his own complexity.
1992 Quoted by Keith Botsford in Ellison's obituary, 18 Apr 1994, in The Independent.

Ellwood, David T 1953–

US economist, Professor at John F Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

1991 In the Washington Post, 22 Feb.

Eltit, Diamela 1949–

Chilean novelist. Her novels are complex and experimental, but she has found a devoted readership among intellectuals and feminist circles.

- 93 Para decirlo de otra manera, no es la herida la que causó el grito, sino exactamente a la inversa; para herirse es preciso el grito, todo lo demás es un pretexto.
In other words, it was not the wound that caused the scream, but precisely the opposite: to get wounded one needs the scream; the rest is only a pretext.
1983 Lumpérica, 1.

Elton, Ben 1959–

English comedian and writer.

- 94 I did not vote Labour because they've heard of Oasis and nobody is going to vote Tory because William Hague has got a baseball cap.
1998 In The Radio Times, 18 Apr.

Elton, Sir Geoffrey Rudolph 1921–94

British historian, Professor at Cambridge University.

- 95 When I meet a historian who cannot think that there have been great men, great men moreover in politics, I feel myself in the presence of a bad historian; and there are times when I incline to judge all historians by their opinion of Winston Churchill—whether they can see that, no matter how much better the details, often damaging, of man and career become known, he still remains, quite simply, a great man.
1970 Political History, ch.2.

Éluard, Paul pseudonym of Eugène Grindel 1895–1952

French poet, a founder of the Surrealist movement with which he later parted (1938). He was active in political affairs, in the Resistance and the Communist Party.

- 96 Le poète est celui qui inspire bien plus que celui qui est inspiré.
The poet is more the inspirer than the one who is inspired.
1936 L'Evidence poétique.

Bonjour tristesse.
 Farewell sadness
 Hello sadness.
1942 Poésie et vérité, 'La Vie immédiate'.

Emecheta, Buchi 1944–

Nigerian-born British writer.

- 99 Sometimes it seemed that matrimony, apart from being a way of getting free sex when men felt like it, was also a legalized way of committing assault and getting away with it.
1972 In the Ditch.
- 1 I am a woman and a woman of Africa. I am a daughter of Nigeria and if she is in shame, I shall stay and mourn with her in shame.
1982 Destination Biafra.

Emerson, Ralph Waldo 1803–82

US philosopher and poet, a central figure of the transcendentalist movement. He was a minister in the Unitarian church, but resigned after a controversy over his belief in spiritual independence.

- 2 By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
 Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
 Here once the embattled farmers stood
 And fired the shot heard around the world.
1837 'Concord Hymn', opening lines. This poem was sung on 4 Jul 1837 at the dedication of the monument commemorating the battle of 19 Apr 1775.
- 3 This time, like all times, is a very good one, if we but know what to do with it.
1837 'The American Scholar', lecture at Harvard University.
- 4 All are needed by each one;
 Nothing is fair or good alone.
1839 'Each and All', l.11–12.

Emin, Tracey 1964–

English artist. She gained widespread public attention with various 'confessional' installation works such as Everyone I Have Ever Slept With, from 1963 to 1995 (1995), which was later destroyed in a fire.

- 56 The wheel that squeaks gets the oil.
2001 In the Observer, 22 Apr.
- 57 The majority of the British public have no regard or no respect for what me and my peers do to the point where they actually laugh at a disaster like a fire.
2004 After some of her work (and the work of other contemporary artists) was destroyed in a fire in London. Quoted in The Scotsman, 31 May.
- 58 Just love me.
2004 Words spelled out in a neon light installation she created.

Emmet, Robert 1778–1803

Irish patriot, member of the United Irishmen. In 1803 he plotted an insurrection against the English, and was hanged after returning from the Wicklow Mountains for a last meeting with his sweetheart.

- 59 I have but one request to make at my departure from this world, it is—the charity of its silence. Let no man write my epitaph; for as no man who knows my motives, dare now vindicate them, let no prejudice or ignorance asperse them. Let them rest in obscurity and peace! Let my memory be left in oblivion, and my tomb remain uninscribed, until other times and other men can do justice to my character. When my country takes her place among the nations of the earth, then, and not till then, let my epitaph be written.
1803 Speech before being sentenced.

Empson, Sir William 1906–84

English critic and poet. He established his reputation with his first book on textual criticism, Seven Types of Ambiguity (1930, revised 1947). An edition of Collected Poems was published in 1955.

- 60 Seven Types of Ambiguity.
1930 Title of book.
- 61 Slowly the poison the whole blood stream fills.
It is not the effort or the failure tires.

The waste remains, the waste remains and kills.
1935 'Missing Dates'.

62 Ripeness is all; her in her cooling planet
 Revere; do not presume to think her wasted.
1935 'To an Old Lady'.

63 But as to risings, I can tell you why.
 It is on contradiction that they grow.
 It seemed the best thing to be up and go.
 Up was the heartening and the strong reply.
 The heart of standing is we cannot fly.
1935 'Aubade'.

64 Waiting for the end, boys, waiting for the end.
 What is there to be or do?
 What's become of me or you?
1940 'Just a Smack at Auden'.

Engels, Friedrich 1820–95

German socialist philosopher, founder of 'scientific socialism'. He first met Karl Marx in Brussels in 1844, collaborated with him on the Communist Manifesto (1848), and later edited and translated Marx's writings.

65 [The] English proletariat is becoming more and more bourgeois, so that this most bourgeois of all nations is apparently aiming ultimately at the possession of a bourgeois aristocracy and a bourgeois proletariat as well as a bourgeoisie. For a nation which exploits the whole world this is of course to a certain extent justifiable.
1858 Letter to Karl Marx, 7 Oct.

66 Der Staat wird nicht 'abgeschafft', er stirbt ab.
 The state is not 'abolished'; it withers away.
1878 Anti-Dühring, pt.3, ch.2.

67 The British Labour movement is today, and for many years has been, working in a narrow circle of strikes that are looked upon, not as an expedient, and not as a means of propaganda, but as an ultimate aim.
1878 Letter to Eduard Bernstein, 17 Jul.

68 The society that will organize production on the basis of a free and equal association of the producers will put the whole machinery of the state where it will then belong: into the museum of antiquities, by the side of the spinning wheel and the bronze axe.
1884 The Origin of the Family, Private Property, and the State.

Engle, Paul Hamilton 1908–91

US poet, novelist and critic, whose writing is formal, elegant and accessible. He ran courses in literature and writing in his native Iowa.

Most perish young, the rest in danger are.

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, prologue.

93 What a dull, insipid thing is a billet-doux written in cold blood, after the heat of the business is over!

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, act 1, sc.1.

94 Next to the coming to a good understanding with a new mistress, I love a quarrel with an old one.

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, act 1, sc.1.

95 I know he is a devil, but he has something of the angel yet undefaced in him, which makes him so charming and agreeable that I must love him, be he never so wicked.

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, act 2, sc.2.

96 We are not masters of our own affections; our inclinations daily alter: now we love pleasure, and anon we shall dote on business. Human frailty will have it so, and who can help it?

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, act 2, sc.2.

97 When love grows diseased, the best thing we can do is to put it to a violent death. I cannot endure the torture of a lingering and consumptive passion.

1676 The Man of Mode or, Sir Fopling Flutter, act 2, sc.2.

98 I must confess I am a fop in my heart; ill customs influence my very senses, and I have been so used to affectation that without the help of the air of the court what is natural cannot touch me.

1688 Letter to Mr Poley, 12 Jan.

- 23 Miss Twye was soaping her breasts in the bath
When she heard behind her a meaning laugh
And to her amazement she discovered
A wicked man in the bathroom cupboard.
1939 'Miss Twye'.
- 24 Sex suppressed will go berserk,
But it keeps us all alive.
It's a wonderful change from wives and work
And it ends at half past five.
1966 'Office Friendships'.
- 25 Would you rather live in lively London or where a young penguin lies screaming?
1977 Where a Young Penguin Lies Screaming, epigraph.
- 26 He's very popular among his mates.
I think I'm Auden, he thinks he's Yeats.
1986 'Seamus Heaney'.
- 27 On the Last Day the wrecks will surface over the sea.
1986 'Resurrection'.

Ewer, William Norman 1885–1976

- 28 How odd
Of God
To choose
The Jews.
1924 In The Week-End Book.

Ewing, Winnie 1929–

Scottish Nationalist politician.

- 29 The Scottish Parliament which adjourned on 25 March in the year 1707 is hereby reconvened.
1999 Speech at the opening of the new Scottish Parliament, 12 May.
- 30 Time after time, on matters great and small, we are still standing on the sidelines, mutely accepting what is decided elsewhere instead of raising our voices and making our own choices. Scotland's much vaunted partnership of Jonah and the whale.

Quoted in Michael Russell (ed) Stop the World: The Autobiography of Winnie Ewing (2004).

f

Fackenheim, Emil L 1916–2003

Jewish rabbi and philosopher. He was Professor at the University of Toronto until 1984, when he moved to Jerusalem, where he continued to teach and write.

- 31 Had every Christian in Hitler's Europe followed the example of the king of Denmark and decided to put on the yellow star, there would be today neither despair in the church nor talk of the death of God.

1968 Quest for Past and Future.

Fadiman, Anne 1953–

US writer.

- 32 Sharing a bed and a future was child's play compared to sharing my copy of The Complete Poems of WB Yeats.

1998 On the joys and pain of combining libraries when couples move in together. In Ex Libris: Confessions of a Common Reader.

- 33 If my father were still writing essays, every full-grown 'girl' would probably be transformed into a 'woman'.

1998 On her father, Clifton Fadiman, a renowned man-of-letters. In Ex Libris: Confessions of a Common Reader.

Fadiman, Clifton 1904–99

US writer, literary critic and lecturer. He worked as a book reviewer for the New Yorker.

- 34 Liquor is not a necessity. It is a means of momentarily sidestepping necessity.

1955 Party of One, 'From My Notebooks'.

- 35 The mama of dada.

1955 Of Gertrude Stein. Party of One.

- 36 Cheese, milk's leap toward immortality.

1957 Any Number Can Play; 'The Cheese Stands Alone'.

- 37 The police dog of American fiction, except that his hatred is not the result of mere crabbedness but of an eye that sees too deep for comfort.

Of US writer Ring Lardner. Quoted in Scott Meredith George S Kaufman and His Friends (1974).

- 38 Poetry in a bottle.

1985 Of wine. In Manhattan Inc., Jul.

Falkland, Lucius Cary, Viscount 1610–43

- 39 When it is not necessary to change, it is necessary not to change.

1641 Speech, House of Commons, 22 Nov. Collected as 'A Speech concerning Episcopacy' in Discourses of Infallibility (1660).

Faludi, Susan 1960–

US journalist and writer. She has written Backlash: The Undeclared War Against American Women (1991), a controversial and award-winning study of feminism, and Stiffed: The Betrayal of Modern Man (2000).

- 40 The more women are paid, the less eager they are to marry.

1992 Backlash (UK edn), ch.2, 'Man Shortages and Barren Wombs'.

- 41 Social scientists could supply plenty of research to show that one member of the family, at least, is happier and more well adjusted when mum stays home and looks after the children. But that person is dad—a finding of limited use to backlash publicists.

1992 Backlash (UK edn), ch.2, 'Man Shortages and Barren Wombs'.

- 42 A backlash against women's rights is nothing new. Indeed, it's a recurring phenomenon: it returns every time women begin to make some headway towards equality, a seemingly inevitable early frost to the brief flowerings of feminism.

1992 Backlash (UK edn), ch.3, 'Backlashes Then and Now'.

Fanon, Frantz Omar 1925–61

French West Indian psychoanalyst and social philosopher, editor of El Moudjahid in Tunis and Ambassador to Ghana. He is best remembered for his critiques of colonialism.

- 43 Aux colonies, l'infrastructure économique est également une superstructure. La cause est conséquence: on est riche parce que blanc, on est blanc parce que riche.

In the colonies the economic substructure is also a superstructure. The cause is the consequence; you are rich because you are white, you are white because you are rich.

1961 Les Damnés de la terre (The Wretched of the Earth, translated by Constance Farrington, 1965), ch.1, 'Concerning Violence'.

- 44 Le colonialisme ne se satisfait pas d'enserrer le peuple dans ses mailles, de vider le cerveau colonisé de toute forme et de tout contenu. Par une sorte de perversion de la logique, il s'oriente vers le passé du peuple opprimé, le distord, le défigure, l'anéantit.

Colonialism is not satisfied merely with holding a people in its grip and emptying the native's brain of all form and content. By a kind of perverted logic, it turns to the past of the oppressed people, and distorts, disfigures and destroys it.

1961 Les Damnés de la terre (The Wretched of the Earth, translated by Constance Farrington, 1965), ch.4, 'On National Culture'.

- 45 Le colonialisme accule le peuple dominé à se poser constamment la question: 'Qui suis-je en réalité?'

Colonialism forces the people it dominates to ask themselves the question constantly: 'In reality, who am I?'

1961 Les Damnés de la terre (The Wretched of the Earth, translated by Constance Farrington, 1965), ch.5, 'Colonial War and Mental Disorders'.

Fanthorpe, U(rsula) A(skham) 1929–

- 47 Morning has broken
Like the first morning,
Blackbird has spoken
Like the first bird.
Praise for the singing!
Praise for the morning!
Praise for them springing
Fresh from the Word!
1957 Children's Bells, 'A Morning Song'.

- 48 There's Carol like a rolling car,
And Martin like a flying bird,
And Adam like the Lord's First Word,
And Raymond like the Harvest Moon,
And Peter like a piper's tune,
And Alan like the flowing on
Of water. And there's John, like John.
1958 Then There Were Three, 'Boys' Names'.

Farjeon, Herbert 1887–1945

- 50 Poetry's a mere drug, Sir.
1698 Love and a Bottle, act 3, sc.2.
- 51 I hate all that don't love me, and slight all that do.
1699 The Constant Couple, act 1, sc.2.
- 52 Crimes, like virtues, are their own reward.
1702 The Inconstant, act 4, sc.2.
- 53 Hanging and marriage, you know, go by destiny.
1706 The Recruiting Officer, act 3, sc.2.
- 54 Sir, you shall taste my Anno Domini.
1707 The Beaux' Stratagem, act 1, sc.1.
- 55 I have fed purely upon ale; I have eat my ale, drank my ale, and I always sleep upon ale.
1707 The Beaux' Stratagem, act 1, sc.1.
- 56 There is no scandal like rags, nor any crime so shameful as poverty.
1707 The Beaux' Stratagem, act 1, sc.1.
- 57 Since a woman must wear chains, I would have the pleasure of hearing 'em rattle a little.

1707 The Beaux' Stratagem, act 2, sc.2.

- 58 No woman can be a beauty without a fortune.

1707 The Beaux' Stratagem, act 2, sc.2.

Farragut, David Glasgow 1801–70

Great Commanders: Admiral Farragut (1892), ch.10.

Fassbinder, Rainer Werner 1946–82

German film director, who made over 40 films.

- 60 I hope to build a house with my films. Some of them are the cellar, some are the walls, and some are the windows. But I hope in time there will be a house.
Quoted in Leslie Halliwell Halliwell's Filmgoer's Companion
(1993).

Faulkner, William Harrison 1897–1962

US novelist, known for his experiments in literary form and style and for his treatment of social and racial problems in the US South in a series of novels beginning with Sartoris (1929). He was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1949.

- 61 Yes, he thought, between grief and nothing I will take grief.
1939 Wilborne. The Wild Palms, 'Wild Palms', no.5.
- 62 No man can cause more grief than that one clinging blindly to the vices of his ancestors.
1948 Intruder in the Dust, ch.3.
- 63 He must teach himself that the basest of all things is to be afraid and, teaching himself that, forget it forever, leaving no room in his workshop for anything but the old verities and truths of the heart, the old universal truths lacking which any story is ephemeral and doomed—love and honour and pity and compassion and sacrifice.
1950 Nobel prize acceptance speech.
- 64 I believe man will not merely endure, he will prevail. He is immortal, not because he, alone among creatures, has an inexhaustible voice but because he has a soul, a spirit capable of compassion and sacrifice and endurance.
1950 Nobel prize acceptance speech.
- 65 Maybe the only thing worse than having to give gratitude constantly all the time, is having to accept it.
1951 Requiem for a Nun, act 2, sc.1.
- 66 Since his capacity to do is forced into channels of evil through environment and pressures, man is strong before he is moral. The world's anguish is caused by people between twenty and forty.
1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.
- 67 An artist is a creature driven by demons.
1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.
- 68 The writer's only responsibility is to his art. He will be completely ruthless if he is a good one.
1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.
- 69 If a writer has to rob his mother, he will not hesitate; the Ode on a Grecian Urn is worth any number of old ladies.
1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

70 The aim of every artist is to arrest motion, which is life, by artificial means and hold it fixed so that a hundred years later, when a stranger looks at it, it moves again since it is life.

1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

71 All of us failed to match our dreams of perfection. So I rate us on the basis of our splendid failure to do the impossible.

1956 On his generation of writers. Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

72 If I were reincarnated, I'd want to come back as a buzzard. Nothing hates him or envies him or wants him or needs him. He is never bothered or in danger, and he can eat anything.

1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

73 Success is feminine and like a woman; if you cringe before her she will override you. So the way to treat her is to show her the back of your hand. Then maybe she will do the crawling.

1956 Interview in Paris Review, Spring.

74 No man can write who is not first a humanitarian.

1957 In Time, 25 Feb.

75 The last sound on the worthless earth will be two human beings trying to launch a homemade spaceship and already quarreling about where they are going next.

1959 Speech to UNESCO Commission, in the New York Times, 3 Oct.

76 But a man shouldn't fool with booze until he's fifty; then he's a damn fool if he doesn't.

Quoted in Webb and Wigfall Green William Faulkner of Oxford (1965).

Fauré, Gabriel Urbain 1845–1924

French composer. Director of the Conservatoire (1905–20), he is remembered chiefly for his songs and instrumental music, and for his Requiem (1887–90).

77 If that was music, I have never understood what music was.

1902 After attending the première of Debussy's Pelléas et Mélisande. Quoted in R Orledge Gabriel Fauré (1979).

Favre, Jules Claude Gabriel 1809–80

French lawyer and politician. He took part in the July Revolution (1830), becoming a Republican leader and, after the fall of Napoleon III, Foreign Minister. He negotiated the Treaty of Frankfurt (1871).

78 Not an inch of our territory or a stone of our fortresses.

1870 Reply to Bismarck's demands for concessions, 18 Sep, following France's defeat in the Franco-Prussian War. Quoted in A J P Taylor The Struggle for Mastery in Europe 1848–1918 (1954), p.212.

Fawcett, Percy Harrison 1867–c.1925

English explorer. After military service he made several expeditions to Brazil (1906–25) in search of traces of ancient civilizations, disappearing with his son and a companion in the Mato Grosso region. Their fate is a mystery.

79 There, I believed, lay the greatest secrets of the past yet preserved in our world of today. I had come to the turn of the road; and for better or worse I chose the forest path.

1911 Of South America. Collected in Brian Fawcett (ed) Exploration Fawcett (1953).

80 You need have no fear of any failure.

1925 Last words written to his wife. Collected in Brian Fawcett (ed) Exploration Fawcett (1953).

82 The biggest difference between Lillian as a grown-up and Lillian as a child was that she was taller.

1988 On Lillian Hellman. Lily.

Feiffer, Jules 1929–

US cartoonist and writer. His early cartoons in Village Voice (1956) were followed by Little Murders (a black comedy, 1965), novels and screenplays, including Carnal Knowledge (1971). He currently writes and illustrates children's books.

83 I used to think I was poor. Then they told me I wasn't poor, I was needy. They told me it was self-defeating to think of myself as needy, I was deprived. Then they told me underprivileged was overused. I was disadvantaged. I still don't have a dime. But I have a great vocabulary.

1956 Cartoon caption.

84 As a matter of racial pride we want to be called blacks.

Which has replaced the term Afro-American. Which replaced Negroes. Which replaced colored people. Which replaced darkies. Which replaced blacks.

Quoted in William Safire Language Maven Strikes Again (1990).

Feininger, Lyonel 1871–1956

US Cubist painter, also associated with the German painters of the Blaue Reiter.

85 Each individual work serves as an expression of our most personal state of mind at that particular moment and of the inescapable, imperative need for release by means of an appropriate act of creation: in the rhythm, form, colour and mood of a picture.

1917 Letter to Paul Westheim, quoted in Wolf-Dieter Dube The Expressionists (1972).

Fellini, Federico 1920–93

Italian film director. His most famous and controversial work, La Dolce Vita (1960, 'The Sweet Life'), was a cynical evocation of modern Roman high life.

86 I always direct the same film. I can't distinguish one from the other.

Quoted in Leslie Halliwell Halliwell's Filmgoer's Companion (1993).

Fenton, James 1949–

English satirical poet and critic, formerly a foreign correspondent. He was Professor of Poetry at Oxford (1994–9).

87 It is not what they built. It is what they knocked down.
It is not the houses. It is the spaces between the houses.
It is not the streets that exist. It is the streets that no longer exist.

It is not your memories which haunt you.

It is not what you have written down.

It is what you have forgotten, what you must forget.

What you must go on forgetting all your life.

1981 'A German Requiem'.

88 And I'm afraid, reading this passage now,
That everything I knew has been destroyed
By those whom I admired but never knew;
The laughing soldiers fought to their defeat
And I'm afraid most of my friends are dead.

1982 'In a Notebook'.

89 Oh let us not be condemned for what we are.
It is enough to account for what we do.

1983 'Children in Exile'.

92 Mother Knows Best.

1923 Title of story.

93 I am not belittling the brave pioneer men but the sunbonnet as well as the sombrero has helped to settle this glorious land of ours.

1929 Cimarron, ch.23.

94 America—rather, the United States—seems to me to be the Jew among the nations. It is resourceful, adaptable, maligned, envied, feared, imposed upon. It is warm-hearted, overfriendly; quick-witted, lavish, colorful; given to extravagant speech and gestures; its people are travellers and wanderers by nature, moving, shifting, restless; swarming in Fords, in ocean liners; craving entertainment; volatile.

1939 A Peculiar Treasure, ch.1.

95 It was part of the Texas ritual... We know about champagne and caviar but we talk hog and hominy.

Fergusson, Robert 1750–74

Scottish poet, much admired by Burns. He wrote primarily of Edinburgh life and died in its lunatic asylum aged 24.

6 For thof ye had as wise a snout on
As Shakespeare or Sir Isaac Newton,
Your judgement fouk wou'd hae a doubt on,
I'll tak my aith,
Till they cou'd see ye wi' a suit on O' gude Braid Claith.

1772 'Braid Claith', stanza 9.

7 Wanwordy, crazy, dinsome thing,
As e'er was fram'd to jow or ring,
What gar'd them sic in steeple hing
They ken themsel',

But weel wat I they coudna bring
Waur sounds frae hell.

1772 'To the Tron-Kirk Bell', stanza 1.

- 8 Auld Reikie! wale o' ilka town
That Scotland kens beneath the moon;
Whare couthy chieils at e'ening meet
Their bizzing craigs and mous to weet.

1773 'Auld Reikie, A Poem'.

- 9 Now gae your wa's—Tho' anes as gude
As ever happit flesh and blude,
Yet part we maun—the case sae hard is,
Among the writers and the bardies
That lang they'll brook the auld I trow,
Or neibours cry, 'Weel brook the new'.

Fermat, Pierre de 1601–65

French lawyer, mathematician and founder of number theory. A great deal of his fame stems from Fermat's Last Theorem.

- 15 To divide a cube into two other cubes, a fourth power or in general any power whatever into two powers of the same denomination above the second is impossible, and I have assuredly found an admirable proof of this, but the margin is too narrow to contain it.
Scribbled note in the margins of his copy of Diophantus's Arithmetica. He did not live to provide the promised proof, and the conjecture became famous as Fermat's Last Theorem. In 1993 Andrew Wiles, a British mathematician, claimed to have discovered the proof.

Fermi, Enrico 1901–54

Italian-born US physicist, discoverer of the element neptunium and winner of the 1938 Nobel prize. In 1942 he created the first self-sustaining chain reaction in uranium, which led to the atomic bomb.

- 16 Whatever Nature has in store for mankind, unpleasant as it may be, men must accept, for ignorance is never better than knowledge.

Quoted in Laura Fermi Atoms in the Family (1954).

Fern, Fanny née Willis 1811–72

US writer, whose witty sketches were collected in Fern Leaves from Fanny's Portfolio (1853). When he made his famous attack on women writers, Nathaniel Hawthorne was careful to exempt her.

- 17 Well, it is a humiliating reflection, that the straightest road to a man's heart is through his palate.
1854 Fern Leaves from Fanny's Portfolio, Second Series, 'Hungry Husbands'. Often quoted as 'The way to a man's heart is through his stomach.'

Fernández, Macedonio 1874–1952

Argentinian philosopher, poet and novelist. He lived a secluded life, reluctant to publish his manuscripts. His philosophical postulates anticipate the work of later writers such as Borges and Bioy Casares.

- 18 Todo se ha escrito, todo se ha dicho, todo se ha hecho, oyó Dios que le decían y aún no había creado el mundo, todavía no había nada. También eso ya me lo han dicho, repuso quizá desde la vieja, hendida Nada. Y comenzó. Everything has been written, everything has been said, everything has been made: that's what God heard before creating the world, when there was nothing yet. I have also heard that one, he may have answered from the old, split Nothingness. And then he began.
1967 Museo de la novela de la Eterna ('The Museum of Eternity's Novel'), 'Prólogo a la eternidad'.

Ferré, Rosario 1943–

Puerto Rican novelist and critic, who has lived and taught in both Puerto Rico and the US.

- 19 Dios sólo nos tiene aquí prestados, en este valle de lágrimas no estamos más que de paso. Si llegara algún día a pensar que ha perdido a su hija para el mundo de los hombres, la habrá ganado para el de los ángeles. God has us here only on loan, we are transitory in this vale of tears. If you ever come to think that you have lost your daughter to the world of men, think also that you have given her to that of the angels.
1976 La Bella Durmiente ('Sleeping Beauty').

Ferrier, Kathleen 1912–53

English contralto. The range and richness of her voice, together with her remarkable technical control, rapidly won her a great reputation until her early death from cancer.

- 20 Now I'll have eine kleine pause.
1953 Last words. Quoted in Gerald Moore Am I Too Loud? (1962).

Feuerbach, Ludwig 1804–72

German philosopher, famous for his interpretation of Christian doctrine in secular terms and for its adaptation by Karl Marx.

- 21 While Socrates empties the cup of poison with unshaken soul, Christ exclaims, 'If it is possible, let this cup pass from me'. Christ in this respect is the self-confession of human sensibility.
1841 Das Wesen des Christentums (translated by Mary Ann Evans (George Eliot) as The Essence of Christianity, 1854).
- 22 The power of miracle is the power of imagination.

1841 Das Wesen des Christentums (translated by MaryAnn Evans (George Eliot) as The Essence of Christianity, 1854).

23 Der Mensch ist, was er isst.

Man is what he eats.

Quoted in Jacob Moleschott Lehre der Nahrungsmittel: Für das Volk (1850).

Feynman, Richard P(hillips) 1918–88

US physicist who shared (1965) the Nobel prize in physics for his work on quantum electrodynamics.

24 We have a habit in writing articles published in scientific journals to make the work as finished as possible, to cover up all the tracks, to not worry about the blind alleys or describe how you had the wrong idea first, and so on. So there isn't any place to publish, in a dignified manner, what you actually did in order to do the work.
1966 Nobel lecture.

25 You know how it always is, every new idea, it takes a generation or two until it becomes obvious that there's no real problem. I cannot define the real problem, therefore I suspect there's no real problem, but I'm not sure there's no real problem.

1982 Explaining his feelings on quantum mechanics. In the International Journal of Theoretical Physics, vol.21.

26 If I could explain it to the average person, I wouldn't have been worth the Nobel prize.

1985 In People Magazine, 22 Jul.

27 For a successful technology, reality must take precedence over public relations, for nature cannot be fooled.

Fiedler, Leslie A(aron) 1917–92

US critic and novelist. His reputation rests on his influential and often controversial books on US 'literary anthropology', of which Love and Death in the American Novel (1960) is the best known.

28 Come Back To The Raft Again, Huck Honey!

1955 Title of essay on the repressed homoerotic undercurrent in US writing.

29 To be an American (unlike being English or French or whatever) is precisely to imagine a destiny rather than to inherit one; since we have always been, insofar as we are Americans at all, inhabitants of myth rather than history.

1969 'Cross the Border—Close the Gap', in Playboy, Dec.

Field, Barron 1786–1846

Australian jurist, born in London. He went to Sydney in 1817 as Judge of the New South Wales Supreme Court and published the first collection of Australian verse, First Fruits of Australian Poetry (1819).

30 Kangaroo, Kangaroo!
Thou Spirit of Australia,
That redeems from utter failure,
From perfect desolation,
And warrants the creation
Of this fifth part of the Earth.

1819 First Fruits of Australian Poetry, 'The Kangaroo'.

Field, Eugene 1850–95

US writer and theatre critic. A columnist for the Chicago

Morning News, he achieved a reputation as a humorist and poet with his column 'Sharps and Flats'. He also published several books of children's verse.

31 Mr Creston Clarke played King Lear at the Tabor Grand last night. All through five acts of Shakespeare's tragedy he played the king as though under momentary apprehension that someone else was about to play the ace.

c.1880 Attributed review in the Denver Post.

64 She stands, I fear, poor thing, now, for something younger than she looks.

1919 Valmouth, ch.1.

65 'I know of no joy,' she airily began, 'greater than a cool white dress after the sweetness of confession.'

1919 Valmouth, ch.4.

66 There was really no joy in pouring out one's sins while he sat assiduously picking his nose.

1919 Valmouth, ch.6.

67 His Weariness the Prince entered the room in all his tinted orders.

1923 The Flower Beneath the Foot, ch.1.

68 'O! help me heaven,' she prayed, 'to be decorative and to do right!'

1923 The Flower Beneath the Foot, ch.2.

69 Beneath the strain of expectation even the little iced sugar cakes upon the tea-table looked green with worry.

Fisher (of Lambeth), Geoffrey Francis Fisher, Baron 1887–1972

English prelate and Archbishop of Canterbury (1945–61). He officiated at the coronation of Elizabeth II in Westminster Abbey (1953).

75 The long and distressing controversy over capital punishment is very unfair to anyone meditating murder.

1957 In the Sunday Times, 24 Feb.

Fisher, H(erbert) A(lbert) L(aurens) 1865–1940

English historian. As Education Minister (1916–22) he sponsored the Fisher Act (1918). He wrote on Napoleon, and is best known for his History of Europe (1936).

76 Men wiser and more learned than I have discerned in history a plot, a rhythm, a predetermined pattern. Those harmonies are concealed from me. I can see only one emergency following upon another, as wave follows upon wave; only one real fact with respect to which, since it is unique, there can be no generalizations. Only one safe rule for the historian: that he should recognize in the development of human destinies the play of the contingent and the unforeseen.

1936 History of Europe, introduction.

77 Purity of race does not exist. Europe is a continent of energetic mongrels.

1936 History of Europe, ch.1.

Fisher, M(ary) F(rances) K(ennedy) 1908–92

US cookery writer.

78 Sharing food with another human being is an intimate act that should not be indulged in lightly.

1949 An Alphabet for Gourmets, 'A Is for Dining Alone'.

79 In America we eat, collectively, with a glum urge for food to fill us. We are ignorant of flavor. We are as a nation taste-blind.

1976 The Art of Eating.

Fiske, John 1842–1901

US historian, tutor and librarian at Harvard. He wrote many popular books on US history, Spencerian philosophy and Darwinism.

80 The element of chance... is expelled. Nobody would now waste his time in theorizing about a fortuitous concourse of atoms. We have so far spelled out the history of creation as to see that all has been done in strict accordance with law. The method has been the method of evolution, and the more we study it the more do we discern in it intelligible coherence.

Northern Ireland politician.

81 The people have spoken and the politicians have had to listen.

1998 In the Sunday Telegraph, 24 May.

Fitzgerald, Edward 1809–83

English scholar, poet and translator, a friend of Thackeray, Carlisle and Tennyson. His translation of the Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām was first published anonymously in 1859.

82 Awake! for Morning in the bowl of night
Has flung the stone that puts the stars to flight:
And Lo! the Hunter of the East has caught
The Sultan's turret in a noose of light.

1859 The Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām of Naishapur, stanza 1.

83 Here with a loaf of bread beneath the bough,
A flask of wine, a book of verse—and Thou
Beside me singing in the wilderness—
And wilderness is paradise enow.

1859 The Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām of Naishapur, stanza 12. In the 1879 edn this was changed to 'A Book of Verses underneath the Bough, / A Jug of Wine, a loaf of Bread—and Thou / Beside me singing in the Wilderness— / Oh, Wilderness were Paradise enow!'

84 The moving finger writes; and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all thy piety nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all thy tears wash out a word of it.

1859 The Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām of Naishapur, stanza 51.

85 Drink! for you know not whence you came, nor why:
Drink! for you know not why you go nor where.

1859 The Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām of Naishapur, stanza 74.

86 And when Thyself with shining foot shall pass
Among the guests star-scattered on the grass,
And in thy joyous errand reach the spot
Where I made one—turn down an empty glass!

1859 The Rubāiyāt of Omar Khayyām of Naishapur, stanza 75. In the 1879 edition this was changed to 'And when like her, O Saki, you shall pass...'

Fitzgerald, F(rancis) Scott Key 1896–1940

US novelist who epitomized the Jazz Age in his best-known book, The Great Gatsby (1925). He wrote about US expatriates in Tender is the Night (1934).

87 At eighteen our convictions are hills from which we look;
at forty-five they are caves in which we hide.

1920 'Bernice Bobs Her Hair', in the Saturday Evening Post, 1 May.

88 The wise writer, I think, writes for the youth of his own generation, the critics of the next, and the schoolmasters of ever afterward.

1920 Interview in the New York Tribune, 7 May.

89 She had once been a Catholic, but discovering that priests were infinitely more attentive when she was in process of losing or regaining faith in Mother Church, she maintained an enchantingly wavering attitude.

1921 Of Beatrice Blaine. This Side of Paradise, bk.1, ch.1.

90 If I start to hold somebody's hand they laugh at me, and let me, just as if it wasn't part of them. As soon as I get hold of a hand they sort of disconnect it from the rest of them.

1921 This Side of Paradise, bk.1, ch.1.

91 The Beautiful and the Damned.

1922 Title of novel.

- 92 Personality is an unbroken series of successful gestures.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.1.
- 93 One of those men who reach such an acute limited excellence at twenty-one that everything afterward savors of anti-climax.
1925 Of Tom Buchanan. The Great Gatsby, ch.1.
- 94 In his blue gardens, men and girls came and went like moths among the whisperings and the champagne and the stars.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.3.
- 95 Everyone suspects himself of at least one of the cardinal virtues, and this is mine: I am one of the few honest people that I have ever known.
1925 Nick Carraway, the narrator. The Great Gatsby, ch.3.
- 96 There are only the pursued, the pursuing, the busy, and the tired.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.4.
- 97 Reach me a rose, honey, and pour me a last drop into that there crystal glass.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.4.
- 98 Her voice is full of money.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.7.
- 99 They were careless people, Tom and Daisy—they smashed up things and creatures and then retreated back into their money or their vast carelessness, or whatever it was that kept them together, and let other people clean up the mess they had made.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.9.
- 1 And as the moon rose higher the unessential houses began to melt away until gradually I became aware of the old island here that flowered once for Dutch sailors' eyes—a fresh, green breast of the new world... For a transitory enchanted moment man must have held his breath in the presence of this continent, compelled into an aesthetic contemplation he neither understood nor desired, face to face for the last time in history with something commensurate to his capacity for wonder.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.9.
- 2 Gatsby believed in the green light, the orgiastic future that year by year recedes before us. It eluded us then, but that's no matter—to-morrow we will run faster, stretch out our arms further... And one fine morning... So we beat on, boats against the current, borne back ceaselessly into the past.
1925 The Great Gatsby, ch.9.
- 3 Let me tell you about the very rich. They are different from you and me.
1926 All the Sad Young Men, 'The Rich Boy'. Hemingway published an ironic rejoinder in 'The Snows of Kilimanjaro': 'Yes, they have more money'.
► See Hemingway 394:12.
- 4 Though the Jazz Age continued, it became less and less of an affair of youth. The sequel was like a children's party taken over by the elders.
1931 'Echoes of the Jazz Age', Scribner's Magazine, Nov.
- 5 Mostly, we authors repeat ourselves—that's the truth.
1933 'One Hundred False Starts', in the Saturday Evening Post, 4 Mar.
- 6 Tender is the Night.
1934 Title of novel.
- 7 When people are taken out of their depths they lose their heads, no matter how charming a bluff they may put up.
1934 Tender is the Night, bk.3, ch.12.
- 8 The test of a first-rate intelligence is the ability to hold two opposed ideas in the mind at the same time, and still retain the ability to function.
1936 'The Crack-Up', in Esquire, Feb.
- 9 In a real dark night of the soul, it is always three o'clock in the morning, day after day.
1936 'Handle With Care', in Esquire, Mar.
- 10 Often I think writing is a sheer paring away of oneself leaving always something thinner, barer, more meagre.
1940 Letter, 27 Apr.
- 11 The faces of most American women over thirty are relief maps of petulant and bewildered unhappiness.
1940 Letter, 5 Oct.
- 12 It's not a slam at you when people are rude—it's a slam at the people they've met before.
1941 The Last Tycoon, ch.1.
- 13 No grand idea was ever born in a conference, but a lot of foolish ideas have died there.
Note Books, E, in Edmund Wilson (ed) The Crack-Up (1945).
- 14 Show me a hero and I will write you a tragedy.
Note Books, E, in Edmund Wilson (ed) The Crack-Up (1945).
- 15 Great art is the contempt of a great man for small art.
Note Books, L, in Edmund Wilson (ed) The Crack-Up (1945).
- 16 When the first-rate author wants an exquisite heroine or a lovely morning, he finds that all the superlatives have been worn shoddy by his inferiors. It should be a rule that bad writers must start with plain heroines and ordinary mornings, and, if they are able, work up to something better.
Note Books, L, in Edmund Wilson (ed) The Crack-Up (1945).

Fitzgerald, Penelope Mary 1916–2000

1923–94

English songwriting team, who made their name with At the Drop of a Hat (1956).

22 Mud! Mud! Glorious mud!

Nothing quite like it for cooling the blood.
So follow me, follow,
Down to the hollow,
And there let us wallow
In glorious mud.

1952 'The Hippopotamus'.

23 Eating people is wrong!

1956 'The Reluctant Cannibal'. Malcolm Bradbury took the phrase as the title of his 1959 novel.

French novelist, master of the realistic novel. He studied law at Paris before turning to writing. His works include Madame Bovary (1857) and Trois contes (1877). He intended to include a Dictionnaire des idées reçues in the second volume of Bouvard et Pécuchet.

27 Je suis autant Chinois que Français.

I am as much Chinese as French.

1846 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, 8 Aug.

28 L'Idée seule est éternelle et nécessaire.

The idea alone is eternal and necessary.

1846 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, 9 Aug.

29 Il ne faut pas toujours croire que le sentiment soit tout.

Dans les arts, il n'est rien sans la forme.

You must not think that feeling is everything. Art is nothing without form.

1846 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, 12 Aug.

30 On fait de la critique quand on ne peut pas faire de l'art, de même qu'on se met mouchard quand on ne peut pas être soldat.

Someone is a critic when he cannot be an artist in the same way that a man becomes an informer when he cannot be a soldier.

1846 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, 22 Oct.

31 Les oeuvres les plus belles sont celles où il y a le moins de matière; plus l'expression se rapproche de la pensée, plus le mot colle dessus et disparaît, plus c'est beau. Je crois que l'avenir de l'art est dans ces voies.

The most beautiful works are those that have the least content; the closer the expression is to the thought, the more indistinguishable the word from the content, the more beautiful is the work. I believe that the future of art lies in this direction.

1852 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, 16 Jan.

32 La courtisane est un mythe. Jamais une femme n'a inventé une débauche.

The courtesan is a myth. No woman has ever invented any new sensual pleasure.

1852 Letter to Mme Louise Colet, Aug.

33 L'amour, croyait-elle, devait arriver tout à coup, avec de grands éclats et des fulgurations.

She believed that love should appear instantaneously, with the brilliance of a lightning storm.

1857 Madame Bovary, pt.1, ch.8.

34 La parole humaine est comme un chaudron fêlé où nous battons des mélodies à faire danser les ours, quand on voudrait attendrir les étoiles.

Human speech is like a cracked kettle on which we beat out tunes for bears to dance to, when all the time we are longing to move the stars to pity.

1857 Madame Bovary, pt.1, ch.12.

35 Le charme de la nouveauté, peu à peu tombant comme un vêtement, laissait voir à nu l'éternelle monotonie de la passion, qui a toujours les mêmes formes et le même langage.

The charm of novelty, falling little by little like a robe, revealed the eternal monotony of passion, which has always the same forms and the same language.

1857 Madame Bovary, pt.2, ch.12.

36 Il faut écrire pour soi, avant tout. C'est la seule chance de faire beau.

It is necessary to write for oneself, above all. It is the only hope of creating something beautiful.

1858 Letter to Mlle Leroyer de Chantepie, 11 Jul.

37 Un romancier, selon moi, n'a pas le droit de dire son avis sur les choses de ce monde. Il doit, dans sa vocation, imiter Dieu dans la sienne, c'est-à-dire faire et se taire.

A novelist, in my opinion, does not have the right to give advice on the affairs of the world. He must, in his occupation, imitate God in His; that is to say, create and keep quiet.

1866 Letter to Mlle Bosquet.

38 Axiome: la haine du bourgeois est le commencement de la vertu.

Axiom: Hatred of the bourgeois is the beginning of wisdom.

1867 Letter to George Sand, 10 May.

39 Il tournait dans son désir, comme un prisonnier dans son cachot.

He was circling in his desire, like a prisoner in his dungeon.

1869 L'Education sentimentale, pt.1, ch.5.

40 My kingdom is as wide as the universe and my wants have no limits. I go forward always, freeing spirits and weighing words, without fear, without compassion, without love, without God. I am called science.

Flecker, James Elroy 1884–1915

English poet. He studied Oriental languages and joined the consular service, symptoms of a fascination with the East which is reflected in much of his verse.

44 O friend unseen, unborn, unknown,
Student of our sweet English tongue,
Read out my words at night, alone:
I was a poet, I was young.
1910 'To a Poet a Thousand Years Hence'.

45 We who with songs beguile your pilgrimage
And swear that Beauty lives though lilies die,
We Poets of the proud old lineage
Who sing to find your hearts, we know not why—
What shall we tell you? Tales, marvellous tales
Of ships and stars and isles where good men rest.
1913 'The Golden Journey to Samarkand', epilogue.

46 For lust of knowing what should not be known,
We take the Golden Road to Samarkand.
1913 'The Golden Journey to Samarkand', epilogue.

47 How splendid in the morning glows the lily; with what grace he throws
His supplication to the rose.
1913 'Yasmin'.

48 The dragon-green, the luminous, the dark, the serpent-haunted sea.
1913 'The Gates of Damascus'.

49 For pines are gossip pines the wide world through
And full of runic tales to sigh or sing.
1913 'Brumana'.

50 Half to forget the wandering and pain,
Half to remember days that have gone by,
And dream and dream that I am home again!
1913 'Brumana'.

51 West of these out to seas colder than the Hebrides
I must go
Where the fleet of stars is anchored and the young Star captains glow.
1913 'The Dying Patriot'.

52 A ship, an isle, a sickle moon—
With few but with how splendid stars
The mirrors of the sea are strewn
Between their silver bars!

1913 'A Ship, an Isle, a Sickle Moon'.

53 I have seen old ships sail like swans asleep.
1915 'The Old Ships'.

Fleming, Ian Lancaster 1908–64

54 Live and Let Die.
1954 Title of novel.

55 From Russia with Love.
1957 Title of novel.

56 I would like a medium Vodka dry Martini—with a slice of lemon peel. Shaken and not stirred, please. I would prefer Russian or Polish vodka.
1958 Dr No, ch.14.

Fleming, Marjory 1803–11

Scottish child writer, the subject of an essay by Dr John Brown which popularized her image as 'Pet Marjorie' and invented an affectionate relationship with her distant relative Walter Scott.

57 The most Devilish thing is 8 times 8 and 7 times 7 it is what nature itselfe cant endure.
1810 'Journal 2' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

58 Many girls have not the advantage I have and I [am] very very glad that satan has not geven me boils and many other Misfortunes.
1810 'Journal 2' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

59 To Day I pronounced a word which should never come out of a ladys lips it was that I called John a Impudent Bitch.
1810 'Journal 2' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

60 I would rather have a man dog then a women dog because they do not bear like women dogs, it is a hard case it is shoking.
1810 'Journal 2' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

61 I hope I will be religious again but as for reganing my charecter I despair for it.
1810 'Journal 2' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

62 An annibaptist is a thing I am not a member of:—I am a Pisplikan just now & a Prisbeteren at Kercaldy my native town which thugh dirty is clein in the country.
1811 'Journal 3' in F Sidgwick (ed) The Complete Marjory Fleming (1934).

63 Love is a very papithatick thing as well as troublesom & tiresome but O Isabella forbid me to speak about it.

Fletcher (of Saltoun), Andrew 1655–1716

Scottish patriot, fierce opponent of Stuart policy and of union with England. After the Union he retired in disgust and devoted himself to agriculture.

64 This will be the issue of that darling Plea, of being one and not two; it will be turned upon the Scots with a Vengeance; and their 45 Scots Members may dance round to all Eternity, in this Trap of their own making.
1706 State of the Controversy betwixt United and Separate

Parliaments, a critique of the proposed Union.

65 It is only fit for the slaves who sold it.

1707 Of Scotland, on leaving it after the signing of the Treaty of Union. Quoted in G W T Ormond Fletcher of Saltoun (1897).

Fletcher, John 1579–1625

English dramatist, who collaborated with Beaumont until the latter's marriage in 1613, and also with Shakespeare, Jonson, Middleton, Massinger and Rowley, as well as writing on his own. He died of plague.

66 Care-charming Sleep, thou easer of all woes, Brother to Death.

c.1610–1614 Valentinian, act 5, sc.7.

67 Best while you have it use your breath,
There is no drinking after death.

1616 The Bloody Brother, act 2, sc.2, song (with Ben Jonson, George Chapman and Philip Massinger).

68 And he that will go to bed sober,
Falls with the leaf still in October.

1616 The Bloody Brother, act 2, sc.2, song (with Ben Jonson, George Chapman and Philip Massinger).

69 We are stark naught all, bad's the best of us.

1616 The Bloody Brother, act 4, sc.2 (with Ben Jonson, George Chapman and Philip Massinger).

70 We are beasts now, and the beasts are our masters.

c.1621 The Wild-Goose Chase, act 1, sc.1.

71 Blush at your faults.

c.1621 The Wild-Goose Chase, act 1, sc.1.

72 Give me the plump Venetian, fat, and lusty,
That meets me soft and supple, smiles upon me
As if a cup of full wine leaped to kiss me.

c.1621 The Wild-Goose Chase, act 1, sc.2.

73 Health and an able body are two jewels.

c.1621 The Wild-Goose Chase, act 2, sc.1.

74 Nothing is thought rare
Which is not new and follow'd, yet we know
That what was worn some twenty yeare agoe,
Comes into grace againe.

c.1623 The Noble Gentleman, prologue.

75 Are you at ease now? Is your heart at rest?

Now you have got a shadow, an umbrella
To keep the scorching world's opinion
From your fair credit.

1624 Rule a Wife and Have a Wife, act 3, sc.1.

Florio, John c.1553–1625

English scholar, writer and translator, born of Italian Protestant family in London. His most famous work is his translation of Montaigne's Essays (1603); he also published an Italian–English dictionary, A World of Words (1598), and two compendiums of Italian proverbs.

76 England is the paradise of women, the purgatory of men, and the hell of horses.

1591 Second Frutes, ch.12.

Flynn, Errol 1909–59

Hollywood actor born in Tasmania. He starred in historical swashbucklers such as Captain Blood (1935), The Adventures of Robin Hood (1938) and The Sea Hawk (1940). His off-screen reputation for drinking, drug-taking and womanizing became legendary and eventually affected his career.

77 The public has always expected me to be a playboy and a decent chap never lets his public down.

Quoted in Gary Herman The Book of Hollywood Quotes (1979).

78 Inside this Hollywood playboy is a somewhat decent actor waiting for a chance to prove it. But, since Hollywood will never give me that chance, I drink to obliviate that decent actor.

Quoted in Michael Wilding and Pamela Wilcox Apple Sauce (1982).

Fo, Dario 1926–

Italian playwright and actor-manager, whose often controversial plays and revues deal with political themes. His plays include Accidental Death of an Anarchist (1970) and Trumpets and Raspberries (1984). He was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1997.

79 Non si paga, non si paga.

We won't pay, we won't pay.

1974 Play title, translated into English in 1981 as Can't pay? Won't pay!

Foch, Ferdinand 1851–1929

French marshal, born in Tarbes. He taught at the École de Guerre, and proved himself a great strategist at the Battles of the Marne and Ypres. He commanded the Allied armies in 1918.

80 Mon centre cède, ma droite recule, situation excellente, j'attaque.

My centre is giving way, my right is retreating, situation excellent, I am attacking.

1914 Message sent during the first Battle of the Marne, Sep. Quoted in R Recouly Foch (1919), ch.6.

81 Ce n'est pas un traité de paix, c'est un armistice de vingt ans.

This is not a peace treaty, it is an armistice for twenty years.

1919 At the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. Quoted in Paul Reynaud Memoires (1963), vol.2.

Follett, Ken 1949–

Welsh novelist.

82 They are the rent boys of politics.

2000 Of those who give off-the-record briefings against ministers. In the Observer, 2 Jul.

83 The polite fiction that the Prime Minister's advisers are responsible is absurd. Control-freak Tony doesn't let Alastair Campbell and Peter Mandelson go around saying anything they like... Peter isn't the Prince of Darkness, though he may be Lady Macbeth.

2000 In the Observer, 2 Jul.

Fontenelle, Bernard le Bovier de 1657–1757

French writer, the nephew of Corneille. He introduced mathematics and the natural sciences into the conversation of the salons, and expressed scientific ideas through literature. He was secretary of the Académie des Sciences (1699–1741).

84 Ah! si l'on ôtait les chimères aux hommes, quel plaisir leur resterait?

Oh! If man were robbed of his fantasies, what pleasure would be left him?

1683 Dialogue des morts.

85 L'univers... je l'en estime plus depuis que je sais qu'il

ressemble à une montre; il est surprenant que l'ordre de la nature, tout admirable qu'il est, ne roule que sur des choses si simples.

I have come to esteem the universe more now that I know it resembles a watch; it is surprising that the order of nature, as admirable as it is, only runs on such simple things.

1686 Entretiens sur la pluralité des mondes.

- 86 Les mouvements les plus naturels, et les plus ordinaires, sont ceux qui se font le moins sentir; cela est vrai jusque dans la morale. Le mouvement de l'amour-propre nous est si naturel que, le plus souvent, nous ne le sentons pas. The most natural and ordinary movements are those which are the least felt; this is also true in morals. Pride is so natural to us that, most often, we never feel it.

1686 Entretiens sur la pluralité des mondes, Premier soir.

- 87 Les vrais philosophes sont comme les éléphants, qui en marchant ne posent jamais le second pied à terre que le premier ne soit bien affermi. True philosophers are like elephants, who when walking never place their second foot on the ground until the first is steady.

1686 Entretiens sur la pluralité des mondes, Sixième soir.

- 88 Un grand obstacle au bonheur, c'est de s'attendre à un trop grand bonheur. The greatest obstacle to happiness is the expectation of too great a happiness.

1724 Du bonheur.

- 89 Leibniz n'était point marié; il y avait pensé à l'âge de cinquante ans; mais la personne qu'il avait en vue voulait avoir le temps de faire ses réflexions. Cela donne à Leibniz le loisir de faire aussi les siennes, et il ne se maria point.

Leibniz never married; he had considered it at the age of fifty, but the person he had in mind desired time to think about it. This gave Leibniz time to reflect, also, and he didn't marry.

Éloge des académiciens, Leibniz.

Foot, Michael Mackintosh 1913–

English Labour politician. He resigned the leadership of the Labour Party in 1983, after a heavy defeat in the general election. A pacifist and CND supporter, his prolific writings include a two-volume biography of Aneurin Bevan.

- 90 The only man I knew who could make a curse sound like a caress.

1962 Of Aneurin Bevan. Aneurin Bevan 1897–1945, vol.1.

- 91 The members of our secret service have apparently spent so much time looking under the bed for Communists that they haven't had time to look in the bed.

1964 Speech, House of Commons.

- 93 Men of power have not time to read; yet men who do not read are unfit for power.

1980 Debts of Honour.

Foote, Samuel 1720–77

English actor-manager and playwright. Dubbed the 'English

Aristophanes', he excelled in satirical comedy at the Haymarket Theatre, which he managed. He won a limited theatrical patent as compensation when he lost a leg in a practical joke involving the Duke of York. His plays include The Englishman in Paris (1753) and The Minor (1760).

- 94 So she went into the garden to cut a cabbage-leaf, to make an apple-pie; and at the same time a great she-bear coming up the street, pops its head into the shop. 'What! no soap?' So he died and she very imprudently married the barber; and there were present the Picinnies, and the Joblillies, and the Garyulies, and the Grand Panjandrum himself, with the little round button at top; and they all fell to playing the game of catch-as-catch-can till the gunpowder ran out of the heels of their boots.

Responding to a challenge from the actor Charles Macklin that there was no speech he could not repeat from memory after just one hearing. Macklin had to acknowledge defeat. Foote's phrases 'no soap' and 'the grand Panjandrum' became widely adopted. Quoted in Maria Edgeworth Harry and Lucy (1825), vol.2.

Forbes, (Malcolm Stevenson) 'Steve', Jr 1947–

US publisher. He is President and Chief Executive Officer of Forbes and Editor-in-Chief of Forbes magazine and ran for the Republican presidential nomination in 1996 and 2000.

- 95 People who never get carried away, should be.

1976 In Town and Country, Nov.

- 96 It is unfortunate we can't buy many business executives for what they are worth and sell them for what they think they are worth.

Quoted in David Mahoney Confessions of a Street-Smart Manager (1988).

Ford, Anna 1943–

English television news presenter.

- 97 Let's face it, there are no plain women on television.

1979 In the Observer, 23 Sep.

Ford, Ford Madox originally Ford Hermann Hueffer

1873–1939

English writer and editor. He was associated with the modernist movement, and launched the English Review and later the Transatlantic Review. His best-known novels are The Good Soldier (1915) and the Parade's End (1924–8) tetralogy.

- 98 God knows that the lesson we learn from life is that our very existence in the nature of things is a perpetual harming of somebody else—if only because every mouthful of food that we eat is a mouthful taken from somebody else.

1911 Ancient Lights, dedication.

- 99 I should say that Rossetti was a man without principles at all, who earnestly desired to find salvation along the lines of least resistance.

1911 Of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. Memories and Impressions.

- 1 You cannot be absolutely dumb when you live with a person unless you are an inhabitant of the North of England or the State of Maine.

1915 The Good Soldier, pt.3, ch.4.

- 2 Alas, it does indeed seem a monstrous thing, but after all, what is chaste in Constantinople may have the aspect of lewdness in Liverpool, and what in Liverpool may pass for virtue in Constantinople is frequently regarded as vice.

1915 Letter to John Lane, 17 Dec.

- 3 Only two classes of books are of universal appeal. The very best and the very worst.
1924 Joseph Conrad, a Personal Remembrance, pt.1.
- 4 We used to say that a passage of good style began with a fresh, usual word, and continued with fresh, usual words to the end; there was nothing more to it.
1924 Joseph Conrad, a Personal Remembrance, pt.3.
- 5 We agreed that the novel is absolutely the only vehicle for the thought of our day.
1924 Joseph Conrad, a Personal Remembrance, pt.3.
- 6 I have always had the greatest contempt for novels written with a purpose. Fiction should render, not draw morals. But... I sinned against my gods to the extent of saying that I was going—to the level of the light vouchsafed me—to write a work that should have for its purpose the obviating of all future wars.
1934 On Parade's End.

Ford, Henry 1863–1947

US automobile engineer and manufacturer. In 1903 he started the Ford Motor Company, pioneering 'assembly line' mass-production techniques for his famous Model T (1908–9), 15 million of which were produced up to 1928.

- 7 History is more or less bunk. It's tradition.
1916 Interview, Chicago Tribune, May.
- 8 Any color—so long as it's black.
 Of the Model T Ford. Quoted in Allan Nevins Ford (1957), vol.2.
- 9 Exercise is bunk. If you are healthy, you don't need it: if you are sick, you shouldn't take it.
 Attributed.

Ford, Henry 1917–87

US businessman, grandson of Henry Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co from 1945 and chairman from 1960. He introduced many modernizing measures.

- 10 My name is on the building.
 His habitual justification for having the last word. Recalled on his death, 29 Sep 1987.

Ford, John c.1586–c.1640

English dramatist, who collaborated with Dekker, Fletcher, Rowley and Webster. His works include The Broken Heart (1633), 'Tis Pity She's a Whore (1633) and Perkin Warbeck (1634), a historical play.

- 11 I am... a mushroom
 On whom the dew of heaven drops now and then.
1633 The Broken Heart, act 1, sc.3.
- 12 The joys of marriage are the heaven on earth,
 Life's paradise, great princess, the soul's quiet,
 Sinews of concord, earthly immortality,
 Eternity of pleasures; no restoratives
 Like to a constant woman.
1633 The Broken Heart, act 2, sc.2.
- 13 He hath shook hands with time.
1633 The Broken Heart, act 5, sc.2.
- 14 Nice philosophy
 May tolerate unlikely arguments,

But heaven admits no jest.
1633 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, act 1, sc.1.

- 15 'Tis my destiny
 That you must either love, or I must die.
1633 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, act 1, sc.2.
- 16 Busy opinion is an idle fool.
1633 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, act 5, sc.3.
- 17 Why, I hold fate
 Clasped in my fist, and could command the course
 Of time's eternal motion, hadst thou been
 One thought more steady than an ebbing sea.
1633 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, act 5, sc.4.
- 18 Of one so young, so rich in nature's store,
 Who could not say, 'tis pity she's a whore?
1633 'Tis Pity She's a Whore, act 5, sc.6.
- 19 Tell us, pray, what devil
 This melancholy is, which can transform
 Men into monsters.
1638 The Lady's Trial, act 3, sc.1.

Ford, Lena Guilbert 1870–1916

English songwriter.

- 20 Keep the Home-fires burning,
 While your hearts are yearning,
 Though your lads are far away
 They dream of Home.
 There's a silver lining
 Through the dark clouds shining;
 Turn the dark cloud inside out,
 Till the boys come Home.
1914 'Till the Boys Come Home', a wartime anthem (music by Ivor Novello).

Ford, Richard 1944–

US writer. He has edited anthologies and written short stories and novels, including The Sportswriter (1986) and Independence Day (1996, Pulitzer Prize).

- 21 If there's another thing that sportswriting teaches you, it is that there are no transcendent themes in life. In all cases things are here and they're over, and that has to be enough.
1986 The Sportswriter, ch.1.
- 22 Married life requires shared mystery even when all the facts are known.
1986 The Sportswriter, ch.5.
- 23 Leaving reminds us what we can part with and what we can't, then offers us something new to look forward to, to dream about.
1992 'An Urge for Going', in Harper's, Feb.

Foreman, George 1949–

US boxer, world heavyweight champion (1973–4, 1994–5).

 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Forgy, Howell Maurice 1908–83

US naval chaplain.

- 25 Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition.
1941 At Pearl Harbor, 7 Dec. Reported in the New York Times,

1 Nov 1942, and used as a song title by Frank Loesser, 1942.

► See Blacker 132:93.

Formby, George 1904–61

English entertainer. He developed a music-hall act featuring a ukulele and comic songs which translated well to film, and became one of Britain's most popular pre-war stars.

26 When I'm Cleaning Windows.

1936 Title of song (with Harry Gifford and Fred E Cliffe), first featured in the film Keep Your Seats Please.

27 It's me Auntie Maggie's home-made remedy

Guaranteed never to fail

Now that's the stuff that will do the trick

It's sold at ev'ry chemist for 'one and a kick'.

1941 'Auntie Maggie's Remedy' (with Eddie Latta), song featured in the film Turned Out Nice Again.

Forster, E(dward) M(organ) 1879–1970

28 Here is the heart of our island: the Chilterns, the North Downs, the South Downs radiate hence. The fibres of England unite in Wiltshire, and did we condescend to worship her, here should we erect our national shrine.

1907 The Longest Journey, ch.13.

29 A Room with a View.

1908 Title of novel.

30 They are our gates to the glorious and the unknown. Through them we pass out into adventure and sunshine, to them, alas! we return.

1910 On railway termini. Howards End, ch.2.

31 It will be generally admitted that Beethoven's Fifth Symphony is the most sublime noise that has ever penetrated into the ear of man.

1910 Howards End, ch.5.

32 He believed in sudden conversion, a belief which may be right, but which is peculiarly attractive to the half-baked mind.

1910 Howards End, ch.6.

33 She felt that those who prepared for all the emergencies of life beforehand may equip themselves at the expense of joy.

1910 Howards End, ch.7.

34 The poor cannot always reach those whom they want to love, and they can hardly ever escape from those whom they no longer love.

1910 Howards End, ch.7.

35 Personal relations are the important thing for ever and ever, and not this outer life of telegrams and anger.

1910 Howards End, ch.19.

36 Only connect! That was the whole of her sermon. Only connect the prose and the passion, and both will be exalted, and human love will be seen at its height. Live in fragments no longer.

1910 Howards End, ch.22.

37 Death destroys a man: the idea of death saves him.

1910 Howards End, ch.27.

38 There is much to be said for apathy in education.

1913–14 Maurice (published 1971), ch.1.

39 Religion is far more acute than science, and if it only added judgement to insight, would be the greatest thing in the world.

1913–14 Maurice (published 1971), ch.44.

40 'I don't think I understand people very well. I only know whether I like or dislike them.' 'Then you are an Oriental.'

1924 A Passage to India, ch.2.

41 The so-called white races are really pinko-grey.

1924 A Passage to India, ch.7.

42 Nothing in India is identifiable, the mere asking of a question causes it to disappear or to merge in something else.

1924 A Passage to India, ch.8.

43 The echo began in some indescribable way to undermine her hold on life. Coming at a moment when she chanced to be fatigued, it had managed to murmur, 'Pathos, piety, courage—they exist, but are identical, and so is filth. Everything exists, nothing has value.'

1924 A Passage to India, ch.14.

44 Yes—oh dear yes—the novel tells a story.

1927 Aspects of the Novel, ch.2.

45 Ulysses... is a dogged attempt to cover the universe with mud, an inverted Victorianism, an attempt to make crossness and dirt succeed where sweetness and light failed, a simplification of the human character in the interests of Hell.

1927 Of James Joyce's 1922 novel. Aspects of the Novel, ch.6.

46 They go forth into a world... of men who are as various as the sands of the sea; into a world of whose richness and subtlety they have no conception. They go forth into it with well-developed bodies, fairly developed minds, and undeveloped hearts.

1936 On public schoolboys. Abinger Harvest, 'Notes on English Character'.

47 It is not that the Englishman can't feel—it is that he is afraid to feel.

1936 Abinger Harvest, 'Notes on English Character'.

48 It is frivolous stuff, and how rare, how precious is frivolity! How few writers can prostitute all their powers! They are always implying 'I am capable of higher things.'

1936 Abinger Harvest, 'Ronald Firbank'.

49 The historian must have a third quality as well: some conception of how men who are not historians behave. Otherwise he will move in a world of the dead.

1936 Abinger Harvest, 'Captain Edward Gibbon'.

50 Works of art, in my opinion, are the only objects in the material universe to possess internal order, and that is why, though I don't believe that only art matters, I do believe in Art for Art's sake.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy, 'Art for Art's Sake'.

51 I do not believe in Belief... Lord I disbelieve—help thou my unbelief.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy, 'What I Believe'.

52 I hate the idea of causes, and if I had to choose between betraying my country and betraying my friend, I hope I should have the guts to betray my country.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy, 'What I Believe'.

53 So two cheers for democracy: one because it admits variety and two because it permits criticism. Two cheers are quite enough: there is no occasion to give three. Only Love the Beloved Republic deserves that.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy; 'What I Believe'. The phrase 'Love the Beloved Republic' is taken from Swinburne's poem 'Hertha'.

54 Think before you speak is criticism's motto; speak before you think creation's.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy; 'Raison d'être of Criticism'.

55 Creative writers are always greater than the causes that they represent.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy; 'Gide and George'.

56 I would suggest that the only books that influence us are those for which we are ready, and which have gone a little farther down our particular path than we have yet got ourselves.

1951 Two Cheers for Democracy; 'Books That Influenced Me'.

57 One was left, too, with a gap in Christianity: the canonical gospels do not record that Christ laughed or played. Can a man be perfect if he never laughs or plays? Krishna's jokes may be vapid, but they bridge a gap.

1953 The Hill of Devi; 'Gokul Ashtami'.

Foster, Sir George 1847–1931

Canadian politician.

58 These somewhat troublesome days when the great Mother Empire stands splendidly isolated in Europe.

1896 Speech in the House of Commons, 16 Jan. The Times reported the speech under the heading of 'Splendid Isolation', 22 Jan.

Foster, Stephen Collins 1826–64

US songwriter. His 125 compositions include 'The Old Folks at Home', 'Camptown Races' and 'Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair', but despite their success, he died in poverty and obscurity.

59 Gwine to run all night,
Gwine to run all day,
I'll bet my money on de bob-tail nag,
Somebody bet on de bay.

1850 'Camptown Races', chorus.

60 Way down upon the Swanee River,
Far, far away,
There's where my heart is turning ever;
There's where the old folks stay.

1851 'The Old Folks at Home'.

61 I dream of Jeannie with the light brown hair,
Floating, like a vapour, on the soft summer air.

1854 'Jeannie with the Light Brown Hair'.

62 Beautiful dreamer, wake unto me,
Starlight and dewdrop are waiting for thee.

1864 'Beautiful Dreamer'.

Foster, Vince(nt W, Jr) 1945–93

US lawyer. Deputy Counsel in the Clinton White House.

63 I was not meant for the spotlight of public life in Washington. Here running people down is considered sport.

1993 Note found after his suicide. Reported in the New York Times, 13 Aug.

Foucault, Michel 1926–84

French philosopher and historian of ideas.

64 For the nineteenth century, the initial model of madness would be to believe oneself to be God, while for the preceding centuries it had been to deny God.

1967 Madness and Civilization.

Fowles, John Robert 1926–

English novelist. He scored a cult success with The Magus (1965, revised 1977), and consolidated his reputation as an ambitious experimental writer with The French Lieutenant's Woman (1969, filmed 1981).

65 All perfect republics are a perfect nonsense. The craving to risk death is our last great perversion. We come from night, we go into night. Why live in night?

1965 The Magus, ch.19.

66 And if you are wise you will never pity the past for what it did not know, but pity yourself for what it did.

1965 The Magus, ch.24.

67 That is the great distinction between the sexes. Men see objects, women see the relationship between objects... It is an extra dimension of feeling which we men are without and one that makes war abhorrent to all real women—and absurd.

1965 The Magus, ch.52.

68 In essence the Renaissance was simply the green end of one of civilization's hardest winters.

1969 The French Lieutenant's Woman, ch.10.

69 We all write poems; it is simply that poets are the ones who write in words.

1969 The French Lieutenant's Woman, ch.19.

70 The more abhorrent a news item the more comforting it was to be the recipient since the fact that it had happened elsewhere proved that it had not happened here, was not happening here, and would therefore never happen here.

1974 The Ebony Tower, 'Poor Koko'.

71 Cricket remains for me the game of games, the sanspareil, the great metaphor, the best marriage ever devised of mind and body... For me it remains the Proust of pastimes, the subtlest and most poetic, the most past-and-present; whose beauty can lie equally in days, in a whole, or in one tiny phrase, a blinding split second. Quick Singles, 'Vain Memories'. Quoted in Helen Exley Cricket Quotations (1992).

72 The diary will really try and tell people who you are and what you were. The alternative is writing nothing, or creating a totally lifeless, as it is leafless, garden.

Fox, Charles James 1749–1806

English Liberal statesman. He formed an administration with Lord North in 1783, and on its failure became Pitt's leading parliamentary adversary. He was a strong opponent of the war with France, and an advocate of non-intervention.

74 How much the greatest event it is that ever happened in the world—and how much the best.

1779 On the fall of the Bastille. Letter to Richard Fitzpatrick, 30 Jul.

75 The worst of a revolution is a restoration.

1785 House of Commons, 10 Dec.

76 I die happy.

1806 Last words. Quoted in Lord John Russell Life and Times of C J Fox, vol.3 (1860), ch.9.

Fox, George 1624–91

English itinerant Puritan preacher and writer, who was imprisoned for dissent. He was the founder of Society of Friends (known as 'Quakers').

77 One morning, as I was sitting by the fire, a great cloud came over me, and a temptation beset me, and I sate still... And as I sate still under it and let it alone, a living hope rose in me, and a true voice arose in me which cried: There is a living God who made all things. And immediately the cloud and temptation vanished away, and the life rose over it all, and my heart was glad, and I praised the living God.

1648 Journal of George Fox.

78 Walk cheerfully over the world, answering that of God in everyone.

1656 Journal of George Fox.

Frame, Janet Paterson also known as Jean Paterson Frame 1924–2004

New Zealand poet and writer. She was misdiagnosed as schizophrenic, and spent eight years in psychiatric hospitals. Her autobiographical trilogy To the Is-land (1982), An Angel at My Table (1984) and The Envoy from Mirror City (1985) was made into an award-winning film by Jane Campion.

79 What use the green river, the gold place, if time and death pinned human in the pocket of my land not rest from taking underground the green all-willowd and white rose and bean flower and morning-mist picnic of song in pepper-pot breast of thrush?

1961 Owls Do Cry, pt.1, ch.4.

80 From the first place of liquid darkness, within the second place of air and light, I set down the following record with its mixture of fact and truths and memories of truths and its direction always toward the Third Place, where the starting point is myth.

1982 To the Is-land, ch.1, 'In the Second Place'.

81 I was born... with ready-made parents and a sister and brother who had already begun their store of experience, inaccessible to me except through their language and the record, always slightly different, of our mother and father, and as each member of the family was born, each, in a sense with memories on loan, began to supply the individual furnishings of each Was-land, each Is-land, and the hopes and dreams of the Future.

1982 To the Is-land, ch.1, 'In the Second Place'.

82 The word permanent... had its own kind of revenge on those who misused it, for the Bible said that nothing was permanent and everything came and went.

1982 To the Is-land, ch.2, 'Toward the Is-Land'.

France, Anatole pseudonym of Jacques Anatole François Thibault 1844–1924

French novelist, poet and essayist, who won the Nobel prize for literature in 1921. Along with Émile Zola, he championed the cause of Dreyfus.

83 Le bon critique est celui qui raconte les aventures de son âme au milieu des chefs-d'oeuvres.

95 Souvent femme varie,

Mal habil qui s'y fie

Woman is often fickle,

Foolish the man who trusts her.

Couplet scratched by the King on the glass of a window at Chambord. Quoted in Vincent Cronin Louis XIV (1964), p.175.

96 But is he a patriot for me?

On being assured of the loyalty of a candidate for high office.

The phrase was later used as a title by John Osborne for his 1965 play.

St Francis of Assisi c.1181–1226

Italian monk and saint, founder of the Franciscan order. The son of a wealthy merchant, in 1206 he renounced his patrimony and became a hermit, attracting followers who rejected all forms of property. His works include sermons, ascetic treatises and hymns.

97 Bene veniat soror mea mors.

Welcome, my sister Death.

1226 Last words. Quoted in Thomas of Celano Life of St Francis (c.1245), bk.2, ch.163.

98 Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace.

Where there is hatred, let me sow love;

Where there is injury, pardon;

Where there is doubt, faith;

Where there is despair, hope;

Where there is darkness, light;

Where there is sadness, joy.

O divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek

To be consoled as to console;

To be understood as to understand;

To be loved as to love.

For it is in giving that we receive;

It is in pardoning that we are pardoned;

And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Attributed prayer, traditionally known as the 'Prayer of St Francis'.

Francis, Dick (Richard Stanley) 1920–

English jockey and writer. In the Grand National of 1956 he was on the point of winning when his horse collapsed. Subsequently he became a writer of popular thrillers with a racing background.

Franklin, Benjamin 1706–90

US statesman, author and scientist, whose popular Poor Richard's Almanack first appeared in 1732. He proved that lightning and electricity are identical and suggested that buildings should be protected by lightning conductors. He was involved in the Declaration of Independence (1775), and helped secure British recognition (1783).

6 The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer,
(Like the cover of an old book,
Its contents worn out,
And stripped of its lettering and gilding)
Lies here, food for worms!
Yet the work itself shall not be lost,
For it will, as he believed, appear once more
In a new
And more beautiful edition,
Corrected and amended
By its Author!

1728 Proposed epitaph for himself.

14 Some punishment seems preparing for a people who are so ungratefully abusing the best Constitution and the best king that any nation was ever blessed with.

1768 Speech in London during the Wilkes riots, May.

15 There never was a good war or a bad peace.

1773 Letter, 11 Sep.

16 We must indeed all hang together or, most assuredly, we shall all hang separately.

1776 On signing the Declaration of Independence, 4 Jul.

17 Furnished as all Europe is with Academies of Science, with nice instruments and the spirit of experimentation, the progress of human knowledge will be rapid and discoveries made of which we have at present no conception. I begin to be almost sorry I was born since I cannot have the happiness of knowing what will be known a hundred years hence.

1783 Letter to Sir Joseph Banks, President of the Royal Society, 27 Jul.

18 In this world nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes.

21 Grannie remarked that I might have the spirit of an Australian but I had by no means the manners of a lady.

1901 My Brilliant Career, ch.19.

22 I am proud that I am an Australian, a daughter of the Southern Cross, a child of the mighty bush. I am thankful I am a peasant, a part of the bone and muscle of my nation, and earn my bread by the sweat of my brow, as man was meant to do. I rejoice I was not born a parasite, one of the blood-suckers who loll on velvet and satin, crushed from the proceeds of human sweat and blood and souls.

Friedan, Betty (Elizabeth) Naomi née Goldstein 1921–

US feminist and writer, founder of the National Organization for Women (1966) and author of the seminal feminist text The Feminine Mystique (1963).

59 The problem lay buried, unspoken, for many years in the minds of American women. It was a strange stirring, a sense of dissatisfaction, a yearning that women suffered in the middle of the twentieth century in the United States. Each suburban wife struggled with it alone. As she made the beds, shopped for groceries, matched slipcover material, ate peanut butter sandwiches with her children, chauffeured Cub Scouts and Brownies, lay beside her husband at night—she was afraid to ask even of herself the silent question—'Is this all?'

Friedrich, Caspar David 1774–1840

German painter, who depicted landscape as vast and desolate expanses in which man is a melancholy spectator.

67 Just as the pious man prays without speaking a word and the Almighty hearkens unto him, so the artist with true feelings paints and the sensitive man understands and recognizes it.

Quoted in S Hinz Caspar David Friedrich in Briefen und Bekenntnissen (1968).

68 The Divine is everywhere, even in a grain of sand, here I have represented it in bull-rushes.

Remark to the German artist Peter Cornelius, quoted in S Hinz Caspar David Friedrich in Briefen und Bekenntnissen (1968).

69 Close your bodily eye, so that you may see your picture first with the spiritual eye. Then bring to the light of day that which you have seen in the darkness so that it may react on others from the outside inwards.

Quoted in Caspar David Friedrich 1774–1840, Tate Gallery (1972).

70 Despite what even many artists appear to believe, art is not and should not be merely a skill. It should actually be completely and utterly the language of our feelings, our frame of mind; indeed, even of our devotion and our prayers.

Quoted in Caspar David Friedrich 1774–1840, Tate Gallery (1972).

71 The artist should not only paint what he sees before him, but also what he sees within him. If, however, he sees nothing within him, then he should also omit to paint that which he sees before him.

Quoted in Caspar David Friedrich 1774–1840, Tate Gallery (1972).

72 Every true work of art must express a distinct feeling.

Quoted in William Vaughn Romantic Art (1978).

Friel, Brian 1929–

Northern Irish playwright and short-story writer.

73 Two such wonderful phrases—'I understand perfectly' and 'That is a lie'—a précis of life, aren't they?

1983 The Communication Cord.

74 Do you want the whole countryside to be laughing at us?—women of our years?—mature women, dancing?

1990 Dancing at Lughnasa.

Frisch, Max Rudolph 1911–91

Swiss writer, novelist and playwright. His novels include I'm Not Stiller (1954), Homo Faber (1957), and A Wilderness of Mirrors (1964). His plays include The Firebugs (1953) and Andorra (1961, translated 1962).

75 Ich kann nur berichten, was ich weiß.

I can only report on what I know.

1957 Homo Faber, pt.1.

76 Technik...Kniff, die Welt so einzurichten, dass wir sie nicht erleben müssen.

Technology... the knack of so arranging the world that we don't have to experience it.

1957 Homo Faber, pt.2.

77 Kein Mensch, wenn er die Welt sieht, die sie ihm hinterlassen, versteht seine Eltern.

No one understands their parents when we look at the world that they have bequeathed us.

1961 Andorra, sc.9.

78 Ich habe kein Gemüt, sondern Angst.

I have no comfort, only anxiety.

1961 Andorra, sc.9.

79 Man kann sich seinen Vater nicht wählen.

A person cannot choose his father.

1961 Andorra, 10.

80 Ich gehe ins Theater ja auch nicht als Voyeur.

I do not go into the theatre as a voyeur.

1967 Biographie.

Frohman, Charles 1860–1915

US theatre manager. Among his many successful productions were several plays by J.M. Barrie.

81 Why fear death? It's the most beautiful adventure in life.

1915 Last words, paraphrasing a line in J.M. Barrie's Peter Pan, said to the actress Rita Jolivet as the Lusitania went down after being torpedoed by a German submarine, 7 May.

Fromm, Erich 1900–80

German-born US psychoanalyst and author, who emigrated in 1934 to the US, where he practised psychoanalysis and lectured at various institutions.

82 The pace of science forces the pace of technique.

Theoretical physics forces atomic energy on us; the successful production of the fission bomb forces upon us the manufacture of the hydrogen bomb. We do not choose our problems, we do not choose our products; we are pushed, we are forced—by what? By a system which has no purpose and goal transcending it, and which makes man its appendix.

1955 The Sane Society.

Frost, Robert Lee 1874–1963

US poet, whose work is rooted in New England. He established his reputation with A Boy's World (1913) and North of Boston (1914) and won Pulitzer Prizes in 1924, 1931, 1937 and 1943.

83 Most of the change we think we see in life
Is due to truths being in and out of favour.

1914 North of Boston, 'The Black Cottage'.

84 Something there is that doesn't love a wall,
That sends the frozen-ground-swell under it,
And spills the upper boulders in the sun;
And makes gaps even two can pass abreast.

1914 North of Boston, 'Mending Wall'.

85 Before I built a wall I'd ask to know
What I was walling in or walling out,
And to whom I was like to give offence.

1914 North of Boston, 'Mending Wall'.

86 Part of a moon was falling down the west,
Dragging the whole sky with it to the hills.

1914 North of Boston, 'The Death of the Hired Man'.

87 'Home is the place where, when you have to go there,
They have to take you in.'

'I should have called it

Something you somehow haven't to deserve.'

1914 North of Boston, 'The Death of the Hired Man'.

88 A sentence is a sound in itself on which sounds called words may be strung.

1914 Letter to John Bartlett, 22 Feb.

89 I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I—
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

1916 'The Road Not Taken'.

90 We love the things we love for what they are.

1916 'Hyla Brook'.

91 The question that he frames in all but words
Is what to make of a diminished thing.

1916 'The Oven Bird'.

92 I'd like to go by climbing a birch tree
And climb black branches up a snow-white trunk
Toward heaven, till the tree could bear no more,
But dipped its top and set me down again.
That would be good both going and coming back.
One could do worse than be a swinger of birches.

1916 'Birches'.

93 They listened at his heart.

Little—less—nothing!—and that ended it.

No more to build on there. And they, since they

Were not the one dead, turned to their affairs.

1916 'Out, Out—'.

94 No wonder poets sometimes have to seem
So much more businesslike than businessmen.

Their wares are so much harder to get rid of.

1923 'New Hampshire'.

95 He knew too well for any earthly use
The line where man leaves off and nature starts,
And never overstepped it save in dreams.

1923 'New Hampshire'.

96 Never tell me that not one star of all
That slip from heaven at night and softly fall
Has been picked up with stones to build a wall.

1923 'A Star in a Stoneboat'.

97 Some say the world will end in fire,
Some say in ice.

- From what I've tasted of desire
I hold with those who favour fire.
But if I had to perish twice,
I think I know enough of hate
To say that for destruction ice
Is also great
And would suffice.
1923 'Fire and Ice', complete poem.
- 98 The woods are lovely, dark and deep.
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep,
And miles to go before I sleep.
1923 'Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening'.
- 99 I have been one acquainted with the night.
1928 'Acquainted with the Night'.
- 1 It is this backward motion toward the source,
Against the stream, that most we see ourselves in.
The tribute of the current to the source.
1928 'West-Running Brook'.
- 2 The land may vary more;
But wherever the truth may be—
The water comes ashore,
And the people look at the sea.
1928 'Neither Far Out Nor in Deep'.
- 3 A poet is a person who thinks there is something special about a poet and about his loving one unattainable woman. You'll usually find he takes the physical out on whores. I am defining a romantic poet—and there is no other kind. An unromantic poet is a self-contradiction.
1930 Letter to Louis Untermeyer, 6 Jun.
- 4 Writing free verse is like playing tennis with the net
down.
1935 Address at Milton Academy, Mass, 17 May.
- 5 What brought the kindred spider to that height,
Then steered the white moth thither in the night?
What but design of darkness to appall?—
If design govern in a thing so small.
1936 'Design'.
- 6 I never dared be radical when young
For fear it would make me conservative when old.
1936 'Ten Mills, 1. Precaution'.
- 7 Like a piece of ice on a hot stove the poem must ride on its own melting. A poem may be worked over once it is in being, but may not be worried into being.
1939 'The Figure a Poem Makes', preface to Collected Poems.
- 8 Happiness Makes Up in Height for What It Lacks in Length.
1942 Title of poem.
- 9 The land was ours before we were the land's.
She was our land more than a hundred years
Before we were her people.
1942 'The Gift Outright'.
- 10 And were an epitaph to be my story
I'd have a short one ready for my own.
I would have written of me on my stone:
I had a lover's quarrel with the world.
1942 'The Lesson for Today'.
- 11 We dance round in a ring and suppose,
But the Secret sits in the middle and knows.
1942 'The Secret Sits', complete poem.
- 12 I have never started a poem yet whose end I knew.
Writing a poem is discovering.
1955 In the New York Times, 7 Nov.
- 13 Forgive, O Lord, my little jokes on Thee
And I'll forgive Thy great big one on me.
1959 'The Preacher', complete poem.
- 14 Poetry is a way of taking life by the throat.
Quoted in Elizabeth S Sergeant Robert Frost: The Trial By Existence (1960).
- 15 Summoning artists to participate
In the august occasions of the state
Seems something artists ought to celebrate.
1961 'For John F Kennedy: His Inauguration', 20 Jan. Snow-blindness prevented the aged poet from reading beyond the first three lines on the occasion.
- 16 Courage is in the air in bracing whiffs.
1961 'For John F Kennedy: His Inauguration', 20 Jan.
- 17 Education is... hanging around until you've caught on.
Recalled on his death, 29 Jan 1963.
- 18 The mind skating circles around itself as it moves forward.
His definition of style. Recalled on his death, 29 Jan 1963.
- 19 The right reader of a good poem can tell the moment it strikes him that he has taken an immortal wound—that he will never get over it.
Recalled on his death, 29 Jan 1963.
- 20 Poetry is what is lost in translation. It is also what is lost in interpretation.
Quoted in Louis Untermeyer Robert Frost: A Backward Look (1964).

Froude, James Anthony 1818–94

English writer and historian, who resigned his Oxford fellowship after controversy over his early novels. He wrote a History of England from the Fall of Wolsey to the Spanish Armada (12 vols, 1856–69).

- 21 Wild animals never kill for sport. Man is the only one to whom the torture and death of his fellow-creatures is amusing in itself.
1886 Oceana.

Fry, C(harles) B(urgess) 1872–1956

English all-round sportsman, who represented his country in athletics, cricket and soccer. As a cricketer, he played 26 Tests for England, some as captain. After World War II he served as India's delegate to the League of Nations and declined an offer of the throne of Albania.

- 22 It is a standing insult to sportsmen to have to play under a rule which assumes that players intend to trip, hack and push their opponents, and to behave like cads of the most unscrupulous kidney. The lines marking a penalty area are a disgrace to the playing fields of a public school.
1907 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).
- 23 In football it is widely acknowledged that if both sides agree to cheat, cheating is fair.
1911 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).
- 24 The game is so full of plot-interest and drama.
Of rugby union. Quoted in E H D Sewell Rugger: The Man's Game (1950).

Fry, Christopher pseudonym of Christopher Harris 1907–
English playwright. His early poetic drama was succeeded by comedies and tragi-comedies such as A Phoenix Too Frequent (1946) and Venus Observed (1950).

25 The Lady's Not for Burning.

1949 Play title, subsequently reworked by Margaret Thatcher in the form 'The lady's not for turning' at the Conservative Party Conference, 1980.

26 What after all

Is a halo? It's only one more thing to keep clean.

1949 The Lady's Not for Burning, act 1.

27 Where in this small-talking world can I find

A longitude with no platitude?

1949 The Lady's Not for Burning, act 3.

28 I hope

I've done nothing so monosyllabic as to cheat.

A spade is never so merely a spade as the word

Spade would imply.

1950 Venus Observed, act 1.

29 The Dark Is Light Enough.

1954 Title of play.

Fry, Elizabeth 1780–1845

English Quaker prison reformer who devoted her life to prison and asylum reform at home and abroad.

30 Does capital punishment tend to the security of the people? By no means. It hardens the hearts of men, and makes the loss of life appear light to them; and it renders life insecure, inasmuch as the law holds out that property is of greater value than life.

Quoted in Rachel E Cresswell and Katharine Fry Memoir of the Life of Elizabeth Fry (1848).

31 Punishment is not for revenge, but to lessen crime and reform the criminal.

Quoted in Rachel E Cresswell and Katharine Fry Memoir of the Life of Elizabeth Fry (1848).

Fry, Roger Eliot 1866–1934

English artist and art critic, who championed modern artists such as Cézanne, organizing the first London exhibition of Post-Impressionists in 1910. He devised an aesthetic theory of 'significant form'.

32 The trouble with Moore is that he knows what a work of art is, and is trying to make one.

c.1930 Of Henry Moore. Quoted in Robert Medley Drawn from the Life: a Memoir (1983).

33 Art is significant deformity.

Quoted in Virginia Woolf Roger Fry (1940), ch.8.

Fry, Stephen 1957–

English actor, writer and broadcaster.

34 Only my tongue, sir.

2004 When asked by a security guard at Heathrow Airport whether he had any sharp objects on him. Quoted in the Observer, 6 Jun.

Frye, Northrop 1912–91

Canadian literary critic and Episcopalian priest. His influential Anatomy of Criticism (1957) explores the common motifs and myths underlying literature.

35 Literature is a human apocalypse, man's revelation to man, and criticism is not a body of adjudications, but the awareness of that revelation, the last judgment of mankind.

1963 The Educated Imagination, 'The Keys of Dreamland'.

36 Literature is conscious mythology: as society develops, its mythical stories become structural principles of story-telling, its mythical concepts, sun-gods and the like, become habits of metaphoric thought. In a fully mature literary tradition the writer enters into a structure of traditional stories and images.

1971 The Bush Garden, 'Conclusion'.

37 Where is here?

'Haunted by Lack of Ghosts', in David Staines (ed) The Canadian Imagination (1977).

38 Most of my writing consists of an attempt to translate aphorisms into continuous prose.

Quoted in Richard Kostelanetz, 'The Literature Professors' Literature Professor', in The Michigan Quarterly Review, Fall 1978.

39 The knowledge that you can have is inexhaustible, and what is inexhaustible is benevolent. The knowledge that you cannot have is of the riddles of birth and death, of our future destiny and the purposes of God. Here there is no knowledge, but illusions that restrict freedom and limit hope. Accept the mystery behind knowledge: It is not darkness but shadow.

1988 Address, Metropolitan United Church, Toronto, 10 Apr, quoted by Alexandra Johnston in Vic Report, spring 1991.

40 Even the human heart is slightly left of centre.

Quoted by Paul Wilson in 'Growing Up with Orwell', in The Idler, Jul–Aug 1989.

Fuentes, Carlos 1928–

Mexican novelist and playwright, press secretary with the UN and Ambassador to France (1975–7). His works include short stories, and novels such as Terra nostra (1975), The Old Gringo (1985) and The Years with Laura Díaz (1999).

41 Yo soy un artista. El placer de la carne le resta fuerzas a mi vocación pictórica, prefiero sentir que los jugos de mi sexo fluyen hacia un cuadro, lo irrigan, lo fertilizan, lo realzan; cástrame el goce de la carne, satisféceme el goce del arte.

I am an artist. The pleasure of the flesh robs strength from my artistic vocation, I prefer to feel my sexual juices flow toward a painting, wash over it, fertilize it, realize it; the delights of the flesh castrate me, the delights of art satisfy me.

1975 Terra nostra, 'El cronista'.

42 What America does best is to understand itself. What it does worst is to understand others.

Fulbright, J(ames) William 1905–95

US Democratic politician, lawyer and author. As Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, he became a major critic of the Vietnam War (1964–75).

43 We have the power to do any damn fool thing we want to do, and we seem to do it every 10 minutes.

1952 In Time, 4 Feb.

44 In a democracy dissent is an act of faith. Like medicine, the test of its value is not in its taste, but its effects.

1966 Speech to the US Senate, 21 Apr.

45 Fearful and hostile behavior is not rational but neither is it uncommon, either to individuals or to nations, including our own.

1995 On the 'arrogance of power' of US policy on Vietnam. In the New Yorker, 6 Mar.

Fuller, Robert 1932–

Fuller, (Sarah) Margaret, Marchioness Ossoli

1810–50

US feminist and literary critic. She edited Dial (a transcendentalist journal, 1840–2) and moved to New York (1844) then Italy (1847), where she married Marquis Ossoli and was involved in the Revolution. She was shipwrecked returning to New York.

47 Beware of over-great pleasure in being popular or even beloved.

1840 Letter to her brother, 20 Dec. Collected in Alice Rossi The Feminist Papers (1973).

48 As the friend of the negro assumes that one man cannot, by right, hold another in bondage, should the friend of woman assume that man cannot, by right, lay even well-meant restrictions on woman.

1843 'The Great Lawsuit', in Dial, vol.4, Jul.

49 It is well known that of every strong woman they say she has a masculine mind.

1843 'The Great Lawsuit', in Dial, vol.4, Jul.

Fuller, Peter 1947–90

English art critic, writer and founder of the magazine Modern Painters.

50 It is only a mild exaggeration to say that now no one wants Fine Artists, except Fine Artists, and that neither they nor anyone else have the slightest idea what they should be doing, or for whom they should be doing it.

Galbraith, John Kenneth 1908–

Canadian-born US economist and diplomat, Professor at Harvard (1949–75), Ambassador to India (1961–3) and adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

- 90 The charge that an idea is radical, impractical, or long-haired is met by showing that a prominent businessman has favored it...an additional tactic in this strategy of defense...is to assert that Winston Churchill once sponsored the particular idea. If one is challenged, a sufficiently careful investigation will show that he did.

1955 Economics and the Art of Controversy.

- 91 Few things are as immutable as the addiction of political groups to the ideas by which they have once won office.

1958 The Affluent Society.

- 92 In the affluent society, no useful distinction can be made between luxuries and necessities.

1958 The Affluent Society.

- 93 It takes a certain brashness to attack the accepted economic legends but none at all to perpetuate them. So they are perpetuated.

1960 The Liberal Hour.

- 94 Politics is not the art of the possible. It consists in choosing between the disastrous and the unpalatable.

1962 Letter to John F Kennedy, 2 Mar.

► See Butler 176:34.

- 95 The line dividing the state from what is called private enterprise, or at least from the highly organized part of it, is a traditional fiction.

1967 The New Industrial State.

- 96 The real accomplishment of modern science and technology consists in taking ordinary men, informing them narrowly and deeply and then, through appropriate organization, arranging to have their knowledge combined with that of other specialized but equally ordinary men. This dispenses with the need for genius. The resulting performance, though less inspiring, is far more predictable.

1967 The New Industrial State.

- 97 There are times in politics when you must be on the right side and lose.

1968 In the Observer, 11 Feb.

- 98 It is the good fortune of the affluent country that the opportunity cost of economic discussion is low and hence it can afford all kinds.

1971 Economics, Peace, and Laughter.

- 99 In a world where for pedagogic and other purposes a very large number of economists is required, an arrangement which discourages many of them from rendering public advice would seem to be well conceived.

1971 Economics, Peace, and Laughter.

- 1 Much discussion of money involves a heavy overlay of priestly incantation.

1975 Money, p.4.

- 2 Much of the world's work, it has been said, is done by men who do not feel quite well. Marx is a case in point.

Galeano, Eduardo 1940–

Uruguayan writer and journalist. His books include Days and Nights of Love and War (1978) and the trilogy Memory of Fire (1985–8).

- 5 In the house of words was a table of colors. They offered themselves in great fountains and each poet took the color he needed: lemon yellow or sun yellow, ocean blue or smoke blue, crimson red, blood red, wine red.

1991 The Book of Embraces.

Galen or Claudius Galenus c.130–c.201AD

Greek physician, imperial physician to Marcus Aurelius, Commodus and Severus. He wrote extensively on medical and philosophical matters, and his theories have been highly influential.

- 6 Much music marreth men's manners.

Quoted in Roger Ascham Toxophilus (1545).

Galilei, Galileo 1564–1642

Italian astronomer, mathematician and physicist, credited with anticipating Newton's laws of motion. He constructed the first astronomical telescope, and controversially argued that the earth revolved around the sun.

- 7 Eppur si muove.

Nevertheless, it moves.

1632 Attributed muttered remark, after being compelled to publicly renounce his arguments against a geocentric universe. This famous quotation is almost certainly an invention.

- 8 Light held together by moisture.

Attributed, a description of wine.

- 9 Some might say they don't believe in heaven
Go and tell it to the man who lives in hell.

1995 'Some Might Say'.

- 10 I would hope we mean more to people than putting money in a church basket and saying ten Hail Marys on a Sunday. Has God played Knebworth recently?

1997 On the attraction of Oasis. In the New Musical Express, 12 Jul.

- 11 The funny thing is, that mouthing off three years ago about how we were going to be the biggest band in the world, we actually went and done it. And it was a piece of piss.

1998 Quoted in the Guinness Rockopedia.

Gallico, Paul William 1897–1976

US journalist, novelist and short-story writer. His works include The Snow Goose (1941) and The Poseidon Adventure (1969).

14 I have covered boxing, promoted boxing, watched it, thought about it, and after long reflection I cannot find a single thing that is good about it either from the point of view of participant or spectator.

Quoted in Edith Summerskill The Ignoble Art (1956).

15 No one can be as calculatedly rude as the British, which amazes Americans, who do not understand studied insult and can only offer abuse as a substitute.

1962 In the New York Times, 14 Jan.

Galloway, George 1954–

Scottish Labour politician.

16 I saw ‘New Labour’ conceived, watched it gestate, witnessed its birth and growth. Now I fervently hope I will be present at its death.

2004 I’m Not the Only One.

Galloway, Janice 1956–

Scottish writer. She worked as a teacher, but became a full-time writer after the success of her first novel The Trick Is to Keep Breathing (1989), chronicling a mental breakdown. Other works include the short-story collection Blood (1991) and the novel Clara (2002).

17 The Trick Is to Keep Breathing.

1989 Title of first novel.

18 I write because I hate being told HOW IT IS. I didn’t realise that for a long while. I thought it was LIFE I hated: that the unfairnesses that were explained as JUST HOW IT IS were JUST HOW IT IS. BUT HOW IT IS wasn’t.

1993 ‘Objective Truth and the Grinding Machine’. In Brown and Munro (eds) Writers Writing (1993).

19 Quiet book-learning in monasteries and ethereal music, sonnets and courtly love—that stuff is all fantasy and veneer... You couldn’t afford to let the beauty of the thing seduce you too far or you forgot the truth and the truth was always hard as iron bloody bars.

1994 Foreign Parts, ch.7.

Gallup, George Horace 1901–84

US statistician and public opinion expert. He developed the Gallup polls for testing public opinion, which proved their worth by correctly predicting Franklin Roosevelt’s 1936 election victory.

20 Polling is merely an instrument for gauging public opinion. When a president or any other leader pays attention to poll results, he is, in effect, paying attention to the views of the people. Any other interpretation is nonsense.

Galsworthy, John 1867–1933

English novelist and playwright, best known for his series of novels The Forsyte Saga (1906–28). His plays, including Strife (1909), illustrate his interest in social and ethical issues. He was awarded the Nobel prize in 1932.

22 From all I can learn, he’s got no business, no income, and no connection worth speaking of; but then, I know nothing—nobody tells me anything.

1906 The Man of Property, pt.1, ch.1.

23 When a Forsyte was engaged, married, or born, the Forsytes were present; when a Forsyte died—but no Forsyte had as yet died; they did not die; death being contrary to their principles, they took precautions against it, the instinctive precautions of highly vitalised persons who resent encroachments on their property.

1906 The Man of Property, pt.1, ch.1.

24 It is not good enough to spend time and ink in describing the penultimate sensations and physical movements of people getting into a state of rut, we all know them so well.

1914 On D H Lawrence’s Sons and Lovers, in a letter to Edward Garnett, 13 Apr.

25 He was afflicted by the thought that where Beauty was, nothing ever ran quite straight, which, no doubt, was why so many people looked on it as immoral.

1920 In Chancery, pt.1, ch.13.

26 When we began this fight, we had clean hands—are they clean now? What’s gentility worth if it can’t stand fire?

1920 The Skin Game, act 3.

27 Slang is vigorous and apt. Probably most of our vital words were once slang.

1927 Castles in Spain and Other Screeds.

Galt, John 1779–1839

Scottish novelist and Canadian pioneer. After a failed business venture in London he travelled in the Levant (1809–11) and later turned to writing.

28 In a word, man in London is not quite so good a creature as he is out of it.

1821 The Ayrshire Legatees, ch.7, ‘Discoveries and Rebellions’, letter 22.

29 From the lone shieling of the misty island Mountains divide us, and the waste of seas— Yet still the blood is strong, the heart is Highland, And we in dreams behold the Hebrides!

Fair these broad meads, these hoary woods are grand; But we are exiles from our fathers’ land.

1829 ‘Canadian Boat Song’, a translation from the Gaelic attributed to Galt, published in Blackwood’s Magazine, Sep. It has also been attributed to Walter Scott.

Galtieri, Leopoldo Fortunato 1926–2003

Argentinian soldier and politician, President of Argentina (1981–3). In 1982, he ordered the invasion of the disputed Malvinas (Falkland) Islands; their recovery by Britain led to his downfall.

- 30 Why are you telling me this? The British won't fight.
1982 Responding to a warning from US Secretary of State Alexander Haig about the consequence of the invasion.

Galton, Sir Francis 1822–1911

English scientist. He travelled widely in Africa and wrote The Art of Travel (1855), which became the explorer's standard handbook.

- 31 There are even times when any assumption of dignity becomes ludicrous, and the traveller must, as Mungo Park once had to do, 'lay down as a rule to make himself as useless and as insignificant as possible, as the only means of recovering his liberty'.
1855 The Art of Travel.

Gandhi, Indira Priyad Arshini 1917–84

Indian politician and Prime Minister (1966–77, 1980–4). Although a leader of the developing nations, she failed to suppress sectarian violence at home and was assassinated by Sikh extremists, members of her bodyguard.

- 32 Even if I die in the service of this nation, I would be proud of it. Every drop of my blood, I am sure, will contribute to the growth of this nation and make it strong and dynamic.
1984 Speech at Orissa, 31 Oct, the day before her assassination.

Gandhi, Mohandas Karamchand known as Mahatma [great soul] 1869–1948

Indian nationalist leader, who advocated peaceful non-cooperation to achieve independence, but was jailed for conspiracy (1922–4) following his civil disobedience campaign. After independence (1947), his attempts to stop the Hindu–Muslim conflict in Bengal led to his assassination by a Hindu fanatic.

- 33 I claim that in losing the spinning wheel we lost our left lung. We are, therefore, suffering from galloping consumption. The restoration of the wheel arrests the progress of the... disease.
1921 Speech, 13 Oct.
- 34 Non-violence is the first article of my faith. It is also the last article of my creed.
1922 Speech at Shahi Bag, 18 Mar.
- 35 Non-violence is not a garment to be put on and off at will. Its seat is in the heart, and it must be an inseparable part of our very being.
1926 War or Peace, 'Young India'.

Garbo, Greta pseudonym of Greta Lovisa Gustafsson 1905–90

Swedish-born actress who went to the US in 1925 with director Mauritz Stiller. Her films at MGM during the 1930s include Queen Christina (1933), Anna Karenina (1936) and Ninotchka (1939). She retired in 1941.

38 I want to be alone.

1932 The media have famously attributed these words to Garbo although she always denied she said them. In the film Grand Hotel (1932) Grusinskaya (played by Garbo) says 'I want to be left alone'.

39 One day, there's a hand that goes over the face and changes it. You look like an apple that isn't young anymore.

Quoted in Vanity Fair, Feb 1994.

García Márquez, Gabriel 1928–

Colombian novelist and journalist, awarded the Nobel prize for literature (1982). His fiction, typically set in the imaginary village of Macondo, tends to magic realism.

40 No se le había ocurrido pensar hasta entonces que la literatura fuera el mejor juguete que se había inventado para burlarse de la gente.

It had never occurred to him until then to think that literature was the best plaything that had ever been invented to make fun of people.

1967 Cien años de soledad (translated as One Hundred Years of Solitude, 1970).

45 We are all faced with a series of great opportunities—brilliantly disguised as insoluble problems.

Quoted in Reader's Digest, Mar 1966.

46 We get richer and richer in filthier and filthier communities until we reach a final stage of affluent misery—a crocus on a garbage heap.

1969 In the New York Times, 9 Oct.

Garibaldi, Giuseppe 1807–82

Italian patriot, twice forced to flee the country for his revolutionary activities. He returned in 1859 for Italy's war of liberation, leading his thousand 'Red Shirts', conquering Sicily and Naples for the unified kingdom of Italy.

47 England is a great and powerful nation, foremost in human progress, enemy to despotism, the only safe refuge for the exile, friend of the oppressed. If ever England should be so circumstanced as to require the help of any ally, cursed be the Italian who would not step forward with me in her defence.

1854 Letter, 12 Apr.

48 Soldati, io esco da Roma. Chi vuole continuare la guerra contro lo straniero venga con me. Non posso offrirgli né onori né stipendi; gli offro fame, sete, marce forzate, battaglie e morte. Chi ama la Patria me segue.

Soldiers, I'm getting out of Rome. Anyone who wants to carry on the war against the outsiders, follow me. I can offer you neither honours nor wages, I offer you hunger, thirst, forced marches, battles and death. Anyone who loves his country, follow me.

Quoted in Giuseppe Guerzoni Garibaldi (1882), vol.1.

Garland, (Hannibal) Hamlin 1860–1940

US writer. He is remembered chiefly for his stories of Midwest farm life in books including Main-Travelled Roads (1891) and Prairie Folks (1892), but also wrote novels, essays and memoirs.

49 Like the main-travelled road of life it is traversed by many classes of people, but the poor and the weary predominate.

1891 Main-Travelled Roads, 'The Main-Travelled Road of the West'.

50 There is no gilding of setting sun or glamor of poetry to light up the ferocious and endless toil of the farmers' wives.

1899 Boy Life on the Prairie, 'Melons and Early Frost'.

Garner, John Nance 1868–1967

US lawyer and politician, Speaker of the House (1931–3) and Vice-President under President Roosevelt (1933–41). He opposed Roosevelt's third-term candidacy and retired in 1941.

51 Worst damnfool mistake I ever made was letting myself be elected Vice-President of the United States. Should have stuck...as Speaker of the House... Gave up the second most important job in Government for eight long years as Roosevelt's spare tire.

1963 In the Saturday Evening Post, 2 Nov.

52 The vice-presidency isn't worth a pitcher of warm piss. It doesn't amount to a hill of beans.

Quoted in O C Fisher Cactus Jack (1978), ch.11.

Gauguin, Paul 1848–1903

French Post-Impressionist painter, printmaker and sculptor.

66 There are noble tones, ordinary ones, tranquil harmonies, consoling ones, others which excite by their vigour.

1885 Letter to Emile Schuffenecker.

67 Some advice: do not paint too much after nature. Art is an abstraction; derive this abstraction from nature while dreaming before it, and think more of the creation which will result than of nature.

1888 Letter to Emile Schuffenecker.

68 You may dream freely when you listen to music as well as when you look at painting. When you read a book you are the slave of the author's mind.

c.1888 Notes Synthétiques, quoted in J Rewald Gauguin (1938).

Gautier, Théophile 1811–72

French poet, novelist and critic. He propounded the theory of 'art for art's sake', and was honoured by Baudelaire. His many novels include the celebrated Mademoiselle de Maupin (1835).

98 It would be a bitter cosmic joke if we destroy ourselves due to atrophy of the imagination.

1959 The Face of War, introduction.

99 Gradually I came to realize that people will more readily swallow lies than truth, as if the taste of lies was homey, appetizing: a habit.

1959 The Face of War, introduction.

1 You define your own horror journey, according to your taste. My definition of what makes a journey wholly or partially horrible is boredom. Add discomfort, fatigue, strain in large amounts to get the purest-quality horror, but the kernel is boredom. I offer that as a universal test of travel; boredom, called by any other name, is why you yearn for the first available transport out. But what bores whom?... The threshold of boredom must be like the threshold of pain, different in all of us.

1979 Travels with Myself and Another.

2 We savaged them, though they had never hurt us, and we cannot find it in our hearts, our honor, to give them help—because the government of Vietnam is Communist. And perhaps because they won.

1986 On the Vietnamese. The Face of War (rev edn), 'The War in Vietnam—Vietnam Again, 1986'.

Genet, Jean 1910–86

French playwright, author and poet who spent much of his youth in jail. Once his literary talent was discovered, many, including Sartre, came to champion his cause, even dubbing him 'Saint Genet'.

3 Jean Cocteau me croit un mauvais voleur. C'est parce qu'auprès de lui je suis d'abord un écrivain. Les voleurs me croient un mauvais écrivain.

Jean Cocteau thinks that I am a poor thief. That's because next to him I am primarily a writer. Thieves think that I am a poor writer.

1949 Journal du voleur.

4 L'artiste n'a pas—ou le poète—pour fonction de trouver la solution pratique des problèmes du mal.

It is not up to the artist or to the poet to find practical solutions to the problems of evil.

1956 Le Balcon, 'Avertissement'.

5 Prisons, cachots, lieux bénis où le mal est impossible, puisqu'ils sont le carrefour de toute la malédiction du monde. On ne peut pas commettre le mal dans le mal.

Prison, dungeons, blessed places where evil is impossible because they are the crossroads of all the evil in the world. One cannot commit evil in hell.

1956 Le Balcon, 'Deuxième tableau'.

6 Ce qu'il nous faut, c'est la haine. D'elle naîtront nos idées.

Hatred is what we need. Ideas are born from hatred.

1958 Les Nègres, épigraphe.

7 Dans les villes actuelles, le seul lieu,—hélas encore vers la périphérie—où un théâtre pourrait être construit, c'est le cimetière.

In today's cities, the only place—unfortunately on the outskirts—to construct a theatre is a cemetery.

1959 L'Étrange Mort d'...

George I originally Temujin c.1167–1227

Mongol conqueror. Leader of the Mongols from 1206, he conquered widely throughout Asia, penetrating Persia and Eastern Europe as far as the Dnieper River. His empire was divided between his sons and grandsons on his death.

8 Happiness lies in conquering one's enemies, in driving them in front of oneself, in taking their property, in savouring their despair, in outraging their wives and daughters.

c.1210 Quoted in Witold Rodzinski The Walled Kingdom: A History of China (1979).

Geoffrey de Breteuil fl.12c

French ecclesiastic.

9 Clastrum sine armario quasi castrum sine armamentario. Ipsum armarium nostrum est armamentarium.

A cloister without a library is like a castle without an armoury. For the library is our armoury.

c.1165 Letter to Peter Mangot.

George I 1660–1727

King of Great Britain and Ireland and Elector of Hanover. He succeeded to the British throne in 1714 on the death of Queen Anne in accordance with the Act of Settlement (1701) and was the first Hanoverian King of Great Britain and Ireland. He never mastered English.

10 I hate all Boets and Bainters.

In John Campbell Lives of the Chief Justices, 'Lord Mansfield' (1849).

George II 1683–1760

King of Great Britain and Ireland (1727–60) and Elector of Hanover, last British king to command in the field, at Dettingen, 1743. His reign saw the Jacobite defeat at Culloden (1746), British involvement in India after Plassey (1757) and the onset of the Seven Years War.

11 Oh! he is mad is he? Then I hope he will bite some of my other generals.

c.1759 Replying to remarks made about General James Wolfe by the Duke of Newcastle. Quoted in Henry Beckles Wilson Life and Letters of James Wolfe (1909), ch.17.

George III 1738–1820

King of Great Britain and Ireland (1760–1820). In the 1770s he was blamed with North for the loss of the American colonies. In 1783 he called Pitt (the Younger) to office, ending the supremacy of the old Whig families. As a result of his supposed insanity (now believed to have been porphyria), his son George was made Regent.

12 I can never suppose this country so far lost to all ideas of self-importance as to be willing to grant America independence; if that could ever be adopted, I shall despair of this country being ever preserved from a state of inferiority, and consequently falling into a very low class among the European states.

1780 Letter to Lord North, 7 Mar.

13 I was the last to consent to the separation, but the separation having been made, and having become inevitable, I have always said that I would be the first to meet the friendship of the United States as an independent power.

1785 Letter to John Adams, first US Ambassador to England, 1 Jun.

George V 1865–1936

King of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (1910–36). He served in the navy and travelled widely in the Empire. His reign saw the Union of South Africa (1910), World War I (1914–18), the Irish Free State Settlement (1922) and the General Strike (1926).

14 I have many times asked myself whether there can be more potent advocates of peace on earth through the years to come than this massed multitude of silent witnesses to the desolation of war.

1922 Message read at the Terlinthun Cemetery, Boulogne, 13 May.

15 Today 23 years ago, dear Grandmama died. I wonder what she would have thought of a Labour government.

1924 Of Queen Victoria. Diary entry, 22 Jan, on having invited Ramsay Macdonald to form the first Labour administration.

16 Bugger Bognor.

1929 or 1936 Reply to a courtier who had remarked 'Cheer up, your Majesty, you will soon be at Bognor again', either during his convalescence or on his deathbed. Quoted in Kenneth Rose King George V (1983), ch.9.

17 I will not have another war. If there is another and we are threatened with being brought into it, I will go to Trafalgar Square and wave a red flag myself sooner than allow this country to be brought in.

1935 To David Lloyd George, 10 May.

18 Golf always makes me so damned angry.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

George VI 1895–1952

King of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (1936–52). After ascending the throne (on the abdication of his elder brother, Edward VIII), he remained in bomb-damaged Buckingham Palace during World War II and delivered many broadcasts, mastering a speech impediment.

19 The British Empire has advanced to a new conception of autonomy and freedom, to the idea of a system of British nations, each freely ordering its own individual life, but bound together in unity by allegiance to one Crown, and co-operating in all that concerns the common weal.

1927 Opening, as Duke of York, the first Australian Parliament to assemble in Canberra, 9 May.

20 Abroad is bloody.

Quoted in W H Auden A Certain World (1970), 'Royalty'.

George, Chief Dan 1899–1981

Canadian native spokesperson.

21 The heart never knows the colour of the skin.

1974 My Heart Soars.

1989 In the Washington Times, 29 Mar.

Gerald of Wales also called Giraldus Cambrensis
c.1146–c.1223

Welsh bishop and historian. He wrote 17 books and planned several others, all in Latin. His best-known works are The History and Topography of Ireland (1185) and Journey through Wales (1191).

- 26 Among the smaller islands there is one of fair size that is now called the Isle of Man... There was a great controversy in antiquity concerning the question: to which of the two countries should the island properly belong? Eventually, however, the matter was settled. All agreed that since it allowed poisonous reptiles to live in it, it should belong to Britain.
1185 The History and Topography of Ireland, pt.2 (translated by John O'Meara, 1951).

Gerbert later Pope Sylvester II 940–1003

French divine and scholar, whose chemical, mathematical and philosophical expertise led to claims that he was in league with the devil. In 982 he became Abbot of Bobbio, and was appointed Archbishop of Ravenna in 988. He was elected Pope in 999. He opposed the separatist tendencies of the French Church.

- 27 Cum studio bene vivendi semper conjunxi studium bene dicendi.
I have always combined the study of how to live well with the study of how to speak well.
985 Letter to Ebrard, Abbot of Tours.

- 28 An quicquam melius amicas divinitas mortalibus concesserit nescio.
I do not know if the divinity has provided mortals with anything better than friends.
985 Letter to Abbot Gerald of Aurillac.

- 29 Delegimus certum otium studiorum, quam incertum negotium bellorum.

We have opted for the certain leisure of study, rather than the uncertain business of war.

985 Letter to Monk Raymond.

Gergen, David Richmond 1942–

US government official, an assistant and later adviser to Presidents Nixon, Ford, Reagan and Clinton. He is editor-at-large at US News & World Report.

- 30 About the time you are writing a line that you have written so often that you want to throw up, that is the first time the American people will hear it.
1993 On working as a speech-writer in the Nixon White House. In the New York Times, 31 Oct.
- 31 A naked moment in politics.
1993 On the vulnerability of the President. In the New York Times, 31 Oct.
- 32 We are making politics a spectator sport in which our only duty is to vote somebody into office and then retire to the grandstands.
1993 In US News & World Report, 10 May.

Gerhardie, William Alexander 1895–1977

English novelist, born and educated in St Petersburg. His best-known books are the novels Futility (1922) and Polyglots (1925).

- 33 She even sighed offensively... as if she meant to charge me with the necessity of doing so.
1922 Futility, pt.3, ch.3.
- 34 There are as many fools at a university as anywhere... But their folly, I admit, has a certain stamp—the stamp of university training, if you like. It is trained folly.
1925 Polyglots, ch.7.
- 35 We are like icebergs in the ocean: one-eighth part consciousness and the rest submerged beneath the surface of articulate apprehension.
1925 Polyglots, ch.14.

Gershwin, George 1898–1937

US composer. His early works are Broadway musicals, such as Lady Be Good (1924), written with his brother Ira. Other works include Rhapsody in Blue (1924, a concert piece in the jazz idiom), An American in Paris (1928) and the opera Porgy and Bess (1935).

- 36 Not many composers have ideas. Far more of them know how to use strange instruments which do not require ideas.
1930 'The Composer in the Machine Age'.
- 37 Jazz is the result of the energy stored up in America.
Quoted in D Morgenstern Composers on Music (1958).

Gershwin, Ira originally Israel Gershowitz 1896–1983

US lyricist. He worked exclusively with his brother George Gershwin until George died, and then with other composers including Kurt Weill and Jerome Kern.

- 38 I got rhythm,
I got music,
I got my man—
Who could ask for anything more.
1930 'I Got Music', featured in the film Girl Crazy (music by George Gershwin).
- 39 Away with the music of Broadway!

Be off with your Irving Berlin!
 Oh, I'd give no quarter to Kern or Cole Porter and Gershwin keeps pounding on tin.
 How can I be civil
 when hearing this drivel?
 It's only for night-clubbing souses.
 Oh, give me the free 'n' easy waltz that is Viennese
 And go tell the band
 if they want a hand
 the waltz must be Strauss's!
1936 'By Strauss'.

- 40 The way you wear your hat,
 The way you sip your tea,
 The mem'ry of all that—
 No, no! They can't take that away from me!
1937 'They Can't Take That Away from Me', song from the film musical Shall We Dance? (music by George Gershwin).
- 41 The way your smile just beams
 The way you sing off key
 The way you haunt my dreams
 No, no! They can't take that away from me!
1937 'They Can't Take That Away from Me', song from the film musical Shall We Dance? (music by George Gershwin).
- 42 You say potato and I say po-tah-to
 You say tomato and I say to-mah-to...
 Let's call the whole thing off!
1937 'Let's Call the Whole Thing Off', song from the film musical Shall We Dance? (music by George Gershwin).
- 43 A foggy day in LondonTown
 Had me low and had me down.
1937 'A Foggy Day', song from the musical Damsel in Distress (music by George Gershwin).
- 44 Holding hands at midnight
 'Neath a starry sky,
 Nice work if you can get it,
 And you can get it if you try.
1937 'Nice Work If You Can Get It', song from the musical Damsel in Distress (music by George Gershwin).
- 45 In time the Rockies may crumble
 Gibraltar may tumble
 They're only made of clay,
 But our love is here to stay.
1938 'Love Is Here to Stay', sung by Kenny Baker in The Goldwyn Follies (music by George Gershwin).

Gervais, Ricky 1961–

English comic writer and performer, whose comedy series The Office won two Golden Globes (2004).

- 46 If you work for Nasa or the Cosa Nostra, I bet it's all the same. Why's his chair bigger than my chair? I've been an assassin longer than him and he gets to sit nearest the water cooler.
2002 In The Guardian, 7 Sep.
- 47 Fact is stranger than fiction. You see people walking down the street that would never be allowed on television. You have to tone it down.
2002 On the Jo Whiley show, BBC Radio 1, 30 Sep.
- 48 If David Brent is the best thing that I ever come up with, then so be it. What are you supposed to do—time the best thing you do for just before you die?

2003 On his character in the television series The Office. Quoted in the Observer, 14 Dec.

Getty, Jean Paul 1892–1976

US oil executive, multimillionaire and art collector. He entered the oil business in his early 20s, and merged his father's fortune with his own in 1930. Despite his legendary wealth, he acquired a reputation for miserliness.

- 49 If you can actually count your money, then you are not really a rich man.
1957 In the Observer, 3 Nov.
- 50 Some people find oil, some don't.
 His entire submission when asked by a magazine editor to submit an article entitled 'The Secret of My Success'. Quoted by L M Boyd in the San Francisco Chronicle, 2 Mar 1991.

Giacosa, Giuseppe 1847–1906

 Your tiny hand is frozen.
1896 Rodolpho to Mimi. La Bohème (with Luigi Illica, music by Puccini).

Gibbon, Edward 1737–94

English historian. After a visit to Rome (1764) he embarked on a history of the Roman Empire. He became an MP in 1774, and the first volume of The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire appeared in 1776. Lord Sheffield published his Miscellaneous Works (1796), including his autobiography.

- 52 If a man were called to fix the period in the history of the world during which the condition of the human race was most happy and prosperous, he would, without hesitation, name that which elapsed from the death of Domitian to the accession of Commodus.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.3.
- 53 The principles of a free constitution are irrevocably lost when the legislative power is nominated by the executive.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.3.
- 54 In every age and country, the wiser, or at least the stronger, of the two sexes, has usurped the powers of the state, and confined the other to the cares and pleasures of domestic life.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.6.
- 55 Corruption, the most infallible symptom of constitutional liberty.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.21.
- 56 The Huns... chanted a funeral song to the memory of a hero, glorious in his life, invincible in his death, the father of his people, the scourge of his enemies, and the terror of the world.
1776–88 Description of the funeral of Attila the Hun. The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.35.
- 57 The Rhine is not more impassable than the Nile or Euphrates, and the Arabian fleet might have sailed without a naval combat into the mouth of the Thames. Perhaps the interpretation of the Koran would now be taught in the schools of Oxford, and her pupils might demonstrate to a circumcised people the sanctity and truth of the revelation of Mahomet.

- 1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.52.
- 58 Persuasion is the resource of the feeble; and the feeble can seldom persuade.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.68.
- 59 All that is human must retrograde if it does not advance.
1776–88 The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, ch.71.
- 60 To the University of Oxford I acknowledge no obligation; and she will as cheerfully renounce me for a son, as I am willing to disclaim her for a mother. I spent fourteen months at Magdalen College: they proved the fourteen months the most idle and unprofitable of my whole life.
Memoirs of My Life (published 1796), ch.3.
- 61 It was here that I suspended my religious inquiries (aged 17).
Memoirs of My Life (published 1796), ch.4.
- 62 I sighed as a lover, I obeyed as a son.
On his enforced visit to Lausanne, leaving behind Suzanne Curchod. Memoirs of My Life (published 1796), ch.4. This passage was inserted (from a draft) by Lord Sheffield.
- 63 It was at Rome, on the fifteenth of October 1764, as I sat musing amidst the ruins of the Capitol, while the barefooted friars were singing vespers in the temple of Jupiter, that the idea of writing the decline and fall of the City first started to my mind.
Memoirs of My Life (published 1796), ch.6, note. Variations of the lines can be found in the various drafts of Gibbon's autobiography and in the last lines of the Decline and Fall: 'It was among the ruins of the Capitol that I first conceived the idea of a work which has amused and exercised near twenty years of my life, and which, however inadequate to my own wishes, I finally deliver to the curiosity and candour of the public' (vol.6, ch.71).
- 64 My English text is chaste, and all licentious passages are left in the obscurity of a learned language.
Memoirs of My Life (published 1796), ch.8.

Gibbon, Lewis Grassic 1901–35

Scottish novelist.

- 65 So that was Chris and her reading and schooling, two Chrisses there were that fought for her heart and tormented her. You hated the land and the coarse speak of the folk and learning was brave and fine one day and the next you'd waken with the peewits crying across the hills, deep and deep, crying in the heart of you, and the smell of the earth in your face, almost you'd cry for that, the beauty of it and the sweetness of the Scottish land and skies.
1932 Sunset Song.
- 66 For the cleansing of that horror, if cleanse it they could, I would welcome the English in suzerainty over Scotland till the end of time. I would welcome the end of Braid Scots and Gaelic, our culture, our history, our nationhood under the heels of a Chinese army of occupation if it could cleanse the Glasgow slums, give a surety of food and play—the elementary right of every human being—to those people of the abyss...
1934 Scottish Scene, 'Glasgow' (with Hugh MacDiarmid).

Gibbons, Kaye 1960–

US novelist. Her first novel, Ellen Foster (1986), was widely acclaimed. Other works include A Virtuous Woman (1989) and Divining Women (2004).

- 67 I read about writers' lives with the fascination of one slowing down to get a good look at an automobile accident.
1990 In the New York Times, 7 Jan.

Gibbons, Orlando 1583–1625

English composer and organist of Westminster Abbey (from 1623). He wrote little, but some of his anthems, services and madrigals are regarded as masterpieces.

- 68 The silver swan, who living had no note,
When death approached, unlocked her silent throat;
Leaning her breast against the reedy shore,
Thus sung her first and last, and sung no more:
'Farewell, all joys; Oh death, come close mine eyes;
More geese than swans now live, more fools than wise.'
1612 The First Set of Madrigals and Motets of Five Parts, 'The Silver Swan'.

Gibbons, Stella Dorothea 1902–89

English writer. She worked as a journalist, and wrote novels, poetry and short stories. Her reputation rests on her famous parody of rural fiction, Cold Comfort Farm (1932).

- 69 The life of the journalist is poor, nasty, brutish and short.
So is his style.
1932 Cold Comfort Farm, foreword.
- 70 And when the spring comes her hour is upon her again.
'Tis the hand of Nature and we women cannot escape it.
1932 Judith Starkadder, of Meriam. Cold Comfort Farm, ch.5.
- 71 Something nasty in the woodshed.
1932 Aunt Ada Doom. Cold Comfort Farm, ch.10.
- 72 He said that, by god, D. H. Lawrence was right when he had said there must be a dumb, dark, dull, bitter belly-tension between a man and a woman, and how else could this be achieved save in the long monotony of marriage?
1932 Mr Mybug, proposing to Rennet. Cold Comfort Farm, ch.20.

Gibbs, Wolcott 1902–58

US journalist and critic.

- 73 Backward ran sentences until reeled the mind.
1936 Parody of Time magazine's literary style. 'Time... Fortune... Life... Luce', in the New Yorker, 28 Nov.

Gibran, Kahlil 1883–1931

Syrian mystic, author and artist, whose most famous work is The Prophet (1923).

- 74 Your children are not your children.
They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself.
They came through you but not from you
And though they are with you yet they belong not to you.
You may give them your love but not your thoughts,
For they have their own thoughts.
You may house their bodies, but not their souls.
1923 The Prophet, 'On Children'.

Gibson, Wilfred Wilson 1878–1962

English poet. He was a prolific writer of both poetry and plays, rooted in the reality of everyday life.

- 75 But we, how shall we turn to little things

And listen to the birds and winds and streams
 Made holy by their dreams,
 Nor feel the heart-break in the heart of things?
 1918 'Lament'.

Gibson, William Ford 1948–

US science-fiction writer, best known as the author of Neuromancer (1984), which spawned the genre of cyberpunk fiction.

76 Cyberspace. A consensual hallucination experienced daily by billions of legitimate operators, in every nation, by children being taught mathematical concepts... A graphical representation of data abstracted from the banks of every computer in the human system. Unthinkable complexity. Lines of light ranged in the non-space of the mind, clusters and constellations of data. Like city lights, receding.
 1984 Neuromancer. This is the first recorded use of the term 'cyberspace'.

77 Cyberspace is where you are when you're on the telephone.
 1994 In the US News & World Report, 21 Jun.

Gide, André Paul Guillaume 1869–1951

French writer of fiction, poetry, plays, criticism, biography and translations. His novels focus on the conflict between the spiritual and the physical. He won the Nobel prize for literature in 1947.

78 *Nous avons bâti sur le sable
 Des cathédrales impérissables.*
 We have built immovable cathedrals
 In the sand.
 1895 Paludes.

79 Que mon livre t'enseigne à t'intéresser plus à toi qu'à lui-même—puis à tout le reste plus qu'à toi.
 May my book teach you to be more interested in yourself than in it—then, in everyone else more than yourself.
 1897 Les Nourritures terrestres, pt.1.

80 La sagesse n'est pas dans la raison, mais dans l'amour.
 Wisdom comes not from reason but from love.
 1897 Les Nourritures terrestres, pt.1.

81 Familles! je vous hais! Foyers clos; portes refermées; possessions jalouses du bonheur.
 Families! I hate you! Enclosed hallways, shut doors, jealous possessions of happiness.
 1897 Les Nourritures terrestres, pt.4.

82 Chaque instant de notre Vie est essentiellement irremplaçable: sache parfois t'y concentrer uniquement.
 Every instant of Life is essentially irreplaceable: concentrate on it fully from time to time.
 1897 Les Nourritures terrestres, pt.4.

83 C'est avec de beaux sentiments qu'on fait de la mauvaise littérature.
 Bad literature is written with beautiful sentiments.
 1928 Letter to François Mauriac.

84 Le bonheur de l'homme n'est pas dans la liberté, mais dans l'acceptation d'un devoir.
 Man's happiness does not come from freedom but in the acceptance of a task.
 1932 Journal entry, 8 Feb.

Gielgud, Sir (Arthur) John 1904–2000

English actor and producer. A leading Shakespearean actor, he appeared in many films, notably as Cassius in Julius Caesar (1952) and in Prospero's Books (1991).

85 When you're my age, you just never risk being ill—because then everyone says: Oh, he's done for.
 1988 In the Sunday Express, 17 Jul.

86 Daniel Day Lewis has what every actor in Hollywood wants: talent. And what every actor in England wants: looks.
 1995 In The Independent, 13 May.

87 Being another character is more interesting than being yourself.

Gilbert, Sir Humphrey 1537–83

English navigator and explorer. He took Newfoundland for the crown in 1583, establishing a colony at St John's. He was drowned on the journey home.

88 We are as near to heaven by sea as by land!
 1583 Dying words as his frigate Squirrel sank in the Atlantic Ocean near the Azores, 5 Aug. Quoted in Richard Hakluyt Third and Last Volume of the Voyages... of the English Nation (1600).

Gilbert, Sir W(illiam) S(chwenck) 1836–1911

English parodist and librettist. His humorous verse was collected in 1869 as the Bab Ballads. His partnership with Sir Arthur Sullivan, from 1871, produced a succession of light operas, from Trial by Jury (1875) to The Grand Duke (1896).

89 So I fell in love with a rich attorney's Elderly, ugly daughter.
 1875 Trial by Jury.

90 She may very well pass for forty-three
 In the dusk with a light behind her!
 1875 Trial by Jury.

91 I'm called little Buttercup—dear Little Buttercup,
 Though I could never tell why.
 1878 HMS Pinafore, act 1.

92 CAPT: Bad language or abuse,
 I never, never use,
 Whatever the emergency;
 Though 'Bother it' I may Occasionally say,
 I never use a big, big D—
 ALL: What, never?
 CAPT: No, never!
 ALL: What never?
 CAPT: Well, hardly ever!
 ALL: Hardly ever swears a big, big D—
 Then give three cheers, and one cheer more,
 For the well-bred Captain of the Pinafore!
 1878 HMS Pinafore, act 1.

93 I am the monarch of the sea,
 The Ruler of the Queen's Navee,
 Whose praise Great Britain loudly chants
 And we are his sisters, and his cousins, and his aunts!
 1878 HMS Pinafore, act 1.

94 When I was a lad I served a term
 As office boy to an attorney's firm.
 I cleaned the windows and I swept the floor,

- And I polished up the handle of the big front door.
I polished up that handle so carefuller
That now I am the Ruler of the Queen's Navee!
1878 HMS Pinafore, act 2.
- 95 In spite of all temptations
To belong to other nations,
He remains an Englishman!
1878 HMS Pinafore, act 2.
- 96 Climbing over rocky mountain,
Skipping rivulet and fountain.
1879 Girls' chorus, The Pirates of Penzance, act 1.
- 97 It is, it is a glorious thing
To be a Pirate King.
1879 Pirate King's song, The Pirates of Penzance, act 1.
- 98 Oh, is there not one maiden here
Whose homely face and bad complexion
Have caused all hopes to disappear
Of ever winning man's affection?
1879 Frederic's song, The Pirates of Penzance, act 1.
- 99 I am the very model of a modern Major-General,
I've information vegetable, animal and mineral,
I know the kings of England, and I quote the fights historical,
From Marathon to Waterloo, in order categorical.
1879 The Major-General's song, The Pirates of Penzance, act 1.
- 1 I can hum a fugue of which I've heard the music's din afore,
And whistle all the airs from that infernal nonsense
Pinafore.
1879 The Major-General's song, The Pirates of Penzance, act 1.
- 2 Stay, Frederic, stay!
Nay, Mabel, nay!
1879 Mabel and Frederic's duet, The Pirates of Penzance, act 2.
- 3 When a felon's not engaged in his employment
Or maturing his felonious little plans
His capacity for innocent enjoyment
Is just as great as any honest man's—
Ah! When constabulary duty's to be done
A policeman's lot is not a happy one.
1879 Sergeant's song, The Pirates of Penzance, act 2.
- 4 And everyone will say,
As you walk your mystic way,
'If this young man expresses himself in terms too deep for me,
Why, what a very singularly deep young man this deep young man must be!'
1881 Bunthorne's song, Patience, act 1.
- 5 Sing 'Booh to you—
Pooh, pooh to you'—
And that's what I shall say!
1881 Jane and Bunthorne's duet, Patience, act 2.
- 6 A commonplace young man,
A matter-of-fact young man,
A steady and stolid-y, jolly Bank-Holiday
Every-day young man!
1881 Bunthorne and Grosvenor's duet, Patience, act 2.
- 7 A Japanese young man,
A blue and white young man,
Francesca di Rimini, miminy, piminy,
Je-ne-sais-quoi young man.
1881 Bunthorne and Grosvenor's duet, Patience, act 2.
- 8 A Chancery Lane young man,
A Somerset House young man,
A very delectable, highly respectable,
Threepenny-bus young man!
1881 Bunthorne and Grosvenor's duet, Patience, act 2.
- 9 A pallid and thin young man,
A haggard and lank young man,
A greenery-yallery, Grosvenor Gallery,
Foot-in-the-grave young man!
A Sewell & Cross young man,
A Howell & James young man,
A push-ing young par-ti-cle—
'What's the next ar-ti-cle?'—
Wa-ter-loo House young man!
1881 Bunthorne and Grosvenor's duet, Patience, act 2.
- 10 Bow, bow, ye lower middle classes!
Bow, bow, ye tradesmen, bow ye masses!
1882 Chorus, Iolanthe, act 1 (first performed 25 Nov, simultaneously in London and New York).
- 11 The Law is the true embodiment
Of everything that's excellent.
It has no kind of fault or flaw,
And I, my Lords, embody the Law.
1882 Iolanthe, act 1.
- 12 When I went to the Bar as a very young man,
(Said I to myself—said I),
I'll work on a new and original plan,
(Said I to myself—said I).
1882 Iolanthe, act 1.
- 13 I often think it's comical
How Nature always does contrive
That every boy and every gal
That's born into the world alive
Is either a little Liberal
Or else a little Conservative!
1882 Private Willis's song, Iolanthe, act 2.
- 14 The House of Peers, throughout the war,
Did nothing in particular,
And did it very well:
Yet Britain set the world ablaze
In good King George's glorious days!
1882 Lord Mountarat's song, Iolanthe, act 2.
- 15 When you're lying awake with a dismal headache, and repose is taboo'd by anxiety,
I conceive you may use any language you choose to indulge in, without impropriety.
1882 Lord Chancellor's nightmare song, Iolanthe, act 2.
- 16 Expressive glances
Shall be our lances
And pops of Sillery
Our light artillery.
1884 Trio, Princess Ida, act 1.
- 17 I've an irritating chuckle, I've a celebrated sneer,
I've an entertaining snigger, I've a fascinating leer.
To everybody's prejudice I know a thing or two;
I can tell a woman's age in half a minute—and I do.
But although I try to make myself as pleasant as I can,
Yet everybody says I'm such a disagreeable man!
1884 Gama's song, Princess Ida, act 1.
- 18 Oh, doughty sons of Hungary!
May all success

- Attend and bless
Your warlike ironmongery!
1884 Chorus, Princess Ida, act 3.
- 19 A wandering minstrel I—
A thing of shreds and patches
Of ballads, songs and snatches
And dreamy lullaby!
1885 Nanki-Poo's song, The Mikado, act 1.
- 20 As in a month you've got to die
If Ko-Ko tells us true,
'Twere empty compliment to cry
'Long life to Nanki-Poo!
But as one month you have to live
As fellow-citizen,
This toast with three times three we'll give—
'Long life to you—till then!
1885 Pooh-Bah's solo, The Mikado, act 1.
- 21 As some day it may happen that a victim must be found,
I've got a little list—I've got a little list
Of society offenders who might well be underground,
And who never would be missed— who never would be missed!
There's the pestilential nuisances who write for autographs—
All people who have flabby hands and irritating laughs.
1885 Ko-Ko's song, The Mikado, act 1.
- 22 The idiot who praises, with enthusiastic tone,
All centuries but this, and every country but his own;
And the lady from the provinces, who dresses like a guy,
And who 'doesn't think she dances, but would rather like to try';
And that singular anomaly, the lady novelist—
I don't think she'd be missed—I'm sure she'd not be missed!
1885 Ko-Ko's song, The Mikado, act 1.
- 23 Defer, defer,
To the Lord High Executioner!
1885 Chorus, The Mikado, act 1.
- 24 Three little maids from school are we,
Pert as a school-girl well can be Filled to the brim with girlish glee.
1885 Trio for Yum-yum, Peep-Bo and Pitti Sing, with Chorus of Girls, The Mikado, act 1.
- 25 To sit in solemn silence in a dull, dark dock,
In a pestilential prison, with a life-long lock,
Awaiting the sensation of a short, sharp shock,
From a cheap and chippy chopper on a big black block!
1885 Trio, The Mikado, act 1.
- 26 Here's a how-de-do!
1885 Trio, The Mikado, act 2.
- 27 My object all sublime
I shall achieve in time—
To let the punishment fit the crime.
1885 The Mikado's song, The Mikado, act 2.
- 28 And there he plays extravagant matches
In fitless finger-stalls
On a cloth untrue
With a twisted cue
And elliptical billiard balls.
1885 The doom of the billiard sharp. The Mikado, act 2.
- 29 On a tree by a river a little tom-tit
Sang 'Willow, titwillow, titwillow!'
1885 Ko-Ko's song, The Mikado, act 2.
- 30 This particularly rapid unintelligible patter
Isn't generally heard, and if it is it doesn't matter!
1887 Ruddigore, act 2.
- 31 For I have a song to sing, O!...
It is sung to the moon
By a love-lorn loon,
Who fled from the mocking throng, O!
It's the song of a merryman moping mum,
Whose soul was sad and whose glance was glum
Who sipped no sup and who craved no crumb,
As he sighed for the love of a lady!
1888 Jack Point's song, The Yeomen of the Guard.
- 32 In enterprise of martial kind,
When there was any fighting,
He led his regiment from behind—
He found it less exciting.
But when away his regiment ran,
His place was at the fore, O—
That celebrated,
Cultivated
Underrated
Nobleman,
The Duke of Plaza-Toro!
1889 Duke's song, The Gondoliers, act 1.
- 33 I am a courtier grave and serious
Who is about to kiss your hand:
Try to combine a pose imperious
With a demeanour nobly bland.
1889 The Gondoliers, act 2.
- 34 Take a pair of sparkling eyes.
1889 Marco's song, The Gondoliers, act 2.
- 35 Funny without being vulgar.
1893 Of Sir Henry Beerbohm Tree's performance as Hamlet.
Attributed.
- 36 Do you know how they are going to decide the Shakespeare–Bacon dispute? They are going to dig up Shakespeare and dig up Bacon; they are going to get Tree to recite Hamlet to them. And the one who turns in his coffin will be the author of the play.
Letter.
- 37 My dear chap! Good isn't the word!
To an actor who had just given a very weak performance.
Attributed.

Gill, Brendan 1914–97

US writer and critic of film, theatre and architecture. His works include The Day the Money Stopped (1957) and A New York Life: of friends and others (1990). He received the national Book Award for The Trouble of One House (1951).

38 In the later nineteenth century, the tops of skyscrapers often took the shape of domes, surmounted by jaunty gilded lanterns; later came ziggurats, mausoleums, Alexandrian lighthouses, miniature Parthenons. These charming follies contained neither royal corpses nor effigies of gods and goddesses; rather they contained large wooden tanks filled with water.

1982 Quoted in Laura Rosen Top of the City: New York's hidden rooftop world (1990), foreword.

Gill, (Arthur) Eric Rowton 1882–1940

English artist, type designer and writer.

42 That state is a state of Slavery in which a man does what he likes to do in his spare time and in his working time that which is required of him.

1929 Art-nonsense and Other Essays, 'Slavery and Freedom'.

43 The artist is not a special kind of man but every man a special kind of artist.

1934 Art, introduction.

44 Man cannot live on the human plane, he must be either above or below it.

1940 Autobiography, closing words.

45 Science is analytical, descriptive, informative. Man does not live by bread alone, but by science he attempts to do so. Hence the deadliness of all that is purely scientific.

Gillespie, Dizzy (John Birks) 1917–93

US jazz trumpeter, composer and bandleader. A leading exponent of bebop in the 1940s, he formed several big bands and led an international touring orchestra (1956).

46 It's taken me all my life to learn what not to play.

Quoted in N Hentoff Jazz Is (1978).

47 When I first heard Charlie Parker, I said, 'That's how our music should be played.' ... After we got it together, yeah, I knew we were making something new. It was magic. Nobody on the planet was playing like that but us.

1991 On bebop. In the San Francisco Chronicle, 25 May.

48 Now, our music is universal. It shares the rhythmic content of African music, music of the Western Hemisphere and various lands of the East, and has merged this rhythm with European harmonies, the soul of the slaves, the blues, and the spirituals to create jazz.

Gilman, Charlotte Anna pen names Charlotte Perkins Gilman and Charlotte Perkins Stetson 1860–1935

US feminist and writer. She lectured on women's and other social issues, and her Women and Economics (1898) is regarded as a feminist landmark. Her fiction includes the story 'The Yellow Wall-Paper' (1892), a feminist study of madness.

51 The economic status of women generally depends on that of men generally, and... the economic status of women individually depends upon that of men individually, those men to whom they are related.

1898 Women and Economics: A Study of the Economic Relation between Men and Women as a Factor in Social Evolution, ch.1.

52 The labor of women in the house, certainly, enables men to produce more wealth than they otherwise could; and in this way [they] are economic factors in society. But so are horses.

1898 Women and Economics: A Study of the Economic Relation between Men and Women as a Factor in Social Evolution, ch.1.

53 Whatever the economic value of the domestic industry of women is, they do not get it. The women who do the most work get the least money, and the women who have the most money do the least work.

Gingrich, Newt(on Leroy) 1943–

US politician. Originally a history professor, he became representative from Georgia in 1978 and subsequently leader of conservative Republicans in the House. He was Speaker of the House (1995–99).

59 One reason I try to get people to call me Newt is to break down barriers. It's a whole lot easier for someone to say, 'Newt, you've got a spot on your tie,' than it is to say 'Congressman'.

1979 Attributed comment.

Ginsberg, Allen 1926–97

US poet, a key member of the Beat movement with Jack Kerouac and William Burroughs. Despite his anti-establishment views, he was a popular poet and performer. His works include Kaddish and Other Poems (1961).

70 All this time [San Francisco, from 1955] I realized we were involved as a community with a historical change of consciousness and some kind of cultural revolution... I thought it was really in some respects a contest between further liberation or 1984 authoritarianism, police state; that it was creeping police state or creeping socialism-libertarianism.

1984 Quoted in Gordon Ball (ed) Allen Ginsberg: Journals Mid-Fifties (1995), 'Meditations on Record Keeping by Poet, Transcribed by Editor'.

71 Poetry is not an expression of the party line. It's that time of night, lying in bed, thinking what you really think, making the private world public, that's what the poet does.

Quoted in Barry Miles Ginsberg (1989), ch.5.

Giovanni, Nikki in full Yolande Cornelia Giovanni, Jr 1943–

US poet, a significant voice in the development of black consciousness. Her early work was more radical in tone than subsequent more introspective volumes.

Gipp, George 1895–1920

US American football player. His success on the field inspired Notre Dame to two unbeaten seasons (1919 and 1920), though his career was cut short by his death from pneumonia.

77 Some time, Rock, when the team's up against it, when things are wrong and the breaks are beating the US novelist. Much of her fiction was set in the South. She won a Pulitzer Prize in 1941 for In This Our Life.

97 It was not the matter of the work, but the mind that went into, that counted—and the man who was not content to do small things well would leave great things undone.

1900 The Voice of the People, bk.2, ch.4.

98 Women like to sit down with trouble as if it were knitting.

1932 The Sheltered Life, pt.3, section 3.

99 No matter how vital experience might be while you lived it, no sooner was it ended and dead than it became as lifeless as the piles of dry dust in a school history book.

1941 In This Our Life, pt.3, ch.9.

Gleick, James 1954–

US software designer and science writer. His books include Faster: The Acceleration of Just About Everything (1999) and Isaac Newton (2003).

1 To some physicists chaos is a science of process rather than state, of becoming rather than being.

1987 Chaos.

2 The Internet has taken shape with startlingly little planning... The most universal and indispensable network on the planet somehow burgeoned without so much as a board of directors, never mind a mergers-and-acquisitions department. There is a paradoxical lesson here for strategists. In economic terms, the great corporations are acting like socialist planners, while old-fashioned free-market capitalism blossoms at their feet.

1994 In the New York Times Magazine, 1 May.

Glen, Iain 1961–

Scottish actor.

3 I used to have this terrible wish. I didn't mind dying as long as the rest of the world ground to a halt when I did.

2001 In The Herald, 8 Jul.

Glennie, Evelyn 1965–

Scottish percussion player. Judged to be a percussionist of outstanding abilities, she is additionally remarkable in her achievements as she experienced a gradual but total loss of hearing in her early teens.

4 If we cannot spare some patience towards a piece of music or art, what hope do we have for showing it to another human being?

2004 In Scotland on Sunday, 30 May.

Gloucester, William Henry, 1st Duke of 1743–1805

British nobleman and military officer. He was the son of Frederick Louis, Prince of Wales and Augusta of Saxe-Gotha.

5 Another damned, thick, square book! Always scribble, scribble, scribble! Eh! Mr Gibbon?

1781 Attributed, when presented with the second volume of The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. These words have also been attributed to George III and the Duke of Cumberland.

Godard, Jean-Luc 1930–

French film critic and director. His first feature À bout de souffle (1959) established him as one of the leading members of the 'New Wave'. Other notable films include Pierrot Le Fou (1965), Alphaville (1965) and Week-end (1967).

Photography is truth. And cinema is truth twenty-four times a second.

1960 Le Petit Soldat.

Goebbels, (Paul) Joseph 1897–1945

German Nazi official. In 1926 Hitler appointed him district party leader for Berlin and in 1928 he entered the Reichstag. As Minister for Propaganda from 1933 he was a vociferous and virulent anti-Semite. He killed his family and committed suicide as Berlin fell in 1945.

7 Ohne Butter werden wir fertig, aber nicht beispielsweise ohne Kanonen. Wenn wir einmal überfallen werden, dann können wir uns nicht mit Butter, sondern nur mit Kanonen verteidigen.

We can manage without butter but not, for example, without guns. If we are attacked, we can only defend ourselves with guns not butter.

1936 Speech in Berlin, 17 Jan.

8 Wenn das deutsche Volk die Waffen niederlegte, würden die Sowjets... ganz Ost- und Südosteuropa zuzüglich des größten Teiles des Reiches besetzen. Vor diesem einschließlich der Sowjetunion riesigen Territorium würde sich sofort ein eiserner Vorhang herunterensenken. Should the German people lay down their arms, the Soviets... would occupy all eastern and south-eastern Europe together with the greater part of the Reich. Over all this territory, which with the Soviet Union would be of enormous extent, an iron curtain would at once descend.

1945 In Das Reich, a Nazi propaganda weekly, quoted in The Times and the Manchester Guardian on 23 Feb.

Goering, Hermann Wilhelm 1893–1946

German soldier and Nazi leader, commander of the Hitler storm troopers and head of the Gestapo. He was sentenced to death at the Nuremberg Trials, but committed suicide.

9 Our movement took a grip on cowardly Marxism, and from it, extracted the meaning of socialism. It also took from the cowardly, middle-class parties their nationalism. Throwing both into the cauldron of our way of life there emerged, as clear as crystal, the synthesis—German National Socialism.

1933 Speech, Berlin, 9 Apr.

10 Would you rather have butter or guns? ...preparedness

- makes us powerful. Butter merely makes us fat.
1936 Speech, Hamburg.
 ► See Goebbels 359:7.

38 The doctor found, when she was dead,
Her last disorder mortal.

1759 'Elegy on Mrs Mary Blaize'.

39 Where'er I roam, whatever realms to see,
My heart untravelled fondly turns to thee;
Still to my brother turns with ceaseless pain,
And drags at each remove a lengthening chain.

1764 The Traveller, 1.7–10.

40 Such is the patriot's boast, where'er we roam,
His first, best country ever is, at home.

1764 The Traveller, 1.73–4.

41 Laws grind the poor, and rich men rule the law.

1764 The Traveller, 1.386.

42 How small, of all that human hearts endure,
That part which laws or kings can cause or cure!

1764 The Traveller, 1.429–30.

43 I was ever of the opinion, that the honest man who married and brought up a large family, did more service than he who continued single and only talked of population.

1766 The Vicar of Wakefield, ch.1.

44 Let us draw upon content for the deficiencies of fortune.

1766 The Vicar of Wakefield, ch.3.

45 Conscience is a coward, and those faults it has not strength enough to prevent it seldom has justice enough to accuse.

1766 The Vicar of Wakefield, ch.13.

46 It seemed to me pretty plain, that they had more of love than of matrimony in them.

1766 The Vicar of Wakefield, ch.16.

47 When lovely woman stoops to folly
And finds too late that men betray,
What charm can soothe her melancholy,
What art can wash her guilt away?

1766 The Vicar of Wakefield, ch.29.

48 Friendship is a disinterested commerce between equals; love, an abject intercourse between tyrants and slaves.

1768 The Good-Natured Man, act 1.

49 Silence is become his mother tongue.

1768 The Good-Natured Man, act 2.

50 Sweet Auburn, loveliest village of the plain,
Where health and plenty cheered the labouring swain.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.1–2.

51 How often have I paused on every charm,
The sheltered cot, the cultivated farm,
The never-failing brook, the busy mill,
The decent church that topped the neighbouring hill.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.9–12.

52 Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey
Where wealth accumulates and men decay:
Princes and lords may flourish or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.51–6.

53 The village preacher's modest mansion rose.
A man he was to all the country dear,
And passing rich with forty pounds a year.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.140–2.

54 The village master taught his little school;
A man severe he was and stern to view;
I knew him well, and every truant knew;
Well had the boding tremblers learned to trace
The day's disasters in his morning face;
Full well they laughed, with counterfeited glee,
At all his jokes, for many a joke had he.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.196–202.

55 In arguing too, the parson owned his skill,
For e'en though vanquished, he could argue still;
While words of learned length, and thund'ring sound
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around,
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew,
That one small head could carry all he knew.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.211–16.

56 And, even while fashion's brightest arts decoy,
The heart distrusting asks, if this be joy.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.263–4.

57 The rich man's joys increase, the poor's decay,
'Tis yours to judge how wide the limits stand
Between a splendid and a happy land.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.266–8.

58 Thus fares the land, by luxury betrayed.

1770 The Deserted Village, 1.295.

59 In all the silent manliness of grief.

English footballer, captain of Preston North End. He also captained England, winning a total of 14 caps. He subsequently played cricket at county level for Derbyshire.

98 The one passion of my life has been football—the most exhilarating game I know, and the strongest protest against selfishness, without sermonizing, that was ever put before a thoughtful people.

Quoted in Andrew Ward and Anton Rippon The Derby County Story (1983).

Gorbachev, Mikhail Sergeevich 1931–

Russian politician, President of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR (1988–90) and first executive President of the USSR. Despite his historic achievements as the father of glasnost (openness of information) and perestroika (a radical reform programme), which ended the Cold War, he was forced to resign on 25 Dec 1991. He was awarded the Nobel peace prize in 1990.

99 Some comrades apparently find it hard to understand that democracy is just a slogan.

1987 In the Observer, 1 Feb.

1 If the Russian word 'perestroika' has easily entered the international lexicon, it is due to more than just interest in what is going on in the Soviet Union. Now the whole world needs restructuring; that is, progressive development, a fundamental change.

1987 Perestroika: New Thinking for Our Country and the World.

2 The Soviet people want full-blooded and unconditional democracy.

1988 Speech, Jul.

3 Life is making us abandon established stereotypes and outdated views; it is making us discard illusions.

1988 Speech, United Nations, 7 Dec.

4 Mitterrand has 100 lovers. One has AIDS, but he doesn't know which one. Bush has 100 bodyguards. One is a terrorist, but he doesn't know which one. Gorbachev has 100 economic advisers. One is smart, but he doesn't know which one.

Gordon, Adam Lindsay 1833–70

Australian poet, born in the Azores. A series of personal tragedies led to a mental breakdown, and he committed suicide.

5 Question not, but live and labour

Till yon goal be won,
Helping every feeble neighbour,
Seeking help from none;
Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone:
KINDNESS in another's trouble,
COURAGE in your own.

1866 'Ye Wearie Wayfarer: Hys Ballad. In Eight Fyttes', in Bell's Life in Victoria, Nov 1866, collected in Sea Spray and Smoke Drift (1867).

6 I would that with sleepy, soft embraces
The sea would fold me—would find me rest
In luminous shades of her secret places,
In depths where her marvels are manifest;
So the earth beneath her should not discover
My hidden couch—nor the heaven above her—
As a strong love shielding a weary lover,
I would have her shield me with shining breast.
'The Swimmer', stanza 5, collected in Bush Ballads and Galloping Rhymes (1870).

7 A little season of love and laughter,
Of light and life, and pleasure and pain,
And horror of outer darkness after,
And dust returneth to dust again.
Then the lesser life shall be as the greater,
And the lover of life shall join the hater,
And the one thing cometh sooner or later,
And no one knoweth the loss or gain.
'The Swimmer', stanza 10, collected in Bush Ballads and Galloping Rhymes (1870).

Gordon, Mack 1904–59

Polish-born US lyricist.

Gore, Al(bert, Jr) 1948–

US Vice-President under Bill Clinton (1992–2000). In 2000 he ran for President in what turned out to be the closest contest in over 100 years, losing to Republican George W Bush by the narrowest of margins.

- 11 You get all the French-fries the President can't get to.
1994 On being Vice-President. In the New York Times, 8 Apr.
- 12 It makes no more sense to launch an assault on our civil liberties as the best way to get at terrorists than it did to launch an invasion on Iraq as the best way to get at Osama Bin Laden.
2003 Speech calling for the repeal of the US Patriot Act, 9 Nov.

Gorman, Dave 1971–

English comedian.

- 13 Fictional comedy tells us that the writer is remarkable.
Factual comedy tells us that the world is remarkable. I suppose I prefer to live in a remarkable world.
2004 In Varsity, 23 Jan.

Gorostiza, José 1901–73

Mexican poet and diplomat. The most famous member of the avant-garde Contemporáneos group, his published poems are few but complex.

- 14 ¡Oh inteligencia, soledad en llamas, que todo lo concibe sin crearlo!
Oh intelligence, flaming solitude, envisioning all without creating!
1939 Muerte sin fin, pt.1 (translated as Death without End, 1969).

Gorostiza, Manuel Eduardo de 1789–1851

Mexican dramatist and diplomat. He spent his youth in Spain, returning to Mexico in 1833 where he fought in the US invasion. He was a key figure in Latin American neoclassical theatre.

- 15 Yo no digo por eso que el té no sea saludable... cuando duelen las tripas... pero al cabo no pasa de ser agua caliente; sólo podía habernos venido de Inglaterra, que como allí son herejes, ni tendrán vino, ni bueyes cebones.
I'm not saying that tea is not healthy... when you have a stomach ache... but, all in all, it is only hot water; it could only come from the English, who, being heretics as they are, probably have no wine or good beer.

1833 Contigo pan y cebolla, act 1.

Gosse, Sir Edmund 1849–1928

English critic and translator. He wrote biographies of many notable literary figures, and translated the plays of Henrik Ibsen.

- 16 A sheep in sheep's clothing.
Of Sturge Moore, a poet. Quoted in F Greenslet Under the Bridge (1943), ch.10.
- 17 We were as nearly bored as enthusiasm would permit.
Of a play by Algernon Swinburne. Quoted in C Hassall Biography of Edward Marsh.

Gottfried von Strassburg fl.c.1200

German poet. His major work is a version of the Tristan and Isolde legend, Tristan (c.1210), but his appraisals of the works of other writers are a striking early example of literary criticism.

- 18 *Wan swelch wîp tugendet wider ir art, diu gerne wider ir art bewart
ir lop, ir êre unde ire lîp, diu ist niwan mit namen ein wîp und ist ein man mit muote.*
When a woman grows in virtue despite her nature and gladly preserves the integrity of her honour, her reputation, and her person, she is only a woman in name:
in spirit she is a man.
c.1210 Tristan, l.17971–3.

Gottlieb, Adolph 1903–74

US painter, one of the leaders of Abstract Expressionism.

- 19 Certain people always say we should go back to nature. I notice they never say we should go forward to nature. It seems to me they are more concerned that we should go back, than about nature.
1947 In Tiger's Eye, vol.1, no.2, Dec, quoted in C Harrison and Paul Wood (eds) Art in Theory 1900–1990 (1992).

Gould, Glenn 1932–82

Canadian pianist and musical theorist. He performed his last live concert in 1964, thereafter confining himself to recording.

- 20 The concert is dead.
Quoted in Richard Kostelanetz Master Minds (1969).
- 21 The purpose of art is the lifelong construction of a state of wonder.
Quoted by Lorraine Monk at the Commencement Address, York University, Toronto, 6 Nov 1982.

Gould, Philip 1950–

English political strategist and senior adviser to Tony Blair.

- 22 The New Labour brand has been badly contaminated. It is the object of constant criticism and, even worse, ridicule.
2000 Internal memo, May, later leaked to the press. In The Guardian, 20 Jul.

Gould, Stephen Jay 1941–2002

US palaeontologist, evolutionary biologist and science writer,

Professor at Harvard University (1967–2002).

- 23 A man does not attain the status of Galileo merely because he is persecuted, he must also be right.
1977 Ever Since Darwin.
- 24 Science must be understood as a social phenomenon, a gutsy, human enterprise, not the work of robots programmed to collect pure information.
1981 The Mismeasure of Man.
- 25 Science is an integral part of culture. It's not this foreign thing, done by an arcane priesthood. It's one of the glories of the human intellectual tradition.
1990 In The Independent, 24 Jan.

Gounod, Charles François 1818–93

French composer. His works include operas, masses, hymns and oratorios, and he was popular as a songwriter. He fled to England in the Franco-Prussian War (1870), becoming a commander of the Legion of Honour in 1877.

- 26 God grant me a failure like that!
1861 Of Wagner's opera Tannhäuser, after the disastrous première of its revised version at the Opéra, 13 Mar, when it was withdrawn after only three performances. Quoted in Joanna Richardson La Vie Parisienne (1971).
► See Mérimée 567:13.

Gourmont, Rémy de 1858–1915

French writer and critic, leader of the Symbolist movement. He founded the periodical Le Mercure de France, and wrote essays, literary criticism and novels.

- 27 Science is the only truth and it is the great lie. It knows nothing, and people think it knows everything. It is misrepresented. People think that science is electricity, automobilism, and dirigible balloons. It is something very different. It is life devouring itself. It is the sensibility transformed into intelligence. It is the need to know stifling the need to live. It is the genius of knowledge vivisectioning the vital genius.
1905 Promenades philosophiques (translated by Glen S Burne, 1966).

Gowers, Sir Ernest Arthur 1880–1966

English civil servant, called to the bar in 1906. His Plain Words (1948) and ABC of Plain Words (1951) are guides for officials in writing clear English. He revised Fowler's Dictionary of Modern English Usage (1965).

- 28 It is not easy nowadays to remember anything so contrary to all appearances as that officials are the servants of the public; and the official must try not to foster the illusion that it is the other way round.
1948 Plain Words, ch.3.
- 29 Sociology is a new science concerning itself not with esoteric matters outside the comprehension of the layman, as the older sciences do, but with the ordinary affairs of ordinary people. This seems to engender in those who write about it a feeling that the lack of any abstruseness in their subject matter demands a compensatory abstruseness in their language.
1965 'Sociologese', in HF Fowler A Dictionary of Modern English Usage (2nd rev edn).

Goya, Francisco de 1746–1828

Spanish painter and graphic artist, perhaps best known for his series of etchings The Disasters of War.

- 30 But where do they find these lines in nature? Personally I only see forms that are lit up and forms that are not, planes which advance and planes which recede, relief and depth. My eye never sees outlines or particular features or details. I do not count the hairs in the beard of the man who passes by any more than the buttonholes on his jacket attract my notice. My brush should not see better than I do.
Quoted in Enriqueta Harris Goya (1969).

Grace, W(illiam) G(ilbert) 1848–1915

English cricketer and physician. He made his debut in first-class cricket in 1864; by the time he retired in 1908 he had scored 126 first-class centuries and 54,896 runs, and taken 2,864 wickets.

- 31 Let's be getting at them before they get at us.
His reason for always choosing to bat first if his team won the toss. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).
- 32 They haven't come to see you umpiring, they have come to see me bat.
On refusing to leave the crease after an umpire gave him out before he had scored, attributed. Other versions of the story have the umpire refusing to call out on the first ball, explaining to the outraged bowler that the crowd had paid not to see him bowl, but to see Grace bat.

Graham, Harry 1874–1936

English writer of light verse. His blackly comic rhymes in Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes (1899) and the later More Ruthless Rhymes (1930) won widespread popularity.

- 33 Aunt Jane observed, the second time
She tumbled off a bus,
'The step is short from the Sublime
To the Ridiculous.'
1899 Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes, 'Equanimity'.
- 34 O'er the rugged mountain's brow
Clara threw the twins she nursed,
And remarked, 'I wonder now
Which will reach the bottom first?'
1899 Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes, 'Calculating Clara'.
- 35 Billy, in one of his nice new sashes,
Fell in the fire and was burnt to ashes;
Now, although the room grows chilly,
I haven't the heart to poke poor Billy.
1899 Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes, 'Tender-Heartedness'.
- 36 Weep not for little Léonie
Abducted by a French Marquis!
Though loss of honour was a wrench
Just think how it's improved her French.
1930 More Ruthless Rhymes for Heartless Homes, 'Compensation'.

Grahame, Kenneth 1859–1932

Scottish children's writer and Secretary of the Bank of England (1898–1908). He wrote essays and country tales but is best remembered for The Wind in the Willows (1908).

- 37 Believe me, my young friend, there is nothing— absolutely nothing—half so much worth doing as simply messing about in boats.

1908 The Wind in the Willows, ch.1.

38 The poetry of motion! The real way to travel! The only way to travel! Here today—in next week tomorrow! Villages skipped, towns and cities jumped—always somebody else's horizon!

1908 Toad rhapsodizes about the motor car. The Wind in the Willows, ch.2.

39 The smell of buttered toast simply talked to Toad, and with no uncertain voice; talked of warm kitchens, of breakfasts on bright frosty mornings, of cosy parlour firesides on winter evenings, when one's ramble was over and slippers feet were propped on the fender; of the purring of contented cats, and the twitter of sleepy canaries.

1908 The Wind in the Willows, ch.8.

40 The clever men at Oxford
Know all that there is to be knowned.
But they none of them know one half as much
As intelligent Mr Toad.

1908 The Wind in the Willows, ch.10.

Gramm, Phil (William Philip) 1942–

US Senator (1985–2002) and economist.

41 If I had to decide today, I would run. But I may come to my senses.

Grand, Sarah pseudonym of Frances Elizabeth McFall née Clarke 1854–1943

British novelist and feminist, born in Ireland. She was Mayoress of Bath (1923, 1925–9), and is best known for her novels which explore sexual double standards.

45 Both the cow-woman and the scum-woman are well within range of the comprehension of the Bawling Brotherhood, but the new woman is a little above him, and he never thought of looking up to where she has been sitting apart in silent contemplation all these years.

1894 North American Review, 'The New Aspect of the Woman Question', Mar.

Grant, Cary pseudonym of Archibald Leach 1904–86

English-born US film star. He made his film debut in 1932 and developed a reputation as a suave, debonair performer in sophisticated light comedy. His films include Bringing up Baby (1938), His Girl Friday (1940), An Affair to Remember (1957) and North by Northwest (1959).

46 Not only will I not play it, but if Rex Harrison doesn't do it, I won't even go to see it.

c.1963 Response when offered the role of Professor Henry Higgins in the film of My Fair Lady. Attributed.

47 Old Cary Grant fine. How you?

His response to a journalist's terse cable to his press agent, 'How old Cary Grant?' Attributed.

Grant, George P 1918–

Canadian philosopher and teacher.

48 We listen to others to discover what we ourselves believe.

Quoted in CBC Times, 18 Feb 1959.

Grant, Hugh 1960–

English actor, who became an international star after starring in Four Weddings and a Funeral (1994). Subsequent films include Notting Hill (1999) and Bridget Jones's Diary (2001).

49 I play the sort of character who would sell his grandmother for career advancement, something I've come across a lot with actors.

1994 On his role in Restoration. In Screen International, 2 Sep.

50 If Pulp Fiction had been set in the Sussex countryside—and I'm sure it could have worked—then things might have turned out very differently.

1995 Contrasting Four Weddings and a Funeral with a notoriously violent urban US drama. Speech at the British Academy of Film and Television Arts award ceremony, reported in Screen International, 28 Apr.

51 I just don't believe in love at first sight any more, even though I've based my whole career on the concept.

Quoted in the Daily Telegraph, 1 Jan 2004.

Grant, Sir Robert 1779–1838

English lawyer and politician, Advocate-General and Governor of Bombay.

52 O worship the King, all glorious above;
O gratefully sing his power and his love:
Our Shield and Defender, the Ancient of Days,
Pavilioned in splendour, and girded with praise.

1833 'O worship the King, all glorious above', collected in Sacred Poems (1839).

53 O tell of his might, O sing of his grace,
Whose robe is the light, whose canopy space.
His chariots of wrath the deep thunder-clouds form,
And dark is his path on the wings of the storm.

1833 'O worship the King, all glorious above', collected in Sacred Poems (1839).

Grant, Ulysses S (impson) 1822–85

US soldier and 18th President (1869–77), Union general in the Civil War, who accepted the Confederate surrender at Appomattox Court House (1865). He presided over the reconstruction of the South, but his administration was marred by scandal and corruption.

54 No terms except unconditional and immediate surrender can be accepted. I propose to move immediately upon your works.

1862 Message to Simon Bolivar Buckner, besieged at Fort Donelson, 16 Feb. Quoted in P C Headley The Life and Campaigns of General U. S. Grant (1869), ch.6.

55 I purpose to fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer.

1864 Despatch to Washington from Spottsylvania, 11 May.

Quoted in P C Headley The Life and Campaigns of General U. S. Grant (1869), ch.23.

- 56 I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution.
1869 Inaugural address, 4 Mar.
- 57 I only know two tunes. One of them is 'Yankee Doodle,' and the other isn't.
Attributed. Quoted in Derek Watson Music Quotations (1991).

Grass, Günter Wilhelm 1927–

German novelist, poet and playwright. Intellectual and experimental in form, theme and language, his books consistently challenge the status quo and question our reading of the past. He was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1999.

- 58 Ich bin Schriftsteller von Beruf. Ich versuche, gegen die vergehende Zeit anzuschreiben, damit das Vergangene nicht unbekannt bleibt.
I am a writer by profession. I seek in my writing to hold back time so that the past is not forgotten.
1978 Denkzettel: Politische Reden und Aufsätze.
- 59 Ich sei nicht nur als Autor, sondern auch als Mann betroffen. Und zwar irgendwie schuldhaft.
I am moved, not only as an author, but as a person. And feel somehow guilty.
1977 Der Butt (translated as The Flounder, 1978).
- 60 We of the long tails! We of the presentient whiskers! We of the perpetually growing teeth! We, the serried footnotes to man, his proliferating commentary. We, indestructible!
1987 Die Ratten (translated as The Rat, 1987).

Grattan, Henry 1746–1820

Irish statesman. He abandoned law for politics in 1775, leading the fight for independence. Unable to prevent the Act of Union, he sat at Westminster until his death.

- 61 She hears the ocean protesting against separation, but she hears the sea protesting against union. She follows therefore her physical destination when she protests against the two situations, both equally unnatural—separation and union.
Of Ireland. Quoted in Conor Cruise O'Brien Parnell and His Party (1957).

Graves, Robert von Ranke 1895–1985

English writer. He lived abroad for much of his adult life. His works include novels, poems, essays, studies of mythology, criticism, and his autobiography, Goodbye to All That (1929).

- 62 His eyes are quickened so with grief,
He can watch a grass or a leaf
Every instant grow.
1921 'Lost Love'.
- 63 Love shall come at your command
Yet will not stay.
1923 'Song of Contrariety'.
- 64 Children are dumb to say how hot the day is,
How hot the scent is of the summer rose.
1927 'The Cool Web'.
- 65 Goodbye to All That.
1929 Title of autobiography.

- 66 Take your delight in momentariness,
Walk between dark and dark—a shining space
With the grave's narrowness, though not its peace.
1938 'Sick Love'.
- 67 In fear begotten, I begot in fear.
Would you have had me cast fear out
So that you should not be?
1938 'Parents to Child'.
- 68 What, then, was war?
No mere discord of flags
But an infection of the common sky
That sagged ominously upon the earth
Even when the season was the airiest May?
1938 'Recalling War'.
- 69 To evoke posterity
Is to weep on your own grave,
Ventriloquizing for the unborn.
1938 'To Evoke Posterity'.
- 70 To bring the dead to life
Is no great magic.
Few are wholly dead:
Blow on a dead man's embers
And a live flame will start.
1938 'To Bring the Dead to Life'.
- 71 Truth-loving Persians do not dwell upon
The trivial skirmish fought near Marathon.
1945 'The Persian Version'.
- 72 Stirring suddenly from long hibernation,
I knew myself once more a poet
Guarded by timeless principalities
Against the worm of death.
1945 'Mid-Winter Waking'.
- 73 To be a poet is a condition rather than a profession.
1946 Response to a questionnaire from the editor of Horizon.
- 74 The function of poetry is religious invocation of the Muse; its use is the experience of mixed exaltation and horror that her presence excites.
1948 The White Goddess, foreword.
- 75 For a woman to have a liaison is almost always pardonable, and occasionally, when the lover chosen is sufficiently distinguished, even admirable.
1950 Occupation: Writer, 'Lars Porsena'.
- 76 In love as in sport, the amateur status must be strictly maintained.
1950 Occupation: Writer, 'Lars Porsena'.
- 77 Counting the slow heart beats,
The bleeding to death of time in slow heart beats,
Wakeful they lie.
1951 'Counting the Beats'.
- 78 Prose books are the show dogs I breed and sell to support my cat.
1958 On writing novels to support his love of writing poetry. In the New York Times, 13 Jul.
- 79 Why have such scores of lovely, gifted girls
Married impossible men?
1958 'A Slice of Wedding Cake'.
- 80 Julia: how Irishly you sacrifice
Love to pity, pity to ill-humour,
Yourself to love, still haggling at the price.
'Reproach to Julia', collected in Collected Poems (1959).

- 81 Love is a universal migraine
A bright stain on the vision
Blotting out reason.
1961 'Symptoms of Love'.
- 82 A well-chosen anthology is a complete dispensary of medicine for the more common mental disorders, and may be used as much for prevention as cure.
1962 On English Poetry; 'Definitions'.
- 83 Nine-tenths of English poetic literature is the result either of vulgar careerism, or of a poet trying to keep his hand in. Most poets are dead by their late twenties.
1962 In the Observer, 11 Nov.
- 84 If there's no money in poetry, neither is there poetry in money.
1963 Speech at London School of Economics, 6 Dec.
- 85 The remarkable thing about Shakespeare is that he is really very good—in spite of all the people who say he is very good.
1964 Attributed.
- 86 The poet is the unsatisfied child who dares to ask the difficult question which arises from the schoolmaster's answer to his simple question, and then the still more difficult question which arises from that.
Recalled on his death, 7 Dec 1985.
- 87 Love without hope, as when the young bird-catcher
Swept off his tall hat to the Squire's own daughter,
So let the imprisoned larks escape and fly
Singing about her head, as she rode by.
'Love without Hope'.

Gray, Alasdair James 1934–

Scottish novelist, painter and playwright. His novel Lanark (1981) is an inventive semi-fantasy based in Glasgow. He has subsequently written and illustrated several equally unconventional novels.

- 88 Of course in nature the only ending is death, but death hardly ever happens when people are at their best. That is why we like tragedies. They show men energetically with their wits about them and deserving to do it.
1981 Lanark, bk.1, interlude.
- 89 Art is the only work open to people who can't get along with others and still want to be special.
1981 Lanark, bk.3, ch.1.
- 90 Glasgow, the sort of industrial city where most people live nowadays but nobody imagines living.
1981 Lanark, bk.3, ch.11.

Gray, Alexander 1882–1968

Scottish economist, Professor at Aberdeen and Edinburgh Universities.

- 91 The services of a menial servant, taking him as an example of unproductive labour, 'generally perish in the very instant of their performance'—and forthwith into this galley, along with the menial servant, goes the sovereign, accompanied by all the army, the navy, and the civil service, followed by churchmen, lawyers, buffoons and opera dancers. All these—and it is a hard saying—render services which perish in the very instant of their performance.
1931 The Development of Economic Doctrine.

Gray, Thomas 1716–71

English poet. In 1742 he wrote his Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College (1747) and began the famous Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard (1751). He declined the Laureateship (1757), and became Professor of History and Modern Languages at Cambridge (1768).

- 92 Ye distant spires, ye antique towers,
That crown the wat'ry glade.
1742 Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College (published 1747), l.1–2.
- 93 Still as they run they look behind,
They hear a voice in every wind,
And snatch a fearful joy.
1742 Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College (published 1747), l.38–40.
- 94 Alas, regardless of their doom,
The little victims play!
No sense have they of ills to come,
Nor care beyond to-day.
1742 Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College (published 1747), l.51–4.
- 95 To each his suff'rings, all are men,
Condemned alike to groan;
The tender for another's pain,
Th' unfeeling for his own.

Yet ah! why should they know their fate?
Since sorrow never comes too late,
And happiness too swiftly flies.
Thought would destroy their paradise.
No more; where ignorance is bliss,
'Tis folly to be wise.
1742 Ode on a Distant Prospect of Eton College (published 1747), l.91–100.
- 96 The language of the age is never the language of poetry, except among the French, whose verse, where the thought or image does not support it, differs in nothing from prose.
1742 Letter to Richard West, 8 Apr. Collected in H W Starr (ed) Correspondence of Thomas Gray (1971).
- 97 Demurest of the tabby kind,
The pensive Selima reclined,
Gazed on the lake below.
1747 Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes, l.4–6.
- 98 The velvet of her paws,
Her coat that with the tortoise vies,
Her ears of jet and emerald eyes,
She saw; and purred applause.
1747 Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes, l.9–12.
- 99 What female heart can gold despise?
What cat's averse to fish?
1747 Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes, l.23–4.
- 1 A favourite has no friend!
1747 Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes, l.36.
- 2 Not all that tempts your wandering eyes
And heedless hearts, is lawful prize;
Nor all that glisters gold.
1747 Ode on the Death of a Favourite Cat, Drowned in a Tub of Gold Fishes, 1.40–3. Derived from 'All that glitters is not gold', The Merchant of Venice, act 2, scene 7.

- 3 The Attic warbler pours her throat,
Responsive to the cuckoo's note,
The untaught harmony of spring.
1748 Ode on the Spring, 1.5–7.
- 4 Where'er the oak's thick branches stretch
A broader browner shade;
Where'er the rude and moss-grown beech
O'er-canopies the glade,
Beside some water's rushy brink
With me the Muse shall sit, and think.
1748 Ode on the Spring, 1.11–16.
- 5 How low, how little are the proud,
How indigent the great!
1748 Ode on the Spring, 1.19–20.
- 6 The insect youth are on the wing,
Eager to taste the honeyed spring,
And float amid the liquid noon:
Some lightly o'er the current skim,
Some show their gaily-gilded trim
Quick-glancing to the sun.
1748 Ode on the Spring, 1.25–30.
- 7 Methinks I hear in accents low
The sportive kind reply:
Poor moralist! and what art thou?
A solitary fly!
1748 Ode on the Spring, 1.41–4.
- 8 Shame of the versifying tribe!
Your history whither are you spinning?
Can you do nothing but describe?
1750 A Long Story, 1.17–20.
- 9 To celebrate her eyes, her air—
Coarse panegyrics would but tease her.
Melissa is her nom de guerre.
Alas, who would not wish to please her!
1750 A Long Story, 1.33–6.
- 10 The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
The lowing herd wind slowly o'er the lea,
The ploughman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me.
- Now fades the glimmering landscapes on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
Save where the beetle wheels his droning flight,
And drowsy tinklings lull the distant folds.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.1–8.
- 11 Save that from yonder ivy-mantled tower
The moping owl does to the moon complain.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.9–10.
- 12 Beneath those rugged elms, that yew-tree's shade,
Where heaves the turf in many a mouldering heap,
Each in his narrow cell for ever laid,
The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep.
- The breezy call of incense-breathing Morn,
The swallow twitt'ring from the straw-built shed,
The cock's shrill clarion, or the echoing horn,
No more shall rouse them from their lowly bed.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.13–20.
- 13 For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,

Or busy housewife ply her evening care:
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
Or climb upon his knees the envied kiss to share.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.21–4.

- 14 Let not Ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys and destiny obscure;
Nor Grandeur hear, with a disdainful smile,
The short and simple annals of the poor.
- The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Awaits alike th' inevitable hour,
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.29–36.
- 15 Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can Honour's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or Flattery soothe the dull cold ear of Death?
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.41–4.
- 16 But knowledge to their eyes her ample page
Rich with the spoils of time did ne'er unroll;
Chill Penury repressed their noble rage,
And froze the genial current of the soul.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.49–52.
- 17 Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear:
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.52–6.
- 18 Some mute inglorious Milton here may rest,
Some Cromwell guiltless of his country's blood.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.59–60.
- 19 Their lot forbad: nor circumscribed alone
Their growing virtues, but their crimes confined:
Forbad to wade through slaughter to a throne,
And shut the gates of mercy on mankind.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.65–8.
- 20 Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife
Their sober wishes never learned to stray;
Along the cool sequestered vale of life
They kept the noiseless tenor of their way.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.73–6. Thomas Hardy popularized the phrase as the title of his novel Far From the Madding Crowd (1874).
- 21 Their name, their years, spelt by the unlettered muse,
The place of fame and elegy supply:
And many a holy text around she strews,
That teach the rustic moralist to die.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.81–4.
- 22 For who to dumb Forgetfulness a prey,
This pleasing anxious being e'er resigned,
Left the warm precincts of the cheerful day,
Nor cast one longing ling'ring look behind?
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.85–8.
- 23 Mindful of the unhonoured dead.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.93.
- 24 Oft have we seen him at the peep of dawn
Brushing with hasty steps the dews away
To meet the sun upon the upland lawn.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.98–100.
- 25 Here rest his head upon the lap of earth

- A youth to fortune and to fame unknown.
Fair Science frowned not on his humble birth,
And Melancholy marked him for her own.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.117–20, 'The Epitaph.'
- 26 No farther seek his merits to disclose,
Or draw his frailties from their dread abode,
(There they alike in trembling hope repose)
The bosom of his Father and his God.
1751 Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard, 1.125–8, 'The Epitaph.'
- 27 Ruin seize thee, ruthless King!
Confusion on thy banners wait,
Tho' fanned by Conquest's crimson wing
They mock the air with idle state.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.1–4.
- 28 To save thy secret soul from nightly fears.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.6.
- 29 Loose his beard, and hoary hair
Streamed, like a meteor, to the troubled air.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.19–20.
- 30 Cold is Cadwallon's tongue,
That hushed the stormy main.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.29–30.
- 31 Dear as the light that visits these sad eyes,
Dear as the ruddy drops that warm my heart,
Ye died amidst your dying country's cries.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.40–2.
- 32 Weave the warp, and weave the woof,
The winding-sheet of Edward's race.
Give ample room, and verge enough
The characters of hell to trace.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.49–52.
- 33 Mighty victor, mighty lord,
Low on his funeral couch he lies!
No pitying heart, no eye, afford
A tear to grace his obsequies.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.63–6.
- 34 Fair laughs the morn and soft the zephyr blows,
While proudly riding o'er the azure realm
In gallant trim the gilded vessel goes;
Youth on the prow, and Pleasure at the helm;
Regardless of the sweeping whirlwind's sway,
That, hushed in grim repose, expects his evening prey.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.71–6.
- 35 In buskined measures move
Pale Grief and pleasing Pain,
With Horror, tyrant of the throbbing breast.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.128–30.
- 36 'Be thine despair and sceptred care;
To triumph, and to die, are mine.'
He spoke, and headlong from the mountain's height
Deep in the roaring tide he plunged to endless night.
1757 The Bard. A Pindaric Ode, 1.141–4.
- 37 Far from the sun and summer-gale,
In thy green lap was Nature's darling laid.
1757 Of William Shakespeare. The Progress of Poesy, 1.83–4.
- 38 Nor second he, that rode sublime
Upon the seraph-wings of ecstasy,
The secrets of th' abyss to spy.
He passed the flaming bounds of place and time:

The living throne, the sapphire-blaze,
Where angels tremble, while they gaze,
He saw; but blasted with excess of light,
Closed his eyes in endless night.

1757 Of Milton. The Progress of Poesy, 1.95–102.

- 39 Thoughts, that breathe, and words, that burn.
1757 The Progress of Poesy, 1.110.
- 40 Beyond the limits of a vulgar fate,
Beneath the good how far—but far above the great.
1757 The Progress of Poesy, 1.122–3.
- 41 It has been usual to catch a mouse or two (for form's sake) in public once a year.
1757 On refusing the Laureateship. Letter to William Mason, 19 Dec.
- 42 Too poor for a bribe, and too proud to importune,
He had not the method of making a fortune.
1761 'Sketch of His Own Character'.
- 43 I shall be but a shrimp of an author.
1768 Letter to Horace Walpole, 25 Feb.
- 44 Any fool may write a most valuable book by chance, if he will only tell us what he heard and saw with veracity.
1768 Letter to Horace Walpole, 25 Feb.

Greeley, Horace 1811–72

1938 Brighton Rock, pt.1, ch.1.
- 50 He trailed the clouds of his own glory after him; hell lay about him in his infancy. He was ready for more deaths.
1938 Brighton Rock, pt.2, ch.2.
► See Wordsworth 926:24.
- 51 I couldn't eat, just went on drinking coffee, and sweating

- it out again. Liquid had no time to be digested; it came through the pores long before it reached the stomach. I lay wet through with sweat for four hours—it was very nearly like happiness.
1939 In Mexico. The Lawless Roads (published in the US as Another Mexico).
- 52 There is always one moment in childhood when the door opens and lets the future in.
1940 The Power and the Glory, pt.1, ch.1.
- 53 A virtuous man can almost cease to believe in Hell, but he carried Hell about with him. Sometimes at night he dreamed of it. . . Evil ran like malaria in his veins.
1940 The Power and the Glory, pt.3, ch.1.
- 54 They had been corrupted by money, and he had been corrupted by sentiment. Sentiment was the more dangerous, because you couldn't name its price.
1948 The Heart of the Matter, bk.1, pt.1, ch.2, iii.
- 55 He felt the loyalty we all feel to unhappiness—the sense that that is where we really belong.
1948 The Heart of the Matter, bk.2, pt.2, ch.1, i.
- 56 His hilarity was like a scream from a crevasse.
1948 The Heart of the Matter, bk.3, pt.1, ch.1, i.

1961 A Burnt-Out Case, ch.1.
- 63 Fame is a powerful aphrodisiac.
1964 In the Radio Times, 10 Sep.
- 64 His slang. . . was always a little out of date, as though he had studied in a dictionary of popular usage, but not in the latest edition.
1966 The Comedians, pt.1, ch.1.
- 65 The man who offers a bribe gives away a little of his own importance; the bribe once accepted, he becomes the inferior, like a man who has just paid for a woman.
1966 The Comedians, pt.1, ch.4.
- 66 We musn't complain too much of being comedians—it's an honourable profession. If only we could be good ones the world might gain at least a sense of style.
1966 The Comedians, pt.2, ch.5.
- 67 An autobiography is only 'a sort of life'—it may contain less errors of fact than a biography, but it is of necessity even more selective: it begins later and it ends prematurely.
1971 A Sort of Life, preface.
- 68 And the motive for recording these scraps of the past? It is much the same motive that has made me a novelist: a desire to reduce a chaos of experience to some sort of order, and a hungry curiosity.
1971 A Sort of Life, preface.
- 69 I put the muzzle of the revolver into my right ear and pulled the trigger. . . I was out by one. I remember an extraordinary sense of jubilation, as if carnival lights had been switched on in a drab street. My heart knocked in its cage, and life contained an infinite number of possibilities.
1971 Recalling a game of Russian roulette with his brother's revolver in 1923. A Sort of Life, ch.6, pt.2.
- 70 He would certainly have despised Christ for being the son of a carpenter, if the New Testament had not proved in time to be such a howling commercial success.
1980 Dr Fischer of Geneva, ch.7.
- 71 Writing a novel does not become easier with practice.
1980 Ways of Escape, ch.5.
- 72 Writing is a form of therapy; sometimes I wonder how all these people who do not write, compose or paint can manage to escape the madness, the melancholia, the panic fear which is inherent in the human situation.
1980 Ways of Escape, ch.9.
- 73 Perhaps we are all fictions, father, in the minds of God.
1982 Monsignor Quixote, pt.1, ch.1.

- 79 Only your hearts be frolic, for the time
 Craves that we taste of naught but jouissance.
c.1589 Friar Bacon and Friar Bungay (published 1594), sc.16.
- 80 For there is an upstart crow, beautified with our feathers, that with his tiger's heart wrapped in a player's hide, supposes he is as well able to bombast out a blank verse as the best of you; and being an absolute Iohannes fac totum, is in his own conceit the only Shake-scene in a country.
1592 Of Shakespeare. The Groatworth of Wit, Bought with a Million of Repentance. Iohannes fac totum = 'Jack-of-all-trades'.

Greenspan, Alan 1926–

English poet. He lived in the US from 1954 until his death. He is recognized as one of the major poets of his generation.

39 I saw that lack of love contaminates,
You know I know you know I know you know.
1954 'Carnal Knowledge'.

40 At worst, one is in motion; and at best,
Reaching no absolute, in which to rest,
One is always nearer by not keeping still.
1957 'On the Move'.

Gunther, John 1901–70

US author and journalist. He established his reputation with the best-selling Inside Europe (1939), and followed it with a series of Inside books.

41 Bright grayness. Both the clothes and hair were neat and gray. The gray-framed spectacles magnified the gray hazel eyes, but there was no grayness in the mind.
Of Harry S Truman. Quoted in David McCullough Truman (1992).

Gurney, Dorothy Frances 1858–1932

English poet and hymnwriter.

42 The kiss of the sun for pardon,
The song of the birds for mirth,
One is nearer God's Heart in a garden
Than anywhere else on earth.
1913 'God's Garden'.

Gurney, Ivor 1890–1937

English poet and composer, especially renowned for his war poems.

43 The songs I had are withered
Or vanished clean.
Yet there are bright tracks
Where I have been.
1922 'The Songs I Had'.

44 I paid the prices of life
Standing where Rome immortal heard October's strife,
A war poet whose right of honour cuts falsehood like a knife.
c.1922 'Poem for End'.

Gurney, John Hampden 1802–62

English clergyman and hymnwriter.

45 Ye holy angels bright,
Who wait at God's right hand,
Or through the realms of light
Fly at your Lord's command,
Assist our song,
Or else the theme too high doth seem
For mortal tongue.
1838 'Ye Holy Angels Bright', based on a poem by Richard Baxter (1615–91).

Gustavus II (Adolphus) 1594–1632

King of Sweden (1611), who entered the Thirty Years War by invading Poland in 1621. His armies conquered much of Germany in 1631, and he was killed at the Battle of Lützen, 1632.

46 All the wars that are now afoot in Europe have been fused together, and have become a single war.
1630 Letter to Axel Oxenstierna, referring to the Thirty Years War, 1618–48.

Guston, Philip 1913–80

Canadian-born painter. He moved with his family to California in 1916. His early paintings combine realism with surrealism and his later work is characterized by its cartoon-like style.

47 I go to my studio every day, because one day I may go and the angel will be there. What if I don't go and the angel came?
1991 Quoted by Gail Godwin in the Washington Post, 7 Mar.

Guthrie, Woody (Woodrow Wilson) 1912–67

US folk-singer, songwriter and author. His songs draw on traditional country music and blues themes and reflect his social and political concerns.

48 This land is your land, this land is my land,
From California to the New York Island.
From the redwood forest to the Gulf Stream waters
This land was made for you and me.
1956 'This Land is Your Land'.

49 You can't write a good song about a whore-house unless you been in one.
1964 Quoted in Broadside.

Guy, Ray 1939–

58 A little while and I will be gone from among you, whither
I cannot tell. From nowhere we came, into nowhere we go. What is Life? It is a flash of a firefly in the night. It is a breath of a buffalo in the winter time. It is as the little shadow that runs across the grass and loses itself in the sunset.

1885 Dying words of the African chief Umbopa in King Solomon's Mines. John Peter Turner in The North-West Mounted Police (1950) credited them to Crowfoot (c.1830–1890), chief of the Blackfoot Indians, who died in his teepee overlooking the Bow River, Alberta, 25 Apr 1890, and this attribution gained popular acceptance.

59 She who must be obeyed.

1887 She, ch.6, and passim.

60 What a terrifying reflection it is, by the way, that nearly all our deep love for women who are not our kindred depends—at any rate, in the first instance—upon their personal appearances. If we lost them, and found them again dreadful to look on, though otherwise they were the very same, should we still love them?

1887 She, ch.26 'What We Saw', narrator's note.

Hague, William 1961–

English Conservative politician. He was Leader of the Conservative Party from 1997 to 2001.

61 It was inevitable the Titanic was going to set sail, but that doesn't mean it was a good idea to be on it.

1998 In The Mail on Sunday, 'Quotes of the Week', 11 Jan.

62 This is a candidate of probity and integrity—I am going to back him to the full.

1999 On Jeffrey Archer as a London mayoral candidate, at the Conservative Party conference, Oct.

63 People work hard and save hard to own a car. They do not want to be told that they cannot drive it by a Deputy Prime Minister whose idea of a park and ride scheme is to park one Jaguar and drive away in another.

1999 Of John Prescott. In the House of Commons, 17 Nov.

Haig, Alexander Meigs, Jr 1924–

US soldier and Republican politician, White House Chief of Staff at the end of Nixon's presidency and Supreme NATO Commander. He was Secretary of State under Reagan (1981–2), and unsuccessfully sought presidential nomination in 1988.

64 As of now, I am in control here in the White House.

1981 Said immediately after the attempted assassination of President Reagan, 30 Mar, in Vice-President George Bush's absence from Washington DC.

65 I take it as a compliment when an agent of the largest and most heinous bully of the century, the Soviet Union, accuses me of being a bully.

1995 On how he was seen as US Secretary of State by former Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin. In the Washington Post, 27 Oct.

Haig (of Bemersyde), Douglas Haig, 1st Earl

1861–1928

Scottish field marshal. He became Commander of the British Expeditionary Force in 1915. His war of attrition was costly and widely criticized; he led the final successful offensive of World War I in Aug 1918.

66 Every position must be held to the last man: there must be no retirement. With our backs to the wall, and believing in the justice of our cause, each one of us must fight on until the end.

1918 Order to British troops facing the German offensive across the Somme battlefields, 12 Apr. Quoted in A Duff Cooper Haig (1936), vol.2, ch.23.

Haile Selassie originally Prince Ras Tafari Makonnen 1891–1975

Emperor of Ethiopia (1930–6, 1941–74), leader of the revolution against Lij Yasu (1916). He was exiled after the Italian conquest of Abyssinia (1935–6), and restored after British liberation. Although deposed after the famine of 1973, he is still much revered, notably by Rastafarians.

- 67 Throughout history it has been the inaction of those who could have acted, the indifference of those who should have known better, the silence of the voice of justice when it mattered most, that has made it possible for evil to triumph.
1963 Address to a special session of the UN General Assembly, 4 Oct, making him the first head of state to address both that organization and the League of Nations.

Hailsham, Quintin (McGarel) Hogg, 2nd Viscount 1907–2001

- 75 You can drop a mouse down a thousand-yard mine shaft; and, on arriving at the bottom, it gets a slight shock and walks away. A rat is killed, a man is broken, a horse splashes.

1927 Possible Worlds and Other Essays, 'On Being the Right Size'.

- 76 I believe that the scientist is trying to expand absolute truth and the artist absolute beauty, so that I find in art and science, and in an attempt to live a good life, all the religion I want.

1931 Living Philosophies.

- 77 My final word, before I'm done,
 Is 'Cancer can be rather fun'.
 Thanks to the nurses and Nye Bevan
 The NHS is quite like heaven
 Provided one confronts the tumour
 With a sufficient sense of humour.
 I know that cancer often kills,
 But so do cars and sleeping pills;
 And it can hurt one till one sweats,
 So can bad teeth and unpaid debts.
1964 'Cancer's a Funny Thing'.

Hale, Nathan 1755–76

American revolutionary soldier. In 1776 he volunteered to penetrate British lines on Long Island and procure intelligence for Washington, but was detected and hanged as a spy.

 And everywhere that Mary went
 The lamb was sure to go.
1830 Poems for Our Children, 'Mary's Little Lamb'.

Hales, Stephen 1677–1761

English clergyman and physiologist, considered the founder of plant physiology. His investigations are reported in his work Statistical Essays, the first of which, Vegetable Staticks, was published in 1727.

- 81 Since we are assured that the all-wise Creator has observed the most exact proportions of number, weight and measure in the make of all things, the most likely way therefore to get any insight into the nature of those parts of the Creation which come within our observation must in all reason be to number, weigh and measure.

1727 Vegetable Staticks.

Haliburton, Thomas Chandler 1796–1865

Canadian lawyer and satirist. In 1835 he began a series of satiric sketches later enlarged as The Clockmaker; or The Sayings and Doings of Samuel Slick (1836). The Old Judge; or Life in a Colony (1849) combines social history and satire.

82 I was always well mounted. I am fond of a horse, and always piqued myself on having the fastest trotter in the Province. I have made no great progress in the world. I feel doubly, therefore, the pleasure of not being surpassed on the road.

Hall, Charles 1745–1825

English physician educated in Holland, best known for his socialist work The Effects of Civilization on the People in European States (1805). In 1805 he was impoverished by a lawsuit and, refusing aid, later died in prison determined to show that he had been unjustly treated.

91 The effect of trade and commerce with respect to most civilized states is to send out of their countries what the poor, that is, the great mass of mankind, have occasion for, and to bring back, in return, what is consumed almost wholly by a small part of those nations, viz. the rich. Hence it appears that the greater part of manufactures, trade and commerce is highly injurious to the poor as being the chief means of depriving them of the necessaries of life.

5 For what has been—thanks!
For what shall be—yes!

1950 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

6 God does not die on the day when we cease to believe in a personal deity, but we die on the day when our lives cease to be illumined by the steady radiance, renewed daily, of a wonder, the source of which is beyond all reason.

1950 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

7 Before Thee in humility, with Thee in faith, in Thee in peace.

1955 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

8 The 'men of the hour', the self-assured who strut among us in the jingling harness of their success and importance, how can you let yourself be irritated by them. Let them enjoy their triumph—on the level to which it belongs.

1956 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

9 I didn't know Who—or what—put the question, I don't know when it was put. I don't even remember answering. But at some moment I did answer Yes to Someone—or Something—and from that hour I was certain that existence is meaningful and that, therefore, my life, in self-surrender, had a goal.

1961 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

10 Weep

If you can,

Weep,

But do not complain—

And you must be thankful.

1961 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

11 Never let success hide its emptiness from you; achievement its nothingness; toil its desolation. Keep alive the incentive to push on further, that pain in the soul that drives us beyond ourselves. Do not look back, and do not dream about the future either. It will neither give you back the past, nor satisfy your other daydreams. Your duty, your reward, your destiny are here and now.

1961 Vägmarken (translated by L Sjsyberg and W H Auden as Markings, 1964).

Hammer, Armand 1898–1990

US business executive and art collector.

12 The art world is a jungle echoing to the calls of vicious jealousies and ruthless combat between dealers and collectors; but I have been walking in the jungles of business all my life, and fighting tooth and nail for pictures comes as a form of relaxation to me.

1987 Hammer, Witness to History, his autobiography.

13 My Van Gogh is better than Irises. I have the whole garden. On ranking his own Van Gogh, Hospital at Saint-Rémy, over the Irises that brought £53.9 million at auction. In Connoisseur, Jan 1991.

1927 Title of song from Show Boat (music by Jerome Kern).

16 When I grow too old to dream

Your love will live in my heart.

1935 Song from The Night is Young (music by Sigmund Romberg).

17 As you walk through the storm,

Hold your head up high,

And don't be afraid of the dark,

At the end of the storm,

Is a golden sky,

And the sweet silver song of the lark,

Walk on through the wind,

Walk on through the rain,

Though your dreams be tossed and blown.

Walk on, walk on,

With hope in your hearts,

And you'll never walk alone,

You'll never walk alone.

1945 Carousel, 'You'll Never Walk Alone' (music by Richard Rodgers). The song was subsequently released in a pop version by Gerry and the Pacemakers in 1963 and adopted as a club song by Liverpool football club.

18 I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair.

1949 Title of song sung by Mitzi Gaynor in South Pacific (music by Richard Rodgers).

19 You've got to be taught to be afraid
Of people whose eyes are oddly made,
Of people whose skin is a different shade.
You've got to be carefully taught.

You've got to be taught before it's too late,
Before you are six or seven or eight,
To hate all the people your relatives hate.
You've got to be carefully taught.

1949 'You've Got to Be Carefully Taught', song from South Pacific (music by Richard Rodgers).

20 The hills are alive with the sound of music
With the songs they have sung
For a thousand years.

48 Good, but not religious-good.

1872 Under the Greenwood Tree, ch.2.

49 That man's silence is wonderful to listen to.

1872 Under the Greenwood Tree, ch.14.

50 No man likes to see his emotions the sport of a merry-go-round of skittishness.

1874 Far from the Madding Crowd, ch.4.

51 Men thin away to insignificance and oblivion quite as often by not making the most of good spirits when they have them as by lacking good spirits when they are indispensable.

1874 Far from the Madding Crowd, ch.22.

52 He was moderately truthful towards men, but to women lied like a Cretan.

1874 Of Sergeant Troy. Far from the Madding Crowd, ch.25.

53 It is hard for a woman to define her feelings in language which is chiefly made by men to express theirs.

1874 Far from the Madding Crowd, ch.81.

54 Human beings, in their generous endeavour to construct a hypothesis that shall not degrade a First Cause, have always hesitated to conceive a dominant power of a lower moral quality than their own.

1878 The Return of the Native, bk.6, ch.1.

55 There was a natural instinct to abjure man as the blot on an otherwise kindly universe.

1886 The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.1.

- 56 Her bygone simplicity was the art that conceals art.
1886 The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.15.
- 57 Sex had never before asserted itself in her so strongly, for in former days she had perhaps been too impersonally human to be distinctively feminine.
1886 Of Miss Newson. The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.15.
- 58 Her occasional pretty and picturesque use of dialect words—those terrible marks of the beast to the truly genteel.
1886 The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.20.
- 59 It is not by what is, in this life, but by what appears, that you are judged.
1886 The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.25.
- 60 She whose youth had seemed to teach that happiness was but the occasional episode in a general drama of pain.
1886 The Mayor of Casterbridge, ch.45.
- 61 It was one of those sequestered spots outside the gates of the world.
1887 The Woodlanders, ch.1.
- 62 Why it was that upon this beautiful feminine tissue, sensitive as gossamer, and practically blank as snow as yet, there should have been traced such a coarse pattern as it was doomed to receive; why so often the coarse appropriates the finer thus, the wrong man the woman, the wrong woman the man, many thousand years of analytical philosophy have failed to explain to our sense of order.
1891 Tess of the D'Urbervilles, ch.11.
- 63 'Justice' was done, and the President of the Immortals (in Aeschylean phrase) had ended his sport with Tess.
1891 Tess of the D'Urbervilles, ch.59.
- 64 A novel is an impression, not an argument.
1892 Tess of the D'Urbervilles, preface to 5th edn.

1896 The note left by Jude's young son, who had hanged his siblings and himself. Jude the Obscure, pt.6, ch.2.
- 70 An aged thrush, frail, gaunt and small,
 In blast-beruffled plume,
 Had chosen thus to fling his sail
 Upon the growing gloom.
- So little cause for carollings
 Of such ecstatic sound
 Was written on terrestrial things
 Afar or nigh around,
 That I could think there trembled through

His happy good-night air
 Some blessed Hope, whereof he knew
 And I was unaware.

1902 'The Darkling Thrush'.

- 71 If way to the Better there be, it exacts a full look at the worst.
1902 'De Profundis'.
- 72 What we gain by science is, after all, sadness, as the Preacher saith. The more we know of the laws and nature of the Universe the more ghastly a business we perceive it all to be—and the non-necessity of it.
1902 Letter to Edward Clodd, 27 Feb.
- 73 A local thing called Christianity.
1904 The Dynasts, pt.1, act 1, sc.6.
- 74 War makes rattling good history; but Peace is poor reading.
1904 The Dynasts, pt.1, act 2, sc.5.
- 75 Woman much missed, how you call to me, call to me,
 Saying that now you are not as you were
 When you had changed from the one who was all to me,
 But as at first, when our day was fair.
1914 'The Voice'.
- 76 This is the weather the cuckoo likes,
 And so do I;
 When showers betumble the chestnut spikes,
 And nestlings fly:
 And the little brown nightingale bills his best,
 And they sit outside at 'The Travellers' Rest',
 And maids come forth sprig-muslin drest,
 And citizens dream of the south and west,
 And so do I.
1922 Late Lyrics and Earlier, 'Weathers'.
- 77 Well, World, you have kept faith with me,
 Kept faith with me;
 Upon the whole you have proved to be Much as you said you were.
1928 Winter Words, 'He Never Expected Much'.

Hargreaves, W F 1846–1919

English songwriter. Married to US singer Ella Shields, he wrote such music-hall standards as 'I Must Go Home Tonight'.

- 78 I acted so tragic the house rose like magic,
 The audience yelled, 'You're sublime'.
 They made me a present of Mornington Crescent,
 They threw it a brick at a time.
 'The Night I Appeared as Macbeth' (song).

Harington, Sir John 1561–1612

And my language is plain—

That for ways that are dark

And for tricks that are vain,

The heathen Chinese is peculiar,

Which the same I would rise to explain.

1870 'Plain Language from Truthful James', stanza 1. The poem became popularly known as 'That Heathen Chinese'.

17 We are ruined by Chinese cheap labour.

1870 'Plain Language from Truthful James', stanza 7.

18 And on that grave where English oak and holly
And laurel wreaths entwine,
Deem it not all a too presumptuous folly,
This spray of Western pine!

1870 On the death of Charles Dickens. 'Dickens in Camp', stanza 10.

19 If, of all words of tongue and pen,
The saddest are, 'It might have been,'

More sad are these we daily see:
'It is, but hadn't ought to be.'

1871 'Mrs. Judge Jenkins'.

Hartley, L(eslie) P(oles) 1895–1972

English writer. His early published works were short stories of a macabre turn. He went on to write successful novels of considerable psychological acuity.

20 The past is a foreign country: they do things differently there.

1953 The Go-Between, prologue.

Harvey, P(olly) J(ean) 1969–

English singer and songwriter.

21 There would be more women in the rock scene if they were any good. But there are so few who are.

2004 In Scotland on Sunday, 30 May.

Harvey, William 1578–1657

English physician and scientist, who established the foundations of modern medicine. He was the first to demonstrate the function of the heart and the complete circulation of the blood.

22 Nature is nowhere accustomed more openly to display her secret mysteries than in cases where she shows tracings of her workings apart from the beaten paths; nor is there any better way to advance the proper practice of medicine than to give our minds to the discovery of the usual law of nature, by careful investigation of cases of rarer forms of disease.

1657 Letter to John Vlackveld, 24 Apr.

Harvey-Jones, Sir John 1924–

English industrial executive.

23 All in all, if one sought to design a life style which was destructive of the individual, the way that business has structured itself would seem to be almost ideal.

1987 Making It Happen: Reflections on Leadership.

Haskell, Molly 1939–

US author and film critic.

24 The propaganda arm of the American Dream machine.

1973 Of Hollywood. From Reverence to Rape: the treatment of women in the movies.

Haskins, Minnie Louise 1875–1951

English author and educationist.

25 And I said to the man who stood at the gate of the year:
'Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown.'

And he replied: 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than a known way.'

1908 Desert, 'God Knows'. Quoted by King George VI, Christmas address, 25 Dec 1939.

Hattersley, Roy Sydney George Hattersley, Baron 1932–

English Labour politician and writer. He was an MP from 1964 to 1997 and served in the Callaghan government.

26 As a boy I genuinely believed in the man who never ate bacon because its red and white stripes reminded him of Sheffield United—indeed in my blue and white Wednesday heart I applauded and supported his loyalty.

1976 Goodbye to Yorkshire.

27 Politicians are entitled to change their minds. But when they adjust their principles some explanation is necessary.

1999 In the Observer, 21 Mar.

Haughey, Charles James 1925–

Irish politician and Prime Minister (1979–81, 1982, 1987–92). He became a Fianna Fáil MP (1957), but was dismissed from the Cabinet in 1970 after a quarrel with the Prime Minister, Jack Lynch. His career has been controversial, but he is also responsible for introducing tax exemption for artists.

28 It seems that the historic inability in Britain to comprehend Irish feelings and sensitivities still remains.

1988 In the Observer, Feb.

Havel, Václav 1936–

Czech playwright and politician. He was a co-founder of Charter '77, President of Czechoslovakia (1989–1992) and first President of the Czech Republic (1993–2003).

29 The worst thing is that we live in a contaminated moral environment. We fell morally ill because we became used to saying something different from what we thought.

1990 Speech, 1 Jan.

Hawes, Hampton 1928–77

US jazz pianist. He was an important (but often undervalued) figure in West Coast jazz.

30 The worst thing that can happen to old good music is that it might become dated for a while, but watch out, in twenty years it will come drifting back like bell-bottoms and W.C. Fields movies.

1974 Raise Up Off Me (with Don Asher), ch.22.

Hawking, Stephen William 1942–

English theoretical physicist, theorist of the astronomical bodies known as black holes. He has written several bestselling popular science books including A Brief History of Time (1988) and The Universe in a Nutshell (2001). From the 1960s he has suffered from a progressive motor neurone disease.

31 God not only plays dice. He also sometimes throws the dice where they cannot be seen.

1975 In Nature, vol.257.

► See Einstein 301:32.

32 If we find the answer to that, it would be the ultimate triumph of human reason—for then we would know the mind of God.

1988 Referring to the question of why we and the universe exist. A Brief History of Time, ch.11.

33 What is it that breathes fire into the equations and makes a universe for them to describe... Why does the universe go to all the bother of existing?

1988 A Brief History of Time, ch.11.

Hawthorn, Mike 1929–59

English racing driver. Driving for Ferrari, he won the Formula One World Championship in 1958 but then retired from the sport, only to be killed in a road accident a few months later.

34 Motor racing is dangerous; but what is danger? It is dangerous to climb a mountain. It is dangerous to cross main roads. It is dangerous to explore a jungle. One cannot frame regulations to make everything safe.

1959 Shortly before his death. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Hawthorne, Nathaniel 1804–64

US novelist, who worked in the Salem custom house and was Consul at Liverpool (1853–7). Between 1850 and 1852 he lived in Lenox near Herman Melville, where he wrote The Scarlet Letter (1850) and The House of the Seven Gables (1851).

35 We sometimes congratulate ourselves at the moment of waking from a troubled dream: it may be so the moment after death.

c.1836 The American Notebooks, ch.1.

36 The love of posterity is a consequence of the necessity of death. If a man were sure of living forever here, he would not care about his offspring.

1840 The American Notebooks (published 1868), ch.3.

37 Bees are sometimes drowned in the honey which they collect—so some writers are lost in their collected learning.

1842 The American Notebooks (published 1868), ch.5.

38 Human nature will not flourish, any more than a potato, if it be planted and replanted, for too long a series of generations, in the same worn-out soil.

1850 The Scarlet Letter, 'The Custom-House'.

39 The founders of a new colony, whatever Utopia of human virtue and happiness they might originally project, have invariably recognized it among their earliest practical necessities to allot a portion of the virgin soil as a cemetery, and another portion as the site of a prison.

1850 The Scarlet Letter, ch.1.

40 Let men tremble to win the hand of woman, unless they win along with it the utmost passion of her heart!

1850 The Scarlet Letter, ch.15.

41 No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself, and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be the true.

1850 The Scarlet Letter, ch.20.

42 When a writer calls his work a Romance, it need hardly be observed that he wishes to claim a certain latitude, both as to its fashion and material, which he would not have felt himself entitled to assume had he professed to be writing a Novel.

1851 The House of the Seven Gables, preface.

43 Life is made up of marble and mud.

1851 The House of the Seven Gables, ch.2.

44 Life, within doors, has few pleasanter prospects than a neatly arranged and well-provisioned breakfast-table.

1851 The House of the Seven Gables, ch.7.

45 The world, that grey-bearded and wrinkled profligate, decrepit, without being venerable.

1851 The House of the Seven Gables, ch.12.

46 The world owes all its onward impulse to men ill at ease. The happy man inevitably confines himself within ancient limits.

1851 The House of the Seven Gables, ch.20.

47 In the depths of every heart, there is a tomb and a dungeon, though the lights, the music, and revelry above may cause us to forget their existence, and the buried ones, or prisoners whom they hide.

1851 Twice-Told Tales, 'The Haunted Mind'.

48 The greatest obstacle to being heroic is the doubt whether one may not be going to prove one's self a fool; the truest heroism is to resist the doubt; and the profoundest wisdom, to know when it ought to be resisted and when to be obeyed.

1852 The Blithedale Romance, ch.2.

49 America is now wholly given over to a d—d mob of scribbling women.

1855 Quoted in Caroline Ticknor Hawthorne and His Publisher (1913).

50 The present is burthened too much with the past.

1856 Entry for 27 Mar at the British Museum, collected in The English Notebooks (1870).

51 Nobody has any conscience about adding to the improbabilities of a marvelous tale.

1860 The Marble Faun, ch.4.

52 How is it possible to say an unkind or irreverential word of Rome? The city of all time, and of all the world!

1860 The Marble Faun, ch.12.

53 Dr Johnson's morality was as English an article as a beefsteak.

1863 Our Old Home.

Hay, Ian pseudonym of Major-General John Hay Beith 1876–1952

Scottish novelist and dramatist. His light popular novels (eg Pip, 1907) were followed by war books, including The First Hundred Thousand (1915). His best-known comedies are Tilly of Bloomsbury (1919) and The Housemaster (1936).

54 What do you mean, funny? Funny peculiar, or funny ha-ha?

1936 The Housemaster, act 3.

Hayakawa, S(amuel) I(chiye) 1906–92

Canadian-born US philologist and politician. His semantics works include Language in Action (1941, later retitled Language in Thought and Action). He was president of San Francisco State College (1968–73) and entered the House as Senator for California (1977–83).

55 In a real sense, people who have read good literature have lived more than people who cannot or will not read.

1941 Language in Action.

56 It's ours. We stole it fair and square.
Of the Panama Canal Zone. Attributed.

Haydn, Franz Joseph 1732–1809

Austrian composer. Kapellmeister to the Esterházy family from 1761, he twice visited England and several works were first performed in London. His works include piano music, string quartets, concertos, symphonies, masses and choral works such as the oratorio The Creation (1798).

57 But all the world understands my language.
1790 Reply to Mozart, who had advised him against visiting England because he could not speak the language. Quoted in Ian Crofton and Donald Fraser A Dictionary of Musical Quotations (1985).

Haydon, Benjamin Robert 1786–1846

English historical painter. He was twice imprisoned for debt, and, after a number of bitter disappointments, shot himself.

58 The French had a more martial air than the English. There seemed to be a species of military instinct in all classes. No young man appeared to have finished his education till after a bloody campaign... They were at this singular period, without the least exaggeration, a century behind us in notions of legal and moral responsibility.
Autobiography (published 1847).

Hayek, Friedrich August von 1899–1992

Austrian-born British political economist and libertarian moral philosopher. Professor at the London School of Economics (1932–50), Chicago (1950–72) and Freiburg (1962–5) and a guru of the New Right, in 1974 he was awarded the Nobel prize for economics with Gunnar Myrdal.

- 59 The more the state 'plans' the more difficult planning becomes for the individual.
1944 The Road to Serfdom.
- 60 We are only beginning to understand on how subtle a communication system the functioning of an advanced industrial society is based—a communications system which we call the market and which turns out to be a more efficient mechanism for digesting dispersed information than any that man has deliberately designed.
1978 New Studies in Philosophy, Politics, Economics and the History of Ideas, 'The Pretence of Knowledge'.
- 61 [There is] a delusion that macro-economics is both viable and useful (a delusion encouraged by its extensive use of mathematics, which must always impress politicians lacking any mathematical education, and which is really the nearest thing to the practice of magic that occurs among professional economists).
1989 The Fatal Conceit: The Errors of Socialism, ch.6.

Hayes, J Milton 1884–1940

British author.

62 There's a one-eyed yellow idol to the north of Khatmandu,
There's a little marble cross below the town,
There's a broken-hearted woman tends the grave of Mad
Carew,
And the Yellow God forever gazes down.
1911 The Green Eye of the Yellow God.

Hayes, Rutherford B(irchard) 1822–93

US Republican statesman and 19th President (1877–81). Under his presidency, the country recovered commercial prosperity, and his policy included the reform of the civil service and the conciliation of the Southern states.

63 He serves his party best who serves his country best.
1877 Inaugural address, 5 Mar.

Hayward, Thomas Bibb 1924–

US admiral, Chief of Operations in the US Navy (1978–83). He served in both Korea and Vietnam.

64 We are... a one-and-a-half ocean navy with a three-ocean commitment.
1982 Congressional testimony, reported in the New York Times, 11 Apr.

Hazlitt, William 1778–1830

English essayist, whose controversial and witty work ranges from theatre and literature to politics and even sports. His various collections of essays include Table Talk (1821) and Spirit of the Age, or Contemporary Portraits (1825).

- 65 There is in Kean, an infinite variety of talent, with a certain monotony of genius.
1815 Of the actor Edmund Kean. In The Examiner, 10 Dec.
- 66 Mr Kemble sacrifices too much to decorum. He is chiefly afraid of being contaminated by too close an identity with the character he represents. This is the greatest vice in an actor, who ought never to bilk his part.
1816 Of John Philip Kemble's performance as Sir Giles Overreach in Massinger's A New Way to Pay Old Debts. In The Examiner, 5 May.
- 67 There is nothing good to be had in the country, or if there is, they will not let you have it.
1817 The Round Table, 'Observation on Mr Wordsworth's Poem The Excursion'.

1819 Political Essays, 'The Times Newspaper'.
- 72 Those who make their dress a principal part of themselves, will, in general, become of no more value than their dress.
1819 Political Essays, 'On the Clerical Character'.
- 73 You will hear more good things on the outside of a stagecoach from London to Oxford than if you were to pass a twelvemonth with the undergraduates, or heads of colleges, of that famous university.
1821 Table Talk, vol.1, 'The Ignorance of the Learned'.
- 74 We can scarcely hate any one that we know.
1822 Table Talk, vol.2, 'On Criticism'.
- 75 Give me the clear blue sky over my head, and the green turf beneath my feet, a winding road before me, and a

- three hours' march to dinner—and then to thinking! It is hard if I cannot start some game on these lone heaths.
1822 Table Talk, vol.2, 'On Going a Journey'.
- 76 The Times is, we suppose, entitled to the character it gives of itself, of being the 'leading journal of Europe', and is perhaps the greatest engine of temporary opinion in the world.
1823 In the Edinburgh Review, May.
- 77 It is a commercial paper, a paper of business, and it is conducted on principles of trade and business. It floats with the tide: it sails with the stream. It has no other principle.
1823 Of The Times. In the Edinburgh Review, May.
- 78 It takes up no falling cause; fights no uphill battle; advocates no great principle; holds out a helping hand to no oppressed or obscure individual. It is 'ever strong upon the stronger side'.
1823 Of The Times. In the Edinburgh Review, May.
- 79 Paris is a beast of a city to be in—to those who cannot get out of it. Rousseau said well, that all the time he was in it, he was only trying how he should leave it... The continual panic in which the passenger is kept, the alarm and the escape from it, the anger and the laughter at it, must have an effect on the Parisian character, and tend to make it the whiffling, skittish, snappish, volatile, inconsequential, unmeaning thing it is.
1824 Notes on a Journey through France and Italy (published 1856).
- 80 He is a kind of fourth estate in the politics of the country.
1825 Of the journalist and reformer William Cobbett. Spirit of the Age, 'Mr Cobbett'.
- 81 Death cancels everything but truth; and strips a man of everything but genius and virtue. It is a sort of natural canonization.
1825 Spirit of the Age, 'Lord Byron'.
- 82 The present is an age of talkers, and not of doers; and the reason is, that the world is growing old. We are so far advanced in the Arts and Sciences, that we live in retrospect, and dote on past achievement.
1825 Spirit of the Age, 'Mr Coleridge'.
- 83 He writes as fast as they can read, and he does not write himself down... His worst is better than any other person's best... His works (taken together) are almost like a new edition of human nature. This is indeed to be an author!
1825 Spirit of the Age, 'Sir Walter Scott'.
- 84 Mr Wordsworth's genius is a pure emanation of the Spirit of the Age. Had he lived in any other period of the world, he would never have been heard of.
1825 Spirit of the Age, 'Mr Wordsworth'.
- 85 The dupe of friendship, and the fool of love; have I not reason to hate and to despise myself? Indeed I do; and chiefly for not having hated and despised the world enough.
1826 The Plain Speaker, 'On the Pleasure of Hating'.
- 86 His sayings are generally like women's letters; all the pith is in the postscript.
1826–7 Of Charles Lamb. Conversations of James Northcote.
- 87 The origin of all science is in the desire to know causes; and the origin of all false science and imposture is in the desire to accept false causes rather than none; or, which is the same thing, in the unwillingness to acknowledge our own ignorance.
1829 In The Atlas, 15 Feb.
- 88 Well, I've had a happy life.
1830 Last words. Quoted in W C Hazlitt Memoirs of William Hazlitt (1867).
- 89 So have I loitered my life away, reading books, looking at pictures, going to plays, hearing, thinking, writing on what pleased me best. I have wanted only one thing to make me happy, but wanting that have wanted everything.

Sketches and Essays (published 1839), 'On Disagreeable People'.
- 94 Rules and models destroy genius and art.
Sketches and Essays (published 1839), 'On Taste'.
- 95 All is without form and void. Someone said of his landscapes that they were pictures of nothing and very like.
Of Turner's painting, quoted in J Lindsay Turner: The Man and his Art (1985).

Hazzard, Shirley 1931–

Australian-born US novelist. Her works include short stories, the satirical People in Glass Houses (1967) and novels including The Transit of Venus (1980) and The Great Fire (2003).

- 96 Nothing... makes a more fanatical official than a Latin. Organization is alien to their natures, but once they get the taste for it they take to it like drink.
1967 People in Glass Houses, 'Official Life'.

Head, Bessie 1937–86

South African novelist.

- 97 Love is mutually feeding each other, not one living on another like a ghoul.
1973 A Question of Power.
- 98 Poverty has a home in Africa—like a quiet second skin. It may be the only place on earth where it is worn with unconscious dignity.
1989 Tales of Tenderness and Power.

Healey, Denis Winston Healey, Baron 1917–

English Labour politician, Secretary of State for Defence (1964–70) and Chancellor of the Exchequer (1974–9). Unsuccessful in the Labour leadership contests of 1976 and 1980, he became Deputy Leader (1980–3) and shadow Foreign Secretary (1980–7).

- 99 That part of his speech was rather like being savaged by a dead sheep.
1978 Responding to a speech by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Geoffrey Howe, House of Commons, Jun.

- 3 Between my finger and my thumb
The squat pen rests.
I'll dig with it.
1966 Death of a Naturalist, 'Digging'.
- 4 My father worked with a horse-plough,
His shoulders globed like a full sail strung
Between the shafts and the furrow.
1966 Death of a Naturalist, 'Follower'.
- 5 Love, you shall perfect for me this child
Whose small imperfect limits would keep breaking:
Within new limits now, arrange the world
And square the circle: four walls and a ring.
1966 Death of a Naturalist, 'Poem: For Marie'.
- 6 My poor scapegoat,
