- 7 I hold my lady's head
like a crystal

and ossify myself
by gazing: I am screens on her escarpments, a chalk giant carved upon her downs.

Soon my hands, on the sunken fosse of her spine move towards the passes.

- 15 She taught me what her uncle once taught her:
How easily the biggest coal block split
If you got the grain and hammer angled right.

The sound of that relaxed alluring blow,
Its co-opted and obliterated echo,
Taught me to hit, taught me to loosen,

Taught me between the hammer and the block
To face the music. Teach me now to listen,
To strike it rich behind the linear black.

Heat-Moon, William Least originally William Trogdon
1939–

US writer. He made his name with Blue Highways: A Journey Into America (1983), a travelogue of America which, like Prairyerth (1991), also explored his Native American heritage.

26 Beware thoughts that come in the night. They aren't turned properly; they come in askew, free of sense and restriction, deriving from the most remote of sources.

1983 Blue Highways: A Journey Into America, opening words.

27 There are two kinds of adventurers: those who go truly hoping to find adventure and those who go secretly hoping they won't.

1983 Blue Highways: A Journey Into America.

28 To say nothing is out here is incorrect; to say the desert is stingy with everything except space and light, stone and earth is closer to the truth.

44 The mathematical is that evident aspect of things within which we are always already moving and according to which we experience them as things at all, and as such things. The mathematical is this fundamental position we take toward things by which we take up things as already given to us, and as they must and should be given. Therefore, the mathematical is the fundamental presupposition of the knowledge of things.

'Modern Science, Metaphysics and Mathematics', collected in Basic Writings (1977).

Heifetz, Jascha 1901–87

US violinist of Russo-Polish birth. A child prodigy, he settled in the US after the Russian Revolution, becoming a citizen in 1924. He first appeared in Britain in 1920.

45 I occasionally play works by contemporary composers and for two reasons. First, to discourage the composer from writing any more, and secondly to remind myself how much I appreciate Beethoven.

Heinse, Wilhelm 1746–1803

German novelist and art critic, whose work influenced the writers and artists of the Romantic movement.

52 Drawing is only a necessary evil, proportions are easily determined: colour is the goal, the beginning and end of art.

1787 Ardinghello.

53 The best subjects for artists, surely, are animals and plants, grasses and trees; these they can represent, but human beings they ought to leave to poets.

1787 Ardinghello.

54 Every form is individual, there exists none which is abstract.

Quoted in J J W Heinse Sämtliche Werke (1903–25).

Heisenberg, Werner 1901–76

German physicist, a founder of quantum theory. His 'uncertainty principle' states that it is impossible to determine both the position and momentum of a subatomic particle. He received the 1932 Nobel prize for physics.

55 Natural science does not simply describe and explain nature; it is part of the interplay between nature and ourselves; it describes nature as exposed to our method of questioning.

Heller, Joseph 1923–99

US novelist. He drew on his wartime experience for his black comedy Catch-22 (1961), which became an international bestseller. Later books include Something Happened (1974), God Knows (1984) and Picture This (1988).

58 He was a self-made man who owed his lack of success to nobody.

1961 Of Colonel Cargill. Catch-22, ch.3.

59 He had decided to live forever or die in the attempt, and his only mission each time he went up was to come down alive.

1961 Of Yossarian. Catch-22, ch.3.

60 There was only one catch and that was Catch-22, which specified that a concern for one's safety in the face of dangers that were real and immediate was the process of a rational mind. Orr was crazy and could be grounded. All he had to do was ask; and as soon as he did, he would no longer be crazy and would have to fly more missions. Orr would be crazy to fly more missions and sane if he didn't, but if he was sane he had to fly them. If he flew them he was crazy and didn't have to; but if he didn't want to he was sane and had to. Yossarian was moved very deeply by the absolute simplicity of this clause of Catch-22, and let out a respectful whistle.

'That's some catch, that Catch-22,' he observed.

'It's the best there is,' Doc Daneeka agreed.

1961 Catch-22, ch.5.

61 'Yossarian? Is that his name? Yossarian? What the hell kind of a name is Yossarian?' Lieutenant Scheisskopf had the facts at his finger tips. 'It's Yossarian's name, sir,' he explained.

1961 Catch-22, ch.8.

62 Hungry Joe collected lists of fatal diseases and arranged them in alphabetical order so that he could put his finger without delay on any one he wanted to worry about.

1961 Catch-22, ch.17.

63 Frankly, I'd like to see the government get out of the war altogether and leave the whole field to private industry.

1961 Milo Minderbinder. Catch-22, ch.24.

64 Success and failure are both difficult to endure. Along with success come drugs, divorce, fornication, bullying, travel, meditation, medication, depression, neurosis and suicide. With failure comes failure.

1975 Interview in Playboy, Jun.

65 If Richard Nixon was second-rate, what in the world is third-rate?

1979 Good as Gold, ch.6.

66 And a man who lay with a beast, said the Lord, would surely die. And if he doesn't lie with a beast, I would have countered, he won't die?

1984 King David. God Knows, ch.2.

67 Mankind is resilient: the atrocities that horrified us a week ago become acceptable tomorrow.

1988 Picture This, ch.37.

68 I used to joke—and it wasn't much of an exaggeration—that a story I would mail to the New Yorker in the morning would be back with its concise, slighting rejection slip in the afternoon mail that same day.

1998 Now and Then: A Memoir.

69 There were reviews that were good, a good many that were mixed, and there were reviews that were bad, very bad, almost venomously spiteful, one might be tempted to say (and I am the one that might say it).

1998 Recalling the critical reception to Catch-22. In Now and Then: A Memoir.

70 Who has?

On being asked why he hadn't written another novel as good as Catch-22. Quoted by Peter Guttridge in the postscript of Now and Then: A Memoir (1998).

Heller, Walter Wolfgang 1915–87

Chairman of the US Council of Economic Advisers to the President under Kennedy and Johnson (1961–64).

71 An economist is someone who, when he finds something which works in practice, wonders if it will work in theory.

1992 Attributed.

Hellman, Lillian Florence 1907–84

US playwright, whose plays include The Children's Hour (1934) and The Little Foxes (1939). In 1952 she came before McCarthy's House Un-American Activities Committee. She lived for many years with Dashiell Hammett.

72 That's cynical. [Smiles.] Cynicism is an unpleasant way of saying the truth.

1939 Ben. The Little Foxes, act 1.

73 It's an indulgence to sit in a room and discuss your beliefs as if they were a juicy piece of gossip.

1941 Sara. Watch on the Rhine, act 2.

74 I do not like subversion or disloyalty in any form and if I had ever seen any I would have considered it my duty to have reported it to the proper authorities. But to hurt innocent people whom I knew many years ago in order to save myself is to me inhuman and indecent and dishonorable.

1952 Letter to John S Wood, 19 May, on being asked to give information for the McCarthy trials. Collected in US Congress Committee Hearing on Un-American Activities (1952), pt.8.

75 I cannot and will not cut my conscience to fit this year's fashions, even though I long ago came to the conclusion that I was not a political person and could have no comfortable place in any political group.

1952 Letter to John S Wood, 19 May, on being asked to give information for the McCarthy trials. Collected in US Congress Committee Hearing on Un-American Activities (1952), pt.8.

76 That's what you always said, success isn't everything but it makes a man stand straight, and you were right.

1960 Julian. Toys in the Attic, act 1.

77 Well, people change and forget to tell each other. Too bad—causes so many mistakes.

1960 Anna. Toys in the Attic, act 3.

78 If I had to give young writers advice, I would say don't listen to writers talking about writing or themselves.

1960 In the New York Times, 21 Feb.

79 Intellectuals can tell themselves anything, sell themselves any bill of goods, which is why they were so often patsies for the ruling classes in nineteenth-century France and England, or twentieth-century Russia and America.

US businesswoman. Convicted of tax evasion in 1989, she received a four-year jail sentence, but avoided jail until 1992. She was released in 1994.

85 We don't pay taxes. Only the little people pay taxes.

1989 Remark to a former hotel housekeeper which became a byword of her trial and conviction for tax fraud. Reported in the New York Times, 13 Jul.

Héloïse 1101–64

French abbess. At 17 she had a child by her tutor, Peter Abelard. After Abelard was castrated by her family, she entered the convent of Argenteuil, becoming prioress there, and later became abbess at the Paraclete, founded by Abelard.

86 Et si uxoris nomen sanctius ac validius videtur, dulcius mihi semper exstitit amicæ vocabulum; aut si non indignis, concubinæ vel scorti.

If the name of wife seems more blessed or more binding, always sweeter to me will be the word lover, or if I may, concubine or whore.

c.1135 First letter to Peter Abelard.

87 Non enim quo quisque ditior sive potentior, ideo et melior: fortunæ illud est, hoc virtutis.

To be wealthier or more powerful is not necessarily to be worthier: the former are products of fortune, the latter stems from virtue.

c.1135 First letter to Peter Abelard.

88 Non enim rei effectus, sed efficientis affectus in crimine est. Nec quæ fiunt, sed quo animo fiunt, æquitas pensat. Crime lies not in the deed, but in the doer's intention: it is not what was done, but the spirit in which it was done that justice should consider.

c.1135 First letter to Peter Abelard.

Helpmann, Sir Robert Murray 1909–86

Australian dancer, actor and choreographer. He debuted in Adelaide (1923), studied with Pavlova and in 1931 went to Britain. Star of the new Sadler's Wells Ballet (1933–50), he danced in many films and also acted with the Royal Shakespeare Company. His choreographic work includes Hamlet (1942) and Miracle in the Gorbals (1944).

89 You see there are portions of the human anatomy which would keep swinging after the music had finished.

c.1968 Disagreeing with the suggestion that there might be a future for nudity in dance. Quoted in Elizabeth Salter Helpmann (1978), ch.21. It is sometimes quoted as a comment on the opening night of the musical Oh, Calcutta!, as 'The trouble with nude dancing is that not everything stops when the music stops.'

Hemans, Felicia née Browne 1793–1835

English poet.

93 A man's got to take a lot of punishment to write a really funny book.

1924 Letter, 6 Dec.

94 God knows people who are paid to have attitudes toward things, professional critics, make me sick: camp-following eunuchs of literature.

1925 Letter to Sherwood Anderson, 23 May.

95 Don't you like to write letters? I do because it's such a swell way to keep from working and yet feel you've done something.

1925 Letter to F Scott Fitzgerald, 1 Jul.

96 Soon I was alone and began cursing the bloody bible because there were no titles in it—although I found the source of practically every good title you ever heard of. But the boys, principally Kipling, had been there before me and swiped all the good ones so I called the book Men Without Women hoping it would have a large sale among the fairies and old Vassar Girls.

1927 Letter to F Scott Fitzgerald, 15 Sep.

97 I did not say anything. I was always embarrassed by the words sacred, glorious and sacrifice and the expression in vain. We had heard them, sometimes standing in the rain almost out of earshot, so that only the shouted words came through, and had read them, on proclamations that were slapped up by billposters over other proclamations, now for a long time, and I had seen nothing sacred, and the things that were glorious had no

Makes drudgery divine;
Who sweeps a room as for Thy laws
Makes it and th' action fine.
'The Elixir', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).
- 94 Teach me, my God and King,
In all things Thee to see,
And what I do in any thing
To do it as for Thee.
'The Elixir', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).
- 95 Whereas my birth and spirit rather took
The way that takes the town;
Thou didst betray me to a lingering book,
And wrap me in a gown.
'Affliction (1)', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).
- 96 Sorrow was all my soul; I scarce believed,
Till grief did tell me roundly, that I lived.
'Affliction (1)', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).
- 97 I read, and sigh, and wish I were a tree;
For sure then I should grow
To fruit or shade: at least some bird would trust
Her household to me, and I should be just.
'Affliction (1)', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).
- 98 Love bade me welcome: yet my soul drew back;

- Guilty of dust and sin.
But quick-ey'd Love, observing me grow slack
From my first entrance in,
Drew nearer to me, sweetly questioning
If I lacked any thing.
'Love', collected in The Temple, Sacred Poems and Private Ejaculations (published posthumously, 1633).

Herbert, Xavier 1901–84

Australian writer. His novel Capricornia won the Sesquicentennial Literary Prize (1938) and the 1939 Australian Literary Society Gold Medal.

24 Since no normal humble man can help but feel magnificent in a brand-new suit of clothes, it is not surprising that those who don a fresh suit of bright white linen every day should feel magnificent always. Nor is it surprising that a normal humble head should swell beneath a solar topee, since a topee is more a badge of authority than a hat, as is the hat of a soldier.

1938 Capricornia, 'Psychological Effect of a Solar Topee'.

Herfindahl, Orris C 1918–72

US economist.

25 Conservation of one resource may entail the sacrifice of another resource which others want to conserve.

Hernández, Felisberto 1902–64

Uruguayan novelist and pianist. He led an obscure life and wrote stories describing banal events with fantastic resolutions. His surrealistic sense of humour paved the way for literary experiments in Latin America and beyond.

26 Se ha hecho para los vivos y no para los muertos el porqué metafísico y las reflexiones sobre la vida y la muerte, pero no les hace falta aclarar todo el misterio, les hace falta distraerse y soñar en aclararlo.

Metaphysical questions and reflections on life and death were created for people alive and not for the dead. However, they do not have to solve all mystery; it is enough for them to create some distraction and to dream that they clarify.

1929 Libro sin tapas, 'La piedra filosofal' ('The Philosopher's Stone').

Hernández, José 1834–86

Argentinian poet. He had little formal education and was a gaucho (pampas cowboy) in his youth, later becoming a soldier in the civil wars, a newspaper editor and a minor government official.

27 Yo he conocido cantores que era un gusto el escuchar; mas no quieren opinar y se divierten cantando; pero yo canto opinando, que es mi modo de cantar.

I have known singers
it was a pleasure to listen to;
they amuse themselves singing and don't care to give opinions;
but I sing giving opinions and that's my kind of song.

1879 La vuelta de Martín Fierro, pt.1 (translated as Martín Fierro, 1923).

28 Hay hombres que de su ciencia tienen la cabeza llena; hay sabios de todas menas, mas digo, sin ser muy ducho: es mejor que aprender mucho el aprender cosas buenas.

There are some men who have their heads full up with the things they know.
Wise men come in all sizes,
but I don't need so much sense to say that better than learning a lot of things is learning things that are good.

1879 La vuelta de Martín Fierro, pt.32 (translated as Martín Fierro, 1923).

Herodotus c.485 BC–c.425 BC

Greek historian. His Histories deal with the wars between the Persians and the Greeks. He is often called 'The Father of History'.

29 In peace, children inter their parents; war violates the order of nature and causes parents to inter their children.

c.440 BC The Histories of Herodotus, bk.1, ch.87 (translated by Aubrey de Selincourt).

US journalist and war correspondent. He collaborated on the screenplays of Apocalypse Now (1979) and Full Metal Jacket (1987).

30 Vietnam was what we had instead of happy childhoods.

1977 Dispatches, 'Colleagues', section 3.

31 All the wrong people remember Vietnam. I think all the people who remember it should forget it, and all the people who forgot it should remember it.

1989 In the Observer, 15 Jan.

Herrick, Robert 1591–1674

English poet and clergyman, a Royalist who lost his living during the Civil War. His writing, both secular and religious, is collected in Hesperides and Noble Numbers (both 1648).

32 I write of Hell; I sing (and ever shall)
Of Heaven, and hope to have it after all.
1648 Hesperides, 'The Argument of His Book'.

33 I sing of brooks, of blossoms, birds, and bowers:
Of April, May, of June, and July-flowers.
I sing of May-poles, Hock-carts, wassails, wakes,
Of bride-grooms, brides, and of their bridal-cakes.
1648 Hesperides, 'The Argument of His Book'.

34 Is there no way to beget
In my limbs their former heat?
Aeson had (as Poets fain)
Baths that made him young again:
Find that Medicine (if you can)
For your dry-decrepit man:
Who would but fain his strength renew,
Were it but to pleasure you.
1648 'To His Mistress'.

35 But ah! if empty dreams so please,
Love give me more such nights as these.
1648 'The Vision to Electra'.

36 But thou liv'st fearless; and thy face ne'er shows
Fortune when she comes, or goes.
1648 'A Country Life: To His Brother, M. Tho. Herrick'.

37 Wealth cannot make a life, but Love.
1648 'A Country Life: To His Brother, M. Tho. Herrick'.

38 Soul of my lie, and fame!
Eternal lamp of love! whose radiant flame
Out-glazes the Heav'ns Osiris; and thy gleams
Out-shine the splendour of his mid-day beams.
1648 'The Welcome to Sack'.

39 'Tis thou, alone, who with thy mystic fan,

- Work'st more than Wisdom, Art, or Nature can,
To rouse the sacred madness; and awake
The frost-bound-blood, and spirits; and to make Them frantic with thy raptures, flashing through
The soul, like lightning, and as active too.
1648 'His Fare-well to Sack'.
- 40 Let others drink thee freely; and desire
Thee and their lips espous'd; while I admire,
And love thee; but not taste thee. Let my Muse
Fail of thy former helps; and only use
Her inadult'rate strength: what's done by me
Hereafter, shall smell of the lamp, not thee.
1648 'His Fare-well to Sack'.
- 41 Her legs were such Diana shows,
When tuckt up she a hunting goes;
With buskins shortened to descry
The happy dawning of her thigh.
1648 'The Vision'.
- 42 Get up, get up for shame, the blooming morn
Upon her wings presents the god unshorn.
1648 'Corinna's Going a Maying'.
- 43 See how Aurora throws her fair
Fresh-quilted colours through the air:
Get up, sweet-slug-a-bed, and see
The dew-bespangling herb and tree.
1648 'Corinna's Going a Maying'.
- 44 So when or you or I are made
A fable, song, or fleeting shade;
All love, all liking, all delight
Lies drowned with us in endless night.
Then while time serves, and we are but decaying;
Come, my Corinna, come, let's go a Maying.
1648 'Corinna's Going a Maying'.
- 45 Gather ye rose-buds while ye may,
Old Time is still a flying:
And this same flower that smiles to day,
Tomorrow will be dying.
1648 'To the Virgins, to Make Much of Time'.
- 46 Go happy rose, and interwove
With other flowers, bind my love.
Tell her too, she must not be,
Longer flowing, longer free,
That so oft has fetter'd me.
1648 'To the Rose: Song'.
- 47 Then come on, come on, and yield
A savour like unto a blessed field,
When the bedabbled morn
Washes the golden ears of corn.
1648 'A Nuptial Song, or Epithalamion, on Sir Clipseby Crew and His Lady'.
- 48 Her eyes, the glow-worm lend thee,
The shooting stars attend thee;
And the elves also,
Whose little eyes glow,
Like the sparks of fire, befriend thee.
1648 'The Night-piece, to Julia', written for his young daughter.
- 49 When as in silks my Julia goes,
Then, then (me thinks) how sweetly flows
That liquefaction of her clothes.
1648 'Upon Julia's Clothes'.
- 50 A sweet disorder in the dress

Kindles in clothes a wantonness:
A lawn about the shoulders thrown
Into a fine distraction...
A careless shoe-string, in whose tie
I see a wild civility:
Do more bewitch me, than when Art
Is too precise in every part.
1648 'Delight in Disorder'.

- 51 Where we such clusters had,
As made us nobly wild, not mad;
And yet each verse of thine
Out-did the meat, out-did the frolic wine.
1648 'An Ode for [Ben Jonson]'.

Herriot, James pseudonym of James Alfred Wight 1916–95

Scottish-born veterinary surgeon and writer of a series of highly popular novels on the adventures of a country vet.

- 52 I have long held the notion that if a vet can't catch his patient there's nothing much to worry about.
1976 Vet in Harness.

Hersey, John Richard 1914–93

US author, born in China. As Far East correspondent for Time magazine, his most famous piece was his eye-witness report in the New Yorker (31 Aug 1946) of the bombing of Hiroshima. His novels include A Bell for Adano (1944) and The Walnut Door (1977).

- 54 Science, which cuts its way through the muddy pond of daily life without mingling with it, casts its wealth to right and left, but the puny boatmen do not know how to fish for it.
1855 Notebook entry, collected in Byloe i dumy (My Past and Thoughts), vol.3 (published 1861–7, translated by Constance Garnett, 1924).
- 55 There are those who prefer to get away inwardly, some with the help of a powerful imagination and an ability to abstract themselves from their surroundings... some with the help of opium or alcohol... I prefer shifting my whole body to shifting my brain, and going round the world to letting my head go round.
1861–7 Byloe i dumy (My Past and Thoughts), translated by Constance Garnett, 1924).
- 56 There is a certain basis of truth in the fear that the Russian government is beginning to have of communism, for communism is Tsarist autocracy turned upside down.
1861–7 Byloe i dumy (My Past and Thoughts), translated by Constance Garnett, 1924).

Herzl, Theodor 1860–1904

Hungarian Zionist leader. He graduated in law but wrote essays and plays until the anti-Semitism aroused by the Dreyfus trial (1894) roused him to political action and he convened the First Zionist Congress (1897).

57 Do you know out of what the German Empire arose?
Out of dreams, songs, fantasies and black-red-gold ribbons... Bismarck merely shook the tree that fantasies had planted.
Quoted in Carl E. Schorske Fin-de-Siècle Vienna (1961), p.165.

Herzog, Maurice 1919–

French engineer and mountaineer. He led the French Himalayan Expedition of 1950, which made the first ascent of Annapurna, losing several fingers and toes through frostbite. Annapurna was dictated during his subsequent three-year period in hospital.

58 The mountains were there and so was I.
1952 His reason for becoming a mountain climber. Quoted in Annapurna: Conquest of the First 8000-metre Peak (1952, translated by Nea Morin and Janet Adam Smith).

59 Annapurna, to which we had gone empty-handed, was a treasure on which we should live the rest of our lives. With this realization we turn the page: a new life begins. There are other Annapurnas in the lives of men.
1952 Quoted in Annapurna: Conquest of the First 8000-metre Peak (translated by Nea Morin and Janet Adam Smith).

Heseltine, Michael Ray Dibdin Heseltine, Baron 1933–

He was Deputy Prime Minister from 1995 to 1997 and MP until 2001.

60 It is the only time that I can ever remember the Prime Minister reading out the conclusions of a meeting that did not take place. They were already written before it started.
1986 Of the Cabinet meeting, Jan, on the Westland affair at which he resigned as Defence Minister.

61 I can foresee no circumstance in which I would allow my name to be put forward for the leadership of the Conservative Party.
1990 Said on numerous occasions in the autumn.

62 I am persuaded now that I have a better prospect than Mrs Thatcher of leading the Conservatives to a fourth electoral victory and preventing the ultimate calamity of a Labour government.
1990 On announcing his decision to stand for the leadership, Nov.

Heyerdahl, Thor 1914–2002

Norwegian anthropologist and adventurer, best known for his voyages and journeys, particularly the Kon-Tiki and Ra expeditions, which reproduced the methods and materials used by early peoples.

72 Just occasionally you find yourself in an odd situation. You get into it by degrees and in the most natural way, but when you are right in the midst of it you are suddenly astonished and ask yourself how in the world it all came about. If, for example, you put to sea on a wooden raft with a parrot and five companions, it is inevitable that sooner or later you will wake up one morning out at sea, perhaps a little better rested than ordinarily, and begin to think about it.

1948 The Kon-Tiki Expedition: By Raft across the South Seas (translated by F H Lyon).

Heyward, Du Bose 1885–1940

US lyricist.

73 Summer time an' the livin' is easy,
Fish are jumpin' an' the cotton is high.

Oh, yo' daddy's rich, and yo' ma is good-lookin',
So hush, little baby, don' yo' cry.

1935 'Summertime' from Porgy and Bess (with Ira Gershwin, music by George Gershwin).

74 It ain't necessarily so,
De t'ings dat yo' li'ble
To read in the Bible
It ain't necessarily so.

Quoted in E W Broome The Rev. Rowland Hill (1881), ch.7.

Hillaby, John 1917–96

English writer, naturalist and prodigious walker. He journeyed on foot, usually alone, through Africa, across Europe and across the length of Britain.

90 Walking is a way of being somewhere, rather than striving to arrive.
1964 Journey to the Jade Sea.

91 Fortunately for poets and those who like to walk about in the open air, the beauty of landscape is not something that can be reduced easily to basic geology or a few ready-wrapped phrases about what places are used for. Preference and prejudice creep in.

1968 Journey through Britain.

Hillary, Sir Edmund Percival 1919–

New Zealand mountaineer and explorer. He was a member of John Hunt's Everest expedition, and reached the summit with Sherpa Tenzing Norgay on 29 May 1953. He was New Zealand High Commissioner to India (1984–89) and has raised funds to provide hospitals and schools in the Himalayan region.

1651 Leviathan, pt.1, ch.5.

- 25 The value, or worth of a man, is as of all other things, his price; that is to say, so much as would be given for the use of his power.

1651 Leviathan, pt.1, ch.10.

- 26 I put for a general inclination of all mankind, a perpetual and restless desire of power after power, that ceaseth only in death.

1651 Leviathan, pt.1, ch.11.

- 27 Whatsoever therefore is consequent to a time of war, where every man is enemy to every man; the same is consequent to the time wherein men live without other security than what their own strength, and their own invention shall furnish them withall. In such condition, there is no place for industry; because the fruit thereof is uncertain: and consequently no culture of the earth; no navigation, nor use of the commodities that may be imported by sea; no commodious building; no instruments of moving, and removing such things as require much force; no knowledge of the face of the Earth; no account of Time; no Arts; no Letters; no Society; and which is worst of all, continual fear, and danger of violent death; and the life of man, solitary, poor, nasty, brutish, and short.

1651 Leviathan, pt.1, ch.13.

- 28 They that are discontented under monarchy call it tyranny; and they that are displeased with aristocracy call it oligarchy; so also, they which find themselves grieved under a democracy call it anarchy, which signifies the want of government; and yet I think no man believes that want of government is any new kind of government.

1651 Leviathan, pt.2, ch.19.

- 29 A Free Man is he, that in those things, which by his strength and wit he is able to do, is not hindered to do what he has a will to.

1651 Leviathan, pt.2, ch.21.

Like whipping tops and help there's none
And mighty ships ten thousand ton
Go down like lumps of lead.

1917 'Song of Honour'.

- 46 'Twould ring the bells of heaven
The widest peal for years,
If Parson lost his senses
And people came to theirs,
And he and they together
Knelt down with angry prayers
For tamed and shabby tigers
And dancing dogs and bears,
And wretched, blind, pit ponies,
And little hunted hares.

1917 'Bells of Heaven'.

51 Augustus was a chubby lad;

Fat, ruddy cheeks Augustus had;
And everybody saw with joy
The plump and hearty, healthy boy.
He ate and drank as he was told,
And never let his soup get cold.
But one day, one cold winter's day,
He screamed out, 'Take the soup away!
O take the nasty soup away!
I won't have any soup today.'
1845 Struwwelpeter, 'Augustus'.

58 Lock the door, Lariston, lion of Liddesdale;

Lock the door, Lariston, Lowther comes on;
The Armstrongs are flying,
The widows are crying,
The Castletown's burning, and Oliver's gone!
c.1810 'Lock the Door, Lariston', stanza 1.

59 'What a wonderful boy he is!' said my mother.

'I'm feared he turn out to be a conceited gowk,' said old
Barnet, the minister's man.
1824 The Private Memoirs and Confessions of a Justified Sinner.

60 Where the pools are bright and deep,

Where the grey trout lies asleep,
Up the river and o'er the lea,
That's the way for Billy and me.

visible self as its medium.

1975 Seeing Through Clothes, ch.5.

Hollinghurst, Alan 1954–

English novelist. His novels include The Swimming Pool Library (1988), a highly acclaimed account of gay life; The Folding Star (1994); and The Line of Beauty (2004).

69 My life was a strange one that summer, the last summer of its kind there was ever to be. I was riding high on sex and self-esteem—it was my time, my belle époque— but all the while with a faint flicker of calamity, like flames around a photograph, something seen out of the corner of the eye.

1988 The Swimming Pool Library, ch.1.

Holman, James 1786–1857

English naval officer. Although blind from the age of 25 he continued travelling, firstly to the Continent (1819–22), then to the Russian Empire and later to Brazil, South Africa, South Asia, Tasmania, New South Wales and New Zealand.

70 On the summit of the precipice and in the deep green woods emotions as palpable and as true have agitated me as if I were surveying them with the blessing of sight.
There was an intelligence in the winds of the hills and in the solemn stillness of the buried foliage that could not be misleading. It entered into my heart and I could have wept, not that I did not see, but that I could not portray all I felt.

1834 A Voyage round the World.

Holme (of Cheltenham), Richard Holme, Baron 1936–

British electoral reformer and writer. He represents the Liberal Democrat Party in the House of Lords and was appointed to the Privy Council in 2000.

Holmes, John Clellon 1926–88

US writer. He is credited with first use of the phrase 'The Beat Generation'. His own novels include Go (1952) and The Horn (1958).

72 To Walden the saxophone was, at once, his key to the world in which he found himself, and the way by which that world was rendered impotent to brand him either a failure or madman or Negro or saint.

1958 The Horn, 'Chorus: Walden'.

73 Jazz music has haunted America for seventy years. It has tempted us out of our lily-white reserve with its black promise of untrammelled joy.

1979 Preface to reprint of The Horn.

74 Some books accrete things to themselves like a magnet.
The writer risks sterility by subjecting the mysterious power of imagination to the devices of mere comprehension.

Holmes, Oliver Wendell 1809–94

US physician and writer, who in 1842 discovered that puerperal fever was contagious. His essays in the Atlantic Monthly were collected in four volumes, including The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table (1857–8) and The Professor at the Breakfast Table (1858–9). He also published three novels and several volumes of poetry.

75 Man wants but little drink below,
But wants that little strong.

1848 'A Song of Other Days'.

76 And, when you stick on conversation's burrs,
Don't strew your pathway with those dreadful urs.

1848 'A Rhymed Lesson'.

77 They are the brute beasts of the intellectual domain.

1857–8 Of facts. The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.1.

78 A thought is often original, though you have uttered it a hundred times.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.1.

79 When one has had all his conceit taken out of him, when he has lost all his illusions, his feathers will soon soak through, and he will fly no more.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.1.

80 Some of the sharpest men in argument are notoriously unsound in judgment.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.1.

81 Put not your trust in money, but put your money in trust.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.2.

82 Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.4.

83 Truth is tough. It will not break, like a bubble, at a touch; nay, you may kick it about all day like a football, and it will be round and full at evening.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.5.

84 Sin has many tools, but a lie is the handle which fits them all.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

85 Boston State-House is the hub of the solar system. You couldn't pry that out of a Boston man, if you had the tire of all creation straightened out for a crowbar.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

86 The world's great men have not commonly been great scholars, nor its great scholars great men.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

87 Talk about those subjects you have had long in your mind, and listen to what others say about subjects you have studied but recently. Knowledge and timber shouldn't be much used till they are seasoned.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

88 Shabby gentility has nothing so characteristic as its hat.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.8.

89 Have you heard of the wonderful one-hoss shay That was built in such a logical way, It ran a hundred years to a day.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.11.

90 Nothing is so common-place as to wish to be remarkable.

1857–8 The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table, ch.12.

91 Fate tried to conceal him by calling him Smith.

1858 Of Samuel Francis Smith. 'The Boys'.

92 Depart,—be off,—excede,—evade,—erump!

1858 'Aestivation'.

93 We must have a weak spot or two in a character before we can love it much.

1858–9 The Professor at the Breakfast Table, ch.3.

94 Apology is only egotism wrong side out.

1858–9 The Professor at the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

95 Fashion is only the attempt to realize Art in living forms and social intercourse.

1858–9 The Professor at the Breakfast Table, ch.6.

96 A moment's insight is sometimes worth a life's experience.

1857–8 The Professor at the Breakfast Table, ch.10.

97 Lord of all being, throned afar,
Thy glory flames from sun and star;
Centre and soul of every sphere,
Yet to each loving heart how near!

1858–9 The Professor at the Breakfast Table, 'A Sun-Day Hymn'.

98 It is the province of knowledge to speak, and it is the privilege of wisdom to listen.

1872 The Poet at the Breakfast Table, ch.10.

99 To be seventy years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be forty years old.

1879 Letter to Julia Ward Howe, 27 May.

1 The morning cup of coffee has an exhilaration about it which the cheering influence of the afternoon or evening cup of tea cannot be expected to reproduce.

1891 Over the Teacups, ch.1.

Holmes, Oliver Wendell, Jr 1841–1935

US lawyer, Professor at Harvard Law School, Justice of the US Supreme Court for 30 years.

2 For the rational study of the law the blackletter man may be the man of the present, but the man of the future is the man of statistics and the master of economics.

1897 'The Path of the Law', in the Harvard Law Review, 10:469.

Holroyd, Michael de Courcy Fraser 1935–

English biographer. He is married to the novelist Margaret Drabble.

3 Between history and the novel stands biography, their unwanted offspring, which has brought a great embarrassment to them both.

2002 Works on Paper: The Craft of Biography & Autobiography, 'The Case against Biography'.

4 In the historian's view biography is a kind of frogspawn—it takes ten thousand biographies to make one small history.

Homans, George C 1910–89

US sociologist, Professor at Harvard University.

8 It is really intolerable that we can say only one thing at a time; for social behavior displays many features at the same time, and so in taking them up one by one we necessarily do outrage to its rich, dark, organic unity.

1961 Social Behavior: Its Elementary Forms.

9 The rule of distributive justice is a statement of what ought to be, and what people say ought to be is determined in the long run and with some lag by what they find in fact to be the case.

1974 Social Behavior: Its Elementary Forms (rev edn).

Home of the Hirsal, Alec (Alexander Frederick) Douglas-Home, Baron 1903–95

And used to war's alarms:
But a cannon-ball took off his legs,
So he laid down his arms!
1826 'Faithless Nelly Gray'.
- 35 For here I leave my second leg,
And the Forty-second Foot!
1826 'Faithless Nelly Gray'.
- 36 The love that loves a scarlet coat
Should be more uniform.
1826 'Faithless Nelly Gray'.
- 37 I remember, I remember,
The house where I was born,
The little window where the sun
Came peeping in at morn;
He never came a wink too soon,
Nor brought too long a day,
But now, I often wish the night
Had borne my breath away!
1826 'I Remember'.
- 38 I remember, I remember,
The fir trees dark and high;
I used to think their slender tops
Were close against the sky:
It was a childish ignorance,
But now 'tis little joy
To know I'm farther off from heav'n
Than when I was a boy.
1826 'I Remember'.
- 39 She stood breast high amid the corn,
Clasped by the golden light of morn,
Like the sweetheart of the sun,

1841–3 Miss Kilmansegg and her Precious Leg, 'Her Misery'.
- 44 When Eve upon the first of Men
The apple pressed with specious cant,
Oh! what a thousand pities then
That Adam was not Adamant!
1842 'A Reflection'.
- 45 With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A woman sat, in unwomanly rags

Plying her needle and thread—
Stitch! stitch! stitch!
In poverty, hunger, and dirt.
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch
She sang the 'Song of the Shirt'.
1843 'The Song of the Shirt'.

- 46 O! men with sisters dear,
O! men with mothers and wives!
It is not linen you're wearing out,
But human creatures' lives!
1843 'The Song of the Shirt'.
- 47 Oh! God! that bread should be so dear,
And flesh and blood so cheap!
1843 'The Song of the Shirt'.
- 48 Take her up tenderly,
Lift her with care;
Fashioned so slenderly,
Young, and so fair!
1844 'The Bridge of Sighs'.
- 49 Mad from life's history,
Glad to death's mystery,
Swift to be hurled—
Anywhere, anywhere,
Out of the world!
1844 'The Bridge of Sighs'.
- 50 But evil is wrought by want of thought,
As well as want of heart!
1844 'The Lady's Dream'.
- 51 No sun—no moon!
No morn—no noon
No dawn—no dusk—no proper time of day.
1844 'No'.
- 52 No warmth, no cheerfulness, no healthful ease,
No comfortable feel in any member—
No shade, no shine, no butterflies, no bees,
No fruits, no flowers, no leaves, no birds,— November!
1844 'No'.
- 53 What is a modern poet's fate?
To write his thoughts upon a slate;
The critic spits on what is done,
Gives it a wipe—and all is gone.
'A Joke'. Collected in Hallam Tennyson Alfred Lord Tennyson (1897), vol.2, ch.3.

Hooker, Richard 1554–1600

English theologian, writer of an extensive treatise on the basis of Church government, which had a powerful influence on Anglican doctrine.

- 54 See we not plainly that obedience of creatures unto the law of nature is the stay of the whole world?
1594 Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity.
- 55 Man doth seek a triple perfection: first a sensual, consisting in those things which very life itself requireth either as necessary supplements, or as beauties and ornaments thereof; then an intellectual, consisting in those things which none underneath man is either capable of or acquainted with; lastly a spiritual and divine, consisting in those things whereunto we tend by supernatural means here, but cannot here attain unto them.

1594 Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity.

56 They must have hearts very dry and tough, from whom the melody of psalms doth not sometime draw that wherein a mind religiously affected delighteth.

1594 Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity.

Hoover, Herbert Clark 1874–1964

US Republican politician. As 31st President (1929–33), his opposition to direct assistance for the unemployed in the recession led to defeat by Roosevelt in 1932. He assisted with various US–European economic relief programmes after World War II.

- 71 Historians spend their lives and lavish ink
Explaining how great commonwealths collapse
From great defects of policy—perhaps
The cause is sometimes simpler than they think.
... Have more states perished, then,
For having shackled the enquiring mind,
Than those who, in their folly not less blind,
Trusted the servile womb to breed free men?
1965 'Advice to Young Ladies', in Collected Poems 1930–1970 (1972).
- 72 They call her a young country, but they lie:
She is the last of lands, the emptiest,
A woman beyond her change of life, a breast
Still tender but within the womb is dry.
'Australia', in Collected Poems 1930–1970 (1972).

English poet and Jesuit priest. His work is characterized by religious subjects and the use of natural imagery. His poems include 'The Wreck of the Deutschland' (1876), 'Pied Beauty' (1877) and 'The Windhover' (1877). His poetry was written in secret, only published 30 years after his death.

- 78 I have desired to go
Where springs not fail,
To fields where flies no sharp and sided hail
And a few lilies blow
And I have asked to be
Where no storms come,
Where the green swell is in the havens dumb,
And out of the swing of the sea.
1864 'Heaven-Haven'.
- 79 Crystal sincerity hath found no shelter but in a fool's cap.
1864 'Floris in Italy'. Collected in H House and G Storey (eds) The Journals and Papers of Gerard Manley Hopkins (1959), p.42.
- 80 Elected Silence, sing to me
And beat upon my whorled ear,
Pipe me to pastures still and be
The music that I care to hear.
1866 'The Habit of Perfection'.
- 81 Palate, the hutch of tasty lust,
Desire not to be rinsed with wine:
The can must be so sweet, the crust
So fresh that come in fasts divine!
1866 'The Habit of Perfection'.
- 82 I did say yes
O at lightning and lashed rod;
Thou heardst me truer than tongue confess
Thy terror, O Christ, O God.
1876 'The Wreck of the Deutschland', pt.1, stanza 2.
- 83 The world is charged with the grandeur of God.
It will flame out like shining from shook foil...
Generations have trod, have trod, have trod;
And all is seared with trade; bleared, smeared with toil;
And wears man's smudge and shares man's smell: the soil
Is bare now, nor can foot feel, being shod.
1877 'God's Grandeur'.
- 84 Because the Holy Ghost over the bent World broods with warm breast and with ah! bright wings.
1877 'God's Grandeur'.
- 85 Glory be to God for dappled things.
1877 'Pied Beauty'.
- 86 All things counter, original, spare, strange;
Whatever is fickle, freckled (who knows how?)
With swift, slow; sweet, sour; adazzle, dim;
He fathers-forth whose beauty is past change:
Praise him.
1877 'Pied Beauty'.
- 87 The glassy peartree leaves and blooms, they brush
The descending blue; that blue is all in a rush
With richness.
1877 'Spring'.
- 88 Look at the stars! look, look up at the skies!
O look at all the fire-folk sitting in the air!
- The bright boroughs, the circle-citadels there!
1877 'The Starlight Night'.
- 89 I caught this morning's minion, kingdom of Daylight's dauphin, dapple-dawn-drawn Falcon.
1877 'The Windhover'.
- 90 My heart in hiding
Stirred for a bird,—the achieve of, the mastery of the thing!
1877 'The Windhover'.
- 91 Towery city and branchy between towers;
Cuckoo-echoing, bell-swarmèd, lark-charmèd, rook-racked, river-rounded.
1879 Of Oxford. 'Duns Scotus's Oxford', published 1918.
- 92 Ten or twelve, only ten or twelve
Strokes of havoc unselve
The sweet especial scene
Rural scene, a rural scene
Sweet especial rural scene.
1879 'Binsey Poplars'.
- 93 Margaret, are you grieving
Over Goldengrove unleaving?
1880 'Spring and Fall: to a young child'.
- 94 Ah! as the heart grows older
It will come to such sights colder
By and by, not spare a sigh
Though worlds of wanwood leafmeal lie;
And yet you will weep and know why.
1880 'Spring and Fall: to a young child'.
- 95 It is the blight man was born for,
It is Margaret you mourn for.
1880 'Spring and Fall: to a young child'.
- 96 I can scarcely fancy myself to ask a superior to publish a volume of my verse and I own that humanly there is very little likelihood of that ever coming to pass. And to be sure if I chose to look at things on one side and not the other I could of course regret this bitterly. But there is more peace and it is the holier lot to be unknown than to be known.
1881 Letter to Richard Watson Dixon, 29 Oct. Collected in C C Abbott (ed) The Correspondence of Gerard Manley Hopkins and Richard Watson Dixon (1935).
- 97 What would the world be, once bereft
Of wet and wildness? Let them be left,
O let them be left, wildness and wet;
Long live the weeds and the wilderness yet.
1881 'Inversnaid'.
- 98 Time has three dimensions and one positive pitch or direction. It is therefore not so much like any river or any sea as like the Sea of Galilee, which has the Jordan running through it and giving a current to the whole.
1881 'Creation and Redemption: The Great Sacrifice'. Collected in C Devlin (ed) The Sermons and Devotional Writings of Gerard Manley Hopkins (1959), ch.8.
- 99 God...is so great that all things give him glory if you mean they should.
1882 'The Principle or Foundation', closing words. Collected in G Roberts (ed) Gerard Manley Hopkins. Selected Prose (1980).
- 1 Wild air, world-mothering air,
Nestling me everywhere.
1883 'The Blessed Virgin Compared to the Air We Breathe'.
- 2 Not, I'll not, carrion comfort, Despair, not feast on thee;

Not untwist—slack they may be—these last strands of man
In me or, most weary, cry I can no more. I can;
Can something, hope, wish day come, not choose not to be.

1885 'Carrion Comfort'.

- 3 That night, that year
Of now done darkness I wretch lay wrestling with (my God!) my God.
1885 'Carrion Comfort'.

- 4 No worst, there is none. Pitched past pitch of grief,
More pangs will, schooled at forepangs, wilder wring.
Comforter, where, where is your comforting?
1885 'No worst, there is none'.

- 5 O the mind, mind has mountains; cliffs of fall
Frightful, sheer, no-man-fathomed. Hold them cheap
May who ne'er hung there.
1885 'No worst, there is none'.

- 6 Here! creep,
Wretch, under a comfort serves in a whirlwind: all
Life death does end and each day dies with sleep.
1885 'No worst, there is none'.

- 7 The fine pleasure is not to do a thing but to feel that you could... If I could but get on, if I could but produce a work I should not mind its being buried, silenced, and going no further; but it kills me to be time's eunuch and never to beget.

1885 Letter to Robert Bridges, 1 Sep. Collected in C C Abbott (ed) The Correspondence of Gerard Manley Hopkins and Robert Bridges (1935).

- 8 I am all at once what Christ is, since he was what I am, and
This Jack, joke, poor potsherd, patch, matchwood, immortal diamond,
Is immortal diamond.
1888 'That Nature is a Heraclitean Fire'.

- 9 Thou art indeed just, Lord, if I contend
With thee; but, sir, so what I plead is just.
Why do sinners' ways prosper? and why must Disappointment all I endeavour end?
1889 'Thou art indeed just, Lord'.

- 10 Birds build—but not I build; no, but strain,
Time's eunuch, and not breed one work that wakes.
Mine, O thou lord of life, send my roots rain.
1889 'Thou art indeed just, Lord'.

- 11 The male quality is the creative gift.
Quoted in C C Abbott (ed) Correspondence of Gerard Manley Hopkins and Richard Watson Dixon (1935).

- 12 I always knew in my heart Walt Whitman's mind to be more like my own than any other man's living.
Quoted in Denis Donoghue England, Their England (1988).

Hornung, E(rnest) W(illiam) 1866–1921

English novelist. Brother-in-law of Arthur Conan Doyle, he created Raffles the gentleman burglar, hero of The Amateur Cracksman (1899), Mr Justice Raffles (1909) and many other adventure stories.

37 'Cricket,' said Raffles, 'like everything else, is a good enough sport until you discover a better. As a source of excitement it isn't in it with other things you wot of Bunny, and the involuntary comparison becomes a bore. What's the satisfaction of taking a man's wicket when you want his spoons?'

1899 The Amateur Cracksman.

Housman, A(Ifred) E(dward) 1859–1936

English scholar and poet. He was a distinguished classical scholar, and is known primarily for his poetry, particularly A Shropshire Lad (1896), an anti-pastoral view of country life which was widely popular after an initially cool reception.

41 Loveliest of trees, the cherry now

Is hung with bloom along the bough,
And stands about the woodland ride
Wearing white for Eastertide.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.2.

42 Now, of my threescore years and ten,
Twenty will not come again,
And take from seventy springs a score,
It only leaves me fifty more.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.2.

43 And since to look at things in bloom
Fifty springs are little room,
About the woodlands I will go
To see the cherry hung with snow.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.2.

44 Clay lies still, but blood's a rover;
Breath's a ware that will not keep.
Up, lad: when the journey's over
There'll be time enough to sleep.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.4.

45 And naked to the hangman's noose
The morning clocks will ring
A neck God made for other use
Than strangling in a string.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.9.

46 When I was one-and-twenty
I heard a wise man say,
'Give crowns and pounds and guineas
But not your heart away;

Give pearls away and rubies,
But keep your fancy free.'
But I was one-and-twenty
No use to talk to me.

1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.13.

47 Oh, when I was in love with you,

- Then I was clean and brave,
And miles around the wonder grew
How well I did behave.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.18.
- 48 And now the fancy passes by,
And nothing will remain,
And miles around they'll say that I Am quite myself again.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.18.
- 49 And silence sounds no worse than cheers
After dying has stopped the ears.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.19.
- 50 Twice a week the winter through
Here I stood to keep the goal:
Football then was fighting sorrow
For the young man's soul.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.21.
- 51 In summertime in Bredon
The bells they sound so clear;
Round both the shires they ring them
In steeples far and near,
A happy noise to hear.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.21.
- 52 Here of a Sunday morning
My love and I would lie,
And see the coloured counties,
And hear the larks so high
About us in the sky.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.21.
- 53 'Come all to church, good people,'—
Oh, noisy bells, be dumb;
I hear you, I will come.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.21.
- 54 The lads in their hundreds to Ludlow come in for the fair, There's men from the barn and the forge and the mill and the fold,
The lads for the girls and the lads for the liquor are there,
And there with the rest are lads that will never be old.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.23.
- 55 On Wenlock Edge the wood's in trouble;
His forest fleece the Wrekin heaves;
The wind it plies the saplings double,
And thick on Severn snow the leaves.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.31.
- 56 The gale, it plies the saplings double,
It blows so hard, 'twill soon be gone:
To-day the Roman and his trouble
Are ashes under Uricon.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.31.
- 57 From far, from eve and morning
And yon twelve-winded sky,
The stuff of life to knit me
Blew hither: here am I.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.32.
- 58 Speak now, and I will answer;
How shall I help you, say;
Ere to the wind's twelve quarters
I take my endless way.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.32.
- 59 Into my heart an air that kills
From yon far country blows:
What are those blue remembered hills,
What spires, what farms are those?
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.40.
- 60 That is the land of lost content,
I see it shining plain,
The happy highways where I went
And cannot come again.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.40.
- 61 And bound for the same bourn as I,
On every road I wandered by,
Trod beside me, close and dear,
The beautiful and death-struck year.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.41.
- 62 Clunton and Clunbury,
Clungunford and Clun,
Are the quietest places
Under the sun.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.50, epigraph.
- 63 With rue my heart is laden
For golden friends I had,
For many a rose-lipt maiden
And many a lightfoot lad.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.54.
- 64 By brooks too broad for leaping
The lightfoot boys are laid;
The rose-lipt girls are sleeping
In fields where roses fade.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.54.
- 65 Say, for what were hop-yards meant,
Or why was Burton built on Trent?
Oh many a peer of England brews
Livelier liquor than the Muse,
And malt does more than Milton can
To justify God's ways to man.
Ale, man, ale's the stuff to drink
For fellows whom it hurts to think.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.62.
- 66 Oh I have been to Ludlow fair
And left my necktie God knows where,
And carried half-way home, or near,
Pints and quarts of Ludlow beer.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.62.
- 67 Then the world seemed none so bad,
And I myself a sterling lad;
And down in lovely muck I've lain,
Happy till I woke again.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.62.
- 68 I tell the tale that I heard told.
Mithridates, he died old.
1896 A Shropshire Lad, no.62.
- 69 This great College, of this ancient University, has seen some strange sights. It has seen Wordsworth drunk and Porson sober. And here am I, a better poet than Porson, and a better scholar than Wordsworth, betwixt and between.
1911 Speech on taking up the Chair of Latin at Trinity College, Cambridge.
- 70 Pass me the can, lad; there's an end of May.
1922 Last Poems, no.9.

- 71 May will be fine next year as like as not:
Oh, ay, but then we shall be twenty-four.
1922 Last Poems, no.9.
- 72 We for a certainty are not the first
Have sat in taverns while the tempest hurled
Their hopeful plans to emptiness, and cursed Whatever brute and blackguard made the world.
1922 Last Poems, no.9.
- 73 The troubles of our proud and angry dust
Are from eternity, and shall not fail.
Bear them we can, and if we can we must.
Shoulder the sky, my lad, and drink your ale.
1922 Last Poems, no.9.
- 74 But men at whiles are sober
And think by fits and starts,
And if they think, they fasten
Their hands upon their hearts.
1922 Last Poems, no.10.
- 75 The laws of God, the laws of man,
He may keep that will and can;
Not I: let God and man decree
Laws for themselves and not for me;
And if my ways are not as theirs
Let them mind their own affairs.
1922 Last Poems, no.12.
- 76 And how am I to face the odds
Of man's bedevilment and God's?
I, a stranger and afraid
In a world I never made.
1922 Last Poems, no.12.
- 77 The candles burn their sockets,
The blinds let through the day,
The young man feels his pockets
And wonders what's to pay.
1922 Last Poems, no.21.
- 78 To think that two and two are four
And neither five nor three
The heart of man has long been sore
And long 'tis like to be.
1922 Last Poems, no.35.
- 79 These, in the day when heaven was falling,
The hour when earth's foundations fled,
Followed their mercenary calling
And took their wages and are dead.
1922 Last Poems, no.37, 'Epitaph on an Army of Mercenaries'.
- 80 Their shoulders held the sky suspended;
They stood, and earth's foundations stay;
What God abandoned, these defended,
And saved the sum of things for pay.
1922 Last Poems, no.37, 'Epitaph on an Army of Mercenaries'.
- 81 For nature, heartless, witless nature,
Will neither care nor know
What stranger's feet may find the meadow
And trespass there and go,
Nor ask amid the dews of morning
If they are mine or no.
1922 Last Poems, no.40.
- 82 Experience has taught me, when I am shaving of a morning, to keep watch over my thoughts, because, if a line of poetry strays into my memory, my skin bristles so that the razor ceases to act.
- 1933 'The Name and Nature of Poetry', Lecture at Cambridge,
9 May.
- 83 The seat of this sensation is the pit of the stomach.
1933 'The Name and Nature of Poetry', Lecture at Cambridge,
9 May.
- 84 The stroke of midnight ceases,
And I lie down alone.
1936 More Poems, no.11.
- 85 Life, to be sure, is nothing much to lose;
But young men think it is, and we were young.
1936 More Poems, no.36.
- 86 Good-night. Ensured release
Imperishable peace,
Have these for yours,
While earth's foundations stand
And sky and sea and land
And heaven endures.
1936 More Poems, no.48.
- 87 That is indeed very good. I shall have to repeat that on the Golden Floor!
1936 Remark made to his doctor after the latter had told him a risqué story on his deathbed.
- 88 The Grizzly bear is huge and wild;
He has devoured the infant child.
The infant child is not aware
He has been eaten by the bear.
'Infant Innocence', collected The Oxford Book of Light Verse (1938).
- 89 Oh who is that young sinner with the handcuffs on his wrist?
And what has he been after that they groan and shake their fists?
And wherefore is he wearing such a conscience-stricken air?
Oh they're taking him to prison for the colour of his hair.
'Additional Poems', no.18, in Collected Poems (1939).
- 90 'Tis a shame to human nature, such a head of hair as his;
In the good old time 'twas hanging for the colour that it is;
Though hanging isn't bad enough and flaying would be fair
For the nameless and abominable colour of his hair.
'Additional Poems', no.18, in Collected Poems (1939).
- 91 Now hollow fires burn out to black
And lamps are guttering low.
Square your shoulders, lift your pack,
And leave your friends and go.
- Oh, never fear, man, nought's to dread
Look not left nor right.
In all the endless road you tread,
There's nothing but the night.
Quoted in Bernard Levin Hannibal's Footsteps (1985).

How, William Walsham 1823–97

English churchman and religious writer, the first Bishop of Wakefield.

- 92 For all the Saints who from their labours rest,
Who Thee by faith before the world confess'd,
Thy name, O Jesu, be for ever blest,
Alleluia!

1864 'For All the Saints', in Earl Nelson Hymns for Saints' Days.

93 From earth's wide bounds, from ocean's farthest coast,
Through gates of pearl streams in the countless host,
Singing to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost,
Alleluia!

1864 'For All the Saints', in Earl Nelson Hymns for Saints' Days.

Howard, Thomas, Earl of Surrey and 2nd Duke of Norfolk 1443–1524

English nobleman and soldier. He fought for Richard III at Bosworth (1485) and was imprisoned by Henry VII, but regained his estates and led successful campaigns against the Scots, including Flodden (1513).

94 He was my crowned King, and if the Parliamentary authority of England set the crown upon a stock, I will fight for that stock: And as I fought then for him, I will fight for you, when you are established by the said authority.

1485 Explaining before the future Henry VII his reasons for siding with Richard III at Bosworth, 22 Aug. Quoted in William Camden Remains Concerning Britain (1605).

Howe (of Aberavon), (Richard Edward) Geoffrey Howe, Baron 1926–

English Conservative politician. In 1989 he became Deputy Prime Minister, Lord President of the Council and Leader of the House of Commons. His resignation from Margaret Thatcher's government in Nov 1990, and his subsequent resignation speech, were instrumental in her downfall.

95 Megaphone diplomacy leads to a dialogue of the deaf.

1985 Quoted in the Observer, 29 Sep.

96 How on earth are the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Governor of the Bank of England...to be taken seriously against that kind of background noise? It is rather like sending your opening batsmen to the crease, only for them to find, the moment the first balls are bowled, that their bats have been broken before the game by the team captain.

1990 Personal statement on his resignation, House of Commons, 13 Nov.

97 If some of my former colleagues are to be believed, I must be the first minister in history to have resigned because he was in full agreement with government policy.

1990 Personal statement on his resignation, House of Commons, 13 Nov.

Howe, Gordie (Gordon) 1928–

Canadian hockey player.

98 All pro athletes are bilingual. They speak English and profanity.
Dismissing Canadian bilingualism. Quoted by George Gamemster in the Toronto Star, 27 May 1975.

Howe, Joseph 1804–73

Anglo-Canadian journalist and statesman.

99 A wise nation preserves its records, gathers up its muniments, decorates the tombs of its illustrious dead, repairs its great public structures, and fosters national pride and love of country, by perpetual references to the sacrifices and glories of the past.

1871 Address at Framingham, Massachusetts, 31 Aug. Collected in Poems and Essays (1874).

Howe, Julia Ward 1819–1910

US feminist and writer, influential in suffragette and Unitarian causes. Her poetry collections include Passion Flowers (1854). She made history as the first woman member of the American Academy.

1 Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord:
He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored.

He hath loosed the fatal lightning of his terrible swift sword:

His truth is marching on.

1862 'Battle Hymn of the Republic'.

Howe, Louis McHenry 1871–1936

US diplomat.

2 You can't adopt politics as a profession and hope to remain honest.

1933 Speech, Columbia University, 17 Jan.

Hoyle, Edmond 1672–1769

English authority on card games. He published manuals on whist, backgammon, brag, quadrille, piquet and chess.

3 When in doubt, win the trick.

A Short Treatise on the Game of Whist (first published 1742, this edn edited by Charles Jones, 1790). This may be an addition by Jones.

Hoyle, Sir Fred 1915–2001

English astronomer and mathematician, one of the first to apply modern physics to cosmology. He was knighted in 1972.

4 To take an almost religious view, this earth is nothing very special. There have probably been millions of earths just like ours each producing a particular intelligent species. That is not to say that they all developed well, that they all achieved some sort of perfection. And if the planner made lots of them and some of them chose to destroy themselves, then we can only suppose that the planner is a hard and practical man.

1974 In the Daily Mail.

5 Space isn't remote at all. It's only an hour's drive away if your car could go straight upwards.

1979 Quoted in the Observer. 'Sayings of the Week', 9 Sep.

1914 The Roycroft Dictionary.

10 College football is a sport that bears the same relation to education that bullfighting does to agriculture.

Hubble, Edwin Powell 1889–1953

US astronomer. In 1929 he formulated Hubble's law: galaxies recede with speeds directly proportionate to their distance from us, confirming that the universe is expanding. The space telescope launched in 1990 was named in his honour.

11 We measure shadows, and we search among ghostly errors of measurement for landmarks that are scarcely more substantial.

Quoted in Dennis Overbye Lonely Hearts of the Cosmos (1991).

Hügel, Friedrich von, Baron 1852–1925

Austrian-born British theologian and Bible critic, son of the Austrian Ambassador in Italy. He settled in England in 1871. His works include The Mystical Element in Religion (1908–9) and The Reality of God (published 1931).

12 I take these to be the seven great facts and doctrines concerning God—his richness; his double action, natural and supernatural; his perfect freedom; his delightfulness; his otherness; his adorableness and his prevenience.

The Life of Prayer (published 1927).

13 Christianity has taught us to care. Caring is the greatest thing, caring matters most.

Letter to his niece.

Hugh of St Victor c.1096–1141

German divine and scholar, who entered the Augustinian order despite his parents' objections. In 1115 he was sent to the Abbey of St Victor in Paris, where he completed his vows, later becoming master of the school. He composed many treatises on theological, philosophical and devotional subjects.

14 Delicatus ille est adhuc cui patria dulcis est. Fortis autem jam cui omne solum patria est, perfectus vero cui mundus totus exsilium est.

He whose own homeland is sweet to him is a mere beginner. He to whom every soil is as his native land is strong. But he to whom the whole world is a place of exile has achieved perfection.

c.1127 Didascalicon, bk.3, ch.20.

Hughes, Howard Robard 1905–76

US millionaire businessman, film producer and aviator. Known as an eccentric, he left Hollywood in 1932 to design, build and fly aircraft before returning to film production. After 1966 he lived in complete seclusion.

15 That man's ears make him look like a taxi-cab with both doors open.

Hughes, (James Mercer) Langston 1902–67

US poet, a leading figure of the Harlem Renaissance, whose poetry and sketches reflect folk culture, jazz, blues and colloquial speech. His works include Weary Blues (1926) and the autobiographical The Big Sea (1940).

16 I, too, sing America.

I am the darker brother.
They send me to eat in the kitchen
When company comes.
But I laugh
And eat well,
And grow strong.

1925 'I, Too', in Survey Graphic, Mar.

17 Tomorrow
I'll sit at the table
When company comes
Nobody'll dare
Say to me,
'Eat in the kitchen'
Then.

1925 'I, Too', in Survey Graphic, Mar.

18 Swaying to and fro on his rickety stool
He played that sad raggy tune like a musical fool.

20 What happens to a dream deferred?

Does it dry up like a raisin in the sun?

1951 'Dream Deferred'. Lorraine Hansberry used the phrase for the title of her play A Raisin in the Sun (1959).

21 Maybe it just sags like a heavy load.

Or does it explode?

1951 'Dream Deferred'.

22 You are white—

That's American.

1951 'Theme for English B'.

23 A wonderful time—the War:
when money rolled in and blood rolled out.

1951 'Green Memory'.

24 'It's powerful,' he said.
'What?'

'That one drop of Negro blood—because just one drop of black blood makes a man coloured. One drop—you are a Negro!'

1953 Simple Takes a Wife.

Hughes, Richard Arthur Warren 1900–76

English novelist. He is best known for his adventure tale A High Wind in Jamaica (1929, entitled The Innocent Voyage in the US). Other works include Hazard: A Sea Story (1938), The Fox in the Attic (1961) and The Wooden Shepherdess (1972).

25 Nature is as wasteful of promising young men as she is of fish-spawn. It's not just getting them killed in wars: mere middle age snuffs out ten times more talent than ever wars and sudden death do.

1961 The Fox in the Attic, bk.1, ch.18.

26 For a politician rises on the backs of his friends (that's probably all they're good for), but it's through his enemies he'll have to govern afterwards.

1961 The Fox in the Attic, bk.2, ch.20.

27 Do your bit to save humanity from lapsing back into barbarity by reading all the novels you can.

1975 Speech at Foyle's Literary Luncheon, London, in honour of his 75th birthday.

Hughes, Robert Studley Forrest 1938–

Australian-born US art critic, writer with Time magazine (1970–). His books include The Fatal Shore (1987) and Goya (2003). He has also written and narrated art documentaries for television including the series American Visions (1997).

Hughes, Thomas 1822–96

English reformer and novelist. Called to the Bar in 1848, a Liberal MP (1865–74) and a county court judge (1882), he is best remembered for his semi-autobiographical classic, Tom Brown's Schooldays (1856).

54 Life isn't all beer and skittles—but beer and skittles, or something better of the same sort, must form a good part of every Englishman's education.

1856 Tom Brown's Schooldays, pt.1, ch.2.

55 He never wants anything but what's right and fair, only when you come to settle what's right and fair, it's everything that he wants and nothing that you want. And that's his idea of a compromise. Give me the Brown compromise when I'm on his side.

56 It's more than a game. It's an institution.

1856 Of cricket. Tom Brown's Schooldays, pt.2, ch.7.

Hughes, William Morris 1864–1952

Welsh-born Australian statesman. He emigrated in 1884 and became Minister for External Affairs (1904) in the first Labour government and subsequently Prime Minister (1915–23). He founded the United Australian Party.

57 Mr President, I speak for sixty thousand dead!

1919 Reply to Woodrow Wilson at the Versailles Peace Conference, Jan, referring to the ANZAC fatalities in World War I. Wilson had asked 'Mr Hughes, I speak for very many millions of people. For whom do you speak?.'

58 Without the Empire we should be tossed like a cork in the cross current of world politics. It is at once our sword and our shield.

1926 Speech, Melbourne.

Hugo, Victor Marie 1802–85

French poet, dramatist and novelist. His great epics are Notre-Dame de Paris (1831, The Hunchback of Notre Dame) and Les Misérables (1862). His writings and theories were enormously influential.

59 Le beau n'a qu'un type; le laid en a mille.

Beauty has only one form; ugliness has a thousand.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

60 Les temps primitifs sont lyriques, les temps antiques sont épiques, les temps modernes sont dramatiques.

The primitive era was lyrical, the classical era was epic and the modern era is dramatic.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

61 Il n'y a ni règles ni modèles; ou plutôt il n'y a d'autres règles que les lois générales de la nature qui planent sur l'art tout entier, et les lois spéciales qui, pour chaque composition, résultent des conditions d'existence propres à chaque sujet.

There are no rules or models; that is, there are no rules except general laws of nature which hover over art and special laws which apply to specific subjects.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

62 La vérité de l'art ne saurait jamais être... la réalité absolue. L'art ne peut donner la chose même.

The truth of art should never be... absolute reality. Art cannot show the thing itself.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

63 Le but de l'art est presque divin: ressusciter, s'il fait de l'histoire; créer, s'il fait de la poésie.

The goal of art is almost divine: to resuscitate, if it concerns history; to create, if it concerns poetry.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

64 Le vers est la forme optique de la pensée. Voilà pourquoi il convient surtout à la perspective scénique.

Verse is the optical form of thought. That is the reason a scenic perspective suits it.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

65 La langue française n'est point fixée et ne se fixera point.

French is not a static language and will never become static.

1827 Cromwell, préface.

66 Sois donc ami sincère ou sincère ennemi, Et ne reste pas traître et fidèle à demi.

Be either a sincere friend or a sincere enemy, And never be half-traitor and half-faithful.

1827 Cromwell, act 1, sc.1.

67 L'Angleterre toujours sera sœur de la France.

England will always be the sister of France.

1827 Cromwell, act 2, sc.2.

68 Vous me manquez, je suis absente de moi-même.

I miss you, I am estranged from myself.

1830 Hernani, act 1, sc.2.

69 Nos pères avaient un Paris de pierre, nos fils auront un Paris de plâtre.

Our fathers had a Paris made of stone; our sons will have a Paris made of plaster.

1831 Notre-Dame de Paris, pt.3, ch.2.

70 Rêver, c'est le bonheur; attendre, c'est la vie.

To dream is happiness; to wait is life.

72 Mêlez toute votre âme à la création!

Involve all of your soul in creation!

1831 Les Feuilles d'automne, no.38, 'Pan'.

73 O Virgile! ô poète! ô mon maître divin!

Oh Virgil! Oh poet! Oh my divine master!

1837 Les Voix intérieures, no.7, À Virgile.

74 Le drame tient de la tragédie par la peinture des passions et de la comédie par la peinture des caractères. Le drame est la troisième grande forme de l'art.

In drama, tragedy paints the passions and comedy paints characters. Drama is the third great form of art.

1838 Ruy Blas, préface.

75 Je ne veux pas tomber, non, je veux disparaître.

I do not want to fall; I want to disappear.

1838 Ruy Blas, act 1, sc.1.

76 Visage de traître!

Quand la bouche dit oui, le regard dit peut-être.

Face of a traitor!

When the mouth says yes, the look says maybe.

Beneath the clothing of a manservant, the passions of a king.
1838 Ruy Blas, act 1, sc.3.
- 78 Les femmes aiment fort à sauver qui les perd.
Women love to save those who damn them.
1838 Ruy Blas, act 1, sc.4.
- 79 Dieu s'est fait homme; Soit! Le diable s'est fait femme.
God made himself a man. So be it! The devil made himself a woman.
1838 Ruy Blas, act 2, sc.5.
- 80 Tout se fait par intrigue et rien par loyauté.
Everything is done by intrigue, not by loyalty.
1838 Ruy Blas, act 3, sc.2.
- 81 Ah! toute nation bénit qui la délie.
Ah! every nation blesses what undoes it.
1838 Ruy Blas, act 3, sc.5.

Hume, David 1711–76

Scottish philosopher and historian. His most important work, the empiricist A Treatise of Human Nature, was published anonymously (1739–40). He published a five-volume History of England (1754–62) and was secretary to the British Ambassador in Paris (1763–5).

3 Let us fix our attention out of ourselves as much as possible; let us chase our imagination to the heavens, or to the utmost limits of the universe; we never really advance a step beyond ourselves, nor can conceive any kind of existence, but those perceptions, which have appeared in that narrow compass.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.1, pt.2, section 6.

4 We have no other notion of cause and effect, but that of certain objects, which have been always conjoined together, and which in all past instances have been found inseparable.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.1, pt.3, section 6.

5 For my part, when I enter most intimately into what I call myself, I always stumble on some particular perception or other, of heat or cold, light or shade, pain or pleasure. I never can catch myself at any time without a perception, and never can observe anything but the perception.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.1, pt.4, section 6.

6 In all the events of life, we ought still to preserve our scepticism. If we believe that fire warms, or water refreshes, it is only because it costs us too much pains to think otherwise.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.1, pt.4, section 7.

7 Reason is, and ought only to be the slave of the passions, and can never pretend to any other office than to serve and obey them.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.2, pt.3, section 3.

8 It is not contrary to reason to prefer the destruction of the whole world to the scratching of my finger.

1739 A Treatise of Human Nature, bk.2, pt.3, section 3.

9 It is not, therefore, reason, which is the guide of life, but custom.

15 When we run over libraries, persuaded of these principles, what havoc must we make? If we take in our hand any volume; of divinity or school metaphysics, for instance; let us ask, Does it contain any abstract reasoning concerning quantity or number? No. Does it contain any experimental reasoning concerning matter of fact or existence? No. Commit it then to the flames: for it can contain nothing but sophistry and illusion.

1748 An Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding, section 12, pt.3.

16 Never literary attempt was more unfortunate than my Treatise of Human Nature. It fell dead-born from the press, without reaching such distinction, as even to excite a murmur among the zealots.

Jumping from the chair she sat in;
Time, you thief, who love to get Sweets into your list, put that in:

Say I'm weary, say I'm sad,
Say that health and wealth have missed me,
Say I'm growing old, but add,
Jenny kissed me.

1838 'Rondeau'.

36 That man must be very much absorbed in reflection, or stupid, or sulky, or unhappy, or a mere hog at his trough, who is not moved to say something when he dines.

Hunt, Sir Rex 1926–

Governor of the Falkland Islands at the time of the Argentine invasion of 1982.

38 It is very uncivilised to invade British territory. You are here illegally.

1982 Attributed remark to an Argentinian general. Quoted in Life, Jan 1983.

Hunter, William 1718–83

Scottish anatomist and obstetrician, appointed physician-extraordinary to Queen Charlotte Sophia (1764) and first Professor of Anatomy to the Royal Academy (1768). His Hunterian Museum was bequeathed to Glasgow University.

39 Some physiologists will have it that the stomach is a mill;—others, that it is a fermenting vat;—others again that it is a stew-pan;—but in my view of the matter, it is neither a mill, a fermenting vat, nor a stew-pan—but a stomach, gentlemen, a stomach.

Quoted in J A Paris A Treatise on Diet (1824), epigraph, from a note made by Hunter on one of his lectures.

Hupfeld, Herman 1894–1951

US composer of popular songs, best known for 'Sing Something Simple' and 'As Time Goes By'.

40 You must remember this, a kiss is still a kiss,

A sigh is just a sigh;
The fundamental things apply,
As time goes by.

1931 'As Time Goes By', sung by Dooley Wilson in the film Casablanca (1943).

Hussein, ibn Talal 1935–99

King of Jordan (1952–99), four times married. The longest-serving Arab leader, pro-Western in attitude, he moved towards democracy in Jordan.

41 After all the doors were shut, our region is facing a deep abyss after the turning of the Gulf crisis into an imminent catastrophe. We have not left a door that we did not knock on, or a road that we did not take to find a political settlement of this crisis.

Hussein, Saddam 1937–

Iraqi politician, a key figure in Iraq's 1968 revolution and later President (1979–2003). He engaged in the Iran–Iraq War (1980–8) and in 1990 invaded Kuwait and was repulsed by a coalition of Western and Arab forces. He made further raids on Iran in 1993, defying UN ceasefire resolutions. He was captured by US forces in Iraq in December 2003.

42 The devil Bush and his treacherous gang, with criminal Zionism, have begun the great showdown, the mother of all battles between good and evil.

1991 Speech in Baghdad, 6 Jan, describing Operation Desert Storm. Quoted in the Sunday Times, 27 Jan.

43 There is no other course but the one we have chosen, except the course of humiliation and darkness, after which there will be no bright sign in the sky or brilliant light on earth... All this will make us more patient and steadfast, and better prepared for the battle which God blesses and which good men support. Then there will only be a glorious conclusion, where a brilliant sun will clear the dust of battle, and where the clouds of battles will be dispelled.

1991 Baghdad radio broadcast, 21 Feb.

44 Baghdad is determined to force the Mongols of our age to commit suicide at its gates.

2003 Speech on the anniversary of the Gulf War, 17 Jan.

45 At dawn prayers today on March 20 2003 (17 Muharram 1424), the criminal, reckless little Bush and his aides committed this crime that he was threatening to commit against Iraq and humanity.

2003 Address to the nation of Iraq, broadcast on state television, after a US strike on Baghdad. Quoted in The Guardian, 20 Mar.

46 We do not have weapons of mass destruction.

Quoted in George Galloway I'm Not the Only One (2004).

47 If they come we are ready. We will fight them on the streets, from the rooftops, from house to house. We will never surrender our independence no matter what happens in any invasion.

Quoted in George Galloway I'm Not the Only One (2004).

Huston, John 1906–87

US actor, screenwriter and director, son of Walter Huston. He made his directorial debut with The Maltese Falcon (1941). Other successes include Key Largo (1948), The African Queen (1951), Moulin Rouge (1952) and The Man Who Would Be King (1975).

48 You're good, you're real good.

1941 Line delivered by Humphrey Bogart in The Maltese Falcon.

49 A work of art doesn't dare you to realize it. It germinates and gestates by itself.

1982 Reply to a tribute from the Directors Guild of America. Reported in Variety, 26 Apr.

Hutchens, John Kennedy 1905–95

US journalist and editor. He was theatre critic with the New York Times (1929–32, 1934–8), editor of the New York Times Book Review (1946–8), and was on the editorial board of the Book-of-the-Month Club (1963–88).

1859 Letter to The Times, 26 Dec.

6 Sit down before fact as a little child, be prepared to give up every preconceived notion, follow humbly wherever and to whatsoever abysses Nature leads, or you shall learn nothing.

1860 Letter to Charles Kingsley.

7 Most of my colleagues were -ists of one sort or another; and however kind and friendly they might be, I, the man without a rag of a label to cover himself with, could not fail to have some of the uneasy feelings which must have beset the historical fox when, after leaving the trap in which his tail remained, he presented himself to his normally elongated companions. So I took thought, and invented what I conceived to be the appropriate title of 'agnostic'.

1869 Science and Christian Tradition.

8 The central propositions [of Descartes]...are these: There is a path that leads to the truth so surely that any one who will follow it must needs reach the goal... And there is one guiding rule by which a man may always find this path...give unqualified assent to no propositions but those the truth of which is so clear and distinct that they cannot be doubted.

1870 Lay Sermons, Addresses, and Reviews.

9 The great tragedy of Science—the slaying of a beautiful hypothesis by an ugly fact.

1870 'Biogenesis and Abiogenesis', in the British Association Annual Report.

10 Our reverence for the nobility of manhood will not be lessened by the knowledge that man is in substance and in structure, one with the brutes; for he alone possesses the marvellous endowment of intelligible and rational speech whereby...he has slowly accumulated and organized the experience which is almost wholly lost with the cessation of individual life in other animals; so that he now stands raised above it as on a mountain-top, far above the level of his humble fellows, and transfigured from his grosser nature by reflecting, here and there, a ray from the infinite source of truth.

1880 Man's Place in Nature.

11 It is the customary fate of new truths to begin as heresies and to end as superstitions.

12 Irrationally held truths may be more harmful than reasoned errors.

1880 Science and Culture and Other Essays, 'The Coming of Age of the Origin of the Species'.

13 Science is nothing but trained and organized common sense, differing from the latter only as a veteran may differ from a raw recruit: and its methods differ from those of common sense only as far as the guardsman's cut and thrust differ from the manner in which a savage wields his club.

1893–4 Collected Essays, no.4, 'The Method of Zaidig'.

14 Some experience of popular lecturing had convinced me that the necessity of making things plain to uninstructed people was one of the very best means of clearing up the obscure corners in one's own mind.

1894 Man's Place in Nature (rev edn), preface.

15 Next to being right in this world, the best of all things is to be clearly and definitely wrong. If you go buzzing about between right and wrong, vibrating and fluctuating, you come out nowhere; but if you are absolutely and thoroughly and persistently wrong you must, some of these days, have the extreme good fortune of knocking your head against a fact, and that sets you all straight again. Attributed.

Huxtable, Ada Louise née Landman c.1921–

Hyde, Robin pseudonym of Iris Guiver Wilkinson 1906–39

New Zealand novelist, poet and journalist, born in South Africa. She was one of the few women career journalists of the 1930s. Brief affairs led to the births of two sons; the first, whose name she adopted, was stillborn. Her works include the autobiographical novel The Godwits Fly (1938).

19 Something there had been, something delicate, wild and far away. But it was shut out behind the doors of yesterday, lost beyond the hills.

1938 The Godwits Fly, ch.3.

20 You were English and not English. It took time to realize that England was far away.

1938 The Godwits Fly, ch.3.

21 We live half our lives in England... there can't have been anything quite like this since the Roman colonists settled in Britain: not the hanging on with one hand, and the other hand full of seas.

1938 The Godwits Fly, ch.8.

22 Having a lover isn't much to write home about.

1938 The Godwits Fly, ch.17.

23 She stands an instant in the sun
Athwart her harsh land's red and green—
Hands of a serf, and warrior eyes
Of some flame-sceptred Irish queen.

... As if she does not care that life
Has reft the jewels from her hair—
But grieves that menial needs and base
Were those that left her palace bare.

1938 The Godwits Fly, ch.23. This poem is an adaptation of 'The Farmer's Wife', first published in The Desolate Star (1929).

- 6 My constituency is the desperate, the damned, the disinherited, the disrespected, and the despised.
1984 Speech at the Democratic National Convention, San Francisco, 17 Jul.
- 7 Our flag is red, white and blue, but our nation is a rainbow—red, yellow, brown, black and white—and we are all precious in God's sight... America is not like a blanket—one piece of unbroken cloth, the same color, the same texture, the same size. America is more like a quilt—many patches, many pieces, many colors, many sizes; all woven and held together by a common thread.
1984 Launching his 'rainbow coalition' at the Democratic National Convention, San Francisco, 17 Jul.
- 8 If I can conceive it and believe it, I can achieve it. It's not my aptitude but my attitude that will determine my altitude—with a little intestinal fortitude!
1988 Ebony, Aug.

Jackson, Peter 1961–

New Zealand film director, best known for directing the Lord of the Rings trilogy (The Fellowship of the Ring, 2001; The Two Towers, 2002; The Return of the King, 2003).

- 9 I read the book when I was 18 years old and thought 'I can't wait till the movie comes out'. Twenty years later no one had done it—so I got impatient.

2003 On how he came to direct the Lord of the Rings. Quoted in the Observer, 30 Nov.

Jackson, Robert Houghwout 1892–1954

US jurist, Associate Justice of the US Supreme Court (1941–54). He took leave to be US Chief Counsel at the Nuremberg war trials (1945–6). His decisions upheld freedom of speech and religion.

10 We are not final because we are infallible, but we are infallible only because we are final.

1953 Ruling to uphold the Supreme Court as the bench of last appeal, 9 Feb.

11 He who must search a haystack for a needle is likely to end up with the attitude that the needle is not worth the search.

Jacobs, Joe 1896–1940

US boxing manager. He was manager of boxer Max Schmeling.

14 We wuz robbed!

1932 After Schmeling's unexpected defeat by Jack Sharkey, 21 Jun. Quoted in Peter Heller In This Corner (1975). Jack Dempsey in 1927 claimed 'I was robbed of the championship' when he lost to Gene Tunney. The cry was subsequently widely adopted by aggrieved losers.

Jacobs, W(illiam) W(ymark) 1863–1943

English short-story writer. He specialized in colourful yarns about the watermen on the Thames, and macabre stories.

15 'Dealing with a man,' said the night-watchman, 'is as easy as a teetotaller walking along a nice wide pavement; dealing with a woman is like the same teetotaller, after four or five whiskies, trying to get up a step that ain't there.'

1919 Deep Waters, 'Husbandry'.

Jagger, Mick and Richards, Keith 1943–, 1943–

English rock musicians, who with Bill Wyman, Charlie Watts and Brian Jones formed The Rolling Stones (1961). Their rebellious image and controversial lifestyles added to the extraordinary success of their music.

16 I can't get no satisfaction

I can't get no girl reaction.

1966 '(I Can't Get No) Satisfaction'.

17 Mother needs something today to calm her down,
And though she's not really ill,
There's a little yellow pill:
She goes running for the shelter
Of a mother's little helper,
And it helps her on her way,
Gets her through her busy day.

1966 'Mother's Little Helper'.

18 Please allow me to introduce myself
I'm a man of wealth and taste.

I've been around for a long, long year
Stole many a man's soul and faith.

And I was around when Jesus Christ
Had his moments of doubt and pain,

Made damn sure that Pilate
Washed his hands and sealed his fate.

Pleased to meet you, hope you guess my name
But what's puzzling you

Is the nature of my game.

1968 'Sympathy for the Devil'.

19 I shouted out, 'Who killed the Kennedys?'
When after all it was you and me.

James I 1394–1437

King of Scotland (from 1424). He was imprisoned by the English for 18 years before returning to Scotland to take the throne. His measures to curb the nobles' power led to his murder. The Kingis Quair (c.1435), his only surviving work, is thought to have introduced Chaucerian style to Scotland.

21 The bird, the beste, the fisch eke in the see,
They lyve in fredome, euerich in his kynd,
And I, a man, and lakkith libertee!

c.1435 The Kingis Quair, stanza 27.

James IV 1473–1513

King of Scotland (from 1488). His marriage to Margaret Tudor, daughter of Henry VII of England, led ultimately to the union of the crowns. He was defeated and killed at Flodden.

22 It is statute and ordained that in na place of the Realme there be used Fute-ball, Golfe, or uther sik unprofitable sportes.

1491 Royal decree.

James V 1512–42

King of Scotland (from 1513). He succeeded to the throne as an infant, amid quarrelling pro-French and pro-English factions. As an adult he ruled with a mixture of good judgement and vindictiveness, strengthening the Crown's power and revenues.

23 Adieu, Farewell, it came with a lass, it will pass with a lass.

1542 Said on his deathbed, 14 Dec, on hearing of the birth of his daughter Mary, referring to the Crown of Scotland passing from the Stewarts. Quoted in Robert Lindsay of Pitscottie (c.1532–1580) The Historie and Cronicles of Scotland (published 1728), vol.1.

James, Alice 1848–92

US diarist, sister of Henry and William James. She spent her childhood travelling with her family in Europe. A semi-invalid for much of her life, she lived in England to be near her brother Henry. Her diary was published posthumously.

- 24 How heroic to be able to suppress one's vanity to the extent of confessing that the game is too hard.
1889 On suicide. Diary entry, 5 Aug.
- 25 When will women begin to have the first glimmer that above all other loyalties is the loyalty to Truth, i.e., to yourself, that husband, children, friends and country are as nothing to that.
1889 Diary entry, 19 Nov.
- 26 How sick one gets of being 'good'; how much I should respect myself if I could burst out and make every one wretched for 24 hours.
1889 Diary entry, 11 Dec.
- 27 I suppose one has a greater sense of intellectual degradation after an interview with a doctor than from any human experience.
1890 Diary entry, 27 Sep.

James, Clive Vivian Leopold 1939–

Australian journalist, writer and broadcaster, famous as a witty and perceptive cultural commentator.

- 28 A country so precipitously convoluted that the rivers flowing through it look like the silver trails of inebriated slugs.
1978 'Postcard from Japan', in the Observer magazine, 4 Jun.
- 29 She sounded like the book of Revelations read out over a railway station public-address system by a headmistress of a certain age wearing calico knickers.
1979 Of Margaret Thatcher. In the Observer.
- 30 I feared for her as I loved her, and the fear intensified the love.
1997 On the death of Diana, Princess of Wales. In the New Yorker, 15 Sep.
- 31 When you say a man writes badly, you are trying to hurt him. When you say it in words better than his, you have succeeded.
2003 In the New York Times, 7 Sep.

James, C(yril) L(ionel) R(ober) 1901–89

Trinidadian writer, lecturer and political activist. Arguing for the freedom of blacks through Marxism and revolution, he was deported from the US and placed under house arrest in Trinidad.

- 32 Body-line was not an incident, it was not an accident, it was not a temporary aberration. It was the violence and ferocity of our age expressing itself in cricket.
1963 Beyond the Boundary.

James, Henry 1843–1916

US-born British novelist, brother of William and Alice James. He took British citizenship in 1915. Many of his novels explore his 'international theme', including The Ambassadors (1903) and The Golden Bowl (1904). His critical theory is defined in 'The Art of Fiction' (1884).

- 33 It's a complex fate, being an American, and one of the responsibilities it entails is fighting against a superstitious valuation of Europe.
1872 Letter to Charles Eliot Norton, 4 Feb.
- 34 It takes a great deal of history to produce a little literature.
1879 Hawthorne, ch.1.
- 35 It is, I think, an indisputable fact that Americans are, as Americans, the most self-conscious people in the world, and the most addicted to the belief that the other nations of the earth are in a conspiracy to under value them.
1879 Hawthorne, ch.6.
- 36 Cats and monkeys—monkeys and cats—all human life is there!
1879 The Madonna of the Future, vol.1. The News of the World took 'All human life is there' as its slogan from the late 1950s.
- 37 There are few hours in life more agreeable than the hour dedicated to the ceremony known as afternoon tea.
1881 The Portrait of a Lady, ch.1.
- 38 An Englishman's never so natural as when he's holding his tongue.
1881 Isabel Archer. The Portrait of a Lady, ch.10.
- 39 Money's a horrid thing to follow, but a charming thing to meet.
1881 Gilbert Osmond. The Portrait of a Lady, ch.35.
- 40 Art derives a considerable part of its beneficial exercise from flying in the face of presumptions.
1884 'The Art of Fiction', collected in Partial Portraits (1988).
- 41 The only obligation to which in advance we may hold a novel, without incurring the accusation of being arbitrary, is that it be interesting.
1884 'The Art of Fiction', collected in Partial Portraits (1888).
- 42 Experience is never limited, and it is never complete; it is an immense sensibility, a kind of huge spider-web of the finest silken threads suspended in the chamber of consciousness, and catching every air-borne particle in its tissue.
1884 'The Art of Fiction', collected in Partial Portraits (1888).
- 43 Try to be one of the people on whom nothing is lost!
1884 'The Art of Fiction', collected in Partial Portraits (1888).
- 44 What is character but the determination of incident? What is incident but the illustration of character?
1884 'The Art of Fiction', collected in Partial Portraits (1888).
- 45 The superiority of one man's opinion over another's is never so great as when the opinion is about a woman.
1890 The Tragic Muse, ch.9.
- 46 We work in the dark—we do what we can—we give what we have. Our doubt is in our passion and our passion is our task. The rest is madness.
1893 Dencombe speaking of the artist. 'The Middle Years', in Scribner's Magazine, May.
- 47 The time-honored bread-sauce of the happy ending.

- 48 Most English talk is a quadrille in a sentry box.
1899 The Duchess. The Awkward Age, bk.5, ch.4.
- 49 People talk about the conscience, but it seems to me one must just bring it up to a certain point and leave it there. You can let your conscience alone if you're nice to the second housemaid.
1899 Nanda Brookenham. The Awkward Age, bk.6, ch.3.
- 50 Live all you can; it's a mistake not to. It doesn't so much matter what you do in particular, so long as you have your life. If you haven't had that what have you had?
1903 Lambert Strether. The Ambassadors, bk.5, ch.11.
- 51 In art economy is always beauty.
1909 Preface for revised New York edn of The Altar of the Dead (first published 1895).

52 The terrible fluidity of self-revelation.

1909 Preface for revised New York edn of The Ambassadors (first published 1903).

53 I'm glad you like adverbs—I adore them; they are the only qualifications I really much respect.

1912 Letter to Miss M Bentham Edwards, 5 Jan, quoted in Percy Lubbock (ed) The Letters of Henry James (1920).

54 Summer afternoon—summer afternoon; to me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English language.

Quoted in Edith Wharton A Backward Glance (1934), ch.10, section 6.

55 So here it is at last, the distinguished thing!

Quoted in Edith Wharton A Backward Glance (1934), ch.14, section 3. According to Wharton, these were James's last words.

56 I hate American simplicity. I glory in the piling up of complications of every sort.

Remark to his niece. Quoted in Leon Edel The Letters of Henry James (1953–72), vol.4, introduction.

James (of Holland Park), P(hyllis) D(orothe) James, Baroness 1920–

English writer. She specializes in carefully detailed crime fiction.

57 I thought that writing a detective story would be a wonderful apprenticeship because, whatever people tell you, a crime novel is not easy to write well. As I continued with my craft I became increasingly fascinated by the form and realized that you can use the formula to say something true about men and women and the society in which they live.

1991 'Series Detectives', collected in Brown and Munro (eds) Writers Writing (1993).

58 Murder is a unique crime for which we can never make reparation.

1991 'Series Detectives', collected in Brown and Munro (eds) Writers Writing (1993).

James, William 1842–1910

US philosopher and psychologist, brother of Henry and Alice James. A 'radical empiricist', he is often considered the founder of pragmatism. The Principles of Psychology (1890) places psychology on a physiological basis. Other works include The Will to Believe (1897) and Pragmatism (1907).

59 Man lives by science as well as bread.

1875 Vivisection.

60 Metaphysics means nothing but an unusually obstinate effort to think clearly.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.6.

61 But facts are facts, and if we only get enough of them they are sure to combine.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.7.

62 The aim of science is always to reduce complexity to simplicity.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.9.

63 Consciousness, then, does not appear to itself chopped up in bits. Such words as 'chain' or 'train' do not describe it fitly as it presents itself in the first instance. It is nothing jointed; it flows. A 'river' or a 'stream' are the metaphors by which it is most naturally described. In talking of it hereafter, let us call it the stream of thought, of consciousness, or of subjective life.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.9. This is the coining of the phrase 'stream of consciousness', later applied to the narrative technique used by Joyce and others.

64 The baby, assailed by eyes, ears, nose, skin, and entrails at once, feels it all as one great blooming, buzzing confusion.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.13.

65 As the art of reading (after a certain stage in one's education) is the art of skipping, so the art of being wise is the art of knowing what to overlook.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.22.

66 Man is essentially the imitative animal. His whole educability and in fact the whole history of civilization depend on this trait, which his strong tendencies to rivalry, jealousy, and acquisitiveness reinforce.

1890 The Principles of Psychology, ch.24.

67 If this life be not a real fight, in which something is eternally gained for the universe by success, it is no better than a game of private theatricals from which one may withdraw at will.

1897 The Will to Believe.

68 Sobriety diminishes, discriminates, and says no; drunkenness expands, unites, and says yes.

1902 The Varieties of Religious Experience, 'Mysticism'.

69 The philosophy which is so important in each of us is not a technical matter; it is our more or less dumb sense of what life honestly and deeply means... it is our individual way of just seeing and feeling the total push and pressure of the cosmos.

1907 Pragmatism, lecture 1.

70 Tender-minded and tough-minded.

1907 His terms for two kinds of philosophical temperament. Pragmatism, lecture 1.

71 You must bring out of each word its practical cash-value, set it at work within the stream of your experience.

1907 Pragmatism, lecture 2.

72 First, you know, a new theory is attacked as absurd; then it is admitted to be true, but obvious and insignificant; finally it is seen to be so important that its adversaries claim that they themselves discovered it.

1907 Pragmatism, lecture 6.

73 'The true' to put it very briefly, is only the expedient in the way of our thinking, just as 'the right' is only the expedient in the way of our behaving.

1907 Pragmatism, lecture 6.

74 Many persons nowadays seem to think that any conclusion must be very scientific if the arguments in favor of it are derived from twitching of frogs' legs—especially if the frogs are decapitated—and that—on the other hand—any doctrine chiefly vouched for by the feelings of human beings—with heads on their shoulders—must be benighted and superstitious.

1907 Pragmatism.

1954 Pictures from an Institution, pt.4, ch.9.

- 86 You Americans do not rear children, you incite them; you give them food and shelter and applause.

1954 Pictures from an Institution, pt.4, ch.10.

- 87 Is an institution always a man's shadow shortened in the sun, the lowest common denominator of everybody in it?

1954 Pictures from an Institution, pt.5, ch.9.

- 88 One of the most obvious facts about grown-ups, to a child, is that they have forgotten what it is like to be a child.

Introduction to Christina Stead The Man Who Loved Children (1965).

Jarry, Alfred 1873–1907

French playwright and humorist, best known for the creation of the petty tyrant in Ubu Roi (1896), a play first written when he was only 15.

- 89 Quant à l'action, elle se passe en Pologne, c'est à dire, nulle part.

The action takes place in Poland; in other words, nowhere.

1896 Ubu Roi, introduction.

- 90 Mère Ubu, tu es bien laide aujourd'hui. Est-ce parce que nous avons du monde?

Mother Ubu, you are very ugly today. Is it because we have company?

- 96 From now on you can keep the lot.

Take every single thing you've got,
Your land, your wealth, your men, your dames,
Your dream of independent power,
And dear old Konrad Adenauer,
And stick them up your Eiffel Tower.

1963 On France's rejection of British membership of the Common Market, in Time, 8 Feb.

97 The great modern corporations are so similar to independent or semi-independent states of the past that they can only be fully understood in terms of political or constitutional history, and management can only be properly studied as a branch of government.

1967 Management and Machiavelli.

98 Efficiency... is measured at the extremities. You do not find the efficiency of an army at headquarters, nor of a firm in head office. It is at the remotest point—the private soldier or humble legionary on the distant frontier, the girl at the counter or the branch-office junior salesman—that the really decisive test of an army or a firm is made. It is there that all the instruction and knowledge of relevant facts and procedural disciplines bear fruit—or wither on the tree.

1967 Management and Machiavelli.

99 The bigger the organization, the fewer the jobs worth doing.

Jeffers, (John) Robinson 1887–1962

US poet and dramatist. A number of his works drew on themes from biblical stories and Greek drama. His veneration of nature often went hand in hand with a contempt for the works of humanity.

3 While this America settles in the mould of its vulgarity, heavily thickening to empire.

1924 Tamar and Other Poems, 'Shine, Perishing Republic'.

4 And boys, be in nothing so moderate as in love of man, a clever servant,
insufferable master.

1924 Tamar and Other Poems, 'Shine, Perishing Republic'.

5 The poet as well
Builds his monument mockingly;
For man will be blotted out, the blithe earth die, the brave sun
Die blind, his heart blackening:
Yet stones have stood for a thousand years, and pained thoughts found
The honey peace in old poems.

1924 Tamar and Other Poems, 'To the Stone-Cutters'.

6 The wing trails like a banner in defeat,
No more to use the sky forever but live with famine
And pain a few days.

1928 Cawdor, 'Hurt Hawks'.

7 He is strong and pain is worse to the strong, incapacity is worse.

1928 Cawdor, 'Hurt Hawks'.

8 The wild God of the world is sometimes merciful to those

That ask mercy, not often to the arrogant.

You do not know him, you communal people, or you have forgotten him;

Intemperate and savage, the hawk remembers him;
Beautiful and wild, the hawks, and men that are dying, remember him.

1928 Cawdor, 'Hurt Hawks'.

9 I'd sooner, except the penalties, kill a man than a hawk.

1928 Cawdor, 'Hurt Hawks'.

10 This wild swan of a world is no hunter's game.

Better bullets than yours would miss the white breast,
Better mirrors than yours would crack in the flame.

1935 Solstice, 'Love the Wild Swan'.

11 Praise life, it deserves praise, but the praise of life

That forgets the pain is a pebble

Ruttled in dry ground.

Jefferson, Thomas 1743–1826

US statesman, third President (1801–9). Prominent in the first Continental Congress (1774), he drafted the Declaration of Independence. His administration saw war with Tripoli, the Louisiana Purchase (1803) and the prohibition of the slave trade.

12 We hold these truths to be sacred and undeniable; that all men are created equal and independent; that from that equal creation they derive rights inherent and inalienable, among which are the preservation of life, and liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

c.1776 Draft of the American Declaration of Independence. Collected in JP Boyd et al Papers of Thomas Jefferson (1950), vol.1.

13 Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers, or newspapers without a government, I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter.

14 A little rebellion now and then is a good thing.

1787 Letter to James Madison, 30 Jan.

15 The tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants. It is its natural manure.

1787 Letter to WS Smith, 13 Nov.

16 A bill of rights is what the people are entitled to against every government on earth, general or particular, and what no just government should refuse or rest on inference.

1787 Letter to James Madison, 20 Dec.

17 I have seen enough of one war never to wish to see another.

1794 Letter to John Adams, 25 Apr.

18 I am for encouraging the progress of science in all its branches; and not for...aving the human mind by stories of raw-head and bloody bones to a distrust of its own vision and to repose implicitly on that of others.

1799 Letter, 26 Jan.

19 Equal and exact justice to all men...freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom of the person under the protection of the habeas corpus; and trial by juries impartially selected—these principles form the bright constellation that has gone before us.

1801 Inaugural address, 4 Mar.

20 When a man assumes a public trust, he should consider himself as public property.

1807 Letter to Baron von Humboldt.

21 Some men look at Constitutions with sanctimonious reverence and deem them like the Ark of the Covenant—too sacred to be touched.

1816 Letter to Samuel Kercheval, 12 Jul.

22 Games played with the ball, and others of that nature, are too violent for the body, and stamp no character on the mind.

28 It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do.

1886 Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow, 'On Being Idle'.

29 Love is like the measles; we all have to go through it.

1886 Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow, 'On Being in Love'.

30 We drink one another's healths, and spoil our own.

1886 Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow, 'On Eating and Drinking'.

31 It is a most extraordinary thing, but I never read a patent medicine advertisement without being impelled to the conclusion that I am suffering from the particular disease therein dealt with in its most virulent form.

1889 Three Men in a Boat, ch.1.

32 But there, everything has its drawbacks, as the man said when his mother-in-law died, and they came down upon him for the funeral expenses.

1889 Three Men in a Boat, ch.3.

33 I like work: it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours. I love to keep it by me: the idea of getting rid of it nearly breaks my heart.

1889 Three Men in a Boat, ch.15.

34 It is always the best policy to speak the truth—unless, of course, you are an exceptionally good liar.

1892 In The Idler (edited by Robert Barr and Jerome), Feb.

35 I want a house that has got over all its troubles; I don't want to spend the rest of my life bringing up a young and inexperienced house.

1909 They and I, ch.11.

36 I did not know I was a humorist. I have never been sure about it. In the middle ages, I should probably have gone about preaching and got myself burned or hanged.

1926 My Life and Times, ch.6.

- 44 Economics, if it is to be a science at all, must be a mathematical science.
1871 The Theory of Political Economy.
- 45 The point of equilibrium will be known by the criterion that an infinitely small amount of commodity exchanged in addition, at the same rate, will bring neither gain nor loss of utility.
1871 The Theory of Political Economy.
- 46 Labour once spent has no influence on the future value of any article; it is gone and lost for ever. In commerce by-gones are for ever by-gones; and we are always starting clear at each moment, judging the values of things with a view to future utility.
1871 The Theory of Political Economy.
- 47 All classes of society are trade unionists at heart, and differ chiefly in the boldness, ability, and secrecy with which they pursue their respective interests.
1882 The State in Relation to Labour, introduction.
- 48 It is requisite from time to time to remind one generation of the experience which led a former generation to important legislative actions.

1991 Remark, May. Quoted in Ross Merrill Mao (1993), introduction.

St Joan of Arc 1412–31

French patriot and saint. As a 13-year-old peasant she heard saintly voices bidding her to free Paris from the English, and in 1429 she led troops into Orleans and successfully raised the siege. She was later sold to the English, who burned her as a witch.

- 52 And as for you, archers, soldiers, gentlemen, and all others who are besieging Orleans, depart in God's name to your own country... I assure you that wherever I find your people in France I shall fight them, and pursue them, and expel them from here, whether they will or not.
1429 Letter to the English at Poitiers, 22 Mar. Quoted in Les Procès de Jeanne d'Arc (translated by C Larrington), p.33.
- 53 Si je n'y suis, Dieu m'y veuille mettre; et si j'y suis, Dieu m'y veuille tenir.

If I am not in grace, may God set me there; and if I am, may God keep me there.

1431 Quoted in the record of her trial at Rouen, 24 Feb.

Joel, Billy 1949–

US singer, pianist and songwriter.

- 54 The piano is a percussion instrument, like a drum. You don't strum a piano. You don't bow a piano. You bang and strike a piano. You beat the shit out of a piano.
2004 Rolling Stone, 15 Apr.

Pope John XXIII originally Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli 1881–1963

Italian prelate, Pope (1958–63). He convened the 21st Ecumenical Council and in 1963 issued the encyclical Pacem in Terris ('Peace on Earth'), advocating reconciliation between East and West.

- 55 In order to imbue civilization with sound principles and enliven it with the spirit of the gospel, it is not enough to be illumined with the gift of faith and enkindled with the desire of forwarding a good cause. For this end it is necessary to take an active part in the various organizations and influence them from within. And since our present age is one of outstanding scientific and technical progress and excellence, one will not be able to enter these organizations and work effectively from within unless he is scientifically competent, technically capable and skilled in the practice of his own profession.
1963 Pacem in Terris, 10 Apr.
- 56 If civil authorities legislate for or allow anything that is contrary to that order and therefore contrary to the will of God, neither the laws made or the authorizations granted can be binding on the consciences of the citizens, since God has more right to be obeyed than man.
1963 Pacem in Terris, 10 Apr.
- 57 The social progress, order, security and peace of each country are necessarily connected with the social progress, order, security and peace of all other countries.
1963 Pacem in Terris, 10 Apr.

- 33 I had done all I could; and no man is well pleased to have his all neglected, be it ever so little.
1755 Letter to Lord Chesterfield, 7 Feb. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 34 Is not a Patron, my lord, one who looks with unconcern on a man struggling for life in the water, and, when he has reached ground, encumbers him with help? The notice which you have been pleased to take of my labours, had it been early, had been kind; but it has been delayed till I am indifferent, and cannot enjoy it; till I am solitary, and cannot impart it; till I am known, and do not want it.
1755 Letter to Lord Chesterfield, 7 Feb. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 35 There are two things which I am confident I can do very well: one is an introduction to a literary work, stating what it is to contain, and how it should be executed in the most perfect manner; the other is a conclusion, shewing from various causes why the execution has not been equal to what the author promised to himself and to the public.
1755 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 36 If a man does not make new acquaintance as he advances through life, he will soon find himself left alone. A man, Sir, should keep his friendship in constant repair.
1755 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 37 Change is not made without inconvenience, even from worse to better.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 38 It is the fate of those who toil at the lower employments of life... to be exposed to censure, without hope of praise; to be disgraced by miscarriage or punished for neglect... Among these unhappy mortals is the writer of dictionaries... Every other author may aspire to praise; the lexicographer can only hope to escape reproach.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 39 I am not yet so lost in lexicography as to forget that words are the daughters of earth, and that things are the sons of heaven. Language is only the instrument of science, and words are but the signs of ideas: I wish, however, that the instrument might be less apt to decay, and that signs might be permanent, like the things which they denote.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 40 I have protracted my work till most of those whom I wished to please have sunk into the grave; and success and miscarriage are empty sounds.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 41 Every quotation contributes something to the stability or enlargement of the language.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 42 But these were the dreams of a poet doomed at last to wake a lexicographer.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 43 If the changes we fear be thus irresistible, what remains but to acquiesce with silence, as in the other insurmountable distresses of humanity? It remains that we retard what we cannot repel, that we palliate what we cannot cure.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language, preface.
- 44 Dull. To make dictionaries is dull work.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 45 Excise. A hateful tax levied upon commodities.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 46 Lexicographer. A writer of dictionaries, a harmless drudge.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 47 Net. Anything reticulated or decussated at equal distances, with interstices between the intersections.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 48 Oats. A grain, which in England is generally given to horses, but in Scotland supports the people.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 49 Patron. Commonly a wretch who supports with insolence, and is paid with flattery.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 50 Pension. Pay given to state hireling for treason to his country.
1755 A Dictionary of the English Language.
- 51 The only end of writing is to enable the readers better to enjoy life, or better to endure it.
1757 Reviewing Soame Jenyns A Free Inquiry into the Nature and Origin of Evil, in the Literary Magazine, Apr–Jul.
- 52 To us, who are regaled every morning and evening with intelligence, and are supplied from day to day with materials for conversation, it is difficult to conceive how man can subsist without a newspaper.
1758 In The Idler, no.7, 27 May.
- 53 When two Englishmen meet, their first talk is of the weather.
1758 In The Idler, no.11, 24 Jun.
- 54 To these compositions is required neither genius nor knowledge, neither industry nor spriteliness, but contempt of shame, and indifference to truth are absolutely necessary.
1758 Of journalistic reporting. In The Idler, no.31, 11 Nov.
- 55 Among the calamities of War may be justly numbered the diminution of the love of truth, by the falsehoods which interest dictates and credulity encourages.
1758 In The Idler, no.31, 11 Nov.
- 56 Nothing is more hopeless than a scheme of merriment.
1759 In The Idler, no.58, 26 May.
- 57 The Europeans have scarcely visited any coast, but to gratify avarice, and extend corruption; to arrogate dominion without right, and practice cruelty without incentive... But there is reason to hope... that the light of the gospel will at last illuminate the sands of Africa, and

- the deserts of America, though its progress cannot but be slow when it is so much obstructed by the lives of Christians.
1759 Introduction to The World Displayed.
- 58 Marriage has many pains, but celibacy has no pleasures.
1759 Rasselas, ch.26.
- 59 No man will be a sailor who has contrivance enough to get himself into jail; for being in a ship is being in a jail, with the chance of being drowned. . . . A man in a jail has more room, better food, and commonly better company.
1759 Remark, 16 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 60 Liberty is, to the lowest rank of every nation, little more than the choice of working or starving.
1760 'The Bravery of the English Common Soldier', in The British Magazine, Jan.
- 61 The notion of liberty amuses the people of England, and helps to keep off the taedium vitae. When a butcher tells you that his heart bleeds for his country he has, in fact, no uneasy feeling.
1763 Remark, 16 May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 62 Yes, Sir, many men, many women, and many children.
1763 Remark, 16 May, on being asked if any man of a modern age could have written Ossian. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 63 The noblest prospect which a Scotchman ever sees, is the high road that leads him to England!
1763 Remark, 6 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 64 A man ought to read just as inclination leads him; for what he reads as a task will do him little good.
1763 Remark, 14 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 65 But if he does really think that there is no distinction between virtue and vice, why, Sir, when he leaves our houses, let us count our spoons.
1763 Remark, 14 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 66 A man with a good coat upon his back meets with a better reception than he who has a bad one.
1763 Remark, 20 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 67 All the arguments which are brought to represent poverty as no evil, show it to be evidently a great evil. You never find people labouring to convince you that you may live very happily upon a plentiful fortune.
1763 Remark, 20 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 68 Truth, Sir, is a cow, that will yield such people no more milk, and so they are gone to milk the bull.
1763 Of sceptics. Remark, 21 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 69 Young men have more virtue than old men; they have more generous sentiments in every respect.
1763 Remark, 21 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 70 In my early years I read very hard. It is a sad reflection, but a true one, that I knew almost as much at eighteen as I do now.
1763 Remark, 21 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 71 Your levellers wish to level down as far as themselves; but they cannot bear levelling up to themselves.
1763 Remark, 21 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 72 It is burning a farthing candle at Dover, to shew light at Calais.
1763 Summarizing the influence of the plays of Thomas Sheridan upon English literature, 28 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 73 Sir, a woman's preaching is like a dog walking on its hinder legs. It is not done well; but you are surprised to find it done at all.
1763 Remark, 31 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 74 He who does not mind his belly will hardly mind any thing else.
1763 Remark, 5 Aug. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 75 'I refute it thus.'
1763 Johnson refutes Bishop Berkeley's theory of the non-existence of matter by kicking a large stone, 6 Aug. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 76 Nature has given women so much power that the law has very wisely given them little.
1763 Letter to John Taylor, 18 Aug.
- 77 A very unclubbable man.
1764 Of Sir John Hawkins. Remark quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.1.
- 78 Nothing can please many, and please long, but just representations of general nature.
1765 Plays of William Shakespeare, preface.
- 79 He that tries to recommend him by select quotations, will succeed like the pedant in Hierocles, who, when he offered his house to sale, carried a brick in his pocket as a specimen.
1765 Of Shakespeare. Plays of William Shakespeare, preface.
- 80 Love is only one of many passions.
1765 Plays of William Shakespeare, preface.
- 81 Notes are often necessary, but they are necessary evils.
1765 Plays of William Shakespeare, preface.
- 82 That all who are happy, are equally happy, is not true. A peasant and a philosopher may be equally satisfied, but not equally happy. Happiness consists in the multiplicity of agreeable consciousness.
1766 Remark, Feb. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 83 It is our first duty to serve society, and, after we have done that, we may attend wholly to the salvation of our own souls. A youthful passion for abstracted devotion should not be encouraged.
1766 Remark, Feb. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 84 Our tastes greatly alter. The lad does not care for the child's rattle, and the old man does not care for the young man's whore.
1766 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 85 It was not for me to bandy civilities with my sovereign.
1767 Remark, Feb. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 86 Now, sir, there is the liberty of the press, which you know is a constant topic. Suppose you and I and two hundred

- more were restrained from printing our thoughts: what then? What proportion would that restraint upon us bear to the private happiness of the nation?
1768 Remark, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 87 Sir, if a man has a mind to prance, he must study at Christ-Church and All-Souls.
1769 Remark, Autumn. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 88 We know our will is free, and there's an end on't.
1769 Remark, 16 Oct. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 89 It matters not how a man dies, but how he lives. The act of dying is not of importance, it lasts so short a time.
1769 Remark, 26 Oct. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 90 That fellow seems to me to possess but one idea, and that is a wrong one.
1770 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 91 The triumph of hope over experience.
1770 On a friend's second marriage shortly after the death of his first, troublesome, wife. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 92 I do not care to speak ill of any man behind his back, but I believe the gentleman is an attorney.
1770 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 93 Every man has a lurking wish to appear considerable in his native place.
1771 Letter to Sir Joshua Reynolds, 17 Jul. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 94 I would not give half a guinea to live under one form of government rather than another. It is of no moment to the happiness of an individual.
1772 Remark, 31 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 95 There is more knowledge of the heart in one letter of Richardson's, than in all Tom Jones.
1772 Remark, 6 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 96 Grief is a species of idleness.
1773 Letter to Mrs Thrale, whose son had just died, 17 Mar.
- 97 He has, indeed, done it very well; but it is a foolish thing well done.
1773 Of Oliver Goldsmith, who had responded to Thomas Evans's uncomplimentary open letter with a physical assault, and then published an apology in the London Chronicle. Remark, 3 Apr. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 98 Read over your compositions, and where ever you meet with a passage which you think is particularly fine, strike it out.
1773 Remark, 30 Apr, quoting an old college tutor. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 99 A lawyer has no business with the justice or injustice of the cause which he undertakes, unless his client asks his opinion, and then he is bound to give it honestly. The justice or injustice of the cause is to be decided by the judge.
1773 Remark, 15 Aug. Quoted in James Boswell The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides (1785).
- 1 I inherited a vile melancholy from my father, which has made me mad all my life, at least not sober.
1773 Remark, 16 Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides (1785).
- 2 I am always sorry when any language is lost, because languages are the pedigrees of nations.
1773 Remark, 18 Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides (1785).
- 3 A cucumber should be well sliced, and dressed with pepper and vinegar, and then thrown out, as good for nothing.
1773 Remark, 5 Oct. Quoted in James Boswell The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides (1785).
- 4 At seventy-seven it is time to be in earnest.
1775 A Journey to the Western Isles of Scotland, 'Col'.
- 5 There are few ways in which a man can be so innocently employed than in getting money.
1775 Remark, 27 Mar. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2. This is sometimes rendered 'A man is seldom so innocently occupied as when he is making money.'
- 6 It is wonderful, when a calculation is made, how little the mind is actually employed in the discharge of any profession.
1775 Remark, 6 Apr. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 7 The greatest part of a writer's time is spent in reading, in order to write: a man will turn over half a library to make one book.
1775 Remark, 6 Apr. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 8 Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel.
1775 Remark, 7 Apr. Collected in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 9 Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it.
1775 Remark, 18 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 10 Politics are now nothing more than means of rising in the world.
1775 Remark, 18 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 11 Players, Sir! I look upon them as no better than creatures set upon tables and joint stools to make faces and produce laughter, like dancing dogs.
1775 Letter to James Macpherson.
- 12 How is it that we hear the loudest yelps for liberty among the drivers of negroes?
1775 Taxation No Tyranny.
- 13 In lapidary inscriptions a man is not upon oath.
1775 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 14 There is nothing which has yet been contrived by man, by which so much happiness is produced as by a good tavern or inn.
1776 Remark, 21 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 15 Marriages would in general be as happy, and often more so, if they were all made by the Lord Chancellor, upon a due consideration of characters and circumstances, without the parties having any choice in the matter.
1776 Remark, 22 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.

- 16 I had often wondered why young women should marry, as they have so much more freedom, and so much more attention paid to them while unmarried, than when married.
1776 Remark, 25 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 17 Fine clothes are good only as they supply the want of other means of procuring respect.
1776 Remark, 27 Mar. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.2.
- 18 Consider, Sir, how should you like, though conscious of your innocence, to be tried before a jury for a capital crime, once a week.
1776 Remark, 3 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 19 We would all be idle if we could.
1776 Remark, 3 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 20 No man but a blockhead ever wrote, except for money.
1776 Remark, 5 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 21 It is better that some should be unhappy than that none should be happy, which would be the case in a general state of equality.
1776 Remark, 7 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 22 A man who has not been in Italy, is always conscious of an inferiority, from his not having seen what it is expected a man should see.
1776 Remark, 11 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 23 Every man of any education would rather be called a rascal, than accused of deficiency in the graces.
1776 Remark, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 24 Sir, you have but two topics, yourself and me. I am sick of both.
1776 Remark, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 25 If I had no duties, and no reference to futurity, I would spend my life in driving briskly in a post-chaise with a pretty woman.
1777 Remark, 19 Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 26 Depend upon it, Sir, when a man knows he is to be hanged in a fortnight, it concentrates his mind wonderfully.
1777 Remark, 19 Sep, alluding to the forthcoming execution of Dr Dodd. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 27 When a man is tired of London, he is tired of life; for there is in London all that life can afford.
1777 Remark, 20 Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 28 All argument is against it; but all belief is for it.
1778 Remark, 31 Mar, on the existence of ghosts. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 29 Seeing Scotland, Madam, is only seeing a worse England.
1778 Remark quoted in a letter to Boswell, 7 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 30 The more contracted that power is, the more easily it is destroyed. A country governed by a despot is an inverted cone.
1778 Remark, 14 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 31 As the Spanish proverb says, 'He, who would bring home the wealth of the Indies, must carry the wealth of the Indies with him.' So it is in travelling; a man must carry knowledge with him, if he would bring home knowledge.
1778 Remark, 17 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 32 Sir, the insolence of wealth will creep out.
1778 Remark, 18 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 33 Wine makes a man better pleased with himself. I do not say that it makes him more pleasing to others.
1778 Remark, 28 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 34 BOSWELL: There is more learning in their [Chinese] language than in any other, from the immense number of their characters.
 JOHNSON: It is only more difficult from its rudeness, as there is more labour in hewing down a tree with a stone than with an axe.
1778 Conversation, 8 May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 35 Were it not for imagination, Sir, a man would be as happy in the arms of a chambermaid as of a Duchess.
1778 Remark, 9 May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 36 A man who exposes himself when he is intoxicated, has not the art of getting drunk.
1779 Remark, 24 Apr. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 37 Claret is the liquor for boys; port, for men; but he who aspires to be a hero [smiling] must drink brandy.
1779 Remark, 7 Aug. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 38 Remember that all tricks are either knavish or childish.
1779 Letter to Boswell, 9 Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 39 BOSWELL: Is not the Giant's Causeway worth seeing?
 JOHNSON: Worth seeing? Yes, but not worth going to see.
1779 Conversation, 12 Oct. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 40 If you are idle, be not solitary; if you are solitary, be not idle.
1779 Letter to Boswell, 27 Oct. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.3.
- 41 Trade could not be managed by those who manage it, if it had much difficulty.
1779 Letter to Hester Thrale, 16 Nov.
- 42 The true genius is a mind of large general powers, accidentally determined to some particular direction.
1779–81 Lives of the English Poets, 'Cowley'.
- 43 The father of English criticism.
1779–81 Of Dryden. Lives of the English Poets, 'Dryden'.
- 44 To charge all unmerited praise with the guilt of flattery, and to suppose that the encomiast always knows and feels the falsehood of his assertions, is surely to discover great ignorance of human nature and human life. In determinations depending not on rules, but on

- experience and comparison, judgement is always to some degree subject to affection. Very near to admiration is the wish to admire.
1779–81 Lives of the English Poets, 'Halifax'.
- 45 It...had the effect, as was ludicrously said, of making Gay rich, and Rich gay.
1779–81 Of the Beggar's Opera, written by Gay and produced by Rich. Lives of the English Poets, 'John Gay'.
- 46 An exotic and irrational entertainment.
1779–81 Of Italian opera. Lives of the English Poets, 'Hughes'.
- 47 I am disappointed by that stroke of death, which has eclipsed the gaiety of nations, and impoverished the public stock of harmless pleasure.
1779–81 His tribute to the recently deceased actor David Garrick. Lives of the English Poets, 'Edmund Smith'.
- 48 Every man has a right to utter what he thinks truth, and every other man has a right to knock him down for it. Martyrdom is the test.
1780 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 49 Depend upon it, said he, that if a man talks of his misfortunes there is something in them that is not disagreeable to him; for where there is nothing but pure misery, there never is any recourse to the mention of it.
1780 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 50 A wise Tory and a wise Whig, I believe, will agree. Their principles are the same, though their modes of thinking are different.
1781 Written note given to Boswell, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 51 Classical quotations is the parole of literary men all over the world.
1781 Remark, 8 May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 52 Sir, I have two very cogent reasons for not printing any list of subscribers;—one, that I have lost all the names,—the other, that I have spent all the money.
1781 Remark, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 53 Why, that is, because, dearest, you're a dunce.
1781 To Lady Corke, who had said that she was affected by Sterne's writings. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 54 Always, Sir, set a high value on spontaneous kindness. He whose inclination prompts him to cultivate your friendship of his own accord, will love you more than one whom you have been at pains to attract to you.
1781 Remark, May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 55 I hate a fellow whom pride, or cowardice, or laziness drives into a corner, and who does nothing when he is there but sit and growl; let him come out as I do, and bark.
1782 Remark, 10 Oct, alluding to Jeremiah Markland. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 56 Resolve not to be poor; whatever you have, spend less. Poverty is a great enemy to human happiness; it certainly destroys liberty, and it makes some virtues impracticable, and others extremely difficult.
1782 Letter to Boswell, 7 Dec. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 57 How few of his friends' houses would a man choose to be at when he is sick.
1783 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 58 There is a wicked inclination in most people to suppose an old man decayed in his intellects. If a young or middle-aged man, when leaving a company, does not recollect where he laid his hat, it is nothing; but if the same inattention is discovered in an old man, people will shrug up their shoulders, and say, 'His memory is going.'
1783 Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 59 Sir, there is no settling the point of precedency between a louse and a flea.
1783 On the relative merits of two minor poets. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 60 My dear friend, clear your mind of cant... You may talk in this manner; it is a mode of talking in Society: but don't think foolishly.
1783 Remark, 15 May. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 61 It is as bad as bad can be: it is ill-fed, ill-killed, ill-kept, and ill-drest.
1783 Of the roast mutton he was served at an inn, 3 Jun. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 62 As I know more of mankind I expect less of them, and am ready now to call a man a good man, upon easier terms than I was formerly.
1783 Remark, Sep. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 63 Milton, Madam, was a genius that could cut a Colossus from a rock; but could not carve heads upon cherry-stones.
1784 Remark to Hannah More, 13 Jun, who had commented with surprise that Milton's sonnets failed to compare with his epic Paradise Lost. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 64 Talking of the Comedy of 'The Rehearsal', he said 'It has not enough wit to keep it sweet.' This was easy;—he therefore caught himself, and pronounced a more rounded sentence; 'It has not vitality enough to preserve it from putrefaction.'
1784 Remark, Jun. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 65 Sir, I have found you an argument; but I am not obliged to find you an understanding.
1784 Remark, Jun. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 66 No man is a hypocrite in his pleasures.
1784 Remark, Jun. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 67 Dictionaries are like watches, the worst is better than none, and the best cannot be expected to go quite true.
1784 Letter to Francesco Sastres, 21 Aug. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 68 Sir, I look upon every day to be lost, in which I do not make a new acquaintance.
1784 Remark, Nov. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.
- 69 I will be conquered; I will not capitulate.
1784 Of his increasing ill health, Nov. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.

70 An odd thought strikes me:—we shall receive no letters in the grave.

1784 Remark, Dec. Quoted in James Boswell The Life of Samuel Johnson (1791), vol.4.

71 Difficult do you call it, Sir? I wish it were impossible.

Of the playing of a famous violinist. Quoted in G B Hill Johnsonian Miscellanies, vol.2 (1784).

72 It is the only sensual pleasure without vice.

1784 Of music. Quoted in Sir John Hawkins Johnsoniana (1787).

73 I would rather see the portrait of a dog that I know, than all the allegorical paintings they can show me in the world.

Quoted in Mrs Piozzi Anecdotes of the Late Samuel Johnson (1786).

74 Corneille is to Shakespeare... as a clipped hedge is to a forest.

Quoted in Mrs Piozzi Anecdotes of the Late Samuel Johnson (1786).

75 It is very strange, and very melancholy, that the paucity of human pleasures should persuade us ever to call hunting one of them.

Quoted in Mrs Piozzi Anecdotes of the Late Samuel Johnson (1786).

76 Of all noises I think music the least disagreeable.

Quoted in The Morning Chronicle, 1816.

77 Fly fishing may be a very pleasant amusement; but angling or float fishing I can only compare to a stick and a string, with a worm at one end and a fool at the other.

Quoted in Hawker Instructions to Young Sportsmen (1859). The attribution is doubtful, and Swift has also been credited with the remark.

78 The use of travelling is to regulate imagination by reality, and instead of thinking how things may be, to see them as they are.

Jonson, Ben 1572–1637

English dramatist. Imprisoned for killing a man in a duel, he became a Catholic but later recanted. His plays reject romantic comedy for a more realistic mode and include Volpone (1606), The Silent Woman (1609) and The Alchemist (1610). He was regarded as superior to Shakespeare in his day.

8 Well, I will scourge those apes,
And to these courteous eyes oppose a mirror,
As large as is the stage whereon we act;
Where they shall see the time's deformity
Anatomised in every nerve, and sinew,
With constant courage, and contempt of fear.

- Another woman, such a hail of words
She has let fall.
1609 Of Lady Politic Would-be. Volpone, act 3, sc.5.
- 21 Come, my Celia, let us prove,
While we can, the sports of love,
Time will not be ours for ever,
He, at length, our good will sever;
Spend not then his gifts in vain:
Suns that set may rise again;
But if once we lose this light,
'Tis with us perpetual night.
Why should we defer our joys?
Fame and rumour are but toys.
1609 Volpone, 'Song', act 3, sc.7.
- 22 His soul moves in his fee.
1609 Of the lawyer. Volpone, act 4, sc.5.
- 23 I'd have your tongue, sir, tipped with gold for this.
1609 Volpone, act 4, sc.6.
- 24 A pox of her autumnal face, her pieced beauty!
1609-10 Epicoene, act 1, sc.1.
- 25 Still to be neat, still to be drest,
As you were going to a feast;
Still to be powdered, still perfumed,
Lady, it is to be presumed,
Though art's hid causes are not found,
All is not sweet, all is not sound.

Give me a look, give me a face,
That makes simplicity a grace;
Robes loosely flowing, hair as free:
Such sweet neglect more taketh me,
Than all the adulteries of art;
They strike mine eyes, but not my heart.
1609-10 Epicoene, act 1, sc.1.
- 26 Let me see: all discourses but mine own afflict me; they seem harsh, impertinent, and irksome.
1609-10 Epicoene, act 2, sc.1.
- 27 A man of your head and hair should owe more to that reverend ceremony, and not mount the marriage bed like a town-bull, or a mountain-goat; but stay the due season and ascend it then with religion and fear.
1609-10 Epicoene, act 3, sc.5.
- 28 Fortune, that favours fools.
1610 The Alchemist, act 1, sc.4.
- 29 [The play] is like to be a very conceited scurvy one, in plain English.
1614 Bartholomew Fair, Induction.
- 30 WIN LITTLEWIT: Come, indeed, la, you are such a fool, still!
LITTLEWIT: No, but half a one, Win; you are the t'other half:
man and wife make one fool, Win.
1614 Bartholomew Fair, act 1, sc.1.
- 31 He is a fellow of a most arrogant and invincible dullness, I assure you.
1614 Bartholomew Fair, act 1, sc.1.
- 32 There is a doing of right out of wrong, if the ways be found.
1614 Bartholomew Fair, act 2, sc.2.
- 33 I see compassion may become a justice, though it be a weakness, I confess, and nearer a vice than a virtue.
1614 Bartholomew Fair, act 4, sc.2.
- 34 There's reason good, that you good laws should make:
Men's manners ne'er were viler, for your sake.
1616 Epigrams, 'To the Parliament'.
- 35 Nor shall our cups make any guilty men:
But, at our parting, we will be, as when
We innocently met. No simple word,
That shall be utter'd at our mirthful board,
Shall make us sad next morning: or affright
The liberty, that we'll enjoy tonight.
1616 Epigrams, 'On Inviting a Friend to Supper'.
- 36 Thou art not, Penshurst, built to envious show
Of touch or marble, nor canst boast a row
Of polished pillars, or a roof of gold;
Thou hast no lantern whereof tales are told,
Or stair, or courts; but standst an ancient pile,
And these grudged at, art revered the while.
1616 The Forest, 'To Penshurst'.
- 37 Then hath thy orchard fruit, thy garden flowers,
Fresh as the air, and new as are the hours.
The early cherry, with the later plum,
Fig, grape, and quince, each in his time doth come:
The blushing apricot, and woolly peach
Hang on thy walls, that every child may reach.
1616 The Forest, 'To Penshurst'.
- 38 Freedom doth with degree dispense.
1616 The Forest, 'To Sir Robert Wroth'.
- 39 Nor for my peace will I go far,
As wanderers do, that still do roam,
But make my strengths, such as they are,
Here in my bosom, and at home.
1616 The Forest, 'To the World'.
- 40 Drink to me, only, with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss but in the cup,
And I'll not look for wine.
1616 The Forest, 'To Celia'.
- 41 'Tis grown almost a danger to speak true
Of any good mind, now: There are so few.
1616 The Forest, 'Epistle to Katherine, Lady Aubigny'.
- 42 Rest in soft peace, and, asked, say here doth lie
Ben Jonson his best piece of poetry.
1616 'On My First Son'.
- 43 Soul of the Age!
The applause, delight, the wonder of our stage!
1623 'To the Memory of My Beloved, the Author, Mr. William Shakespeare, and What He Hath Left Us'.
- 44 Thou hadst small Latin, and less Greek.
1623 'To the Memory of My Beloved, the Author, Mr. William Shakespeare, and What He Hath Left Us', prefatory dedication to the first folio of Shakespeare's plays.
- 45 He was not of an age, but for all time!
1623 'To the Memory of My Beloved, the Author, Mr. William Shakespeare, and What He Hath Left Us', prefatory dedication to the first folio of Shakespeare's plays.
- 46 Sweet Swan of Avon! What a sight it were
To see thee in our waters yet appear,
And make those flights upon the banks of Thames
That so did take Eliza, and our James!
1623 'To the Memory of My Beloved, the Author, Mr. William Shakespeare, and What He Hath Left Us', prefatory dedication to the first folio of Shakespeare's plays.

47 O rare Ben Jonson.

1637 His epitaph in Westminster Abbey. It is thought that the words were inscribed on his gravestone at the order of a certain Sir John Young, possibly in error for 'Orare Ben Jonson' ('Pray for Ben Jonson').

48 For Love's sake, kiss me once again,
I long, and should not beg in vain,

Here's none to spy, or see;
Why do you doubt, or stay?
I'll taste as lightly as the Bee,
That doth but touch his flower, and flies away.
Once more, and (faith) I will be gone:
Can he that loves, ask less than one?

- 78 One man is as good as another until he has written a book.
Quoted in Evelyn Abbott and Lewis Campbell (eds) Life and Letters of Benjamin Jowett (1897), vol.1.
- 79 Nowhere probably is there more true feeling, and nowhere worse taste, than in a churchyard.
Quoted in Evelyn Abbott and Lewis Campbell (eds) Letters of Benjamin Jowett (1899), ch.6.

Joyce, James Augustine Aloysius 1882–1941

Irish writer who lived in exile on the Continent and was plagued for most of his life with deteriorating eyesight. His fiction includes Dubliners (1914), Ulysses (1922), one of the most influential works of 20c fiction, and Finnegans Wake (1939).

- 80 'O, pa!' he cried. 'Don't beat me, pa! And I'll... I'll say a Hail Mary for you... I'll say a Hail Mary for you, pa, if you don't beat me.'
1914 Dubliners; 'Counterparts'.
- 81 His soul swooned slowly as he heard the snow falling faintly through the universe and faintly falling, like the descent of their last end, upon all the living and the dead.
1914 Dubliners; 'The Dead'.

- 82 The fellows were practising long shies and bowling lobs and slow twisters. In the soft grey silence he could hear the bump of the balls: and from here and from there through the quiet air the sound of the cricket bats: pick, pack, pock, puck: like drops of water in a fountain falling

- softly in the brimming bowl.
1916 A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man.
- 83 At the door Dante turned round violently and shouted down the room, her cheeks flushed and quivering with rage:
 —Devil out of hell! We won! We crushed him to death! Fiend!
 The door slammed behind her. Mr Casey, freeing his arms from his holders, suddenly bowed his head on his hands with a sob of pain.
 —Poor Parnell! he cried loudly. My dead king!
1916 A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man.
- 84 The snotgreen sea. The scrotumtightening sea.
1922 Ulysses.
- 85 It is a symbol of Irish art. The cracked looking-glass of a servant.
1922 Ulysses.
- 86 When I makes tea I makes tea, as old mother Grogan said. And when I makes water I makes water... Begob, ma'am, says Mrs. Cahill, God send you don't make them in the one pot.
1922 Ulysses.
- 87 History, Stephen said, is a nightmare from which I am trying to awake.
1922 Ulysses.
- 88 Lawn Tennyson, gentleman poet.
1922 Ulysses.
- 89 Come forth, Lazarus! And he came fifth and lost the job.
1922 Ulysses.
- 90 A man of genius makes no mistakes. His errors are volitional and are the portals of discovery.
1922 Ulysses.
- 91 Greater love than this, he said, no man hath that a man lay down his wife for his friend. Go thou and do likewise. Thus, or words to that effect, saith Zarathustra, sometime regius professor of French letters to the university of Oxtail.
1922 Ulysses.
- 92 Mr. Leopold Bloom ate with relish the inner organs of beasts and fowls. He liked thick giblet soup, nutty gizzards, a stuffed roast heart; liver slices fried with crustcrumbs, fried hencod's roes. Most of all he liked grilled mutton kidneys which gave to his palate a fine tang of faintly scented urine.
1922 Ulysses.
- 93 A woman loses a charm with every pin she takes out.
1922 Ulysses.
- 94 Heavenly weather. If life was always like that. Cricket weather. Sit around under sunshades. Over after over. Out. They can't play it here. Still, Captain Buller broke a window in Kildare Street Club with a slog to square leg.
1922 Ulysses. Legend has it that W G Grace performed the feat of breaking the Kildare Street Club window while playing at the distant College Park in the 1870s.
- 95 Her crocus dress she wore, lowcut, belongings on show.
1922 Ulysses.
- 96 yes and how he kissed me under the Moorish wall and I thought well as well him as another and then I asked him with my eyes to ask again yes and then he asked me would I yes to say yes my mountain flower and first I put my arms around him yes and drew him down to me so he could feel my breasts all perfume yes and his heart was going like mad and yes I said yes I will Yes.
1922 Ulysses, last words.
- 97 I read the first 2 pages of the usual sloppy English and [Stuart Gilbert] read me a lyrical bit about nudism in the wood and the end which is a piece of propaganda in favour of something which, outside of D. H. L.'s country at any rates, makes all the propaganda for itself.
1931 On D H Lawrence's Lady Chatterley's Lover. Letter to Harriet Weaver, 17 Dec.
- 98 That ideal reader suffering from an ideal insomnia.
1939 Finnegans Wake.
- 99 Gentes and laitymen, fullstoppers and semicolonials, hybrids and lubberds!
1939 Finnegans Wake.
- 1 All moanday, tearsday, wailsday, thumpsday, frightday, shatterday till the fear of the Law.
1939 Finnegans Wake.

Joyce, Nora d.1951

Wife of James Joyce.

- 2 Well, Jim, I haven't read any of your books but I'll have to someday because they must be good considering how well they sell.
 To her husband James Joyce. Recalled on her death, 12 Apr 1951.

Joyce, William known as Lord Haw Haw 1906–46

Julian of Norwich known as Lady Julian c.1342–1416

English anchoress, who spent much of her life enclosed in a cell attached to the Church of St Julian, Norwich. In 1373 she experienced a series of religious visions which she set down in her Revelations of Divine Love.

- 4 He showed me something small, no bigger than a hazelnut, lying in the palm of my hand, as it seemed to me, and it was as round as a ball. I looked at it with the eye of my understanding, and thought: What can this be? I was amazed that it could last, for I thought that because of its littleness it would suddenly have fallen into nothing. And I was answered in my understanding: It lasts and always will, because God loves it; and thus every thing has being through the love of God.
1373–c.1393 Revelations of Divine Love, ch.5.
- 5 It is true that sin is the cause of all this pain; but all shall be well, and all shall be well, and all manner of things shall be well.
1373–c.1393 Revelations of Divine Love, ch.27.
- 6 Pray inwardly, even though you do not enjoy it. It does good though you feel nothing, even though you think you are doing nothing.
1373–c.1393 Revelations of Divine Love, ch.41.

Kael, Pauline 1919–2001

US film critic. She was film critic of the New Yorker from 1968 to 1991.

- 22 The words 'Kiss Kiss Bang Bang' which I saw on an Italian movie poster, are perhaps the briefest statement imaginable of the basic appeal of movies.
1968 Kiss Kiss Bang Bang.
- 23 Good movies make you care, make you believe in possibilities again.
1970 Going Steady.

Kafka, Franz 1883–1924

Czech novelist and short-story writer who wrote in German. After studying law he worked in Prague at a workers' accident insurance company. He is best known for his bleak studies of the absurdity of the human condition.

- 24 Ich glaube, mann sollte überhaupt nur solche Bücher lesen, die einen beißen und stechen.

I think we ought to read only the kind of books that wound and stab us.

1904 Letter to Oskar Pollack. Collected in Richard and Clara Winston (eds and trans) Letters to Friends, Family, and Editors (1977).

- 25 Ist es schwer und kann es ein Außenseiter begreifen, dass man eine Geschichte von ihrem Anfang in sich erlebt, vom fernen Punkt bis zu der heranfahrenden Lokomotive aus Stahl, Kohl und Dampf, sie aber auch jetzt noch nicht verlässt, sondern von ihr gejagt wird und aus eigenem Schwung vor ihr läuft, wohin sie nur stößt und wohin man sie lockt.

It is so difficult and can an outsider understand that you experience a story within yourself from its beginning, from the distant point up to the approaching locomotive of steel, coal and steam, and you don't abandon it even now, but want to be pursued by it and have time for it, therefore are pursued by it and of your own volition run before it wherever it may thrust and wherever you may lure it.

1911 Diary entry, Aug. Collected in Max Brod (ed) The Diaries of Franz Kafka, 1910–1913 (1948).

- 26 Als Gregor Samsa eines Morgens aus unruhigen Träumen erwachte, fand er sich in seinem Bett zu einem ungeheueren Ungeziefer verwandelt.

When Gregor Samsa awoke one morning from uneasy dreams he found himself transformed in his bed into a gigantic insect.

1915 Metamorphosis, ch.1.

It is often safer to be in chains than to be free.

1925 Der Prozess (translated as The Trial, 1937).

- 28 Ich bin so weit, dass ich Gewissheit gar nicht haben will.

I have reached the stage where I no longer wish to have certainty.

'Der Bau', collected in Nahum N Glatzer (ed) The Complete Stories (1971).

- 29 Er lächelte und sagte: 'Von mir willst du den Weg erfahren?' 'Ja,' sagte ich, 'da ich ihn selbst nicht finden kann.' 'Gibs auf, gib auf,' sagte er und wandte sich mit einem großen Schwunge ab, so wie Leute, die mit ihrem Lachen allein sein wollen.

He smiled and said: 'You asking me the way?' 'Yes,' I said, 'since I cannot find it myself.' 'Give it up! Give it up!' said he, and turned with a sudden jerk, like someone who wants to be alone with his laughter.

'Gibs Auf!', collected in Nahum N Glatzer (ed) The Complete Stories (1971).

Kahn, Gus 1886–1941

US lyricist and author. He supplied the lyrics for many classic hit songs of the 1920s and 1930s, among them 'Toot, Toot, Tootsie', 'Carolina in the Morning', 'Yes Sir, That's My Baby', and 'Makin' Whoopee'.

- 30 There's nothing surer,
The rich get rich and the poor get children.
In the meantime, in between time,
Ain't we got fun.
1921 'Ain't We Got Fun' (with Raymond B Egan).
- 31 All God's Chillum Got Rhythm.
1937 Title of song.

Kaiko, Takeshi 1930–89

Japanese novelist. His first novel to be translated into English was Darkness in Summer (1972).

- 32 I don't trust anybody who's never eaten bread with the salt of tears.

1963 'The Laughing Stock', in Five Thousand Runaways (translated by Cecilia Segawa Seigle).

- 33 Late one morning, I awoke in the capital of a certain country and found myself—not changed overnight into a large brown beetle, nor feeling exactly on top of the world—merely ready to go home.

1978 'The Crushed Pellet', in Five Thousand Runaways (translated by Cecilia Segawa Seigle).

Kames, Henry Home, Lord 1696–1782

- 34 Fare ye a' weel, ye bitches!

1782 His alleged words on taking leave of his fellow judges in the Court of Session. He died eight days later. Quoted in Robert Chambers Traditions of Edinburgh (1824), 'The Parliament House'.

Kandinsky, Wassily 1866–1944

Russian-born painter and writer on art. He was an important pioneer of abstract art. With Franz Marc he edited the Blaue Reiter Almanac.

- 35 The force that propels the human spirit on the clear way forward and upward is the abstract spirit.

1912 'On the Question of Form', in Blaue Reiter Almanac.

- 36 We should never make a god out of form. We should struggle for form only as long as it serves as a means of expression for the inner sound.

1912 'On the Question of Form', in Blaue Reiter Almanac.

- 37 Every work of art is the child of its time, often it is the mother of our emotions.

1912 Concerning the Spiritual in Art.

- 38 In general, therefore, color is a means of exerting a direct influence upon the soul. Color is the keyboard. The eye is the hammer. The soul is the piano, with its many strings. Quoted in K C Lindsay and P Vergo (eds and trans) Kandinsky: Complete Writings on Art (1982).

Kant, Immanuel 1724–1804

German philosopher, Professor of Logic and Metaphysics at Königsberg (1770), who developed a theory of knowledge depending on perception and propounded the 'moral argument' for the existence of God. His great work is the Kritik der reinen Vernunft (Critique of Pure Reason, 1781).

- 39 Der Verstand vermag nichts anzuschauen, und die Sinne nichts zu denken. Nur daraus, dass sie sich vereinigen, kann Erkenntnis entspringen.

The understanding can intuit nothing, the senses can think nothing. Only through their union can knowledge arise.

1781 Kritik der reinen Vernunft (Critique of Pure Reason), B75 (translated by N Kemp Smith).

- 40 Ich habe also demnach keine Erkenntnis von mir, wie ich bin, sondern bloß, wie ich mir selbst erscheine. Das Bewusstsein seiner selbst ist also noch lange nicht eine Erkenntnis seiner selbst.

I have no knowledge of myself as I am but merely as I appear to myself. The consciousness of myself is thus very far from being a knowledge of the self.

1781 Kritik der reinen Vernunft (Critique of Pure Reason), B158 (translated by N Kemp Smith).

41 Eben darin Philosophie besteht, seine Grenzen zu kennen.

It is precisely in knowing its limits that philosophy consists.

1781 Kritik der reinen Vernunft (Critique of Pure Reason), B755 (translated by N Kemp Smith).

42 Sapere aude, have the courage to know: that is the motto of enlightenment.

1783 His reply to a newspaper's challenge to define enlightenment. Quoted in The Economist, 16 Mar 1996.

43 Aus so krummen Holze, als woraus der Mensch gemacht ist, kann nichts ganz Gerades gezimmert werden.

Out of the crooked timber of humanity, no straight thing can ever be made.

1784 Idee zu einer allgemeinen Geschichte in weltbürgerlicher Absicht (Idea for a General History with a Cosmopolitan Purpose), prop.6.

44 Ich solle niemals anders verfahren, als so, dass ich auch wollen könne, meine Maxime solle ein allgemeines Gesetz werden.

I ought never to act except in such a way that I can also will that my maxim should become a universal law.

1785 Grundlagen zur Metaphysik der Sitten (Groundwork to a Metaphysic of Morals), ch.1 (translated by H J Paton).

45 Handle so, dass du die Menschheit, sowohl in deiner Person, als in der Person eines jeden andern, jederzeit zugleich als Zweck, niemals bloß als Mittel brauchst.

Act in such a way that you always treat humanity, whether in your own person or in the person of any other, never simply as a means, but always at the same time as an end.

1785 Grundlagen zur Metaphysik der Sitten (Groundwork to a Metaphysic of Morals), ch.2 (translated by H J Paton).

46 Ich musste also das Wissen aufheben, um zum Glauben Platz zu bekommen.

I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge, in order to make room for faith.

1787 Kritik der reinen Vernunft (Critique of Pure Reason), preface to 2nd edn (translated by N Kemp Smith).

47 Zwei Dinge erfüllen das Gemüt mit immer neuer und zunehmender Bewunderung und Ehrfurcht, je öfter und anhaltender sich das Nachdenken damit beschäftigt: der bestirnte Himmel über mir, und das moralische Gesetz in mir.

Two things fill the mind with ever new and increasing admiration and awe, the oftener and more steadily we reflect on them: the starry heavens above me and the moral law within.

1788 Kritik der praktischen Vernunft (Critique of Practical Reason) (translated by T K Abbott).

Kapitsa, Peter Leonidovich 1894–1984

- 79 Here are sweet peas, on tiptoe for a flight,
With wings of gentle flush o'er delicate white.
1816 'I Stood Tip-Toe upon a Little Hill', l.57–8.
- 80 Morality
Weighs heavily on me like unwilling sleep.
1817 'On Seeing the Elgin Marbles'.
- 81 Yet the sweet converse of an innocent mind,
Whose words are images of thoughts refined,
Is my soul's pleasure; and it sure must be Almost the highest bliss of human-kind,
When to thy haunts two kindred spirits flee.
1817 'O Solitude! If I Must with Thee Dwell'.
- 82 Stop and consider! life is but a day;
A fragile dew-drop on its perilous way
From a tree's summit; a poor Indian's sleep
While his boat hastens to the monstrous steep
Of Montmorenci.
1817 'Sleep and Poetry', l.85–9.
- 83 O for ten years, that I may overwhelm
Myself in poesy; so I may do the deed
That my own soul has to itself decreed.
1817 'Sleep and Poetry', l.96–8.
- 84 They swayed about upon a rocking horse,
And thought it Pegasus.
1817 'Sleep and Poetry', l.186–7.
- 85 And they shall be accounted poet kings
Who simply tell the most heart-easing things.
1817 'Sleep and Poetry', l.267–8.
- 86 It keeps eternal whisperings around
Desolate shores—and with its mighty swell
Gluts twice ten thousand Caverns.
1817 'On the Sea'.
- 87 I had a dove and the sweet dove died;
And I have thought it died of grieving:
O, what could it grieve for? Its feet were tied,
With a silken thread of my own hands' weaving.
1817 'I had a Dove and the Sweet Dove Died'.
- 88 A long poem is a test of invention which I take to be the Polar star of poetry, as fancy is the sails, and imagination the rudder.
1817 Letter to Benjamin Bailey, 8 Oct.
- 89 I am certain of nothing but the holiness of the heart's affections and the truth of the imagination—what the imagination seizes as beauty must be truth—whether it existed before or not.
1817 Letter to Benjamin Bailey, 22 Nov.
- 90 O for a life of sensations rather than of thoughts!
1817 Letter to Benjamin Bailey, 22 Nov.
- 91 Negative Capability; that is, when a man is capable of being in uncertainties, mysteries, doubts, without any irritable reaching after fact and reason.
1817 Letter to G and T Keats, 21 Dec.
- 92 Souls of Poets dead and gone
What Elysium have ye known,
Happy field or mossy cavern,
Choicer than the Mermaid Tavern?
1818 'Lines on the Mermaid Tavern'.
- 93 When I have fears that I may cease to be
Before my pen has gleaned my teeming brain,
Before high-piled books, in characterly,
Hold like rich garnerers the full ripened grain.
1818 'When I Have Fears That I May Cease to Be'.
- 94 When I behold, upon the night's starred face
Huge cloudy symbols of a high romance,
And think that I may never live to trace
Their shadows, with the magic hand of chance;
And when I feel, fair creature of an hour,
That I shall never look upon thee more,
Never have relish in the faery power
Of unreflecting love;—then on the shore
Of the wide world I stand alone, and think
Till love and fame to nothingness so sink.
1818 'When I Have Fears That I May Cease to Be'.
- 95 If poetry comes not as naturally as leaves to a tree it had better not come at all.
1818 Letter to John Taylor, 27 Feb.
- 96 Scenery is fine—but human nature is finer.
1818 Letter to Benjamin Bailey, 13 Mar.
- 97 It is impossible to live in a country which is continually under hatches... Rain! Rain! Rain!
1818 Letter to J H Reynolds, 10 Apr.
- 98 I think I shall be among the English Poets after my death.
1818 Letter to George and Georgiana Keats, 14 Oct.
- 99 The imagination of a boy is healthy, and the mature imagination of a man is healthy; but there is a space of life between, in which the soul is in a ferment, the character undecided, the way of life uncertain, the ambition thick-sighted: thence proceeds mawkishness.
1818 Endymion, preface.
- 1 A thing of beauty is a joy for ever:
Its loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness; but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of sweet dreams, and health, and quiet breathing.
1818 Endymion, bk.1, l.1–5.
- 2 The grandeur of the dooms
We have imagined for the mighty dead.
1818 Endymion, bk.1, l.20–1.
- 3 They always must be with us, or we die.
1818 Endymion, bk.1, l.33.
- 4 Who, of men, can tell
That flowers would bloom, or that green fruit would swell
To melting pulp, that fish would have bright mail,
The earth its dower of river, wood, and vale,
The meadows runnels, runnels pebble-stones,
The seed its harvest, or the lute its tones,
Tones ravishment, or ravishment its sweet,
If human souls did never kiss and greet?
1818 Endymion, bk.1, l.835–42.
- 5 Here is wine,
Alive with sparkles—never, I aver,
Since Ariadne was a vintager,
So cool a purple.
1818 Endymion, bk.2, l.1441–4.
- 6 To Sorrow,
I bade good-morrow,
And thought to leave her far away behind;
But cheerly, cheerly,
She loves me dearly;

- She is so constant to me, and so kind.
1818 Endymion, bk.4, l.173–8.
- 7 Their smiles,
Wan as primroses gathered at midnight
By chilly fingered spring.
1818 Endymion, bk.4, l.969–71.
- 8 Turn the key deftly in the oiled wards,
And seal the hushed Casket of my Soul.
1819 ‘To Sleep’.
- 9 Call the world if you please ‘The vale of soul-making’.
1819 Letter to George and Georgiana Keats, 14 Feb.
- 10 I have met with women whom I really think would like to be married to a poem, and to be given away by a novel.
1819 Letter to Fanny Brawne, 8 Jul.
- 11 I have two luxuries to brood over in my walks, your loveliness and the hour of my death. O that I could have possession of them both in the same minute.
1819 Letter to Fanny Brawne, 25 Jul.
- 12 My friends should drink a dozen of Claret on my Tomb.
1819 Letter to Benjamin Bailey, 14 Aug.
- 13 Give me books, fruit, french wine and fine weather and a little music out of doors, played by somebody I do not know.
1819 Letter to Fanny Keats, 29 Aug.
- 14 Fanatics have their dreams, wherewith they weave
A paradise for a sect.
1819 ‘The Fall of Hyperion’, l.1–2.
(Published 1856.)
- 15 ‘None can usurp this height,’ returned that shade,
‘But those to whom the miseries of the world
Are misery, and will not let them rest.’
1819 ‘The Fall of Hyperion’, l.147–9.
(Published 1856.)
- 16 The poet and the dreamer are distinct,
Diverse, sheer opposite, antipodes.
The one pours out a balm upon the world,
The other vexes it.
1819 ‘The Fall of Hyperion’, l.199–202.
(Published 1856.)
- 17 Oh what can ail thee, knight at arms,
Alone and palely loitering;
The sedge has wither’d from the lake,
And no birds sing.
1820 ‘La Belle Dame Sans Merci’, stanza 1.
- 18 She found me roots of relish sweet,
And honey wild, and manna dew;
And sure in language strange she said,
‘I love thee true.’
1820 ‘La Belle Dame Sans Merci’, stanza 7.
- 19 I saw pale kings, and princes too,
Pale warriors, death-pale were they all;
Who cry’d—‘La belle Dame sans Merci
Hath thee in thrall!’
1820 ‘La Belle Dame Sans Merci’, stanza 10.
- 20 She was a gordian shape of dazzling hue,
Vermilion-spotted, golden, green, and blue;
Striped like a zebra, freckled like a pard,
Eyed like a peacock, and all crimson barr’d.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.1, l.47–50.
- 21 Real are the dreams of Gods, and smoothly pass
Their pleasures in a long immortal dream.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.1, l.127–8.
- 22 Love in a hut, with water and a crust,
Is—Love, forgive us!—cinders, ashes, dust;
Love in a palace is perhaps at last
More grievous torment than a hermit’s fast.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.2, l.1–4.
- 23 That purple-lined palace of sweet sin.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.2, l.31.
- 24 In pale contented sort of discontent.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.2, l.135.
- 25 Do not all charms fly
At the mere touch of cold philosophy?
There was an awful rainbow once in heaven:
We know her woof, her texture; she is given
In the dull catalogue of common things.
Philosophy will clip an Angel’s wings.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Lamia’, pt.2, l.229–34.
- 26 Why were they proud? again we ask aloud,
Why in the name of Glory were they proud?
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Isabella; or, The Pot of Basil’, stanza 16.
- 27 So the two brothers and their murdered man
Rode past fair Florence.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Isabella; or, The Pot of Basil’, stanza 27.
- 28 And she forgot the stars, the moon, and sun,
And she forgot the blue above the trees,
And she forgot the dells where waters run,
And she forgot the chilly autumn breeze;
She had no knowledge when the day was done,
And the new morn she saw not: but in peace
Hung over her sweet Basil evermore,
And moistened it with tears unto the core.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Isabella; or, The Pot of Basil’, stanza 53.
- 29 ‘To steal my Basil-pot away from me.’
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems,
‘Isabella; or, The Pot of Basil’, stanza 62.
- 30 St. Agnes’ Eve—Ah, bitter chill it was!
The owl, for all his feathers, was a-cold;
The hare limped trembling through the frozen grass,
And silent was the flock in woolly fold.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, ‘The Eve of St. Agnes’, stanza 1.
- 31 The silver, snarling trumpets’ gan to chide.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, ‘The Eve of St. Agnes’, stanza 4.
- 32 And soft adorings from their loves receive
Upon the honeyed middle of the night.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, ‘The Eve of St. Agnes’, stanza 6.
- 33 The music, yearning like a God in pain.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, ‘The Eve of St. Agnes’, stanza 7.
- 34 Sudden a thought came like a full-blown rose,

- Flushing his brow, and in his painted heart
Made purple riot.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 16.
- 35 A poor, weak, palsy-stricken, churchyard thing.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 18.
- 36 A casement high and triple-arched there was,
All garlanded with carven imag'ries
Of fruits, and flowers, and bunches of knot-grass,
And diamonded with panes of quaint device,
Innumerable of stains and splendid dyes,
As are the tiger-moth's deep-damasked wings.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 24.
- 37 Full on this casement shone the wintry moon,
And threw warm gules on Madeleine's fair breast,
As down she knelt for heaven's grace and boon;
Rose-bloom fell on her hands, together prest,
And on her silver cross soft amethyst,
And on her hair a glory like a saint:
She seemed a splendid angel, newly drest,
Save wings, for heaven.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 25.
- 38 By degrees
Her rich attire creeps rustling to her knees.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 26.
- 39 As though a rose should shut, and be a bud again.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 27.
- 40 And still she slept an azure-lidded sleep,
In blanched linen, smooth, and lavendered,
While he from forth the closet brought a heap
Of candied apple, quince, and plum, and gourd;
With jellies soother than the creamy curd,
And lucent syrups, tinct with cinnamon;
Manna and dates, in argosy transferred
From Fez; and spiced dainties, every one,
From silken Samarcand to cedared Lebanon.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 30.
- 41 He played an ancient ditty, long since mute,
In Provence called, 'La belle dame sans mercy'.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 33.
- 42 And the long carpets rose along the gusty floor.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 40.
- 43 And they are gone: aye, ages long ago
These lovers fled away into the storm.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'The Eve of St. Agnes', stanza 42.
- 44 Deep in the shady sadness of a vale
Far sunken from the healthy breath of morn,
Far from the fiery noon and eve's one star,
Sat gray-haired Saturn, quiet as a stone,
Still as the silence round about his lair.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Hyperion', bk.1, l.1–5.
- 45 Where the dead leaf fell, there did it rest.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Hyperion', bk.1, l.10.
- 46 But oh! How unlike marble was that face.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Hyperion', bk.1, l.34.
- 47 That large utterance of the early Gods.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Hyperion', bk.1, l.51.
- 48 Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness,
Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun;
Conspiring with him how to load and bless
With fruit the vines that round the thatch-eaves run.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'To Autumn', stanza 1.
- 49 Where are the songs of Spring? Ay, where are they?
Think not of them, thou hast thy music too.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'To Autumn', stanza 3.
- 50 Thou still unravished bride of quietness,
Thou foster-child of silence and slow time.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 1.
- 51 What men or Gods are these? What maidens loth?
What mad pursuit? What struggle to escape?
What pipes and timbrels? What wild ecstasy?
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 1.
- 52 Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard
Are sweeter; therefore, ye soft pipes, play on;
Not to the sensual ear, but, more endeared,
Pipe to the spirit ditties of no tone.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 2.
- 53 She cannot fade, though thou hast not thy bliss,
For ever wilt thou love, and she be fair!
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 2.
- 54 O Attic shape! Fair attitude!
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 5.
- 55 Thou, silent form, dost tease us out of thought
As doth eternity: Cold Pastoral!
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 5.
- 56 'Beauty is truth, truth beauty,'—that is all
Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode on a Grecian Urn', stanza 5.
- 57 My heart aches, and a drowsy numbness pains
My sense, as though of hemlock I had drunk,
Or emptied some dull opiate to the drains
One minute past, and Lethe-wards had sunk:
'Tis not through envy of thy happy lot,
But being too happy in thine happiness
That thou, light-winged Dryad of the trees,
In some melodious plot
Of beechen green, and shadows numberless,
Singest of summer in full-throated ease.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 1.
- 58 O, for a draught of vintage! that hath been Cooled a long age in the deep-delved earth,

Tasting of Flora and the country green,
Dance, and Provençal song, and sunburnt mirth!
O for a beaker full of the warm South,
Full of the true, the blushful Hippocrene,
With beaded bubbles winking at the brim,
And purple-stained mouth;
That I might drink, and leave the world unseen,
And with thee fade away into the forest dim.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 2.

59 Fade far away, dissolve, and quite forget
What thou among the leaves hast never known,
The weariness, the fever, and the fret
Here, where men sit and hear each other groan;
Where palsy shakes a few, sad, last grey hairs,
Where youth grows pale, and spectre-thin, and dies;
Where but to think is to be full of sorrow
And leaden-eyed despairs.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 3.

60 Already with thee! tender is the night.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 4.

61 Fast fading violets covered up in leaves;
And mid-May's eldest child,
The coming musk-rose, full of dewy wine,
The murmurous haunt of flies on summer eves.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 5.

62 Darkling I listen; and, for many a time
I have been half in love with easeful Death,
Called him soft names in many a muséd rhyme,
To take into the air my quiet breath;
Now more than ever seems it rich to die,
To cease upon the midnight with no pain,
While thou art pouring forth thy soul abroad
In such an ecstasy!
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 6.

63 Thou wast not born for death, immortal Bird!
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 7.

64 Forlorn! the very word is like a bell
To toll me back from thee to my sole self!
Adieu! the fancy cannot cheat so well
As she is famed to do, deceiving elf.
1820 Lamia, Isabella, The Eve of St. Agnes and Other Poems, 'Ode to a Nightingale', stanza 8.

65 I know the colour of that blood; it is arterial blood;
I cannot be deceived in that colour; that drop of blood is my death-warrant—I must die.
1821 On examining a drop of blood that fell from his mouth as he lay dying from tuberculosis. Quoted in John Sutherland The Oxford Book of Literary Anecdotes (1975).

66 Here lies one whose name was writ in water.
Epitaph for himself. Quoted in Richard Monckton Milnes Life, Letters and Literary Remains of John Keats (1848), vol.2.

1902 The Story of My Life.

76 As the eagle was killed by the arrow winged with its own feather, so the hand of the world is wounded by its own skill.
1912 In the American Magazine, Dec.

Kelman, James 1946–

Scottish novelist, whose novels and short stories set in working-class Glasgow are characterized by an uncompromising vernacular style and vocabulary. In 1994 his novel How late it was, how late won the Booker Prize.

77 Theoretical webs, dirty webs, fusty webs, old and shrivelling away into nothingness, a fine dust. Who needs that kind of stuff. Far far better getting out into the open air and doing it, actually doing it, something solid and concrete and unconceptualisable.

1989 A Disaffection.

78 Yes, they say, go and write whatever story you want, but don't use whatever language is necessary... By implication those in authority ask the writer to censor and suppress her or his own work. They demand it. If you don't comply then your work isn't produced.

1992 Some Recent Attacks, 'The Importance of Glasgow in My Work'.

79 My culture and my language have the right to exist, and no one has the authority to dismiss that.

1994 Speech at the Booker Prize award ceremony, 11 Oct.

80 Ye wake in a corner and stay there hoping yer body will disappear, the thoughts smothering ye; these thoughts; but ye want to remember and face up to things, just something keeps ye from doing it, why can ye no do it; the words filling yer head: then the other words; there's something far far wrong; ye're no a good man, ye're just no a good man.

1994 How late it was, how late, opening words.

English churchman and royal chaplain. He became Bishop of Bath and Wells (1685), and was deposed in 1691 when he refused to take the oath of allegiance to William III.

93 Awake my soul, and with the sun

Thy daily stage of duty run.

1709 Manual of Prayers for the use of the Scholars of Winchester College.

94 Praise God, from whom all blessings flow,

Praise Him, all creatures here below,

Praise Him above, ye heavenly host,

Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

1709 Manual of Prayers for the use of the Scholars of Winchester College.

Kendall, Henry Clarence 1839–82

Australian poet who worked variously as a civil servant, freelance writer, timber merchant and inspector of forests. His great love of the Australian countryside is evident in his collections Poems and Songs (1862), Leaves from Australian Forests (1869), and Songs from the Mountains (1880).

95 Through breaks of the cedar and sycamore bowers

Struggles the light that is love to the flowers;

And, softer than slumber and sweeter than singing,

The notes of the bell-birds are running and ringing.

The silver-voiced bell-birds, the darlings of daytime!

They sing in September their songs of the May-time.

1869 Leaves from Australian Forests, 'Bell-Birds'.

Kennan, George Frost 1904–

US diplomat and historian, adviser to Secretary of State Dean Acheson (1949–52) and US Ambassador in Moscow (1952–53) and Yugoslavia (1961–63). Initially in favour of 'containment' of the USSR, he later called for US disengagement from Europe.

96 The best that an American can look forward to is the lonely pleasure of one who stands at long last on a chilly and inhospitable mountain top where few have been, where few can follow, and where few will consent to believe that he has been.

On negotiating with the Soviets. Quoted in Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas The Wise Men (1986).

- 97 A guest of one's time and not a member of the household.

Of the feeling of being viewed as a pragmatist. Quoted in Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas The Wise Men (1986).

- 98 Fig leaves of democratic procedure to hide the nakedness of Stalinist dictatorship.

Of postwar agreements to govern Eastern Europe. Quoted in Walter Isaacson and Evan Thomas The Wise Men (1986).

Kennedy, A(lison) L(ouise) 1965–

Scottish novelist. Her short stories and novels have established her as a leading writer of her generation.

- 99 Night Geometry and the Garscadden Trains.

1990 Title of short story collection.

- 1 Words just say what you want them to; they don't know any better.

1990 'The Role of Notable Silences in Scottish History'.

- 2 4. The chosen and male shall go forth unto professions while the chosen and female shall be homely, fecund, docile and slightly artistic.

1993 Looking for the Possible Dance, 'The Scottish Method for the Perfection of Children'.

- 3 7. Joy is fleeting, sinful and the forerunner of despair.

1993 Looking for the Possible Dance, 'The Scottish Method for the Perfection of Children'.

- 4 We all have it in us to be an opium for every conceivable mass.

1995 So I Am Glad, ch.1.

- 5 I am not calm, I am unspontaneous. When something happens to me, I don't know how to feel.

1995 So I Am Glad, ch.1.

Kennedy, Edward M(oore) 1932–

US Democratic politician, son of Joseph and brother of John and Robert. His political career was dogged by his involvement in a car accident at Chappaquiddick in 1969, in which a female companion was drowned, and he withdrew as presidential candidate in 1980.

- 6 I don't mind not being President. I just mind that someone else is.

1986 Speech, Washington, 22 Mar.

- 7 Sunlight is the best disinfectant.

1990 On sponsoring legislation for the disclosure of graduation rates and crime figures on campuses. In the New York Times, 8 Oct.

- 8 We are the most hated nation in the world as a result of this disastrous policy in the prisons.

2004 Following news coverage of the abuse of Iraqi prisoners by US soldiers, 13 May.

Kennedy, John F(itzgerald) 1917–63

US Democratic politician, 35th President. His Profiles in Courage (1956) won the Pulitzer Prize. The first Catholic, and the youngest person, to be elected President (1961–3), he initiated education and civil rights reform and induced the USSR to withdraw its missiles from Cuba (1962). He was assassinated, allegedly by Lee Harvey Oswald, while being driven in an open car through Dallas, Texas.

- 9 We stand today on the edge of a new frontier. But the new frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises. It is a set of challenges. It sums up not what I intend to offer the American people, but what I intend to ask of them. It appeals to their pride, not their pocketbook—it holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security.

1960 On accepting the Democratic Convention's presidential nomination, 15 Jul.

- 10 Let us never negotiate out of fear, but let us never fear to negotiate. Together let us explore the stars.

1961 Inaugural address, Washington, 20 Jan.

- 11 All this will not be finished in the first 100 days, nor will it be finished in the first 1,000 days, nor in the life of this Administration—nor even, perhaps, in our lifetime on this planet. But let us begin.

1961 Inaugural address, Washington, 20 Jan.

- 12 Let the word go forth from this time and place, to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans, born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage, and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights to which this nation has always been committed, and to which we are committed today at home and around the world. Let every nation know, whether it wishes us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend, oppose any foe, to assure the survival and success of liberty.

1961 Inaugural address, Washington, 20 Jan.

- 13 And so, my fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you. Ask what you can do for your country.

1961 Inaugural address, Washington, 20 Jan.

- 14 I believe that this nation should commit itself to achieving the goal, before this decade is out, of landing a man on the moon and returning him safely to earth.

1961 State of the Union message to Congress, May.

- 15 Now we have a problem in making our power credible, and Vietnam is the place.

1961 Attributed remark to journalist James Reston, following Kennedy's meeting with Khrushchev, Jun.

- 16 A form of atomic blackmail.

1961 On the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing, 31 Aug.

- 17 The cold reaches of the universe must not become the new area of an even colder war.

1961 Address to the United Nations, 25 Sep.

- 18 Mankind must put an end to war or war will put an end to mankind.

1961 Address to the United Nations, 25 Sep.

- 19 Those who make peaceful revolution impossible will make violent revolution inevitable.

1962 Speech to Latin American diplomats, 12 Mar.

- 20 This is the most extraordinary collection of talent, of human knowledge, that has ever been gathered in the White House—with the possible exception of when Thomas Jefferson dined alone.

1962 Address at a dinner for 49 Nobel laureates, 29 Apr.

- 21 The cost of freedom is always high, but Americans have always paid it. And one path we shall never choose, and that is the path of surrender, or submission.

1962 Address to the nation, 22 Oct.

- 22 If you take the wrong course... the President bears the

- burden of the responsibility quite rightly. The advisers may move on—to new advice.
1962 Comment to White House Special Counsel Theodore C Sorensen, Dec, after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba.
- 23 His stately ship of life, having weathered the severest storms of a troubled century, is anchored in tranquil waters, proof that courage and faith and zest for freedom are truly indestructible. The record of his triumphant passage will inspire free hearts all over the globe.
1963 On conferring honorary US citizenship on Winston Churchill, 9 Apr.
- 24 [Winston Churchill] mobilized the English language and sent it into battle.
1963 On conferring honorary US citizenship on Winston Churchill, 9 Apr.
- 25 Equality of opportunity does not mean equality of responsibility.
1963 Address at Vanderbilt University, 19 May.
- 26 Man is still the most extraordinary computer of all.
1963 Speech, 21 May.
- 27 History teaches us that enmities between nations... do not last forever. We must conduct our affairs in such a way that it becomes in the communists' interests to agree on a genuine peace... to let each nation choose its own future, so long as that choice does not interfere with the choices of others. If we cannot now end our differences, at least we can help make the world safe for diversity.
1963 Speech, American University, Washington DC, 10 Jun.
- 28 The rights of every man are diminished when the rights of one man are threatened.
1963 On sending national guardsmen to ensure peaceful integration at the University of Alabama. Address to the nation, 11 Jun.
- 29 He [John Hoban] believed by incorporating several features of the Dublin style he would make it more home-like for any President of Irish descent. It was a long wait, but I appreciate his efforts.
1963 On the Irish-American architect's design of the White House. Speech to the Irish Parliament reported in the New York Times, 19 Jun.
- 30 Let it not be said of this Atlantic generation that we left ideals and visions to the past, nor purpose and determination to our adversaries. We have come too far, we have sacrificed too much to disdain the future now.
1963 Speech to the West German Parliament, Frankfurt, 25 Jun.
- 31 There are many people in the world who really don't understand, or say they don't, what is the great issue between the free world and the Communist world. Let them come to Berlin!
1963 Address in Berlin's Rudolf Wilde Platz, 26 Jun, 22 months after the erection of the wall dividing the city.
- 32 We have never had to put a wall up to keep our people in, to prevent them from leaving us.
1963 Address in Berlin's Rudolf Wilde Platz, 26 Jun, 22 months after the erection of the wall dividing the city.
- 33 All free men, wherever they may live, are citizens of Berlin, and therefore, as a free man, I take pride in the words, 'Ich bin ein Berliner.' I am a Berliner!
1963 Speech at West Berlin City Hall, Rudolf Wilde Platz, 26 Jun. Unfortunately for Kennedy, his phrase translated into colloquial German as 'I am a doughnut.'
- 34 For the first time, we have been able to reach an agreement which can limit the dangers of this age.
1963 On the ratification of a treaty to limit nuclear testing, 7 Oct.
- 35 The highest duty of the writer, the composer, the artist is to remain true to himself... In serving his vision of the truth, the artist best serves his nation.
1963 At the dedication of Amherst College Robert Frost Library, 25 Oct.
- 36 When power leads man towards arrogance, poetry reminds him of his limitations. When power narrows the area of man's concern, poetry reminds him of the richness and diversity of existence. When power corrupts, poetry cleanses.
1963 At the dedication of Amherst College Robert Frost Library, 25 Oct.
- 37 I look forward to... a future in which our country will match its military strength with our moral restraint; its wealth with our wisdom; its power with our purpose.
1963 Last major public speech, Amherst College, 26 Oct.
- 38 The definition of happiness of the Greeks... is full use of your powers along lines of excellence. I find, therefore, the Presidency provides some happiness.
1963 News conference, 31 Oct.
- 39 We're heading into nut country today.
1963 Spoken to his wife in Fort Worth a few hours before the assassination in Dallas. Quoted in William Manchester The Death of a President (1967).
- 40 We in this country, in this generation, are—by destiny, rather than choice—the watchmen on the walls of the world.
1963 Address prepared for Dallas luncheon on the day he was assassinated, 22 Nov.
- 41 What your government believes is its own business; what it does in the world is the world's business.
 Letter to Nikita Khrushchev. Quoted in Theodore C Sorensen Kennedy (1965).
- 42 The three most overrated things in the world are the state of Texas, the FBI, and hunting trophies.
 Quoted in William Manchester The Death of a President (1967).
- 43 You don't fire God.
 Expressing reluctance to replace FBI Director J Edgar Hoover. Reported after Kennedy's death in Senate committee findings on US intelligence activities, 1976.

1968 Last public remark after winning the Californian primary for the Democratic presidential nomination in Los Angeles, before being assassinated as he left the rally, 4 Jun.
- 52 It isn't the first step that concerns me, but both sides escalating to the fourth or fifth step—and we don't go to the sixth because there is no one around to do so.
 On the possibility of initiating nuclear warfare. Thirteen Days (published 1969).
- 53 Many times... I had heard the military take positions which, if wrong, had the advantage that no one would be around at the end to know.
 Recalling discussions on Soviet placement of nuclear missiles in Cuba. Thirteen Days (published 1969).
- 54 Well, we Kennedys, we eat Rockefellers for breakfast.
 Quoted in Peter Collier and David Horowitz The Rockefeller (1976).

Kennedy, Roger George 1926–

Former director, US National Park Service (1993–97). He has also been a correspondent for NBC and Director, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution. He has written books on architecture, houses and historic America.

US artist, best remembered for her prints and her 'Love' postage stamp (1985).

- 59 Women's liberation is the liberation of the feminine in the man and the masculine in the woman.
1974 In the Los Angeles Times, 11 Jul.

Kent, Rockwell 1882–1971

US artist and writer, best known for his stark woodcuts, often accompanying his travel writing. His major works include the paintings Toilers of the Sea and Winter and writings such as Wilderness (1921).

- 60 Sledgehammer sentimentality.
 Of his wholesome depiction of contemporary America. Quoted in the Washington Post, 6 Jun 1993

Kerouac, Jack (John) 1922–69

US novelist. His fast-moving, stream of consciousness novel On The Road (1957) became the quintessential text of the Beat Generation.

- 61 All of life is a foreign country.
1949 Letter, 24 Jun.
- 62 But then they danced down the street like dingle-dodies, and I shambled after as I've been doing all my life after people who interest me, because the only people for me are the mad ones, the ones who are mad to live, mad to talk, mad to be saved, desirous of everything at the same time, the ones who never yawn or say a commonplace thing, but burn, burn, burn, like fabulous yellow roman candles exploding like spiders across the stars and in the middle you see the blue centerlight pop and everybody goes 'Awww!'
1957 On The Road, pt.1, ch.1.
- 63 I have nothing to offer anybody except my own confusion.
1957 On The Road, pt.2, ch.3.
- 64 The road is life.
1957 On The Road, pt.3, ch.5.
- 65 John Clellon Holmes... and I were sitting around trying to think up the meaning of the Lost Generation and the subsequent Existentialism and I said, 'You know, this is really a beat generation' and he leapt up and said, 'That's it, that's right!'
1959 Interview in Playboy, Jun.
- 66 Desolation Angels.
1965 Title of novel.

Kerr, Jean née Collins 1923–2003

US playwright. Her works include successful Broadway plays and humorous autobiographies. She collaborated with her husband Walter Kerr on several projects, including an adaptation of Werfel's Song of Bernadette (1946).

70 One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest.

1962 Title of novel, derived from a traditional rhyme.

71 But it's the truth even if it didn't happen.

1962 One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest, pt.1.

72 I'd rather be a lightning rod than a seismograph.

Quoted in Tom Wolfe The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test (1968), ch.1.

73 We are always acting on what just finished happening. It happened at least 1/30th of a second ago. We think we're in the present, but we aren't. The present we know is only a movie of the past.

Quoted in Tom Wolfe The Electric Kool-Aid Acid Test (1968), ch.11.

74 You don't lead by pointing and telling people some place to go. You lead by going to that place and making a case.

1970 Interview in Esquire, Jun.

Kethe, William d. c.1608

English divine, army chaplain and hymnwriter. His hymns are characteristically written in metre, like psalms.

75 All people that on earth do dwell,

Sing to the Lord with cheerful voice;

Him serve with fear, His praise forth tell,

Come ye before Him, and rejoice.

1560 Daye's Psalter, 'All People That on Earth Do Dwell'.

Key, Francis Scott 1779–1843

US lawyer and poet, best known for his devotional verse and prose. His poem 'The Star-Spangled Banner' was officially adopted as the national anthem of the US in 1931.

76 O say, can you see, by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming—

Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the clouds of the fight,

O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming!

And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there;
O! say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave?

1814 'The Star-Spangled Banner', originally published as 'The Defence of Fort M'Henry' in the Baltimore Patriot, 20 Sep; it commemorates the bombardment of Fort McHenry, Baltimore, by the British, 13–14 Sep.

Keynes (of Tilton), John Maynard, 1st Baron

1883–1946

English economist. His major works, A Treatise on Money (1930) and the revolutionary General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money (1936), were inspired by the unemployment crisis. His views influenced Roosevelt's 'New Deal' administration and underpin modern macroeconomics.

77 I work for a government I despise for ends I think criminal.

1917 Letter to Duncan Grant, 15 Dec.

78 Like Odysseus, the President looked wiser when he was seated.

1919 Of Woodrow Wilson. The Economic Consequences of the Peace.

79 Lenin was right. There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose.

1919 The Economic Consequences of the Peace.

80 England still stands outside Europe. Europe's voiceless tremors do not reach her. Europe is apart, and England is not of her flesh and body.

1919 The Economic Consequences of the Peace.

81 The long run is a misleading guide to current affairs. In the long run, we are all dead. Economists set themselves too easy, too useless a task if in tempestuous seasons they can only tell us that when the storm is long past the ocean is flat again.

1923 A Tract on Monetary Reform.

82 If Enterprise is afoot, Wealth accumulates whatever may be happening to Thrift; and if Enterprise is asleep, Wealth decays, whatever Thrift may be doing.

1930 A Treatise on Money.

83 A 'sound' banker, alas! is not one who foresees danger and avoids it, but one who, when he is ruined, is ruined in a conventional and orthodox way along with his fellows, so that no one can really blame him.

1931 Essays in Persuasion.

84 It is not a correct deduction from the Principles of Economics that enlightened self-interest always operates in the public interest... Experience does not show that individuals when they make up a social unit are always less clear-sighted than when they act separately.

1931 Essays in Persuasion.

85 I agree that our methods of control are unlikely to be sufficiently delicate or sufficiently powerful to maintain continuous full employment. I should be quite content with a reasonable approximation to it, and in practice I should probably relax my expansionist measures a little

- before technical full employment had actually been reached.
1936 Letter to E F M Durbin, 30 Apr.
- 86 It might have been supposed that competition between expert professionals, possessing judgement and knowledge beyond that of the average private investor, would correct the vagaries of the ignorant individual left to himself. It happens, however, that the energies and skills of the professional investor and speculator are mainly occupied elsewhere. For most of these persons are, in fact, largely concerned, not with making superior long-term forecasts of the probable yield on an investment over its whole life, but with foreseeing changes in the conventional bias of valuation a short time ahead of the general public... This battle of wits to anticipate the basis of conventional valuation a few months hence, rather than the prospective yield of an investment over a long term of years, does not even require gulls amongst the public to feed the maws of the professional; it can be played by professionals amongst themselves.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest, and Money.
- 87 Speculators may do no harm as bubbles on a steady stream of enterprise. But the position is serious when enterprise becomes the bubble on a whirlpool of speculation. When the capital development of a country becomes a by-product of the activities of a casino, the job is likely to be ill-done.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest, and Money.
- 88 If the Treasury were to fill old bottles with banknotes, bury them at suitable depths in disused coalmines which are then filled up to the surface with town rubbish, and leave it to private enterprise on well-tried principles of laissez-faire to dig the notes up again... there need be no more unemployment and, with the help of the repercussions, the real income of the community, and its capital wealth also, would probably become a good deal greater than it actually is. It would, indeed, be more sensible to build houses and the like; but as there are political and practical difficulties in the way of this, the above would be better than nothing.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money.
- 89 The ideas of economists and political philosophers, both when they are right and when they are wrong, are more powerful than is commonly understood. Indeed the world is ruled by little else. Practical men, who believe themselves to be quite exempt from any intellectual influences, are usually the slaves of some defunct economist. Madmen in authority, who hear voices in the air, are distilling their frenzy from some academic scribbler of a few years back. I am sure the power of vested interests is vastly exaggerated compared with the gradual encroachment of ideas.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money.
- 90 The outstanding faults of the economic society in which we live are its failure to provide for full employment and its arbitrary and inequitable distribution of wealth and incomes.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money.
- 91 We take it as a fundamental psychological rule of any modern community that, when its real income is increased, it will not increase its consumption by an equal absolute amount.

1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest, and Money.

- 92 Worldly wisdom teaches us that it is better for the reputation to fail conventionally than to succeed unconventionally.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money.
- 93 I believe that there is social and psychological justification for significant inequalities of incomes and wealth, but not for such large disparities as exist today.
1936 The General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money.

Khayyám, Omar c.1050–c.1123

Persian poet and scholar. Born in Nishapur, he was summoned to Merv by the sultan, where he reformed the Muslim calendar. A renowned astronomer, he also composed mathematical treatises, and is best remembered for his Rubáiyát (c.1100).

- 94 Know yourself as a snowdrift on the sand Heaped for two days, or three, then thawed and gone.
c.1100 Rubáiyát, stanza 16 (translated by Robert Graves and Omar Ali-Shah, 1972).
- 95 Never anticipate tomorrow's sorrow;
 Live always in this paradisaal now.
c.1100 Rubáiyát, stanza 21 (translated by Robert Graves and Omar Ali-Shah, 1972).
- 96 The cheerful bird of youth flutters away—
 I hardly noticed how it came or went.
c.1100 Rubáiyát, stanza 103 (translated by Robert Graves and Omar Ali-Shah, 1972).

Khomeini, Ayatollah Ruhollah 1900–89

Iranian religious and political leader. Exiled in 1964, he returned to Iran in 1979 after the collapse of the Shah's government and became virtual head of state. He instigated a fundamentalist 'Islamic Revolution'.

- 97 Music is no different from opium. Music affects the human mind in a way that makes people think of nothing but music and sensual matters... Music is a treason to the country, a treason to our youth, and we should cut out all this music and replace it with something instructive.
1979 Ramadan speech, 23 Jul. Quoted in Lebrecht Discord (1982).

Khrushchev, Nikita Sergeevich 1894–1971

Soviet politician. On the death of Stalin he became First Secretary of the Communist Party (1953–64), and subsequently denounced Stalinism. His period of office was marked by the 1956 Poznan riots, the Hungarian uprising, and the Cuban missile crisis (1962).

- 98 Those who wait for the USSR to reject Communism must wait until a shrimp learns to whistle.
1955 Speech in Moscow, 17 Sep.
- 99 Whether you like it not, history is on our side. We will bury you.
1956 Remark to Western diplomats at the Kremlin, 18 Nov. Khrushchev later claimed that he had meant 'We will overtake you [economically]', rather than this more sinister version.
- 1 Politicians are the same all over. They promise to build a bridge even where there is no river.
1960 Press conference, New York, Oct.

English writer. Among his best-known works are the historical novels Westward Ho! (1855), and the children's book The Water Babies (1863). A Christian Socialist, he also published an immense number of articles on current topics.

48 'Oh Mary, go and call the cattle home,
 And call the cattle home,
 And call the cattle home,
 Across the sands of Dee.'
 The western wind was wild and dank with foam,
 And all alone went she.
1850 Alton Locke, ch.26, 'The Sands of Dee'.

49 Come; and strong within us
 Stir the Vikings' blood;
 Bracing brain and sinew;
 Blow, thou wind of God!
1857 'Ode to the North-East Wind'.

50 Be good, sweet maid, and let who will be clever;
 Do noble things, do not dream them, all day long:
 And so make life, death, and that vast for-ever
 One grand, sweet song.
1858 'A Farewell'.

51 Once upon a time there was a little chimney-sweep, and his name was Tom.
1863 The Water Babies, ch.1.

52 The great elm-trees in the gold-green meadows were fast asleep above, and the cows fast asleep beneath them; nay, the few clouds which were about were fast asleep likewise, and so tired that they had lain down on the earth to rest, in long white flakes and bars, among the stems of the elm-trees, and along the tops of the alders by the stream.
1863 The Water Babies, ch.1.

53 When all the world is young, lad,
 And all the trees are green;
 And every goose a swan, lad,
 And every lass a queen;
 Then hey for boot and horse, lad,
 And round the world away:
 Young blood must have its course, lad,
 And every dog his day.

Kingsley, Mary Henrietta 1862–1900

English writer and traveller. After the death of her invalid parents she travelled to West Africa (1893 and 1895), living among the natives, and wrote accounts of both journeys. She died of enteric fever while serving as a nurse in the second Boer War.

61 A certain sort of friendship soon arose between the Fans and me. We each recognized that we belonged to that same section of the human race with whom it is better to drink than to fight. We knew we would each have killed the other, if sufficient inducement were offered, and so we took a certain amount of care that the inducement should not arise.
1893 Travels in West Africa (published 1899).

62 It is at these times that you realise the blessings of a good thick skirt... Save for a good many bruises, here I was with the fulness of my skirt tucked under me, sitting on nine ebony spikes some twelve inches long, in comparative comfort.
1893 Travels in West Africa (published 1899).

63 The sooner the Crown Colony system is removed from the sphere of practical politics and put under a glass case in the South Kensington Museum, labelled 'Extinct', the better for everyone.
1899 West African Studies.

64 West Africa today is just a quarry of paving stones for Hell, and those stones were cemented in place with

 By all ye leave or do,
 The silent sullen peoples
 Shall weigh your God and you.
1899 'The White Man's Burden'.
- 27 When you've shouted 'Rule Britannia', when you've sung
 'God save the Queen'—
 When you've finished killing Kruger with your mouth—
 Will you kindly drop a shilling in my little tambourine
 For a gentleman in Kharki ordered South?
1899 The Absent-Minded Beggar.
- 28 Mr Raymond Martin, beyond question, was born in the gutter, and bred in a Board-School, where they played marbles. He was further (I give the barest handful from great store) a Flopshus Cad, an Outrageous Stinker, a Jelly-bellied Flag-flapper (this was Stalky's contribution), and several other things which it is not seemly to put down.

And the hearth-fire and the home-acre,
To go with the old grey Widow-maker?
1906 Puck of Pook's Hill, 'Harp Song of the Dane Women'.
- 61 If you wake at midnight, and hear a horse's feet,
Don't go drawing back the blind, or looking in the street,
Them that asks no questions isn't told a lie.
Watch the wall, my darling, while the Gentlemen go by!
1906 Puck of Pook's Hill, 'Smuggler's Song'.
- 62 Land of our birth, we pledge to thee
Our love and toil in the years to be;
When we are grown and take our place,
As men and women with our race.
1906 Puck of Pook's Hill, 'Children's Song'.

- 64 But I consort with long-haired things
In velvet collar-rolls,
Who talk about the Aims of Art,
And 'theories' and 'goals';
And moo and coo with women-folk
About their blessed souls.
1909 'In Partibus'.
- 65 There is sorrow enough in the natural way
From men and women to fill our day;
But when we are certain of sorrow in store,
Why do we always arrange for more?
Brothers and Sisters, I bid you beware
Of giving your heart to a dog to tear.

- 67 If you can keep your head when all about you

- Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;
If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same.
1910 Rewards and Fairies, 'If—'.
- 68 If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it.
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!
1910 Rewards and Fairies, 'If—'.

Will stick more close than a brother.
1910 Rewards and Fairies, 'The Thousandth Man'
- 70 It is always a temptation to a rich and lazy nation,
To puff and look important and to say:
'Though we know we should defeat you, we have not
the time to meet you,
We will therefore pay you cash to go away.'
- And that is called paying the Dane-geld;
But we've proved it again and again,
That if once you have paid him the Dane-geld
You never get rid of the Dane.
1911 'Dane-Geld'.
- 71 'Oh, where are you going to, all you Big Steamers,
With England's own coal, up and down the salt seas?'
'We are going to fetch you your bread and your butter,
Your beef, pork, and mutton, eggs, apples and cheese.'
1911 'Big Steamers'.
- 72 Our England is a garden that is full of stately views,
Of borders, beds and shrubberies and lawns and avenues,
With statues on the terraces and peacocks strutting by;
But the Glory of the Garden lies in more than meets the eye.
1911 'The Glory of the Garden'.
- 73 Our England is a garden, and such gardens are not made
By singing:—'Oh, how beautiful!' and sitting in the shade,
While better men than we go out and start their working lives
At grubbing weeds from gravel paths with broken dinner-knives.
1911 'The Glory of the Garden'.
- 74 Oh, Adam was a gardener, and God who made him sees That half a proper gardener's work is done upon his knees,
So when your work is finished, you can wash your hands and pray
For the Glory of the Garden that it may not pass away!
1911 'The Glory of the Garden'.
- 75 We know the war prepared
On every peaceful home,
We know the hells declared
For such as serve not Rome,
The terror, threats and dread
In market, hearth and field:
We know when all is said
We perish if we yield.
1912 'Ulster'.
- 76 For all we have and are,
For all our children's fate,
Stand up and take the war.
The Hun is at the gate!
1914 'For All We Have and Are'.

1962 'No More Hiroshimas'.

Kishen fl.c.1840

Chinese diplomatist.

- 88 It appears to Your Majesty's slave that we are very deficient in means, and have not the shells and rockets used by the barbarians. We must, therefore, adopt other methods to stop them, which will be easy, as they have opened negotiations.
1841 Report, Mar, to the Chinese Emperor during the 1st Opium War, 1839–42.

Kissinger, Henry Alfred 1923–

US academic and statesman. He was the main US figure in the negotiations to end the Vietnam War (for which he shared the 1973 Nobel peace prize), and Secretary of State (1973–7). His 'shuttle diplomacy', aimed at improving Israeli–Egyptian relations, had much success.

- 89 It is not often that nations learn from the past—even rarer that they draw the correct conclusions from it. For the lessons of historical experience, as of personal experience, are contingent. They teach the consequences of certain actions, but they cannot force a recognition of comparable situations.

1957 A World Restored: Castlereagh, Metternich and the Restoration of Peace, 1812–22.

- 90 We lost sight of one of the cardinal maxims of guerrilla war: the guerrilla wins if he does not lose. The conventional army loses if it does not win.
1969 On the Vietnam War. In Foreign Affairs, Jan.
- 91 Power is the ultimate aphrodisiac.
1969 Comment at the end of his first year as head of the National Security Council. Quoted in Walter Isaacson Kissinger (1992).

14 Costs merely register competing attractions.

1921 Risk, Uncertainty and Profit.

15 I have been increasingly moved to wonder whether my job is a job or a racket, whether economists, and particularly economic theorists, may not be in the position that Cicero, citing Cato, ascribed to the augurs of Rome—that they should cover their faces or burst into laughter when they met on the street.

1950 Collected in Essays on the History and Method of Economics (1956).

16 Sociology is the science of talk, and there is only one law in sociology. Bad talk drives out good.

Quoted in Paul A Samuelson The Samuelson Sampler (1973).

Knox, John c.1513–1572

Scottish Protestant reformer and architect of the Church of Scotland, whose single-minded determination to establish Presbyterianism brought him into conflict with the Catholic Queen Mary.

17 The Monstrous Regiment of Women.

1558 From the title of his pamphlet, The First Blast of the Trumpet Against the Monstrous Regiment of Women.

18 To promote a woman to bear rule, superiority, dominion, or empire above any realm, nation, or city, is repugnant to nature, contumely to God, a thing most contrarious to his revealed will and approved ordinance; and, finally, it is the subversion of good order, of all equity and justice.

1558 First Blast of the Trumpet against the Monstrous Regiment of Women.

19 If there be not in her, a proud mind, a crafty wit, and an indurate heart against God and his truth, my judgment faileth me.

The Koran

All quotations are taken from the Arthur J Arberry (1955) translation of The Koran. Line numbers refer to the standard numeration.

- 40 In the name of God, the Merciful, the Compassionate. Praise belongs to God, the Lord of all Being, the All-merciful, the All-compassionate the Master of the Day of Doom. Thee only we serve; to Thee alone we pray for succour. Guide us in the straight path, the path of those whom Thou hast blessed, not of those against whom Thou art wrathful, nor of those who are astray.
 Sura 1, 1.1–7.
- 41 We have sent among you, of yourselves, a Messenger, to recite Our signs to you and to purify you, and to teach you the Book and the Wisdom, and to teach you that you knew not. So remember Me, and I will remember you; and be thankful to Me; and be you not ungrateful towards Me.
 Sura 2, 1.151–2.
- 42 O all you who believe, seek you help in patience and prayer; surely God is with the patient.
 Sura 2, 1.153.
- 43 Surely in the creation of the heavens and the earth and the alternation of night and day and the ship that runs in the sea with profit to men, and the water God sends down from heaven therewith reviving the earth after it is dead and His scattering abroad in it all manner of crawling thing, and the turning about of the winds and the clouds compelled between heaven and earth—surely there are signs for a people having understanding.
 Sura 2, 1.164.
- 44 It is not piety that you turn your faces to the East and to the West. True piety is this: to believe in God, and the Last Day, the angels, the Book, and the Prophets, to give of one's substance, however cherished, to kinsmen, and orphans, the needy, the traveller, beggars, and to ransom the slave, to perform the prayer, to pay the alms.
 Sura 2, 1.177.
- 45 And fight in the way of God with those who fight with you, but aggress not: God loves not the aggressors.
 Sura 2, 1.190.
- 46 God charges no soul save to its capacity; standing to account is what it has earned, and against its account what it has merited.
 Sura 2, 1.286.
- 47 And when the angels said: 'Mary, God has chosen thee, and purified thee; He has chosen thee above all women.

- Mary be obedient to thy Lord, prostrating and bowing before Him.'
Sura 3, 1.42-3
- 48 You will not attain piety until you expend of what you love.
Sura 3, 1.92.
- 49 It was by some mercy of God that thou wast gentle to them; hadst thou been harsh and hard of heart, they would have scattered from about thee. So pardon them, and pray forgiveness for them, and take counsel with them in the affair; and when thou art resolved, put thy trust in God.
Sura 3, 1.159.
- 50 Every soul shall taste of death; you shall surely be paid in full your wages on the Day of Resurrection. Whosoever is removed from the Fire and admitted to Paradise, shall win the triumph. The present life is but the joy of delusion.
Sura 3, 1.185.
- 51 Surely in the creation of the heavens and earth and in the alternation of night and day there are signs for men possessed of minds who remember God, standing and sitting and on their sides, and reflect upon the creation of the heavens and the earth. 'Our Lord, thou has not created this for vanity!'
Sura 3, 1.191.
- 52 Mankind, fear your Lord, who created you of a single soul, and from it created its mate, and from the pair of them scattered abroad many men and women; and fear God by whom you demand one of another, and the wombs; surely God ever watches over you.
Sura 4, 1.1.
- 53 God commands you to deliver trusts back to their owners.
Sura 4, 1.58.
- 54 How is it with you, that you do not fight in the way of God, and for the men, women, and children who, being abased, say, 'Our Lord, bring us forth from this city whose people are evildoers, and appoint to us a protector from Thee?'
Sura 4, 1.75.
- 55 O believers, be you securers of justice, witnesses for God, even though it be against yourselves, or your parents and kinsmen, whether the man be rich or poor.
Sura 4, 1.135
- 56 We have revealed to thee as We revealed to Noah, and the Prophets after him, and We revealed to Abraham, Ishmael, Isaac, Jacob, and the Tribes, Jesus and Job, Jonah and Aaron and Solomon, and We gave to David Psalms, and Messengers We have already told thee of before, and Messengers We have not told thee of; and unto Moses God spoke directly—Messengers bearing good tidings, and warning, so that mankind might have no argument against God, after the Messengers; God is All-mighty, All-wise.
Sura 4, 1.163-4.
- 57 People of the Book, go not beyond the bounds in your religion, and say not as to God but the truth. The Messiah, Jesus son of Mary, was only the Messenger of God, and His Word that He committed to Mary, and a spirit from Him. So believe in God and His Messengers,
- and say not, 'Three'. Refrain; better is it for you. God is only One God. Glory be to Him—that He should have a son! To Him belongs all that is in the heavens and the earth; God suffices for a guardian. The Messiah will not disdain to be a servant of God, neither the angels who are near stationed to Him.
Sura 4, 1.171-2.
- 58 O believers, be you securers of justice, witnesses for God. Let not detestation for a people move you not to be equitable.
Sura 5, 1.8.
- 59 No creature is there crawling on the earth, no bird flying with its wings, but they are nations like unto yourselves.
Sura 6, 1.38.
- 60 With Him are the keys of the Unseen; none knows them but He. He knows what is in land and sea; not a leaf falls, but He knows it.
Sura 6, 1.59.
- 61 It is God who splits the grain and the date-stone, brings forth the living from the dead; He brings for the dead too from the living. So that then is God; then how are you perverted? He splits the sky into dawn, and has made the night for a repose, and the sun and moon for a reckoning.
Sura 6, 1.96-7.
- 62 Say: 'As for me, my Lord has guided me to a straight path, a right religion, the creed of Abraham, a man of pure faith; he was no idolater.' Say: 'My prayer, my ritual sacrifice, my living, my dying—all belongs to God, the Lord of all Being.'
Sura 6, 1.162.
- 63 To every nation a term; when their term comes they shall not put it back by a single hour nor put it forward.
Sura 7, 1.34.
- 64 Of the people of Moses there is a nation who guide by the truth, and by it act with justice.
Sura 7, 1.159.
- 65 And when thy Lord took from the Children of Adam, from their loins, their seed, and made them testify touching themselves, 'Am I not your Lord?' They said, 'Yes, we testify'—lest you should say on the Day of Resurrection, 'As for us, we were heedless of this.'
Sura 7, 1.172.
- 66 To God belong the Names Most Beautiful; so call Him by them.
Sura 7, 1.180.
- 67 O believers, fear God, and be with the truthful ones.
Sura 9, 1.119.
- 68 And God summons to the Abode of Peace.
Sura 10, 1.26.
- 69 Surely God wrongs not men anything, but themselves men wrong.
Sura 10, 1.45.
- 70 And the king said: 'I saw in a dream seven fat kine, and seven lean ones devouring them; likewise seven green ears of corn, and seven withered. My counsellors, pronounce to me upon my dream, if you are expounders of dreams.' 'A hotchpotch of nightmares!' they said.
Sura 12, 1.43-4.
- 71 It is He who shows you the lightning, for fear and hope,

- and produces the heavy clouds; the thunder proclaims His praise, and the angels, in awe of Him.
Sura 13, 1.13.
- 72 Hast thou not seen how God has struck a similitude? A good word is as a good tree—its roots are firm, and its branches are in heaven; it gives its produce every season by the leave of its Lord. So God strikes similitudes for men; haply they will remember. And the likeness of a corrupt word is as a corrupt tree—uprooted from the earth, having no stablishment. God confirms those who believe with the firm word, in the present life and in the world to come.
Sura 14, 1.24–7.
- 73 And when thy Lord said to the angels, ‘See, I am creating a mortal of a clay of mud moulded. When I have shaped him, and breathed My spirit in him, fall you down, bowing before him!’
Sura 15, 1.28–9.
- 74 He created man of a sperm-drop; and behold, he is a manifest adversary.
Sura 16, 1.4.
- 75 Man prays for evil, as he prays for good; man is ever hasty.
Sura 17, 1.11.
- 76 Thy Lord has decreed you shall not serve any but Him, and to be good to parents, whether one or both of them attains old age with thee; say not to them ‘Fie’ neither chide them, but speak unto them words respectful, and lower to them the wing of humbleness out of mercy and say: ‘My Lord, have mercy on them, as they raised me up when I was little.’
Sura 17, 1.23–4.
- 77 They will question thee concerning the Spirit. Say: ‘The Spirit is of the bidding of my Lord. You have been given of knowledge nothing except a little.’
Sura 17, 1.85.
- 78 Say: ‘If the sea were ink for the Words of my Lord, the sea would be spent before the Words of my Lord are spent.’
Sura 18, 1.110.
- 79 Whosoever turns away from My remembrance, his shall be a life of narrowness.
Sura 20, 1.124.
- 80 God is the Light of the heavens and the earth; the likeness of His Light is as a niche wherein is a lamp (the lamp in a glass, the glass as it were a glittering star) kindled from a Blessed Tree, an olive that is neither of the East nor of the West whose oil wellnigh would shine, even if no fire touched it; Light upon Light; (God guides to His Light whom He will). (And God strikes similitudes for men, and God has knowledge of everything.)
Sura 24, 1.35.
- 81 Hast thou not seen how that whatsoever is in the heavens and in the earth extols God, and the birds spreading their wings? Each—He knows its prayer and its extolling.
Sura 24, 1.41.
- 82 And of His signs is that He created for you, of yourselves, spouses, that you might repose in them, and He has set between you love and mercy.
Sura 30, 1.21.
- 83 And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and the variety of your tongues and hues.
Sura 30, 1.22.
- 84 Not a nation there is, but there has passed away in it a warner.
Sura 35, 1.24.
- 85 And when We bless man, he turns away and withdraws aside; but when evil visits him, he is full of endless prayers.
Sura 41, 1.51.
- 86 Hast thou seen him who has taken his caprice to be his God?
Sura 45, 1.23.
- 87 They say: ‘There is nothing but our present life; we die, and we live, and nothing but Time destroys us.’ Of that they have no knowledge; they merely conjecture.
Sura 45, 1.24.
- 88 Find not fault with one another, neither revile one another by nicknames.
Sura 49, 1.11.
- 89 O mankind, We have created you male and female, and appointed you races and tribes, that you may know one another. Surely the noblest among you in the sight of God is the most godfearing of you. God is All-knowing, All-aware.
Sura 49, 1.13.
- 90 Be not as those who forgot God, and so He caused them to forget their souls.
Sura 59, 1.18.
- 91 They fulfil their vows, and fear a day whose evil is upon the wing; they give food, for the love of Him, to the needy, the orphan, the captive: ‘We feed you only for the Face of God; we desire no recompense from you, no thankfulness.’
Sura 76, 1.7–9.
- 92 But as for him who feared the Station of his Lord and forbade the soul its caprice, surely Paradise shall be the refuge.
Sura 79, 1.40.
- 93 When the sun shall be darkened, when the stars shall be thrown down, when the mountains shall be set moving, when the pregnant camels shall be neglected, when the savage beasts shall be mustered, when the seas shall be set boiling, when the souls shall be coupled, when the buried infant shall be asked for what sin she was slain, when the scrolls shall be unrolled, when heaven shall be stripped off, when Hell shall be set blazing, when Paradise shall be brought nigh, then shall a soul know what it has produced.
Sura 81, 1–14.
- 94 No! I swear by the slinkers, the runners, the sinkers, by the night swarming, by the dawn sighing, truly this is the word of a noble Messenger.
Sura 81, 15–19.
- 95 By heaven of the returning rain, by earth splitting with verdure, surely it is a decisive word; it is no merriment.
Sura 86, 1.11–14.
- 96 By the snorting chargers, by the strikers of fire, by the dawn raiders blazing a trail of dust, cleaving there with a host! Surely Man is ungrateful to his Lord.

Sura 100, 1–6.

- 97 Woe to those that pray and are heedless of their prayers, to those who make display and refuse charity.
Sura 107, 1.4–7.

Korda, Sir Alexander 1893–1956

Hungarian-born British film producer. He worked in Vienna, Berlin and Hollywood before coming to Britain in the early 1930s where he founded London Film Productions and the Denham Studios.

- 98 One can be unhappy before eating caviar, even after, but at least not during.
1979 In Newsweek, 26 Nov.
- 99 Inside every banker, even the governor of the Bank of England, there lies a gambling streak. In me, they recognise one of their own kind.
Quoted in Michael Wilding and Pamela Wilcox Apple Sauce (1982).
- 1 It's not enough to be Hungarian, you must have talent too.
Attributed. The predominance of Eastern European employees at Denham Studios in the 1930s was a topical joke.

Korn, Arthur 1891–1978

German-born architect, planner and teacher.

- 2 A new glass age has begun, which is equal in beauty to the old one of Gothic windows.
1926 Glas im Bau und als Gebrauchsgegenstand (translated as Glass in Modern Architecture, 1967).

Korthals, Robert 1933–

Kosinski, Jerzy Nikodem 1933–91

Polish-born US novelist. His best-known books are The Painted Bird (1965) and Being There (1971).

- 4 I rent everything, other than the gift of life itself, which was given to me without any predictable lease, a gift that can be withdrawn at any time.
1991 Interview given three days before his suicide, in the Weekend Guardian, 25–6 May.

Kramer, Larry (Lawrence) 1935–

US novelist, playwright and screenwriter. He is best known for his controversial gay novel Faggots (1978), and his plays dealing with AIDS, notably The Normal Heart (1985).

- 5 We're all going to go crazy, living this epidemic every minute, while the rest of the world goes on out there, all around us, as if nothing is happening, going on with their own lives and not knowing what it's like, what we're going through. We're living through war, but where they're living it's peacetime, and we're all in the same country.
1985 Ned speaking of gay men with AIDS. The Normal Heart, act 2, sc.11.

Krasna, Norman 1909–84

US playwright and screenwriter. He won an Academy Award for Princess O'Rourke (1943). Other films include Bachelor Mother (1939) and Indiscreet (1958).

1958 Line delivered by Ingrid Bergman in Indiscreet.

Kraus, Karl 1874–1936

Austrian critic and dramatist, publisher and sole writer of the radical satirical magazine Die Fackel ('The Torch', 1899–1936). He wrote the apocalyptic satirical play The Last Days of Mankind (1919), and collections of aphorisms.

- 7 Today's literature: prescriptions written by patients.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).
- 8 Why didn't Eternity have this deformed age aborted? Its birthmark is the stamp of a newspaper, its medium is printer's ink, and in its veins flows ink.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).
- 9 The making of a journalist: no ideas and the ability to express them.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).
- 10 A historian is often only a journalist facing backwards.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).
- 11 How is the world ruled and led to war? Diplomats lie to journalists and believe these lies when they see them in print.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).
- 12 One ought to acknowledge the significance for mankind of the simultaneous invention of gunpowder and printer's ink.
Aphorism collected in Heinrich Fischer (ed) Beim Wort genommen (1955). Translated by Harry Zohn in Half-truths and one-and-a-half truths (1986).

1929 Speech in Holland. Quoted in Terry Lynn Taylor Messengers of Light, ch.32.
- 14 The authority of a belief imposed by religion surely destroys the discovery of reality. One relies on authority because one is afraid to stand alone.
1970 BBC interview, 7 Dec.

Kristol, Irving 1920–

US economist and academic, often considered as the founder of neoconservatism.

- 15 History does not provide us with any instance of a society that repressed the economic liberties of the individual while being solicitous of his other liberties.

1978 Two Cheers for Capitalism, introduction.

- 16 The fact of affluence is indisputable... Nevertheless, not many of us feel that well off. The instinct for contentment seems to have withered even as our economic condition has radically improved.

1978 Two Cheers for Capitalism, ch.1.

- 17 The elitist attitude is basically suspicious of, and hostile to, the market precisely because the market is so vulgarly democratic—one dollar, one vote.

1978 Two Cheers for Capitalism, ch.2.

Kroc, Ray(mond) A 1902–84

US entrepreneur, developer of the McDonald's fast-food chain.

- 18 Luck is a dividend of sweat. The more you sweat, the luckier you get.

1988 Quoted by Penny Moser 'The McDonald's Mystique', in Fortune, 4 Jul.

- 19 If they were drowning to death, I would put a hose in their mouth.

1988 On competitors. In Fortune, 4 Jul.

Kronecker, Leopold 1823–91

German mathematician, who worked in algebraic number theory and the foundations of analysis, and lectured widely. He held that mathematics should be based on whole numbers, rejecting the infinite, irrational and imaginary.

- 20 God made the integers, man made the rest.

Quoted in F Cajori A History of Mathematics (1919).

Kronenberger, Louis 1904–80

- 23 They have asked me for my trousers, and I have given them; for my coat, and I have given that also; now they want my life, and that I cannot give.

1899 Speech in the Raad, 7 Sep, at the beginning of the second Boer War, 1899–1902.

Krugman, Paul R 1953–

US economist and columnist, Professor of Economics and International Affairs at Princeton University.

- 24 The trouble with poverty, as an issue, is that it has basically exhausted the patience of the general public.

1992 The Age of Diminished Expectations.

- 25 Given that the deepest problem with the US economy is slow productivity growth, it is difficult to argue for tax increases that might reduce incentives... There seems to be a public consensus that Donald Trump is the price of progress.

1992 The Age of Diminished Expectations.

- 26 The exchange rate is only a statistic, not a symbol of national honor and virility.

1994 Quoted in the New York Times, 26 Jun.

Krutch, Joseph Wood 1893–1970

US author, teacher and critic. He is the author of The Modern Temper (1929) and The Measure of Man (1954).

- 27 A tragic writer does not have to believe in God, but he must believe in man.

1929 The Modern Temper, 'The Tragic Fallacy'.

- 28 Electronic calculators can solve problems which the man who made them cannot solve; but no government subsidized commission of engineers and physicists could create a worm.

1949 The Twelve Seasons, 'February'.

- 29 The most serious charge which can be brought against New England is not Puritanism but February.

1949 The Twelve Seasons, 'February'.

- 30 Cats seem to go on the principle that it never does any harm to ask for what you want.

1949 The Twelve Seasons, 'February'.

Kubrick, Stanley 1928–99

US screenwriter, film producer and director. His films include Spartacus (1960), 2001: A Space Odyssey (1969), the controversial A Clockwork Orange (1971) and Full Metal Jacket (1987).

1963 Dr Strangelove: or How I stopped worrying and learned to love the bomb (with Terry Southern and Peter George).

- 32 The great nations have always acted like gangsters, and the small nations like prostitutes.

1963 In The Guardian.

- 33 The very meaninglessness of life forces man to create his own meaning. If it can be written or thought, it can be filmed.

Quoted in Halliwel's Filmgoer's and Video Viewer's Companion (1999).

Kuhn, Maggie 1905–95

US writer and social reformer, founder of the Gray Panthers.

- 34 The ultimate indignity is to be given a bedpan by a stranger who calls you by your first name.

1978 In the Observer, 20 Aug.

Kuhn, Thomas S(amuel) 1922–96

US historian and philosopher of science. His major work is The Structure of Scientific Revolutions (1962), a cornerstone of modern approaches to the philosophy and history of science.

- 35 Effective research scarcely begins before a scientific community thinks it has acquired firm answers to questions like the following: What are the fundamental entities of which the universe is composed? How do these interact with each other and with the senses? What questions may legitimately be asked about such entities and what techniques employed in seeking solutions?

1962 The Structure of Scientific Revolutions.

Kundera, Milan 1929–

Czech-born French novelist.

36 The Unbearable Lightness of Being.

1984 Title of novel.

Küng, Hans 1928–

Swiss Roman Catholic theologian. His questioning of received doctrine aroused controversy, and the Vatican withdrew his authority to teach as a Catholic theologian in 1979. He defended himself in Why I Am Still A Christian (1987).

37 A Church which abandons the truth abandons itself.

Die Kirche (translated by Ray and Rosalee Ockenden as The Church, 1967).

38 A poem is at once the most primitive and most sophisticated use of language, but my emphasis is on the former.

1985 Next-to-Last Things, 'The Wisdom of the Body'.

39 The deepest thing I know is that I am living and dying at once, and my conviction is to report that dialogue.

1987 In the New York Times, 11 Mar.

Kuralt, Charles 1934–97

US writer and broadcaster.

40 It takes an earthquake to remind us that we walk on the crust of an unfinished earth.

1994 In Sunday Morning, CBS T V, 23 Jan.

Kurosawa, Akira 1910–98

Japanese film director and winner of numerous international awards for his films. Best known in the West for his full-blooded adaptations of Shakespeare.

41 Like a steak spread with butter and topped with good, rich, broiled eels.

1965 His concept of a great film. In Japan Quarterly, vol.12.

42 The Japanese see self-assertion as immoral and self-sacrifice as the sensible course to take in life.

1982 Something like an Autobiography.

Kushner, Tony 1956–

US playwright, whose highly political plays include the two-part Angels in America (1991–2, Pulitzer Prize 1993), on the effects of AIDS in New York.

43 I wanted to attempt something of ambition and size even if that meant I might be accused of straying too close to ambition's ugly twin, pretentiousness.

1993 Of his Angels in America, written in two parts. In the New York Times, 21 Nov.

Kurz, Mordecai 1934–

US economist, Professor at Stanford University.

44 There is only one truth, and many opinions. Therefore, most people are wrong most of the time.

1985 In Fortune, 3 Apr.

Kyd, Thomas 1558–94

English dramatist.

45 In time the savage bull sustains the yoke;

In time all haggard hawks will stoop to lure;
In time small wedges cleave the hardest oak,
In time the flint is pierced with softest shower,
And she in time will fall from her disdain,
And rue the sufferance of your friendly pain.

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 2, sc.1.

46 Where words prevail not, violence prevails;
But gold doth more than either of them both.

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 2, sc.1.

47 Oh eyes, no eyes, but fountains fraught with tears;

Oh life, no life, but lively form of death;
Oh world, no world, but mass of public wrongs.

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 3, sc.2.

48 I'll trust myself, myself shall be my friend.

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 3, sc.2.

49 Thus must we toil in other men's extremes,
That know not how to remedy our own.

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 3, sc.6.

50 For what's a play without a woman in it?

c.1589 The Spanish Tragedy, act 4, sc.1.

A poet of the École Lyonnaise who wrote sonnets, elegies and a prose work, Débat de Folie et d'Amour (1555, 'Debate Between Folly and Love').

51 *Quelque rigueur qui loge en votre coeur,
Amour s'en peut un jour rendre vainqueur.*

That little harshness which resides in your heart,
Love will vanquish someday.

1555 Élégies, no.1.

52 Où donc es-tu, ô âme bien-aimée?

Where are you now, oh soul desired?

1555 Sonnets, no.6.

53 Je vis, je meurs; je me brûle et me noie.

I live, I die; I am on fire and I drown.

1555 Sonnets, no.8.

54 *Ne reprenez, dame, si j'ai aimé,
Si j'ai senti mille torches ardentes,*

*Mille travaux, mille douleurs mordantes,
Si, en pleurant, j'ai mon temps consumé.*

Do not blame me, madam, if I loved,
If I felt one thousand burning torches,
One thousand labours, or one thousand scathing pains,
If, in crying, I spent all my time.

1555 Sonnets, no.24.

Labouchère, Henry Du Pré 1831–1912

English radical journalist and politician. A Liberal MP (1865–8, 1880–1906), in 1876 he founded the investigative journal Truth.

55 Nothing has conduced more to shake that decent respect for the living symbol of the state that goes by the name of royalty than the ever-recurring rattle of the money box.

1884 In the Fortnightly Review, Feb.

La Bruyère, Jean de 1645–96

French moralist author who tutored Louis de Bourbon, grandson of the Great Condé. His Caractères de Théophraste (1688) made his reputation but won him many enemies.

56 Tout est dit, et l'on vient trop tard depuis plus de sept mille ans qu'il y a des hommes et qui pensent.
Everything has been said. After seven thousand years of human thought, we have come too late.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des ouvrages de l'esprit', no.1.

57 C'est un métier que de faire un livre, comme de faire une pendule; il faut plus que de l'esprit pour être auteur.

It is as much a trade to write a book as it is to make a watch; it takes more than wit to make an author.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des ouvrages de l'esprit', no.3.

58 Une belle femme qui a les qualités d'un honnête homme est ce qu'il y a au monde d'un commerce plus délicieux: l'on trouve en elle tout le mérite des deux sexes.

A beautiful woman who has the qualities of a gentleman is the most pleasing person in all the world: one finds in her all the merit of both sexes.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des femmes', no.13.

59 Les femmes sont extrêmes: elles sont meilleures ou pires que les hommes.

Women are all in extremes: they are either better or worse than men.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des femmes', no.53.

60 Un homme est plus fidèle au secret d'autrui qu'au sien propre; une femme au contraire garde mieux son secret que celui d'autrui.

A man keeps another person's secret better than his own; a woman, on the contrary, keeps her own secrets better than those of others.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des femmes', no.58.

61 Une femme insensible est celle qui n'a pas encore vu celui qu'elle doit aimer.

A dispassionate woman is one who has yet to see the one she should love.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des femmes', no.81.

62 Le temps, qui fortifie les amitiés, affaiblit l'amour.

Time, which strengthens friendships, weakens love.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.4.

63 L'amour et l'amitié s'excluent l'un l'autre.

Love and friendship exclude one another.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.7.

64 L'amour qui naît subitement est le plus long à guérir.

Love which strikes suddenly takes the longest to cure.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.12.

65 Les amours meurent par le dégoût, et l'oublie les enterre.
Loves die from disgust, and forgetting buries them.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.32.

66 Qu'il est difficile d'être content de quelqu'un!

How difficult it is to be happy with someone!

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.65.

67 L'esclave n'a qu'un maître; l'ambitieux en a autant qu'il y a des gens utiles à sa fortune.

A slave has but one master; an ambitious person has as many as he needs to make his fortune.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Du cœur', no.70.

68 Il fera demain ce qu'il fait aujourd'hui et ce qu'il fit hier; et il meurt ainsi après avoir vécu.

What he does tomorrow will be what he did today and yesterday; and he shall die after having lived this way.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De la ville', no.12.

69 La vie est courte et ennuyeuse: elle se passe toute à désirer.

Life is short and bothersome: all we do is desire what we do not have.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.19.

70 Si la vie est misérable, elle est pénible à supporter; si elle est heureuse, il est horrible de la perdre. L'un revient à l'autre.

If life is miserable, it is difficult to endure; if it is happy, it is horrible to lose. They come to the same thing.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.33.

71 A parler humainement, la mort a un bel endroit, qui est de mettre fin à la vieillesse.

To speak humanely, death has a useful function: it puts an end to old age.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.45.

72 Il n'y a pour l'homme que trois événements: naître, vivre et mourir. Il ne se sent pas naître, il souffre à mourir, et il oublie de vivre.

There are only three great events for a person: to be born, to live and to die. He does not feel his own birth, he suffers upon death and he forgets to live.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.48.

73 Les enfants sont hautains, dédaigneux, colères, envieux, curieux, intéressés, paresseux, volages, timides, intempérants, menteurs, dissimulés... ils ne veulent point souffrir de mal, et aiment à en faire: ils sont déjà des hommes.

Children are haughty, disdainful, angry, envious, curious, interested, lazy, fickle, shy, self-indulgent, liars, deceivers... they do not wish to suffer evil, but like to do evil: they are already adults.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.50.

74 Les enfants n'ont ni passé ni avenir, et, ce qui ne nous arrive guère, ils jouissent du présent.

Children have neither past nor future. They live in the present, something which rarely happens to us.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.51.

75 Il y a une espèce de honte d'être heureux à la vue de certaines misères.

There is a type of shame which comes from being happy at another's distress.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.82.

76 La plupart des hommes emploient la meilleure partie de leur vie à rendre l'autre misérable.

Most people spend the greater part of their lives making others miserable.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'De l'homme', no.102.

77 Le flatteur n'a pas assez bonne opinion de soi ni des autres.

The flatterer does not have a good opinion of himself or of others.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des jugements', no.90.

78 Ceux qui emploient mal leur temps sont les premiers à se plaindre de sa brièveté.

Those who make poor use of their time are the first to complain of its brevity.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des jugements', no.101.

79 L'impossibilité où je suis de prouver que Dieu n'est pas me découvre son existence.

The impossibility I find myself in to prove that God does not exist proves to me his existence.

1688 Les Caractères ou les mœurs de ce siècle, 'Des esprits forts', no.13.

The glory of the resistance and the pleasure of the defeat are our two favourite passions.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 10.

82 Il ne faut se permettre d'excès qu'avec les gens qu'on veut quitter bientôt.

We should never permit ourselves to behave in excess except with those whom we will leave soon.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 10.

83 En vérité, plus je vis, et plus je suis tenté de croire qu'il n'y a que vous et moi dans le monde, qui valions quelque chose.

In truth, the more I live, the more I am tempted to believe that only you and I are of any value at all in the world.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 100.

84 J'avoue bien que l'argent ne fait pas le bonheur; mais il faut avouer aussi qu'il le facilite beaucoup.

I will admit that money does not bring happiness, but it must also be admitted that it facilitates much.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 104.

85 Ce n'est pas assez pour moi de la posséder, je veux qu'elle se livre.

It's not enough to possess her. I want her to abandon herself.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 110.

86 La haine est toujours plus clairvoyante et plus ingénieuse que l'amitié.

Hate is always more clairvoyant and ingenious than friendship.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 113.

87 Pour les hommes, l'infidélité n'est pas l'inconstance.

For men, infidelity is not inconstancy.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 134.

88 On s'ennuie de tout, mon Ange, c'est une loi de la Nature; ce n'est pas ma faute.

One gets bored of everything, my Angel, it's a law of nature; it's not my fault.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 141.

89 Quand une femme frappe dans le coeur d'une autre, elle manque rarement de trouver l'endroit sensible, et la blessure est incurable.

When one woman touches another's heart, she rarely has trouble finding the sensitive spot and the wound is incurable.

1782 Les Liaisons dangereuses, letter 145.

90 Apprenez qu'on ne sort de l'esclavage que par une grande révolution.

Learn that one never escapes slavery except by a great revolution.

1785 De l'Éducation des femmes.

37 Fanny Kelly's divine plain face.

1818 Letter to Mary Wordsworth, 18 Feb. Collected in H. H. Harpeter (ed) Letters of Charles Lamb, vol.4 (1905).

38 Newspapers always excite curiosity. No one ever lays one down without a feeling of disappointment.

1822 In the London Magazine, May–Jul. Collected in Essays of Elia, 'Detached Thoughts of Books and Reading'.

39 Who first invented work—and tied the free

And holy-day rejoicing spirit down

To the ever-haunting importunity

Of business?

1822 Letter to Bernard Barton, 11 Sep. Collected in H. H. Harpeter (ed) Letters of Charles Lamb, vol.4 (1905).

40 I hate a man who swallows it, affecting not to know what he is eating. I suspect his taste in higher matters.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'Grace Before Meat'.

41 In everything that relates to science, I am a whole Encyclopedia behind the rest of the world.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'The Old and the New Schoolmaster'.

42 I know that a sweet child is the sweetest thing in nature...but the prettier the kind of a thing is, the more desirable it is that it should be pretty of its kind.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'A Bachelor's Complaint of the Behaviour of Married People'.

43 If the husband be a man with whom you have lived on a friendly footing before marriage,—if you did not come in on the wife's side,—if you did not sneak into the house in her train, but were an old friend in first habits of intimacy before their courtship was so much as thought on,—look about you... Every long friendship, every old authentic intimacy, must be brought into their office to be new stamped with their currency, as a sovereign Prince calls in the good old money that was coined in some reign before he was born or thought of, to be new marked and minted with the stamp of his authority, before he will let it pass current in the world.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'A Bachelor's Complaint of the Behaviour of Married People'.

44 Ceremony is an invention to take off the uneasy feeling which we derive from knowing ourselves to be less the object of love and esteem with a fellow-creature than some other person is. It endeavours to make up, by superior attentions in little points, for that invidious preference which it is forced to deny in the greater.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'A Bachelor's Complaint of the Behaviour of Married People'.

45 Sentimentally I am disposed to harmony. But organically I am incapable of a tune.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'A Chapter on Ears'.

46 I have no ear.

1823 Essays of Elia, 'A Chapter on Ears'.

47 Presents, I often say, endear Absents.

- 71 If somebody's gonna stab me in the back, I wanna be there.

1990 Quotations from Chairman Lamport.

Lancaster, Sir James c.1554–1618

English navigator, soldier and merchant. He visited the East Indies in 1591–4 and in 1595 captured Pernambuco. In 1600–3 he commanded the first fleet of the East India Company to visit the East Indies. He promoted the voyages of Hudson, Baffin and others in search of the Northwest Passage.

- 72 I cannot tell where you should look for me, if you send out any pinnacle to seek me; because I live at the devotion of the wind and seas. And thus fare you well; desiring God to send us a merry meeting in this world, if it be his good will and pleasure.

c.1594 Letter to the East India Company written on the homeward voyage when the two English ships ran into storms off the Cape of Good Hope. Lancaster's ship lost her rudder. Unwilling to risk the other ship, Lancaster ordered her captain to sail straight home, taking the letter with him. A voyage with three tall ships, the Penelope, admirall, the Marchant Royall, vice-admiral, and the Edward Bonaventure, rear-admiral, to the East Indies... Begun By M. George Raymond, in the yeere 1591, and performed by M. James Lancaster; and written from the mouth of Edmund Barker of Ipswich (his lieutenant in the sayd voyage) by M. Richard Hakluyt.

Lance, Bert

Former US White House Budget Director.

- 73 Go out on the front porch of the house, turn the Washington Post over with your big toe, and if your name's above the fold, you know you're not going to have a good day.

1993 Of the Bert Lance Toe Test which he devised for his nine months in the Carter administration. In the Washington Post, 6 Oct.

Landers, Ann 1918–2002

US newspaper columnist and 'agony aunt', who offered advice and information on topics such as family life, marriage, social issues and health.

- 74 Women complain about sex more often than men. Their gripes fall into two major categories: (1) Not enough. (2) Too much.

1968 Truth Is Stranger..., ch.2.

Landor, Walter Savage 1775–1864

English writer and poet. His Imaginary Conversations of Literary Men and Statesmen (1824–9) was celebrated in its day but has lost popularity. Other works include Hellenics (1847) and Dry Sticks Fagoted (1858).

- 75 Ah, what avails the sceptred race!

Ah, what the form divine!

1806 'Rose Aylmer'.

- 76 Clear writers, like clear fountains, do not seem so deep as they are; the turbid look the most profound.

1824 Imaginary Conversations of Literary Men and Statesmen, 'Southey and Porson'.

- 77 Fleas know not whether they are upon the body of a giant or upon one of ordinary size.

1824 Imaginary Conversations of Literary Men and Statesmen, 'Southey and Porson'.

- 78 Past ruined Iliion Helen lives,
Alcestis rises from the shades;
Verse calls them forth; 'tis verse that gives
Immortal youth to mortal maids.

1831 'To Ianthe'.

- 79 There is delight in singing, tho' none hear
Beside the singer.

1846 'To Robert Browning'.

- 80 Three gentle Spenser fondly led;
But me he mostly sent to bed.

- 81 There are no fields of amaranth on this side of the grave.

1846 Imaginary Conversations of Literary Men and Statesmen, 'Aesop and Rhodope'.

- 82 Death stands above me, whispering low

I know not what into my ear;
Of his strange language all I know
Is, there is not a word of fear.

1853 'Death stands above me'.

- 83 I strove with none; for none was worth my strife;
Nature I loved, and, next to Nature, Art.

1853 'Dying Speech of an Old Philosopher'.

- 84 Ireland never was contented...

Say you so? You are demented.
Ireland was contented when
All could use the sword and pen,
And when Tara rose so high
That her turrets split the sky,
And about her courts were seen
Liveried Angels robed in green,
Wearing, by St. Patrick's bounty,
Emeralds big as half a county.

1853 'Ireland never was contented'.

- 85 Prose on certain occasions can bear a great deal of poetry: on the other hand, poetry sinks and swoons under a moderate weight of prose.

1853 Imaginary Conversations of Greeks and Romans, 'Archdeacon Hare and Walter Landor'.

Landowska, Wanda 1879–1959

Polish pianist, harpsichordist and musical scholar, who founded the École de Musique Ancienne near Paris in 1927, and stimulated a new interest in the harpsichord. She also composed songs and piano and orchestral pieces and wrote on music.

Refusing to adapt her technique to suit another Bach specialist. Quoted in Clifton Fadiman The Faber Book of Anecdotes (1985).

Lane, Anthony 1962–

English journalist, film critic at the New Yorker since 1993.

- 87 There is more suspense, more dramatic torque, in one page of [Nathaniel] Hawthorne's heart-racked ruminations on the Christian conscience than in all Demi Moore's woodland gallops and horizontal barn dancing. On the film adaptation of The Scarlet Letter, directed by Roland Joffé. In Nobody's Perfect: Writings from The New Yorker (2002).

- 88 If you are going to spend two hundred million dollars on a movie, this is the way to do it.

Admiring the film Titanic. In Nobody's Perfect: Writings from The New Yorker (2002).

Lang, Andrew 1844–1912

Scottish man of letters. He specialized in mythology, famously arguing against Max Müller that folktale was the foundation of literary mythology. He also wrote history texts, popular fairy books, studies of literary figures and poetry.

- 89 Politicians use statistics in the same way that a drunk uses lamp-posts—for support rather than illumination.

1910 Speech. Quoted in Alan L Mackay The Harvest of a Quiet Eye (1977).

- 90 If the wild bowler thinks he bowls
Or if the batsman thinks he's bowled,
They know not, poor misguided souls,
They too shall perish unconsolated.

*I am the batsman and the bat,
I am the bowler and the ball,
The umpire, the pavilion cat,
The roller, pitch, and stumps and all.*

'Brahma'. Quoted by Alan Richardson in a letter to The Times, 18 May, 1963.

► See Emerson 313:39.

- 91 Don't forget the western is not only the history of this country, it is what the Saga of the Nibelungen is for the European.

Quoted in Peter Bogdanovich Fritz Lang in America (1967).

Langbridge, Frederick 1849–1923

English religious writer.

- 92 Two men look out through the same bars:

One sees the mud, and one the stars.

1896 A Cluster of Quiet Thoughts.

Langland, William c.1332–c.1400

English poet. Little is known of his life but he seems to have been in London in 1362 when he began his only known work, the long poem Vision of William concerning Piers the Plowman, the greatest poem of the Middle English Alliterative Revival. It deals with the themes of truth, integrity and social justice. Three versions survive in over 60 manuscripts. It was first printed in 1550.

- 93 In a somer seson, whan softe was the sonne,
I shoop me into shroudes as I a sheep were,
In habite an heremite unholy of werkes,
Went wide in this world wondres to here.
c.1377 Piers Plowman (B text), prologue, l.1–4.
(shoop = got, shroudes = garments)
- 94 A gloten of wordes.
c.1377 Piers Plowman (B text), prologue, l.139.
(gloten = glutton)
- 95 'Though we hadde ykilled the cat, yat sholde there come
another
To cracchen us ans al oure kynde, though we copen under benches.'
c.1377 The wise mouse advises against belling the cat. Piers Plowman (B text), prologue, l.185–6.
(cracchen = scratch, copen = crept)
- 96 He was bitelbrowed and baberlipped, with two blered
eighen,
And as a letheren purs lolled his chekes.
c.1377 A description of the sin of Envy. Piers Plowman (B text),
'Passus 5', l.188–9. (eighen = eyes, letheren = leather)
- 97 Al the povere peple tho pescoddes fetten;
Benes and baken apples thei broghte in hir lappe,
Chibolles and chervelles and ripe chiries manye,
And profrede Piers this present to plesse with Hunger.
c.1378 A description of the sin of Envy. Piers Plowman (B text),
'Passus 6', l.291–4.
(pescoddes = pea-pod, fetten = fetched, chibolles = spring-onions, chervelles = chervil, plesse with Hunger = please hunger with)
- 98 Ac thorough his science soothy was nevere no soule
ysaved,
Ne broght by hir bokes to blisse ne to joye.
c.1378 Piers Plowman (B text), 'Passus 12', l.134–5.
The 'science' and 'books' are those of pagan scholars who developed natural science from empirical observation only.
- 99 'Counseilleth me, Kynde,' quod I, 'what craft be best to lerne?'
'Lerne to love,' quod kynde, 'and leef alle othere.'
c.1378 Piers Plowman (B text), 'Passus 20', l.207–8.

Langner, Lawrence 1890–1962

Co-founder, US Theater Guild.

- 1 I have no interest in anything but genius, so please sit down.
To Tennessee Williams. Recalled in Williams Memoirs (1975).

Lanier, Sidney 1842–81

US poet. He fought in the Civil War for the Confederacy. His critical study The Science of English Verse (1880) establishes a musical basis for poetry which he tries to exemplify in his verse.

- 2 Music is Love in search of a word.

1875 The Symphony.

Lanyer, Aemilia 1569–1645

English poet. One of the very few professional early female poets, she was unable to secure patronage and published only one work, Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum (1611). It has been argued (unconvincingly) that she is the 'dark lady' of Shakespeare's Sonnets.

- 3 Our mother Eve, who tasted of the tree,
Giving to Adam what she held most dear,
Was simply good, and had no power to see.
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'Eve's Apology in Defense of Women'.
- 4 But surely Adam cannot be excused;
Her fault though great, yet he was most to blame;
What weakness offered, strength might have refused,
Being lord of all, the greater was the shame.
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'Eve's Apology in Defense of Women'.
- 5 Not Eve, whose fault was only too much love,
Which made her give this present to her dear,
That what she tasted he likewise might prove,
Whereby his knowledge might become more clear;
He never sought her weakness to reprove
With those sharp words which he of God did hear;
Yet men will boast of knowledge, which he took
From Eve's fair hand, as from a learned book.
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'Eve's Apology in Defense of Women'.
- 6 Then let us have our liberty again,
And challenge to yourselves no sovereignty.
You came not in the world without our pain,
Make that a bar against your cruelty;
Your fault being greater, why should you disdain
Our being your equals, free from tyranny?
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'Eve's Apology in Defense of Women'.
- 7 Farewell (sweet Cooke-ham) where I first obtained
Grace from that grace where perfect grace remained;
And where the muses gave their full consent,
I should have power the virtuous to content;
Where princely palace willed me to indite,
The sacred story of the soul's delight.
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'The Description of Cooke-ham'.
Probably the first 'country-house' poem in English, this work is dedicated to Margaret Russell Clifford, Countess of Cumberland, and her daughter, Anne Clifford, whose family home was Cookham.
- 8 Never shall my sad eyes again behold
Those pleasures which my thoughts did then unfold.
1611 Salve Deus Ex Judaeorum, 'The Description of Cooke-ham'.

Lao-Tzu 6c BC

Chinese philosopher regarded as the inspiration for Taoism. His major work, the Tao-te Ching was compiled some 300 years after his death but is traditionally ascribed to him.

- 9 Free from desire, you realise the mystery.
Caught in desire, you see only the manifestations.
c.250 BC Tao-te Ching, no.1 (translated by Stephen Mitchell, 1988).
- 10 He who defines himself can't know who he really is.

c.250 BC Tao-te Ching, no.24 (translated by Stephen Mitchell, 1988).

- 11 Even in victory, there is no beauty, and he who calls it beautiful is one who delights in slaughter.
c.250 BC Tao-te Ching, no.31. Collected in LinYutang (trans and ed) The Wisdom of China and India (1942).
- 12 A victory should be celebrated with the funeral rite.
c.250 BC Tao-te Ching, no.31. Collected in LinYutang (trans and ed) The Wisdom of China and India (1942).
- 13 When two equally matched armies meet, it is the man of sorrow who wins.
c.250 BC Tao-te Ching, no.69. Collected in LinYutang (trans and ed) The Wisdom of China and India (1942).

Lardner, Dionysus 1793–1859

Irish scientific writer, Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy at University College London (1827). He is best known as the originator and editor of Lardner's Cabinet Cyclopaedia (133 vols, 1829–49).

- 14 Men might as well project a voyage to the Moon as attempt to employ steam navigation against the stormy North Atlantic Ocean.
1838 Speech to the British Association for the Advancement of Science, London.

Lardner, James

US journalist, former staff writer for the New Yorker. He is the director and founder of Inequality.org, a non-profit organization.

- 15 If...Americans do not succeed in engineering an economic revival, we can look forward to being remembered as, of all the nations that have prospered and declined, the one that has done so in the highest state of self-awareness.
1993 'The Declining Middle', in the New Yorker, 3 May.

Lardner, Ring(Old Wilmer) 1885–1933

US short story writer, novelist and columnist. He is best known for his vernacular, comic, satirical and usually pessimistic short stories.

- 16 Are you lost daddy I asked tenderly.
Shut up he explained.
1920 The Young Immigrants, ch.10.
- 17 I have known what it was like to be hungry, but I always went right to a restaurant.
1927 The Lardners: My Family Remembered, ch.1.
- 18 'Babe' Ruth and Old Jack Dempsey,
Both Sultans of Swat,
One hits where the other people are,
The other where they're not.
Attributed.

Larionov, Mikhail 1881–1964

Russian painter and designer.

- 19 We declare: the genius of our days to be: trousers, jackets, shoes, tramways, buses, aeroplanes, railways, magnificent ships—what an enchantment—what a great epoch unrivalled in world history.
1913 'Rayonist Manifesto', quoted in C Gray The Russian Experiment in Art (revised edn 1986).

Larkin, Philip Arthur 1922–85

English poet, novelist and essayist. He was librarian at Hull University, and a jazz critic. His meticulously phrased, frequently pessimistic but often tongue-in-cheek poems include 'The Whitsun Weddings' (1964) and 'High Windows' (1974).

- 20 Always too eager for the future, we
Pick up bad habits of expectancy.
1951 'Next, Please'.
- 21 What are days for?
Days are where we live.
They come, they wake us
Time and time over.
They are to be happy in:
Where can we live but days?
1953 'Days'.
- 22 What calls me is that lifted, rough-tongued bell
(Art, if you like) whose individual sound
Insists I too am an individual.
1953 'Reasons for Attendance'.
- 23 And the case of butterflies so rich it looks
As if all summer settled there and died.
1953 'Autumn'.
- 24 Nothing, like something, happens anywhere.
1954 'I Remember, I Remember'.
- 25 On me your voice falls as they say love should,
Like an enormous yes.
1954 'For Sidney Bechet'.
- 26 Hatless, I take off
My cycle-clips in awkward reverence.
1954 'Church Going'.
- 27 A serious house on serious earth it is,
In whose blent air all our compulsions meet,
Are recognised, and robed as destinies.
1954 'Church Going'.
- 28 Why should I let the toad work
Squat on my life?
Can't I use my wit as a pitchfork
And drive the brute off?
Six days of the week it soils
With its sickening poison—
Just for paying a few bills!
That's out of proportion.
1954 'Toads'.
- 29 Marrying left your maiden name disused.
1955 'Maiden Name'.
- 30 Time has transfigured them into Untruth. The stone fidelity
They hardly meant has come to be
Their final blazon, and to prove
Our almost-instinct almost true:
What will survive of us is love.
1956 'An Arundel Tomb'.
- 31 Never such innocence,
Never before or since,
As changed itself to past
Without a word—the men
Leaving the gardens tidy,
The thousands of marriages
Lasting a little while longer:

- Never such innocence again.
1960 'MCMXIV'.
- 32 Get stewed:
Books are a load of crap.
1960 'A Study of Reading Habits'.
- 33 The widening river's slow presence,
The piled gold clouds, the shining gull-marked mud,
Gathers to the surprise of a large town:
Here domes and statues, spires and cranes cluster
Beside grain-scattered streets, barge-crowded water,
And residents from raw estates.
1961 Of Hull. 'Here'.
- 34 Give me your arm, old toad;
Help me down Cemetery Road.
1962 'Toads Revisited'.
- 35 Life is first boredom, then fear.
1963 'Dockery and Son'.
- 36 I thought of London spread out in the sun,
Its postal districts packed like squares of wheat.
1964 'The Whitsun Weddings'.
- 37 Sexual intercourse began
In nineteen sixty-three
(Which was rather late for me)—
Between the end of the Chatterly ban
And the Beatles' first LP.
1967 'Annus Mirabilis'.
- 38 They fuck you up, your mum and dad.
They may not mean to, but they do.
They fill you with the faults they had
And add some extra, just for you.
1971 'This Be the Verse'.
- 39 Man hands on misery to man.
It deepens like a coastal shelf.
Get out as early as you can,
And don't have any kids yourself.
1971 'This Be the Verse'.
- 40 I should never call myself a book lover, any more than a people lover: it all depends what's inside them.
1972 In the London Antiquarian Book Fair programme.
- 41 Perhaps being old is having lighted rooms
Inside your head, and people in them, acting.
People you know, yet can't quite name.
1973 'The Old Fools'.
- 42 You can't put off being young until you retire,
And however you bank your screw, the money you save
Won't in the end buy you more than a shave.
1973 'Money'.
- 43 And beyond it, the deep blue air, that shows
Nothing, and is nowhere, and is endless.
1974 'High Windows'.
- 44 That sure extinction that we travel to
And shall be lost in always. Not to be here,
Not to be anywhere,
And soon; nothing more terrible, nothing more true.
1977 'Aubade'.
- 45 That vast moth-eaten musical brocade
Created to pretend we never die.
1977 Of religion. 'Aubade'.
- 46 Far too many relied on the classic formula of a beginning, a muddle, and an end.

1978 On judging the Booker Prize entries for 1977, in New Fiction, no.15, Jan.

- 47 Deprivation is for me what daffodils were for Wordsworth.

1983 Required Writing.

La Rochefoucauld, François, 6th Duc de 1613–80

French writer. A supporter of the queen, Marie de Médicis, and an opponent of Richelieu, he was entangled in a series of amorous adventures and political intrigues. His Mémoires, published secretly in 1662, caused wide offence and were followed by his Réflexions, ou sentences et maximes morales (1664).

- 48 The love of justice in most men is simply the fear of suffering injustice.
1664 Réflexions, ou sentences et maximes morales, no.78.
- 49 Dans l'adversité de nos meilleurs amis, nous trouvons toujours quelque chose qui ne nous déplaît pas.
In the misfortune of our best friends, we always find something which is not displeasing to us.
1664 Réflexions, ou sentences et maximes morales, no.99.
- 50 On n'est jamais si malheureux qu'on croit, ni si heureux qu'on espère.
One is never as unhappy as one thinks, nor as happy as one hopes.
1664 Réflexions, ou sentences et maximes morales, no.128.
- 51 Nous avons tous assez de force pour supporter les maux d'autrui.
We are all strong enough to bear the misfortunes of others.
1678 Maximes, no.19.
- 52 L'hypocrisie est un hommage que le vice rend à la vertu.
Hypocrisy is a tribute which vice pays to virtue.
1678 Maximes, no.218.
- 53 L'absence diminue les médiocres passions, et augmente les grandes, comme le vent éteint les bougies, et allume le feu.
Absence diminishes commonplace passions, and increases great ones, as wind extinguishes candles and kindles fire.
1678 Maximes, no.276.
- 54 L'accent du pays où l'on est né demeure dans l'esprit et dans le cœur comme dans le langage.
The accent of the place in which one was born lingers in the mind and in the heart as it does in one's speech.
1678 Maximes, no.342.

Larwood, Harold 1904–95

English cricketer. He became notorious in the 1932–3 tour of Australia, employed by D R Jardine to bowl 'Bodyline', which led to several batsmen being seriously hurt. He retired from Test cricket as a result of the ensuing furore and eventually settled in Australia.

- 55 A cricket tour in Australia would be a most delightful period in one's life if one was deaf.
1933 Body-line.
- 56 Bodyline was devised to stifle Bradman's batting genius.
They said I was a 'killer with the ball', without taking into account that Bradman, with the bat, was the greatest killer of all.
1965 Of the 'Bodyline' controversy. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

57 I darned near bowled him that time.

Attributed. Said to an umpire who had disallowed two previous appeals, on clean bowling a batsman, knocking down the entire wicket.

59 Pick out of every country what's best in it.

c.1650 The Voyage of Italy, or a Compleat Journey through Italy (published 1670).

60 [Travel] preserves my young nobleman from surfeiting of his parents, and weans him from a dangerous fondness of his mother. It teacheth him wholesome hardship... Whereas the country gentleman that never travelled, can scarce go to London without making his will, at least without wetting his handkerchief.

c.1650 The Voyage of Italy, or a Compleat Journey through Italy (published 1670).

Latimer, Hugh c.1485–1555

English theologian, Bishop of Worcester and Protestant martyr. After Mary I's accession he was tried for heresy and burned at the stake in Oxford.

61 Be of good comfort Master Ridley, and play the man. We shall this day light such a candle by God's grace in England, as (I trust) shall never be put out.

1555 Spoken to Nicholas Ridley, as they waited together to be burned at the stake, 16 Oct. Quoted in Foxe Acts and Monuments (1563).

Lauder, Sir Harry (Hugh MacLennan) 1870–1950

Scottish comedian and music-hall entertainer.

62 Will yer stop yer tickling, Jock!

Oh, stop yer tickling, Jock!
Dinna mak' me laugh so hearty, or you'll mak' me choke.
Oh! I wish you'd stop yer nonsense—just look at all the folk.

Will yer stop yer tickling—tickle-ickle-ickle-ing—
Stop yer tickling, Jock!

1904 'Stop Yer Tickling, Jock!', chorus.

63 I love a lassie, a bonnie, bonnie lassie,
She's as pure as the lily in the dell.

She's as sweet as the heather
The bonnie bloomin' heather—
Mary, ma Scotch Bluebell.

1905 'I Love a Lassie', or 'Ma Scotch Bluebell', chorus.

64 Roamin' in the gloamin' on the bonnie banks o' Clyde.
Roamin' in the gloamin' wae my lassie by my side.
When the sun has gone to rest,

That's the time that we love best—
O, it's lovely roamin' in the gloamin'!

1911 'Roamin' in the Gloamin', chorus.

65 Keep right on to the end of the road,

Keep right on to the end.
Tho' the way be long let your heart be strong,
Keep right on round the bend.

Tho' you're tired and weary
Still journey on, till you come to your happy abode,
Where all you love you've been dreaming of
Will be there, at the end of the road.

1924 'The End of the Road', chorus.

69 Privacy is a privilege not granted to the aged or the young.

1964 The Stone Angel, ch.1.

70 Even if heaven were real, and measured as Revelation says, so many cubits this way and that, how gimcrack a place it would be, crammed with its pavements of gold, its gates of pearl and topaz, like a gigantic chunk of costume jewelry.

1964 The Stone Angel, ch.4.

71 In bygone days, Morag had once believed that nothing could be worse than killing a person. Now she perceived river-slaying as something worse.

1974 The Diviners, ch.1.

Laurencin, Marie 1885–1956

French artist, best known for her portraits of women in misty pastel colours. She also illustrated many books with watercolours and lithographs. She exhibited at the Salon des Indépendants in 1907.

72 My ambition is that men should have a voluptuous feeling when they look at the portraits I paint of women. Love interests me more than painting. My pictures are the love stories I tell to myself and which I want to tell others.

Quoted in Gabrielle Buffet 'Marie Laurencin', in The Arts 3 (1903).

Lautréamont, Comte de properly Isidore Ducasse 1846–70

French writer, hailed by the Surrealists as one of their forerunners for his psychological poetry. His death at the age of twenty-four remains a mystery.

- 73 Il n'était pas menteur, il avouait la vérité et disait qu'il était cruel.
He was not a liar. He admitted the truth and said that he was cruel.
1868 Les Chants de Maldoror, pt.1.
- 74 Oui, quel est le plus profond, le plus impénétrable des deux: l'océan ou le cœur humain?
What is deeper, more impenetrable: the ocean or the human heart?
1868 Les Chants de Maldoror, pt.1.
- 75 Moi, je n'aime pas les femmes! Ni même les hermaphrodites! Il me faut des êtres qui me ressemblent, sur le front desquels la noblesse humaine soit marquée en caractères plus tranchés et ineffaçables!
Me, I do not like women! Nor even hermaphrodites! I need beings who resemble me, on whose foreheads nobility is engraved in sharp and unerasable characters.
1868 Les Chants de Maldoror, pt.5.
- 76 Si vous êtes malheureux, il ne faut pas le dire au lecteur. Gardez cela pour vous.
If you are miserable, you should not say so to the reader. Keep it for yourself.
1870 Poésies, pt.1.
- 77 Il faut que la critique attaque la forme, jamais le fond de vos idées, de vos phrases. Arrangez-vous.
A critic must attack the form, never the foundation of your ideas and phrases. See to it.
1870 Poésies, pt.1.
- 78 Si la morale de Cléopâtre eût été moins courte, la face du monde aurait changé. Son nez n'en serait pas devenu plus long.
If Cleopatra's morality had been less short, the face of the world would have been altered. Her nose would not thereby have grown longer.
1870 Poésies, pt.2.
- 79 La poésie doit être faite par tous. Non par un. Pauvre Hugo!
Poetry should be composed by everyone. Not by one. Poor Hugo!
1870 Poésies, pt.2.
- 80 On ne peut juger de la beauté de la vie que par celle de la mort.
One can only judge the beauty of life through death.
1870 Poésies, pt.2.

Laver, James 1899–1975

English poet, writer and art critic, and Keeper at the Victoria and Albert Museum (1922–59). He made a substantial contribution to the history of English costume.

- 81 The same costume will be
Indecent... 10 years before its time
Shameless... 5 years before its time
Ouvé (daring)... 1 year before its time

Smart
Dowdy... 1 year after its time
Hideous... 10 years after its time
Ridiculous... 20 years after its time
Amusing... 30 years after its time
Quaint... 50 years after its time
Charming... 70 years after its time
Romantic... 100 years after its time
Beautiful... 150 years after its time.
1937 Taste and Fashion, ch.18.

- 82 A visitor from Mars contemplating a man in a frock coat and top hat and a woman in a crinoline might well have supposed that they belonged to different species.
1969 The Concise History of Costume and Fashion, ch.8.

Lavoisier, Antoine Laurent 1743–94

French chemist and physicist, one of the fathers of modern chemistry. He was one of the first to use effective quantitative methods to study chemical reactions.

- 83 We must trust to nothing but facts. These are presented to us by Nature, and cannot deceive. We ought, in every instance, to submit our reasoning to the test of experiment, and never to search for truth but by the natural road of experiment and observation.
1789 Traité élémentaire de la chimie ('Elements of Chemistry', translated by Robert Kerr).

Law, (Andrew) Bonar 1858–1923

Canadian-born British Unionist politician. He was Chancellor of the Exchequer (1916–18) and from 1916 Leader of the House of Commons. He retired in 1921, but returned to serve as Prime Minister (1922–3).

- 84 I can imagine no length of resistance to which Ulster can go in which I should not be prepared to support them, and in which, in my belief, they would not be supported by the overwhelming majority of the British people.
1912 During the Irish Home Rule crisis, 27 Jul.

Law, William 1686–1761

English divine, whose writings expounded the mysticism of Jakob Boehme.

- 85 I take it for granted that every Christian that is in health is up early in the morning; for it is much more reasonable to suppose a person up early because he is a Christian than because he is a labourer or a tradesman or a servant or has business that wants him.
1728 A Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life.
- 86 If, therefore, a man will so live as to show that he feels and believes the most fundamental doctrines of Christianity, he must live above the world.
1728 A Serious Call to a Devout and Holy Life.

Lawrence, D(avid) H(erb)ert 1885–1930

English novelist, poet and essayist. He was the son of a miner, and much of his fiction reflected his upbringing. His candid treatment of emotion and physical love led to prosecution for obscenity with The Rainbow in 1915, and Lady Chatterley's Lover in 1928 (and 1961). He lived in Italy and Mexico from 1919.

- 87 'Be a good animal, true to your instincts,' was his motto.
1911 The White Peacock, pt.2, ch.2.
- 88 Curse the blasted, jelly-boned swines, the slimy, the

- belly-wriggling invertebrates, the miserable sodding rotters, the flaming sods, the snivelling, dribbling, dithering, palsied, pulse-less lot that make up England today.
1913 Letter to Edward Garnett, 3 Jul, after the rejection of Sons and Lovers by Heinemann.
- 89 I like to write when I feel spiteful; it's like having a good sneeze.
1913 Letter to Lady Cynthia Asquith, Nov.
- 90 You mustn't look in my novel for the old stable ego of the character.
1914 Letter to Edward Garnett, 5 Jun.
- 91 People are not fallen angels, they are merely people.
1916 Letter to J Middleton Murry and Katherine Mansfield, 17 Feb.
- 92 I am only half there when I am ill, and so there is only half a man to suffer. To suffer in one's whole self is so great a violation, that it is not to be endured.
1916 Letter to Catherine Carswell, 16 Apr.
- 93 Not I, not I, but the wind that blows through me!
 A fine wind is blowing the new direction of Time.
1917 'Song of a Man Who Has Come Through'.
- 94 The glamour
 Of childish days is upon me, my manhood is cast Down in the flood of remembrance, I weep like a child for the past.
1918 'Piano'.
- 95 Don't you find it a beautiful clean thought, a world empty of people, just uninterrupted grass, and a hare sitting up?
1920 Women in Love, ch.11.
- 96 In China the bat is a symbol of happiness
 Not for me!
1921 'Bat'.
- 97 I like Australia less and less. The hateful newness, the democratic conceit, every man a little pope of perfection.
1922 Letter, 28 May.
- 98 Morality which is based on ideas, or on an ideal, is an unmitigated evil.
1922 Fantasia of the Unconscious, ch.7.
- 99 Every race which has become self-conscious and idea-bound in the past has perished.
1922 Fantasia of the Unconscious, ch.7.
- 1 Death is the only pure, beautiful conclusion of a great passion.
1922 Fantasia of the Unconscious, ch.15.
- 2 Better passion and death than any more of these 'isms'.
 No more of the old purpose done up in aspic. Better passion and death.
1922 Fantasia of the Unconscious, ch.15.
- 3 In the established sense it is socially nil. Happy-go-lucky, don't-you-bother, we're-in-Australia. But there also seems to be no inside life of any sort: just a long lapse and drift. A rather fascinating indifference, a physical indifference to what we call soul or spirit. It's really a weird show.
1922 Of Australia. Letter, collected in A Huxley (ed) The Letters of D.H. Lawrence (1932).
- 4 I do not want peace nor beauty nor even freedom from pain. I want to fight and to feel new gods in the flesh.
1922 Letter to E H Brewster, 2 Jan.
- 5 The wonderful Southern night-sky that makes a man feel so lonely, alien: with Orion standing on his head in the west, and his sword-belt upside down, and his Dog-star prancing in mid-heaven, high above him; and with the Southern Cross insignificantly mixed in with the other stars, democratically inconspicuous.
1923 Of night over Sydney. Kangaroo, ch.1.
- 6 What do the facts we know about a man amount to?
 Only two things we can know of him, and this by pure soul-intuition: we can know if he is true to the flame of life and love which is inside his heart, or if he is false to it.
1923 Kangaroo, ch.7.
- 7 The indifference—the fern-dark indifference of this remote golden Australia. Not to care—from the bottom of one's soul not to care.
1923 Kangaroo, ch.10.
- 8 Life makes no absolute statement. It is all Call and Answer.
1923 Kangaroo, ch.10.
- 9 And so, I missed my chance with one of the lords
 Of life.
 And I have something to expiate;
 A pettiness.
1923 'Snake'.
- 10 Men! The only animal in the world to fear.
1923 'Mountain Lion'.
- 11 Hanging upside down like rows of disgusting old rags
 And grinning in their sleep.
1923 'Bats'.
- 12 Evil, what is evil?
 There is only one evil, to deny life.
1923 'Cypresses'.
- 13 The dead don't die. They look on and help.
1923 Letter to J Middleton Murry, 2 Feb, on the death of Katherine Mansfield.
- 14 Never trust the artist. Trust the tale.
1924 Studies in Classic American Literature, ch.1.
- 15 I want to go south, where there is no autumn, where the cold doesn't crouch over one like a snow-leopard waiting to pounce. The heart of the North is dead, and the fingers of cold are corpse fingers.
1924 Letter to J Middleton Murry, 3 Oct.
- 16 The identifying ourselves with the visual image of ourselves has become an instinct; the habit is already old. The picture of me, the me that is seen, is me.
1925 'Art and Morality'.
- 17 Damn all absolutes. Oh damn, damn, damn all absolutes!
1925 'The Novel'.
- 18 After the funeral, my father struggled through half a page, and it might as well have been Hottentott.
 'And what dun they gi'e thee for that, lad?'
 'Fifty pounds, father.' 'Fifty pounds!' He was dumbfounded, and looked at me with shrewd eyes, as if I were a swindler. 'Fifty pounds! An' tha's niver done a day's hard work in thy life.'
1925 Preface to Edward D McDonald (ed) *A Bibliography of D. H.
 Lawrence*.
- 19 I'm not sure if a mental relation with a woman doesn't

- make it impossible to love her. To know the mind of a woman is to end in hating her.
1927 Letter to Dr Trigant Burrow, 3 Aug.
- 20 You have to have something vicious in you to be a creative writer... God save me from being 'nice'.
1927 Book review, reprinted in Phoenix.
- 21 Ours is essentially a tragic age, so we refuse to take it tragically.
1928 Lady Chatterley's Lover, ch.1.
- 22 John Thomas says goodnight to Lady Jane, a little droopingly, but with a hopeful heart.
1928 Lady Chatterley's Lover, ch.19.
- 23 My God, what a clumsy olla putrida James Joyce is! Nothing but old fags and cabbage-stumps of quotations from the Bible and the rest, stewed in the juice of deliberate, journalistic dirty-mindedness.
1928 Letter to Aldous and Maria Huxley, 15 Aug.
- 24 Sentimentalism is the working off on yourself of feelings you haven't really got.
1928 'John Galsworthy'.
- 25 I am tired of being told there is no such animal by animals who are merely different.
1929 Letter to J Middleton Murry, 20 May.
- 26 How beastly the bourgeois is Especially the male of the species.
1929 'How Beastly the Bourgeois Is'.
- 27 I never saw a wild thing Sorry for itself.
1929 'Self-Pity'.
- 28 When I read Shakespeare I am struck with wonder That such trivial people should muse and thunder In such lovely language.
1929 'When I Read Shakespeare'.
- 29 Pornography is the attempt to insult sex, to do dirt on it.
1929 'Pornography and Obscenity'.
- 30 Now man cannot live without some vision of himself. But still less can he live with a vision that is not true to his inner experience and inner feeling.
1929 'The Risen Lord'.
- 31 Now it is autumn and the falling fruit And the long journey towards oblivion... Have you built your ship of death, O have you?
1932 'The Ship of Death'.
- 32 To the Puritan all things are impure, as somebody says.
1932 Etruscan Places, 'Cerveteri'.
- 33 And being a novelist, I consider myself superior to the saint, the scientist, the philosopher, and the poet, who are all great masters of different bits of man alive, but never get the whole hog.
1936 'Why The Novel Matters'.
- 34 Nothing is more difficult than to determine what a child takes in, and does not take in, of its environment and its teaching. This fact is brought home to me by the hymns which I learned as a child, and never forgot. They mean more to me almost than the finest poetry, and they have for me a more permanent value, somehow or other. Collected in Phoenix II: Uncollected, Unpublished and Other Prose Works (1968).
- 35 The sense of wonder that is the sixth sense.

And it is the natural religious sense.
 'Hymns in a Man's Life'. Collected in Phoenix II: Uncollected, Unpublished and Other Prose Works (1968).

Lawrence, Gertrude 1898–1952

English actress. A star of revue on both sides of the Atlantic, she was highly popular as the lead in Noël Coward's comedies. She died while appearing in the hit Broadway musical The King and I.

- 36 Pardon my long preamble. It's like a chorus girl's tights—it touches everything and covers nothing.
 During an after-dinner speech. Attributed.

Lawrence, T(homas) E(dward) known as Lawrence of Arabia 1888–1935

Anglo-Irish soldier and writer. In World War I he worked for army intelligence in North Africa (1914–16). Espousing the Arab cause, he led the Arabs in their revolt against the Turks.

- 37 I loved you, so I drew these tides of men into my hands —and wrote my will across the sky in stars To earn you Freedom, the seven pillared worthy house, —that your eyes might be shining for me When we came.
1926 Seven Pillars of Wisdom, dedication.
- 38 All men dream, but not equally. Those who dream by night in the dusty recesses of their minds wake in the day to find that it was vanity; but the dreamers of the day are dangerous men, for they may act their dream with open eyes, to make it possible.
1926 Seven Pillars of Wisdom, introductory chapter.
- 39 We were a self-centred army without parade or gesture, devoted to freedom, the second of man's creeds, a purpose so ravenous that it devoured all our strength, a hope so transcendent that our earlier ambitions faded in its glare.
1926 Seven Pillars of Wisdom, ch.1.
- 40 Many men would take the death sentence without a whimper to escape the life-sentence which fate carries in her other hand.
1936 The Mint, pt.1, ch.4.
- 41 A man hates to be moved to folly by a noise.
1936 Of the emotion aroused by the military trumpets. The Mint, pt.3, ch.9.

- 42 The test of nomadism, that most deeply biting of social disciplines.
 Introduction to an edition of Charles Montagu Doughty Travels in Arabia Deserta.

Lawson, Henry Hertzberg 1867–1922

Australian writer, son of the writer and feminist Louisa Lawson. His writings for the Bulletin, 'The Bushman's Bible', have been collected in Short Stories in Prose and Verse (1894) and While the Billy Boils (1896).

- 43 And the sun sank again on the grand Australian bush—the nurse and tutor of eccentric minds, the home of the weird, and of much that is different from things in other lands.
1892 'The Bush Undertaker', first published in The Antipodean.
- 44 The departed was a 'Roman', and the majority of the town were otherwise—but unionism is stronger than creed. Drink, however, is stronger than unionism; and, when the hearse presently arrived, more than two-thirds of the funeral were unable to follow.

1893 'The Union Buries its Dead', first published in Truth, Apr.

45 Type of a coming nation,

In the land of cattle and sheep,

Worked on Middleton's station,

'Pound a week and his keep.'

'Middleton's Rouseabout', collected in Colin Roderick (ed) Henry Lawson: Collected Verse (3 vols, 1967–9).

46 Have you seen the bush by moonlight, from the train, go running by?

Blackened log and stump and sapling, ghostly trees all dead and dry;

Here a patch of glassy water; there a glimpse of mystic sky?

Have you heard the still voice calling—yet so warm, and yet so cold:

'I'm the Mother-Bush that bore you! Come to me when you are old?'

'On the Night Train', collected in Colin Roderick (ed) Henry Lawson: Collected Verse (3 vols, 1967–9).

Layamon fl.c.1190

English author and priest who lived at Arley Regis in Worcestershire. He wrote the Brut, the first English version of the story of Arthur, largely based on Wace's French Roman de Brut.

47 And I will fare to Avalun, to the fairest of all maidens, to Argante the queen, an elf most fair, and she shall make my wounds all sound.

c.1190 Brut (translated by Eugene Mason, 1912).

Layton, Irving 1912–

Romanian-born Canadian poet, who came to Montreal as an infant. His 35 books of poetry include The Black Huntsman (1951), The Cold Green Element (1955) and A Red Carpet for the Sun (1959).

48 Death is a name for beauty not in use.

1953 'Composition in Late Spring', collected in The Collected Poems of Irving Layton (1971).

49 It amazes me that organs that piss

Can give human beings such perfect bliss.

1969 The Whole Bloody Bird, 'Aphs'.

50 Only the tiniest fraction of mankind want freedom. All the rest want someone to tell them they are free.

1969 The Whole Bloody Bird.

Lazarus, Emma 1849–87

US poet, a champion of oppressed Jewry. Her poems include Songs of a Semite (1882) and By the Waters of Babylon (1887). She is best known for her sonnet, 'The New Colossus' which is inscribed on the Statue of Liberty.

51 Give me your tired, your poor,

Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,

The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,

Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed, to me:

I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

1883 'The New Colossus', inscribed at the foot of the Statue of Liberty, New York harbour, 1886.

52 Still on Israel's head forlorn

Every nation heaps its scorn.

1886 'The World's Justice'.

Leach, Jim (James Albert Smith) 1942–

US Republican politician.

53 The only thing the Balkans export is history.

1995 WAMU broadcast, Washington, 25 Nov.

English-born Canadian humorist and economist. Head of Economics at McGill University from 1908, he wrote several books on economics and literary biographies, and is usually remembered for his short stories, essays and parodies, which include Literary Lapses (1910), Nonsense Novels (1911) and Winsome Winnie (1920).

54 There are no handles to a horse, but the 1910 model has a string to each side of its face for turning its head when there is anything you want it to see.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'Reflections on Riding'.

55 It takes a good deal of physical courage to ride a horse.

This, however, I have. I get it at about forty cents a flask, and take it as required.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'Reflections on Riding'.

56 The great man... walks across his century and leaves the marks of his feet all over it, ripping out the dates on his galoshes as he passes.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'The Life of John Smith'.

57 I detest life-insurance agents; they always argue that I shall some day die, which is not so.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'Insurance Up to Date'.

58 The landlady of a boarding-house is a parallelogram—that is, an oblong angular figure, which cannot be described, but which is equal to anything.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'Boarding-House Geometry'.

59 Astronomy teaches the correct use of the sun and the planets.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'A Manual of Education'.

60 Electricity is of two kinds, positive and negative. The difference is, I presume, that one comes a little more expensive, but is more durable; the other is a cheaper thing, but the moths get into it.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'A Manual of Education'.

61 Get your room full of good air, then shut up the windows and keep it. It will keep for years. Anyway, don't keep using your lungs all the time. Let them rest.

1910 Literary Lapses, 'How to Live to Be 200'.

62 Lord Ronald said nothing; he flung himself from the room, flung himself upon his horse and rode madly off in all directions.

1911 Nonsense Novels, 'Gertrude the Governess: or, Simple Seventeen'.

63 When you meet Mr. Smith first you think he looks like an over-dressed pirate. Then you begin to think him a character. You wonder at his enormous bulk. Then the utter hopelessness of knowing what Smith is thinking by merely looking at his features gets on your mind and makes the Mona Lisa seem an open book and the ordinary human countenance as superficial as a puddle in the sunlight.

1912 Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town, 'The Hostelery of Mr. Smith'.

64 His life was one round of activity which he himself might deplore but was powerless to prevent.

1912 Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town, 'The Ministrations of the Rev. Mr. Drone'.

65 The classics are only primitive literature. They belong to the same class as primitive machinery and primitive music and primitive medicine.

1913 Behind the Beyond, 'Homer and Humbug'.

66 The parent who could see his boy as he really is, would shake his head and say: 'Willie is no good; I'll sell him.'

1916 Further Foolishness, 'The Lot of the Schoolmaster'.

67 A decision of the courts decided that the game of golf may be played on a Sunday, not being a game within the view of the law, but being a form of moral effort.

1923 Over the Footlights, 'Why I Refuse to Play Golf'.

68 Advertising may be described as the science of arresting human intelligence long enough to get money from it.

1924 The Garden of Folly, 'The Perfect Salesman'.

69 The general idea, of course, in any first-class laundry, is to see that no shirt or collar ever comes back twice.

1926 Winnowed Wisdom, ch.6.

70 I am what is called a professor emeritus—from the Latin e, 'out', and meritus, 'so he ought to be'.

1938 Here are my Lectures, ch.14.

71 A sportsman is a man who, every now and then, simply has to go out and kill something. Not that he's cruel. He wouldn't hurt a fly. It's not big enough.

1942 My Remarkable Uncle.

72 Presently I shall be introduced as 'this venerable old gentleman' and the axe will fall when they raise me to the degree of 'grand old man'. That means on our continent any one with snow-white hair who has kept out of jail till eighty.

1942 My Remarkable Uncle, 'Three Score and Ten'.

73 I have a suspicion it's inevitable, but give me my stick. I'll face it.

1942 On being asked what he thought about death, following a serious throat operation, quoted in John Stevens's introduction to My Remarkable Uncle (1965 edn).

Leadbelly pseudonym of Huddie William Ledbetter

1889–1949

US blues and folk singer, songwriter and guitarist. He was 'discovered' while serving one of several prison sentences. His recordings include 'Midnight Special' and 'Rock Island Line'.

74 No white man ever had the blues.

Quoted in Joachim Berendt The Jazz Book (1984).

Lear, Edward 1812–88

English artist, humorist and traveller, famous for his nonsense verse such as that collected in A Book of Nonsense (1846, enlarged 1861, 1863 and 1870), as well as his illustrations and landscapes.

75 There was an Old Man with a beard,

Who said, 'It is just as I feared!—

Two Owls and a Hen,

Four Larks and a Wren,

Have all built their nest in my beard!'

1846 A Book of Nonsense.

76 When awful darkness and silence reign

Over the great Gromboolian plain,

Through the long, long wintry nights,

When the angry breakers roar

As they beat on the rocky shore—

When storm-clouds brood on the towering heights

Of the Hills of the Chankly Bore.

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Dong with a Luminous Nose'.

77 And those who watch at that midnight hour

From Hall or Terrace or lofty Tower,

Cry as the wild light passes along,

'The Dong!—the Dong!

The wandering Dong through the forest goes!

The Dong!—the Dong!

The Dong with a Luminous Nose!'

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Dong with a Luminous Nose'.

78 They went to sea in a sieve, they did

In a sieve they went to sea.

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Jumblies'.

79 Far and few, far and few,

Are the lands where the Jumblies live;

Their heads are green, and their hands are blue,

And they went to sea in a Sieve.

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Jumblies'.

80 They called aloud 'Our Sieve ain't big,

But we don't care a button! We don't care a fig!'

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Jumblies'.

81 And they brought an Owl, and a useful Cart,

And a pound of Rice, and a Cranberry Tart,

And a hive of silvery Bees.

And they brought a Pig, and some green Jack-daws,

And a lovely Monkey with lollipop paws, and forty

Bottles of Ring-Bo-Ree,

And no end of Stilton Cheese.

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Jumblies'.

82 Till Mrs Discobbolos said

'Oh! W! X! Y! Z!

It has just come into my head—

Suppose we should happen to fall!!!!

Darling Mr Discobbolos?'

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'Mr and Mrs Discobbolos'.

83 The Owl and the Pussy-Cat went to sea

In a beautiful pea-green boat.

They took some honey, and plenty of money,

Wrapped up in a five-pound note.

The Owl looked up to the Stars above

And sang to a small guitar,

'Oh lovely Pussy! O Pussy, my love,

What a beautiful Pussy you are'

1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Owl and the Pussy-Cat'.

84 Pussy said to the Owl, 'You elegant Fowl!

How charmingly sweet you sing!

O let us be married! too long we have tarried:

But what shall we do for a ring?'

They sailed away for a year and a day,

To the land where the Bong-tree grows,

And there in a wood a Piggy-wig stood

With a ring at the end of his nose.

- 86 They dined on mince, and slices of quince,
Which they ate with a runcible spoon;
And hand in hand, on the edge of the sand,
They danced by the light of the moon.
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Owl and the Pussy-Cat'.
- 87 The Pobble who has no toes
Had once as many as we;
When they said, 'Some day you may lose them all';
He replied—'Fish fiddle de-dee!'
His Aunt Jobiska made him drink
Lavender water tinged with pink,
For she said, 'The world in general knows
There's nothing so good for a Pobble's toes!'
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Pobble Who Has No Toes'.
- 88 When boats or ships came near him
He tinkledy-binkledy-winkled a bell.
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Pobble Who Has No Toes'.
- 89 He has gone to fish, for his Aunt Jobiska's Runcible Cat with crimson whiskers!
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Pobble Who Has No Toes'.
- 90 'But the longer I live on this Crumpetty Tree
The plainer than ever it seems to me
That very few people come this way
And that life on the whole is far from gay!'
Said the Quangle-Wangle Queue.
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Quangle Wangle's Hat'.
- 91 And what can we expect if we haven't any dinner,
But to lose our teeth and eyelashes and keep on growing thinner?
1871 Nonsense Songs, Stories, Botany and Alphabets, 'The Two Old Bachelors'.
- 92 Nasticreechia Krorluppia.

Le Corbusier pseudonym of Charles Édouard Jeanneret 1887–1965

Swiss architect, co-author of the Purist manifesto. His buildings, which demonstrate the interrelation of machine forms and architectural techniques, include the Cité Universitaire, Paris, and his city planning designs include Buenos Aires (1938). His books have had a worldwide influence.

- 28 It is a question of building which is at the root of the social unrest of today: architecture or revolution.
1923 Vers une architecture (translated as Towards a New Architecture, 1927).
- 29 The day consists of twenty-four hours only. This regulates the size of the house and the rôle it has to fulfil. For the twenty-four hour day is short, and our acts and thoughts are spurred on by time. If we were taught to regard the hand of the clock as a beneficent but implacable god, we should order our lives more rationally.

37 A court is only as sound as its jury, and a jury is only as sound as the men who make it up.

1960 Atticus Finch. To Kill A Mockingbird, pt.2, ch.20.

38 As you grow older, you'll see white men cheat black men every day of your life, but let me tell you something and don't you forget it—whenever a white man does that to a black man, no matter who he is, how rich he is, or how fine a family he comes from, that white man is trash.

1960 Atticus Finch. To Kill A Mockingbird, pt.2, ch.23.

Lee, Hsien Loong 1952–

Singaporean politician, son of the former Prime Minister Lee KuanYew.

39 In Singapore you don't volunteer to go into politics—you are invited to enter.

1984 Remark. Quoted in Alan Chong Goh Tok Chong (1991), ch.4.

Lee, KuanYew 1923–

Singaporean politician, the country's first Prime Minister (1959–90), renowned for his authoritarianism and intolerance of political opponents.

40 I have decided that we shall make and build and never give way.

1966 Remark, 27 Dec. Quoted in James Minchin No Man is an Island (1986), ch.8.

41 Even from my sick bed, even if you are going to lower me into the grave, and I feel something is wrong, I will get up.

1988 Remark, Aug. Quoted in C M Turnbull A History of Singapore (1989).

Lee, Laurie 1914–97

English writer. He fought in the Spanish Civil War, but is best known for Cider With Rosie (1959), his evocative account of growing up in an English village between the wars.

42 Such a morning it is when love leans through geranium windows and calls with a cockerel's tongue.

1947 'Day of these Days'.

43 I was set down from the carrier's cart at the age of three; and there with a sense of bewilderment and terror my life in the village began.

1959 Cider With Rosie, 'First Light'.

44 Effie M. was a monster. Six foot high and as strong as a farm horse. No sooner had she decided that she wanted Uncle Tom than she knocked him off his bicycle and told him.

1959 Cider With Rosie, 'The Uncles'.

45 As for me—for me, the grass grew longer, and more sorrowful, and the trees were surfaced like flesh, and girls were no longer to be treated lightly but were creatures of commanding sadness, and all journeys through the valley were now made alone, with passion in every bush, and the motions of wind and cloud and stars were suddenly for myself alone, and voices elected me of all men living and called me to deliver the world, and I groaned from solitude, blushed when I stumbled, loved strangers and bread and butter, and made long trips through the rain on my bicycle, stared wretchedly through lighted windows, grinned wryly to think how little I was known, and lived in a state of raging excitement.

1959 Cider With Rosie, 'Last Days'.

Lee, Robert E 1807–70

US Confederate General. He fought in the Mexican War and in Texas. During the Civil War, although he defeated McClellan at Richmond, he surrendered to General Grant at Appomattox, Virginia in 1865.

46 It is well that war is so terrible. We should grow too fond of it.

Léger, Fernand 1881–1946

French painter, a major force in the Cubist movement, although his paintings are more 'tubist' than 'cubist'. He executed murals for the UN building in New York (1952).

52 Modern man lives more and more in a preponderantly geometric order. All human creation mechanical or industrial is dependent upon geometric intentions.

1924 'The Aesthetic of the Machine', in Bulletin de l'Effort Moderne.

53 The thing depicted is less stationary, even the object in itself is less discernible than it used to be. A landscape broken into and traversed in a car or an express train loses in descriptive value but gains in synthetic value; the window of the railroad carriage or the windshield of the car, combined with the speed at which you are traveling, have changed the familiar look of things. Modern man registers one hundred times more impressions than did an eighteenth century artist.

Quoted in D Cooper The Cubist Epoch (1970).

Le Guin, Ursula née Kroeber 1929–

US writer. She is best known for her literate, politically aware works of science fiction, and her children's fantasy novels, notably the Earthsea trilogy (1968–72) and its overtly feminist sequel, Tehanu (1990).

54 It is a terrible thing, this kindness that human beings do not lose. Terrible because when we are finally naked in the dark and cold, it is all we have.

1969 The Left Hand of Darkness, ch.13.

55 To be, the will to power must increase with each fulfilment, making the fulfilment only a step to a further one. The vaster the power gained the vaster the appetite for more.

1971 The Lathe of Heaven, ch.9.

56 In so far as one denies what is, one is possessed by what is not, the compulsions, the fantasies, the terrors that flock to fill the void.

1971 The Lathe of Heaven, ch.10.

57 The years before and after the menstrual years are vestigial: the only meaningful condition left to women is that of fruitfulness.

1976 'The Space Crone', in The Co-Evolution Quarterly, Summer.

58 To me the 'female principle' is, or at least historically has been, basically anarchic. It values order without constraint, rule by custom not by force. It has been the male who enforces order, who constructs power structures, who makes, enforces, and breaks laws.

Lenthall, William 1591–1662

English lawyer and parliamentarian, Speaker of the Long Parliament (1640–53) and Master of the Rolls from 1643. He was again made Speaker in 1654 and 1659, and in 1657 became one of Cromwell's peers.

2 May it please your Majesty, I have neither eye to see nor tongue to speak in this place, but as this House is pleased to direct me, whose servant I am.
1642 To Charles I, on his arrival in the Chamber to arrest five Members, House of Commons, 4 Jan.

Leonard, Elmore John 1925–

3 The Chekhov of the suburbs.
 Of John Cheever. Quoted in The Annual Obituary 1982 (1983).

4 I try to leave out the parts that people skip.
1985 In Publisher's Weekly, 8 Mar.

5 If it sounds like writing, I rewrite it.
1985 In Newsweek, 22 Apr.

6 Easy on the Adverbs, Exclamation Points and Especially Hooptedoodle.
2003 Essay title.

Leonard, Sugar Ray 1956–

US boxer.

7 We're all endowed with certain God-given talents. Mine happens to be punching people in the head.
 Quoted in Colin Jarman *The Guinness Dictionary of Sports
 Quotations* (1990).

Leonardo da Vinci 1452–1519

Italian painter, sculptor, architect and engineer, the epitome of the 'Renaissance' man. He entered the service of Cesare Borgia in 1500 as architect and engineer, working alongside Michelangelo, and worked for Louis XII of France in 1506.

8 To devise is the work of the master, to execute the act of the servant.
Treatise on Painting (published 1651, translated by A P McMahon, 1956).

9 I do not find any difference between painting and sculpture except that the sculptor pursues his work with greater physical fatigue than the painter and the painter pursues his with greater mental fatigue.
Treatise on Painting (published 1651, translated by A P McMahon, 1956).

10 Shun those studies in which the work that results dies with the worker.
The Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (translated by Edward MacCurdy, 1938), vol.1, pt.1.

11 Painting is poetry which is seen and not heard, and poetry is a painting which is heard but not seen.
 Quoted in J P and Irma A Richter The Literary Works of Leonardo da Vinci (2 vols, 1939).

12 Force is the same throughout and the whole is in every part of it. Force is a spiritual power, an invisible energy which is imparted by violence from without to all bodies out of their natural balance.
 Quoted in Jean-Paul Richter (ed) The Literary Works of Leonardo da Vinci (1939).

13 If a man have a tent made in linen of which the apertures have all been stopped up, and it be twelve braccia across and twelve in depth, he will be able to throw himself down from any great height without sustaining injury.
 Description of a parachute. Notebooks. Quoted in Vincent
 Cronin The Flowering of the Renaissance (1969).

14 The air moves like a river and carries the clouds with it;
 just as running water carries all the things that float upon it.
Notebooks. Quoted in Vincent Cronin The Flowering of the Renaissance (1969).

15 He is a poor disciple who does not excel his master.
 Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).

16 A good painter has two chief objects to paint, man and

- the intention of his soul; the former is easy, the latter harder, because he has to represent it by the attitudes and movements of the limbs.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).
- 17 Perspective is the bridle and rudder of painting.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).
- 18 The span of a man's outspread arms is equal to his height.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).
- 19 Do not despise my opinion, when I remind you that it should not be hard for you to stop sometimes and look into the stains of walls, or ashes of a fire, or clouds, or mud or like places, in which, if you consider them well, you may find really marvellous ideas.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).
- 20 Just as a stone flung into the water becomes the centre and cause of many circles, and as sound diffuses itself in circles in the air; so any object, placed in the luminous atmosphere, diffuses itself in circles, and fills the surrounding air with infinite images of itself.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).
- 21 The painter who draws by practice and judgement of the eye without the use of reason is like a mirror which copies everything placed in front of it without knowledge of the same.
Quoted in Irma A Richter (ed) Selections from the Notebooks of Leonardo da Vinci (1977).

Leonidas d.480 BC

King of Sparta, commander of the Greeks when the Persian army of Xerxes invaded mainland Greece. At the narrow pass of Thermopylae he made a heroic stand with 300 Spartans.

- 22 Come and take them.
Attributed reply when Xerxes summoned him to surrender his weapons at Thermopylae. Quoted in Plutarch, Apophthegmata Laconica.

Lerner, Alan Jay 1918–86

US lyricist, screenwriter and producer. He frequently worked in collaboration with Frederick Loewe, and is best known for Brigadoon (1955), Gigi (1958), My Fair Lady (1964) and Camelot (1967).

- 23 Those little eyes so helpless and appealing
One day will flash and send you crashing through the ceiling.
1958 'Thank Heaven for Little Girls', in the musical Gigi (music by Frederick Loewe).
- 24 We met at nine
—We met at eight
I was on time
—No, you were late
Ah yes! I remember it well.
1958 'I Remember it Well', in the musical Gigi (music by Frederick Loewe).
- 25 I've Grown Accustomed To Her Face.
1964 Title of song, in My Fair Lady (music by Marcus Loewe).
- 26 Oozing charm from every pore
He oiled his way around the floor.

1964 'You Did It', from My Fair Lady (music by Marcus Loewe).

- 27 Why can't a woman be more like a man?
Men are so honest, so thoroughly square;
Eternally noble, historically fair;
Who, when you win, will always give your back a pat.
Why can't a woman be like that?
1964 'A Hymn to Him', from My Fair Lady (music by Frederick Loewe).
- 28 Because it saves time.
When Andrew Lloyd Webber asked him 'Why do people take an instant dislike to me?' Quoted by Leah Garchik in the San Francisco Chronicle, 27 Nov 1990.

Le Sage, Alain René 1668–1747

French novelist and playwright. He is best remembered for his play Turcaret (1709), which satirized the financial world, and the picaresque novel Gil Blas de Santillane (1715–35).

- 29 Justice is such a fine thing that we cannot pay too dearly for it.
1707 Crispin rival de son maître, pt.9.

Leslie, David 1601–82

Scottish soldier. He fought at Marston Moor (1644), and defeated Montrose at Philiphaugh (1645). Routed by Cromwell at Dunbar in 1650, he was subsequently imprisoned and held in the Tower until the Restoration. He was made Lord Newark in 1651.

- 30 How glorious it would be in the eyes of God and men, if we managed to hunt the Catholics from England, follow them to France, and, like the bold King of Sweden, rouse the Protestants in France, plant our religion in Paris by agreement or force, and go from there to Rome to chase the Antichrist and burn the town whence superstition comes.
1643 Said to Lord Hume, Council of Scottish Nobles, Aug.

Lessing, Doris May née Tayler 1919–

Rhodesian writer, born in Iran. She has lived much of her adult life in England after being exiled for her opposition to the white Southern Rhodesian government. She was a communist for a time, and later an icon of the women's movement. Her best-known works are the novel sequence Children of Violence (1952–69) and The Golden Notebook (1962).

- 31 When old settlers say 'One has to understand the country,' what they mean is, 'You have to get used to our ideas about the native.' They are saying, in effect, 'Learn our ideas, or otherwise get out; we don't want you.'
1950 The Grass Is Singing, ch.1.
- 32 When a white man in Africa by accident looks into the eyes of a native and sees the human being (which it is his chief preoccupation to avoid), his sense of guilt, which he denies, fumes up in resentment and he brings down the whip.
1950 The Grass Is Singing, ch.8.
- 33 I had learned that if one cannot call a country to heel like a dog, neither can one dismiss the past with a smile in an easy gush of feeling, saying: I could not help it, I am also a victim.
1951 This was the Old Chief's Country, 'The Old Chief Mshlanga'.
- 34 For she was suffering that misery peculiar to the young, that they are going to be cheated by circumstances out of the full life every nerve and instinct is clamouring for.

1952 Martha Quest, pt.1, ch.1.

35 She was thinking—for, since she had been formed by literature, she could think in no other way—that all this had been described in Dickens, Tolstoy, Hugo, Dostoevsky, and a dozen others. All that noble and terrific indignation had done nothing, achieved nothing, the shout of anger from the nineteenth century might as well have been silent—for here came the file of prisoners, handcuffed two by two, and on their faces was that same immemorial look of patient, sardonic understanding.

1952 Martha Quest, ch.2.

36 In every city there is a group of middle-aged and elderly women who in fact run it. The extent to which they are formally organised is no gauge of their real power. The way in which they respond to danger is that gauge; and from the frankness with which they express their intentions can be measured the extent of the danger.

1954 A Proper Marriage, pt.3, ch.1.

37 Martha and Jasmine smiled at each other... the future they dreamed of seemed just around the corner; they could almost touch it. Each saw an ideal town, clean, noble and beautiful, soaring up over the actual town they saw, which consisted in this area of sordid little shops and third-rate cafés.

1958 A Ripple from the Storm, pt.1, ch.1.

38 There is only one real sin, and that is to persuade oneself that the second-best is anything but the second-best.

1962 The Golden Notebook, 'The Blue Notebook'.

39 It occurred to her that she was going mad... Yet it did not seem to her that she was even slightly mad; but rather that people who were not as obsessed as she was with the inchoate world mirrored in the newspapers were all out of touch with an awful necessity.

1962 The Golden Notebook, 'Free Women 5'.

40 But this novel was not a trumpet for Women's Liberation. It described many female emotions of aggression, hostility, resentment. It put them into print. Apparently what many women were thinking, feeling, experiencing came as a great surprise.

1971 The Golden Notebook, preface to new edition.

41 Briefing for a Descent into Hell.

1971 Title of novel.

42 It does no harm to repeat, as often as you can, 'Without me the literary industry would not exist'.

1980 In The Author, spring.

43 To be in love with a country or a political regime is a tricky business. You get your heart broken even more surely than by being in love with a person.

1992 African Laughter, 'Next Time 1988'.

Lessing, Gotthold Ephraim 1729–81

German philosopher and playwright, an important Enlightenment figure, best known for his essay on aesthetics, Laokoon (1766).

44 Wie manches würde in der Theorie unwidersprechlich scheinen, wenn es dem Genie nicht gelungen wäre, das Widerspiel durch die Tat zu erweisen.

How many things would have appeared incontestable in theory if genius had not proved them wrong in practice.

1766 Laokoon: an essay upon the limits of painting and poetry, pt.4.

45 Ein einziger dankbarer Gedanke gen Himmel ist das vollkommenste Gebet.

One single grateful thought raised to heaven is the most perfect prayer.

1767 Minna von Barnhelm, act 2, sc.7.

46 Wer richtig rasonniert, erfindet auch; und wer erfinden will, muss rasonnieren können. Nur die glauben, dass sich das eine von dem anderen trennen lasse, die zu keinem von beiden aufgelegt sind.

The man who can reason properly can invent; and anyone who wants to invent must be able to reason. The only people who think that the one can be separated from the other are those who have no inclination for either.

1769 Hamburgische Dramaturgie.

47 Es ist nicht wahr, dass die kürzeste Linie immer die Gerade ist.

It is not true that the shortest line is always the straight one.

1780 Die Erziehung des Menschengeschlechts.

L'Estrange, Sir Roger 1616–1704

English journalist and pamphleteer. During the Restoration he was Licenser of the Press.

48 Supposing the Press in order, the people in their right wits, and news or no news to be the question, a Public Mercury should not have my Vote, because I think it makes the Multitude too familiar with the actions and counsels of their superiors, too pragmatistical and censorious, and gives them not only an itch but a kind of colourable right to be meddling with the government.

1663 The Intelligencer, 31 Aug.

Leupold, Jakob 1674–1727

German mechanic, machinery constructor and government mining commissioner, who wrote a large and comprehensive work on the tasks the engineer faced.

49 As in earlier days were our mechanics, such today are our engineers, who may be required not only to tear down a fortress, and then to build it up again, but also to produce all sorts of engines based on mechanical principles, and with equal ease to defend or to annihilate a fortress.

1724 Theatrum machinarum.

50 The best machines and to be chosen above all others are those which consist of the fewest parts or which are the simplest, which produce the least friction; which are not too heavily loaded, and where the power can be conveniently applied without any waste.

1724 Theatrum machinarum.

Levant, Oscar 1906–72

US composer, pianist, writer, actor and conductor. He played Gershwin's 'Rhapsody in Blue' on its first performance in 1932.

51 It's a right step in the wrong direction.

1935 Attributed remark at the first performance of George

Gershwin's Porgy and Bess. He in fact had the deepest respect for Gershwin's music.

- 52 Chutzpah—that quality which enables a man who has murdered his mother and father to throw himself on the mercy of the court as an orphan.

Levenson, Michael

US literary critic, a professor of English at the University of Virginia.

- 53 Although Brooke never succeeded in becoming the first modern poet, he may deserve to be called the first modern undergraduate, a title of comparable significance.

1987 Of Rupert Brooke. 'Budding Brooke', in the New Republic, 31 Aug.

Levenstein, Ros

US copywriter.

- 54 I'm only here for the beer.

1971 British advertising slogan for Double Diamond beer.

Levenson, Ada 1895–1936

English novelist and journalist, she was friendly with Beerbohm and Wilde, who called her 'the Sphinx'. She wrote six novels.

- 55 You don't know a woman until you have had a letter from her.

1912 Tenterhooks, ch.7.

- 56 He seemed at ease and to have the look of the last gentleman in Europe.

1930 Of Oscar Wilde. Letters to the Sphinx.

Levertov, Denise 1923–97

English-born US poet. She is associated with the Black Mountain group of poets led by Charles Olson, but has a distinctive voice of her own, reflected in numerous collections.

- 57 Let's go—much as that dog goes, intently haphazard.

1958 Overland to the Islands, 'Overland to the Islands'.

- 58 Pergo Park knew me, and Clavering, and Havering-atte-Bower,
Stanford Rivers lost me in osier-beds, Stapleford Abbots sent me safe home on the dark road after Simeon-quiet evensong,
Wanstead drew me over and over into its basic poetry,

not with us enough.

1964 O Taste and See, 'O Taste and See'.

► See Wordsworth 925:4.

- 60 Death and pain dominate this world, for though many are cured, they leave still weak, still tremulous, still knowing mortality has whispered to them; have seen in the folding of white bedspreads according to rule

the starched pleats of a shroud.

1972 Footprints, 'The Malice of Innocence'.

Levi, Primo 1919–87

Italian writer and the author of a series of major works of remembrance and analysis of his experiences in Nazi concentration camps in World War II.

- 61 The future of humanity is uncertain, even in the most prosperous countries, and the quality of life deteriorates; and yet I believe that what is being discovered about the infinitely large and infinitely small is sufficient to absolve this end of the century and millennium. What a very few are acquiring in knowledge of the physical world will perhaps cause this period not to be judged as a pure return of barbarism.

1985 Other People's Trades, 'News from the Sky' (translated by Raymond Rosenthal, 1989).

Levin, (Henry) Bernard 1928–2004

English writer, journalist and critic. In 1985 he crossed the Alps on foot, following the path of the Carthaginian general, Hannibal.

- 62 The musical equivalent of blancmange.

1983 Of the music of Frederick Delius. Enthusiasms.

- 63 I dislike almost all dogs, but Alsatisans, I do truly believe, should be prohibited by law in any civilised country... The more I see of dogs, the more I admire men.

1985 Hannibal's Footsteps.

- 64 Baedeker is astonishingly enduring; travellers can use nineteenth-century editions with confidence, providing they take some elementary precautions. Many hotels will long since have disappeared, and the prices will be somewhat different, but if Baedeker says 'On leaving the tunnel, the best view is on the right', it probably still is, unless somebody has shifted the mountain, and his descriptions of scenery and where to go to see it at its best are still valid, as is practically all of his potted history.

1985 Hannibal's Footsteps.

Lévis, Duc de 1764–1830

French soldier and writer.

- 65 Noblesse oblige.

Nobility brings obligations.

- 67 The scientific mind does not so much provide the right answers as ask the right questions.

1964 The Raw and the Cooked (translated by John and Doreen Weightman 1983).

68 I can't help thinking that science would be more appealing if it had no practical use.

1964 The Raw and the Cooked (translated by John and Doreen Weightman 1983).

Lewin, Albert 1895–1968

US screenwriter and director. His films include The Moon and Sixpence (1943), The Picture of Dorian Gray (1945) and Pandora and the Flying Dutchman (1950).

69 The measure of love is what one is willing to give up for it.

1950 Pandora and the Flying Dutchman.

Lewis, C(live) S(taples) 1898–1963

English novelist, literary scholar and theological writer. His most widely read works include the children's series The Chronicles of Narnia (1950–6), several allegorical science-fiction novels, and the Christian apologetics, The Screwtape Letters (1942).

70 Humanity does not pass through phases as a train passes through stations: being alive, it has the privilege of always moving yet never leaving anything behind.

1936 The Allegory of Love, ch.1.

71 Out of the Silent Planet.

1938 Title of novel.

72 There is wishful thinking in Hell as well as on earth.

1942 The Screwtape Letters, preface.

73 Gratitude looks to the past and love to the present: fear, avarice, lust and ambition look ahead.

1942 The Screwtape Letters, no.15.

74 He has a vulgar mind.

1942 Of God. The Screwtape Letters, no.22.

76 Fatigue makes women talk more and men less.

1942 The Screwtape Letters, no.30.

77 Courage is not simply one of the virtues but the form of every virtue at the testing point.

Quoted in Cyril Connolly The Unquiet Grave (1944), ch.3.

78 I remember summing up what I took to be our destiny, in conversation with my best friend at Chartres, by the formula, 'Term, holidays, term, holidays, till we leave school, and then work, work, work till we die.'

1955 Surprised by Joy, ch.4.

79 A sick society must think much about politics, as a sick man must think much about his digestion.

1980 The Weight of Glory.

80 All except the best men would rather be called wicked than vulgar.

Quoted in The Guardian, 21 Aug 1980.

Lewis, Esther married name Clark fl.1747–89

English poet.

81 Are simple women only fit

To dress, to darn, to flower or knit,
To mind the distaff, or the spit?

Why are the needle and the pen
Thought incompatible by men?

1754 'A Mirror for Detractors', l.146–50.

Lewis, Joe E 1902–71

US comedian.

82 I distrust camels and anyone else who can go a week without a drink.

Recalled on his death, 4 Jun 1971.

Lewis, John L (lewellyn) 1880–1969

US labour leader.

83 No tin hat brigade of goose-stepping vigilantes or bibblebabbling mob of blackguarding and corporation-paid scoundrels will prevent the onward march of labor, or divert its purpose to play its natural and rational part in the development of the economic, political, and social life of our nation.

1937 Address, 3 Sep. Recalled on his death 11 Jun 1969.

84 All forms of government fall when it comes up to the question of bread—bread for the family, something to eat. Bread to a man with a family comes first—before his union, before his citizenship, before his church affiliation. Bread!

1963 In the Saturday Evening Post, 12 Oct.

Lewis, (Harry) Sinclair 1885–1951

US novelist. His novels satirized the materialism and intolerance of US small-town life. He is best known for his novel Babbitt (1922), a study of middle-class philistinism. In 1930 he became the first American to receive the Nobel prize for literature.

85 He never put on BVDs without thanking the God of Progress that he didn't wear tight, long, old-fashioned undergarments.

1922 Babbitt, ch.1, section 4. BVD is a trademark for a brand of US underwear.

86 His name was George F. Babbitt. He was forty-six years old now, in April, 1920, and he made nothing in particular, neither butter nor shoes nor poetry, but he was nimble in the calling of selling houses for more than people could afford to pay.

1922 Babbitt, ch.1.

87 To George F. Babbitt, as to most prosperous citizens of Zenith, his motor car was poetry and tragedy, love and heroism. The office was his pirate ship but the car his perilous excursion ashore.

1922 Babbitt, ch.3.

88 In other countries, art and literature are left to a lot of shabby bums living in attics and feeding on booze and spaghetti, but in America the successful writer or picture-painter is indistinguishable from any other decent business man.

1922 Babbitt, ch.14.

89 Damn the great executives, the men of measured merriment, damn the men with careful smiles, damn the men that run the shops, oh, damn their measured merriment.

1925 Arrowsmith, ch.25.

90 Our American professors like their literature clear and cold and pure and very dead.

1930 Nobel prize address, 12 Dec.

91 Intellectually I know that America is no better than any other country; emotionally I know she is better than

- every other country.
1930 Interview in Berlin, 29 Dec.
- 92 It Can't Happen Here.
1935 Title of novel.
- 93 A man takes a drink, a drink takes another, and the drink takes the man.
 Words to his future wife, Dorothy Thompson. Quoted in Vincent Sheean Dorothy and Red (1963).

Lewis, (Percy) Wyndham 1882–1957

English novelist, painter and critic. He co-founded the Vorticist movement with Ezra Pound, and remained an important experimental writer and painter between the wars. He became blind in 1951, but continued to write. His works include The Apes of God (1930) and the autobiographical The Self Condemned (1954).

- 94 'Dying for an idea,' again, sounds well enough, but why not let the idea die instead of you?
1926 The Art of Being Ruled, pt.1, ch.1.
- 95 When we say 'science' we can either mean any manipulation of the inventive and organizing power of the human intellect: or we can mean such an extremely different thing as the religion of science, the vulgarized derivative from this pure activity manipulated by a sort of priestcraft into a great religious and political weapon.
1926 The Art of Being Ruled.
- 96 The puritanical potentialities of science have never been forecast. If it evolves a body of organized rites, and is established as a religion, hierarchically organized, things more than anything else will be done in the name of 'decency'. The coarse fumes of tobacco and liquors, the consequent tainting of the breath and staining of white fingers and teeth, which is so offensive to many women, will be the first things attended to.
1926 The Art of Being Ruled.
- 97 The revolutionary simpleton is everywhere.
1927 Time and Western Man, pt.1, ch.6.
- 98 Gertrude Stein's prose song is a cold, black suet-pudding...of fabulously reptilian length.
1927 Time and Western Man, pt.1, ch.13.
- 99 If you must go nowhere, step out.
1928 The Childermass, final words.
- 1 It is to what I have called the Apes of God that I am drawing your attention—those prosperous mountebanks who alternately imitate and mock at and traduce those figures they at once admire and hate.
1930 The Apes of God, pt.3.
- 2 The soul started at the knee-cap and ended at the navel.
1930 The Apes of God, pt.12.
- 3 Give me the outside of all things, I am a fanatic for the externality of things.
1937 Blasting and Bombardiering, ch.1.
- 4 Then down came the lid—the day was lost, for art, at Sarajevo. World-politics stepped in, and a war was started which has not ended yet: 'a war to end war'. But it merely ended art. It did not end war.
1937 Blasting and Bombardiering, pt.5, 'Toward an Art-Less Society'.
- 5 'The Art of Being Ruled' might be described from some points of view as an infernal Utopia.
1950 Rude Assignment, ch.31.
- 6 An account...of the decadence occupying the trough between the two world wars introduces us to a moronic inferno of insipidity and decay.
1950 Rude Assignment, ch.31.

LeWitt, Sol 1928–

US artist, one of the developers of the branch of Conceptual art referred to as 'Minimalism'.

- 7 In Conceptual art the idea or concept is the most important aspect of the work...all planning and decisions are made beforehand and the execution is a perfunctory affair. The idea becomes the machine that makes the art.
1967 'Paragraphs on Conceptual Art', in Artforum, summer.
- 8 One usually understands the art of the past by applying the conventions of the present thus misunderstanding the art of the past.
1969 'Sentences on Conceptual Art', in Art-Language, vol.1, no.1, May.

Lewontin, Richard Charles 1929–

US evolutionary biologist, geneticist and writer, Professor of Zoology at Harvard.

- 9 It is characteristic of the design of scientific research that exquisite attention is devoted to methodological problems that can be solved, while the pretense is made that the ones that cannot be solved are really nothing to worry about.
1995 'Sex, Lies, and Social Science', in the New York Review of Books, 20 Apr.
- 10 The social scientist is in a difficult, if not impossible position. On the one hand there is the temptation to see all of society as one's autobiography writ large, surely not the path to general truth. On the other hand, there is the attempt to be general and objective by pretending that one knows nothing about the experience of being human, forcing the investigator to pretend that people usually know and tell the truth about important issues, when we all know from our own lives how impossible that is.
1995 'Sex, Lies, and Social Science', in the New York Review of Books, 20 Apr.

Leybourne, George pseudonym of Joseph Saunders

1842–84

English singer, entertainer and songwriter, a star of the Victorian music-hall.

Cuban poet, novelist and essayist. His autobiographical novel Paradiso (1966) is considered his masterpiece, and he is the key figure of Cuban neo-Baroque literature.

- 12 Más que una costumbre, parece como un conjuro para una divinidad que todos desconocemos, que al reunirse varios cubanos...se permanece en un silencio de suspensión, hasta que se oye una voz cualquiera que dice o canta algo, que no tiene relación con la convocatoria para la reunión.

Rather than custom, it feels more like an invocation to an unknown deity when Cubans get together...they hold a suspenseful silence until any voice is heard saying or singing something that has nothing to do with the purpose of the meeting.

1966 Paradiso, ch.3.

Li Po 701–62

Chinese poet, patronized by Emperor Ming Huang until banished from the court. He is said to have drowned after falling intoxicated from a barge, in an attempt to embrace the moon's reflection in the water.

15 All art is solitary and the studio is a torture area.

1979 In the New York Times, 13 May.

Lichtenberg, Georg Christoph 1742–99

German scientist and philosopher, a lecturer at the University of Göttingen. His philosophical reputation rests on his aphorisms, collected in notebooks throughout his adult life.

16 Every man also has his moral backside which he refrains from showing unless he has to and keeps covered as long as possible with the trousers of decorum.

c.1770 Aphorisms, Notebook B (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

17 If an angel were ever to tell us anything of his philosophy I believe many propositions would sound like 2 times 2 equals 13.

c.1770 Aphorisms, Notebook B (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

18 When a book and a head collide and a hollow sound is heard, must it always have come from the book?

c.1773–1775 Aphorisms, Notebook D (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

19 What they call 'heart' lies much lower than the fourth waistcoat button.

c.1776–1779 Aphorisms, Notebook F (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

20 It is almost impossible to bear the torch of truth through a crowd without singeing someone's beard.

c.1779–1783 Aphorisms, Notebook G (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

21 To err is human also in so far as the animals seldom or never err, or at least only the cleverest of them do so.

c.1779–1783 Aphorisms, Notebook G (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

22 Once he has stolen his 100,100 thalers a rogue can walk through the world an honest man.

c.1784–1788 Aphorisms, Notebook H (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

23 A golden rule: we must judge men, not by their opinions, but by what their opinions make of them.

c.1791 Aphorisms, Notebook J (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

24 Doubt everything at least once, even the proposition that two times two equals four.

c.1796 Aphorisms, Notebook K (translated by R J Hollingdale, 1990).

Lichtenstein, Roy 1923–97

US painter, a key figure of Pop Art. He moved from Abstract Expressionism in the 1950s to illustrations from popular magazines and cartoon strips, duplicating the dots of newspaper reproduction in colourful, large-scale works.

25 Paintings are Rorschach ink blots. They are what you want them to be.

1993 In The Times, 27 Mar.

Liebermann, Max 1847–1935

German painter and graphic artist. His early works are open-air studies and sentimental scenes of humble life, and he later found a more colourful, romantic style, influenced by Impressionism.

26 The art of drawing is the art of omission.

Quoted in Paul Klee On Modern Art (1979).

Liebman, David 1946–

US jazz saxophonist, highly regarded as a performer and teacher.

27 A jazz performance centers upon the process of creation. The final objective is not only the finished product, but the path and process taken towards it.

1988 Self-Portrait of a Jazz- Artist, ch.3.

Ligne, Charles Joseph, Prince de 1735–1814

Belgian soldier and man of letters, who served in the Seven Year's War (1756–63) and the Russo-Turkish war (1787–93). A skilful diplomat and royal favourite, he also wrote extensively.

28 Le congrès ne marche pas, il danse.

The Congress makes no progress; it dances.

1814 On the Congress of Vienna (1814–15). Quoted in Auguste de la Garde-Chambonas Souvenirs du Congrès de Vienne, 1814–1815 (1820), ch.1.

29 One could forgive the fiend for becoming a torrent, but to become an earthquake was really too much.

- 32 All women's dresses, in every age and country, are merely variations on the eternal struggle between the admitted desire to dress and the unadmitted desire to undress.
1945 In the Ladies Home Journal.

Lincoln, Abraham 1809–65

US Republican statesman, 16th President (1861–5) and opponent of slavery. In the Civil War he defined the issue in terms of national integrity, not anti-slavery, but proclaimed freedom for all slaves in areas of rebellion. He was shot at Ford's Theatre, Washington, by John Wilkes Booth, an actor, and he died next morning.

- 33 No man is good enough to govern another man without that other's consent.
1854 Speech, Peoria, 16 Oct.
- 34 'A house divided against itself cannot stand': I believe that this Government cannot endure permanently half-slave and half-free. I do not expect the Union to be dissolved. I do not expect the house to fall—but I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will become all one thing, or all the other.
1858 Speech, Springfield, 16 Jun.
- 35 You can fool some of the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all of the time.
1858 Speech, Clinton, 8 Sep.
- 36 The patent system... added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius.
1859 Collected in Roy B Basler (ed) Collected Works (1953).
- 37 What is conservatism? Is it not adherence to the old and tried, against the new and untried?
1860 Speech, New York, 27 Feb.
- 38 Let us have faith that right makes might; and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty as we understand it.
1860 Speech, New York, 27 Feb.
- 39 Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal... we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.
1863 Dedication address, Gettysburg National Cemetery, 19 Nov.

- 40 The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated [this ground], far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here.

1863 Dedication address, Gettysburg National Cemetery, 19 Nov.

- 41 With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations.

1865 Second inaugural address, 4 Mar, a month before the end of the Civil War.

Lindbergh, Anne Spencer Morrow 1906–2001

US writer, widow of the aviator Charles Augustus Lindbergh. Her works include North to the Orient, an account of flights with her husband (1935), and an essay collection, Earth Shine (1970).

- 42 Thoughts die and are buried in the silences between sentences.

1980 Of the conversational style of US Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. War Within and Without.

Lindbergh, Charles A(ugustus) 1902–74

US aviator who made the first solo, non-stop transatlantic flight in The Spirit of St Louis, landing in Paris on 21 May 1927. He spoke in favour of isolationism at the beginning of World War II, but subsequently flew in combat missions.

- 43 I have seen the science I worshipped and the aircraft I loved, destroying the civilization I expected them to serve.

1967 In Time, 26 May.

Lindsay, John Vliet 1921–2000

US politician, Mayor of New York City (1966–74).

- 44 You'll make the mummies dance.

To Thomas Hoving, new director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, who later adopted the phrase as a book title. Quoted in Thomas Hoving Making the Mummies Dance (1993).

Lindsay, (Nicholas) Vachel 1879–1931

US poet. He functioned for a time almost as a travelling troubadour across the US, trading his incantatory verses for hospitality. He suffered serious depression in later years, and committed suicide.

- 45 Booth led boldly with his big brass drum—
(Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?)
The saints smiled gravely and they said 'He's come.'

1913 General Booth Enters Into Heaven, 'General Booth Enters Into Heaven'.

- 46 Drabs from the alleyways and drug fiends pale—
Minds still passion-ridden, soul-power frail:—
Vermin-eaten saints with moldy breath,
Unwashed legions with the ways of Death—
(Are you washed in the blood of the Lamb?)

1913 General Booth Enters Into Heaven, 'General Booth Enters Into Heaven'.

- 47 Booth died blind and still by faith he trod,

Eyes still dazzled by the ways of God.

1913 General Booth Enters Into Heaven, 'General Booth Enters Into Heaven'.

48 Then I saw the Congo, creeping through the black,
Cutting through the forest with a golden track.

49 Mumbo-Jumbo is dead in the jungle.

1914 The Congo and Other Poems, 'The Congo', pt.3.

50 It is portentous, and a thing of state

That here at midnight, in our little town

A mourning figure walks, and will not rest,

Near the old courthouse pacing up and down.

1914 The Congo and Other Poems, 'Abraham Lincoln Walks At Midnight'.

51 And who will bring white peace

That he may sleep upon his hill again?

1914 The Congo and Other Poems, 'Abraham Lincoln Walks At Midnight'.

52 The flower-fed buffalos of the spring

In the days of long ago,

Ranged where the locomotives sing

And the prairie flowers lie low.

1926 Going to the Stars, 'The Flower-Fed Buffaloes'.

53 They gore no more, they bellow no more,

They trundle around the hills no more:—

With the Blackfeet, lying low,

With the Pawnees, lying low,

Lying low.

1926 Going to the Stars, 'The Flower-Fed Buffaloes'.

Linklater, Eric Robert 1889–1974

Scottish journalist and writer, born in Wales. While in the US (1928–30) he wrote Poet's Pub (1929), the first of a series of satirical novels which include Juan in America (1931) and Private Angelo (1946). Other works include books for children, such as The Wind on the Moon (1944), plays and memoirs.

54 All I've got against it is that it takes you so far from the club house.

1929 Of golf. Poet's Pub, ch.3.

55 Authors and uncaptured criminals...are the only people free from routine.

1929 Poet's Pub, ch.23.

56 With a heavy step Sir Matthew left the room and spent the morning designing mausoleums for his enemies.

1931 Juan in America, prologue.

57 It is notorious that we speak no more than half-truths in our ordinary conversation, and even a soliloquy is likely to be affected by the apprehension that walls have ears.

1931 Juan in America, bk.2, pt.4.

58 She looks like a million dollars, but she only knows a hundred and twenty words and she's only got two ideas in her head. The other one's hats.

1931 Juan in America, bk.2, pt.5.

59 There won't be any revolution in America... The people are all too clean. They spend all their time changing their shorts and washing themselves. You can't feel fierce and revolutionary in a bathroom.

1931 Isadore. Juan in America, bk.5, pt.3.

60 I dislike burdens...and at my back I often hear Time's winged chariot changing gear.

1937 Juan. Juan in China, 'End-Piece'.

61 Wanting to know an author because you like his books is like wanting to know a goose because you like pâté.

Quoted by Kenneth Murphy in the Washington Post, 27 Nov 1994.

Linnaeus, Carolus 1707–78

Swedish botanist and taxonomist, the founder of modern scientific classification of plants and animals.

62 Nature does not make jumps.

1750 Philosophia Botanica, no.77.

63 Minerals grow, plants grow and live, animals grow and live and feel.

'Systema Naturae', collected in E. A Hackel Generelle Morphologie (1866).

Lippard, Lucy 1937–

US art critic and feminist.

64 The New York Pop artists are often asked whether or not they like their subjects. This, as Dorothy Seckler has noted, is as irrelevant as asking whether Cézanne liked apples, Géricault corpses, or Picasso guitars.

1966 Pop Art.

Lippmann, Walter 1899–1974

US journalist, a columnist with the New York Herald Tribune, awarded a Pulitzer Prize for international reporting (1962). He also wrote Public Opinion (1922) and The Cold War (1947).

65 The present crisis of Western democracy is a crisis in journalism.

1920 Liberty and the News, 'Journalism and the Higher Law'.

66 There can be no higher law in journalism than to tell the truth and shame the devil.

1920 Liberty and the News, 'Journalism and the Higher Law'.

► See Shakespeare 742:17.

67 The news of the day as it reaches the newspaper office is an incredible medley of fact, propaganda, rumor, suspicion, clues, hopes, and fears, and the task of selecting and ordering that news is one of the truly sacred and priestly offices in a democracy. For the newspaper is in all literalness the bible of democracy, the book out of which a people determines its conduct.

1920 Liberty and the News, 'What Modern Liberty Means'.

68 Newspapers necessarily and inevitably reflect, and therefore, in greater or lesser measure, intensify, the defective organization of public opinion.

1922 Public Opinion, ch.1.

69 Usually it is the stereotyped shape assumed by an event at an obvious place that uncovers the run of the news.

1922 Public Opinion, ch.23.

70 The news is not a mirror of social conditions, but the report of an aspect that has obtruded itself.

1922 Public Opinion, ch.23.

71 The function of news is to signalize an event, the function of truth is to bring to light the hidden facts, to set them into relation with each other, and make a picture of reality on which men can act. Only at those points, where social conditions take recognizable and measurable shape, do the body of truth and the body of news coincide.

1922 Public Opinion, ch.23.

72 Successful politicians... are insecure and intimidated men. They advance politically only as they placate, appease, bribe, seduce, bamboozle, or otherwise manage to manipulate the demanding and threatening elements in their constituencies.

1955 The Public Philosophy, ch.2, sect.4.

73 The public interest may be presumed to be what men would choose if they saw clearly, thought rationally, acted disinterestedly and benevolently.

1955 The Public Philosophy, ch.4.

Lispector, Clarice 1925–77

Brazilian novelist, born in the Ukraine. Her artistic vision transcends time and place, and her characters (often female) are only incidentally modern or Brazilian.

74 Dessa civilização só pode sair quem tem como função especial a de sair: a um cientista é dada a licença, a um padre é dada a permissão. Mas não a uma mulher que nem sequer tem as garantias de um título.

Only he whose special function is departure can depart from that civilization: a scientist is given license, a priest is given permission. But these are not given to a woman who does not even have the guarantee of a title.

1964 A Paixão Segundo G.H. (The Passion According to G.H.).

75 O bom era ter uma inteligência e não entender. Era uma bênção estranha como a de ter loucura sem ser doída. Era um desinteresse manso em relação às coisas ditas do intelecto, uma doçura de estupidez.

What was good was to have intelligence and yet not understand. It was a strange blessing like experiencing madness without being mad. It was a gentle lack of interest with respect to the so-called things of the intellect, a sweet stupidity.

1969 Uma Aprendizagem ou O Livro dos Prazeres, 'Luminescência' (translated as An Apprenticeship or The Book of Delights, 1986).

Liszt, Franz 1811–86

Hungarian composer and pianist. An acclaimed technical and lyrical player, his works include symphonic poems, sacred works, masses and vocal and piano works in which he often experimented with new musical forms.

76 Ich kann warten.

I can wait.

When it was suggested to him that his music was being neglected. Quoted in F Lamond Memoirs (1949).

Littlewood, John Edensor 1885–1977

English mathematician, whose research included the distribution of prime numbers and ballistics (in World War I). Despite a severe nervous affliction, he continued working into old age. He published the popular Mathematician's Miscellany (1953).

77 They are not clever school boys or scholarship candidates, but 'Fellows of another college'.

1953 Of the ancient Greeks. A Mathematician's Miscellany.

Lively, Penelope (Margaret) 1933–

English writer. She is best known as a novelist, and has also written a memoir of her early childhood in Egypt, children's books, and an introduction to landscape history.

78 One never, of course, knows what people in portraits are thinking.

1982 Next to Nature, Art, ch.10.

79 Wars are fought by children—conceived by their mad demonic elders, and fought by boys.

1987 Moon Tiger, ch.8.

80 I believe that the experience of childhood is irretrievable. All that remains, for any of us, is a handful of brilliant frozen moments, already dangerously distorted by the wisdoms of maturity.

1994 Oleander, Jacaranda, preface.

81 All habits are geared towards the linear, the sequential, but memory refuses such orderliness.

1994 Oleander, Jacaranda, ch.3.

82 Literature has a lot to answer for, where concepts of the countryside are concerned.

2001 A House Unlocked.

Livingstone, Dr David 1813–73

Scottish missionary, doctor and explorer. He devoted his life to fighting the Portuguese slave trade, and to establishing settlements for missions in central Africa. He also explored widely, discovering Lakes Ngami, Shirwa and Nyasa and exploring the course of the Zaire River.

83 The mere animal pleasure of travelling in a wild unexplored country is also great... The effect of travel on a man whose heart is in the right place is that the mind is made more self-reliant: it becomes more confident of its own resources—there is greater presence of mind... The sweat of one's brow is no longer a curse when one works for God: it proves a tonic to the system, and actually a blessing. No one can truly appreciate the charm of repose unless he has undergone severe exertion.

Collected in H Waller (ed) The Last Journals of David Livingstone in Central Africa; continued by a narrative of his last moments and sufferings, obtained from his faithful servants, Chuma and Susi (1874).

Livingstone, Ken 1945–

English Labour politician. He was leader of the Greater London Council from 1981 to 1986, and in 2000 was elected to the newly created post of Mayor of London.

84 The problem is that many MPs never see the London that exists beyond the wine bars and brothels of Westminster.

1987 In The Times, 19 Feb.

Livy full name Titus Livius 59 BC–AD 17

Roman historian, admitted to the court of Augustus c.29 BC. His Ab urbe condita libri (History of Rome from its Foundations) consisted of 142 books, of which only parts have survived.

88 Vae victis!

Down with the defeated!

Attributed to the Gallic King Brennus, who had captured Rome in 390 BC, bk.5, ch.48.

89 Dum Romae consulitur, Saguntum expugnatur.

While they were deliberating in Rome, Saguntum was captured.

Oral tradition deriving from Livy's description of the siege and capture of the Spanish city of Saguntum by the Carthaginians in 219 BC. The Roman senate deliberated endlessly before deciding to take action when it was already too late. Cf. Livy 21.7.1 'Dum ea Romani parant consultantque, iam Saguntum summa vi oppugnabatur'.

Llewellyn, Richard originally Richard Doyle Vivian Llewellyn Lloyd 1907–83

Welsh author, who made his name with How Green was my Valley (1939), set in a Welsh mining village and later filmed.

90 How Green was my Valley.

1939 Title of book.

Lloyd, Henry Demarest 1847–1903

US journalist, financial writer and editor with the Chicago Tribune (1872–85). He crusaded against monopoly, and was a pioneer 'muckraker' journalist.

91 Monopoly is Business at the end of its journey.

1894 Wealth against Commonwealth, ch.1.

Lloyd, John 1946–

British journalist and author.

92 There are few hauteurs higher than foreign reporters' disdain for those who have not shared their craft.

2004 What the Media Are Doing to Our Politics.

Lloyd, Marie stage-name of Matilda Alice Victoria Wood 1870–1922

English singer. Known simply as 'Our Marie', she became a major star of music hall and pantomime, notorious for her suggestive delivery of such songs as 'A Little of What You Fancy Does You Good'.

93 If we didn't laugh at him, we'd cry our eyes out.

c.1891 Of the singer and comedian Dan Leno, who died insane in 1904. Attributed.

Lloyd George (of Dwyfor), David, 1st Earl 1863–1945

British Liberal Prime Minister. Elected MP for Caernarvon in 1890. President of the Board of Trade 1905–8 and Chancellor of the Exchequer 1905–15. Secretary of War in 1916 and coalition Prime Minister in the same year. After the war, his downfall came when he conceded the Irish Free State in 1921.

94 You cannot feed the hungry on statistics.

1904 Speech advocating tariff reform.

95 This is the trusty mastiff that is to watch over our interests, but which runs away at the first snarl of the trade unions. A mastiff? It is the right honourable gentleman's poodle. It fetches and carries for him. It barks for him. It bites anybody that he sets it on.

1908 Speech to the House of Commons, 21 Dec, referring to the obstructive Conservative majority in the House of Lords exploited by the then Tory leader, A J Balfour.

96 There are no credentials. They do not even need a medical certificate. They need not be sound either in body or mind. They only require a certificate of birth—just to prove that they were the first of the litter. You would not choose a spaniel on those principles.

1909 Referring to the House of Lords, Budget speech, Mar.

97 We are placing the burdens on the broadest shoulders. I made up my mind that, in forming the Budget, no cupboard should be barer, no lot should be harder to bear.

1909 Speech on the People's Budget, London, 30 Jul.

98 Four spectres haunt the poor—old age, accident, sickness, and unemployment. We are going to exorcise them. We are going to drive hunger from the hearth. We mean to banish the workhouse from the horizon of every workman in the land.

1910 Speech, Reading, 1 Jan.

99 We have been too comfortable and too indulgent—many, perhaps, too selfish—and the stern hand of fate has scoured us to an elevation where we can see the great everlasting things that matter for a nation; the great peaks we had forgotten, of honour, duty, patriotism, and, clad in glittering white, the great pinnacle of sacrifice pointing like a rugged finger to Heaven. We shall descend into the valleys again, but as long as men and women of this generation last, they will carry in their hearts the image of those great mountain peaks, whose foundations are not shaken, though Europe rock and sway in the convulsions of a great war.

1914 Speech, London, 19 Sep.

1 By the test of our faith the highest standard of civilization is the readiness to sacrifice for others.

1914 Speech in Queen's Hall, London, 21 Sep.

2 It is a great war for the emancipation of Europe from the thralldom of a military caste which has thrown its shadows upon two generations of men, and is now plunging the world into a welter of bloodshed and death.

1914 Speech in Queen's Hall, London, 21 Sep.

3 At eleven o'clock this morning came to an end the cruellest and most terrible war that has ever scourged mankind. I hope we may say that thus, this fateful morning, came to an end all wars.

1918 Speech in the House of Commons, 11 Nov, announcing the armistice.

4 What is our task? To make Britain a fit country for heroes to live in.

1918 Speech at Wolverhampton, Nov, at the end of World War I.

5 Give it because it is right. Give it because it is just. Give it because it is good for Ireland and good for the United Kingdom. Give it because it brings peace and good will, but do not give it because you are bullied by assassins.

1920 Speech on an Irish settlement, Caernarvon, 9 Oct.

6 Every man has a House of Lords in his own head. Fears, prejudices, misconceptions—those are the peers, and they are hereditary.

1927 Speech, Cambridge.

7 It is the old trouble—too late in dealing with Czechoslovakia, too late with Poland, and certainly too late with Finland. It is always too late, or too little, or both. That is the road to disaster.

1940 House of Commons, 13 Mar.

Locke, John 1632–1704

English philosopher, a formative influence on British Empiricism and on theories of liberal democracy. His most important work is the Essay Concerning Human Understanding, published in 1690. His treatises On Government (1690) were also influential, inspiring both American and French revolutionaries.

- 13 Government has no other end but the preservation of property.
1681 Second Treatise on Civil Government (published anonymously 1690).
- 14 Every man has a property in his person. This no body has any right to but himself. The labour of his body, and the work of his hands, we may say, are properly his.
1681 Second Treatise on Civil Government (published anonymously 1690).
- 15 Freedom of men under government is to have a standing rule to live by, common to every one of that society, and made by the legislative power vested in it; a liberty to follow my own will in all things when the rule prescribes not, and not to be subject to the inconstant, uncertain, unknown, arbitrary rule of another man.
1681 Second Treatise on Civil Government (published anonymously 1690).
- 16 It is ambition enough to be employed as an under-labourer in clearing ground a little, and removing some of the rubbish that lies in the way to knowledge.
1690 Essay Concerning Human Understanding, 'Epistle to the Reader'.

- 17 Let us then suppose the mind to be, as we say, white paper, void of all characters, without any ideas; how comes it to be furnished? Whence comes it by that vast store which the busy and boundless fancy of man has painted on it with an almost endless variety? Whence has it all the materials of reason and knowledge? To this I answer, in one word, from experience.

1690 Essay Concerning Human Understanding, bk.2, pt.1, section 2.

- 18 These two, I say, viz. external material things, as the objects of SENSATION, and the operations of our own minds within, as the objects of REFLECTION, are to me the only originals from whence all our ideas take their beginnings.

1690 Essay Concerning Human Understanding, bk.2, pt.1, section 4.

- 19 For should the soul of a prince enter and inform the body of a cobbler, as soon as deserted by his own soul, everyone sees he would be the same person with the prince, accountable only for the prince's actions; but who would say it was the same man?

1690 Essay Concerning Human Understanding, bk.2, pt.27, section 15.

- 20 A sound mind in a sound body is a short but full description of a happy state in this world. He that has those two, has little more to wish for; and he that wants either of them will be little the better for anything else.

1693 Some Thoughts Concerning Education, opening words.

- 21 Literature is mostly about having sex and not much about having children. Life is the other way round.
1965 The British Museum is Falling Down, ch.4.
- 22 The British, he thought, must be gluttons for satire: even the weather forecast seemed to be some kind of spoof, predicting every possible combination of weather for the next twenty-four hours without actually committing itself to anything specific.
1975 Changing Places, ch.2.
- 23 He understood...Walt Whitman, who laid end to end words never seen in each other's company before outside of a dictionary, and Herman Melville who split the atom of the traditional novel in the effort to make whaling a universal metaphor.
1975 Changing Places, ch.5.
- 24 Conversation is like playing tennis with a ball made of Krazy Putty that keeps coming back over the net in a different shape.
1984 Small World, pt.1, ch.1.
- 25 The world is a global campus, Hilary, you'd better believe it. The American Express card has replaced the library pass.
1984 Small World, pt.1, ch.2.

41 Life is real, life is earnest!

And the grave is not its goal;

Dust thou art, to dust returnest,

Was not spoken of the soul.

1838 'A Psalm of Life'. In Knickerbocker or New York Monthly Magazine, Sep. Collected in Voices of the Night (1839).

42 Art is long, and time is fleeting,

And our hearts, though stout and brave,

Still, like muffled drums, are beating

Funeral marches to the grave.

1838 'A Psalm of Life', stanza 4. In Knickerbocker or New York Monthly Magazine, Sep. Collected in Voices of the Night (1839).

43 Lives of great men all remind us

We can make our lives sublime,

And departing, leave behind us

Footprints on the sands of time.

1838 'A Psalm of Life', stanza 7. In Knickerbocker or New York Monthly Magazine, Sep. Collected in Voices of the Night (1839).

44 Under a spreading chestnut-tree

The village smithy stands;

The smith a mighty man is he,

With large and sinewy hands;

And the muscles of his brawny arms

- Are strong as iron bands.
1840 'The Village Blacksmith', stanza 1. Collected in Ballads and other Poems (1841).
- 45 His brow is wet with honest sweat,
 He earns whate'er he can,
 And looks the whole world in the face,
 For he owes not any man.
1840 'The Village Blacksmith', stanza 2. Collected in Ballads and other Poems (1841).
- 46 Each morning sees some task begin,
 Each evening sees it close;
 Something attempted, something done,
 Has earned a night's repose.
1840 'The Village Blacksmith', stanza 7. Collected in Ballads and other Poems (1841).

- 56 By the shore of Gitche Gumee
 By the shining Big-Sea-Water,
 Stood the wigwam of Nokomis,
 Daughter of the Moon, Nokomis.
 Dark behind it rose the forest,
 Rose the black and gloomy pine-trees,
 Rose the firs with cones upon them;
 Bright before it beat the water,
 Beat the clear and sunny water,
 Beat the shining Big-Sea-Water.

English Cavalier poet. Twice imprisoned (1642 and 1648–49) by the Puritans for his Royalist sympathies, he spent much of his time behind bars writing poetry, which he published in 1649 as the collection Lucasta.

- 9 When I lie tangled in her hair,
And fettered to her eye;
The Gods, that wanton in the air
Know no such liberty.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Althea, from Prison'.
- 10 Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage;
Minds innocent and quiet take
That for a hermitage;
If I have freedom in my love,
And in my soul am free;
Angels along that soar above,
Enjoy such liberty.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Althea, from Prison'.
- 11 If to be absent were to be Away from thee;
Or that when I am gone,
You or I were alone;
Then my Lucasta might I crave
Pity from blust'ring wind, or swallowing wave.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Lucasta, Going beyond the Seas'.
- 12 Amarantha sweet and fair,
Ah braid no more that shining hair!
As my curious hand or eye,
Hovering round thee let it fly.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Amarantha, That She Would Dishevel Her Hair'.
- 13 Tell me not, Sweet, I am unkind,
That from the nunnery
Of thy chaste breast, and quiet mind,
To war and arms I fly.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Lucasta, Going to the Wars'.
- 14 I could not love thee, Dear, so much,
Loved I not honour more.
1649 Lucasta, 'To Lucasta, Going to the Wars'.
- 15 Thus did they live: Thus did they love,
Repeating only joys above;
And Angels were, but with clothes on,
Which they would put off cheerfully,
To bathe them in the galaxy,
Then gird them with the Heavenly zone.
1649 Lucasta, 'Love Made in the First Age'.
- 16 The asp doth on his feeder feed.
1649 Lucasta, 'A Fly Caught in a Cobweb'.

Loveless, George 1805–40

English Methodist preacher, who in 1833 organized the agricultural labourers of Tolpuddle, Dorset, into a trade union. When the men were convicted of taking illegal oaths and transported, a public outcry ensued and they were eventually pardoned.

- 17 If we have violated any law, it was not done intentionally. We have injured no man's reputation, character, person, or property. We were meeting together to preserve ourselves, our wives, and our children from utter degradation and starvation.
1833 Statement to the Dorchester Assizes, Mar, on behalf of the Tolpuddle martyrs.

Lovell, Sir (Alfred Charles) Bernard 1913–

English astronomer. He was the instigator of the funding, construction and use of the radio telescope at Jodrell Bank.

- 18 The fate of human civilization will depend on whether the rockets of the future carry the astronomer's telescope or a hydrogen bomb.
1959 The Individual and the Universe.
- 19 A study of history shows that civilizations that abandon the quest for knowledge are doomed to disintegration.
1972 In the Observer, 'Sayings of the Week', 14 May.

1857 Unprotected Females in Norway.

Lowell, Amy 1874–1925

US poet. A descendant of James Russell Lowell, she was associated with the Imagist movement, and wrote free verse in a style she named 'unrhymed cadence'. She also wrote prose and criticism.

- 21 For books are more than books, they are the life
The very heart and core of ages past,
The reason why men lived and worked and died,
The essence and quintessence of their lives.
1912 'The Boston Athenaeum'.
- 22 All books are either dreams or swords,
You can cut, or you can drug, with words.
1914 'Sword Blades and Poppy Seeds'.
- 23 And the softness of my body will be guarded by embrace
By each button, hook, and lace.
For the man who should loose me is dead,
Fighting with the Duke in Flanders,
In a pattern called a war.
Christ! What are patterns for?
1916 'Patterns'.
- 24 A man must be sacrificed now and again
To provide for the next generation of men.
1922 'A Critical Fable'.
- 25 I must be mad, or very tired,
When the curve of a blue bay beyond a railroad track
Is shrill and sweet to me like the sudden springing of a tune,
And the sight of a white church above thin trees in a city square
Amazes my eyes as though it were the Parthenon.
1925 'Meeting-House Hill'.

Lowell, James Russell 1819–91

US poet, essayist and diplomat. His popular satiric poems in Yankee dialect were published as The Biglow Papers (1848 and 1867). A lecturer at Harvard, he was also editor of the Atlantic Monthly and US Minister to Spain (1877–80) and Britain (1880–85).

- 26 It is mediocrity which makes laws and sets mantraps and spring-guns in the realm of free song, saying thus far shall you go and no further.
1843 'Elizabethan Dramatists, Omitting Shakespeare: John Webster'.
- 27 Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide,

In the strife of Truth with Falsehood, for the good or evil side.

1844 'The Present Crisis', in the Boston Courier, 11 Dec. Collected in Poems: Second Series, 1848. The poem was written in the midst of the controversy over whether Texas should be annexed and slavery extended.

- 28 They talk about their Pilgrim blood,
Their birthright high and holy!
A mountain-stream that ends in mud
Methinks is melancholy.
1846 'An Interview with Miles Standish', stanza 11.
- 29 Ez fer war, I call it murder,—
There you hev it plain an' flat;
I don't want to go no furder
Than my Testyment fer that;
God hez sed so plump an' fairly,
It's ez long ez it is broad,
An' you've gut to git up airy
Ef you want to take in God.
1846 'A Letter'. In the Boston Courier, 17 Jun. Collected in The Biglow Papers, First Series (1848), no. 1.
- 30 'Slavery's a thing thet depends on complexion,
It's God's law thet fetters on black skins don't chafe;
Ef brains wuz to settle it (horrid reflection!)
Wich of our onnable body'd be safe?'
1848 'The Debate in the Sennit', in the Boston Courier, 3 May, collected in The Biglow Papers: First Series (1848), no. 5.

- 34 Books are the bees which carry the quickening pollen from one to another mind.
1849 'Nationality in Literature', in the North American Review, Jul.
- 35 Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action.
1867 'Rousseau and the Sentimentalists', in the North American Review, Jul.
- 36 The mind can weave itself warmly in the cocoon of its own thoughts, and dwell a hermit anywhere.
1869 'On a Certain Condescension in Foreigners', in the Atlantic Monthly, Jan.
- 37 Sorrow, the great idealizer.
1876 Among My Books, 'Spenser'.
- 38 There is no good in arguing with the inevitable. The only argument available with an east wind is to put on your overcoat.
1884 'On Democracy', Lowell's inaugural address when he became president of the Birmingham and Midland Institute, 6 Oct.
- 39 Compromise makes a good umbrella but a poor roof.
1884 'On Democracy', speech in Birmingham, 6 Oct.
- 40 As life runs on, the road grows strange
With faces new,—and near the end
The milestones into headstones change,

'Neath every one a friend.

1887 'Sixty-Eighth Birthday'.

Lowell, Robert Trail Spence, Jr 1917–77

US poet. His poems are intensely personal and confessional. His public involvement and outspoken comments, especially during the Vietnam War, have made him one of the best known of all contemporary poets.

- 41 Let there pass
A minute, ten, ten trillion; but the blaze
Is infinite, eternal: this is death.
To die and know it. This is the Black Widow, death.
1950 'Mr Edwards and the Spider'.
- 42 They died
When time was open-eyed,
Wooden and childish; only bones abide
There, in the nowhere, where their boats were tossed Sky-high, where mariners had fabled news of IS, the whited monster.
1950 'The Quaker Graveyard in Nantucket', pt. 3.
- 43 This is the end of the whaleroad and the whale
Who spewed Nantucket bones on the thrashed swell
And stirred the troubled waters to whirlpools
To send the Pequod packing off to hell
1950 'The Quaker Graveyard in Nantucket', pt. 4. The Pequod was the ship that sailed after Moby Dick in Melville's novel.
- 44 The Lord survives the rainbow of his will.
1950 'The Quaker Graveyard in Nantucket', last line.
- 45 I keep no rank nor station.
Cured, I am frizzled, stale and small.
1956 'Home After Three Months Away'.
- 46 I myself am hell.
1956 'Skunk Hour'.
- 47 I often sigh still for the dark downward and vegetating kingdom of the fish and reptile.
1964 'For the Union Dead'.
- 48 William James could almost hear the bronze Negroes breathe.
Their monument sticks like a fishbone
in the city's throat.
1964 'For The Union Dead'.
- 49 Everywhere,
giant finned cars nose forward like fish;
a savage servility
slides by on grease.
1964 'For the Union Dead'.
- 50 He is out of bounds now. He rejoices in man's lovely peculiar power to choose life and die—when he leads his black soldiers to death, he cannot bend his back.
1964 'For The Union Dead'. 'He' refers to Colonel Shaw, the white commander of the black regiment commemorated in the monument.
- 51 The man is killing time—there's nothing else.
1964 'The Drinker'.
- 52 But I suppose even God was born too late to trust the old religion—all those settings out that never left the ground,

beginning in wisdom, dying in doubt.

1964 'Tenth Muse'.

- 53 The elect, the elected... they come here bright as dimes, and die dishevelled and soft.

1964 'July in Washington'.

- 54 Yours the lawlessness
of something simple that has lost its law.

1964 'Caligula'.

- 55 O that the spirit could remain tinged but untarnished by its strain!

1967 'Waking Early Sunday Morning'.

- 56 Pity the planet, all joy gone from this sweet volcanic cone

1967 'Waking Early Sunday Morning'.

- 57 Life is too short to silver over this tarnish.
The gods, employed to haunt and punish husbands,
have no hand for trigger-fine distinctions,
their myopia makes all error mortal.

1968 'New Year's Eve'.

- 58 My Darling, prickly hedgehog of the heart, chocolates, cherries, hairshirts, pinks and glass—when we joined in the sublime blindness of courtship loving lost all its vice with half its virtue.

1968 'New Year's Eve'.

- 59 Age is our reconciliation with dullness.

1973 'Last Summer at Milgate'.

- 60 We feel the machine slipping from our hands
As if someone else were steering;
If we see the light at the end of the tunnel,
It's the light of the oncoming train.

1977 Day by Day; 'Since 1939'.

- 61 Those blessed structures, plot and rhyme —
why are they no help to me now
I want to make something imagined, not recalled?

1977 Day by Day; 'Epilogue'.

- 62 Pray for the grace of accuracy
Vermeer gave to the sun's illumination stealing like the tide across a map to his girl solid with yearning.

1977 Day by Day; 'Epilogue'.

Lowenthal, Leo 1900–93

German-born US sociologist.

- 63 We call the heroes of the past heroes of production. We feel entitled to call the present day magazine heroes
'idols of consumption'. Indeed, almost every one of them is directly, or indirectly, related to the sphere of leisure time.

1944 'The Triumph of Mass Idols', collected in Literature and Mass Culture (1984).

Lowndes, William 1652–1724

English politician.

- 64 Take care of the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves.

Quoted by Lord Chesterfield in a letter to his son, 5 Feb 1750. In an earlier letter, 6 Nov 1747, he refers to the same adage in the form 'for the pounds'.

Lowry, (Clarence) Malcolm 1909–57

English novelist. He went to sea as a young man and lived in Mexico and Vancouver. He is best known for his novel, Under the Volcano (1947), one of the great 20c explorations of alcoholism. He died after choking in his sleep.

- 65 Nothing in the world was more terrible than an empty bottle! Unless it was an empty glass.

1947 Under the Volcano, ch.3.

- 66 Where are the children I might have had?... Drowned to the accompaniment of the rattling of a thousand douche bags.

1947 Under the Volcano, ch.10.

- 67 How alike are the groans of love to those of the dying.

1947 Under the Volcano, ch.12.

- 68 Dark as the Grave Wherein my Friend is Laid.

Title of novel, published posthumously (1968).

Lucan full name Marcus Annaeus Lucanus AD 39–65

Latin poet, born in Spain, nephew of the philosopher Seneca. A favourite at the court of Nero, he lost imperial favour and in AD 65 joined Piso's conspiracy against Nero, but was betrayed and compelled to commit suicide. His epic poem Bellum Civile (or Pharsalia) deals with the civil war between Caesar and Pompey.

- 69 Victrix causa deis placuit, sed victa Catoni.

A victorious case pleased the gods, but a lost one Cato.
Pharsalia, bk.1, 1.126.

- 70 Stat magni nominis umbra.

There stands the shade of a great name.
Of Pompey. Pharsalia, bk.1, 1.135.

- 71 Coniunx est mihi, sunt nati: dedimus tot pignora fatis.

I have a wife, I have sons: we have given so many hostages to the fates.

Pharsalia, bk.6, 1.661–2.

Lucas, E(dward) V(errell) 1868–1938

English essayist and biographer. He was assistant editor of Punch, and wrote novels and travel books.

- 72 I have noticed that people who are late are often so much jollier than the people who have to wait for them.

1926 365 Days and One More.

- 73 Readers of novels are strange folk, upon whose probable or even possible tastes no wise book-maker would ever venture.

1932 Reading, Writing and Remembering, ch.1.

- 74 There can be no defence like elaborate courtesy.

1932 Reading, Writing and Remembering, ch.8.

Lucas, F(rank) L(awrence) 1894–1967

- 75 Unintelligible, the borrowings cheap and the notes useless.

1923 On T S Eliot's The Waste Land, in the New Statesman and Nation, Nov.

- 76 The virtues common to good living and good poetry seem to me not so much matters of what used to be called 'virtue' as, above all, of sane vitality.

1936 The Decline and Fall of the Romantic Ideal, ch.1.

77 Human temperaments are too diverse; we can never agree how drunk we like our art to be.

1951 Literature and Psychology, ch.10.

78 Every author's fairy godmother should provide him not only with a pen but also with a blue pencil.

1955 Style, introduction.

1955 In Newsweek, 24 Jan.

Lucretius full name Titus Lucretius Carus 98–c.55 BC

Roman poet and philosopher, author of De Rerum Natura, a hexameter poem in six books expounding the physical system of Epicurus, in which release from fear, and the mortality of the soul, are central concerns.

82 Nil posse creari

De nilo.

Nothing can be created from nothing.

De Rerum Natura, bk.1, line 155–6.

83 *Suave, mari magno turbantibus aequora ventis,
E terra magnum alterius spectare laborem;
Non quia vexari quemquamst iucunda voluptas,
Sed quibus ipse malis careas quia cernere suave est.
Suave etiam belli certamina magna tueri
Per campos instructa tua sine parte pericli.
Sed nil dulcius est, bene quam munita tenere
Edita doctrina sapientum templa serena,
Despicere unde queas alios passimque videre
Errare atque viam palantis quaerere vitae,
Certare ingenio, contendere nobilitate,
Noctes atque dies niti praestante labore
Ad summas emergere opes rerumque potiri.*

What joy it is, when out at sea the stormwinds are lashing the waters, to gaze from the shore at the heavy stress some other man is enduring. Not that anyone's afflictions are in themselves a source of delight; but to realize from what troubles you yourself are free is joy indeed. What joy, again, to watch opposing hosts marshalled on the field of battle when you have yourself no part in their peril! But this is the greatest joy of all: to possess a quiet sanctuary, stoutly fortified by the teaching of the wise, and to gaze down from that elevation on others wandering aimlessly in search of a way of life, pitting their wits one against another, disputing for precedence, struggling night and day with unstinted effort to scale the pinnacles of wealth and power.

De Rerum Natura, bk.2, lines 1–13 (translated by R. E. Latham).

84 Vitaque mancipio, nulli datur, omnibus usu.

To none is life given in freehold; to all on lease.

De Rerum Natura, bk.3, line 971 (translated by R. E. Latham).

85 Ut quod ali cibis est aliis fuat acre venenum.

What is food to one may be literally poison to others.

De Rerum Natura, bk.4, line 637 (translated by R. E. Latham).

Lugones, Leopoldo 1874–1938

Argentinian poet and critic. As a socialist journalist, he joined the Modernista group, later becoming a conservative nationalist and, in 1929, a Fascist.

86 Si tengo la fortuna

de que con tu alma mi dolor se integre, te diré entre melancólico y alegre las singulares cosas de la luna.

If I am fortunate enough for your soul to mix with my sorrow,

I will tell you, half with melancholy, half with gladness,

Unique things about the moon.

1909 Lunario sentimental, 'Divagación lunar' ('Lunar digression').

Lukács, Georg 1885–1971

Hungarian-born Marxist scholar, philosopher and aesthetician.

87 Nature is a social category.

1923 History and Class Consciousness.

Lumière, Auguste Marie Louis Nicolas 1862–1954

French film pioneer, brother of Louis Lumière. The brothers owned a factory in Lyons where photographic products were made. They invented the first successful cine camera and projector and presented their film of workers leaving the Lumière factory in 1895.

88 Mon frère, en une nuit, avait inventé le cinématographe.

My brother, in one night, had invented the cinema.

Of the night his brother Louis had a flash of inspiration which resulted in the 'Kinetoscope de projection' patented in 1895.

Quoted in C W Ceram Archaeology of the Cinema (1965).

Lurie, Alison 1926–

US novelist and academic. She has written a number of acutely observed novels, often with academic settings, as well as non-fiction and children's literature.

89 That is the worst thing about being a middle-class woman... you have more knowledge of yourself and the world: you are equipped to make choices, but there are none left to make.

1974 The War Between The Tates, ch.3.

90 Fashion is free speech, and one of the privileges, if not always one of the pleasures, of a free world.

1981 The Language of Clothes.

91 The most desirable mental state for a potential consumer... is a kind of free-floating anxiety and depression, combined with a nice collection of unrealistic goals and desires.

Luther, Martin 1483–1546

German theologian. Originally an Augustinian monk, he became the leader of Protestant Reformation in Europe. When he publicly burned the Papal Bull against him he was summoned before the Diet at Worms and banned. His followers later founded the Lutheran Church.

- 92 Hier stehe ich. Ich kann nicht anders. Gott helfe mir. Amen.
Here I stand; I can do no other; God help me; Amen.
1521 Speech in defence of his doctrines at the Diet of Worms, 18 Apr. The Diet subsequently denounced his ideas as heretical.
- 93 I cannot and will not recant anything, for to go against conscience is neither right nor safe.
1521 Speech in defence of his doctrines at the Diet of Worms, 18 Apr.
- 94 Esto peccator et pecca fortiter, sed fortius fide et gaude in Christo.
Be a sinner and sin boldly, but more boldly believe and rejoice in Christ.
1521 Letter to Melanchthon.
- 95 Wenn ich gewusst hätte, dass so viel Teufel auf mich gezielet hätten, als Ziegel auf den Dächern waren zu Worms, wäre ich dennoch eingeritten.
I would have gone into Worms though there were as many devils as tiles on the roof.
1524 Letter to Frederick, Elector of Saxony, 21 Aug.
- 96 It is better that all of these peasants should be killed rather than that the sovereigns and magistrates should be destroyed, because the peasants take up the sword without God's authority.
1525 Letter to Nicholas von Ansdorf, 30 May.
- 97 Ein' feste Burg ist unser Gott, Ein' gute Wehr und Waffen.
A safe stronghold our God is still,
A trusty shield and weapon.
1529 Ein' feste Burg ist unser Gott (translated by Thomas Carlyle).
- 98 Wo rauff du nu... dein Hertz engest und verlessest, das ist eygentlich dein Gott.
Whatever your heart clings to and confides in, that is really your God.
1529 Large Catechism, 'The First Commandment'.
- 99 Rough, boisterous, stormy and altogether warlike, I am born to fight against innumerable monsters and devils. Quoted in Vincent Cronin The Flowering of the Renaissance (1969).
- 1 Wer nicht liebt Wein, Weib und Gesang, Der bleibt ein Narr sein Leben lang.
Who loves not woman, wine and song
Remains a fool his whole life long.
Attributed. This was inscribed in the Luther room at Wartburg, but is probably apocryphal.

Lutyens, Sir Edwin Landseer 1869–1944

1915 In Country Life, 8 May.

Lydgate, John c.1370–c.1451

English poet and Benedictine monk, who travelled widely in Europe. In 1423 he became Prior of the monastery of Hatfield Broadoak. His many works include The Siege of Thebes (1420–2) and The Fall of Princes (1431–8).

- 3 Off our language he was the lodesterre.
1431–8 Of Chaucer. The Fall of Princes, prologue, l.252.
- 4 Lat no man booste of conning nor vertu,
Of tresour, richesse, nor of sapience,
Of worldly support, for all cometh of Jesu.
c.1450 'Lat no man booste', ll.1–3.
- 5 Woord is but wynd; leff woord and tak the dede.
Secrets of Old Philosophers, l.224.

Lyly, John c.1554–1606

English writer and dramatist. He published his prose romance Euphues, or the Anatomy of Wit in 1578, and wrote eight plays between 1584 and 1590, including Endymion, or The Man in the Moon (1588).

- 6 Be valiant, but not too venturous. Let thy attire be comely, but not costly.
1578 Euphues, or the Anatomy of Wit.
- 7 What bird so sings, yet so does wail?
O 'tis the ravished nightingale.
Jug, jug, jug, jug, tereu, she cries,
And still her woes at midnight rise.
1584 Campaspe, act 5, sc.1.
- 8 How at heaven's gates she claps her wings,
The morn not waking till she sings.
1584 Of the lark. Campaspe, act 5, sc.1.
- 9 A heat full of coldness, a sweet full of bitterness, a pain full of pleasantness, which maketh thoughts have eyes and hearts ears, bred by desire, nursed by delight, weaned by jealousy, killed by dissembling, buried by ingratitude, and this is love. Fair lady, will you any?
1588 Gallathea, act 1, sc.2. The passage gently satirizes the conventions of love sonnets, and is characterized by the yoked opposites called Euphuisms, after Lyly's earlier work, a style later used by the metaphysical poets.
- 10 If love be a god, why should not lovers be virtuous?
1588 Gallathea, act 3, sc.1.
- 11 Yield, ladies, yield to love, ladies, which lurketh under your eyelids whilst you sleep and playeth with your heartstrings whilst you wake, whose sweetness never breedeth satiety, labour weariness, nor grief bitterness.
1588 Gallathea, epilogue.
- 12 Night hath a thousand eyes.
1600 The Maydes Metamorphosis, act 3, sc.1.

Lyndon, Neil 1946–

British journalist and writer. His critique of feminism, No More Sex War: The Failures of Feminism, was published in 1992.

15 The cardinal tenets of feminism divided my generation, effectively disempowering and disenfranchising its members. It does make me bitterly angry that my generation, which prided itself so complacently on its soul, on its powers of intelligence and analysis, should have fallen so cloddishly for totalitarian simplicities which declared a war of eternal opposition between men and women.

1992 No More Sex War: The Failures of Feminism.

Lyte, Henry Francis 1793–1847

Scottish hymn writer, curate of Lower Brixham, Devon, from 1823.

16 Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven;
To his feet thy tribute bring.
Ransomed, healed, restored, forgiven,
Who like me his praise should sing?
1834 'Praise, my Soul, the King of Heaven.'

17 Abide with me; fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens; Lord, with me abide;
When other helpers fail and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O, abide with me.
1847 Remains, 'Abide with Me' (published 1850).

Lyttelton, Humphrey Richard Adeane 1921–

English jazz trumpeter, bandleader and broadcaster. An Old Etonian and former guardsman, he is the doyen of the English jazz scene, both as a musician and as a writer and broadcaster.

18 It is this tendency to play with manic enthusiasm on every possible occasion that distinguishes the amateur jazz musician from the professional, often to the public detriment of the latter, who are regarded as snooty and unfriendly.

25 In war, indeed, there can be no substitute for victory.

1951 Address to Congress, 19 Apr. In the Congressional Record, vol.97, pt.3, p.4125.

26 The world has turned over many times since I took the oath on the plain at West Point...but I still remember the refrain of one of the most popular ballads of that day which proclaimed most proudly that old soldiers never die; they just fade away.

1951 Address to Congress after being relieved of his duty by President Truman, 19 Apr.

27 I now close my military career and just fade away, an old soldier who tried to do his duty as God gave him the light to see that duty.

1951 Address to Congress after being relieved of his duty by President Truman, 19 Apr.

28 It isn't just dust that is settling in Korea, Senator, it is American blood.

Macaulay, Dame (Emilie) Rose 1881–1958

English novelist and travel writer whose book, Pleasure of Ruins (1953), includes an account of her visit to Cambodia and the ruins of Angkor.

32 You should always believe all you read in newspapers, as this makes them more interesting.

1925 A Casual Commentary; 'Problems of a Reader's Life'.

33 My point of view has sadly changed. For now, should all the books in the world be laid before me, my problem would be how many of them I could avoid. Most books are like that.

1925 A Casual Commentary; 'Problems of a Reader's Life'.

34 Here is one of the points about this planet which should be remembered; into every penetrable corner of it, and into most of the impenetrable corners, the English will penetrate.

1926 Crewe Train, pt.1, ch.1.

35 Gentlemen know that fresh air should be kept in its proper place—out of doors—and that, God having given us indoors and out-of-doors, we should not attempt to do away with that distinction.

1926 Crewe Train, pt.1, ch.5.

36 All is now desolate, fantastic, and ambushed with ghosts; the archaeologists twitter among them like bats.

1953 Of Angkor Thom. Pleasure of Ruins.

37 'Take my camel, dear,' said my aunt Dot, as she climbed down from this animal on her return from High Mass.

1956 The Towers of Trebizond, ch.1.

Macaulay (of Rothley), Thomas Babington Macaulay, 1st Baron 1800–59

English essayist and historian, an MP from 1830 and a skilful orator in the Reform Bill debates. He wrote the highly popular Lays of Ancient Rome (1842) and contributed to the Edinburgh Review, but his major work was the History of England from the Accession of James II (1848–61, fifth volume unfinished).

38 Then, beneath the nine-tailed cat
Shall they who use it writhe, sir;
And curates lean, and rectors fat,
Shall dig the ground they tithe, sir.
Down with your Bayleys, and your Bests,
Your Giffords, and your Gurneys;
We'll clear the island of the pests,
Which mortals name attorneys.

1820 'A Radical War Song', stanza 8. The names are those of lawyers and judges who figured in the trial of the Cato Street conspirators.

39 Free trade, one of the greatest blessings which a government can confer on a people, is in almost every country unpopular.

1824 'Essay on Mitford's History of Greece', collected in Works (published 1906), vol.7, p.688–9.

40 The men of our time are not to be converted or perverted by quartos.

1825 'Milton', in the Edinburgh Review, Aug.

41 Perhaps no person can be a poet, or can even enjoy poetry, without a certain unsoundness of mind.

1825 'Milton', in the Edinburgh Review, Aug.

42 There is only one cure for the evils which newly acquired freedom produces; and that is freedom... The blaze of truth and liberty may at first dazzle and bewilder nations which have become half blind in the house of bondage. But let them gaze on, and they will soon be able to bear it.

1825 'Milton', in the Edinburgh Review, Aug.

43 Many politicians of our time are in the habit of laying it down as a self-evident proposition, that no people ought to be free till they are fit to use their freedom. The maxim is worthy of the fool in the old story, who resolved not to go into the water till he had learnt to swim. If men are to wait for liberty till they become wise and good in slavery, they may indeed wait for ever.

1825 'Milton', in the Edinburgh Review, Aug.

44 Every man who has seen the world knows that nothing is so useless as a general maxim.

1827 'Machiavelli', in the Edinburgh Review, Mar.

45 It has lately been brought to my knowledge

That the Ministers fully design
To suppress each cathedral and college,
And eject every learned divine.
To assist this detestable scheme
Three nuncios from Rome are come over;
They left Calais on Monday by steam,
And landed to dinner at Dover.

1827 'The Country Clergyman's Trip to Cambridge', stanza 2. A satirical poem against the opposition to Catholic emancipation.

46 Knowledge advances by steps, and not by leaps.

1828 'History' in the Edinburgh Review, May.

47 History, at least in its ideal state of perfection, is a compound of poetry and philosophy.

1828 'Hallam's Constitutional History' in the Edinburgh Review, Sep.

48 We know of no spectacle so ridiculous as the British public in one of its periodical fits of morality.

1828 In the Edinburgh Review.

49 The gallery in which the reporters sit has become a fourth estate of the realm.

50 His writing bears the same relation to poetry which a Turkey carpet bears to a picture.

1830 'Robert Montgomery', in the Edinburgh Review, Apr.

51 Mr Robert Montgomery's genius [is] far too free and aspiring to be shackled by the rules of syntax... [His] readers must take such grammar as they can get and be thankful.

1830 'Robert Montgomery', in the Edinburgh Review, Apr.

52 From the poetry of Lord Byron they drew a system of ethics, compounded of misanthropy and voluptuousness, a system in which the two great commandments were, to hate your neighbour, and to love your neighbour's wife.

1831 Of the young Byron enthusiasts who emulated and hero-worshipped him. 'Moore's Life of Lord Byron', in the Edinburgh Review, Jun.

53 Many of the greatest men that ever lived have written biography. Boswell was one of the smallest men that ever lived and he has beaten them all.

- 61 But even Archimedes was not free from the prevailing notion that geometry was degraded by being employed to produce anything useful. It was with difficulty that he was induced to stoop from speculation to practice. He was half ashamed of those inventions which were the wonder of hostile nations, and always spoke of them slightly as mere amusements, as trifles in which a mathematician might be suffered to relax his mind after intense application to the higher parts of his science.

 By the nine gods he swore
 That the great house of Tarquin
 Should suffer wrong no more.
1842 Lays of Ancient Rome, 'Horatius', stanza 1.
- 63 Then out spake brave Horatius,
 The Captain of the Gate:
 'To every man upon this earth
 Death cometh soon or late.
 And how can man die better
 Than facing fearful odds,
 For the ashes of his fathers
 And the temples of his God?'
1842 Lays of Ancient Rome, 'Horatius', stanza 27.

McCann, M(ichael) J(oseph) 1824–1883

Irish teacher, journalist and ballad-writer.

87 Proudly the note of the trumpet is sounding,
Loudly the war-cries arise on the gale,
Fleety the steed by Loc Suilig is bounding
To join the thick squadrons in Saimear's green vale.

On, every mountaineer,
Strangers to flight and fear:
Rush to the standard of dauntless Red Hugh!
Bonnought and gallowglass,
Throng from each mountain-pass!
On for old Erin—O'Donnell abu!

1845 The Spirit of the Nation, 'O'Donnell Abu'.

88 Wildly o'er Desmond the war-wolf is howling,
Fearless the eagle sweeps over the plain,
The fox in the streets of the city is prowling—
All, all who would scare them are banished or slain!

1845 The Spirit of the Nation, 'O'Donnell Abu'.

McCarthy, Eugene J(oseph) 1916–

US Democratic politician, Senator from Minnesota (1958–70). An opponent of the Vietnam War, in 1968 he challenged President Johnson for nomination but the bid failed and he left politics to devote himself to teaching and writing.

89 The war in Vietnam...[is] of questionable loyalty and constitutionality...diplomatically indefensible... morally wrong.

1967 Speech to the Conference of Concerned Democrats, 2 Dec, an address noted for crystallizing dissent against the Vietnam War.

90 The message from the administration today is a message of fear—even a message of fear of fear.

1967 Speech to the Conference of Concerned Democrats, 2 Dec.

91 Let us pick up again these lost strands and weave them again into the fabric of America...sort out the music from the sounds and again respond to the trumpet and the steady drum.

1967 Speech to Conference of Concerned Democrats, 2 Dec.

92 Being in politics is like being a football coach. You have to be smart enough to know the game and stupid enough to think it is important.

1991 In the Los Angeles Times, 7 Dec.

McCarthy, Joseph R(aymond) 1909–57

US Republican politician and inquisitor. As Chairman of the Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations from 1953, he used hectoring cross-examination and innuendo to arraign many often innocent citizens for communist sympathies.

93 While I cannot take time off to name all the men in the State Department who have been named as members of the Communist Party and members of a spy ring, I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the Secretary of State as being members of the Communist Party, and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy of the State Department.

1950 Speech at Wheeling, West Virginia, 9 Feb, which marked the beginning of the McCarthy 'witch hunts' for communists.

94 McCarthyism is Americanism with its sleeves rolled.

1952 Re-election campaign slogan.

- 95 When an American heiress wants to buy a man, she at once crosses the Atlantic. The only really materialistic people I have ever met have been Europeans.
1947 'America the Beautiful', in Commentary, Sep.
- 96 The American character looks always as if it just had a rather bad haircut, which gives it, in our eyes at any rate, a greater humanity than the European, which even among its beggars has an all too professional air.
1947 'America the Beautiful', in Commentary, Sep.
- 97 American life, in large cities, is a perpetual assault on the senses and the nerves; it is out of asceticism, out of unworldliness, precisely, that we bear it.
1947 'America the Beautiful', in Commentary, Sep.
- 98 The happy ending is our national belief.
1947 'America the Beautiful', in Commentary, Sep.
- 99 Liberty, as it is conceived by current opinion, has nothing inherent about it; it is a sort of gift or trust bestowed on the individual by the state pending good behavior.

- 1 Every age has a keyhole to which its eye is pasted.
1953 'My Confession'. Collected in On the Contrary (1961).
- 2 In the unreal realms of the canals, as in a Swiftian Lilliput, the real world, with its contrivances, appears as a vast folly.
1956 Of Venice. Venice Observed, ch.1.
- 3 To care for the quarrels of the past, to identify oneself passionately with a cause that became, politically speaking, a losing cause with the birth of the modern world, is to experience a kind of straining against reality, a rebellious nonconformity that, again, is rare in America, where children are instructed in the virtues of the system they live under, as though history had achieved a happy ending in American civics.
1957 Of Catholicism. Memories of a Catholic Girlhood, 'To the Reader'.
- 4 Bureaucracy, the rule of no one, has become the modern form of despotism.
1958 'Vita Activa', in the New Yorker, 18 Oct.
- 5 There are no new truths, but only truths that have not been recognized by those who have perceived them without noticing.
1958 'Vita Activa', in the New Yorker, 18 Oct.
- 6 The labor of keeping house is labor in its most naked state, for labor is toil that never finishes, toil that has to be begun again the moment it is completed, toil that is destroyed and consumed by the life process.
1958 'Vita Activa', in the New Yorker, 18 Oct.
- 7 In violence, we forget who we are.
1961 On the Contrary, 'Characters in Fiction'.
- 8 An interviewer asked me what book I thought best represented the modern American woman. All I could think of to answer was: Madame Bovary.
1961 On the Contrary, 'Characters in Fiction'.

- 41 Lourd on my hert as winter lies
The state that Scotland's in the day.
Spring to the North has aye come slow
But noo dour winter's like to stay
For guid,
And no' for guid!

1930 To Circumjack Cencrastus, or The Curly Snake.

- 42 Better a'e gowden lyric
Than a social problem solved.
1930 To Circumjack Cencrastus, or The Curly Snake.

In the streets o' the toon?
Gin they're no', then 'I'm failin' to dae
What I ocht to ha' dune.
1932 Second Hymn to Lenin.
- 44 Scotland is not wholly surrounded by the sea—unfortunately.
1934 Scottish Scene, 'The Sea.'
- 45 We must reconcile ourselves to the stones,
Not the stones to us.
1934 'On a Raised Beach'.
- 46 The rose of all the world is not for me.
I want for my part
Only the little white rose of Scotland
That smells sharp and sweet—and breaks the heart.
1934 Stony Limits and other poems, 'The Little White Rose.'
- 47 My aim all along has been (in Ezra Pound's term) the most drastic desuetization of Scottish life and letters, and, in particular, the de-Tibetanization of the Highlands and Islands, and getting rid of the whole gang of high mucky-mucks, famous fatheads, old wives of both sexes, stuffed shirts, hollow men with headpieces stuffed with straw, bird-wits, lookers-under-beds, trained seals, creeping Jesuses, Scots Wha Ha'evers, village idiots, policemen, leaders of white-mouse factions and noted connoisseurs of bread and butter, glorified gangsters, and what 'Billy' Phelps calls Medlar Novelists (the medlar being a fruit that becomes rotten before it is ripe), Commercial Calvinists, makers of 'noises like a turnip', and all the touts and toadies and lickspittles o the English Ascendancy, and their infernal women-folk, and all their skunkoil skulduggery.
1943 Lucky Poet, ch.3, 'The Kind of Poetry I Want'.
- 48 We do not like the confiding, the intimate, the ingratiating, the hail-fellow-well-met, but prefer the unapproachable, the hard-bitten, the recalcitrant, the sinister, the malignant, the saturnine, the cross-grained and the cankered, and the howling wilderness to the amenities of civilization, the irascible to the affable, the prickly to the smooth. We have no damned fellow-feeling at all.
1952 'The Dour Drinkers of Glasgow', in The American Mercury, Mar.
- 49 So this is what our lives have been given to find,
A language that can serve our purposes,
A marvellous lucidity, a quality of fiery aery light,
Flowing like clear water, flying like a bird
Burning like a sunlit landscape.
1955 'The Task'.
- 50 My job, as I see it, has never been to lay a tit's egg, but to erupt like a volcano emitting not only flame but a lot of rubbish.
1964 Letter to George Bruce, 1 Jul.
- 51 Scotland small? Our multiform, infinite Scotland small?
1974 'Direadh'.

McDonald, Alonzo L

executive officer of McKinsey & Company and of the Bendix Corporation and staff director at the White House (1979–81).

- 52 Very few factors help produce economies of scale.
Technology may be one, but not people. When it comes to motivating people and using their brainpower, you hit diseconomies of scale early. At that point, bigger isn't better.

1986 'Of Floating Factories and Mating Dinosaurs', in the Harvard Business Review, Nov/Dec.

MacDonald, George 1824–1905

Scottish pastor, poet and novelist who wrote fantastical and allegorical works for both adults and children.

Hae mercy o' my soul, Lord God;
As I wad do, were I Lord God,
And ye were Martin Elginbrodde.
1863 David Elginbrod, bk.1, ch.13.
- 54 The love of our neighbour is the only door out of the dungeon of self, where we mope and mow, striking sparks, and rubbing phosphorescence out of the walls, and blowing our own breath in our own nostrils, instead of issuing to the fair sunlight of God, the sweet winds of the universe.
1867 Unspoken Sermons.
- 55 Where did you come from, baby dear?
Out of the everywhere into here.
1871 At the Back of the North Wind, ch.33, 'Song'.
- 56 They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high:
Thou cam'st, a little baby thing
That made a woman cry.
1883 'That Holy Thing', stanza 1.
- 57 There is no strength in unbelief. Even the unbelief of what is false is no source of might. It is the truth shining from behind that gives the strength to disbelieve.
The Marquis of Lossie (published 1906).
- 58 To be trusted is a greater compliment than to be loved.

 Which causes many people to feel a little downcast.
1890 Poetic Gems, 'The Death of Lord and Lady Dalhousie', stanza 1.
- 78 Beautiful Railway Bridge of the Silv'ry Tay!
 Alas! I am very sorry to say
 That ninety lives have been taken away
 On the last Sabbath day of 1879,
 Which will be remember'd for a very long time.
1890 Poetic Gems, 'The Tay Bridge Disaster', stanza 1.
- 79 Ye lovers of the picturesque, if ye wish to drown your grief,
 Take my advice, and visit the ancient town of Crieff;
 The climate is bracing, and the walks lovely to see Besides, ye can ramble over the district, and view the beautiful scenery.

More Poetic Gems (published 1962), 'Beautiful Crieff', stanza 1.

- 80 The man that gets drunk is little else than a fool,
And is in the habit, no doubt, of advocating for Home Rule;
But the best Home Rule for him, as far as I can understand,
Is the abolition of strong drink from the land.
Last Poetic Gems (published 1968), 'The Demon Drink', stanza 9.

McGough, Roger 1937–

McGovern, George S(tanley) 1922–

US Democratic politician, Senator for South Dakota (1963–81). He made a bid for the presidential nomination in 1968, and unsuccessfully opposed Nixon in the 1972 presidential election. He tried again for the presidential nomination in 1984, but withdrew.

- 92 To those who charge that liberalism has been tried and found wanting, I answer that the failure is not in the idea but in the course of recent history. The New Deal was ended by World War II. The New Frontier was closed by Berlin and Cuba even before it was opened. And the Great Society lost its greatness in the jungles of Indochina.
1973 Lecture at Oxford University, 21 Jan.

Machado de Assis, Joaquim Maria 1839–1908

Brazilian poet and novelist, writer of romantic stories and poems. Memórias Póstumas de Brás Cubas (1881) marks the beginning of his mature style, informed by both pessimism and wit.

- 95 Cada estação da vida é uma edição, que corrige a anterior, e que será corrigida também, até a edição definitiva, que o editor dá de graça aos vermes.
Each stage in life is an edition that supersedes the previous one and will also be superseded until the definitive edition: the one that the editor gives to the worms.
1881 Memórias Póstumas de Brás Cubas, ch.27 (translated as Epitaph of a Small Winner, 1952).
- 96 A vida é tão bela que a mesma idéia da morte precisa de vir primeiro a ela, antes de se ver cumprida. Já me vás entendendo; lê agora outro capítulo.
Life is so beautiful that even the idea of death must be born before it can be realized. You must already understand. Now read another chapter.
1899 Dom Casmurro, ch.133.

Machiavelli, Niccolò di Bernardo dei 1469–1527

Italian politician and political theorist. Obligated to withdraw from public life after an accusation of conspiracy (1513), he devoted himself to literature. His masterpiece is the pragmatic manual for statesmen, Il Principe ('The Prince', written in 1513, published in 1532).

97 Gli uomini si debbano o vezzeggiare o spegnere; perché si vendicano delle leggeri offese, delle gravi non possono.

Men should be either treated generously or destroyed, because they take revenge for slight injuries—for heavy ones they cannot.

1513 Il Principe, ch.3 (translated by Alan Gilbert).

98 Nasce da questo una disputa: s'egli è meglio essere amato che temuto, o è converso. Rispondesi che si vorrebbe essere l'uno e l'altro; ma perché egli è difficile accozzarli insieme, è molto più sicuro essere temuto che amato, quando si abbia a mancare dell'uno de'due.

This leads to a debate: is it better to be loved than feared, or the reverse? The answer is that it is desirable to be both, but because it is difficult to join them together, it is much safer for a prince to be feared than loved, if he is to fail in one of the two.

1513 Il Principe, ch.8 (translated by Alan Gilbert).

99 It never or rarely happens that a republic or monarchy is well constituted, or its old institutions entirely reformed, unless it is only done by one individual.

1513–17 Discourses on First Ten Books of Livy.

McIlvanney, William Angus 1936–

Scottish writer. He is best known for his Ayrshire novels Docherty (1975) and The Big Man (1985), and his series of crime novels featuring the Glaswegian detective, Laidlaw. He has also written poetry, essays and short stories.

1 There is a kind of laughter people laugh at public events, as if a joke were a charity auction and they want to be seen to be bidding.

1985 The Big Man, ch.1.

2 That would have been a nice place, inside an idea, but it wasn't a place to live. It was necessary to live where the idea and the fact collided.

1985 The Big Man, ch.8.

McInerney, Jay 1955–

US author.

3 I'm glad I don't have a book coming out this month.

2001 Comment made by Jay McInerney to Brett Easton Ellis on 11 Sep, when the World Trade Center was destroyed. Ellis replied, 'I was just thinking the same thing'. Quoted in The Guardian, 15 Sep.

MacInnes, Colin 1914–79

English writer. He gave a voice to sections of society often ignored. He is best known for his novel Absolute Beginners (1959).

4 And I thought, 'My lord, one thing is certain, and that's that they'll make musicals one day about the glamour-studded 1950s.' And I thought, my heaven, one thing is certain too, I'm miserable.

1959 Absolute Beginners.

5 Tradition, if not constantly recreated, can be as much a millstone as a mill-wheel.

1961 England, Half English, 'England, Half English'.

6 In England, pop art and fine art stand resolutely back to back.

1961 England, Half English, 'Pop Songs and Teenagers'.

7 A coloured man can tell, in five seconds dead, whether a white man likes him or not. If the white man says he does, he is instantly—and usually quite rightly—mistrusted.

8 The decorations are like those of the embassy of a nation about to go into voluntary liquidation.

1961 England, Half English, 'See You At Mabel's'.

MacInnis, Joseph 1937–

Canadian doctor, environmentalist and undersea explorer.

9 The larger the island of knowledge, the longer the shoreline of wonder.

Quoted by Donald Grant in The Globe and Mail, 8 Nov 1986.

Mackay, Alan Lindsay 1926–

British scientist and Fellow of the Royal Society.

10 How can we have any new ideas or fresh outlooks when 90 per cent of all the scientists who have ever lived have still not died?

1969 In Scientific World, vol.13.

McKay, Claude originally Festus Claudius 1890–1948

Jamaican born US writer. He wrote poetry, novels, autobiography and a study of life in Harlem, and was a key figure in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920s.

11 If we must die, let it not be like hogs

Hunted and penned in an inglorious spot
While round us bark the mad and hungry dogs,
Making their mock at our accursed lot.

1922 Harlem Shadows, 'If We Must Die'.

12 Like men we'll face the murderous cowardly pack,
Pressed to the wall, dying, but fighting back!

1922 Harlem Shadows, 'If We Must Die'.

Mackaye, Dorothy Disney 1904–92

US journalist and agony aunt, best known for editing the 'Can This Marriage be Saved?' column for the Ladies Home Journal for more than 30 years.

Recalled on her death, 5 Sep 1992.

Macke, August 1887–1914

German painter, one of the founder members of the Blaue Reiter group of Expressionist artists.

14 To create forms means: to live. Are not children more creative in drawing directly from the secret of their sensations than the imitator of Greek forms? Are not savages artists who have forms of their own powerful as the form of thunder?

1912 The Blaue Reiter Almanac.

Mackellar, (Isobel Marion) Dorothea 1885–1968

Australian popular poet and novelist. Her works include The Witch Maid (1914), Dreamharbour (1923) and the novel The Little Blue Devil (1912). She wrote little after the mid-1920s, but translated widely from various European poets.

15 The love of field and coppice,
Of green and shaded lanes,
Of ordered woods and gardens

Is running in your veins.
Strong love of grey-blue distance
Brown streams and soft, dim skies—I know but cannot share it,
My love is otherwise.

I love a sunburnt country,
A land of sweeping plains,
Of ragged mountain ranges,
Of droughts and flooding rains.
I love her far horizons,
I love her jewel-sea,
Her beauty and her terror—
The wide brown land for me!

1905 'Core of My Heart', first published in the London Spectator. Collected as 'My Country' in The Closed Door, and Other Verses (1911).

McKellen, Sir Ian Murray 1939–

English stage and film actor and director.

16 I can't be absolutely certain, 30 years ago when I made the decision to become an actor, but certainly one of the reasons was it was the way to meet other queer men. Quoted in Blake Green 'A Kingly McKellen as a Fascist in Richard II', in the Pink Pages, San Francisco Chronicle, 16 Aug 1992.

17 You can always pick out stage actors at the Oscars: they know how to walk.

- 36 A Poem should be palpable and mute
As a globed fruit.

1926 'Ars Poetica'.

- 37 A poem should be wordless
As the flight of birds.

1926 'Ars Poetica'.

- 38 A poem should not mean
But be.

1926 'Ars Poetica'.

- 39 We have learned the answers, all the answers:
It is the question that we do not know.

1928 'The Hamlet of A. MacLeish'.

- 40 If the poem can be improved by its author's explanations, it should never have been published.

1933 Author's note in Poems.

- 41 Keepers of books, keepers of print and paper on the shelves, librarians are keepers also of the records of the human spirit—the records of men's watch upon the world and on themselves.

1941 'A Time to Speak,' 'Of the Librarian's Profession'.

- 42 The dissenter is every human being at those moments in his life when he resigns momentarily from the herd and thinks for himself.

- 43 Anything can make us look, only art can make us see.

1961 Poetry and Experience. 'Riverside'.

- 44 History, like a badly constructed concert hall, has occasional dead spots where the music can't be heard.

1967 In the Observer, 12 Feb.

- 45 Wildness and silence disappeared from the countryside, sweetness fell from the air, not because anyone wished them to vanish or fall but because throughways had to floor the meadows with cement to carry the automobiles which advancing technology produced.

1968 'The Great American Frustration', in the Saturday Review, 9 Jul.

- 46 To see the earth as we now see it, small and beautiful in that eternal silence where it floats, is to see ourselves as riders on the earth together, brothers on that bright loveliness in the unending night—brothers who see now they are truly brothers.

1968 On the first pictures from the moon. In the New York Times, 25 Dec.

- 47 The business of the law is to make sense of the confusion of what we call human life—to reduce it to order but at the same time to give it possibility, scope, even dignity.

1972 'Apologia', in the Harvard Law Review, Jun.

- 48 Poets... are literal-minded men who will squeeze a word till it hurts.

1972 'Apologia', in the Harvard Law Review, Jun.

- 49 We are great as our belief in human liberty—no greater. And our belief in human liberty is only ours when it is larger than ourselves.

1976 'Now Let Us Address The Main Question: Bicentennial of What?', in the New York Times, 3 Jul.

- 50 Poetry is the art of understanding what it is to be alive. Recalled on his death, 20 Apr 1982.

- 51 If the art of poetry is... the art of making sense of the chaos of human experience, it's not a bad thing to see a lot of chaos.

On his work in government. Quoted in Scott Donaldson Archibald MacLeish (1992).

- 52 Mr Morgan struck me as a healthy and childish Britisher probably inhabiting the early 19th century.

Of financier J P Morgan. Quoted in Scott Donaldson Archibald MacLeish (1992).

Macleod, Fiona

► See Sharp, William

Macleod, Iain Norman 1913–70

English Conservative politician, Chairman of the Conservative Party (1961–3). He refused to serve under Lord Home (having supported R A Butler's leadership claim), and spent two years editing the Spectator. He was shadow Chancellor under Heath (1965–70), and briefly Chancellor (1970).

- 54 The Socialists can scheme their schemes and the Liberals can dream their dreams, but we, at least, have work to do.
1960 Speech at the Conservative Party Conference.
- 55 We now have the worst of both worlds—not just inflation on the one side or stagnation on the other, but both of them together. We have a sort of stagflation situation.
1965 Speech in the House of Commons, Nov.

McLuhan, (Herbert) Marshall 1911–80

Canadian critic and cultural theorist. He claimed that it is the communication media per se, not the information and ideas which they broadcast, that influence society. His books include The Gutenberg Galaxy (1962) and The Medium is the Message (1969).

- 56 For tribal man space was the uncontrollable mystery. For technological man it is time that occupies the same role.
1951 The Mechanical Bride, 'Magic that Changes Mood'.
- 57 The medium is the message.
1959 Speech at the University of British Columbia, 30 Jun, following a symposium in Vancouver on the subject of music and the mass media. The phrase was later used as the title of ch.1 in Understanding Media (1964), and as a book title (1969).
- 58 The new electronic independence recreates the world in the image of a global village.
1962 The Gutenberg Galaxy.
- 59 The car has become an article of dress without which we feel uncertain, unclad, and incomplete in the urban compound.
1964 Understanding Media, ch.22.
- 60 Persons grouped around a fire or candle for warmth or light are less able to pursue independent thoughts, or even tasks, than people supplied with electric light. In the same way, the social and educational patterns latent in automation are those of self-employment and artistic autonomy.
1964 Understanding Media, ch.33.
- 61 If the nineteenth century was the age of the editorial chair, ours is the century of the psychiatrist's couch.
1964 Understanding Media.
- 62 Canada is the only country in the world that knows how to live without an identity.
1967 'Canada: A Borderline Case', CBC radio broadcast, 29 May.
- 63 Life. Consider the alternative.
1968 War and Peace in the Global Village.
- 64 Television brought the brutality of war into the comfort of the living room. Vietnam was lost in the living rooms of America, not on the battlefields of Vietnam.

1975 Quoted in the Montreal Gazette, May.

- 65 Gutenberg made everybody a reader. Xerox makes everybody a publisher.
1977 In the Guardian Weekly, 12 Jun.

Macmillan, Sir (Maurice) Harold, 1st Earl of Stockton 1894–1986

English Conservative politician. He succeeded Eden as Prime Minister (1957), and was re-elected in 1959. He resigned through ill health in 1963.

- 66 We have not overthrown the divine right of kings to fall down for the divine right of experts.
1950 Speech, Strasbourg, 16 Aug.
- 67 I thought that the best thing to do was to settle up these little local difficulties, and then turn to the wider vision of the Commonwealth.
1956 On departing for a Commonwealth conference, after sacking several members of his Cabinet in his Night of the Long Knives, Jan.
- 68 Forever poised between a cliché and an indiscretion.
1956 On the role of a Foreign Secretary, in Newsweek, Apr.
- 69 Let us be frank about it. Most of our people have never had it so good. Go around the country, go to the industrial towns, go to the farms, and you will see a state of prosperity such as we have never had in my lifetime—nor indeed ever in the history of this country.
1957 Speech, Bedford, 20 Jul. This is the original form of the oft-misquoted 'You never had it so good'.
- 70 At home, you always have to be a politician. When you are abroad, you almost feel yourself to be a statesman.
1958 Speech during the first visit of a British Prime Minister to Australia, 17 Feb.
- 71 The most striking of all the impressions that I have formed since I left London a month ago is of the strength of African national consciousness. In different places it may take different forms, but it is happening everywhere. The wind of change is blowing through this continent. Whether we like it or not, the growth of national consciousness is a political fact.
1960 Speech to the South African Parliament, 3 Feb.
- 72 Are we so sure that with 15 representatives... in NATO, acting under the unanimity rule, the deterrent would continue to deter? There may be one finger on the trigger, but there will be 15 fingers on the safety catch.
1960 House of Commons, 30 May.
- 73 I was determined that no British government should be brought down by the action of two tarts.
1963 On the Profumo scandal, referring specifically to Christine Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davies, Jul.
- 74 I have never found, in a long experience of politics, that criticism is ever inhibited by ignorance.
1963 In the Wall Street Journal, 13 Aug.
- 75 A man who trusts nobody is apt to be the kind of man whom nobody trusts.
1963 In the New York Herald Tribune, 17 Dec.
- 76 Tradition does not mean that the living are dead; it means that the dead are living.
1963 In the Manchester Guardian, 18 Dec.
- 77 There are three bodies no sensible man directly challenges: the Roman Catholic Church, the Brigade of Guards, and the National Union of Mineworkers.

1981 In the Observer, 22 Feb.

78 There is a growing division in our comparatively prosperous society between the South and the North and Midlands, which are ailing, that cannot be allowed to continue. There is a general sense of tension. The old English way might be to quarrel and have battles, but they were friendly. I can only describe as wicked the hatred that has been introduced, and which is to be found among different types of people today. Not merely an intellectual but a moral effort is required to get rid of it.

1984 Maiden speech as the Earl of Stockton (60 years after first entering the House of Commons), House of Lords, 13 Nov.

79 First of all the Georgian Silver goes, and then all that nice furniture that used to be in the salon. Then the Canalettos go.

1985 Speech at a private dinner of the Tory Reform Group, 8 Nov, in a reference to privatization and the selling of profitable state-owned enterprises.

80 Margaret Thatcher is a brilliant tyrant surrounded by mediocrities.

1986 In Newsweek, 12 Oct.

81 A man who was alleged to have the rigidity of a poker without its occasional warmth.

Of Charles de Gaulle, whose nickname was 'Ramrod'. Quoted by Henry Fairlie in the New Republic, 20 Mar 1989.

82 If people want a sense of purpose, they should get it from their archbishop, they should certainly not get it from their politicians.

Quoted in The Life of Politics.

83 You've reached the stage where you must decide whether you're going to be a good writer or a good public servant. You can't be both.

Attributed comment to Michael O'Donovan (real name of the writer Frank O'Connor).

McMurtry, Larry Jeff 1936–

US novelist. Several of his novels have been filmed successfully, but his most significant work is the epic fusion of generic western and historical novel in Lonesome Dove (1985).

84 The Last Picture Show.

1966 Title of novel, subsequently filmed.

85 Terms of Endearment.

1975 Title of novel, subsequently filmed.

86 'We'll be the Indians, if we last another twenty years,' Augustus said. 'The way this place is settling up it'll be nothing but churches and dry-goods stores before you know it. Next thing you know they'll have to round up us old rowdies and stick us on a reservation to keep us from scaring the ladies.'

1985 Lonesome Dove, ch.42

87 The cowboys had lived for months under the great bowl of the sky, and yet the Montana skies seemed deeper than the skies of Texas or Nebraska. Their depth and blueness robbed even the sun of its harsh force—it seemed smaller, in the vastness, and the whole sky no longer turned white at noon as it had in the lower plains. Always, somewhere to the north, there was a swath of blueness, with white clouds floating in it like petals in a pond.

1985 Lonesome Dove, ch.93.

88 Self-parody is the first portent of age.

1989 Some Can Whistle, pt.1, ch.14.

89 But the sorrowing are nomads, on a plain with few landmarks and no boundaries; sorrow's horizons are vague and its demands are few.

1989 Some Can Whistle, pt.4, ch.9.

McNamara, Robert Strange 1916–

US Democratic politician and businessman, Secretary of Defense in the Kennedy administration (1961) during the Vietnam War. He resigned to become President of the World Bank (1968–81), and later emerged as a critic of the nuclear arms race and of the Vietnam conflict, expressing regret for his role in the latter.

90 I don't object to it being called 'McNamara's war'... It is a very important war and I am pleased to be identified with it and do whatever I can to win it.

1964 On the Vietnam War. In the New York Times, 25 Apr.

91 A test case of US capacity to help a nation meet a Communist 'war of liberation'.

1964 Of the Vietnam War. Quoted in N Sheehan The Pentagon Papers.

92 Neither conscience nor sanity itself suggests that the United States is, or should or could be the global gendarme.

1966 Speech to US newspaper editors. Reported in the New York Times, 19 May.

93 I wondered if I'd ever see another Saturday night.

On the threat of nuclear war from Russian warheads in Cuba, Oct 1962. Quoted in Elie Abel Missile Crisis (1966).

94 One cannot fashion a credible deterrent out of an incredible action.

1968 On nuclear weapons. The Essence of Security.

95 We had a two-track approach, one political and the other military, and the military was designed to move us along the political track.

On the Vietnam War in late 1967. Quoted in Deborah Shapley Promise and Power (1993).

96 We tend to justify our actions and in a sense we color history to achieve that objective.

Quoted in Robert Siegel (ed) The NPR Interviews (1994).

97 Although we sought to do the right thing—and believed we were doing the right thing—in my judgement, hindsight proves us wrong.

1995 In Retrospect: The tragedy and lessons of Vietnam (with Brian Van de Mark).

MacNeice, (Frederick) Louis 1907–63

He also wrote radio drama, including The Dark Tower (broadcast 1946, published 1947). His Collected Poems was published in 1966.

98 Something of glass about her, of dead water,
Chills and holds us,
Far more fatal than painted flesh or the lodestone of live hair
This despair of crystal brilliance.

1935 Poems, 'Circe'.

99 World is crazier and more of it than we think,
Incorrigibly plural.

1935 Poems, 'Snow'.

- 1 The little sardine men crammed in a monster toy
Who tilt their aggregate beast against our crumbling
Troy.
1935 Poems, 'Turf-stacks'.
- 2 It's no go the merrygoround, it's no go the rickshaw,
All we want is a limousine and a ticket for the peepshow.
Their knickers are made of crêpe-de-chine, their shoes are made of python,
Their halls are lined with tiger rugs and their walls with the heads of bison.
1937 'Bagpipe Music', stanza 1.
- 3 It's no go my honey love, it's no go my poppet;
Work your hands from day to day, the winds will blow
the profit.
The glass is falling hour by hour, the glass will fall for ever,
But if you break the bloody glass, you won't hold up the weather.
1937 'Bagpipe Music', stanza 10.
- 4 And the gods are absent and the men are still—
Noli me tangere, my soul is forfeit.

Some are now happy in the hive of home,
Thigh over thigh and a light in the night nursery,
And some are hungry under the starry dome
And some sit turning handles.
1938 Autumn Journal, part 2.
- 5 Spider, spider, spin
Your register and let me sleep a little,
Not now in order to end but to begin
The task begun so often.
1938 Autumn Journal, part 2.
- 6 All of London littered with remembered kisses.
1938 Autumn Journal, part 4.
- 7 Tonight we sleep
On the banks of Rubicon—the die is cast;
There will be time to audit
The accounts later, there will be sunlight later
And the equation will come out at last.
1938 Autumn Journal, part 24.
- 8 Time was away and somewhere else.
1939 'Meeting Point'. Collected in Collected Poems 1925–1948 (1949).
- 9 In my childhood trees were green
And there was plenty to be seen.

Come back early or never come.
1941 Plant and Phantom, 'Autobiography', 1.1–3.

1946 Steward to Roland. The Dark Tower (published 1947).
- 12 For the last blossom is the first blossom
And the first blossom is the best blossom
And when from Eden we take our way
The morning after is the first day.
'Apple Blossom', in Collected Poems, 1966.
- 13 His father gave him a box of truisms
Shaped like a coffin, then his father died;

The truisms remained on the mantelpiece.
'The Truisms', in Collected Poems, 1966.

Madison, James 1751–1836

US politician and 4th President (1809–17), co-author of the Federalist Papers (1787–8). Originator of the Virginia Plan, his compromise measure on the status of slaves ensured adoption of the Constitution in slave states. He presided over the 1812 war with Britain.

- 20 The diversity in the faculties of men, from which the rights of property originate, is not less an insuperable obstacle to a uniformity of interests. The protection of those faculties is the first object of government.
1787 The Federalist, Nov.
- 21 What is government itself but the greatest of all reflections on human nature? If men were angels, no government would be necessary. If angels were to govern men, neither external nor internal controls on government would be necessary.
1788 The Federalist, Jan.

Madonna full name Madonna Louise Veronica Ciccone 1958–

- 37 Hip is the sophistication of the wise primitive in a giant jungle.

1957 In Dissent, Summer.

- 38 Each day a few more lies eat into the seed with which we are born, little institutional lies from the print of newspapers, the shock waves of television, and the sentimental cheats of the movie screen.

1959 Advertisements for Myself, 'First Advertisement for Myself'.

- 39 America is a hurricane, and the only people who do not hear the sound are those fortunate if incredibly stupid and smug White Protestants who live in the center, in the serene eye of the big wind.

1959 Advertisements for Myself, 'Advertisement for "Games and Ends"'.

- 40 There is probably no sensitive heterosexual alive who is not preoccupied with his latent homosexuality.

1959 Advertisements for Myself, 'The Homosexual Villain'.

- 41 The final purpose of art is to intensify, even, if necessary, to exacerbate, the moral consciousness of people.

1959 'Hip, Hell, and The Navigator', in Western Review, no. 23, Winter.

- 42 Every moment of one's existence one is growing into more or retreating into less. One is always living a little more or dying a little bit.

1959 'Hip, Hell, and The Navigator', in Western Review, no. 23, Winter.

- 43 Once a newspaper touches a story, the facts are lost

- forever, even to the protagonists.
1960 In Esquire, Jun.
- 44 A modern democracy is a tyranny whose borders are undefined; one discovers how far one can go only by traveling in a straight line until one is stopped.
1963 The Presidential Papers, preface.
- 45 In America few people will trust you unless you are irreverent.
1963 The Presidential Papers, preface.
- 46 Ultimately a hero is a man who would argue with the gods, and so awakens devils to contest his vision.
1963 The Presidential Papers, preface.
- 47 In America all too few blows are struck into flesh. We kill the spirit here, we are experts at that. We use psychic bullets and kill each other cell by cell.
1963 The Presidential Papers, 'Fourth Presidential Paper'.
- 48 A high church for the true mediocre.
1963 Of the FBI. The Presidential Papers, 'Sixth Presidential Paper'.

- 51 Sentimentality is the emotional promiscuity of those who have no sentiment.
1966 Cannibals and Christians, 'My Hope For America'.
- 52 There is one expanding horror in American life. It is that our long odyssey toward liberty, democracy and freedom-for-all may be achieved in such a way that utopia remains forever closed, and we live in freedom and hell, debased of style, not individual from one another, void of courage, our fear rationalized away.
1966 Cannibals and Christians, 'My Hope For America'.
- 53 What characterizes a member of a minority group is that he is forced to see himself as both exceptional and insignificant, marvelous and awful, good and evil.
1966 Cannibals and Christians, 'A Speech At Berkeley on Vietnam Day'.
- 54 The surest way not to be remembered is to talk about the way you want to be.
1968 Interview in Playboy, Aug.
- 55 New York is one of the capitals of the world and Los Angeles is a constellation of plastic. San Francisco is a lady, Boston has become Urban Renewal, Philadelphia and Baltimore and Washington blink like dull diamonds in the smog of Eastern Megalopolis, and New Orleans is unremarkable past the French Quarter. Detroit is a one-trade town, Pittsburgh has lost its golden triangle. St Louis has become the golden arch of the corporation, and nights in Kansas City close early. The oil depletion allowance makes Houston and Dallas naught but checkerboards for this sort of game. But Chicago is a great American city. Perhaps it is the last of the great American cities.
1969 Miami and the Siege of Chicago, 'The Siege of Chicago'.

Maimonides properly Moses ben Maimon 1135–1204

Spanish-born Jewish philosopher, rabbi and physician, one of the greatest Hebrew scholars. His philosophical work Guide to the Perplexed (1190) attempts to reconcile Greek philosophy and Judaism.

68 There is one [disease] which is widespread, and from which men rarely escape. This disease varies in degree in different men... I refer to this: that every person thinks his mind... more clever and more learned than it is... I have found that this disease has attacked many an intelligent person... They... express themselves [not only] upon the science with which they are familiar, but upon other sciences about which they know nothing... If met with applause... so does the disease itself become aggravated.

Aphorisms. Quoted in Bulletin of the History of Medicine, vol.3, p.555 (1935).

Maintenon, Françoise d'Aubigné, Marquise de known as Madame de Maintenon 1635–1719

69 You must make use of people according to their abilities, and realize that absolutely no one is perfect.

1679 Letter to Count d'Aubigné, 25 Sep.

Major, John 1943–

English Conservative politician and Prime Minister (1990–7). He rose quickly under Margaret Thatcher to become Chancellor of the Exchequer on Lawson's resignation (1989). After Thatcher's downfall he became Prime Minister, and his government was re-elected in 1992.

70 I hope... to build a society of opportunity. By opportunity, I mean an open society—a society in which what people fulfil will depend upon their talent, their application, and their good fortune. What people achieve should depend particularly on those things, and I hope increasingly in the future that that will be the case.

1990 Address on entering No.10 Downing Street for the first time as Prime Minister, 27 Nov.

71 I think that we had better start again, somewhere else.

1991 Attributed remark during a Cabinet meeting when the Cabinet Room was rocked by an IRA mortar attack on No.10 Downing Street, 7 Feb.

72 Only in Britain could it be thought a defect to be 'too clever by half'. The probability is that too many people are too stupid by three-quarters.

1991 Quoted in The Observer, 7 Jul.

73 When the final curtain comes down, it's time to get off the stage.

1997 Outside 10 Downing Street on 2 May, leaving office as Prime Minister and announcing that he would resign as Party Leader. In The Guardian, 3 May.

Malory, Sir Thomas d.1471

English writer. His masterpiece, the Morte d'Arthur, a cycle of Arthurian legends, influenced Tennyson and other. It was completed c.1470 and a version was printed by Caxton in 1485.

- 1 The third sister, Morgan le Fey, was put to scole in a nonnery, and ther she lerned so moche that she was a grete clerke of nygromancye.
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.1, ch.2.
- 2 So the child was delyverd unto Merlyn, and so he bare it forth unto syre Ector and made an holy man to crysten hym and named hym Arthur.
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.1, ch.2.
- 3 'WHOSO PULLETH OUTE THIS SWERD OF THIS STONE AND ANVYLD IS RIGHTWYS KYNGE BORNE OF ALL ENGLOND'
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.1, ch.4. Inscription on the sword. Arthur was able to remove the sword with ease, and thus became king.
- 4 And there had Arthure the firste syght of queene Gwenyvere, the kyngis doghter of the londe of Camylarde, and ever aftir he loved hir.
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.1, ch.18.
- 5 'That is the Ladye of the Lake,' seyde Merlion. 'There ys a grete roche, and therein ys as fayre a paleyce as ony on erthe, and rychely besayne. And thys damesel woll come to you anone, and than speke ye fayre to hir, that she may gyff you that swerde.'
c.1470 To Arthur. Morte d'Arthur, bk.1, ch.25.
- 6 And so kyng Lodgreaunce delyverd hys doughtir Gwenyver unto Merlion, and the Table Rounde.
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.3, ch.1.
- 7 'What tydynges at Camelot?' seyde that on knyght. 'By my hede, there have I been and aspied the courte of kyng Arthure, and there ys such a felysshyp that they may never be brokyn, and well-nyghe all the world holdith with Arthure, for there ys the floure of chevalry.'
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.3, ch.14.
- 8 And so at that tyme sir Launcelot had the grettyste name of ony knyght of the worlde, and moste he was honoured of hyghe and lowe.
c.1470 Morte d'Arthur, bk.6, ch.18.
- 9 'But one thyng begyled us, that we myght nat se the Holy Grayle hit was so preciously coverde. Wherefore I woll make here a vow that to-morne, withoute longer abydyng, I shall labour in the queste of the Sankgreall.'
c.1470 Sir Gawain. Morte d'Arthur, bk.13, ch.7.
- 10 And thus hit passes on frome Candylmas untyll Ester, that the moneth of May was com, when every lusty harte begynnith to blossom and to burgyne. For, lyke as trees and erbys burgenyth and florysshynth in May, lyke wyse every lusty harte that is ony maner of lover spryngith, burgenyth, buddyth, and florysshynth in lusty dedis.

c.1470 Morte d' Arthur, bk.18, ch.25.

11 And there he bounde the gyrdyll aboute the hyltis, and threw the swerde as farre into the watir as he myght. And there cam an arme and an honde above the watir, and toke hit and cleyght hit, and shoke hit thryse and braundysshed, and than vanysshed with the swerde into the watir.

c.1470 Morte d' Arthur, bk.21, ch.5.

12 Yet som men say in many partys of Inglonde that kynge Arthur ys nat dede...and men say that he shall com agayne, and he shall win the Holy Crosse. Yet I woll nat say that hit shall be so, but rather I wolde sey: here in thys there ys wrytten uppon the tumbre thys: HIC IACET ARTHURUS, REX QUONDAM REXQUE FUTURUS. [Here lies Arthur, the once and future king].

c.1470 Morte d' Arthur, bk.21, ch.7.

13 Herein may be seen noble chyvalrye, curtosye, humanyté, frendlynnesse, hardynesse, love, frendshyp, cowardyse, murdre, hate, vertue, and synne.

1993 Remembering Babylon, ch.1.

Malthus, Thomas Robert 1766–1834

English economist. His anonymous Essay on the Principle of Population (1798) argued that population tends to increase faster than the means of subsistence, and that efforts should be made to cut the birth rate. He also wrote Principles of Political Economy (1820).

15 Population, when unchecked, increases in geometrical ratio. Subsistence only increases in arithmetical ratio.

1798 An Essay on the Principle of Population.

16 All the immediate checks to population—seem to be resolvable into moral restraint, vice and misery.

1798 An Essay on the Principle of Population.

17 The perpetual struggle for room and food.

1798 An Essay on the Principle of Population.

18 A man who is born into a world already possessed, if he cannot get subsistence from his parents on whom he has a just demand, and if the society do not want his labour, has no claim of right to the smallest portion of food, and, in fact, has no business to be where he is.

1803 An Essay on the Principle of Population (revised edn).

19 The employment of the poor in roads and public works, and a tendency among landlords and persons of property to build, to improve and beautify their grounds, and to employ workmen and menial servants, are the means most within our power and most directly calculated to remedy the evils arising from disturbance in the balance of produce and consumption.

1820 Principles of Political Economy.

Mamet, David Alan 1947–

US dramatist, screenwriter and director. His demotic language and hard-hitting social observation have made him a significant voice in modern US theatre. He has translated works by Chekhov and written various screenplays. He has also directed films and published essay collections.

20 Sexual Perversity in Chicago.

1976 Title of play.

21 We respond to a drama to that extent to which it corresponds to our dream life.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'A National Dream-Life'.

22 We live in oppressive times. We have, as a nation, become our own thought police; but instead of calling the process by which we limit our expression of dissent and wonder 'censorship', we call it 'concern for commercial viability'.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Radio Drama'.

23 Policemen so cherish their status as keepers of the peace and protectors of the public that they have occasionally been known to beat to death those citizens or groups who question that status.

24 In a world we find terrifying, we ratify that which doesn't threaten us.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Notes For a Catalogue for Raymond Saunders'.

25 We recipients of the boon of liberty have always been ready, when faced with discomfort, to discard any and all first principles of liberty, and, further, to indict those who do not freely join with us in happily arrogating those principles.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'First Principles'.

26 The product of the artist has become less important than the fact of the artist. We wish to absorb this person. We wish to devour someone who has experienced the tragic. In our society this person is much more important than anything he might create.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Oscars'.

30 We Americans have always considered Hollywood, at best, a sinkhole of depraved venality. And, of course, it is. It is not a Protective Monastery of Aesthetic Truth.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'A Playwright in Hollywood'.

31 There is such a thing as luck. There is such a thing as a run of luck. This is an instructive insight I have gained from poker—that all things have a rhythm, even the most seemingly inanimate of statistics.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Things I Have Learned Playing Poker On The Hill'.

32 The poker player learns that sometimes both science and common sense are wrong; that the bumblebee can fly; that, perhaps, one should never trust an expert; that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of by those with an academic bent.

1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Things I Have Learned Playing Poker On The Hill'.

- 33 All plays are about decay... That is why the theater has always been essential to human psychic equilibrium.
1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Decay: Some Thoughts for Actors'.
- 34 The problems of the world, AIDS, cancer, nuclear war, pollution, are, finally, no more solvable than the problems of a tree which has borne fruit: the apples are overripe and they are falling—what can be done?... What can be done about the problems which beset our life? Nothing can be done, and nothing needs to be done. Something is being done—the organism is preparing to rest.
1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Decay: Some Thoughts for Actors'.
- 35 The Film Industry is the American Monarchy: it is strict entailed succession and Horatio Alger in one. Except for the money manipulators and speculators on the top, it is a society built on work, achievement, and fealty to those in power.
1986 Writing in Restaurants, 'Observations of a Backstage Wife'.
- 36 Life in the movie business is like the beginning of a new love affair: it's full of surprises and you are constantly getting fucked.
1988 Charlie. Speed The Plough, sc.1.
- 37 A good film script should be able to do completely without dialogue.
1988 In The Independent, 11 Nov.
- 38 Film is the least realistic of art forms.
1989 In The Guardian, 16 Feb.
- 39 All of us write plays in our heads all the time... before we're going to visit our girl friend, before we're going to talk to a boss—we rehearse.
 Quoted in Susan Stamberg Talk (1993).

Manchester, William Raymond 1922–

- 40 A leader cut from whipcord.
1967 Of Governor John B Connally Jr. The Death of a President.
- 41 Johnson approached a strongly fortified position by outflanking it, or burrowing under it, or surprising the defenders from the rear, or raining down obstacles upon them from the sky, or starving them into submission... Rarely, and then only reluctantly, would he proceed directly from A to B, to him the shortest distance between two points was a tunnel.
1967 Of Lyndon B Johnson. The Death of a President.
- 42 His critics called him a wheeler-dealer. They overlooked the subtlety of Johnsonian strategy, his use of wheels within wheels.
1967 Of Lyndon B Johnson. The Death of a President.
- 43 Actors who have tried to play Churchill and MacArthur have failed abysmally because each of those men was a great actor playing himself.
1983 In Book of the Month Club News, Jun.
- 44 He resolved to lead Britain and her fading empire in one last great struggle... to arm the nation, not only with weapons but also with the mace of honor, creating in every English breast a soul beneath the ribs of death.
1988 Of Winston Churchill. The Last Lion.

- 45 It would be inaccurate to say that Churchill and I conversed. Like Gladstone speaking to Victoria, he addressed me as though I were a one-man House of Commons.
1988 The Last Lion.

Mandela, Nelson Rolihlahla 1918–

African Nationalist leader, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1964. A potent symbol of black resistance, he was released in Feb 1990, and elected President (1991) of the ANC. In 1993 he was jointly awarded the Nobel peace prize with F W de Klerk, and in 1994 became South Africa's first black President. His term ended in 1999.

- 46 During my lifetime I have dedicated my life to this struggle of the African people. I have fought against white domination, and I have fought against black domination. I have cherished the ideals of a democratic and free society in which all persons live together in harmony with equal opportunities. It is an ideal which I hope to live for, and to see realized. But My Lord, if needs be, it is an ideal for which I am prepared to die.
1964 Speech in court, 20 Apr, when charged under the Suppression of Communism Act and facing the death penalty.
- 47 We are not a political party. We have not changed at all. On the contrary, the ANC is a Government in waiting.
1991 Interviewed for BBC T V, Feb.
- 48 My fellow South Africans, today we are entering a new era for our country and its people. Today we celebrate not the victory of a party, but a victory for all the people of South Africa.
1994 Speech after his election to the presidency, Cape Town, 9 May.
- 49 No one is born hating another person because of the colour of his skin, or his background, or his religion. People must learn to hate, and if they can learn to hate, they can be taught to love, for love comes more naturally to the human heart than its opposite.
1994 Long Walk to Freedom.
- 50 One of the things I learnt when I was negotiating was that until I changed myself I could not change others.
2000 In the Sunday Times, 16 Apr.

Mandela, (Nomzamo) Winnie 1934–

South African civil rights activist, who joined her husband Nelson Mandela in his work with the ANC and on release from prison became controversially involved in the militant politics of the townships. She was divorced by her husband in 1996.

Mandeville, Bernard 1670–1733

Dutch-born English satirist. After obtaining an MD degree from Leiden in 1691 he practised as a physician in London. He was widely denounced for encouraging immorality through his principle 'private vices are public benefits'.

- 54 The root of Evil, Avarice
 That damn'd ill-natur'd, baneful Vice,
 Was Slave to Prodigality,
 That noble Sin; whilst Luxury
 Employed a Million of the Poor,
 And odious Pride a Million more;
 Envy itself, and Vanity,
 Were Ministers of Industry;
 Their darling Folly, Fickleness,
 In Diet, Furniture and Dress
 That strange ridic'ulous Vice, was made
 That very Wheel that turned the Trade.
1723 The Fable of the Bees, or, Private Vices, Publick Benefits (2nd edn.).

Manguel, Alberto 1948–

Argentinian-born Canadian writer.

- 55 The world that is a book is devoured by a reader who is a letter in the world's text; thus a circular metaphor is created for the endlessness of reading; We are what we read.
1996 A History of Reading.

Manilow, Barry 1946–

- 61 Fasten your seat belts, it's going to be a bumpy night!
1950 Bette Davis as Margo Channing in All About Eve.
- 62 We are a breed apart from the rest of humanity, we theatre folk. We are the original displaced personalities, concentrated gatherings of neurotics, egomaniacs, emotional misfits and precocious children.
1950 George Sanders as Addison De Witt in All About Eve.

Mann, Thomas 1875–1955

German novelist and short story writer who left Germany during World War II and settled in California. He received the Nobel prize for literature in 1929.

- 63 Wahrscheinlich sind sie der interessanteste Reiz und Stoff unseres Nachdenkens und unserer Tätigkeit.
 Probably they are the most interesting stimulus and object of our meditation and our activity.
1924 Of illnesses. Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.1.
- 64 Bier, Tabak und Musik. Da haben wir Ihr Vaterland!
 Beer, tobacco, and music. There we have the Fatherland!
1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.1.
- 65 Leben ist, dass im Wechsel der Materie die Form erhalten bleibt.
 Life is that the form is maintained through the change of substance.
1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.1.
- 66 Dass nicht alles auf einmal da ist, bleibt als Bedingung des Lebens und der Erzählung zu achten, und man wird sich doch wohl gegen die gottgegebenen Formen menschlicher Erkenntnis nicht auflehnen wollen.
 Let us not forget the condition of life as narration: that we can never see the whole picture at once—unless we propose to throw overboard all the God-conditioned forms of human knowledge.
1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.2.
- 67 Zum Leben gibt es zwei Wege: Der eine ist der gewöhnliche, direkte und brave. Der andere ist schlimm, er führt über den Tod, und das ist der geniale Weg!
 There are two paths in life: one is the regular one, direct, honest. The other is bad, it leads through death—that is the way of genius!
1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.2.
- 68 Und wenn man sich für das Leben interessiert, so interessiert man sich namentlich für den Tod.
 If a person concerns himself with life, he also concerns himself with death.
1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), vol.2.
- 69 Die Zeit hat in Wirklichkeit keine Einschnitte, es gibt kein Gewitter oder Drommetengetön beim Beginn eines neuen Monats oder Jahres, und selbst bei dem eines neuen Säkulums sind es nur wir Menschen, die schießen und läuten.
 Time has no divisions to mark its passage, there is never a thunderstorm or blare of trumpets to announce the beginning of a new month or year. Even when a new century begins it is only we mortals who ring bells and fire off pistols.

1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), ch.4, section 4 (translated by H T Lowe-Porter).

70 Unser Sterben ist mehr eine Angelegenheit der Weiterlebenden als unserer selbst.

A man's dying is more the survivors' affair than his own.

1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), ch.6, section 8 (translated by H T Lowe-Porter).

71 Die Zeit ist das Element der Erzählung, wie sie das Element des Lebens ist,—unlösbar damit verbunden, wie mit den Körpern im Raum. Sie ist auch das Element der Musik, als welche die Zeit misst und gliedert, sie kurzweilig und kostbar auf einmal macht.

For time is the medium of narration, as it is the medium of life. Both are inextricably bound up with it, as are bodies in space. Similarly, time is the medium of music; music divides, measures, articulates time, and can shorten it, yet enhance its value, both at once.

1924 Der Zauberberg (The Magic Mountain), ch.7, section 1 (translated by H T Lowe-Porter).

72 Liebe zu sich selbst ist immer der Anfang eines romanhaften Lebens.

Self-love is always the beginning of a novelistic affair.

1933 Joseph und seine Brüder ('Joseph and his Brothers').

73 Man kann sehr wohl in einer Geschichte sein, ohne sie zu verstehen.

A person can be fully involved in a story without understanding it.

1933 Joseph und seine Brüder ('Joseph and his Brothers').

74 Denn dem Menschen ist am Wiedererkennen gelegen; er möchte das Alte im Neuen wiederfinden und das Typische im Individuellen.

For man always searches for recognition: he would like to find the old in the new and the ordinary in the individual.

1936 Freud und die Zukunft.

75 Ist die Liebe das Beste im Leben, so ist in der Liebe das Beste der Kuss.

If love is the best thing in life, then the best part of love is the kiss.

1939 Lotte im Weimar.

76 Das Seelische [ist] immer das Primäre und eigentlich Motivierende; die politische Aktion ist zweiter Ordnung, Reflex, Ausdruck, Instrument.

The mental state is always the primary and ultimately the motivating state. Political action is of second rank, reflex, expression, instrument.

1947 Doktor Faustus.

Mann, Thomas Edward 1944–

Manning, Henry Edward 1808–92

English Roman Catholic prelate. He succeeded as Archbishop of Westminster in 1865 and became a cardinal in 1875. Noted for his support for the temperance and benevolent movements, he was also a keen cricketer and captained the Harrow Eleven team.

79 That bat that you were kind enough to send,
Seems (for as yet I have not tried it) good:
And if there's anything on earth can mend
My wretched play, it is that piece of wood.

1826 Verse sent to Charles Wordsworth, nephew of the poet William Wordsworth, after the latter sent him the present of a cricket bat.

80 To put labour and wages first and human or domestic life second is to invert the order of God and of nature.

1889 On the London dock strike.

Mansfield, Katherine pseudonym of Kathleen Mansfield Beauchamp 1881–1923

New Zealand writer. She moved to London to pursue a literary career and married John Middleton Murry. She died prematurely of tuberculosis. She is best known for her finely crafted short stories, in collections such as Bliss and Other Stories (1920). Her Journal was published in 1927.

81 Talk of our enlightened days and our emancipated country—pure nonsense! We are firmly held with the self-fashioned chains of slavery. Yes, now I see that they are self-fashioned, and must be self-removed.

1908 Journal entry, May.

82 The trouble with women like me is—they can't keep their nerves out of the job in hand... I walk about with a mind full of ghosts of saucy and primus stoves and 'Will there be enough to go round?' I loathe myself, today. I detest this woman who 'superintends' you and rushes about, slamming doors and slopping water—all untidy with her blouse out and her nails grimed.

1913 Letter to John Middleton Murry, summer.

83 Why haven't I got a real 'home'—a real life—why haven't I got a Chinese nurse with green trousers and two babies who rush at me and clasp my knees? I'm not a girl—I'm a woman. I want things... all this love and joy that fights for outlet—and all this life drying up, like milk in an old breast.

1915 Letter to John Middleton Murry, 23 Mar.

84 I want for one moment to make our undiscovered country leap into the eyes of the Old World. It must be mysterious, as though floating. It must take the breath. It must be 'one of those islands...'

1916 Journal entry, 22 Jan.

85 E M Forster never gets any further than warming the teapot. He's a rare fine hand at that. Feel this teapot. Is it not beautifully warm? Yes, but there ain't going to be no tea. And I can never be perfectly certain whether Helen was got with child by Leonard Bast or by his fatal forgotten umbrella. All things considered, I think it must have been the umbrella.

1917 Journal entry, May.

- 86 Her underlip protruded a little; she had a way of sucking it in that somebody else had told her was awfully fascinating.

1920 Bliss and Other Stories, 'Prelude'.

- 87 True to oneself! Which self? Which of my many... hundreds of selves?... There are moments when I feel I am nothing but the small clerk of some hotel without a proprietor, who has all his work cut out to enter the names and hand the keys to the wilful guests.

1920 Journal entry, Apr.

- 88 I believe that people are like portmanteaux—packed with certain things, started going, thrown about, tossed away, dumped down, lost and found, half emptied suddenly, or squeezed fatter than ever, until finally the Ultimate Porter swings them on to the Ultimate Train and away they rattle.

1920 Bliss and Other Stories, 'Je Ne Parle Pas Français'.

- 89 Is it not possible that the rage for confession, autobiography, especially for memories of earliest childhood, is explained by our persistent yet mysterious belief in a self which is continuous and permanent; which, untouched by all we acquire and all we shed, pushes a green spear through the dead leaves and through the mould, thrusts a scaled bud through years of darkness until, one day, the light discovers it and shakes the flower free and—we are alive—we are flowering for our moment upon the earth? This is the moment which after all, we live for—the moment of direct feeling when we are most ourselves and least personal.

1920 Journal entry, Apr.

- 90 If there was one thing he hated more than another it was the way she had of waking him in the morning... It was her way of establishing her grievance for the day.

1920 Bliss and Other Stories, 'Mr Reginald Peacock's Day'.

- 94 What would father say when he found out? For he was bound to find out sooner or later. He always did. 'Buried. You two girls had me buried!' She heard his stick thumping. Oh, what would they say? What possible excuse could they make? It sounded such an appallingly heartless thing to do. Such a wicked advantage to take of a person because he happened to be helpless at the moment.

1922 The Garden Party and Other Stories, 'The Daughters of the Late Colonel'.

- 95 Whenever I prepare for a journey I prepare as though for death. Should I never return, all is in order. This is what life has taught me.

1922 Journal entry, 29 Jan.

- 96 The longer I live the more I turn to New Zealand. I thank God I was born in New Zealand. A young country is a real heritage, though it takes one time to recognize it. But New Zealand is in my very bones. What I wouldn't give to have a look at it!

1922 Letter to her father, Sir Harold Beauchamp, 18 Mar.

- 97 Looking back, I imagine I was always writing. Twaddle it was, too. But better far write twaddle or anything, anything, than nothing at all.

1922 Journal entry.

Mansfield, Michael Joseph 1903–2001

US Democratic senator and ambassador. A professor of history and political science (1933–42), he became a congressional member (1943–53) and Senator for Montana (1953–77). As US Ambassador to Japan (1977–89) in Tokyo, he represented the US on several trips to China.

1772 Judgement on the Somersett slavery case, May.

Mao Zedong or Mao Tse-tung 1893–1976

Chinese military and political leader who became the first Chairman (1949) of the People's Republic. After the failure of the 1958–60 'Great Leap Forward' economic programme, his hold on power was weakened but he regained control by launching the 1966–9 'Cultural Revolution'.

- 2 But just think how good communism is! The state won't bother us anymore.

1919 Attributed remark. Quoted in Ross Terrill Mao: A Biography (1980), ch.4.

- 3 A revolution is not a dinner party.

1927 The Little Red Book, section 2.

- 4 A single spark can start a forest fire. Our forces, although small at present, will grow rapidly.

1930 Letter, 5 Jan.

- 5 If you want to know the taste of a pear, you must taste the pear by eating it for yourself. If you want to know the theory and methods of revolution, you must take part in

- revolution. All genuine knowledge originates in direct experience.

She is a fool, who trusts a man.
c.1170 Eliduc, l.1084.

Marinetti, Emilio Filippo Tomasso 1876–1944

Italian dramatist, novelist and poet. He published his influential manifesto for Futurism in Figaro in 1909, and became a Fascist in 1919. His writings glorify war, the machine age and dynamism, disparaging all traditional forms of art.

52 We sing the love of danger. Courage, rashness, and rebellion are the elements of our poetry. Hitherto literature has tended to exalt thoughtful immobility, ecstasy, and sleep, whereas we are for aggressive movement, febrile insomnia, mortal leaps, and blows with the fist. We proclaim that the world is richer for a new beauty of speed, and our praise is for the man at the wheel. There is no beauty now save in struggle, no masterpiece can be anything but aggressive, and hence we glorify war, militarism and patriotism.
1909 Manifesto of Futurism. Quoted in Denis Mack Smith Italy: A Modern History (1959), p.270.

53 We affirm that the world's magnificence has been enriched by a new beauty: the beauty of speed. A racing car whose hood is adorned with great pipes, like serpents of explosive breath—a roaring car that seems to ride on grapeshot is more beautiful than the Victory of Samothrace.
1909 Manifesto of Futurism.

54 It is from Italy that we launch through the world this violently upsetting incendiary manifesto of ours. With it, today, we establish Futurism, because we want to free this land from its smelly gangrene of professors, archaeologists, ciceroni and antiquarians. For too long has Italy been a dealer in second-hand clothes. We mean to free her from the numberless museums that cover her like so many graveyards.
1909 Manifesto of Futurism.

Marion, Frances originally Frances Marion Owens 1888–1973

US screenwriter and novelist. She wrote prolifically for the silent screen before working as a war correspondent, and subsequently translated her skills to talking pictures. She later turned to novel writing.

55 Gimme visky... ginger ale on the side. And don't be stingy baby.
1931 Opening lines delivered by Greta Garbo in Anna Christie.

56 I read somewhere that machinery is going to take the place of every profession.
Oh my dear that's something you'll never have to worry about.

1933 Dialogue between Jean Harlow and Marie Dressler in Dinner At Eight (with Herman Mankiewicz).

Maritain, Jacques 1882–1973

French philosopher and critic. He converted from Protestantism to Catholicism (1906) and gained renown for his interpretations of St Thomas Aquinas. He based his own philosophy on Aristotle and Aquinas.

57 Poetry proceeds from the totality of man, sense, imagination, intellect, love, desire, instinct, blood and spirit together.
Quoted in Robert Fitzgerald (ed) Enlarging the Change (1985).

58 The poet knows himself only on the condition that things resound in him, and that in him, at a single awakening, they and he come forth together out of sleep.
Quoted in Robert Fitzgerald (ed) Enlarging the Change (1985).

Marivaux, Pierre Carlet de Chamblain de 1688–1763

French author best known for his comedies in which language, more than characters, dictates the action.

59 Un mari porte un masque avec le monde, et une grimace avec sa femme.
A husband wears a mask in the world and a smirk with his wife.
1730 Le jeu de l'amour et du hasard, act 1, sc.2.

60 Dans ce monde, il faut être un peu trop bon pour l'être assez.
In this world, one must be a little too good in order to be good enough.
1730 Le jeu de l'amour et du hasard, act 1, sc.2.

61 Les bienfaits des hommes sont accompagnés d'une maladresse si humiliante pour les personnes qui les reçoivent!
The generosity of men is accompanied by such a humiliating embarrassment for those who benefit from it.
1731 La vie de Marianne, ch.1.

62 C'est presque toujours le péché qui prêche la vertu dans nos chaires.
It's almost always sin which preaches virtue in our pulpits.
1731 La vie de Marianne, ch.4.

63 Qu'est-ce qu'une charité qui n'a point de pudeur avec le misérable, et qui, avant de le soulager, commence par écraser son amour-propre.
What is that charity worth which does not spare the wretched person's feelings, which instead, before providing comfort, begins by wiping out his self-esteem.

1731 La vie de Marianne, ch.14.

64 L'âme se raffine à mesure qu'elle se gâte.

The soul refines itself in proportion to how it spoils itself.
1735 Le paysan parvenu, ch.4.

Markham, Dewey 'Pigmeat' 1906–81

US songwriter and comedy writer.

65 Here comes the judge.

1968 Song title, co-written with Dick Alen, Bob Astor and Sarah Harvey. Often quoted as a vaudeville catchphrase, 'Here come de judge'.

Marks, Leo 1920–2001

British writer. He acted as adviser on the film Carve Her Name With Pride (1958), partly based on his own wartime work in cryptography. He also wrote the script of Peeping Tom (1960).

66 The life that I have is all that I have and the life that I have is yours

The love that I have of the life that I have
Is yours and yours and yours.

1958 Poem recited by Virginia McKenna as Violette Szabo in Carve Her Name With Pride.

Marlborough, John Churchill, 1st Duke of 1650–1722

English general. He helped quell Monmouth's rebellion at Sedgemoor, but deserted to William of Orange in 1688. Under Queen Anne he was appointed supreme commander of British forces in the War of the Spanish Succession, rewarded for his success with a dukedom.

67 I have not time to say any more, but to beg you will give my duty to the Queen, and let her know her army has had a glorious victory. Monsieur Tallard and two other generals are in my coach, and I am following the rest.

1704 Note written on a tavern bill to his wife, Sarah, 13 Aug, after the Battle of Blenheim.

Marley, Bob (Robert Nesta) 1945–81

Jamaican singer, guitarist, and composer of reggae music. His hits include 'No woman, no cry', 'I Shot the Sheriff', and 'Exodus'. Among his albums were Catch a Fire (1972), Rastaman Vibration (1976) and Uprising (1980).

68 Get up, stand up
Stand up for your rights
Get up, stand up
Don't give up the fight.

1973 'Get Up, Stand Up'.

69 Don't just move to the music, listen to what I'm saying.

Quoted in Johnson and Pines Reggae (1982).

Marlowe, Christopher 1564–93

English poet and playwright. It is thought that he was a spy for the English in the Netherlands, and that he was killed in a tavern brawl. His many dramatic works include Doctor Faustus (1592), and his poems include the unfinished Hero and Leander and lyrics such as 'The Passionate Shepherd to his Love'.

70 From jiggling veins of rhyming mother-wits,
And such conceits as clownage keeps in pay,
We'll lead you to the stately tents of war.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, prologue.

71 Come, lady, let not this appall your thoughts.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 1, sc.2.

72 Tamburlaine!—

A Scythian shepherd so embellishèd
With nature's pride and richest furniture!
His looks do menace heaven and dare the gods.
His fiery eyes are fixed upon the earth.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 1, sc.2.

73 Accurst be he that first invented war.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 2, sc.4.

74 A god is not so glorious as a king.

I think the pleasure they enjoy in Heaven,
Cannot compare with kingly joys in earth.
To wear a crown enchased with pearl and gold,
Whose virtues carry with it life and death;
To ask and have, command and be obeyed;
When looks breed love, with looks to gain the prize,
Such power attractive shines in princes' eyes!

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 2, sc.5.

75 Nature that framed us of four elements,
Warring within our breasts for regiment,
Doth teach us all to have aspiring minds:
Our souls, whose faculties can comprehend
The wondrous architecture of the world,
And measure every wandering planet's course,
Still climbing after knowledge infinite,
And always moving as the restless spheres,
Wills us to wear ourselves, and never rest,
Until we reach the ripest fruit of all,
That perfect bliss and sole felicity,
The sweet fruition of an earthly crown.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 2, sc.7.

76 Virtue is the fount whence honour springs.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 4, sc.4.

77 What is beauty, saith my sufferings, then?

If all the pens that ever poets held
Had fed the feeling of their masters' thoughts,
And every sweetness that inspired their hearts,
Their minds, and muses on admirèd themes;
If all the heavenly quintessence they still
From their immortal flowers of poesy,
Wherein, as in a mirror, we perceive
The highest reaches of a human wit;
If these had made one poem's period,
And all combined in beauty's worthiness,
Yet should there hover in their restless heads
One thought, one grace, one wonder, at the least,
Which into words no virtue can digest.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 5, sc.1.

78 And every warrior that is rapt with love

Of fame, of valour, and of victory,
Must needs have beauty beat on his conceits:
I thus conceiving and subduing both,
That which hath stopped the tempest of the gods,
Even from the fiery-spangled veil of heaven,
To feel the lovely warmth of shepherds' flames,
And march in cottages of strowèd weeds,
Shall give the world to note, for all my birth,
That virtue solely is the sum of glory,
And fashions men with true nobility.

1587 Tamburlaine the Great (published 1590), pt.1, act 5, sc.1.

- 84 Thus methinks should men of judgement frame
 Their means of traffic from the vulgar trade,
 And as their wealth increaseth, so enclose Infinite riches in a little room.
c.1589 The Jew of Malta (published 1633), act 1, sc.1.
- 85 The sad presaging raven, that tolls
 The sick man's passport in her hollow beak,
 And in the shadow of the silent night
 Doth shake contagion from her sable wings.
c.1589 The Jew of Malta (published 1633), act 2, sc.1.
- 86 As for myself, I walk abroad o' nights
 And kill sick people groaning under walls:
 Sometimes I go about and poison wells.

- 88 'My father is deceased. Come, Gaveston,
 And share the kingdom with thy dearest friend.'
 Ah, words that make me surfeit with delight!
 What greater bliss can hap to Gaveston
 Than live and be the favourite of a king?
 Sweet prince, I come; these, these thy amorous lines
 Might have enforced me to have swum from France,
 And, like Leander, gasped upon the sand,
 So thou would'st smile, and take me in thy arms.

 Affords this art no greater miracle?
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 1, sc.1.
- 96 Oh, what a world of profit and delight,
 Of power, of honour, and omnipotence,
 Is promised to the studious artisan!
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 1, sc.1.
- 97 All things that move between the quiet poles
 Shall be at my command: emperors and kings
 Are but obeyed in their several provinces,
 Nor can they raise the wind, or rend the clouds;
 But his dominion that exceeds in this
 Stretcheth as far as doth the mind of man;
 A sound magician is a demi-god.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 1, sc.1.
- 98 How am I glutted with conceit of this!
 Shall I make spirits fetch me what I please,
 Resolve me of all ambiguities,
 Perform what desperate enterprise I will?
 I'll have them fly to India for gold,
 Ransack the ocean for orient pearl,
 And search all corners of the new found world
 For pleasant fruits and princely delicates.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 1, sc.1.
- 99 Why, this is hell, nor am I out of it:
 Thinkst thou that I who saw the face of God,
 And tasted the eternal joys of heaven,
 Am not tormented with ten thousand hells
 In being deprived of everlasting bliss!
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 1, sc.3.
- 1 Hell hath no limits, nor is circumscribed
 In one self place; but where we are is hell,
 And where hell is, there must we ever be:
 And, to be short, when all the world dissolves,
 And every creature shall be purified,
 All places shall be hell that is not heaven.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 2, sc.1.
- 2 But think'st thou heaven is such a glorious thing?
 I tell thee, Faustus, it is not half so fair
 As thou, or any man that breathes on earth.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 2, sc.2.
- 3 Have I not made blind Homer sing to me?
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 2, sc.2.
- 4 O gentle Faustus, leave this damnèd art,
 This magic, that will charm thy soul to hell.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 5, sc.1.
- 5 Was this the face that launched a thousand ships,
 And burnt the topless towers of Ilium?
 Sweet Helen, make me immortal with a kiss!
 Her lips suck forth my soul: see, where it flies!
 Come Helen, come give me my soul again.
 Here will I dwell, for heaven be in these lips,
 And all is dross that is not Helena.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 5, sc.1.
- 6 Now hast thou but one bare hour to live,
 And then thou must be damned perpetually!
 Stand still, you ever-moving spheres of heaven,
 That time may cease, and midnight never come.
 Fair nature's eye, rise, rise, again, and make Perpetual day; or let this hour be but

- A year, a month, a week, a natural day,
That Faustus may repent and save his soul!
O lente, lente currite, noctis equi:
The stars move still, time runs, the clock will strike,
The devil will come, and Faustus must be damned.
Oh, I'll leap up to my God!—Who pulls me down?—
See, see, where Christ's blood streams in the firmament!
One drop would save my soul, half a drop, ah, my Christ.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 5, sc.2.
- 7 You stars that reigned at my nativity,
Whose influence hath allotted death and hell,
Now draw up Faustus like a foggy mist,
Into the entrails of yon labouring cloud,
That when you vomit forth into the air,
My limbs may issue from your smoky mouths,
So that my soul may but ascend to heaven.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 5, sc.2.
- 8 Ah, Pythagoras' metempsychosis, were that time,
This soul should fly from me, and I be changed
Unto some brutish beast.
c.1592 Doctor Faustus (published 1604), act 5, sc.2.

- 12 His body was as straight as Circe's wand;
Jove might have sipped out nectar from his hand.
1593 Hero and Leander (published 1598), pt.1, l.61–2.
- 13 It lies not in our power to love, or hate,
For will in us is overruled by fate.
When two are stripped, lo ere the course begin
We wish that one should lose, the other win;
And one especially do we affect
Of two gold ingots, like in each respect.
The reason no man knows, let it suffice,
What we behold is censured by our eyes.
Where both deliberate, the love is slight;
Who ever loved, that loved not at first sight?
1593 Hero and Leander (published 1598), pt.1, l.167–76.
- 14 Virginity, albeit some highly prize it,
Compared with marriage, had you tried them both,
Differs as much as wine and water doth.
1593 Hero and Leander (published 1598), pt.1, l.268–9.
- 15 And as she wept, her tears to pearl he turned,
And wound them on his arm, and for her mourned.
1593 The mourner is Cupid. Hero and Leander (published 1598), pt.1, l.375–6.
- 16 And to this day is every scholar poor;
Gross gold from them runs headlong to the boor.
1593 Hero and Leander (published 1598), pt.1, l.477–8.
- 17 Come live with me and be my love,
And we will all the pleasures prove
That valleys, groves, hills, and fields,

Woods, or steepy mountain yields.

And we will sit upon the rocks,
Seeing shepherds feed their flocks,
By shallow rivers to whose falls
Melodious birds sing madrigals.

And I will make thee beds of roses
And a thousand fragrant posies,
A cap of flowers, and a kirtle
Embroidered all with leaves of myrtle.

Marples, Morris

English writer and traveller.

- 18 The soul of a journey is liberty, perfect liberty to think, feel, do just as one pleases. We go on a journey chiefly to be free of all impediments and of all inconveniences; to leave ourselves behind, much more to get rid of others. It is because I want a little breathing space to muse on different matters... that I absent myself from the town for a while.
Quoted in John Hillaby Journey through Britain (1968).

1650 'An Horatian Ode upon Cromwell's Return from Ireland'.

57 See how the Orient dew,
Shed from the bosom of the morn
Into the blowing roses,
Yet careless of its mansion new;
For the clear region where 'twas born
Round in its self encloses:
And in its little globes extent,
Frames as it can its native element.
c.1650–1652 'On a Drop of Dew' (published 1681).

58 There is not such another in
The world, to offer for their sin.
c.1650–1652 'The Nymph Complaining for the Death of her Fawn' (published 1681).

59 Had it lived long, it would have been Lilies without, roses within.
c.1650–1652 'The Nymph Complaining for the Death of her Fawn' (published 1681)

60 I have a garden of my own,
But so with roses overgrown,
And lilies, that you would it guess
To be a little wilderness.
c.1650–1652 'The Nymph Complaining for the Death of her Fawn' (published 1681).

61 Had we but world enough, and time,
This coyness Lady were no crime.
We would sit down, and think which way
To walk, and pass our long love's day.
Thou by the Indian Ganges' side
Shouldst rubies find: I by the tide
Of Humber would complain. I would Love you ten years before the flood.

- c.1650–1652 'To His Coy Mistress' (published 1681).
- 62 My vegetable love should grow
Vaster than empires, and more slow,
An hundred years should go to praise
Thine eyes, and on thy forehead gaze.
Two hundred to adore each breast:
But thirty thousand to the rest.
An age at least to every part,
And the last age should show your heart.
For Lady you deserve this state;
Nor would I love at lower rate.
But at my back I always hear
Time's winged chariot hurrying near:
And yonder all before us lie
Deserts of vast eternity.
c.1650–1652 'To His Coy Mistress' (published 1681).
- 63 Then worms shall try
That long preserved virginity:
And your quaint honour turn to dust;
And into ashes all my lust.
The grave's a fine and private place,
But none I think do there embrace.
c.1650–1652 'To His Coy Mistress' (published 1681).
- 64 Now let us sport us while we may;
And now, like amorous birds of prey,
Rather at once our time devour,
Than languish in his slow-chapped power.
c.1650–1652 'To His Coy Mistress' (published 1681).
- 65 Let us roll all our strength, and all
Our sweetness, up into one ball:
And tear our pleasures with rough strife,
Through the iron gates of life.
Thus, though we cannot make our sun
Stand still, yet we will make him run.
c.1650–1652 'To His Coy Mistress' (published 1681), closing lines.
- 66 My love is of a birth as rare
As 'tis for object strange and high:
It was begotten by Despair
Upon Impossibility.

Magnanimous Despair alone
Could show me so divine a thing,
Where feeble Hope could ne'er have flown
But vainly flapped its tinsel wing.
c.1650–1652 'The Definition of Love' (published 1681).
- 67 As lines so loves oblique may well
Themselves in every angle greet
But ours so truly parallel,
Though infinite can never meet.

Therefore the love which doth us bind,
But fate so enviously debars,
Is the conjunction of the mind,
And opposition of the stars.
c.1650–1652 'The Definition of Love' (published 1681).
- 68 Ye living lamps, by whose dear light
The nightingale does sit so late,
And studying all the summer night,
Her matchless songs does meditate.
c.1650–1652 'The Mower to the Glo- Worms' (published 1681).
- 69 And now, when I have summed up all my store,
Thinking (so I myself deceive)
So rich a chaplet thence to weave
As never yet the King of Glory wore,
Alas! I find the serpent old,
That, twining in his speckled breast,
About the flowers disguised does fold
With wreaths of fame and interest.
c.1650–1652 'The Coronet' (published 1681).
- 70 My mind was once the true survey
Of all these meadows fresh and gay;
And in the greenness of the grass
Did see its hopes as in a glass.
c.1650–1652 'The Mower's Song' (published 1681).
- 71 How vainly men themselves amaze
To win the palm, the oak, or bays;
And their uncessant labours see
Crown'd from some single herb or tree.
Whose short and narrow verged shade
Does prudently their toils upbraid;
While all flow'rs and all trees do close
To weave the garlands of repose.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681).
- 72 Fair quiet, have I found thee here,
And Innocence thy Sister dear!
Mistaken long, I sought you then
In busy companies of men.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681).
- 73 Society is all but rude,
To this delicious solitude.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681).
- 74 What wondrous life is this I lead!
Ripe apples drop about my head;
The luscious clusters of the vine
Upon my mouth do crush their wine;
The nectarine, and curious peach,
Into my hands themselves do reach;
Stumbling on melons, as I pass,
Ensnared with flowers, I fall on grass.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681), stanza 5.
- 75 Annihilating all that's made
To a green thought in a green shade.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681), stanza 6.
- 76 Such was that happy garden-state,
While man there walked without a mate.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681), stanza 8.
- 77 'Twas beyond a mortal's share
To wander solitary there:
Two paradises 'twere in one
To live in paradise alone.
c.1650–1652 'The Garden' (published 1681), stanza 8.
- 78 No creature loves an empty space;
Their bodies measure out their place.
c.1650–1652 'Upon Appleton House, to My Lord Fairfax' (published 1681), stanza 2.
- 79 'Tis not, what once it was, the world;
But a rude heap together hurl'd.
c.1650–1652 'Upon Appleton House, to My Lord Fairfax' (published 1681), stanza 96.
- 80 Oh thou, that dear and happy isle
The garden of the world ere while,

Thou paradise of four seas,
Which heaven planted us to please,
But, to exclude the world, did guard
With watery if not flaming sword;
What luckless apple did we taste,
To make us mortal, and thee waste?
c.1650–1652 'Upon Appleton House, to My Lord Fairfax' (published 1681), stanza 41.

- 81 What should we do but sing the praise
That led us through the watery maze,
Unto an isle so long unknown,
And yet far kinder than our own?
c.1653 'Bermudas' (published 1681).

Marvell, Holt originally Eric Maschwitz 1901–69

Explanation to his wife, on being discovered in a compromising position with a chorus girl. Quoted in Groucho Marx and Richard J Anobile Marx Brothers Scrapbook (1973), ch.24.

Marx, Groucho originally Julius Henry Marx 1895–1977

US film comedian, one of the Marx Brothers. He appeared in many films including Animal Crackers (1930), Monkey Business (1931), Horse Feathers (1932) and Duck Soup (1933).

- 84 What's a thousand dollars? Mere chicken feed. A poultry matter.
1929 Line delivered in The Cocoanuts (screenplay by George Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind).
- 85 One morning I shot an elephant in my pyjamas. How he got into my pyjamas I don't know.
1930 Line delivered in Animal Crackers (screenplay by George Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind).
- 86 You go Uruguay and I'll go mine.
1930 Line delivered in Animal Crackers (screenplay by George Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind).
- 87 I could dance with you till the cows come home. On second thoughts I'll dance with the cows and you come home.
1933 Line delivered in Duck Soup (screenplay by Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby and Arthur Sheekman).
- 88 There ain't no Sanity Claus.
1935 Line delivered in A Night at the Opera (screenplay by George Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind).

1937 Line delivered in A Day at the Races (screenplay by George Seaton, Robert Pirosh and George Oppenheimer).
- 90 Marry me and I'll never look at another horse.
1937 Line delivered in A Day at the Races (screenplay by George Seaton, Robert Pirosh and George Oppenheimer).
- 91 Please accept my resignation. I don't want to belong to any club that will accept me as a member.
1959 Recalled in his autobiography, Groucho and Me (1959), ch.26.
- 92 When's the game itself going to begin?

While watching a game of cricket at Lord's. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Marx, Harpo originally Adolf Marx 1893–1961

US film comedian, one of the Marx Brothers. His role within the team was that of dumb clown and harp maestro. He published an autobiography in 1961.

- 93 No worse than a bad cold.
His winning suggestion when a critic set up a competition for readers' reviews of the long-running play Abie's Irish Rose by Anne Nichols. Attributed.

Marx, Karl Heinrich 1818–83

German-born political and economic theorist who began his career as a journalist in 1843. With his lifelong literary collaborator Friedrich Engels he wrote The Communist Manifesto (1848), and settled in London the next year, where he began his unfinished Das Kapital (vol.1, 1867, the rest posthumously).

- 94 Religion is the sigh of the oppressed creature, the feelings of a heartless world, and the spirit of conditions that are inhumane. It is the opium of the people.

1843–4 A Contribution to the Critique of Hegel's Philosophy of Right.

- 95 The worker becomes poorer the more wealth he produces and the more his production increases in power and extent. The worker becomes an ever cheaper commodity the more good he creates. The devaluation of the human world increases in direct relation with the increase in value of the world of things. Labour does not only create goods; it also produces itself and the worker as a commodity, and indeed in the same proportion as it produces goods.

1844 Collected in T B Bottomore (trans and ed) Early Writings (1964), p.121.

- 96 Political economy thus does not recognize the unoccupied worker, the working man so far as he is outside this work relationship. Swindlers, thieves, beggars, the unemployed, the starving, poverty-stricken and criminal working man, are figures which do not exist for political economy, but only for other eyes; for doctors, judges, grave-diggers, beadles, etc. They are ghostly figures outside the domain of political economy.

1844 Collected in T B Bottomore (trans and ed) Early Writings (1964), p.137–9.

- 97 The division of labour is nothing but the alienated establishment of human activity.

1844 Collected in T B Bottomore (trans and ed) Early Writings (1964), p.181.

- 98 The philosophers have only interpreted the world in various ways; the point is to change it.

1845 Theses on Feuerbach, no.11.

- 99 In communist society, where nobody has one exclusive sphere of activity but each can become accomplished in any branch he wishes, society regulates the general production and thus makes it possible for me to do one thing today and another tomorrow, to hunt in the morning or criticize after dinner, just as I desire, without ever becoming hunter, fisherman, shepherd or critic.

1845 The German Ideology (with Friedrich Engels).

- 1 Assume a particular state of development in the - productive facilities of man and you will get a particular form of commerce and consumption. Assume particular stages of development in production, commerce and consumption and you will have a corresponding social constitution, a corresponding organisation of the family, of orders or of classes, in a word, a corresponding civil society. Assume a particular civil society and you will get particular political conditions which are only the official expression of civil society.

- 1846 Letter to P V Annenkov, 26 Dec.
- 2 The history of all hitherto existing society is the history of class struggles.
- 1848 The Communist Manifesto (with Friedrich Engels, translated by Samuel Moore, 1888), opening sentence.
- 3 The theory of the Communists may be summed up in the single sentence: Abolition of private property.
- 1848 The Communist Manifesto (with Friedrich Engels, translated by Samuel Moore, 1888).
- 4 A spectre is haunting Europe—the spectre of communism. All the powers of old Europe have entered into a holy alliance to exorcise this spectre; Pope and Tsar, Metternich and Guizot, French Radicals and German police spies.
- 1848 The Communist Manifesto (with Friedrich Engels, translated by Samuel Moore, 1888).
- 5 Let the ruling classes tremble at a communist revolution. The proletarians have nothing to lose but their chains. they have a world to win. Working men of all countries, unite!
- 1848 The Communist Manifesto (with Friedrich Engels, translated by Samuel Moore, 1888), closing words. This translation was approved by Engels, but the phrase is also known as ‘Workers of the world, unite’. The literal translation of the German is ‘Proletarians of all lands, unite.’
- 6 If capital is growing rapidly, wages may rise; the profit of capital rises incomparably more rapidly. The material position of the worker has improved, but at the cost of his social position. The social gulf that divides him from the capitalist has widened.
- 1849 ‘Wage Labour and Capital’, collected in Robert C Tucker (ed) The Marx–Engels Reader (2nd edn, 1972), p.211.
- 7 Hegel says somewhere that all great events and personalities in the world reappear in one fashion or another. He forgot to add: the first time as tragedy, the second as farce.

- 1857–8 The Grundrisse (translated by David McLellan, 1971), p.77.
- 10 The product of mental labour—science—always stands far below its value, because the labour-time necessary to reproduce it has no relation at all to the labour-time required for its original production.
- 1862 Theory of Surplus Value.
- 11 The production of surplus-value, or the extraction of surplus labour, is the specific end and aim, the sum and substance, of capitalist production.

1867 Das Kapital.

- 12 The instruments of labour, when they assume the form of machinery, acquire a kind of material existence which involves the replacement of human forces by the forces of Nature, and of rule-of-thumb methods by the purposeful application of natural science.
- 1867 Das Kapital.
- 13 In manufacture and in handicrafts, the worker uses a tool; in the factory, he serves a machine.
- 1867 Das Kapital.
- 14 Only in a higher phase of communist society... can the narrow horizon of bourgeois right be crossed in its entirety, and society inscribe on its banners, ‘From each according to his ability, to each according to his needs!’

- 15 All I know is that I am not a Marxist.
Recalled by Friedrich Engels in letter to Conrad Schmidt, 3 Aug 1890.
- 16 What I did that was new was to prove that the existence of classes is only bound up with particular, historical phases in the development of production; that the class struggle necessarily leads to the dictatorship of the proletariat; and that dictatorship itself only constitutes the transition to the abolition of all classes and to a classless society.
In Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels Correspondence (1934).

Mary of Teck formerly Princess Victoria Mary Augusta Louise Olga Pauline Claudine Agnes known as Princess May 1867–1953

Queen-Consort of George V of Britain (married 1893). She helped mould her husband into a ‘people’s king’ and throughout her son’s reign was involved in women’s war work and philanthropy.

- 17 God grant that we may not have a European war thrust upon us, and for such a stupid reason too, no I don’t mean stupid, but to have to go to war on account of tiresome Serbia beggars belief.
- 1914 Letter to her aunt Princess Augusta, Grand-Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, 28 Jul.

Mary, Queen of Scots 1542–87

Queen of Scotland, the daughter of James V. A Catholic, she succeeded to the throne at the age of one week but was forced to sign an act of abdication in favour of her son James VI in 1567. She fled to England and was imprisoned by Elizabeth I for 20 years before being executed.

- 18 En ma fin git mon commencement.

In my end is my beginning.

Embroidered motto, quoted in Antonia Fraser Mary Queen of Scots (1969), ch.21, ‘My Norfolk’.

Mary Tudor also known as Mary I 1516–58

Queen of England and Ireland (from 1553). On Edward VI’s death she ousted Lady Jane Grey with popular support and repealed anti-Catholic legislation. Public anger at her persecutions of Protestants and her unpopular marriage, and the loss of Calais to the French, broke her down.

19 When I am dead and opened, you shall find 'Calais' lying in my heart.

Quoted in Holinshed Chronicles (1808), vol.4.

Masaryk, Tomáš Garrigue 1850–1937

Czechoslovak statesman. An ardent Slovak, while in exile during World War I he organized the Czech independence movement. As the first President of Czechoslovakia (1918–35), he was re-elected on three occasions.

20 Our whole history inclines us towards the democratic powers. Our renaissance is a logical link between us and the democracies of the west.

1918 Inaugural address, 23 Dec.

Masefield, John Edward 1878–1967

English poet and novelist. He served his apprenticeship in the merchant navy, before ill-health forced him to concentrate on writing about the sea rather than sailing it. He became Poet Laureate in 1930.

21 I must down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a grey mist on the sea's face and a grey dawn breaking.

1902 'Sea Fever'.

22 I must down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide

Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied.

1902 'Sea Fever'.

23 I must down to the seas again, to the vagrant gypsy life,
To the gull's way and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;
And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow-rover,
And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

1902 'Sea Fever'.

24 It's a warm wind, the west wind, full of bird's cries;
I never hear the west wind but tears are in my eyes.

1902 'West Wind'.

25 It is good to be out on the road, and going one knows not where.

1902 'Tewkesbury Road'.

26 Quinquere of Nineveh from distant Ophir
Rowing home to haven in sunny Palestine,
With a cargo of ivory,
And apes and peacocks,
Sandalwood, cedarwood, and sweet white wine.

1903 'Cargoes'.

27 Dirty British coaster with a salt-caked smoke-stack,
Butting through the Channel in the mad March days.

1903 'Cargoes'.

28 I have seen dawn and sunset on moors and windy hills
Coming in so solemn beauty like slow old tunes of Spain.

1903 'Beauty'.

29 Oh some are fond of Spanish wine, and some are fond of French,

And some'll swallow tay and stuff fit only for a wench.

1903 'Captain Stratton's Fancy'.

30 Most roads lead men homewards,
My road leads me forth.

1903 'Roadways'.

31 My road leads me seawards
To the white dipping sails.

1903 'Roadways'.

32 Death opens unknown doors. It is most grand to die.

1910 Pompey the Great, act 2.

33 In the dark room where I began
My mother's life made me a man.
Through all the months of human birth
Her beauty fed my common earth.

I cannot see, nor breathe, nor stir,
But through the death of some of her.

1910 'C.L.M.'.

34 Out into the street I ran uproarious
The devil dancing in me glorious.

1911 'The Everlasting Mercy'.

35 And he who gives a child a treat
Makes joy-bells ring in Heaven's street,
And he who gives a child a home
Builds palaces in Kingdom come,
And she who gives a baby birth
Brings Saviour Christ again to Earth.

1914 'Biography'.

38 Life's battle is a conquest for the strong;
The meaning shows in the defeated thing.

1914 'The Wanderer'.

39 I have seen flowers come in stony places
And kind things done by men with ugly faces,
And the gold cup won by the worst horse at the races,
So I trust, too.

1914 'An Epilogue'.

40 And all the way that wild high crying,
To cold his blood with the thought of dying.

1919 Reynard the Fox, pt.2, stanza 49.

41 People who leave their own time out of their work cannot be surprised if their time fails to find them interesting.

1925 'With the Living Voice'.

Massinger, Philip 1583–1640

English dramatist. He attended Oxford, but left to join Henslowe's company. He collaborated with Thomas Dekker, Ben Jonson and George Chapman, and particularly John Fletcher, with whom he is buried. His works include A New Way to Pay Old Debts (1633).

42 He that would govern others, first should be
The master of himself.

1623 The Bondman, act 1, sc.3.

43 Soar not too high to fall; but stoop to rise.

1623 The Duke of Milan, act 1, sc.2.

44 Oh that thou hadst like others been all words,
And no performance.

1624 The Parliament of Love, act 4, sc.2.

45 Pleasures of worse natures

- Are gladly entertained, and they that shun us
Practice in private sports the stews would blush at.
1626 Of the theatre. The Roman Actor, act 1, sc.1.
- 46 Nay, droop not, fellows; innocence should be bold.
1626 The Roman Actor, act 1, sc.1.
- 47 They are only safe
That know to soothe the prince's appetite
And serve his lusts.
1626 The Roman Actor, act 1, sc.1.
- 48 O master doctor, he is past recovery;
A lethargy hath seized him.
1626 The Roman Actor, act 2, sc.1.
- 49 How strangely hopes delude men.
1626 The Roman Actor, act 5, sc.2.
- 50 Greatness, with private men
Esteem'd a blessing, is to me a curse;
And we, whom, for our high births, they conclude
The happy freemen, are the only slaves.
Happy the golden mean!
1627 The Great Duke of Florence, act 1, sc.1.
- 51 Virgin me no virgins!
I must have you lose that name, or you lose me.
1633 A New Way to Pay Old Debts, act 3, sc.2.

Masters, Edgar Lee 1869–1950

US poet. Although he wrote a number of books of both poetry and prose, he is chiefly remembered for the satirical free verse epitaphs on real and imaginary occupants of a midwestern cemetery in Spoon River Anthology (1915).

- 52 Where are Elmer, Herman, Bert, Tom and Charley,
The weak of will, the strong of arm, the clown, the boozer, the fighter?
All, all, are sleeping on the hill.
1915 Spoon River Anthology; 'The Hill'.
- 53 Why, a moral truth is a hollow tooth
Which must be propped with gold.
1915 Spoon River Anthology; 'Sersmith the Dentist'.
- 54 Your eight-page paper—behind which you huddle,
Bawling through the megaphone of big type:
'This is I, the giant.'
1915 Spoon River Anthology; 'Editor Whedon'.

Matak, Sirik c.1930–1975

Cambodian politician and business leader who joined with Lol Nol to overthrow Sihanouk in 1970. Prime Minister of the US-backed Khmer Republic (1970–5), he was executed by the Khmer Rouge after refusing to leave with the US Ambassador.

- 55 But mark it well, if I shall die here on the spot and in my country that I love, it is too bad because we are all born and must die one day. I have only committed this mistake of believing in you, the Americans.
1975 Letter to John Dean, US Ambassador to Cambodia
(1974–5), Apr.

Mathew, Sir James Charles 1830–1908

Irish judge. He was appointed judge (1881–1901) and Lord Justice of Appeal (1901–6).

- 56 In England, justice is open to all—like the Ritz Hotel.
Quoted in R E Megarry Miscellany-at-Law (1955). Sometimes attributed to Lord Darling.

Mathews, Harry Burchell 1930–

US writer and translator. His fiction is marked by a rich vein of lexical experiment and unconventional fantasy. He also translates and has written original literary works in French.

- 57 Translation is the paradigm, the exemplar of all writing...
It is translation that demonstrates most vividly the yearning for transformation that underlies every act involving speech, that supremely human gift.
1980 Country Cooking and Other Stories, 'The Dialect of the Tribe'.
- 58 Syntax and vocabulary are overwhelming constraints—the rules that run us. Language is using us to talk—we think we're using the language, but language is doing the thinking, we're its slavish agents.
1988 Interview in City Limits, 26 May.

Mathias, Charles McCurdy, Jr 1922–

US lawyer and Republican politician. He was a Congressman (1961–69), then Senator from Maryland (1969–87).

- 59 Most of us are honest all the time, and all of us are honest most of the time.
1967 Of congressional ethics. In Time, 31 Mar.

Mathison, Melissa 1949–

US screenwriter, best known for E.T.—the Extraterrestrial (1982).

- 60 E.T. phone home.
1982 E.T.—the Extraterrestrial.
- 61 How do you explain school to a higher intelligence?
1982 E.T.—the Extraterrestrial.

Matisse, Henri Émile Benoît 1869–1954

French painter, sculptor, designer and graphic artist, from 1904 leader of the Fauves. His paintings typically display bold use of colour organized within a rhythmic two-dimensional design.

- 62 Expression, for me, does not reside in passions glowing in a human face or manifested by violent movement. The entire arrangement of my picture is expressive: the place occupied by the figures, the empty spaces around them,
the proportions, everything has its share.
1908 'Notes d'un peintre', in La Grande Revue.
- 63 What I dream of is an art of balance, of purity and serenity... a soothing, calming influence on the mind, rather like a good armchair which provides relaxation from physical fatigue.
1908 'Notes d'un peintre', in La Grande Revue.
- 64 If drawing belongs to the realm of the Spirit and colour to that of the Senses, you must draw first, to cultivate the Spirit and to be able to lead colour through the paths of the Spirit.
1948 Letter to Henry Clifford, quoted in Jack D Flam Matisse on Art (1973).

Matlovich, Leonard 1943–88

US soldier, the first active-duty soldier openly to acknowledge his homosexuality.

Medawar, Sir Peter Brian 1915–87

British zoologist and immunologist, born in Rio de Janeiro.

Professor of Anatomy at University College London, he pioneered experiments in immunological toleration and skin and organ grafting, winning a Nobel prize with Sir Macfarlane Burnet in 1960.

5 I cannot give any scientist of any age better advice than this: the intensity of a conviction that a hypothesis is true has no bearing over whether it is true or not.
1979 Advice to a Young Scientist.

6 A scientist soon discovers that he has become a member of the cast of 'them' in the context 'what mischief are they up to now?'
1979 Advice to a Young Scientist.

7 Good scientists often possess old-fashioned virtues of the kind school teachers have always professed to despair of ever inculcating in us. These are: a sanguine temperament that expects to solve a problem; power of application and the kind of fortitude that keeps scientists erect in the face of much that might otherwise cast them down; and above all, persistence, a refusal bordering upon obstinacy to give in and admit defeat.
1984 The Limits of Science.

Meijer, Frederik 1919–

US retail executive and Chairman Emeritus of Meijer Inc.

8 I am more poor than you think.
On trying to secure a low profile. Quoted in Forbes, 19 Oct 1992.

Meilhac, Henri 1831–97

French playwright. From 1855 he produced a long series of light comedies, often in conjunction with Ludovic Halévy, with whom he also wrote the librettos for Offenbach's operettas and Bizet's Carmen.

9 *L'amour est un oiseau rebelle
Que nul ne peut apprivoiser.*
Love's a bird that will live in freedom

Meir, Golda 1898–1978

Israeli politician. She was elected Prime Minister in 1969, but her efforts for peace in the Middle East were halted by the fourth Arab–Israeli War (1973) and she resigned in 1974.

12 Those that perished in Hitler's gas chambers were the last Jews to die without standing up to defend themselves.
1967 Speech in New York, 11 Jun.

13 Women's Liberation is just a lot of foolishness. It's the men who are discriminated against. They can't bear children. And no-one's likely to do anything about that.
1972 In Newsweek, 23 Oct.

Melba, Dame Nellie real name Helen Mitchell 1861–1931

Australian soprano, who took her stage name from her native Melbourne. Notorious for her many 'farewell' performances, her earthy Australian character contrasted oddly with the graces she adopted in her stage persona.

14 What are you going to sing? All I can say is—sing 'em muck! It's all they can understand!
c.1907 Advice to Dame Clara Butt on her first tour of Australia. Quoted in Winifred Ponder Clara Butt: Her Life-Story (1928).

15 If you wish to understand me at all (and to write an autobiography is only to open a window into one's heart) you must understand first and foremost, that I am an Australian... I shall always come back to rest in the shadow of the blue mountains, in the heart of this vast, deserted continent which gave me birth.
1925 Melodies and Memories, ch.1.

16 The first rule in opera is the first rule in life: see to everything yourself.
1925 Melodies and Memories.

17 If I'd been a housemaid I'd have been the best in Australia—I couldn't help it. It's got to be perfection for me.
Said to the conductor Fritz Hart. Quoted in John Thompson On Lips of Living Men (1962).

Melbourne, William Lamb, 2nd Viscount 1779–1848

English statesman, Chief Secretary for Ireland (1827–8), Home Secretary (1830–4), and Whig Prime Minister (1834, 1835–41), a confidante of the young Queen Victoria. Defeated in the election of 1841, he resigned and thereafter took little part in public affairs.

18 I wish that I was as cocksure of anything as Tom Macaulay is of everything.

Mellor, D H 1938–

British Emeritus Professor of Philosophy at Cambridge University. He has written several books on philosophy.

20 Appeals to rationality are mostly bluff. There is no good theory of what it is nor of how to recognize it.
1983 'Objective Decision Making', in Social Theory and Practice, Summer–Fall.

Melly, George 1926–

English jazz singer.

21 Jazz is an impure art. There's a great deal of romantic nostalgia involved.
1965 Owning Up, ch.2.

Melville, Andrew 1545–c.1622

Scottish religious and educational reformer, consolidating the Presbyterianism of the reformed Church of Scotland, and a fierce critic of royal authority where it impinged on that of the Kirk. In 1596 he headed a deputation to 'remonstrate' with James VI.

22 God's silly vassal.

1596 Said of (and to) King James VI, as reported in his nephew James Melville's Diary: "Mr Andrew bore him down and uttered the commission as from the mighty God, calling him but "God's silly vassal!"

Melville, Herman 1819–91

US novelist. Between 1839 and 1844 he spent time at sea, working as a cabin-boy and on whaling ships. His experiences gave him material for many of his best-known books, including Typee (1846) and his masterpiece, Moby Dick (1851).

23 We may have civilized bodies and yet barbarous souls.

1849 Redburn, ch.58.

24 Toil is man's allotment; toil of brain, or toil of hands, or a grief that's more than either, the grief and sin of idleness.

1849 Mardi, ch.63.

25 Call me Ishmael.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.1, opening words.

26 Better sleep with a sober cannibal than a drunken Christian.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.3.

27 Faith, like a jackal, feeds among the tombs, and even from these dead doubts she gathers her most vital hope.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.7.

28 A whale ship was my Yale College and my Harvard.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.24.

29 Old age is always wakeful; as if, the longer linked with life, the less man has to do with aught that looks like death.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.29.

30 All visible objects, man, are but as pasteboard masks. But in each event—in the living act, the undoubted deed—there, some unknown but still reasoning thing puts forth the mouldings of its features from behind the unreasoning mask. If man will strike, strike through the mask!

1851 Captain Ahab. Moby Dick, ch.36.

31 Though in many of its aspects this visible world seems formed in love, the invisible spheres were formed in fright.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.42.

32 It was the whiteness of the whale that above all things appalled me... for all these accumulated associations, with whatever is sweet, and honourable, and sublime, there yet lurks an elusive something in the innermost idea of this hue, which strikes more of a panic to the soul than that redness which affrights in blood.

1851 Ishmael. Moby Dick, ch.42.

33 It may seem strange that of all men sailors should be tinkering at their last wills and testaments, but there are no people in the world more fond of that diversion.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.49.

34 There is a wisdom that is woe; but there is a woe that is madness.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.96.

35 To produce a mighty book, you must choose a mighty theme. No great and enduring volume can ever be written on the flea, though many there be who have tried it.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.104.

36 For whatever is truly wonderful and fearful in man, never yet was put into words or books.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.110.

37 Come; let us squeeze hands all round; nay, let us all squeeze ourselves into each other; let us squeeze ourselves universally into the very milk and sperm of kindness.

1851 Ishmael. Moby Dick, ch.114.

38 Warmest climes but nurse the cruellest fangs: the tiger of Bengal crouches in spiced groves of ceaseless verdure.

1851 Moby Dick, ch.119.

39 Oh God! that man should be a thing for immortal souls to sieve through!

1851 Captain Ahab. Moby Dick, ch.125.

40 Let me look into a human eye; it is better than to gaze into sea or sky; better than to gaze upon God.

1851 Captain Ahab. Moby Dick, ch.132.

41 Guinea-coast slavery of solitary command!

1851 Captain Ahab. Moby Dick, ch.132.

42 He says NO! in thunder; but the Devil himself cannot make him say yes. For all men who say yes, lie; and all men who say no,—why, they are in the happy condition of judicious, unencumbered travellers in Europe; they cross the frontiers into Eternity with nothing but a carpet bag.

1851 Of Nathaniel Hawthorne.

43 The calm, the coolness, the silent grass-growing mood in which a man ought always to compose,—that, I fear, can seldom be mine. Dollars damn me; and the malicious Devil is forever grinning in upon me, holding the door ajar... What I feel most moved to write, that is banned,—it will not pay. So the product is a final hash, and all my books are botches.

1851 Letter to Nathaniel Hawthorne, Jun.

44 Why, ever since Adam, who has got to the meaning of this great allegory—the world? Then we pygmies must be content to have our paper allegories but ill comprehended.

1851 Letter to Nathaniel Hawthorne, Nov.

45 Nothing so aggravates an earnest person as a passive resistance.

1853 'Bartleby the Scrivener', in Putnam's Monthly Magazine, Nov–Dec.

46 If some books are deemed most baneful and their sale forbid, how, then, with deadlier facts, not dreams of dotting men? Those whom books will hurt will not be proof against events. Events, not books, should be forbid.

1854 'The Encantadas, Sketch Eighth', in Putnam's Monthly Magazine, May.

47 Who in the rainbow can draw the line where the violet tint ends and the orange tint begins? Distinctly we see the difference of the colors, but where exactly does the one first blindingly enter into the other? So with sanity and insanity.

1891 Billy Budd, Foretopman (first published 1924), ch.21.

48 There is nothing nameable but that some men will, or undertake to, do it for pay.

1891 Billy Budd, Foretopman (first published 1924), ch.21.

Menander c.343–291 BC

Greek comic poet, born in Athens. He wrote more than 100 comedies, most of which are lost. Various fragments and one complete play (Dyscolus) have been rediscovered in recent times.

49 He whom the gods love dies young.

Dis Exapaton, fragment 4.

50 The man who runs away will fight again.

Fragment quoted in Aulus Gellius Noctes Atticae, 17.21.31 (translated by J C Rolfe, 1967).

Mencius properly Meng-tzu c.371–c.289 BC

Chinese philosopher and sage. He helped to develop and popularize Confucian ideas and founded a school to promote their study. His sayings were recorded by his pupils after his death, and included proposals for social and political reform.

51 If the king loves music, there is little wrong in the land.

57 Poetry is a comforting piece of fiction set to more or less lascivious music.

1922 Prejudices, 3rd series, ch.7.

58 Faith may be defined briefly as an illogical belief in the occurrence of the improbable.

1922 Prejudices, 3rd series, ch.14.

59 The man who boasts that he habitually tells the truth is simply a man with no respect for it. It is not a thing to be thrown about loosely, like small change; it is something to be cherished and hoarded, and disbursed only when absolutely necessary.

1922 Prejudices, 3rd series, ch.14.

60 [Jeremy] Bentham held no post at the mercy of bankers and tripe sellers; he was a man of independent means, a lawyer and politician and a heretic in general practice. It is impossible to imagine such a man occupying a chair at Harvard or Princeton. He had a hand in too many pies; he was too rebellious and contumacious; he had too little respect for authority, either academic or worldly. Moreover, his mind was too wide for a professor; he could never remain safely in a groove; the whole field of social organization invited his inquiries and experiments.

1922 'The Dismal Science', in The Smart Set, Jun.

61 Hygiene is the corruption of medicine by morality.

1922 Prejudices.

62 The opera... is to music what a bawdy house is to a cathedral.

1925 Letter to Isaac Goldberg.

63 No one in this world, so far as I know—and I have searched the record for years, and employed agents to help me—has ever lost money by underestimating the intelligence of the great masses of the plain people.

1926 'Notes on Journalism' in the Chicago Sunday Tribune, 19 Sep. The phrase is commonly quoted as 'No one ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the American people.'

64 The saddest life is that of a political aspirant under democracy. His failure is ignominious and his success is disgraceful.

1929 In the Baltimore Evening Sun, 9 Dec.

65 Here, indeed, was his one peculiar Fach, his one really notable talent. He slept more than any other President, whether by day or night. Nero fiddled, but Coolidge only snored.

1933 Of Calvin Coolidge. In the American Mercury, Apr.

66 Roosevelt will probably go down into American history as a great hero. It is one of our Heavenly Father's characteristic jokes upon the American people, and in the usual bad taste.

- 83 The greatest of all the contributions of the American way of life to the salvation of humanity.
Of the cocktail. Quoted by William Grimes in 'The American Cocktail', Americana, Dec 1992.
- 84 The varnishers and veneerers have been busily converting Abe into a plaster saint... to pump all his human weaknesses out of him, and so leave him a mere moral apparition, a sort of amalgam of John Wesley and the Holy Ghost.
Of popular perceptions of Abraham Lincoln. Quoted in Fred Hobson Mencken: A Life (1994).
- 85 His whole carcass seemed to be made of iron. There was no give in him—no bounce, no softness. He sailed through American history like a steel ship loaded with monoliths made of granite.
Of President Grover Cleveland. Quoted in Fred Hobson Mencken: A Life (1994).
- 86 A third-rate political wheel-horse, with the face of a moving-picture actor, the intelligence of a respectable agricultural implement dealer, and the imagination of a lodge joiner... a benign blank—a decent, harmless, laborious, hollow-headed mediocrity.
Of President Warren G Harding. Quoted in Fred Hobson Mencken: A Life (1994).
- 87 His English reminds me of tattered washing on the line... of stale bean-soup, of college yells, of dogs barking idiotically through endless nights. It is so bad that a sort of grandeur creeps into it.
Of President Warren G Harding. Quoted in Fred Hobson Mencken: A Life (1994).

- 88 He was, on his plane, as insufferable as a Methodist on his.

Of Oscar Wilde. Introduction to a new edition of Wilde A House of Pomegranates.

His novels include The Ordeal of Richard Feverel (1859), Evan Harrington (1860) and The Egoist (1879).

- 93 Lovely are the curves of the white owl sweeping
Wavy in the dusk lit by one large star.

Lone on the fir-branch, his rattle-note unvaried,
Brooding o'er the gloom, spins the brown eve-jar.

1851 Poems, 'Love in the Valley', stanza 5. The poem was revised and republished in 1878.

- 94 Happy happy time, when the white star hovers
Low over dim fields fresh with blooming dew,
Near the face of dawn, that draws athwart the darkness,
Threading it with colour, like yewberries the yew.

1851 Poems, 'Love in the Valley', stanza 7. The poem was revised and republished in 1878.

- 95 I expect that Woman will be the last thing civilized by Man.

1859 The Ordeal of Richard Feverel, ch.1.

96 Away with systems! Away with a corrupt world! Let us breathe the air of the Enchanted island. Golden lie the meadows; golden run the streams; red gold is on the pine-stems. The sun's coming down to earth, and walks the fields and the waters. The sun is coming down to earth, and the fields and the waters shout to him golden shouts.

1859 The Ordeal of Richard Feverel, ch.19.

97 Kissing don't last: cookery do!

1859 The Ordeal of Richard Feverel, ch.28.

1879 The Egoist, ch.5

5 Cynicism is intellectual dandyism.

1879 The Egoist, ch.7.

6 'But do care a bit for flattery, my lady,' said De Craye. 'Tis the finest of the Arts; we might call it moral sculpture. Adepts in it can cut their friends to any shape they like.'

1879 De Craye to Lady Busshe. The Egoist, ch.36.

7 Enter these enchanted woods,
You who dare.

1883 Poems and Lyrics of the Joy of Earth, 'The Woods of Westminster'.

8 Soaring through wider zones that pricked his scars
With memory of the old revolt from Awe,
He reached the middle height, and at the stars,
Which are the brain of heaven, he looked, and sank.
Around the ancient track marched, rank on rank,
The army of unalterable law.

1883 Poems and Lyrics of the Joy of Earth, 'Lucifer in Starlight'.

9 For singing till his heaven fills
'Tis love of earth that he instils,
And ever winging up and up,
Our valley is his golden cup,
And he the wine which overflows.

1883 Poems and Lyrics of the Joy of Earth, 'The Lark Ascending'.

10 'Tis Ireland gives England her soldiers, her generals too.

1885 Diana of the Crossways, ch.2.

11 Affairs of the world he could treat competently; he had a head for high politics and the management of men; the feminine half of the world was a confusion and a vexation to his intelligence, characterless; and one woman at last appearing decipherable, he fancied it must be owing to her possession of character, a thing prized the more in women because of his latent doubt of its existence.

1885 Percy Dacier's opinion of Diana. Diana of the Crossways, ch.28.

12 A wind sways in the pines,

And below

Not a breath of wild air;
Still as the mosses that glow
On the flooring and over the lines
Of the roots here and there.

The pine tree drops its dead;
They are quiet, as under the sea.

Overhead, overhead

Rushes life in a race,
As the clouds the clouds chase;

And we go,
And we drop like the fruits of the tree,

Even we,

Even so.

1888 A Reading of Earth, 'Dirge in the Woods'.

Mérimée, Prosper 1803–70

French novelist, Inspector-General of Historical Remains in France (1833) and a Senator (1853). He wrote many short stories and novels, including Colomba (1841) and Carmen (1847), as well as archaeological and historical dissertations and travel stories.

13 A colossal bore... I feel I could write something like it tomorrow, if my cat inspired me by walking over the piano.

1861 Of Wagner's opera Tannhäuser, after the disastrous première of its revised version at the Paris Opéra, 13 Mar. Quoted in Joanna Richardson La Vie Parisienne (1971), p.262.

Merton, Robert King 1910–2003

US sociologist, Columbia University (1941–2003). He was awarded the National Medal of Science in 1994.

22 The self-fulfilling prophecy is, in the beginning, a false definition of the situation evoking a new behavior which makes the originally false conception come true. The specious validity of the self-fulfilling prophecy perpetuates a reign of error.

1948 'The Self-Fulfilling Prophecy', in Social Theory and Social Structure (rev. edn, 1968), p.477. This is the first use of the phrase 'self-fulfilling prophecy'.

23 It would be a curious reading of the history of thought to suggest that the absence of disagreement testifies to a developing discipline.

1961 Defending internal disputes among sociologists. 'Now the Case for Sociology', in the New York Times Magazine, 16 Jul.

24 The sociologists of knowledge have been among those raising high the banner which reads: 'We don't know if what we say is true, but it is at least significant.' The sociologists and psychologists engaged in the study of public opinion and mass communications are most often found in the opposed camp of the empiricists... 'We don't know that what we say is particularly significant, but it is at least true.'

1968 Social Theory and Social Structure (rev. edn), pt.3, introduction.

Merwin, W(illiam) S(tanley) 1927–

Michelangelo full name Michelangelo Buonarroti

1475–1564

Italian painter, sculptor, architect, draughtsman and poet. Born near Florence, he is one of the most important figures of the Italian Renaissance.

32 I've finished that chapel I was painting. The Pope is quite satisfied.

1512 Letter written to his father after 18 months of painting the vault of the Sistine Chapel, quoted in Robert J Clements (ed) Michelangelo: A Self-Portrait (1968).

33 Nothing the greatest artist can conceive
That every marble block doth not confine Within itself; and only its design
The hand that follows intellect can achieve.

c.1538 Quoted in Robert J Clements (ed) Michelangelo: A Self-Portrait (1968).

34 Your Lordship sends to tell me that I should paint and have no doubts. I answer that painting is done with the brain, not the hands.

1542 Letter written to a Cardinal, Oct, collected in Creighton Gilbert (ed and trans) Complete Poems and Selected Letters of Michelangelo (1963).

35 I have only too much of a wife in this art of mine, who has always kept me in tribulation, and my children shall be the works I leave, which, even if they are naught, will live a while.

In response to a priest and friend who had said it was a pity he had not married and had children to whom he could leave his works. Attributed in Giorgio Vasari Lives of the Artists (1568).

- 36 They are so beautiful that they would grace the entrance to Paradise.

Of Ghiberti's doors for the Florence Baptistery. Quoted in Giorgio Vasari Lives of the Artists (1568).

- 37 In my opinion painting should be considered excellent in proportion as it approaches the effect of relief, while relief should be considered bad in proportion as it approaches the effect of painting.

Quoted in Robert J Clements (ed) Michelangelo: A Self-Portrait (1968).

Middleton, Thomas c. 1570–1627

English dramatist, who collaborated with Dekker, Webster, Rowley, Massinger, Beaumont and Fletcher and probably Shakespeare. His works include A Mad World, My Masters (1608), Women Beware Women (1620–7) and A Chaste Maid in Cheapside (published 1630). He also wrote pageants and masques for the city of London.

- 38 But you are dull, nothing comes nimbly from you; you dance like a plumber's daughter and deserve two thousand pound in lead to your marriage, and not in goldsmith's ware.

1613 A Chaste Maid in Cheapside (published 1630), act 1, sc.1.

- 39 Lie soft, sleep hard, drink wine, and eat good cheer.

1613 A Chaste Maid in Cheapside (published 1630), act 1, sc.1.

- 40 Nay, good sir, be not so violent; with speed I cannot render satisfaction

Unto the dear companion of my soul,
Virginity, whom I thus long have lived with,
And part with it so rude and suddenly.

Can such friends divide, never to meet again,
Without a solemn farewell?

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 1, sc.1.

- 41 Our eyes are sentinels unto our judgements
And should give certain judgement what they see;
But they are rash sometimes and tell us wonders
Of common things, which when our judgements find,
They can then check the eyes and call them blind.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 1, sc.1.

- 42 Now I know

She had rather wear my pelt tanned in a pair
Of dancing pumps.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 1, sc.1.

- 43 There's scarce a thing but is both loved and loathed.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 1, sc.1.

- 44 I shall run mad with joy.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 2, sc.2.

- 45 I'm up to the chin in heaven.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 2, sc.2.

- 46 Paper blushes not.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 3, sc.4.

- 47 Y'are the deed's creature.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 3, sc.4.

- 48 Beneath the stars, upon yon meteor

Ever hung my fate, 'mongst things corruptible;

I ne'er could pluck it from him. My loathing
Was prophet to the rest, but ne'er believed.

1622 The Changeling (with William Rowley), act 5, sc.3.

Midler, Bette 1945–

- 54 I know the law since I have spent my entire life in its flagrant disregard.

1972 The Life and Times of Judge Roy Bean.

Mill, James 1773–1836

Scottish philosopher, historian and economist. He was a friend of Jeremy Bentham and an enthusiastic proponent of Utilitarianism.

- 55 The government and the people are under a moral necessity of acting together; a free press compels them to bend to one another.

1811 In the Edinburgh Review, May–Aug.

Mill, John Stuart 1806–73

English empiricist philosopher, MP (1863–8) and reformer, a supporter of women's suffrage (Subjection of Women, 1869) and liberalism. His works include System of Logic (1843), Principles of Political Economy (1848), On Liberty (1859) and Utilitarianism (1863).

- 56 Unlike the Laws of Production, those of Distribution are partly of human institution, since the manner in which wealth is distributed in any given society, depends on the statutes or usages therein obtaining.
1848 Principles of Political Economy, with Some Applications to Social Philosophy.
- 57 A stationary condition of capital and population implies no stationary state of human improvement. There could be as much scope as ever for all kinds of mental culture, and moral and social progress.
1848 Principles of Political Economy, with Some Applications to Social Philosophy.
- 58 Happily, there is nothing in the laws of value which remains for the present or any future writer to clear up; the theory of the subject is complete.
1848 Principles of Political Economy, with Some Applications to Social Philosophy.
- 59 I am not charmed with the ideal of life held out by those who think that the normal state of human beings is that of struggling to get on. I know not why it should be a matter of congratulation that persons who are already richer than any one needs to be, should have doubled their means of consuming things which give little or no pleasure except as representative of wealth.
1848 Principles of Political Economy, with Some Applications to Social Philosophy.
- 60 The average condition of the people improving or deteriorating, depends upon whether population is advancing faster than improvement, or improvement than population.
1848 Principles of Political Economy, with Some Applications to Social Philosophy.
- 61 That the whole or any part of the education of the people should be in State hands, I go so far as anyone in deprecating... A general State education is a mere contrivance for molding people to be exactly like one another.
1856 Utilitarianism, Liberty and Representative Government.
- 62 The only purpose for which power can be rightfully exercised over any member of a civilized community, against his will, is to prevent harm to others.
1859 On Liberty.
- 63 A party of order or stability, and a party of progress or reform, are both necessary elements of a healthy state of political life.
1859 On Liberty.
- 64 Everyone who receives the protection of society owes a return for the benefit, and the fact of living in a society renders it indispensable that each should be bound to observe a certain line of conduct towards the rest. That conduct consists... in each person bearing his share of the labours and sacrifices incurred for defending the society or its members from injury and molestation.
1859 On Liberty.
- 65 If all mankind minus one were of one opinion, and only one person were of the contrary opinion, mankind would no more be justified in silencing that one person than he, if he had the power, would be justified in silencing mankind.
1859 On Liberty.
- 66 If the roads, the railways, the banks, the insurance offices, the great joint-stock companies, the universities, and the public charities, were all of them branches of government; if, in addition, the municipal corporations and local boards, with all that now devolves on them, became departments of the central administration; if the employees of all these different enterprises were appointed and paid by the government, and looked to the government for every rise in life; not all the freedom of the press and popular constitution of the legislature would make this or any other country free otherwise than in name.
1859 On Liberty.
- 67 The Conservatives, as being by the law of their existence the stupidest party.
1861 Considerations on Representative Government, ch.7, note.
- 68 The worth of the State, in the long run, is the worth of the individuals composing it.
1861 Considerations on Representative Government.
- 69 It is better to be a human being dissatisfied than a pig satisfied; better to be Socrates dissatisfied than a fool satisfied.
1863 Utilitarianism, ch.2.
- 70 The creed which accepts as the foundation of morals, Utility, or the Greatest Happiness Principle, holds that actions are right in proportion as they tend to promote happiness, wrong as they tend to produce the reverse of happiness.
1863 Utilitarianism, ch.2.
- 71 The sole evidence it is possible to produce that anything is desirable, is that people do actually desire it.
1863 Utilitarianism, ch.4.
- 72 If the universe had a beginning, its beginning, by the very condition of the cases, was supernatural; the laws of Nature cannot account for their own origin.
1865 Auguste Comte and Positivism.
- 73 It is always easy to find fault with a classification. There are a hundred ways of arranging any set of objects, and something may almost always be said against the best, and in favour of the worst of them. But the merits of a classification depend on the purposes to which it is instrumental.
1865 Auguste Comte and Positivism.
- 74 I never was a boy, never played at cricket; it is better to let Nature take her course.
1867 Autobiography.
- 75 It may be asserted without scruple, that no other class of dependants have had their character so entirely distorted from its natural proportions by their relations with their masters.
1869 The Subjection of Women, ch.1.
- 76 With equality of experience and of general faculties, a woman usually sees much more than a man of what is immediately before her.
1869 The Subjection of Women, ch.3.
- 77 Women cannot be expected to devote themselves to the emancipation of women, until men in considerable number are prepared to join with them in the undertaking.
1869 The Subjection of Women, ch.3.

78 Marriage is the only actual bondage known to our law.
There remain no legal slaves, except the mistress of every house.

1869 The Subjection of Women, ch.4.

79 The self-worship of the monarch, or of the feudal superior, is matched by the self-worship of the male.

1869 The Subjection of Women, ch.4.

Millay, Edna St Vincent 1892–1950

US poet. Despite her contemporary subject matter, she was a formalist and her poems show a strong technical skill. Her collections include The Harp-Weaver (1923), which won a Pulitzer Prize.

80 World, world, I cannot get thee close enough!
Long have I known a glory in it all,
But never knew like this;
Here such a pattern is
As stretcheth me apart. Lord, I do fear
Thou'st made the world too beautiful this year:
My soul is all but out of me—let fall
No burning leaf; pritheee, let no bird call.

1917 God's World.

81 My candle burns at both ends;
It will not last the night;
But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends—
It gives a lovely light.

82 Safe upon solid rock the ugly houses stand:
Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand.

1920 A Few Figs From Thistles, 'Second Fig'.

83 Death devours all lovely things;
Lesbia with her sparrow
Shares the darkness—presently
Every bed is narrow.

1921 Second April, 'Passer Mortuus Est'.

84 After all, my erstwhile dear,
My no longer cherished,
Need we say it was not love,
Now that love is perished?

1921 Second April, 'Passer Mortuus Est'.

85 What lips my lips have kissed, and where, and why,
I have forgotten, and what arms have lain
Under my head till morning; but the rain
Is full of ghosts tonight, that tap and sigh
Upon the glass and listen for reply

1923 Harp-Weaver and Other Poems, 'Sonnet 19: What lips my lips have kissed'.

86 Thus in the winter stands the lonely tree,
Nor knows what birds have vanished one by one,
Yet knows its boughs more silent than before

1923 Harp-Weaver and Other Poems, 'Sonnet 19: What lips my lips have kissed'.

87 I only know that summer sang in me
A little while, that in me sings no more.

88 Euclid alone
Has looked on Beauty bare. Fortunate they
Who, though once only and then but far away,
Have heard her massive sandal set on stone.

1923 Harp-Weaver and Other Poems, 'Sonnet 22: Euclid alone has looked on Beauty bare'.

89 Down, down, down into the darkness of the grave
Gently they go, the beautiful, the tender, the kind;
Quietly they go, the intelligent, the witty, the brave.
I know. But I do not approve. And I am not resigned.

1928 The Buck in the Snow, 'Dirge Without Music'.

90 It's not true that life is one damn thing after another—it's one damn thing over and over.

1930 Letter to Arthur Davison Ficke, 24 Oct.

91 Love is not all; it is not meat nor drink.

1931 Fatal Interview, title of poem.

92 Childhood is not from birth to a certain age and at a certain age

The child is grown, and puts away childish things.

Childhood is the kingdom where nobody dies.

Nobody that matters, that is.

1934 Wine From These Grapes, 'Childhood is the Kingdom where Nobody dies'.

Miller, Arthur 1915–

US playwright. Death of a Salesman (1949) won a Pulitzer Prize and established him as a leading contemporary playwright, dealing with the realities of family life. Subsequent plays have included After the Fall (1964), thought to have been inspired by his unhappy marriage to Marilyn Monroe.

93 A small man can be just as exhausted as a great man.

1949 Linda. Death of a Salesman, act 1.

94 Willie was a salesman. And for a salesman, there is no rock bottom to life... He's a man way out there in the blue, riding on a smile and a shoeshine. And when they start not smiling back—that's an earthquake.

1949 Charley. Death of a Salesman, 'Requiem'.

95 A salesman is got to dream, boy. It comes with the territory.

1949 Charley. Death of a Salesman, 'Requiem'.

96 They believed, in short, that they held in their steady hands the candle that would light the world. We have inherited this belief, and it has helped and hurt us.

1953 Of the settlers in Salem in 1692. The Crucible, act 1.

97 Spare me! You forget nothin' and forgive nothin'. Learn charity, woman. I have gone tiptoe in this house all seven month since she is gone. I have not moved from there to there without I think to please you, and still an everlasting funeral marches around your heart.

1953 Proctor to Elizabeth. The Crucible, act 2.

98 Theology, sir, is a fortress; no crack in a fortress may be accounted small.

1953 Hale. The Crucible, act 2.

99 Oh, no, the machine, the machine is necessary. A man comes into a great hotel and says, I am a messenger. Who is this man? He disappears walking, there is no noise, nothing. Maybe he will never come back, maybe he will never deliver the message. But a man who rides up on a great machine, this man is responsible, this man exists.
He will be given messages.

1955 Rodolpho. A View From the Bridge, act 1.

1 A genuine invention in the realm of ideas must first emerge as an abstruse and even partial concept... At first blush a new idea appears to be very close to insanity because to be new it must reverse important basic beliefs and assumptions which, in turn, have been

- institutionalized and are administered by one or another kind of priesthood with a vested interest in an old idea.
1958 The Collected Plays, 'Introduction, II'.
- 2 A good newspaper, I suppose, is a nation talking to itself.
1961 In the Observer, 26 Nov.
- 3 How few the days are that hold the mind in place; like a tapestry hanging on four or five hooks. Especially the day you stop becoming; the day you merely are. I suppose it's when the principles dissolve, and instead of the general gray of what ought to be you begin to see what is... The word 'Now' is like a bomb through the window, and it ticks.
1964 Quentin. After the Fall, act 1.
- 4 A suicide kills two people, Maggie. That's what it's for.
1964 Quentin. After the Fall, act 2.
- 5 Part of knowing who we are is knowing we are not someone else. And Jew is only the name we give to that stranger, the agony we cannot feel, the death we look at like a cold abstraction. Each man has his Jew; it is the other.
1964 Leduc. Incident at Vichy, act 1.
- 6 The concentration camp is the final expression of human separateness and its ultimate consequence. It is organized abandonment.
1966 Interview in the Paris Review, Summer.
- 7 Success, instead of giving freedom of choice, becomes a way of life.
1966 Interview in the Paris Review, Summer.

1991 Tom. The Ride Down Mount Morgan, act 1.
- 12 Witch-hunts are always spooked by women's horrifying sexuality awakened by the superstud Devil.
1998 On President Clinton's relationship with Monica Lewinsky. In the New York Times, 15 Oct.
- 13 Mr Clinton, according to Toni Morrison, the Nobel prize-winning novelist, is our first black President, the first to come from the broken home, the alcoholic mother, the under-the-bridge shadows of our ranking system.
1998 In the New York Times, 15 Oct.
- Miller, Henry Valentine 1891–1980
 US novelist. An exile in Paris in the 1930s, he later returned to live in California. His novels, notorious for sexual explicitness, include Tropic of Cancer (1934) and Tropic of Capricorn (1939), both at one time banned in the US.
- 14 The wallpaper with which the men of science have covered the world of reality is falling to tatters.
1934 The Tropic of Cancer.
- 15 This is not a book in the ordinary sense of the word. No, this is a prolonged insult, a gob of spit in the face of Art, a kick in the pants to God, Man, Destiny, Time, Love, Beauty... what you will. I am going to sing for you, a little off-key perhaps, but I will sing.
1934 Tropic of Cancer.

1936 Black Spring, 'Third or Fourth Day of Spring'.
- 21 I see America as a black curse upon the world. I see a long night settling in and that mushroom which has poisoned the world withering at the roots.
1936 Black Spring, 'Third or Fourth Day of Spring'.
- 22 What does it matter how one comes by the truth so long as one pounces upon it and lives by it.
1939 Tropic of Capricorn.
- 23 The artist does not tinker with the universe; he recreates it out of his own experience and understanding of life.
1939 The Cosmological Eye, 'An Open Letter to Surrealists Everywhere'.
- 24 Example moves the world more than doctrine.
1939 The Cosmological Eye, 'An Open Letter to Surrealists Everywhere'.
- 25 Life has no other discipline to impose, if we would but realize it, than to accept life unquestioningly... Every moment is a golden one for him who has the vision to recognize it as such.
1940 The World of Sex.
- 26 Morally, spiritually, we are fettered. What have we achieved in mowing down mountain ranges, harnessing the energy of mighty rivers, or moving whole populations about like chess pieces, if we ourselves remain the same restless, miserable, frustrated creatures we were before. To call such activity progress is utter delusion.
1940 The World of Sex.

- 1944 Sunday After The War, 'Reunion in Brooklyn'.
- 32 No man would set a word down on paper if he had the courage to live out what he believed in.
1945 Sexus, ch.1.
- 33 The world has not to be put in order: the world is order incarnate. It is for us to put ourselves in unison with this order.
1945 Sexus, ch.9.
- 34 The great joy of the artist is to become aware of a higher order of things, to recognize by the compulsive and spontaneous manipulation of his own impulses the resemblance between human creation and what is called 'divine' creation.
1945 Sexus, ch.9.
- 35 Imagination is the voice of daring. If there is anything Godlike about God it is that. He dared to imagine everything.
1945 Sexus, ch.14.
- 36 Nowhere have I encountered such a dull, monotonous fabric of life as here in America. Here boredom reaches its peak.
1945 The Air-Conditioned Nightmare, preface.
- 37 Man has demonstrated that he is master of everything—except his own nature.
1945 The Air-Conditioned Nightmare, 'With Edgar Varèse in the Gobi Desert'.
- 38 The world goes on because a few men in every generation believe in it utterly, accept it unquestioningly, underwrite it with their lives.
1945 The Air-Conditioned Nightmare, 'With Edgar Varèse in the Gobi Desert'.
- 39 Back of every creation, supporting it like an arch, is faith. Enthusiasm is nothing: it comes and goes. But if one believes, then miracles occur.
1945 The Air-Conditioned Nightmare, 'With Edgar Varèse in the Gobi Desert'.
- 40 The study of crime begins with the knowledge of oneself. All that you despise, all that you loathe, all that you reject, all that you condemn and seek to convert by punishment springs from you.
1945 The Air-Conditioned Nightmare, 'The Soul of Anaesthesia'.
- 41 Art is only a means to life, to the life more abundant. It is not in itself the life more abundant... In becoming an end it defeats itself.
1947 The Wisdom of the Heart, 'Reflections on Writing'.
- 42 I have always looked upon decay as being just as wonderful an expression of life as growth.
1947 The Wisdom of the Heart, 'Reflections on Writing'.
- 43 It is the creative nature of man which has refused to let him lapse back into that unconscious unity with life which characterizes the animal world from which he made his escape.
1947 The Wisdom of the Heart, 'Creative Death'.
- 44 The poem is the dream made flesh, in a two-fold sense: as work of art, and as life, which is a work of art.
1947 The Wisdom of the Heart, 'Creative Death'.
- 45 All growth is a leap in the dark, a spontaneous unpremeditated act without benefit of experience.
1947 The Wisdom of the Heart, 'The Absolute Collective'.

1957 Big Sur and the Oranges of Hieronymus Bosch, 'Paradise Lost'.
- 54 Obscenity is a cleansing process, whereas pornography only adds to the murk.
1962 Interview in the Paris Review, Summer.
- 55 The word 'civilization' to my mind is coupled with death. When I use the word, I see civilization as a crippling, thwarting thing, a stultifying thing... Civilization is the arteriosclerosis of culture.
1962 Interview in the Paris Review, Summer.
- 56 The moment you praise a book too highly you waken a resistance in your listener.
1957 The Books in My Life.
- 57 One has to be a lowbrow, a bit of a murderer, to be a politician; ready and willing to see people sacrificed, slaughtered, for the sake of an idea—whether a good one or a bad one.
In Malcolm Crowley (ed) Writers at Work (1958).

Miller, Jonathan Wolfe 1934–

British stage and opera director and writer, trained as a doctor.

- 58 In fact, I'm not really a Jew. Just Jew-ish. Not the whole hog you know.
1960 Beyond the Fringe, 'Real Class'.
- 59 The human species is, to some extent, the result of mistakes which arrested our development and prevented us from assuming the somewhat unglamorous form of our primitive ancestors.
1977 The Body in Question.
- 60 I wasn't driven into medicine by a social conscience but by rampant curiosity.
1983 In the Observer, 5 Feb.

Miller, William 1810–72

Scottish poet, born in Glasgow, known as the 'Laureate of the Nursery' for his children's rhymes, of which only 'Willie Winkie' is now remembered.

- 61 Wee Willie Winkie rins through the toun,
Up stairs and doun stairs in his nicht-gown,
Tirling at the window, crying at the lock,
'Are the weans in their bed, for it's now ten o'clock?'
1841 'Willie Winkie', stanza 1.

Millett, Kate (Katherine) née Murray 1934–

US feminist critic, activist and sculptor. Her PhD thesis was published as Sexual Politics (1970). Other works include the autobiographical Flying (1974), The Loony Bin Trip (1991) and Mother Millett (2001).

- 62 Patriarchy's chief institution is the family. It is both a mirror of and a connection with the larger society; a patriarchal unit within a patriarchal whole.
1970 Sexual Politics, ch.2, 'Theory of Sexual Politics'.
- 63 Aren't women prudes if they don't and prostitutes if they do?
1975 Speech at the Women Writers' Conference, Los Angeles, 22 Mar.

Milligan, Spike 1918–2002

Irish humorist.

- 64 Money couldn't buy friends but you got a better class of enemy.
1963 Puckoon, ch.6.
- 65 I am not going to thank anybody—because I did it all myself.
1994 Acceptance speech after being awarded the British Comedy Award for Lifetime Achievement.
- 66 Dúirt mé leat go raibh mé breoite.
2002 Gaelic inscription on his gravestone at Winchelsea, East Sussex. English translation: I told you I was ill.

Millman, Dan 1946–

US writer, who was world trampoline champion before meeting a remarkable gas station attendant called Socrates. He now writes self-help books and runs courses helping athletes and others make the most of their potential.

- 67 There are no ordinary moments.
1980 The Way of the Peaceful Warrior.

Mills, C(harles) Wright 1916–62

US sociologist, a professor at Columbia University.

- 68 No social study that does not come back to the problems of biography, of history and of their intersections within a society has completed its intellectual journey.
1959 The Sociological Imagination, ch.1.
- 69 In so far as the family as an institution turns women into darling little slaves and men into their chief providers and unweaned dependents, the problem of a satisfactory marriage remains incapable of purely private solution.
1959 The Sociological Imagination, ch.1.
- 70 If everything is caused by innumerable 'factors,' then we had best be very careful in any practical actions we undertake. We must deal with many details, and so it is advisable to proceed to reform this little piece and see what happens, before we reform that little piece too.
1959 The Sociological Imagination, ch.4.

Mills, Irving 1884–1985

US jazz manager, music publisher and lyricist.

- 71 It don't mean a thing
If it ain't got that swing.
1932 Song (music by Duke Ellington).

Mills, Sir John Lewis Ernest Watts 1908–

English actor, known for his stiff-upper-lip heroes in such films as In Which We Serve (1942), Scott of the Antarctic (1948) and The Colditz Story (1954). He won an Academy Award for his role in Ryan's Daughter (1970).

- 72 I played the young Earl of Dudley and was beheaded in the third reel—not, in my opinion, a moment too soon.
1980 Of his role in the 1936 film Tudor Rose. Up in the Clouds, Gentlemen Please.

Milne, A(Ian) A(lexander) 1882–1956

English writer. He was an editor at Punch and wrote comedies and light essays. His works for children, which he began writing for his son Christopher Robin, are When We Were Very Young (1924), Winnie-the-Pooh (1926), Now We Are Six (1927) and The House at Pooh Corner (1928).

- 73 It is impossible to win gracefully at chess. No man has yet said 'Mate!' in a voice which failed to sound to his opponent bitter, boastful and malicious.
1919 Not That It Matters.
- 74 They're changing guard at Buckingham Palace—
Christopher Robin went down with Alice.
Alice is marrying one of the guard.
'A soldier's life is terribly hard,'
Says Alice.
1924 When We Were Very Young, 'Buckingham Palace'.
- 75 Little Boy kneels at the foot of the bed,
Droops on the little hands, little gold head;
Hush! Hush! Whisper who dares!
Christopher Robin is saying his prayers.
1924 When We Were Very Young, 'Vespers'.
- 76 The King said
'Butter, eh?'
And bounced out of bed.
1924 When We Were Very Young, 'The King's Breakfast'.
- 77 I have just been thinking, and I have come to a very important decision. These are the wrong sort of bees.
1926 Winnie-the-Pooh, ch.1.
- 78 Would you read a Sustaining Book, such as would help and comfort a Wedged Bear in Great Tightness?
1926 Pooh, stuck in the entrance to Rabbit's house after eating too much honey. Winnie-the-Pooh, ch.2.
- 79 I am a Bear of Very Little Brain, and long words Bother me.
1926 Winnie-the-Pooh, ch.4.
- 80 'Help, help!' cried Piglet, 'a Heffalump, a Horrible Heffalump!' and he scampered off as hard as he could, still crying out, 'Help, help, a Horrible Hoffalump! Hoff, Hoff, a Hellible Horralump! Holl, Holl, a Hoffable Hellerump!'
1926 Winnie-the-Pooh, ch.5.
- 81 'I ought to say,' explained Pooh as they walked down to the shore of the island, 'that it isn't just an ordinary sort of boat. Sometimes it's a Boat, and sometimes it's more of an Accident. It all depends.'

'Depends on what?'

'On whether I'm on the top of it or underneath it.'

1926 Winnie-the-Pooh, ch.9.

82 The more it

SNOWS-tiddely-pom,

The more it

GOES-tiddely-pom

The more it

GOES-tiddely-pom

On Snowing.

1928 The House at Pooh Corner, ch.1.

83 'It's snowing still,' said Eeyore gloomily.

'So it is.'

'And freezing.'

'Is it?'

'Yes,' said Eeyore. 'However,' he said, brightening up a little, 'we haven't had an earthquake lately.'

1928 The House at Pooh Corner, ch.1.

84 But whatever his weight in pounds, shillings, and ounces,
He always seems bigger because of the bounces.

1928 Pooh's song about Tigger. The House at Pooh Corner, ch.2.

85 I could spend a happy morning

Seeing Roo,

I could spend a happy morning

Being Pooh,

For it doesn't seem to matter,

If I don't get any fatter

(And I don't get any fatter),

What I do.

1928 The House at Pooh Corner, ch.4.

86 Then he dropped two in at once, and leant over the bridge to see which of them would come out first; and one of them did; but as they were both the same size, he didn't know if it was the one which he wanted to win, or the other one. So the next time he dropped one big one and one little one, and the big one came out first, which was what he had said it would do, and the little one came out last, which was what he had said it would do, so he had won twice... And that was the beginning of the game called Poohsticks.

1928 The House at Pooh Corner, ch.6.

87 But what care I? It's the game that calls me—

Simply to be on the field of play;

How can it matter what fate befalls me,

With ten good fellows and one good day!

Quoted in Helen Exley Cricketer Quotations (1992).

88 Golf is so popular simply because it is the best game in the world at which to be bad.

Milner, Alfred, 1st Viscount Milner 1854–1925

English statesman. He held a succession of top administrative posts, including High Commissioner for South Africa during the Boer Wars, Secretary for War (1918–19) and Colonial Secretary (1921). He recommended virtual independence for Egypt.

89 If we believe a thing to be bad, and if we have a right to prevent it, it is our duty to try to prevent it and damn the consequences.

1909 On the blocking by the Conservative majority in the House of Lords of the Liberal Government's budget. Speech at Glasgow, Nov.

Milosevic, Slobodan 1941–

Serbian politician. He became President of Serbia in 1988. In 1996 he was re-elected amidst furious accusations of electoral rigging and from 1998 onwards oversaw Serb military incursions into the province of Kosovo. This led to NATO air strikes and the establishment of a NATO-led peacekeeping force in the province, forcing a Serb withdrawal. He was defeated at the polls in 2000 by opposition candidate Vojislav Kostunica. He was subsequently indicted for crimes against humanity by the International Criminal Tribunal in the Hague and arrested in 2001 to face trial.

90 Kosovo is not a part of Serbia. It is the very heart of Serbia.

Quoted in Dusko Doder and Louise Branson Milosevic: Portrait of a Tyrant (1999).

91 I'm the Ayatollah Khomeini of Serbia. The Serbs will follow me no matter what!

Quoted in Dusko Doder and Louise Branson Milosevic: Portrait of a Tyrant (1999).

Milton, John 1608–74

English poet and controversial pamphleteer, official apologist for the Commonwealth. Blind from 1652, he devoted himself to poetry after the Restoration. His best-known work is the religious epic Paradise Lost (1667), followed by Paradise Regained and Samson Agonistes (both 1671).

92 This is the month, and this the happy morn
Wherein the son of Heaven's eternal King,
Of wedded maid and virgin mother born,
Our great redemption from above did bring.

1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 1.

93 It was the winter wild

While the Heaven born child

All meanly wrapped in the rude manger lies;

Nature in awe to him

Had doffed her gaudy trim

With her great Master so to sympathize;

It was no season then for her

To wanton with the sun, her lusty paramour.

1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 3.

94 But peaceful was the night

Wherein the Prince of Light

His reign of peace upon the earth began:

The winds, with wonder whist,

Smoothly the waters kissed,

Whispering new joys to the mild ocean,

Who now hath quite forgot to rave,

While birds of calm sit brooding on the charmed wave.

1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 3.

95 The stars with deep amaze

Stand fixed in steadfast gaze.

1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 6.

96 Nature that heard such sound

Beneath the hollow round

Of Cynthia's seat, the airy region thrilling,

Now was almost won

To think her part was done,

And that her reign had here its last fulfilling;

She knew such harmony alone

- Could hold all heaven and earth in happier union.
1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 10.
- 97 Ring out, ye crystal spheres,
 Once bless our human ears
 (If ye have power to touch our senses so),
 And let your silver chime
 Move in melodious time,
 And let the bass of Heaven's deep organ blow;
 And with your ninefold harmony
 Make up full consort to th'angelic symphony.
1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 13.
- 98 For if such holy song
 Enwrap our fancy long,
 Time will run back, and fetch the age of gold,
 And speckled vanity
 Will sicken soon and die.
1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 14.
- 99 The oracles are dumb;
 No voice or hideous hum
 Runs through the archèd roof in words deceiving.
1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 19.
- 1 But see! the Virgin blessed
 Hath laid her Babe to rest.
 Time is our tedious song should here have ending.
1629 'On the Morning of Christ's Nativity', 'The Hymn', stanza 27.
- 2 What needs my Shakespeare for his honoured bones
 The labour of an age in pilèd stones,
 Or that his hallowed relics should be hid
 Under a star-y-pointing pyramid?
 Dear son of memory, great heir of fame,
 What need'st thou such weak witness of thy name?
 Thou in our wonder and astonishment
 Hast built thyself a livelong monument.
1630 'On Shakespeare'.
- 3 And so sepulchred in such pomp dost lie,
 That kings for such a tomb would wish to die.
1630 'On Shakespeare'.
- 4 Hence loathèd Melancholy,
 Of Cerberus and blackest midnight born,
 In Stygian cave forlorn
 'Mongst horrid shapes, and shrieks, and sights unholy,
 Find out some uncouth cell,
 Where brooding Darkness spreads his jealous wings,
 And the night-raven sings.
c.1631 L'Allegro, opening lines.
- 5 The frolic wind that breathes the spring,
 Zephyr with Aurora playing,
 As he met her once a-Maying,
 There on beds of violets blue,
 And fresh-blown roses washed in dew,
 Filled her with a daughter fair,
 So buxom, blithe, and debonair.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.18–24. The 'daughter fair' is Euphrosyne, or Mirth, one of the Three Graces.
- 6 Come, and trip it as ye go
 On the light fantastic toe.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.33–4.
- 7 While the cock with lively din
 Scatters the rear of darkness thin,
 And to the stack or the barn door,
 Stoutly struts his dames before.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.49–52.
- 8 Straight mine eye hath caught new pleasures
 Whilst the landscape round it measures,
 Russet lawns and fallows grey,
 Where the nibbling flocks do stray,
 Mountains on whose barren breast
 The labouring clouds do often rest;
 Meadows trim with daisies pied,
 Shallow brooks, and rivers wide.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.69–76.
- 9 Then to the spicy nut-brown ale.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.100.
- 10 Towered cities pleased us then,
 And the busy hum of men,
 Where throngs of knights and barons bold
 In weeds of peace high triumphs hold,
 With store of ladies, whose bright eyes
 Rain influence, and judge the prize
 Of wit or arms, while both contend
 To win her grace, whom all commend.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.117–24.
- 11 Such sights as youthful poets dream
 On summer eves by haunted stream.
c.1631 L'Allegro, l.129–30.
- 12 Hence vain deluding Joys,
 The brood of Folly without father bred,
 How little you bestead,
 Or fill the fixèd mind with all your toys;
 Dwell in some idle brain,
 And fancies fond with gaudy shapes possess,
 As thick and numberless
 As the gay motes that people the sunbeams.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, opening lines.
- 13 But hail thou Goddess sage and holy,
 Hail, divinest Melancholy,
 Whose saintly visage is too bright
 To hit the sense of human sight,
 And therefore to our weaker view
 O'erlaid with black, staid Wisdom's hue.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, l.11–16.
- 14 There held in holy passion still,
 Forget thyself to marble.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, l.37–8.
- 15 Sweet bird that shunn'st the noise of folly,
 Most musical, most melancholy!
c.1631 Of the nightingale. Il Penseroso, l.61–2.
- 16 And missing thee, I walk unseen
 On the dry smooth-shaven green,
 To behold the wandering moon,
 Riding near her highest noon,
 Like one that had been led astray
 Through the heaven's wide pathless way;
 And oft as if her head she bowed,
 Stooping through a fleecy cloud.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, l.65–72.
- 17 Where glowing embers through the room
 Teach light to counterfeit a gloom,
 Far from all resort of mirth.
 Save the cricket on the hearth.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, l.79–82.
- 18 Or bid the soul of Orpheus sing

- Such notes as, warbled to the string,
Drew iron tears down Pluto's cheek,
And made Hell grant what Love did seek.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, 1.105–8.
- 19 Where more is meant than meets the ear.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, 1.120.
- 20 Till civil-suited Morn appear,
Not tricked and frowned as she was wont
With the Attic boy to hunt,
But kerchiefed in a comely cloud.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, 1.122–5.
- 21 There in close covert by some brook,
Where no profaner eye may look,
Hide me from day's garish eye,
While the bee with honied thigh,
That at her flowery work doth sing,
And the waters murmuring
And such consort as they keep,
Entice the dewy-feathered Sleep.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, 1.139–46.
- 22 But let my due feet never fail
To walk the studious cloister's pale,
And love the high embowèd roof,
With antic pillars massy proof,
And storied windows richly dight
Casting a dim religious light.
c.1631 Il Penseroso, 1.155–60.
- 23 And may at last my weary age
Find out the peaceful hermitage,
The hairy gown and mossy cell,
Where I may sit and rightly spell
Of every star that heaven doth shew,
And every herb that sips the dew,
Till old experience to attain
To something like prophetic strain.

- 24 Such sweet compulsion doth in music lie.
1633 Arcades.
- 25 Before the starry threshold of Jove's court
My mansion is, where those immortal shapes
Of bright aerial spirits live inspher'd
In regions mild of calm and serene air,
Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot,
Which men call earth.
1634 Comus, A Mask, opening lines.
- 26 All other parts remaining as they were,
And they, so perfect in their misery,
Not once perceive their foul disfigurement,
But boast themselves more comely than before
And all their friends, and native home forget
To roll with pleasure in a sensual sty.
1634 Of Odysseus's men changed to beasts by Circe. Comus, A Mask, 1.72–7.
- 27 The star that bids the shepherd fold,
Now the top of heav'n doth hold,
And the gilded car of day,
His glowing axle doth allay

My dazzling spells into the spongy air.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.153–4.
- 31 A thousand fantasies
Begin to throng into my memory
Of calling shapes, and beckoning shadows dire,
And airy tongues, that syllable men's names
On sands, and shores, and desert wildernesses.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.204–8.
- 32 These thoughts may startle well, but not astound
The virtuous mind, that ever walks attended
By a strong siding champion conscience.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.209–11.
- 33 Sweet Echo, sweetest nymph, that liv'st unseen
Within thy airy shell
By slow meander's margent green,
And in the violet-embroidered vale.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.230–3.
- 34 How sweetly did they float upon the wings
Of silence, through the empty-vaulted night
At every fall smoothing the raven down
Of darkness till it smil'd.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.248–51.
- 35 Virtue could see to do what Virtue would
By her own radiant light, though sun and moon
Were in the flat sea sunk. And Wisdom's self
Oft seeks to sweet retired solitude,
Where with her best nurse contemplation
She plumes her feathers, and lets grow her wings
That in the various bustle of resort
Were all too ruffl'd, and sometimes impair'd.
He that has light within his own clear breast
May sit i' the centre, and enjoy bright day,
But he that hides a dark soul, and foul thoughts
Benighted walks under the midday sun;
Himself is his own dungeon.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.372–83.
- 36 Yet where an equal poise of hope and fear
Does arbitrate the event, my nature is
That I incline to hope, rather than fear,
And gladly banish squint suspicion.

And took in strains that might create a soul.
Under the ribs of Death.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.560–2.
- 41 Thou canst not touch the freedom of my mind
With all thy charms, although this corporal rind
Thou hast immanac'd, while heav'n sees good.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.663–5.

- 42 The unexempt condition
By which all mortal frailty must subsist,
Refreshment after toil, ease after pain.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.684–6.
- 43 But now my task is smoothly done,
I can fly, or I can run
Quickly to the green earth's end,
Where the bow'd welkin slow doth bend,
And from thence can soar as soon
To the corners of the Moon.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.1011–16.
- 44 Mortals that would follow me,
Love virtue, she alone is free,
She can teach ye how to climb
Higher than the spherie chime;
Or if virtue feeble were,
Heav'n itself would stoop to her.
1634 Comus, A Mask, 1.1017–22.
- 45 Yet once more, O ye laurels, and once more
Ye myrtles brown, with ivy never-sere
I come to pluck your berries harsh and crude,
And with forc'd fingers rude,
Shatter your leaves before the mellowing year.
Bitter constraint, and sad occasion dear,
Compels me to disturb your season due
For Lycidas is dead, dead ere his prime Young Lycidas, and hath not left his peer.
1637 Lycidas, opening lines.
- 46 For we were nursed upon the self-same hill,
Fed the same flock; by fountain, shade, and rill.
1637 Lycidas, 1.23–4.
- 47 But O the heavy change, now thou art gone,
Now thou art gone, and never must return!
Thee shepherd, thee the woods, and desert caves,
With wild thyme and the gadding vine o'ergrown,
And all their echoes mourn.
1637 Lycidas, 1.37–41.
- 48 Where were ye Nymphs when the remorseless deep
Clos'd o'er the head of your lov'd Lycidas?
1637 Lycidas, 1.50–1.
- 49 Alas! What boots it with uncessant care
To tend the homely slighted Shepherd's trade,
And strictly meditate the thankless muse;
Were it not better done as others use,
To sport with Amaryllis in the shade,
Or with the tangles of Neaera's hair?
Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (That last infirmity of noble mind)
To scorn delights, and live laborious days;
But the fair guerdon when we hope to find,
And think to burst out into sudden blaze,
Comes the blind Fury with th'abhorred shears,
And slits the thin-spun life.
1637 Lycidas, 1.64–76.
- 50 Fame is no plant that grows on mortal soil.
1637 Lycidas, 1.78.
- 51 Blind mouths! that scarce themselves know how to hold
A sheep-hook.
1637 Lycidas, 1.119–20.
- 52 They are sped;
And when they list, their lean and flashy songs
Grate on their scrannel Pipes of wretched straw,
The hungry sheep look up, and are not fed,
But swollen with wind, and the rank mist they draw,
Rot inwardly, and foul contagion spread,
Besides what the grim wolf with privy paw
Daily devours apace, and nothing said,
But that two-handed engine at the door,
Stands ready to smite once, and smite no more.
1637 Lycidas, 1.122–31.
- 53 Ye valleys low where the mild whispers use,
Of shades and wanton winds, and gushing brooks,
On whose fresh lap the swart star sparely looks,
Throw hither all your quaint enameled eyes,
That on the green turf such the honeyed showers,
And purple all the ground with vernal flowers.
1637 Lycidas, 1.136–41.
- 54 Bring the rathe primrose that forsaken dies,
The tufted crow-toe, and pale gessamine,
The white pink, and the pansy freaked with jet,
The glowing violet,
The musk-rose, and the well attir'd woodbine,
With cowslips wan that hang the pensive head,
And every flower that sad embroidery wears:
Bid amaranthus all his beauty shed,
And daffadillies fill their cups with tears,
To strew the laureate hearse where Lycid lies.
1637 Lycidas, 1.142–51. rathe = early.
- 55 For to interpose a little ease,
Let our frail thoughts dally with false surmise.
1637 Lycidas, 1.152–3.
- 56 Look homeward Angel, now, and melt with ruth.
1637 Lycidas, 1.163. The phrase was used by Thomas Clayton Wolfe for his 1929 novel, Look Homeward Angel.
- 57 Weep no more, woeful shepherds, weep no more,
For Lycidas your sorrow is not dead,
Sunk though he be beneath the watery floor,
So sinks the day-star in the ocean bed,
And yet anon repairs his drooping head,
And tricks his beams, and with new spangled ore,
Flames in the forehead of the morning sky:
So Lycidas sunk low, but mounted high,
Through the dear might of Him that walked the waves.
1637 Lycidas, 1.165–73.
- 58 There entertain him all the saints above,
In solemn troops, and sweet societies
That sing, and singing in their glory move,
And wipe the tears for ever from his eyes.
1637 Lycidas, 1.178–81.
- 59 At last he rose, and twitched his mantle blue:
Tomorrow to fresh woods, and pastures new.
1637 Lycidas, 1.192–3.
- 60 This manner of writing wherein knowing myself inferior to myself... I have the use, as I may account it, but of my

- 68 Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 69 And though all the winds of doctrine were let loose to play upon the earth, so Truth be in the field, we do injuriously by licensing and prohibiting to misdoubt her strength. Let her and Falsehood grapple; who ever knew Truth put to the worse in a free and open encounter?
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 70 I cannot praise a fugitive and cloistered virtue, unexercised and unbreathed, that never sallies out and sees her adversary, but slinks out of the race where that immortal garland is to be run for, not without dust and heat. Assuredly we bring not innocence into the world, we bring impurity much rather; that which purifies us is trial, and trial is by what is contrary.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 71 For who knows not that Truth is strong next to the Almighty? She needs no policies, nor stratagems, nor licensings to make her victorious.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 72 That virtue therefore which is but a youngling in the contemplation of evil, and knows not the utmost that vice promises to her followers, and rejects it, is but a blank virtue, not a pure; her whiteness is but an excremental whiteness.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 73 Since therefore the knowledge and survey of vice is in this world so necessary to the constituting of human virtue, and the scanning of error to the confirmation of truth, how can we more safely, and with less danger, scout into the regions of sin and falsity than by reading all manner of tractates and hearing all manner of reason? And this is the benefit which may be had of books promiscuously read.

- 77 We ourselves esteem not of that obedience, or love, or gift, which is of force: God therefore let him free, set before him a provoking object, ever almost in his eyes; herein consisted his merit, herein the right of his reward, the praise of his abstinence.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 78 Though ye take from a covetous man all his treasure, he has yet one jewel left: ye cannot bereave him of his covetousness.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 79 Truth indeed came once into the world with her divine Master, and was a perfect shape most glorious to look on: but... a wicked race of deceivers... took the virgin Truth, hewed her lovely form into a thousand pieces, and scattered them to the four winds. From that time ever since, the sad friends of Truth, such as durst appear, imitating the careful search that Isis made for the mangled body of Osiris, went up and down gathering up limb by limb, still as they could find them. We have not yet found them all... nor ever shall do, till her Master's second coming; he shall bring together every joint and member, and shall mould them into an immortal feature of loveliness and perfection.

- 80 Lords and Commons of England, consider what nation it is whereof ye are, and whereof ye are the governors: a nation not slow and dull, but of a quick, ingenious, and piercing spirit, acute to invent, subtle and sinewy to discourse, not beneath the reach of any point the highest that human capacity can soar to.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 81 God is decreeing to begin some new and great period in his Church, even to the reforming of Reformation itself. What does he then but reveal Himself to his servants, and as his manner is, first to his Englishmen?
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 82 Methinks I see in my mind a noble and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks: methinks I see her as an eagle mewing her mighty youth, and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam; purging and unscaling her long-abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance; while the whole noise of timorous birds, with those also that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means.
1644 Areopagitica: a speech for the liberty of unlicensed printing.
- 83 I did but prompt the age to quit their clogs
 By the known rules of ancient liberty,
 When strait a barbarous noise environs me
 Of owls and cuckoos, asses, apes and dogs.

- 85 No man who knows aught, can be so stupid to deny that all men naturally were born free.
1648–9 The Tenure of Kings and Magistrates.
- 86 The power of kings and magistrates is nothing else but what is only derivative; transformed and committed to them in trust from the people to the common good of them all, in whom the power yet remains fundamentally, and cannot be taken from them without a violation of their natural birthright.
1648–9 The Tenure of Kings and Magistrates.
- 87 Yet much remains
To conquer still; peace hath her victories
No less renowned than war, new foes arise
Threatening to bind our souls with secular chains:
Help us to save free conscience from the paw
Of hireling wolves whose gospel is their maw.

- 88 When I consider how my light is spent,
E're half my days, in this dark world and wide,
And that one talent which is death to hide,
Lodg'd with me useless, though my soul more bent
To serve therewith my Maker, and present
My true account, least he returning chide,
Doth God exact day-labour, light denied,
I fondly ask; But patience to prevent
That murmur, soon replies, God doth not need
Either man's work or his own gifts, who best
Bear his mild yoke, they serve him best, his state
Is kingly. Thousands at his bidding speed
And post o'er land and ocean without rest:
They also serve who only stand and wait.

Before all temples th'upright heart and pure,
Instruct me, for thou know'st; thou from the first
Wast present, and with mighty wings outspread
Dove-like sat'st brooding on the vast abyss
And mad'st it pregnant: what in me is dark
Illumine, what is low raise and support;
That to the highth of this great argument
I may assert Eternal Providence,
And justify the ways of God to men.

- 18 Satan exalted sat, by merit raised
To that bad eminence; and from despair
Thus high uplifted beyond hope.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.5–7.
- 19 Where there is then no good
For which to strive, no strife can grow up there
From faction; for none sure will claim in hell
Precedence, none, whose portion is so small
Of present pain, that with ambitious mind
Will covet more.
1665 Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.30–5.
- 20 His trust was with the eternal to be deemed Equal in strength, and rather than be less
Cared not to be at all; with that care lost
Went all his fear.
1665 Of Moloch. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.46–9.
- 21 He seemed
For dignity composed and high exploit:
But all was false and hollow; though his tongue
Dropped manna, and could make the worse appear
The better reason.
1665 Of Belial. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.110–14.
- 22 To be no more; sad cure; for who would lose,
Though full of pain, this intellectual being,
Those thoughts that wander through eternity,
To perish rather, swallowed up and lost
In the wide womb of uncreated night,
Devoid of sense and motion?
1665 Belial. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.146–51.
- 23 Thus Belial with words clothed in reason's garb
Counselled ignoble ease, and peaceful sloth,
Not peace.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.226–8.
- 24 Our torments also may in length of time
Become our elements, these piercing fires
As soft as now severe, our temper changed
Into their temper.
1665 Mammon. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.274–7.
- 25 There is a place
(If ancient and prophetic fame in heav'n Err not) another world, the happy seat
Of some new race called Man.
1665 Beelzebub. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.345–8.
- 26 This would surpass
Common revenge.
1665 Beelzebub speaking of the plan to tempt Man away from God. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.370–1.
- 27 When his darling sons
Hurled headlong to partake with us, shall curse
Their frail original, and faded bliss,
Faded so soon.
1665 Beelzebub. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.373–6.
- 28 Who shall tempt with wand'ring feet
The dark unbottomed infinite abyss
And through the palpable obscure find out
His uncouth way, or spread his aery flight
Upborne with indefatigable wings
Over the vast abrupt, ere he arrive
The happy isle.
1665 Beelzebub. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.404–10.
- 29 Long is the way
And hard, that out of hell leads up to light.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.432–3.
- 30 O shame to men! Devil with devil damned
Firm concord holds, men only disagree
Of creatures rational.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.496–8.
- 31 Meanwhile the Adversary of God and man,
Satan with thoughts inflamed of highest design,
Puts on swift wings, and towards the gates of hell
Explores his solitary flight.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.629–32.
- 32 Chaos umpire sits,
And by decision more embroils the fray
By which he reigns; next him high arbiter
Chance governs all.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.681–4.
- 33 Whence and what art thou, execrable shape?
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.681.
- 34 A race of upstart creatures.
1665 Satan speaks to his daughter, Sin, of Man. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, 1.834.
- 35 And fast by hanging in a golden chain

- This pendent world.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.2, l.1051–2.
- 36 Hail holy Light, offspring of Heav'n first-born.
 Bright effluence of bright essence increate.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.5–6.
- 37 Thee I revisit safe,
 And feel thy sovran vital lamp; but thou
 Revisit'st not these eyes, that roll in vain
 To find thy piercing ray, and find no dawn;
 So thick a drop serene hath quenched their orbs,
 Or dim suffusion veiled.
1665 Of his blindness. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.22–7.
- 38 Thus with the year
 Seasons return, but not to me returns
 Day, or the sweet approach of ev'n or morn,
 Or sight of vernal bloom, or summer's rose,
 Or flocks, or herds, of human face divine;
 But cloud instead, and ever-during dark
 Surrounds me, from the cheerful ways of men
 Cut off, and for the book of knowledge fair
 Presented with a universal blank
 Of nature's works to me expunged and razed,
 And wisdom at one entrance quite shut out.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.140–50.
- 39 Our two first parents, yet the only two
 Of mankind, in the happy garden placed,
 Reaping immortal fruits of joy and love,
 Uninterrupted joy, unrivalled love
 In blissful solitude.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.65–9.
- 40 So bent he seems
 On desperate revenge, that shall redound
 Upon his own rebellious head.
1665 Of Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.84–6.
- 41 Whose fault?
 Whose but his own? Ingrate, he had of me
 All he could have; I made him just and right,
 Sufficient to have stood, though free to fall.
1665 God speaking of Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.96–9.
- 42 Freely they stood who stood, and fell who fell.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.102.
- 43 I formed them free, and free they must remain,
 Till they enthral themselves
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.124–5.
- 44 And I will place within them as a guide
 My umpire conscience, whom if they will hear
 Light after light well used they shall attain,
 And to the end persisting, safe arrive.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.194–7.
- 45 Die he or justice must.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.210.
- 46 Behold me then, me for him, life for life
 I offer, on me let thine anger fall;
 Account me man; I for his sake will leave
 Thy bosom, and this glory next to thee
 Freely put off, and for him lastly die
 Well pleased, on me let Death wreck all his rage.
1665 Christ speaking to God. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.236–241.
- 47 O thou
 My sole complacence!
1665 God speaking to Christ. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.275–6.
- 48 So on this windy sea of land, the Fiend
 Walked up and down alone bent on his prey.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.440–1.
- 49 Into a limbo large and broad, since called
 The Paradise of Fools, to few unknown.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.495–6.
- 50 The pure marble air.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.564.
- 51 For neither man nor angel can discern Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks
 Invisible, except to God alone,
 By his permissive will, through heav'n and earth.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.3, l.681–4.
- 52 Horror and doubt distract
 His troubled thoughts, and from the bottom stir
 The hell within him, for within him hell
 He brings, and round about him, nor from hell
 One step no more than from himself can fly.
1665 Of Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.18–22.
- 53 Now conscience wakes despair
 That slumbered, wakes the bitter memory
 Of what he was, what is, and what must be Worse; of worse deeds worse sufferings must ensue.
1665 Of Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.23–6.
- 54 A grateful mind
 By owing owes not, but still pays, at once
 Indebted and discharged; what burden then?
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.55–7.
- 55 Which way I fly is hell; myself am hell;
 And in the lowest deep a lower deep
 Still threat'ning to devour me opens wide,
 To which the hell I suffer seems a heav'n.
1665 Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.75–8.
- 56 The lower still I fall, only supreme
 In misery; such joy ambition finds.
1665 Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.91–2.
- 57 For never can true reconciliation grow
 Where wounds of deadly hate have pierced so deep.
1665 Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.98–9.
- 58 So clomb this first grand thief into God's fold:
 So since into his church lewd hirelings climb.
 Thence up he flew, and on the Tree of Life,
 The middle tree and highest there that grew,
 Sat like a cormorant.
1665 Of Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.192–6.
- 59 Out of the fertile ground he caused to grow
 All trees of noblest kind for sight, smell, taste;
 And all amid them stood the Tree of Life,
 High eminent, blooming ambrosial fruit
 Of vegetable gold; and next to life
 Our death the Tree of Knowledge grew fast by,
 Knowledge of good bought dear by knowing ill.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.218–24.
- 60 Flowers of all hue, and without thorn the rose.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, l.256.
- 61 Two of far nobler shape erect and tall,

- God-like erect, with native honor clad
In naked majesty seemed lords of all.
1665 Of Adam and Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.288–90.
- 62 Though both
Not equal, as their sex not equal seemed;
For contemplation he and valour formed,
For softness she and sweet attractive grace,
He for God only, she for God in him.
1665 Of Adam and Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.295–9.
- 63 Yielded with coy submission, modest pride,
And sweet reluctant amorous delay.
1665 Of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.310–11.
- 64 Ah gentle pair, ye little think how nigh
Your change approaches, when all these delights
Will vanish and deliver ye to woe,
More woe, the more your taste is now of joy.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.366–9.
- 65 Sole partner and sole part of all these joys.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.411.
- 66 These two
Emparadised in one another's arms
The happier Eden, shall enjoy their fill
Of bliss on bliss.
1665 Of Adam and Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.505–8.
- 67 Man hath his daily work of body or mind
Appointed, which declares his dignity,
And the regard of Heav'n on all his ways.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.618–20.
- 68 God is thy law, thou mine: to know no more
Is woman's happiest knowledge and her praise.
With thee conversing I forget all time.
1665 Eve to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.637–9.
- 69 Millions of spiritual creatures walk the earth
Unseen, both when we wake, and when we sleep.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.677–8.
- 70 Iris all hues, roses, and jessamine Reared high their flourished heads between, and wrought
Mosaic; underfoot the violet,
Crocus, and hyacinth with rich inlay
Brodered the ground, more coloured than with stone
Of costliest emblem: other creature here
Beast, bird, insect, or worm durst enter none;
Such was their awe of man.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.698–705.
- 71 Nor turned I ween
Adam from his fair spouse, nor Eve the rites
Mysterious of connubial love refused:
Whatever hypocrites austere talk
Of purity and place and innocence,
Defaming as impure what God declares
Pure, and commands to some, leaves free to all.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.741–7.
- 72 Hail, wedded love, mysterious law, true source
Of human offspring, sole propriety
In Paradise of all things common else.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.750–2.
- 73 Him there they found
Squat like a toad, close at the ear of Eve.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.799–800.
- 74 When I am thy captive talk of chains,
Proud limitary cherub.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.970–1.
- 75 But wherefore thou alone? Wherefore with thee
Came not all hell broke loose?
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.4, 1.917–18.
- 76 My fairest, my espoused, my latest found,
Heav'n's last best gift, my ever new delight.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.18–19.
- 77 Best image of myself and dearer half.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.95.
- 78 Nor jealousy
Was understored, the injured lover's hell.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.449–50.
- 79 In contemplation of created things
By steps we may ascend to God.
1665 Adam to Raphael. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.511–12.
- 80 God made thee perfect, not immutable.
1665 Raphael to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.524.
- 81 Hear all ye angels, progeny of light,
Thrones, dominations, principedoms, virtues, powers.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.600–1.
- 82 All seemed well pleased, all seemed, but were not all.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.5, 1.616.
- 83 Servant of God, well done, well hast thou fought
The better fight.
1665 God to his faithful angels. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.29–30.
- 84 Proud, art thou met?
1665 Abdiel to Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.131.
- 85 This is servitude,
To serve th' unwise, or him who hath rebelled
Against his worthy, as thine now serve thee,
Thyself not free, but to thyself enthralled.
1665 Abdiel to Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.178–81.
- 86 But pain is perfect misery, the worst
Of evils, and excessive, overturns
All patience.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.461–3.
- 87 On war and mutual slaughter bent.
1665 Of Mankind. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.506.
- 88 Headlong themselves they threw
Down from the verge of heaven, eternal wrath
Burnt after them to the bottomless pit.
1665 Pursued to the wall of Heaven by the Messiah, Satan and his rebelling angels fall to their punishment as the wall opens. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.6, 1.864–6.
- 89 Standing on earth, not rapt above the pole,
More safe I sing with mortal voice, unchanged
To hoarse or mute, though fall'n on evil days,
On evil days though fallen, and evil tongues.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, 1.23–6.
- 90 But knowledge is as food, and needs no less
Her temperance over appetite, to know

- In measure what the mind may well contain,
Oppresses else with surfeit, and soon turns
Wisdom to folly, as nourishment to wind.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.126–30.
- 91 Necessity and chance
Approach not me, and what I will is fate.
1665 God. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.172–3.
- 92 He took the golden compasses, prepared
In God's eternal store, to circumscribe
This universe, and all created things:
One foot he centred, and the other turned
Round through the vast profundity obscure,
And said, 'Thus far extend, thus far thy bounds
This be thy just circumference, O world.'
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.225–31.
- 93 And the earth self-balanced on her centre hung.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.242.
- 94 The great creator from his work returned
Magnificent, his six days' work, a world.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.567–8.
- 95 Witness this new-made world, another heav'n
From heaven gate not far, founded in view
On the clear hyaline, the glassy sea;
Of amplitude almost immense, with stars
Numerous, and every star perhaps a world
Of destined habitation.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.7, l.617–22.
- 96 O when meet now
Such pairs, in love and mutual honour joined?
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.157–8.
- 97 He his fabric of the heavens
Hath left to their disputes, perhaps to move
His laughter at their quaint opinions wide
Hereafter, when they come to model heaven
And calculate the stars, how they will wield
The mighty frame, how build, unbuild, contrive
To save appearances, how gird the sphere
With centric and eccentric scribbled o'er,
Cycle and epicycle, orb in orb.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.176–84.
- 98 Heaven is for thee too high
To know what passes there; be lowly wise:
Think only what concerns thee and thy being.
Dream not of other worlds, what creatures there
Live, in what state, condition, or degree,
Contented that thus far hath been revealed
Not of earth only but of highest heav'n.
1665 Raphael to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.172–8.
- 99 For man to tell how human life began
Is hard; for who himself beginning knew?
1665 Adam to Raphael. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.250–1.
- 1 In solitude
What happiness, who can enjoy alone,
Or all enjoying, what contentment find?
1665 Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.364–6.
- 2 Among unequals what society
Can sort, what harmony or true delight?
1665 Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.383–4.
- 3 Yet when I approach
Her loveliness, so absolute she seems
And in herself complete, so well to know
Her own, that what she wills to do or say,
Seems wisest, virtuousest, discreetest, best.
1665 Adam speaking of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.546–50.
- 4 All higher knowledge in her presence falls
Degraded, wisdom in discourse with her
Loses discount'naned, and like folly shows.
1665 Adam speaking of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.551–3.
- 5 Love refines
The thoughts, and heart enlarges, hath his seat
In reason, and is judicious, is the scale
By which to heav'nly love thou may'st ascend,
Not sunk in carnal pleasure, for which cause
Among the beasts no mate for thee was found.
1665 Raphael to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.8, l.589–94.
- 6 My celestial patroness, who deigns
Her nightly visitation unimplored,
And dictates to me slumbering, or inspires
Easy my unpremeditated verse:
Since first this subject for heroic song
Pleased me long choosing, and beginning late.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.21–6.
- 7 And the more I see
Pleasures about me, so much more I feel Torment within me.
1665 Satan. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.119–21.
- 8 This man of clay, son of despite.
1665 Satan speaking of Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.176.
- 9 For nothing lovelier can be found
In woman, than to study household good,
And good works in her husband to promote.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.232–4.
- 10 For solitude sometimes is best society,
And short retirement urges sweet return.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.249–50.
- 11 That space the Evil One abstracted stood
From his own evil, and for the time remained Stupidly good, of enmity disarmed,
Of guile, of hate, of envy, of revenge.
1665 Satan gazes upon Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.463–6.
- 12 She fair, divinely fair, fit love for gods.
1665 Satan speaking of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.489.
- 13 Her rash hand in evil hour
Forth reaching to the fruit, she plucked, she ate:
Earth felt the wound, and nature from her seat
Sighing through all her works gave signs of woe,
That all was lost.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, l.781–5.
- 14 O fairest of creation, last and best
Of all God's works, creature in whom excelled
Whatever can to sight or thought be formed,
Holy, divine, good, amiable, or sweet!
How art thou lost, how on a sudden lost,
Defaced, deflow'ed, and now to death devote?

- 1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.896–91.
- 15 Flesh of flesh,
Bone of my bone thou art, and from thy state
Mine never shall be parted, bliss or woe.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.914–16.
- 16 What thou art is mine;
Our state cannot be severed, we are one,
One flesh; to lose thee were to lose my self.
1665 Adam to Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.957–9.
- 17 Linked in love so dear,
To undergo with me one guilt, one crime,
If any be, of tasting this fair fruit.
1665 Eve to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.970–2.
- 18 As with new wine intoxicated both
They swim in mirth, and fancy that they feel Divinity within them breeding wings
Wherewith to scorn the earth.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.1007–10.
- 19 Thus they in mutual accusation spent
The fruitless hours, but neither self-condemning,
And of their vain contést appeared no end.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.9, 1.1187–9.
- 20 Yet I shall temper so
Justice with mercy.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.77–8.
- 21 Love was not in their looks, either to God
Or to each other.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.111–12.
- 22 Adorned
She was indeed, and lovely to attract
Thy love, not thy subjection.
1665 Christ speaking to Adam of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.151–3.
- 23 Now possess,
As lords, a spacious world, to our native heaven
Little inferior, by my adventure hard
With peril great achieved.
1665 Satan, returning triumphantly from Earth to Hell after tempting Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.466–9.
- 24 He hears
On all sides, from innumerable tongues
A dismal universal hiss, the sound
Of public scorn.
1665 Satan and the rebel angels are turned to snakes. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.506–9.
- 25 O fleeting joys
Of Paradise, dear bought with lasting woes!
1665 Adam's lament. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.741–2.
- 26 But say
That death be not one stroke, as I supposed,
Bereaving sense, but endless misery
From this day onward, which I feel begun
Both in me, and without me, and so last
To perpetuity; ay me, that fear
Comes thund'ring back with dreadful revolution
On my defenceless head; both Death and I
Am found eternal, and incorporate both,
Nor I on my part single, in me all
- Posterity stands cursed: fair patrimony
That I must leave ye, sons; O were I able
To waste it all myself, and leave ye none!
1665 Adam muses on death. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.808–20.
- 27 O why did God,
Creator wise, that peopled highest heav'n
With Spirits masculine, create at last
This novelty on earth, this fair defect
Of nature, and not fill the world at once
With men as angels without feminine,
Or find some other way to generate Mankind?
1665 Adam speaking of Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.888–95.
- 28 Let us seek Death, or he not found, supply
With our own hands his office on ourselves;
Why stand we longer shivering under fears,
That show no end but death, and have the power,
Of many ways to die the shortest choosing,
Destruction with destruction to destroy.
1665 Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.1001–6.
- 29 So send them forth, though sorrowing, yet in peace.
1665 God speaking to Michael of Adam and Eve. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.11, 1.117.
- 30 Moping melancholy
And moon-struck madness.
Michael shows Adam a vision of what will happen before the Flood. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.11, 1.485–6.
- 31 So may'st thou live, till like ripe fruit thou drop
Into thy mother's lap, or be with ease
Gathered, not harshly plucked, for death mature:
This is old age; but then thou must outlive
Thy youth, thy strength, thy beauty, which will change
To withered weak and grey.
1665 Michael to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.11, 1.535–40.
- 32 Nor love thy life, nor hate; but what thou liv'st
Live well, how long or short permit to heaven.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.11, 1.553–4.
- 33 Now I see
Peace to corrupt no less than war to waste.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.11, 1.783–4.
- 34 O goodness infinite, goodness immense!
That all this good of evil shall produce,
And evil turn to good; more wonderful
Than that which by creation first brought forth
Light out of darkness!
1665 Adam to Michael. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.12, 1.470–4.
- 35 This having learnt, thou hast attained the sum
Of wisdom; hope no higher, though all the stars
Thou knew'st by name, and all th' ethereal powers,
All secrets of the deep, all nature's works,
Or works of God in heav'n, air, earth, or sea,
And all the riches of this world enjoy'dst,
And all the rule, one empire; only add
Deeds to thy knowledge answerable, add faith,
Add virtue, patience, temperance, add love,
By name to come called charity, the soul
Of all the rest: then wilt thou not be loath
To leave this Paradise, but shalt possess

- A paradise within thee, happier far.
1665 Michael to Adam. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.12, 1.575–87.
- 36 Let us descend now therefore from this top
 Of speculation.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.12, 1.588–9.
- 37 Some natural tears they dropped, but wiped them soon;
 The world was all before them, where to choose
 Their place of rest, and Providence their guide:
 They hand in hand with wand'ring steps and slow,
 Through Eden took their solitary way.
1665 Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.12, 1.645–9.
- 38 For what can I increase
 Or multiply, but curses on my head?
1665 Adam's lament. Paradise Lost (published 1667), bk.10, 1.731–2.
- 39 Skill'd to retire, and in retiring draw
 Hearts after them tangled in amorous nets.
1671 Paradise Regained, bk.2, 1.161–2.
- 40 The childhood shows the man,
 As morning shows the day. Be famous then
 By wisdom; as thy empire must extend,
 So let extend thy mind o'er all the world.
1671 Paradise Regained, bk.4, 1.220–3.
- 41 The first and wisest of them all professed
 To know this only, that he nothing knew.
1671 Of Socrates. Paradise Regained, bk.4, 1.293–4.
- 42 Athens, the eye of Greece, mother of arts
 And eloquence, native to famous wits
1671 Paradise Regained, bk.4, 1.240–1.
- 43 Who reads
 Incessantly, and to his reading brings not
 A spirit and judgement equal or superior
 (And what he brings, what needs he elsewhere seek?)
 Uncertain and unsettled still remains,
 Deep-versed in books and shallow in himself.
1671 Paradise Regained, bk.4, 1.322–7.
- 44 But here I feel amends,
 The breath of Heav'n fresh-blowing, pure and sweet,
 With day-spring born; here leave me to respire.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.9–11.
- 45 Ask for this great deliverer now, and find him
 Eyeless in Gaza at the mill with slaves.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.40–1.
- 46 O impotence of mind, in body strong!
 But what is strength without a double share
 Of wisdom, vast, unwieldy, burdensome,
 Proudly secure, yet liable to fall
 By weakest subtleties, not made to rule,
 But to subserv where wisdom bears command.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.52–7.
- 47 O loss of sight, of thee I most complain!
 Blind among enemies, O worse than chains,
 Dungeon, or beggary, or decrepit age!
 Light the prime work of God to me is extinct,
 And all her various objects of delight
 Annul'd, which might in part my grief have eas'd, Inferior to the vilest now become
 Of man or worm; the vilest here excel me,
 They creep, yet see, I dark in light expos'd
 To daily fraud, contempt, abuse and wrong,
- Within doors, or without, still as a fool,
 In power of others, never in my own;
 Scarce half I seem to live, dead more than half.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.67–79.
- 48 If it be true
 That light is in the soul,
 She all in every part; why was the sight
 To such a tender ball as th' eye confin'd?
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.91–4.
- 49 To live a life half dead, a living death.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.100.
- 50 Thou art become (O worst imprisonment!)
 The Dungeon of thy self.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.155–6.
- 51 Salve to thy sores, apt words have power to suage
 The tumours of a troubl'd mind,
 And are as Balm to fester'd wounds.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.184–6.
- 52 Just are the ways of God,
 And justifiable to men;
 Unless there be who think not God at all.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.293–5.
- 53 So much I feel my genial spirits droop,
 My hopes all flat, nature within me seems
 In her functions weary of herself.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.594–6.
- 54 My race of glory run, and race of shame,
 And I shall shortly be with them that rest.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.597–8.
- 55 God of our Fathers, what is man!
 That thou towards him with hand so various,
 Or might I say contrarious,
 Temperst thy providence through his short course,
 Not evenly, as thou rul'st
 The angelic orders and inferior creatures mute,
 Irrational and brute.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.667–73.
- 56 That grounded maxim
 So rife and celebrated in the mouths
 Of wisest men; that to the public good
 Private respects must yield.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.865–8.
- 57 In argument with men a woman ever
 Goes by the worse, whatever be her cause.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.903–4.
- 58 At distance I forgive thee, go with that.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.954.
- 59 Yet beauty, though injurious, hath strange power,
 After offence returning, to regain
 Love once possessed.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.1003–5.
- 60 Love-quarrels oft in pleasing concord end.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.1008.
- 61 Lords are lordliest in their wine.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.1418.
- 62 Evil news rides post, while good news baits.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.1538.
- 63 Death to life is crown or shame.
1671 Samson Agonistes, 1.1579.
- 64 Not willingly, but tang'd in the fold

Of dire necessity.

1671 Samson Agonistes, l.1665–6.

- 65 Nothing is here for tears, nothing to wail
Or knock the breast, no weakness, no contempt,
Dispraise, or blame, nothing but well and fair,
And what may quiet us in a death so noble.
1671 Of Samson's heroic death. Samson Agonistes, l.1721–4.

- 66 All is best, though we oft doubt,
What the unsearchable dispose
Of highest wisdom brings about,
And ever best found in the close.
1671 Samson Agonistes, l.1745–8.

- 67 Calm of mind, all passion spent.
1671 Samson Agonistes, l.1758.

On his relationship with his doctor, Mauvillan, in the presence of Louis XI V. Quoted in Vincent Cronin Louis XI V (1964), p.291.

Moltke, Helmuth von, Count 1800–91

Prussian general. Chief of the General Staff of the Prussian army 1858–88. He presided over successful wars with Denmark (1863–4), Austria (1866) and France (1870–1).

46 Everlasting peace is a dream, and not even a pleasant one; and war is a necessary part of God's arrangement with the world... Without war the world would deteriorate into materialism.

1880 Letter to Dr J K Bluntschi, 11 Dec, collected in Helmuth von Moltke as a Correspondent (1893).

47 What our sword has won in half a year, our sword must guard for half a century.

Mondale, Walter F(rederick) 1928–

US Democratic politician and lawyer. He served under President Carter as Vice-President (1977–81), and was the Democratic nominee for President in 1984, when he lost to Ronald Reagan. He was US Ambassador to Japan (1993–6).

48 I don't want to spend the next two years in Holiday Inns.

Mondrian, Piet 1872–1944

Dutch painter, one of the most important artists in the development of abstract painting.

50 I hate everything approaching temperamental inspiration, 'sacred fire' and all those attributes of genius which serve only as cloaks for untidy minds.

Quoted in F Elgar Mondrian (1968).

51 Why should art continue to follow nature when every other field has left nature behind?

Quoted in F Elgar Mondrian (1968).

52 The unconscious in us warns us that in art we have to follow one particular path. And if we follow it, it is not the sign of an unconscious act. On the contrary, it shows that there is in our ordinary consciousness a greater awareness of our unconsciousness.

Quoted in F Elgar Mondrian (1968).

Monet, Claude 1840–1926

French Impressionist painter. One of the creators of Impressionism, it was his Impression: soleil levant (1872) that gave the movement its name. He spent the last years of his life as a recluse in Giverny.

53 When you go out to paint, try to forget what objects you have before you—a tree, a house, a field, or whatever. Merely think, here is a little square of blue, here an oblong of pink, here a streak of yellow, and paint it just as it looks to you, the exact colour and shape, until it gives your own naive impression of the scene before you. Attributed, in reminiscences written in 1927 by the young American artist Lilla Cabot Perry.

54 It was as if a veil had been torn suddenly away; I had understood, I had grasped what painting could be. After painting with the artist Boudin in the open air. Quoted in J Isaacson Claude Monet (1978).

Monod, Jacques 1910–76

French biologist and author. He proposed (1961) the concepts of messenger RNA. He shared the 1965 Nobel prize in physiology or medicine.

55 There are living systems; there is no 'living matter'.
1967 Lecture, College of France.

56 The scientific attitude implies... the postulate of objectivity—that is to say, the fundamental postulate that there is no plan; that there is no intention in the universe.

Monroe, Marilyn pseudonym of Norma Jean Baker 1926–62

US film actress. Her sex appeal was exploited in films such as How to Marry a Millionaire and Gentlemen Prefer Blondes (both 1953), but she went on to light comedy (eg Some Like It Hot, 1959) and more serious roles such as The Misfits (1961), written by her third husband, Arthur Miller. Her suicide made her an icon, and a symbol of Hollywood's ruthlessness.

59 He's not a director, he's a dictator.

Montagu, (Alexander) Victor Edward Paulet 1906–95

Conservative politician, private secretary to Stanley Baldwin (1932–4) and chairman of the Tory Reform Committee (1943–4). He succeeded as 10th Earl of Sandwich in 1962 but disclaimed his peerage for life the next year. His publications include The Conservative Dilemma (1970).

61 Lord Hailsham said the other day that the machinery of Government was creaking. My Lords, it is not even moving sufficiently to emit a noise of any kind.

1963 House of Lords, 20 Apr, shortly before disclaiming his peerage.

Montagu, Ashley originally Israel Ehrenberg 1905–99

English-born US anthropologist, author of a number of scholarly and popular works. He has been closely associated with the view that cultural phenomena are not the result of genetics.

62 As the god of contemporary man's idolatry, science is a two-handed engine, and as such science is too important a human activity to leave to the scientists.

1964 Book review in the New York Times, 26 Apr.

Montagu, Lady Mary Wortley née Pierrepont 1689–1762

English writer and socialite. She accompanied her ambassador husband to Constantinople (1716–18), writing there many entertaining letters. She introduced smallpox inoculation into England, and settled in Italy with her husband in 1739.

63 'Tis certain we have but very imperfect accounts of the manners and religion of these people; this part of the world being seldom visited, but by merchants, who mind little but their own affairs; or travellers, who make too short a stay to be able to report anything exactly of their own knowledge.

c.1716 Of Turkey. Collected in Lord Wharncliffe (ed) The Letters and Works of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu (1837).

64 Thus you see, Sir, that these people are not so unpolished as we represent them. 'Tis true, their magnificence is of a different taste from ours, and perhaps of a better. I am almost of opinion, they have a right notion of life. They consume it in music, gardens, wine, and delicate eating, while we are tormenting our brains with some scheme of politics, or studying some science to which we can never attain, or, if we do, cannot persuade other people to set that value upon it we do ourselves... We die or grow old before we can reap the fruit of our labours. Considering what short-lived weak animals men are, is there any study so beneficial as the study of present pleasure?

c.1716 Collected in Lord Wharncliffe (ed) The Letters and Works of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu (1837).

65 I was here convinced of the truth of a reflection I had often made, that if it was the fashion to go naked, the face would be hardly observed.

66 If your daughters are inclined to love reading, do not check their inclination by hindering them of the diverting part of it. It is as necessary for the amusement of women as the reputation of men; but teach them not to expect any applause from it... Ignorance is as much the fountain of vice as idleness, and indeed generally produces it. People that do not read or work for a livelihood have many hours they know not how to employ, especially women, who commonly fall into vapours or something worse.

1750 Letter, Jan. Collected in R Halsband (ed) Selected Letters of Lady Mary Wortley Montagu (1970).

67 Their whole business abroad (as far as I can perceive) being to buy new clothes, in which they shine in some obscure coffee-house, where they are sure of meeting only one-another... I look upon them as the greatest blockheads.

1763 On those making the Grand Tour. Quoted in Eric Newby (ed) A Book of Travellers' Tales (1985).

Montague, C(harles) E(dward) 1867–1928

English novelist and essayist of Irish parentage. He wrote various novels, a collection of essays and many articles for the Manchester Guardian (1890–1925).

Montaigne, Michel Eyquem de 1533–92

French essayist. He was a city counsellor of Bordeaux and later its Mayor. From 1571 he lived the life of a country gentleman and started composing his Essais (1580), a classic of French literature.

71 Certes, c'est un sujet merveilleusement vain, divers et ondoyant, que l'homme.

Man (in good earnest) is a marvellous vain, fickle, and unstable subject.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.1 (translated by Charles Cotton).

72 Il faut estre tousjours boté et prest à partir.

We should always be booted and spurred, and ready to go.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.20 (translated by Charles Cotton).

73 Que la mort me trouve plantant mes choux, mais nonchalant d'elle, et encore plus de mon jardin imparfait. I would like death to come to me while I am planting cabbages, caring little for death and even less for the imperfection of my garden.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.20 (translated by Charles Cotton).

74 Si on me presse de dire pourquoi je l'aymois, je sens que cela ne se peut exprimer, qu'en respondant: 'Parce que c'estoit luy; par ce que c'estoit moy.'

If a man should importune me to give a reason why I loved him, I find it could no otherwise be expressed, than by making answer: because it was he, because it was I.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.28 (translated by Charles Cotton).

75 Or la fin, ce crois-je, en est tout'une, d'en vivre plus à loisir et à son aise.

Now the end, I take it, is all one, to live at more leisure and at one's ease.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.39 (translated by Charles Cotton).

76 Il se faut reserver une arriere boutique toute nostre, toute franche, en laquelle nous establissons nostre vraye liberté et principale retraite et solitude.

We must reserve a backshop, wholly our own and entirely free, wherein to settle our true liberty, our principle solitude and retreat.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.39 (translated by Charles Cotton).

77 La plus grande chose du monde, c'est de sçavoir estre à soy.

The greatest thing in the world is for a man to know that he is his own.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.39 (translated by Charles Cotton).

78 La gloire et le repos sont choses qui ne peuvent loger en mesme giste.

Fame and tranquillity are two things that can't live under the same roof.

1580 Essais, bk.1, ch.39 (translated by Charles Cotton).

79 Mon mestier et mon art, c'est vivre.

My trade and art is to live.

1580 Essais, bk.2, ch.6 (translated by Charles Cotton).

80 Quand je me jouë à ma chatte, qui sçait si elle passe son temps de moy plus que je ne fay d'elle?

When I play with my cat, who knows whether I do not make her more sport than she makes me?

1580 Essais, bk.2, ch.12 (translated by Charles Cotton).

81 L'homme est bien insensé. Il ne sçauroit forger un ciron, et forge des Dieux à douzaines.

Man is quite insane. He wouldn't know how to make a maggot, and he makes Gods by the dozen.

1580 Essais, bk.2, ch.12 (translated by Charles Cotton).

82 Nous veillons dormants, et veillants dormons.

We wake sleeping, and sleep waking.

1580 Essais, bk.2, ch.12 (translated by Charles Cotton).

83 Il n'y a point de fin en nos inquisitions. Nostre fin est en l'autre monde.

There is no end to our researches; our end is in the other world.

1588 Essays, bk.3, ch.13 (translated by Donald M Frame).

84 Nous sommes par tout vent.

We are all wind throughout.

1588 Essais, bk.3, ch.13 (translated by Charles Cotton).

85 Nostre grand et glorieux chef-d'œuvre, c'est vivre à propos.

The great and glorious masterpiece of man is to know how to live to purpose.

1588 Essais, bk.3, ch.13 (translated by Charles Cotton).

Montcalm, Marquis de 1712–59

French Governor of Quebec, who unsuccessfully defended the city against General Wolfe's English troops in the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, 13 Sep 1759.

86 I am happy that I shall not live to see the surrender of Quebec.

1759 Spoken to his aides, 13 Sep. He died the following day. Quoted in Francis Parkman Montcalm and Wolfe (1884).

Monterroso, Augusto 1921–2003

Guatemalan writer who lived in exile in Mexico from 1944. His works are mainly collections of short stories in which paradox and a whimsical sense of humour are prominent.

87 La Historia no se detiene nunca. Día y noche su marcha es incesante. Querer detenerla sería como querer detener la Geografía.

History never stops. It progresses ceaselessly day and night. Trying to stop it is like trying to stop Geography.

1978 Lo demás es silencio ('The Rest is Silence'), 'Aforismos, dichos, etc'.

Montesquieu, Charles Louis de Secondat, Baron de la Brède et de 1689–1755

French philosopher and jurist, who turned from law to scientific research and literary work. His study of legal and social issues De l'Esprit des lois (1748, 'The Spirit of Laws') was very influential in 18c Europe.

88 Si l'on vient à savoir mon nom, dès ce moment je me tais. Je connais une femme qui marche assez bien, mais qui boite dès qu'on la regarde.

Once someone wants to know my name, I become quiet. I know a woman who walks rather well, but who limps once she sees someone watching her.

1721 Lettres persanes, introduction.

89 Il n'y a jamais eu de royaume où il y ait eu tant de guerres civiles que dans celui du Christ.
No kingdom has ever been so divided by civil wars as that of Christ.

1721 Lettres persanes, no.29.

90 Il faut pleurer les hommes à leur naissance, et non pas à leur mort.
A person should be mourned at his birth, not at his death.

1721 Lettres persanes, no.40.

91 Si les triangles faisaient un dieu, ils lui donneraient trois côtés.

If triangles had made a god, it would have three sides.

1721 Lettres persanes, no.59.

92 Le droit des gens est naturellement fondé sur ce principe: que les diverses nations doivent se faire, dans la paix, le plus de bien, et, dans la guerre, le moins de mal qu'il est possible, sans nuire à leurs véritables intérêts.
Law is naturally founded on this principle: that different nations should do, in peace and as far as best as they can in war, the least harm as possible, without harming their true interests.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.1, ch.3.

93 Le gouvernement est comme toutes les choses du monde; pour le conserver, il faut l'aimer.
Government is like everything else in the world; to conserve it, we must love it.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.4, ch.5.

94 L'amour de la démocratie est celui de l'égalité.
Love of democracy is love of equality.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.5, ch.3.

95 Les républiques finissent par le luxe; les monarchies, par la pauvreté.
Republics end by wealth; monarchies end by poverty.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.7, ch.4.

96 La liberté est le droit de faire tout ce que les lois permettent.
Freedom is the right to do anything the laws permit.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.11, ch.3.

97 Il en est de la luxure comme de l'avarice: elle augmente sa soif par l'acquisition des trésors.
The same rule applies for lust, as for avarice: it increases its thirst by the acquisition of wealth.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.16, ch.6.

98 Le divorce a ordinairement une grande utilité politique;

et quant à l'utilité civile, il est établi pour le mari et pour la femme, et n'est pas toujours favorable aux enfants.

Divorce generally has a great political use; as for its civil use, it is established for the husband and wife and is not always favourable to the children.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.16, ch.15.

99 Les lois inutiles affaiblissent les lois nécessaires.
Useless laws weaken the necessary ones.

1748 De l'esprit des lois, vol.29, ch.16.

Montgomery of Alamein, Bernard Law, 1st Viscount 1887–1976

British field marshal. He led the 8th Army in World War II, defeating Rommel at El Alamein (1942), and was Commander-in-Chief of Allied ground forces for the invasion of Normandy (1944), Chief of the Imperial General Staff (1946–8) and Supreme Commander of Nato forces in Europe (1951–8).

1 Rule 1, on page 1 of the book of war is: 'Do not march on Moscow'...[Rule 2] is: 'Do not go fighting with your land armies in China.'

1962 Speech in the House of Lords, 30 May.

Montgomery, L(ucy) M(aud) 1874–1942

Canadian novelist. Her first book was the phenomenally successful Anne of Green Gables (1908), the story of an orphan girl adopted in error for a boy by an elderly brother and sister. She followed it with several sequels.

2 The point of good writing is knowing when to stop.

Montrose, James Graham, 1st Marquis of 1612–50

Scottish soldier and poet, who, after first supporting the National Covenant in 1638, fought a brilliant campaign for Charles I during the Civil War from 1644 to 1645. Captured in 1650 after an abortive attempt to win Scotland for Charles II, he was hanged in Edinburgh.

3 My dear and only love, I pray
That little world of thee
Be governed by no other sway
Than purest monarchy.

c.1642 'My Dear and Only Love', stanza 1.

4 He either fears his fate too much,
Or his deserts are small,
That dares not put it to the touch,
To gain or lose it all.

c.1642 'My Dear and Only Love', stanza 2.

5 Let them bestow on every airth a limb,
Then open all my veins that I may swim
To thee, my Maker, in that crimson lake;
Then place my parboiled head upon a stake,
Scatter my ashes, strew them in the air—
Lord! since thou knowest where all these atoms are,
I'm hopeful thou'lt recover once my dust,
And confident thou'lt raise me with the just.

Moodie, Susanna née Strickland 1803–85

English-born Canadian writer of fiction, non-fiction, poetry and letters. She reluctantly emigrated to Canada with her husband in 1832 and wrote for many magazines but is best remembered for Roughing it in the Bush (1852) and Life in the Clearing, versus the Bush (1853).

6 Dear husband! I take shame to myself that my purpose was less firm, that my heart lingered so far behind yours in preparing for this great epoch in our lives; that like Lot's wife, I still turned and looked back, and clung with all my strength to the land I was leaving. It was not the hardships of an emigrant's life I dreaded. I could bear mere physical privations philosophically enough; it was the loss of society in which I had moved, the want of congenial minds, of persons engaged in congenial pursuits, that made me so reluctant to respond to my husband's call.

1852 Roughing It in the Bush; or, A Life in Canada, vol.1, ch.11, 'The Charivari'.

7 Speaking of the coldness of one particular day, a genuine brother Jonathan remarked, with charming simplicity, that it was thirty degrees below zero that morning, and it would have been much colder if the thermometer had been longer.

1852 'Brother Jonathan' refers to a typical Yankee. Roughing It in the Bush; or, A Life in Canada, vol.2, ch.9, 'The Fire'.

8 If these sketches should prove the means of deterring one family from sinking their property, and shipwrecking all their hopes, by going to reside in the backwoods of Canada, I shall consider myself amply repaid for revealing the secrets of the prison-house, and feel that I have not toiled and suffered in the wilderness in vain.

1852 Roughing It in the Bush; or, A Life in Canada, vol.2, ch.14, 'Adieu to the Woods'.

9 In most instances, emigration is a matter of necessity, not of choice.

1854 Roughing It in the Bush; or, A Life in Canada, introduction to the 3rd edition.

10 Will they ever forgive me for writing Roughing It? They know that it was the truth, but have I not been a mark for every vulgar editor of a village journal, throughout the length and breadth of the land to hurl a stone at, and point out as the enemy to Canada.

1856 Letter to her publisher, Richard Bentley, 19 Aug.

Moody, William Vaughn 1869–1910

US poet and playwright. He taught at the University of Chicago. His best-known prose play, The Sabine Woman (1906), was highly successful and focuses on the contrast between a puritanical woman and a free-thinking man. It was retitled The Great Divide (1909).

11 A man's a fool to look at things too near:
They look back, and begin to cut up queer.

17 More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name;
'Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On, Cupid! On, Dunder and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch! To the top of the wall!
Now dash away! Dash away! Dash away all!'

1822 The Night Before Christmas.

18 He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a pedlar just opening his pack.

1822 The Night Before Christmas.

19 He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,
'Happy Christmas to all. And to all a good night.'

Moore, G(eorge) E(dward) 1873–1958

English Empiricist philosopher. He studied and taught at Cambridge, where he was Professor of Mental Philosophy and Logic (1925–39). His most famous and influential work was Principia Ethica (1903).

20 'Good', then, if we mean by it that quality which we assert to belong to a thing, when we say that the thing is good, is incapable of any definition, in the most important sense of the word.

1903 Principia Ethica, ch.1.

21 By far the most valuable things, which we know or can imagine, are certain states of consciousness, which may be roughly described as the pleasures of human intercourse and the enjoyment of beautiful objects.

1903 Principia Ethica, ch.6.

Moore, George 1852–1933

Irish novelist, poet and playwright. A co-founder of the Irish Literary Theatre with W B Yeats, he collaborated with Yeats on such poetic dramas as The Bending of the Bough (1900) and Diarmuid and Grania (1901).

Moore, Marianne Craig 1887–1972

US poet, whose crisp language, wit and idiosyncratic style established her as a leading literary figure. Her works include Observations (1924, rev 1925), Collected Poems (1951, Pulitzer Prize) and Complete Poems (1967, rev 1981).

28 It comes to this: of whatever sort it is, it must be 'lit with piercing glances into the life of things'; it must acknowledge the spiritual forces which have made it.

1921 Poems, 'When I Buy Pictures'.

29 I, too, dislike it: there are things that are important beyond all this fiddle.

Reading it, however, with a perfect contempt for it, one discovers in it, after all, a place for the genuine.

1921 Poems, 'Poetry'.

30 If 'compression is the first grace of style,' you have it.

1924 Observations, 'To A Snail'.

31 My father used to say, 'Superior people never make long visits, have to be shown Longfellow's grave or the glass flowers at Harvard.'

1924 Observations, 'Silence'.

32 Nor was he insincere in saying, 'Make my house your inn.'

Inns are not residencies.

1924 Observations, 'Silence'.

33 You are menaced by the goodness of your mechanics.

1937 To fellow-poet Elizabeth Bishop. Quoted in David Kalstone Becoming a Poet (1989), p.57.

34 A place as kind as it is green, the greenest place I've never seen. Every name is a tune.

1941 What Are Years, 'Spencer's Ireland'.

35 I do not write for money or fame... One writes because one has a burning desire to objectify what it is indispensable to one's happiness to express.

1956 Ewing Lecture, University of California, 3 Oct.

36 Omissions are not accidents.

1956 Ewing Lecture, University of California, 3 Oct.

37 O to be a dragon, a symbol of the power of Heaven—of silkworm size or immense; at times invisible. Felicitous phenomenon!

1959 O To Be A Dragon, 'O To Be A Dragon'.

38 A connoisseur of tame excitement.

1960 Self-description, in Vogue, 1 Aug.

39 Any writer overwhelmingly honest about pleasing himself is almost sure to please others.

1963 In Vogue, 15 Aug.

40 I am governed by the pull of the sentence as the pull of a fabric is governed by gravity.

Quoted in Louis Untermeyer 'Five Famous Poetesses', in Ladies' Home Journal, May 1964.

41 Subjects choose me... I lie in wait like a leopard on a branch-strained metaphor.

Quoted in Louis Untermeyer 'Five Famous Poetesses', in Ladies' Home Journal, May 1964.

42 Omissions are not accidents.

1967 Epigraph to Complete Poems.

43 To cite passages is to pull one quill from a porcupine.

Quoted in Patricia C Willis (ed) The Complete Prose of Marianne Moore (1986).

Moore, Michael 1954–

US film-maker and writer.

44 The things I believe in, I believe strongly enough in them and I think I'm right. When I'm wrong, then I change my mind and I'm right again.

2002 In a question and answer session at the National Film Theatre, London, 11 Nov.

45 We live in a time when we have fictitious election results that elect a fictitious president, a time where we have a man sending us to war for fictitious reasons. We are against this war, Mr Bush. Shame on you, Mr Bush. Shame on you.

2003 At the 76th Academy Awards, where he was awarded an Oscar for Best Documentary Director.

Moore, Sir Patrick 1923–

English astronomer, author and broadcaster. He began his popular television series, The Sky at Night, in 1957, and it has continued since that time.

46 The Moon is a splendid object in our skies, and we naturally tend to think of it as important.

1976 Guide to the Moon.

Moore, Thomas 1780–1852

Irish poet, songwriter and biographer. He wrote a number of patriotic songs and poems as well as lives of Sheridan, Byron (a close friend) and others. He also wrote satirical pieces and novels, including The Fudge Family in Paris (1818). He is remembered for Lallah Rookh (1817), a series of oriental tales in verse, and for the popular songs 'The Harp that once through Tara's Halls', 'The Minstrel-boy', and 'Tis the Last Rose of Summer'.

47 There is not in the wide world a valley so sweet
As that vale in whose bosom the bright waters meet;
Oh! the last rays of feeling and life must depart
Ere the bloom of that valley shall fade from my heart.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'The Meeting of the Waters'.

48 Let Erin remember the days of Old,
Ere her faithless sons betrayed her;
When Malachi wore the collar of gold
Which he won from her proud invader;
When her kings, with standards of green unfurled,
Led the Red-Branch Knights to danger;
Ere the emerald gem of the western world
Was set in the crown of a stranger.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'Let Erin Remember'.

49 The Minstrel-boy to the war is gone,
In the ranks of death you'll find him;
His father's sword he has girded on,
And his wild harp slung behind him.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'The Minstrel-boy'.

50 'Tis the last rose of summer
Left blooming alone;
All her lovely companions
Are faded and gone.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'Tis the Last Rose of Summer'.

51 The harp that once through Tara's halls
The soul of music shed,
Now hangs as mute on Tara's walls
As if that soul were fled.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'The Harp that once through Tara's Halls'.

52 No, there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.
1807 Irish Melodies, 'Love's Young Dream'.

53 Oh! ever thus, from childhood's hour,
I've seen my fondest hopes decay;
I never loved a tree or flower,
But 'twas the first to fade away.

I never nursed a dear gazelle,
To glad me with its soft black eye,
But when it came to know me well,
And love me, it was sure to die!
1817 Lallah Rookh, 'The Fire Worshipers'.

54 Yet, who can help loving the land that has taught us
Six hundred and eighty-five ways to dress eggs?
1818 The Fudge Family in Paris, letter 8.

Moorhouse, Geoffrey 1931–

English writer and traveller. He attempted to cross the Sahara from Mauretania to the Nile, but in March 1973, having travelled 2,000 miles (3,200km), 300 miles (480km) on foot after the last of his camels died, he reached Tamanrasset and gave up.

55 There was nothing but pain in the desert, for human beings and animals alike. Life was pain. Only in death was there relief.
1974 The Fearful Void.

Moran, Richard John McMoran Wilson, 2nd Baron 1924–

British diplomat and soldier. He filled a succession of diplomatic posts, including High Commissioner in Canada (1981–4). As John Wilson he wrote a Whitbread Award-winning biography of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman (1973).

56 Courage is a moral quality; it is not a chance gift of nature, like an aptitude for games. It is a cold choice between two alternatives; the fixed resolve not to quit, an act of renunciation that must be made not once but many times by the power of the will.
1945 The Anatomy of Courage.

More, Sir Thomas 1478–1534

English statesman, scholar and writer. Educated at Oxford in the new humanism, he was appointed Lord Chancellor by Henry VIII. He refused to take the oath of supremacy and was executed. His most famous work is Utopia (1516; translated into English 1556); other works include History of King Richard III (1513) and meditations in prison.

57 In the first place, most princes apply themselves to the arts of war, in which I have neither ability nor interest, instead of to the good arts of peace. They are generally more set on acquiring new kingdoms by hook or by crook than on governing well those that they already have.
1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

58 It is only natural, of course, that each man should think his own opinions best: the old crow loves his fledglings, and the ape his cubs.
1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

59 Such proud, obstinate, ridiculous judgements I have encountered many times, and once even in England.
1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

60 Severe and terrible punishments are enacted against theft, when it would be much better to enable every man to earn his own living, instead of being driven to the awful necessity of stealing and then dying for it.
1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

61 The law of Moses is harsh and severe, as for an enslaved and stubborn people, but it punishes theft with a fine, not death. Let us not think that in his new law of mercy, where he treats us with the tenderness of a father, God has given us greater license to be cruel to one another.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

62 A king who wants to maintain an army can never have too much gold.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

63 A king has no dignity when he exercises authority over beggars, only when he rules over prosperous and happy subjects.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

64 The only real thing they accomplish that I can see is to make men feel a little more secure in their consciences about doing evil.

1516 Of preachers. Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.1.

65 Hardly any of the women, who are a full half of the population, work; or if they do, then as a rule their husbands lie snoring in bed.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

66 For where money is the standard of everything, many vain, superfluous trades are bound to be carried on simply to satisfy luxury and licentiousness.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

67 The chief aim of their constitution is that, whenever public needs permit, all citizens should be free, so far as possible, to withdraw their time and energy from the service of the body, and devote themselves to the freedom and culture of the mind. For that, they think, is the real happiness of life.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

68 They find pearls by the seashore, diamonds and rubies in certain cliffs, but never go out of set purpose to look for them. If they happen to find some, they polish them, and give them to the children who, when they are small, feel proud and pleased with such gaudy decorations. But after, when they grow a bit older, and notice that only babies like such toys, they lay them aside. Their parents don't have to say anything, they simply put these trifles away out of a shamefaced sense that they're no longer suitable, just as our children when they grow up put away their rattles, marbles and dolls.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

69 Thus they say that nature herself prescribes for us a joyous life, in other words, pleasure, as the goal of our actions; and living according to her prescriptions is to be defined as virtue.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

70 Two evils—greed and faction—are the destruction of all justice.

1516 Utopia (English translation 1556), bk.2.

71 Is not this house as nigh heaven as my own?

Morgan, Edwin George 1920–

Scottish poet and critic, Professor Emeritus of English at Glasgow University. One of the most important Scottish writers, he is a skilled translator as well as an original poet.

77 Many things are unspoken
In the life of a man, and with a place there is an unspoken love also in undercurrents, drifting, waiting its time.
1968 'The Second Life'.

78 And later, wondering farmers as they passed would hear beyond the lighted window in the autumn evening two handsome yellow-bosomed basset-hounds howling to a melodious basset-horn.
1968 'An Addition to the Family'.

79 Deplore what is to be deplored,
and then find out the rest.
1968 'King Billy'.

80 The man lies late since he has lost his job, smokes on one elbow, letting his coughs fall
thinly into an air too poor to rob.
1973 'Glasgow Sonnets, I'.

81 No deliverer ever rose from these stone tombs to get the hell they made unmade.
1973 'Glasgow Sonnets, II'.

Morgan, Elaine 1920–

British science writer, journalist and playwright. She worked on the award-winning television screening of Vera Brittain's Testament of Youth (1980). Her controversial book The Descent of Woman (1972), which explores the origins of mankind, with special reference to women's evolution, was followed by The Aquatic Ape (1982).

82 It takes two to make a woman into a sex object.
1972 The Descent of Woman, ch.11.

Moritz, Karl Philipp 1756–93

German writer, an early Romantic. After travelling in England and Italy he wrote Reisen eines Deutschen in England (1783) and Reisen eines Deutschen in Italien (1792–3). His autobiographical novel Anton Reise (1785–90) influenced Goethe.

83 When you see how in this happy country the lowest and poorest member of society takes an interest in all public affairs; when you see how high and low, rich and poor, are all willing to declare their feelings and convictions; when you see how a carter, a common sailor, a beggar is still a man, nay, even more, an Englishman—then, believe me, you find yourself very differently affected from the experience you feel when staring at our soldiers drilling in Berlin.

1782 Letter to a friend after observing a London by-election.

Morley, Christopher Darlington 1890–1957

US writer and poet, founder and editor (1924–41) of the Saturday Review. His many novels include Parnassus on Wheels (1917).

84 Life is a foreign language: all men mispronounce it.

1925 Thunder on the Left, ch.14.

85 Dancing is a wonderful training for girls, it's the first way you learn to guess what a man is going to do before he does it.

1939 Kitty Foyle, ch.11.

86 When you sell a man a book, you don't sell him 12 ounces of paper and ink and glue—you sell him a whole new life.

Recalled on his death, 28 Mar 1957.

Morley, Robert 1908–92

English actor. A popular comic actor, he also made many film and television appearances, including Beat the Devil (1953), Oscar Wilde (1960) and Who is Killing the Great Chefs of Europe? (1978).

87 The French are a logical people, which is one reason the English dislike them so intensely. The other is that they own France, a country which we have always judged to be much too good for them.

1974 A Musing Morley, 'France and the French'.

88 It is a great help for a man to be in love with himself. For an actor, it is absolutely essential.

1979 In Playboy.

89 I started off in films as a king—a French king, admittedly, but nevertheless a king in Marie Antoinette—and stayed in that sort of income bracket.

Quoted in The Best of Robert Morley (1981).

90 Anyone who works is a fool. I don't work: I merely inflict myself on the public.

(1974), the Pax Britannica trilogy (1968–78) and other novels. She was made a CBE in 1999.

93 Venice will linger in your mind...and wherever you go in life you will feel somewhere over your shoulder, a pink, castellated, shimmering presence, the domes and riggings and crooked pinnacles of the Serenissima. There's romance for you! There's the lust and dark wine of Venice! No wonder George Eliot's husband fell into the Grand Canal.

Morris, William 1834–96

English craftsman and poet, associated with the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, a major figure in the Arts and Crafts Movement. He joined the Social Democratic Federation in 1883, and organized the Socialist League. In 1890 he set up the private Kelmscott Press.

98 The Socialist papers...came out full to the throat of well-printed matter...admirable and straightforward expositions of the doctrines and practice of Socialism, free from haste and spite and hard words...with a kind of May-day freshness amidst the worry and terror of the moment.

1890 News from Nowhere.

99 Between complete socialism and communism there is no difference whatever in my mind. Communism is in fact the completion of socialism; when that ceases to be militant and becomes triumphant, it will be communism.

1893 Addressing Hammersmith Socialist Society.

Morris, Wright Marion 1910–98

US writer. He wrote novels, short stories, memoirs and critical essays. He was an accomplished photographer, and published several books marrying text with photographs.

- 1 A Bill of Rites, A Bill of Wrongs, A Bill of Goods.

- 5 In this country American means white. Everybody else has to hyphenate.
1992 In The Guardian, 29 Jan.
- 6 Slavery broke the world in half, it broke it in every way. It broke Europe. It made them into something else, it made them slave masters, it made them crazy. You can't do that for hundreds of years and it not take a toll. They had to dehumanize, not just the slaves but themselves.
Quoted in Paul Gilroy Small Acts (1993), 'Living memory: a meeting with Toni Morrison'.
- 7 I have always wanted to develop a way of writing that was irrevocably black. I don't have the resources of a musician but I thought that if it was truly black literature, it would not be black because I was, it would not even be black because of its subject matter. It would be something intrinsic, indigenous, something in the way it was put together—the sentences, the structure, texture and tone—so that anyone who read it would realize.
Quoted in Paul Gilroy Small Acts (1993), 'Living memory: a meeting with Toni Morrison'.

Morse, Samuel F(inley) B(reese) 1791–1872

US inventor and painter, who demonstrated (1844) the practicability of an electrical telegraph device to Congress. He had earlier trained as an artist.

- 11 Alas! My dear sir, the very name of pictures produces a sadness of heart I cannot describe. Painting has been a smiling mistress to many, but she has been a cruel jilt to me.
1849 Letter to his friend the writer James Fenimore Cooper, 20 Nov.

Mortimer, Sir John Clifford 1923–

English playwright, novelist and barrister. Called to the bar in 1948, he took part in several celebrated civil cases before achieving wider fame as a writer, notably as creator of the fictitious barrister Horace Rumpole. His other publications include volumes of autobiography, novels such as Paradise Postponed (1985) and Summer's Lease (1988) and several plays.

- 12 No brilliance is needed in the law. Nothing but common sense, and relatively clean finger nails.
1971 A Voyage Round My Father, act 1.
- 13 The law seems like a sort of maze through which a client must be led to safety, a collection of reefs, rocks, and underwater hazards through which he or she must be piloted.
1982 Clinging to the Wreckage, ch.7.
- 14 They do you a decent death in the hunting field.
1985 Paradise Postponed, ch.18.

1976 Try Anything Once.

Morton, Jelly Roll (Ferdinand) 1890–1941

US jazz pianist. He was an important pioneer of the New Orleans jazz style, but was much given to making extravagant claims about his role in it.

- 19 It is evidently known, beyond contradiction, that New Orleans is the cradle of jazz, and I, myself, happened to be the creator in the year 1902... Jazz music is a style, not compositions; any kind of music may be played in jazz, if one has the knowledge.
1938 In Downbeat, Aug.

Morton, J(ohn Cameron Andrieu) B(ingham Michael) pseudonym Beachcomber 1893–1979

33 All my life I've been working on the work—every canvas a sentence or paragraph of it. Each picture is only an approximation of what I want.

Recalled on his death, 16 Jul 1991.

Motion, Andrew 1952–

English poet and biographer, Poet Laureate from 1999.

34 Earth's axle creeks; the year jolts on; the trees begin to slip their brittle leaves, their flakes of rust; and darkness takes the edge off daylight, not because it wants to—never that. Because it must.

1997 'Mythology', written for the funeral of Diana, Princess of Wales. Published in Public Property (2002).

35 O Jonny the power of your boot
And the accurate heart-stopping route

Of your goal as it ghosts
Through Australian posts

Is a triumph we gladly salute.

2004 'A Song for Jonny', written to commemorate England winning the rugby World Cup and the player Jonny Wilkinson.

Motson, John 1946–

English football commentator.

- 36 It's Arsenal 0 Everton 1 and the longer it stays like that the more you've got to fancy Everton.
Quoted in Motson's National Obsession (2004).
- 37 Nearly all the Brazilian supporters are wearing yellow shirts—it's a fabulous kaleidoscope of colour.
Quoted in Motson's National Obsession (2004).
- 38 For those of you watching in black and white, Spurs are in the all-yellow strip.
Quoted in Motson's National Obsession (2004).

Mountbatten of Burma, Louis Francis Albert Victor Nicholas, 1st Earl 1900–79

English admiral and statesman, chief of Combined Operations Command (1942) in World War II. As Supreme Commander, SE Asia, he received the Japanese surrender at Singapore, and in 1947 became last Viceroy of India. He returned to the Admiralty as First Sea Lord (1954) and Chief of the Defence Staff (1959). He retired in 1965 and in 1979 was assassinated by Irish Republican terrorists.

- 39 As a military man who has given half a century of active service, I say in all sincerity that the nuclear arms race has no military purpose. Wars cannot be fought with nuclear weapons; their existence only adds to our perils because of the illusions that they have generated. The world now stands on the brink of the final abyss. Let us all resolve to take all possible practicable steps to ensure that we do not, through our own folly, go over the edge.
1979 Speech at the Council of Europe in Strasbourg, 11 May.

Mowlam, Mo (Marjorie) 1949–

English Labour politician. She was Secretary of State for Northern Ireland from 1997 to 1999.

- 40 Ian Paisley said he pitied my husband having to put up with 'the sinner', which is what he often called me.
2000 In the Sunday Times, 16 Apr.

Moynihan, Daniel Patrick 1927–2003

US sociologist and diplomat, adviser to Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Ford. He was Ambassador to India (1973–5), US representative to the UN (1975–6), and subsequently a Senator (1976–2001). His writings include Beyond the Melting Pot (with Nathan Glazer, 1963).

- 41 We've come full circle but the best remains the heart of the city, the greatest center of the greatest city, our Acropolis, where our Christmas tree is lighted.
1991 On New York's Rockefeller Centre. In the New York Times, 15 Mar.
- 42 Things become complicated if there are enough people to complexify them.
1991 Of the 19,000-member congressional back-up staff. In the New York Times, 12 Nov.
- 43 They live off secrecy... [it] keep the mistakes secret.
1993 Of government intelligence agencies. President Kennedy.
- 44 The Lord looks after drunks and Americans.
1995 Of the avoidance of casualties in the Haitian intervention. In the US News and World Report, 9 Jan.

Mozart, (Johann Chrysostom) Wolfgang Amadeus

1756–91

Austrian composer. An infant prodigy, who suffered throughout his life from poverty and overwork, his many compositions include symphonies, concertos, string quintets, string quartets, numerous piano and violin sonatas, choral works and operas such as The Marriage of Figaro (1786), Don Giovanni (1787), Così fan tutte (1790) and The Magic Flute (1791).

- 45 It is much easier to play a thing quickly than to play it slowly.
1778 Letter.
- 46 Melody is the very essence of music. When I think of a good melodist I think of a fine race horse. A contrapuntist is only a post-horse.
1786 Letter to Michael Kelly.

Mugabe, Robert Gabriel 1924–

Zimbabwean politician. He co-founded ZANU (Zimbabwe African National Union, 1963), and on Zimbabwe's independence in 1980 became first Prime Minister (1980–7) and subsequently President (1987–).

- 47 Cricket? It civilises people and creates good gentlemen. I want everyone to play cricket in Zimbabwe. I want ours to be a nation of gentlemen.
Quoted in Helen Exley Cricket Quotations (1992).

Muggeridge, Malcolm 1903–90

English journalist. He was Editor of Punch from 1953 to 1957, and appeared frequently on television as reporter and interviewer. In his later years he became a Roman Catholic.

- 48 The orgasm has replaced the cross as the focus of longing and the image of fulfilment.
1966 Tread Softly for You Tread on My Jokes.
- 49 The media have, indeed, provided the Devil with perhaps the greatest opportunity accorded him since Adam and Eve were turned out of the Garden of Eden.
1976 Christ and the Media, introduction.
- 50 Future historians will surely see us as having created in the media a Frankenstein monster whom no one knows how to control or direct, and marvel that we should have so meekly subjected ourselves to its destructive and often malign influence.
1976 Christ and the Media, 'Lecture 1'.
- 51 It's very nearly impossible to tell the truth in television.
1976 Christ and the Media, 'Questions following the 3rd lecture'.

Muir, Edwin 1887–1959

Scottish writer and translator. He is best known as a poet, but also wrote literary and cultural criticism, and an autobiography.

- 52 The curse of Scottish literature is the lack of a whole language, which finally means the lack of a whole mind.
1936 Scott and Scotland, introduction.
- 53 The hills and towers
Stood otherwise than they should stand,
And without fear the lawless roads
Ran wrong throughout the land.
1937 Journeys and Places, 'Hölderlin's Journey', stanza 11.
- 54 There is a road that turning always Cuts off the country of Again.

- Archers stand there on every side
And as it runs time's deer is slain,
And lies where it has lain.
1937 'The Road'.
- 55 All through that summer at ease we lay,
And daily from the turret wall
We watched the mowers in the hay
And the enemy half a mile away.
They seemed no threat to us at all.
1946 The Voyage, 'The Castle', stanza 1.
- 56 It was not meant for human eyes,
That combat on the shabby patch
Of clods and trampled earth that lies
Somewhere beneath the sodden skies
For eye of toad or adder to catch.
1949 The Labyrinth, 'The Combat'.
- 57 Oh these deceits are strong almost as life.
Last night I dreamt I was in the labyrinth,
And woke far on. I did not know the place.
1949 The Labyrinth, 'The Labyrinth'.
- 58 We have seen
Good men made evil wrangling with the evil,
Straight minds grown crooked fighting crooked minds.
Our peace betrayed us; we betrayed our peace.
Look at it well. This was the good town once.
1949 The Labyrinth, 'The Good Town'.
- 59 Kindness and courage can repair time's faults,
And serving him breeds patience and courtesy
In us, light sojourners and passing subjects.
1949 The Labyrinth, 'The Good Town'.
- 60 The life of every man is an endlessly repeated performance of the life of man.
1954 An Autobiography, ch.1.
- 61 Since then they have pulled our ploughs and borne our loads.
But that free servitude still can pierce our hearts.
Our life is changed; their coming our beginning.
1956 One Foot in Eden, 'The Horses'.
- 62 Barely a twelvemonth after
The seven days war that put the world to sleep,
Late in the evening the strange horses came.
1956 One Foot in Eden, 'The Horses'.
- 63 One foot in Eden still, I stand
And look across the other land.
The world's great day is growing late,
Yet strange these fields that we have planted
So long with crops of love and hate.
1956 One Foot in Eden, 'One Foot in Eden'.

Muir, John 1838–1914

Scottish naturalist. He emigrated with his family to America as a boy, and became a champion of wilderness areas and the establishment of National Parks in the US. He is regarded as the father of the environmental movement.

- 64 The tendency nowadays to wander in wildernesses is delightful to see. Thousands of tired, nerve-shaken, over-civilized people are beginning to find out that going to the mountains is going home; that wildness is a necessity; and that mountain parks and reservations are useful not only as fountains of timber and irrigating rivers, but as fountains of life.

1901 Our National Parks, ch.1, 'The Wild Parks and Forest
Reservations of the West'.

- 65 When we contemplate the whole globe as one great dewdrop, striped and dotted with continents and islands, flying through space with other stars all singing and shining together as one, the whole universe appears as an infinite storm of beauty.
Travels in Alaska, ch.1, 'The Puget Sound and British Columbia'
(published 1915).
- 66 I have precious little sympathy for the selfish propriety of civilized man, and if a war of races should occur between the wild beasts and Lord Man, I would be tempted to sympathise with the bears.
A Thousand-Mile Walk to the Gulf, ch.5, 'Through Florida Swamps and Forests' (published 1916).

Muir, Willa (Wilhelmina) Johnstone née Anderson also known as Agnes Neill Scott 1890–1970

Scottish poet, novelist and translator, wife of the poet Edwin Muir whose unconventional religious beliefs forced her resignation from a teaching position in 1915. Her published works include many translations, several novels and a book of poetry.

- 67 Apparently the average man sees woman alternately as an inferior being and as an angel.
1925 Women: An Inquiry, pt.1, published as Hogarth Essay no.10
in The Hogarth Essays (Second Series, 1926).
- 68 A man can be a parent without knowing it: a woman cannot.

in The Hogarth Essays (Second Series, 1926).

Mullan, Peter 1960–

Scottish actor and director.

- 69 Worst script I've ever read.
2003 On Braveheart. In The Herald, 1 Feb.
- 70 There's no such thing as an actor giving positive criticism to a director. The minute you say 'Don't you think it would look nicer...?' that director's going to hate your guts. Particularly if it's a good idea.

Muller, Herbert Joseph 1905–80

US writer.

- 72 Few have probably ever heard of Fra Luca Pacioli, the inventor of double-entry bookkeeping; but he has probably had much more influence on human life than has Dante or Michelangelo.
1957 Uses of the Past, ch.8.

Mulroney, (Martin) Brian 1939–

Canadian Conservative politician, Prime Minister (1984–93).
His radical reforms included the Meech Lake Accords (which aimed at settling disputes between the provinces and the centre, but which later collapsed) and a free-trade agreement with the US.

- 73 In politics, madame, you need two things: friends, but above all an enemy.

1990 Remark made to a journalist following the by-election victory of Liberal leader Jean Chrétien, 10 Dec, quoted two days later by Graham Fraser in The Globe and Mail.

Mumford, Lewis 1895–1990

US sociologist and author. A literary critic and journal editor, he began to write on architecture and urbanization in such works as The Story of Utopias (1922) and The City in History (1961), stressing the dehumanizing effects of technology.

74 Every generation revolts against its fathers and makes friends with its grandfathers.

1931 The Brown Decades, p.3.

75 However far modern science and technics have fallen short of their inherent possibilities, they have taught mankind at least one lesson: Nothing is impossible.

1934 Technics and Civilization.

76 The Fujiyama of Architecture...at once a lofty mountain and a national shrine.

Collected in Quote Magazine, 8 Oct 1961.

78 The life-efficiency and adaptability of the computer must be questioned. Its judicious use depends upon the availability of its human employers quite literally to keep their own heads, not merely to scrutinize the programming but to reserve for themselves the right of ultimate decision. No automatic system can be intelligently run by automatons—or by people who dare not assert human intuition, human autonomy, human purpose.

1970 The Myth of the Machine.

79 As full of flavor as hickory smoke.

Munch, Edvard 1863–1944

Norwegian painter and graphic artist.

80 One evening, I was walking along a path, the city was on one side and the fjord below. I felt tired and ill. I stopped and looked out over the fjord—the sun was setting, and the clouds turning blood red. I sensed a scream passing through nature; it seemed to me that I heard the scream. I painted this picture, painted the clouds as actual blood. The colour shrieked. This became The Scream.

1889 Diary.

Münch, Richard Friedrich 1945–

German sociologist, professor at the University of Bamberg.

81 Social life is mutual negotiation and society, social order, relies on this mutual negotiation between individuals; this represents both creed and particular reality in American society. In no other society is this creed and the corresponding reality as prominent as the United States.

1986 'The American Creed in Sociological Theory', in Sociological Theory, vol.4, issue 4.

Mundy, Peter c.1596–1667

English trader and seafarer. He was sent to France at the age of 12 to learn French. At 15 he went to sea and travelled continually thereafter. His journal was edited by the Hakluyt Society.

82 We all three got up on our elephant which brought us hither. For my own part I found [it] very uneasy riding, being badly seated and not accustomed (he had such a shuffling, jogging justling pace), sitting hindermost on the ridge of his monstrous massy chine bones, and nothing at all under me (nor they neither) that I wished myself on foot and would have let myself fall off but that it was somewhat too high. In fine, we alighted off from his back into the upper galleries of the house and saved the labour going upstairs.

c.1620 On riding on an elephant. Travels (published c.1650).

83 So that finding myself at present in or about one hundred and twenty degrees off east longitude from England, it bred in me a desire to proceed on the same easterly course till I had ended where I began, and so to have once made one circle round the globe of the earth, which would have been a voyage of voyages.

c.1640 Objections were raised and Mundy was unable to fulfil this aim. Travels (published c.1650).

Munro, Alice née Laidlaw 1931–

Canadian short-story writer; her first collection of short stories Dance of the Happy Shades (1968) won the Governor-General's Award, as did Lives of Girls and Women (1971).

84 Boys' hate was dangerous, it was keen and bright, a miraculous birthright, like Arthur's sword snatched out of the stone.

1971 Lives of Girls and Women, 'Changes and Ceremonies'.

85 I thought of my mother, who would publicly campaign for birth control but would never even think she needed to talk to me, so firmly was she convinced that sex was something no woman—no intelligent woman—would ever submit to unless she had to.

1971 Lives of Girls and Women, 'Baptizing'.

86 She had reached an age where she thought she could not stand to know any more...she pushed any discovery aside with embarrassment.

1978 Lives of Girls and Women, 'Royal Beatings'.

87 Country manners. Even if somebody phones up to tell you your house is burning down, they ask first how you are.

1987 The Progress of Love, 'The Progress of Love'.

88 Hatred is always a sin, my mother told me. Remember that. One drop of hatred in your soul will spread and discolor everything like a drop of black ink in white milk. I was struck by that and meant to try it, but knew I shouldn't waste the milk.

1987 The Progress of Love, 'The Progress of Love'.

89 People live within winter in a way outsiders do not understand. They are watchful, provident, fatigued, exhilarated.

1987 The Progress of Love, 'Fits'.

90 Do such moments really mean, as they seem to, that we have a life of happiness with which we only occasionally, knowingly, intersect? Do they shed such light before and after that all that has happened in our lives—or that we've made to happen—can be dismissed?

1987 The Progress of Love, 'The Moon in the Orange Street Skating Rink'.

Münster, Count Georg 1794–1868

Hanoverian diplomat.

- 91 An intelligent Russian once remarked to me, 'Every country has its own Constitution. Ours is absolutism moderated by assassination.'

Murdoch, Dame (Jean) Iris 1919–99

Irish novelist and philosopher, of Anglo-Irish descent. Her novels, exploring human relationships with subtlety and humour, include The Sea, The Sea (1978) and The Philosopher's Pupil (1983).

- 92 All our failures are ultimately failures in love.
1958 The Bell.
- 93 Love is the extremely difficult realisation that something other than oneself is real. Love, and so art and morals, is the discovery of reality.
1959 'The Sublime and the Good'.
- 94 What can one do with the past?
Forgive it. Let it enter into you in peace.
1968 The Nice and the Good.
- 95 He was a sociologist; he had gotten into an intellectual muddle early on in life and never managed to get out.
1983 The Philosopher's Pupil, 'The Events in Our Town'.

Murdoch, (Keith) Rupert 1931–

Australian-born US newspaper publisher. He expanded his publishing empire first in Australia, then in Britain, buying the News of the World in 1969, The Times and the Sunday Times in 1981. He moved into the US market in 1976 and created a successful television network, the Fox Network. He became a US citizen in 1985.

- 96 I did not come all this way not to interfere.
c.1969 Quoted in S Somerfield Banner Headlines (1979). Somerfield was editor of the News of the World and complained that Murdoch, who had recently bought the paper, was interfering with his editorial role.
- 97 I have heard cynics who say he's a very political old monk shuffling around in Gucci shoes.
1999 On the Dalai Lama. In the Daily Telegraph, 7 Sep.

Murkowski, Frank H 1933–

US Governor of Alaska (2002–). Former Vice-Chair, US Senate Select Committee on Intelligence.

Murphy, Dervla 1931–

Irish writer and traveller. In 1963 she cycled to India, where she worked with Tibetan children.

- 99 On my tenth birthday a bicycle and an atlas coincided as presents and a few days later I decided to cycle to India.
1965 Full Tilt: Ireland to India with a Bicycle.
- 1 It is on occasions such as these that I thank God for my sanguine temperament, which refuses to allow me to believe in disaster until it is finally manifest.
1965 Full Tilt: Ireland to India with a Bicycle.
- 2 Each human spirit is immortal—for time cannot destroy whatever element within us reverences the glory of a dawn in the mountains.

1968 In Ethiopia with a Mule.

- 3 Never before had I embarked on a journey that required courage.
1978 On embarking on travels and research into the problems of Northern Ireland. A Place Apart.

Murphy, Ian

Architect, lecturer at the University of Westminster.

- 4 The technology of decentralization can be the saviour or assassin of contemporary and future society. The role of architects may be uncertain, but the role of architecture is not. In order to look forward society may sometimes have to look back. This it should do in order to learn from previous mistakes and oversights and to preclude similar eventualities in the future. This does not imply historical dependency, as some would assert. The symbiosis of architecture and technology should prevail, engendered by honesty and integrity. The task will not be easy.
1993 'The impact of the environment: the shock of the new', in Ben Farmer and Hentie Louw (eds) Companion to Contemporary Architectural Thought (1993).

Murphy, Tom (Thomas) S 1925–

US media company executive, president (1964–72) and chair (1966–96) of ABC Inc.

- 5 If you hire mediocre people, they will hire mediocre people.
1991 In Fortune, 6 May.

Murray, Les(lie Allan) 1938–

Australian poet and writer whose exuberant verse reflects both his farming background and his preoccupation with language. His collections include The Ilex Tree (1965), The Weatherboard Cathedral (1969), Subhuman Redneck Poems (1996) and Conscious and Verbal (1999).

- 6 The houses there wear verandahs out of shyness.
1986 Selected Poems, 'Driving Through Sawmill Towns'.

- 7 If the cardinal points of costume are Robes, Tato, Rig and Scunge, where are shorts in this compass?

They are the never Robes as other bareleg outfits have been:
the toga, the kilt, the lava-lava,
the Mahatma's cotton dhoti;

archbishops and field marshals
at their ceremonies never wear shorts.
The very word

Murray, Mike (Michael) c.1956–

US computer executive and philanthropist. Vice-President of Human Resources and Administration at Microsoft until 1999.

- 9 If Microsoft were a car it would have a large gas pedal and a small but workable brake. It would not have a rear-view mirror.

1994 In Newsweek, 11 Jul.

Murrow, Edward (Edgar) R(oscoe) 1908–65

US journalist and broadcaster. As CBS correspondent from Britain from 1937, he conveyed wartime spirit to the US. He became a producer of current affairs television programmes after the war, and his questioning of Joseph McCarthy contributed to the Senator's fall from grace.

- 10 He mobilized the English language and sent it into battle to steady his fellow countrymen and hearten those Europeans upon whom the long dark night of tyranny had descended.

1954 Of Churchill. Broadcast, 30 Nov, quoted in In Search of Light (1967).

- 11 The people you have seen have the strength to harvest your fruit and vegetables. They do not have the strength to influence legislation. Maybe you do.

1960 Harvest of Shame, CBS TV documentary on migrant labour, 25 Nov, concluding words.

1883–1945

Italian politician and Prime Minister (1922). By 1925 he had established himself as dictator. His declaration of war on Britain and France exposed Italy's military unpreparedness, and was followed by a series of defeats; his popularity waned, and he was overthrown and arrested (Jul 1943). Rescued by German paratroopers to head the puppet Italian Social Republic, in 1945 he was captured by the Italian Resistance and shot.

Nashe, Thomas 1567–1601

English dramatist and satirist. His play The Isle of Dogs (1597, now lost) was so scathing on the subject of state abuses that it was suppressed, the theatre closed down and he himself thrown into Fleet prison. The Unfortunate Traveller (1594) is a picaresque tale, one of the earliest of its kind.

10 'New herrings, new!' we must cry, every time we make ourselves public, or else we shall be christened with a hundred new titles of idiotism.

1592 Pierce Penniless, His Supplication to the Devil, 'An Invective Against Enemies of Poetry'.

11 Poetry is the honey of all flowers, the quintessence of all sciences, the marrow of wit, and the very phrase of angels.

1592 Pierce Penniless, His Supplication to the Devil, 'An Invective Against Enemies of Poetry'.

12 If I be evil intreated, or sent away with a flea in mine ear, let him look that I will rail on him soundly; nor for an hour or a day, whiles the injury is fresh in my memory; but in some elaborate polished poem, which I will leave to the world when I am dead, to be a living image to all ages of his beggarly parsimony and ignoble illiberality.

- 68 The rich don't have children; they have heirs.
1982 The Establishment Man: A Portrait of Power.

Newton, Sir Isaac 1642–1727

English mathematician and physicist, considered the greatest scientist of modern time. Newton was Professor of Mathematics (1669–1701) at Cambridge. Between 1664 and 1666 he discovered the law of gravitation, and began to develop differential calculus.

- 69 Corpus omne perseverare in statu suo quiescendi vel movendi uniformiter in directum, nisi quatenus illud a viribus impressis cogitur statum suum mutare.
Every body continues in its state of rest, or of uniform motion in a right line, unless it is compelled to change that state by forces impressed thereon.
1687 First Law of Motion. Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729).
- 70 Mutationem motus proportionalem esse vi motrici impressae et fieri secundum lineam rectam qua vis illa imprimitur.
The alteration of motion is ever proportional to the motive force impressed; and is made in the direction of the right line in which that force is impressed.
1687 Second Law of Motion. Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729).
- 71 We are to admit no more causes of natural things than such as are both true and sufficient to explain their appearances... Nature is pleased with simplicity, and affects not the pomp of the superfluous causes.
1687 Newton's First Rule of Reasoning in Philosophy. Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729).
- 72 Actioni contrarium semper et aequalem esse reactionem: sive corporum duorum actiones in se mutuo semper esse aequales et in partes contrarias dirigi.
To every action there is always opposed an equal reaction: or, the mutual actions of two bodies upon each other are always equal, and directed to contrary parts.
1687 Third Law of Motion. Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729).
- 73 Geometry is that part of universal mechanics which accurately proposes and demonstrates the art of measuring.
1687 Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica (translated by Andrew Motte, 1729).
- 74 I know not what I may appear to the world, but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the sea shore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me.

Quoted in D Brewster (ed) Memoirs of Newton (1855), vol.2, ch.27.

- 75 In the absence of any other proof, the thumb alone would convince me of God's existence.
Attributed.

- 79 Today, children, I am going to tell you about the history of Mr. Blackman in three sentences. In the beginning he had the land and the mind and the soul together. On the second day, they took the body away to barter it for silver coins. On the third day, seeing that he was still fighting back, they brought priests and educators to bind his mind and soul so that these foreigners could more easily take his land and produce.
1977 Petals of Blood, ch.8.

- 80 He who produces should be able to control that which he produces.
1990 Quoted in Carol Sicherman Ngũgĩ wa Thiong'o: The Making of a Rebel, pt.1, ch.2, 'Ngũgĩ on Ngũgĩ' (by Ngũgĩ himself).

Nguyen, Xuan Oanh 1921–2003

94 All method is imperfect. Error is all around it, and at the least opportunity invades it... But what can we do?

There is no other way.

1932 Biologie de l'Invention.

Nicolson, Sir Harold 1886–1968

English diplomat, author and critic, born in Tehran. A distinguished diplomat (1909–29), he turned to journalism and was a National Liberal MP (1935–45). He wrote works of literary criticism and literary and historical biography.

95 My first impression is of a slightly bearded spinster: my second is of Willie King made up like Philip II: my third of some thin little bird, pecking, crooked, reserved, violent and timid.

1931 On meeting James Joyce. Diary entry, 30 Jul.

96 I feel pretty glum and devote myself to reviewing. There is Joyce's Finnegans Wake. I try very hard indeed to understand that book but fail completely. It is almost impossible to decipher, and when one or two lines of understanding emerge like telegraph poles above a flood, they are at once countered by other poles going in the opposite direction.

1939 Diary entry, 29 Apr.

Niebuhr, Reinhold 1892–1971

US theologian, Professor at the Union Theological Seminary, New York.

97 All men who live with any degree of serenity live by some assurance of grace.

1934 Reflections on the End of Our Era.

98 Perhaps the most sublime insights of the Jewish prophets and the Christian gospel is the knowledge that since perfection is love, the apprehension of perfection is at once the means of seeing one's imperfections and the consoling assurance of grace which makes this realization bearable. This ultimate paradox of high religion is not an invention of theologians or priests. It is constantly validated by the most searching experiences of life.

1934 Reflections on the End of an Era.

99 The pretensions of final truth are always partly an effort to obscure a darkly felt consciousness of the limits of human knowledge.

1941 The Nature and Destiny of Man, vol.1.

1 God, give us grace to accept with serenity the things that cannot be changed, courage to change the things that should be changed, and the wisdom to distinguish the one from the other.

In Richard Wightman Fox Reinhold Niebuhr (1985), ch.12. Attributed to Niebuhr, but more probably 18c German.

Nielsen, Carl August 1865–1931

Danish composer, who experimented with polytonality and developed a characteristic contrapuntal style.

2 Music is life, and, like it, inextinguishable.

1916 Symphony No. 4, motto.

Niemöller, Martin 1892–1984

German submarine commander, pastor and theologian, leader of Christian opposition to Nazism.

3 When Hitler attacked the Jews I was not a Jew, therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the Catholics, I was not a Catholic, and therefore, I was not concerned. And when Hitler attacked the unions and the industrialists, I was not a member of the unions and I was not concerned. Then, Hitler attacked me and the Protestant church—and there was nobody left to be concerned.

1944 Children of Light and Darkness, foreword.

Nietzsche, Friedrich Wilhelm 1844–1900

German philosopher, scholar and writer. Professor of Classical Philology at the University of Basel (1868–78), he resigned in ill health. From 1872 he produced a stream of brilliant, unclassifiable works, rejecting Christianity for a new, heroic morality. In 1889 he had a complete mental and physical breakdown, from which he never recovered. His reputation suffered when his ideas were adopted in a distorted form by the Nazis, but he is now regarded as a major influence on 20c thought.

4 Überzeugungen sind gefährlichere Feinde der Wahrheit als Lügen.

Convictions are more dangerous enemies of truth than lies.

1882 Die fröhliche Wissenschaft (The Gay Science), section 276 (translated by W Kaufmann).

9 Glaubt es mir!—das Geheimnis, um die größte Fruchtbarkeit und den größten Genuss vom Dasein einzuernten, heißt: gefährlich leben!

For believe me: the secret for harvesting from existence the greatest fruitfulness and the greatest enjoyment is—to live dangerously.

1882 Die fröhliche Wissenschaft (The Gay Science), section 283 (translated by W Kaufmann).

10 Eins ist not.—Seinem Charakter 'Stil geben'.

One thing is needful.—To 'give style' to one's character.

1882 Die fröhliche Wissenschaft (The Gay Science), section 290 (translated by W Kaufmann).

11 Ich lehre euch den Übermenschen. Der Mensch ist Etwas, das überwunden werden soll.

I teach you the Superman. Man is something that should be surpassed.

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra), prologue, section 3 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

12 Der Mensch ist ein Seil, geknüpft zwischen Tier und Übermensch,—ein Seil über einem Abgrunde.

Man is a rope, fastened between animal and Superman—a rope over an abyss.

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra), prologue, section 4 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

13 Was groß ist am Menschen, das ist, dass er eine Brücke und kein Zweck ist.

What is great in man is that he is a bridge and not a goal.

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra), prologue, section 4 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

14 Ich sage euch: man muss noch Chaos in sich haben, um einem tanzenden Stern gebären zu können.

I tell you: one must have chaos in one, to give birth to a dancing star.

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra), prologue, section 5 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

15 Du gehst zu Frauen? Vergiss die Peitsche nicht!
You are going to women? Do not forget the whip!

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra), bk.1 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

16 Distrust all in whom the impulse to punish is powerful.

1883–92 Also sprach Zarathustra (Thus Spoke Zarathustra) (translated by R J Hollingdale).

17 Gesetzt, wir wollen Wahrheit: warum nicht lieber Unwahrheit? Und Ungewissheit? Selbst Unwissenheit? Granted we want truth: why not rather untruth? And uncertainty? Even ignorance?

1886 Jenseits von Gut und Böse (Beyond Good and Evil), section 1 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

18 Allmählich hat sich mir herausgestellt, was jede große Philosophie bisher war: nämlich das Selbstbekenntnis ihres Urhebers und eine Art ungewollter und unvermerkter mémoires.

It has gradually become clear to me what every great philosophy has hitherto been: a confession on the part of its author and a kind of involuntary and unconscious memoir.

1886 Jenseits von Gut und Böse (Beyond Good and Evil), section 6 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

19 Sie schafft immer die Welt nach ihrem Bilde, sie kann nicht anders; Philosophie ist dieser tyrannische Treib selbst, der geistigste Wille zur Macht, zur 'Schaffung der Welt'.

It [philosophy] always creates the world in its own image, it cannot do otherwise; philosophy is this tyrannical drive itself, the most spiritual will to power, to 'creation of the world'.

1886 Jenseits von Gut und Böse (Beyond Good and Evil), section 9 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

20 Alles, was tief ist, liebt die Maske.

Everything profound loves the mask.

1886 Jenseits von Gut und Böse (Beyond Good and Evil), section 40 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

21 The thought of suicide is a great source of comfort across many a bad night.

1886 Jenseits von Gut und Böse (Beyond Good and Evil), section 157 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

1944 Under a Glass Bell, 'Birth'.
- Nisbet, Robert 1913–96
 US sociologist.
- 38 Countless works in the social sciences reveal the inability of their authors to bear in mind the crucial difference between what may properly be called the logic of discovery and the logic of demonstration. The second is properly subject to rules and prescriptions; the first isn't.
1976 Sociology as an Art Form, introduction.
- 39 With all allowance made for Marx's erudition and his historic impact upon the social sciences, especially sociology, it is as an art united with prophecy, virtually religious prophecy, that Marxism survives.
1976 Sociology as an Art Form, ch.5.

Niven, David originally James David Graham Nevins
1910–83

English actor. Signed by Samuel Goldwyn, he developed into a polished light comedian in films such as The Charge of the Light Brigade (1936), The Dawn Patrol (1938) and Bachelor Mother (1939). He won an Academy Award for Separate Tables (1958).

- 40 He passed rapidly through his marriages to Virginia Cherrill, Barbara Hutton and Betsy Drake and filled in the lonely gaps between them by falling in and out of love with most of his leading ladies, which, as his output of films was prodigious, underlined the excellence of his physical condition.
1975 Of Cary Grant. Bring on the Empty Horses.

Nixon, Pat 1912–93

Wife of President Richard M Nixon. She financed herself through college and taught typing until she married Nixon in 1940. She bore two daughters and was known for her gracious hospitality during her years in the White House. She was unwaveringly loyal to her husband during and after his resignation in 1974.

- 41 The hearings are just like a snake about to devour people.
1973 On Watergate. Letter to a friend, quoted in Julie Nixon Eisenhower Pat Nixon (1986).
- 42 Dick, I don't know how you get up in the morning!
To her husband, who later wrote that he replied 'I do it to confound my enemies'. Quoted in Julie Nixon Eisenhower Pat Nixon (1986).

Nixon, Richard M(ilhus) 1913–94

US Republican politician and 37th President (1969–74). He resigned under threat of impeachment after the implication of leading members of his government in the Watergate affair. As President, he sought to end the Vietnam War and had diplomatic success with China and the USSR.

- 43 I don't believe that I ought to quit because I am not a quitter.
1952 National TV broadcast after allegations that he was financing his vice-presidential candidacy from a secret fund, Sep.
- 44 Tonight—to you, the great silent majority of my fellow Americans—I ask for your support.
1969 Appeal to the nation, 3 Nov, for support in the Vietnam War.
- 45 This is not an invasion of Vietnam.
1970 Television address to the nation announcing the invasion of Cambodia, 30 Apr.
- 46 I don't give a shit what happens. I want you all to stonewall...plead the Fifth Amendment, cover-up, or anything else. If that will save it, save the plan.
1973 From the White House tapes relating to the Watergate scandal, recorded Mar.
- 47 There will be no whitewash in the White House.
1973 Statement on the Watergate affair, 17 Apr.
- 48 In giving you these tapes, blemishes and all, I am placing my trust in the basic fairness of the American people.
1974 National address, 30 May, on relinquishing the Watergate tapes after the House Judiciary Committee warned him that refusal 'might constitute a ground for impeachment'.
- 49 Well, I screwed it up real good, didn't I?
1974 Comment to Chief of Staff Alexander M Haig and Press Secretary Ronald L Zeigler, 3 Aug, on beginning work on his resignation address. Recalled in RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon (1978).

- 50 When the president does it, that means that it is not illegal... But I brought myself down. I gave them a sword and they stuck it in and twisted it with relish. And I guess that if I had been in their position, I'd have done the same thing.
1977 Interviewed by David Frost, May.
- 51 American people don't believe anything until they see it on television.
1994 In Newsweek, 2 May. He estimated that 80% of US citizens get their news from television.

Noble, Richard 1946–

1983 After setting a new world land-speed record. Quoted in the Sunday Times, 'The Week in Words', 9 Oct.

Nofziger, Lyn (Franklin)

Press secretary and later Chief of the White House Office of Political Affairs in the Reagan administration.

- 53 Cashing in. That's what we all do. It's called experience.
1988 In This Week, 31 Jul.

Nolan, Sir Sidney Robert 1917–92

Australian painter. He made his name with a series of Ned Kelly paintings (begun 1946), followed by an 'explorer' series.

- 54 I wanted to know the true nature of the 'otherness' I had been born into. It was not a European thing. I wanted to paint the great purity and implacability of the landscape. I wanted a visual form of the 'otherness' of the thing not seen.
1971 Quoted in E Lynn Sidney Nolan—Australia (1979).

Noonan, Peggy 1950–

US writer. She was speechwriter for President Reagan (1984–9) and has since been a columnist for Newsweek, the New York Times and Time and contributing editor to the Wall Street Journal. She has written several books.

- 55 The battle for the mind of Ronald Reagan was like the trench warfare of World War I. Never have so many fought so hard for such barren terrain.
1990 What I Saw at the Revolution.
- 56 A speech is poetry: cadence, rhythm, imagery, sweep...and reminds us that words, like children, have the power to make dance the dullest beanbag of a heart.
1990 What I Saw at the Revolution.

Noonuccal, Oodgeroo formerly Kath Walker née Kathleen Jean Mary Ruska 1920–93

Australian poet and Aboriginal rights activist. Her works include We Are Going (1964), the first book by an Aboriginal writer to be published in English. She returned an MBE awarded to her in 1970, in protest at planned Australian bicentennial celebrations.

- 57 Do you know, Mr Menzies, that where I come from you could be gaoled for supplying alcohol to an Aborigine?

1962 Remark to the then Prime Minister of Australia, Robert Menzies, when he offered her and other Aboriginal delegates a drink after a meeting. Quoted in Kathie Cochrane Oodgeroo (1994), pt.1, 'Protest'.

58 What can I tell you, son of mine?
 I could tell you of heartbreak, hatred blind,
 I could tell of crimes that shame mankind,
 Of brutal wrong and deeds malign,
 Of rape and murder, son of mine;
 But I'll tell instead of brave and fine
 When lives of black and white entwine,
 And men in brotherhood combine—
 This would I tell you, son of mine.
1964 We Are Going, 'Son of Mine'.

59 No more boomerang
 No more spear;
 Now all civilized—
 Colour-bar and beer.
1970 My People, 'No More Boomerang'.

Norden, Denis 1922–

English broadcaster and humorist.

60 It's a funny kind of month, October. For the really keen cricket fan it's when you realise that your wife left you in May.
 Quoted in She magazine, 1977.

Norman, Barry 1933–

English journalist and broadcaster. He made his name as an influential film critic through the television series that began with Film '73 (1973–81, 1983–98).

61 The worst films were always bad but now they are bad in a more cynical way. They pander to an audience of 12–24 year olds, mostly male and mostly governed by raging testosterone. Dialogue is kept to a minimum because it holds up the action. Ditto characterisation and the building of it. As for wit, let's not bother with wit.
2002 And Why Not?.

Norman, Greg 1955–

Australian golfer. He won the Open championships in 1986 and 1993. The only player of modern times to have competed in a grand slam of playoffs, unfortunately he lost them all.

62 In the tournament of life, which is the biggest major, I have one of the best records ever.
2003 In Golf Magazine, Jul.

Norman, Major Mike

British marine. He was commanding officer of the 68 Royal Marines who comprised the Falklands garrison at the time of the Argentinian invasion.

63 We've never surrendered before. It's not part of our training.
1982 Comment, Apr. Quoted in The Sunday Times Insight Team The Falklands War (1982), p.7.

Norris, Frank Benjamin Franklin 1870–1902

US novelist. He worked for the San Francisco Chronicle and while reporting became involved in the Jameson raid in South Africa. He was influenced by Zola and was one of the first US naturalist writers. His novels include McTeague (1899) and The Pit (1903).

64 The kind of a man that men like—not women—is the kind of man that makes the best husband.
1903 The Pit, ch.2.

65 Here, of all her cities, throbbled the true life—the true power and spirit of America; gigantic, crude with the crudity of youth, disdaining rivalry; sane and healthy and vigorous; brutal in its ambition, arrogant in the new-found knowledge of its giant strength, prodigal of its wealth, infinite in its desires.
1903 Of Chicago. The Pit, ch.2.

North, Christopher pseudonym of John Wilson 1785–1854

Scottish critic and essayist, Professor of Moral Philosophy at Edinburgh University (1820–51), and regular contributor to Blackwood's Magazine under the pseudonym 'Christopher North'.

1829 'Noctes Ambrosianae', no.42, in Blackwood's Magazine, Apr.

67 Laws were made to be broken.
1830 'Noctes Ambrosianae', no.49, in Blackwood's Magazine, May.

68 It may be divided into three parts; in one you cannot hear, in another you cannot see, and in the third you can neither see nor hear. I remember once sitting alone in the third division—and never before or since have I had such a profound feeling of the power of solitude.
1832 Of the Theatre Royal, Glasgow. 'Noctes Ambrosianae', no.64, in Blackwood's Magazine, Nov.

69 Such accidents will happen in the best-regulated families.
1834 'Noctes Ambrosianae', no.67, in Blackwood's Magazine, Aug.

North, Oliver 1943–

US soldier, later columnist and broadcaster. He was a National Security official involved in the 1986 Iran–Contra scandal (the supporting of anti-government Contra rebels in Nicaragua with the proceeds of secret arms sales to Iran). Despite appeals to patriotism, he was convicted on three of twelve charges, which were later dropped on appeal.

70 I don't think there's another person in America that wants to tell this story as much as I do.
1986 Invoking the Fifth Amendment at the House Committee investigating arms sales to Iran, 10 Dec.

71 I thought using the Ayatollah's money to support the Nicaraguan resistance... was a neat idea.
1987 Testimony at the House Committee investigating arms sales to Iran, 8 Jul.

Novak, Michael 1933–

US critic, writer and philosopher.

72 Baseball is a Lockean game, a kind of contract theory in ritual form, a set of atomic individuals who assent to patterns of limited co-operation in their mutual interest.
1976 The Joys of Sport, pt.1.

Novalis pseudonym of Friedrich von Hardenberg
1772–1801

German poet, a leading early Romantic. The early death of the woman he loved left a lasting impression on him, and he wrote the prose lyrics of Hymnen an die Nacht (1800) in her memory. He died of tuberculosis.

73 Der Tod ist das romantisierende Prinzip unsers Lebens. Der Tod ist—das Leben. Durch den Tod wird das Leben verstärkt.

Death is the romantic principle of Life. Death is—life. Through death life is intensified.

1802 Schriften, II, Fragmente.

74 Ein Charakter ist ein vollkommen gebildeter Willen.
A character is a perfectly cultivated will.

1802 Schriften, II, Fragmente.

75 Jeder Engländer ist eine Insel.
Every Englishman is an island.

1802 Schriften, II, Fragmente.

76 Mensch werden ist eine Kunst.
To become human is art.

Noyes, Alfred 1880–1958

English writer. He was best known for his florid poems, and especially his sea poems, but also wrote literary essays, plays and memoirs.

77 Go down to Kew in lilac-time (it isn't far from London!)
And you shall wander hand in hand with love in summer's wonderland.

1904 'The Barrel-Organ'.

78 The wind was a torrent of darkness among the gusty trees,
The moon was a ghostly galleon tossed upon cloudy seas,
The road was a ribbon of moonlight over the purple
moor,
And the highwayman came riding—
Riding—riding—
The highwayman came riding, up to the old inn-door.

1907 'The Highwayman'.

79 Watch for me by moonlight;
I'll come to thee by moonlight, though hell should bar
the way.

1907 'The Highwayman'.

Nozick, Robert 1938–2002

US rock guitarist. His albums include Free For All (1976), Cat Scratch Fever (1977) and Take No Prisoners (2003).

81 If it's too loud, you're too old.

Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth-Century Music (1994).

Nunn, Sir Trevor 1940–

English stage director. He was artistic director of the Royal Shakespeare Company (1968–86) and of the National Theatre (1997–2003).

82 The National [Theatre] is an organisation that benefits directly from taxpayers' money. I know of no edict that says that only those taxpayers with degrees in English literature pay for this place.

2001 In the New Statesman, 22 Oct.

Nuttgens, Patrick 1930–2004

British architect and educationalist. Director of Leeds Polytechnic (1969–86), his works include The Landscape of Ideas (1972) and Understanding Modern Architecture (1988).

83 In the final analysis, all architecture reveals the application of human ingenuity to the satisfaction of human needs. And among these needs are not only shelter, warmth and accommodation, but also the needs, felt at every moment in every part of the world in endlessly different ways, for something more profound, evocative and universal, for beauty, for permanence, for immortality.

1993 'The Nature of Architecture', in Ben Farmer and Hentie Louw (eds) Companion to Contemporary Architectural Thought (1993).

Nye, Joseph S, Jr 1937–

Professor of International Relations and Dean of the Kennedy School, Harvard. Formerly Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs and Chair of the National Intelligence Council.

84 Not their style to say no. But when you listen... you don't hear yes.

Oakeshott, Michael Joseph 1901–90

English philosopher and political theorist, Professor of Political Science at the London School of Economics (1951–69). His key philosophical work was Experience and its Modes (1933), a broadly idealistic view which he developed in economic theory.

85 The politics of our society are a conversation in which past, present and future each has a voice; and though one or other of them may on occasion properly prevail none permanently dominates, and on this account we are free.

1962 Rationalism in Politics.

86 We consider ourselves to be free because no one in our society is allowed unlimited power—no leader, faction, party or 'class', no majority, no government, church, corporation, trade, or professional association or trade union. The secret of its freedom is that it is composed of a multitude of organisations in the constitution of the best of which is reproduced that diffusion of power which is characteristic of the whole.

1962 Rationalism in Politics.

- 87 It is difficult to think of any circumstances where learning may be said to be impossible.

Quoted in R S Peters (ed) The Concept of Education (1966), ch.10, 'Learning and Teaching'.

- 88 Every human being is born an heir to an inheritance to which he can succeed only in a process of learning.

Quoted in R S Peters (ed) The Concept of Education (1966), ch.10, 'Learning and Teaching'.

Oakley, Charles Edward 1832–65

English clergyman and hymn writer.

- 89 Hills of the North, rejoice:

Rivers and mountain-spring,

Hark to the advent voice!

Valley and lowland, sing!

Though absent long, your Lord is nigh,

He judgement brings, and victory.

1870 Hymn.

Oates, Joyce Carol 1938–

US writer. She is best known as a novelist, but has also published several volumes of poetry, and essays, critical writings and journalism.

- 90 The worst cynicism: a belief in luck.

1970 Do What You Will, pt.2, ch.15.

- 91 Nothing is accidental in the universe—this is one of my Laws of Physics—except the entire universe itself, which is Pure Accident, pure divinity.

1970 Do What You Will, 'The Summing-Up: Meredith Dawe'.

- 92 Women Whose Lives Are Food, Men Whose Lives Are Money.

1978 Title of poetry collection.

- 93 I used to think getting old was about vanity—but actually it's about losing people you love.

1989 In The Guardian, 18 Aug.

- 94 Because It Is Bitter, And Because It Is My Heart.

1990 Title of novel.

- 95 For what is passes so swiftly and irrevocably into what was, no human claim can be of the least significance.

1994 What I Lived For, prologue, pt.1.

- 96 And Corky'd protested, You mean it isn't enough to be right?—they have to like me, too?

1994 What I Lived For, pt.1.

O'Brien, (Donal) Conor (Dermod David Donat) Cruise 1917–

Irish historian, diplomat, critic and politician. He wrote To Katanga and Back (1962), an autobiographical narrative of the Congo crisis. He has also been a newspaper editor and written numerous books of biography, politics and history.

- 98 Irishness is not primarily a question of birth or blood or language: it is the condition of being involved in the Irish situation, and usually of being mauled by it. On that definition Swift is more Irish than Goldsmith or Sheridan, although by the usual tests they are Irish and he is pure English.

1959 Reviewing The Oxford Book of Irish Verse in the New Statesman, 17 Jan (written under the pseudonym Donat O'Donnell).

- 99 Of history and its consequences it may be said: 'Those who can, gloat; those who can't, brood.' Englishmen are born gloaters; Irishmen born brooders. There are, it is true, brooders who take to gloating, and they did much to build the Empire. Yet the brooder-gloater, such as the Irishman turned Englishman, is not, as a human type, altogether a success. He is a little too much on his guard, like an excessively assimilated Jew, or a son of Harlem who has decided to 'pass'. The past of the Irishman, the Jew, the Negro, is, psychologically, too explosive to be buried.

1962 To Katanga and Back: a UN case history.

- 1 In any case you Papists have no right to complain! If you won't have contraception how can you control the population without the assistance of Herod? You ought to be grateful.

1970 King Herod Explains.

- 2 We dislike the IRA, most of us, and fear it. We are a peaceful and democratic people. But our history, our idealistic pretensions and our fatal ambivalence have stuck us with an ideology that is warlike and anti-democratic, and calls increasingly for further human sacrifice.

1985 In the New York Review of Books, 29 Apr.

- 3 The United Nations cannot do anything, and never could. It is not an animate entity or agent. It is a place, a stage, a forum and a shrine... a place to which powerful people can repair when they are fearful about the course on which their own rhetoric seems to be propelling them.

1985 In New Republic, 4 Nov.

O'Brien, Edna 1932–

Irish novelist, short-story writer and playwright. Her works include The Country Girls (1960), The Lonely Girl (1962), Girls in Their Married Bliss (1964), House of Splendid Isolation (1994) and Wild Decembers (1999).

- 4 Ordinary life bypassed me, but I also bypassed it. It couldn't have been any other way. Conventional life and conventional people are not for me.

In Annalena McAfee (ed) Lives and Works: Profiles of Leading Novelists, Poets and Playwrights (2002).

O'Brien, Flann pseudonym of Brian O'Nolan also known as Myles na Gopaleen 1911–66

Irish writer who worked in the Irish Civil Service until 1953. In 1940 he began writing for The Irish Times under the pseudonym of Myles na Gopaleen and developed a reputation for being an eccentric and idiosyncratic columnist. He is best known for his novel, At Swim-Two-Birds (1939).

- 5 When things go wrong and will not come right,
Though you do the best you can,
When life looks black as the hour of night—

A PINT OF PLAIN IS YOUR ONLY MAN.

1939 At Swim-Two-Birds, ch.1, 'The Workman's Friend' (as Flann O'Brien).

- 6 There was a frightful, appalling row.
As a matter of fact the Pope told us all to go to hell. He threatened to silence Father Fahrt.
1961 The Hard Life.
- 7 And now the curse has come upon us, because I have personally met in the streets of Ireland persons who are clearly out of Synge's plays. They talk and dress like that, and damn the drink they'll swally but the mug of porter in the long nights after Samhain.
1968 The Best of Myles.

O'Brien, John J

Washington correspondent, Philadelphia Inquirer.

- 8 The only candidate who can whistle Dixie while humming the Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Irish journalist and politician, born a Catholic but educated at a Protestant college. He founded the Land League journal United Ireland (1881) and became a Nationalist MP (1883–95, 1900–18).

- 11 What are we learning French or the piano for, I would like to know, if it is not to be sold to a man some day... We have to cringe, and manoeuvre, and grimace for a husband—a husband who may be deaf or have a hump if he is rich—a husband that may attack you in delirium tremens to-day if he makes a devout act of contrition for it to-morrow.
1890 When We Were Boys.

Ó Bruadair, Dáibhídh c.1625–1698

Irish-Gaelic poet, who recorded the destruction of his culture. His patrons were exiled by wars and proscription, and he became a farm labourer.

- 12 I will sing no more songs: the pride of my country I sang Through forty long years of good rhyme, without any avail;
And no one cared even as much as the half of a hang
For the song or the singer, so here is an end of the tale.
Adapted from the Irish by James Stephens.

O'Casey, Sean 1884–1964

Irish playwright. His early plays, including Juno and the Paycock (1924), deal with Dublin working-class life and were written for the Abbey Theatre. His later, more experimental, plays include Cockadoodle Dandy (1949).

- 13 Th' whole worl's in a state o' chassis!
1924 Boyle speaking. Juno and the Paycock, act 1.
- 14 JUNO: Sacred Heart o' Jesus, take away our hearts o' stone, and give us hearts o' flesh! Take away this murdherin' hate, an' give us Thine own eternal love!
1924 Juno and the Paycock, act 3.
- 15 She dhresses herself to keep him with her, but it's no use—afther a month or two, th' wondher of a woman wears off.
1926 The Plough and the Stars, act 1.
- 16 There's no reason to bring religion into it. I think we ought to have as great a regard for religion as we can, so as to keep it out of as many things as possible.
1926 The Plough and the Stars, act 1.
- 17 English literature's performing flea.
Of P G Wodehouse. In P G Wodehouse Performing Flea (1953).

Occam, William of c.1285–c.1349

English philosopher, theologian and political writer. He was perhaps the most influential of later medieval philosophers.

- 18 Entia non sunt multiplicanda praeter necessitatem.
No more things should be presumed than is necessary. This principle of intellectual economy, known as Occam's Razor, is not found in this form in his writings. Similar expressions can be found, eg Pluralitas non est ponenda sine necessitate ('Plurality should not be posited unnecessarily'), in Scriptum in Librum Primum Sententiarum.

O'Connell, Daniel known as the Liberator 1775–1847

Irish Catholic political leader, able to take his Commons seat only after Catholic Emancipation (1829). He fought against tithes and in 1840 founded the Repeal Association, agitating to end the union with Britain. In 1844 he was imprisoned on a charge of sedition, and his influence subsequently waned.

- 19 Let us never tolerate the slightest inroad on the discipline of our holy Church. Let us never consent that she should be made the hireling of the Ministry. Our forefathers would have died—nay, perished in hopeless slavery—rather than consent to such degradation.
1814 Speech, Dublin, 23 Feb.
- 20 Not for all the universe contains would I, in the struggle for what I conceive to be my country's cause, consent to the effusion of a single drop of human blood, except my own.
1843 Speech, 18 Feb.
- 21 While I have a tongue I'll abuse you, you most inimitable periphery. Look at her, boys! there she stands—a convicted perpendicular in petticoats! There's contamination in her circumference, and she trembles with guilt down to the extremities of her corollaries. Ah! you're found out, you rectilineal antecedent, and equiangular old hag! 'Tis with you the devil will fly away, you porter-swiping similitude of the bisection of a vortex!
Winning thrust in a vituperation contest with Dublin's champion virago, Biddy Moriarty, reported by Daniel Owen-Madden in Revelations of Ireland (1877).

O'Connor, Edwin 1918–68

O'Connor, (Mary) Flannery 1925–64

US novelist and short-story writer. Her fiction, set in the Deep South, reflects a mordant sense of humour. Her works include two novels and two volumes of short stories.

23 I preach there are all kinds of truth, your truth and somebody else's. But behind all of them there is only one truth and that is that there's no truth.

1952 Hazel Motes. Wise Blood, ch.10.

24 While the South is hardly Christ-centred, it is most certainly Christ-haunted.

1960 'Some Aspects of the Grotesque in Southern Fiction'. Paper read at Wesleyan College, Fall.

25 There was a time when the average reader read a novel simply for the moral he could get out of it, and however naïve that may have been, it was a good deal less naïve than some of the limited objectives he has now.

1960 'Some Aspects of the Grotesque in Southern Fiction'. Paper read at Wesleyan College, Fall.

26 It's like building a nest. First she thinks about it, then she begins to gather the materials, then she begins to put it together.

On her mother's two-month process of making a fruit cake. Quoted in Sally Fitzgerald (ed) The Habit of Being (1979).

O'Connor, Frank pseudonym of Michael O'Donovan 1903–66

O'Faolain, Sean 1900–91

Irish writer and educator. He began writing in and translating from Gaelic. A successful novel, A Nest of Simple Folk (1933), was followed by biographies of Irish figures.

33 If we turn to early Irish literature, as we naturally may, to see what sort of people the Irish were in the infancy of the race, we find ourselves wandering in delighted bewilderment through a darkness shot with lightning and purple flame.

1947 The Irish.

34 He was like a man who takes a machine-gun to a shooting gallery. Everybody falls flat on his face, the proprietor at once takes to the hills, and when you cautiously peep up, you find that he has wrecked the place but got three perfect bull's-eyes.

On Frank O'Connor (pseudonym of Michael O'Donovan), attributed.

O'Flaherty, Liam 1897–1984

Irish Republican writer. He went to London in 1922 to become a writer, finding fame with his novel The Informer (1926). In addition to other novels, he wrote three volumes of autobiography (1930–4).

35 When the parish priest rebuked him for his celibacy, saying it would lead him into debauchery and sin, he said that a man who had to be muzzled by a wife as a protection against debauchery was not worthy of the joy of innocence. After that people began to treat him with priestly respect.

'The Mermaid'.

US writer and editor. He has written books and articles on government, politics, social mores and travel.

- 22 The best thing about the violence in Northern Ireland is that it's all so ancient and honorable... The Irish are in the same terrific position as the Shiites in Lebanon, the peasants in El Salvador, the blacks in America, the Jews in Palestine, the Palestinians in Israel (and everybody everywhere, if you read your history)—enough barbarism has been visited on the Irish to excuse all barbarities by the Irish barbarians.
1988 Holidays in Hell.
- 23 Communism doesn't really starve or execute that many people. Mostly it just bores them to death.
1988 Holidays in Hell.
- 24 Republicans are the party that says government doesn't work, and then they get elected and prove it.
1991 Parliament of Whores.
- 25 Sometimes it's hard to remember that bourgeois property is the real revolutionary force these days. All over the world we're bringing down dictatorships—or at least forcing them to go condo.
1992 Give War a Chance.
- 26 For reasons of high aesthetic principle, I do not write on a computer.
2003 In Writers on Writing, Volume II: More Collected Essays from the New York Times.

Orozco, José Clemente 1883–1949

Mexican painter, one of the three foremost artists in the revival of monumental fresco painting.

- 27 The highest, the most logical, the purest and strongest form of painting is the mural... It is, too, the most disinterested form, for it cannot be made a matter of private gain; it cannot be hidden away for the benefit of a certain privileged few. It is for the people. It is for ALL.
1929 Creative Art.

Ortega y Gasset, José 1883–1955

Spanish essayist and philosopher, Professor of Metaphysics at Madrid. He gained international fame with The Revolt of the Masses (1929), which argued in favour of an intellectual governing elite.

- 28 The man who discovers a new scientific truth has previously had to smash to atoms almost everything he had learnt, and arrives at the new truth with hands blood stained from the slaughter of a thousand platitudes.
1930 The Revolt of the Masses.

Orton, Joe originally John Kingsley 1933–67

English dramatist, known for his blackly comic, outrageous farces such as Entertaining Mr Sloane (1964). He was murdered by his lover, Kenneth Halliwell, who then committed suicide.

- 29 I'd the upbringing a nun would envy... Until I was fifteen I was more familiar with Africa than my own body.
1964 Entertaining Mr Sloane, act 1.

- 30 Every luxury was lavished on you — atheism, breast-feeding, circumcision.
1966 Loot, act 1.

- 31 Reading isn't an occupation we encourage among police officers. We try to keep the paperwork down to a minimum.
1966 Loot, act 2.

Orwell, George pseudonym of Eric Arthur Blair 1903–50

English novelist, essayist and journalist. He fought in the Spanish Civil War and during World War II worked for the BBC. He developed his own brand of socialism in The Road to Wigan Pier (1937) and other essays, but is best known for his satire of totalitarian ideology in Animal Farm (1945), and the prophetic novel, Nineteen Eighty-Four (1949).

- 32 While the journalist exists merely as the publicity agent of big business, a large circulation, got by fair means or foul, is a newspaper's one and only aim.
1928 In G.K.'s Weekly, 29 Dec.

- 33 He was an embittered atheist (the sort of atheist who does not so much disbelieve in God as personally dislike Him), and took a sort of pleasure in thinking that human affairs would never improve.
1933 Down and Out in Paris and London, ch.30.

- 34 Keep the Aspidistra Flying.
1936 Title of novel.

- 35 In the early morning the mill girls clumping down the cobbled street, all in clogs, making a curiously formidable sound, like an army hurrying into battle. I suppose this is the typical sound of Lancashire.
1936 Diary entry, 18 Feb. He used this as material for his book The Road to Wigan Pier (1937).

- 36 It is only because miners sweat their guts out that superior persons can remain superior.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.2.

- 37 A thousand influences constantly press a working man into a passive role. He does not act, he is acted upon.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.3.

- 38 A person of bourgeois origin goes through life with some expectation of getting what he wants, within reasonable limits. Hence the fact that in times of stress 'educated' people tend to come to the front.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.3.

- 39 I sometimes think the price of liberty is not so much eternal vigilance as eternal dirt.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.4.

- 40 In a Lancashire cotton-town you could probably go for months on end without once hearing an 'educated' accent, whereas there can hardly be a town in the South of England where you could throw a brick without hitting the niece of a bishop.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.7.

- 41 As with the Christian religion, the worst advertisement for Socialism is its adherents.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.11.

- 42 To the ordinary working man, the sort you would meet in any pub on Saturday night, Socialism does not mean

- much more than better wages and shorter hours and nobody bossing you about.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.11.
- 43 The underlying motive of many Socialists is, I believe, a hypertrophied sense of order... what they desire, basically, is to reduce the world to something resembling a chessboard.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.11.
- 44 The high-water mark, so to speak, of Socialist literature is W.H. Auden, a sort of gutless Kipling.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.11.
- 45 Cease to use your hands, and you have lopped off a huge chunk of your consciousness.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.12.
- 46 It is usual to speak of the Fascist objective as the 'beehive state', which does a grave injustice to bees. A world of rabbits ruled by stoats would be nearer the mark.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.12.
- 47 We of the sinking middle class... have nothing to lose but our aitches.
1937 The Road to Wigan Pier, ch.13.
- 48 The era of free speech is closing down. The freedom of the press in Britain was always something of a fake, because in the last resort, money controls opinion; still, so long as the legal right to say what you like exists, there are always loopholes for an unorthodox writer.
1938 In the New Leader, 24 Jun.
- 49 Roughly speaking it was the sensation of being at the centre of an explosion... I fancy you would feel much the same if you were struck by lightning. I knew immediately that I was hit, but because of that seeming bang and flash, I thought it was a rifle nearby that had gone off accidentally and shot me.
1938 Of his wounding during the Spanish Civil War. Homage to Catalonia, ch.12.
- 50 When you have had a glimpse of such a disaster as this... the result is not necessarily disillusionment and cynicism. Curiously enough, the whole experience has left me with not less but more belief in the decency of human beings.
1938 Homage to Catalonia, ch.14.
- 51 Down here it was still the England I had known in my childhood:... all sleeping the deep, deep sleep of England, from which I sometimes fear that we shall never wake till we are jerked out of it by the roar of bombs.
1938 Homage to Catalonia, ch.14.
- 52 I'm fat, but I'm thin inside. Has it ever struck you that there's a thin man inside every fat man, just as they say there's a statue inside every block of stone?

- 53 Before the war, and especially before the Boer War, it was summer all the year round.
1939 Coming Up For Air, pt.2, ch.1.
- 54 If the war didn't happen to kill you it was bound to start you thinking. After that unspeakable idiotic mess you couldn't go on regarding society as something eternal and unquestionable, like a pyramid. You knew it was just a balls-up.
1939 Coming Up For Air, pt.2, ch.8.
- 55 Most revolutionaries are potential Tories, because they imagine that everything can be put right by altering the shape of society; once that change is effected, as it sometimes is, they see no need for any other.
1939 'Charles Dickens', collected in Inside the Whale (1940).
- 56 The novel is practically a Protestant form of art; it is the product of the free mind, of the autonomous individual.
1940 Inside the Whale, 'Inside The Whale'.
- 57 Contrary to popular belief, the past was not more eventful than the present. If it seems so it is because when you look backward things that happened years apart are telescoped together, and because very few of your memories come to you genuinely virgin.
1940 Inside the Whale, 'My Country Right or Left'.
- 58 As I write, highly civilized human beings are flying overhead, trying to kill me.
1941 The Lion and the Unicorn: Socialism and the English Genius, pt.1, 'England Your England'.
- 59 England is not the jewelled isle of Shakespeare's much-quoted passage, nor is it the inferno depicted by Dr Goebbels. More than either it resembles a family, a rather stuffy Victorian family, with not many black sheep in it but with all its cupboards bursting with skeletons.
1941 The Lion and the Unicorn: Socialism and the English Genius, pt.3, 'Shopkeeper at War'.
- 60 A family with the wrong members in control—that, perhaps, is as near as one can come to describing England in a phrase.
1941 The Lion and the Unicorn: Socialism and the English Genius, pt.3, 'The English Revolution'.
- 61 Probably the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing-fields of Eton, but the opening battles of all subsequent wars have been lost there. One of the dominant facts in English life during the past three-quarters of a century has been the decay of ability in the ruling class.
1941 The Lion and the Unicorn: Socialism and the English Genius, pt.4.
- 62 The great enemy of clear language is insincerity. When there is a gap between one's real and one's declared aims, one turns instinctively to long words and exhausted idioms—like cuttlefish squirting out ink.
1941 The Lion and the Unicorn: Socialism and the English Genius.
- 63 I believe that the BBC, in spite of the stupidity of its foreign propaganda and the unbearable voices of its announcers, is very truthful. It is generally regarded here as more reliable than the press.
1941 In the Partisan Review, 15 Apr. Reprinted in Collected Essays, Journalism and Letters, vol.2.
- 64 All propaganda is lies, even when one is telling the truth.
1942 Diary entry, 14 Mar.
- 65 Whatever is funny is subversive, every joke is ultimately a custard pie... A dirty joke is not, of course, a serious attack upon morality, but it is a sort of mental rebellion, a momentary wish that things were otherwise.
1942 'The Art of Donald McGill'.
- 66 On the whole, human beings want to be good, but not too good, and not all the time.
1942 'The Art of Donald McGill'.
- 67 Reminds me of nothing so much as a recently-dead fish before it has had time to stiffen.

- 81 The books one reads in childhood, and perhaps most of all the bad and good bad books, create in one's mind a sort of false map of the world, a series of fabulous countries into which one can retreat at odd moments throughout the rest of life, and which in some cases can even survive a visit to the real countries which they are supposed to represent.
1946 'Riding Down from Bangor'.
- 82 Prolonged, indiscriminate reviewing of books involves constantly inventing reactions towards books about which one has no spontaneous feelings whatever.
1946 'Confessions of A Book Reviewer'.
- 83 The atom bombs are piling up in the factories, the police are prowling through the cities, the lies are streaming from the loudspeakers, but the earth is still going round the sun, and neither the dictators nor the bureaucrats, deeply as they disapprove of the process, are able to prevent it.

- 92 The Catholic and the Communist are alike in assuming that an opponent cannot be both honest and intelligent.
1946 'The Prevention of Literature', in Polemic, Jan.
- 93 The controversy over freedom of speech and of the press is at the bottom a controversy over the desirability, or otherwise, of telling lies. What is really at issue is the right to report events truthfully, or as truthfully as is consistent with the ignorance, bias and self-deception from which every observer necessarily suffers.
1946 'The Prevention of Literature', in Polemic, Jan.

- 99 War is peace. Freedom is slavery. Ignorance is strength.
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.1, ch.1.
- 1 'Who controls the past,' ran the Party slogan, 'controls the future: who controls the present controls the past.'
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.1, ch.3.

- 2 Freedom is the freedom to say that two plus two make four. If that is granted, all else follows.
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.1, ch.7.
- 3 Doublethink means the power of holding two contradictory beliefs in one's mind simultaneously, and accepting both of them.
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.2, ch.9.
- 4 If you want a picture of the future, imagine a boot stamping on a human face—for ever.
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.3, ch.3.
- 5 Power is not a means, it is an end. One does not establish a dictatorship in order to safeguard a revolution; one makes the revolution in order to establish the dictatorship.
1949 Nineteen Eighty-Four, pt.3, ch.3.
- 6 Saints should always be judged guilty until they are proved innocent.

- 7 At 50, everyone has the face he deserves.
1949 Notebook entry, 17 Apr.
- 8 Serious sport has nothing to do with fair play. It is bound up with hatred, jealousy, boastfulness, disregard of all rules and sadistic pleasure in witnessing violence: in other words it is war minus the shooting. . . there are quite enough real causes of trouble already, and we need not add to them by encouraging young men to kick each other on the shins amid the roars of infuriated spectators.
1950 'The Sporting Spirit'.
- 9 One ought to be able to hold in one's head simultaneously the two facts that Dali is a good draughtsman and a disgusting human being. The one does not invalidate or, in a sense, affect the other.
Quoted in Michael Sheldon Orwell (1991).

Osborne, Dorothy 1627–95

Wife of Sir William Temple, English diplomat and essay writer.

- 10 All letters, methinks, should be free and easy as one's discourse, not studied as an oration, nor made up of hard words like a charm.
1653 Letter to William Temple.

Osborne, John 1929–94

English playwright and actor. The success of Look Back in Anger (1956), with its anti-hero Jimmy Porter, marked a new departure in postwar English drama and identified the author as the most famous of the 'angry young men' of the 1950s. Later works included The Entertainer (1957), Luther (1961), Inadmissible Evidence (1964) and A Patriot for Me (1969).

- 11 She's so clumsy. I watch for her to do the same things every night. The way she jumps on the bed, as if she were stamping on someone's face, and draws the curtains back with a great clatter, in that casually destructive way of hers. It's like someone launching a battleship. Have you ever noticed how noisy women are? Have you? The way they kick the floor about, simply walking over it? Or have you watched them sitting at their dressing tables, dropping their weapons and banging down their bits of boxes and brushes and lipsticks?
1956 Look Back in Anger.

- 12 Don't clap too hard—it's a very old building.
1957 The Entertainer, 7.
- 13 There will be a quick rash of hairy American filth, but it shouldn't threaten the existence of decent, serious British filth.
1967 On the opening of the US musical Hair, in Time magazine.

Osler, Sir William 1849–1919

Canadian physician.

- 14 The greater the ignorance the greater the dogmatism.
1902 Quoted in Montreal Medical Journal, Sep.
- 15 The desire to take medicine is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals.
Quoted in H Cushing Life of Sir William Osler (1925), vol.1, ch.14.
- 16 One of the first duties of the physician is to educate the masses not to take medicine.
Collected in W B Bean (ed) Sir William Osler: Aphorisms from His Bedside Teachings and Writings (1950).
- 17 Failure to examine the throat is a glaring sin of omission, especially in children. One finger in the throat and one in the rectum makes a good diagnostician.
Collected in W B Bean (ed) Sir William Osler: Aphorisms from His Bedside Teachings and Writings (1950).
- 18 To talk of diseases is a sort of Arabian Nights entertainment.
Quoted in Oliver Sacks The Man Who Mistook his Wife for a Hat, epigraph (1985).

Otis, James 1725–83

American politician and patriot. As Advocate General he refused to assist royal revenue officers to search individual's homes and resigned to fight for popular rights. In 1769 he was beaten by revenue officers and received a head wound from which he never really recovered.

- 19 Taxation without representation is tyranny.
c.1761 His defence, which became a rallying call of the American Revolution.

O'Toole, Peter 1932–

Irish actor. His performance in Lawrence of Arabia (1962) made him an international film star, and he has since played a wide variety of roles.

- 20 I'm one of the younger oldies. I'm in the prime of senility.
2000 In The Guardian, 31 Dec.

Otway, Thomas 1652–85

English dramatist. Educated at Oxford. His first play was the tragedy Alcibiades (1675); in it his alleged lover, Elizabeth Barry, made her debut. His most famous play is Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered (1682).

- 21 Ere man's corruptions made him wretched, he
Was born most noble that was born most free;
Each of himself was lord; and unconfin'd
Obey'd the dictates of his godlike mind.
1676 Don Carlos, act 2.
- 22 You wags that judge by rote, and damn by rule.
1677 Titus and Berenice, prologue.
- 23 And for an apple damn'd mankind.
1680 The Orphan, act 3.
- 24 I may boldly speak

In right, though proud oppression will not hear me!

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

25 May the hard hand of a vexatious need
Oppress and grind you; till at last you find
The curse of disobedience all your portion.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

26 Home I would go
But that my doors are hateful to my eyes,
Fill'd and damm'd up with gaping creditors,
Watchful as fowlers when their game will spring.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

27 I'm thinking...how that damn'd starving quality
Call'd honesty, got footing in the world.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

28 Honesty was a cheat invented first
To bind the hands of bold deserving rogues,
That fools and cowards might sit safe in power,
And lord it uncontrold above their betters.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

29 'Tis a ragged virtue.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

30 If love be treasure, we'll be wondrous rich.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

31 Is the world
Reform'd since our last meeting?

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 1, sc.1.

32 No praying, it spoils Business,

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 2, sc.1.

33 Give but an Englishman his whore and ease,
Beef and a sea-coal fire, he's yours forever.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 2, sc.3.

34 The poor sleep little.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 2, sc.3.

35 No, this vile world and I have long been jangling,
And cannot part on better terms than now,
When only men like thee are fit to live in't.

1682 Venice Preserved, or a Plot Discovered, act 4, sc.2.

Oud, J(acobus) J(ohannes) P(ieter) 1890–1963

Dutch architect, a pioneer of the modern architectural style based on simplified forms and pure planes.

36 If I was not optimistic, I would not be an architect.

Quoted in the New York Times, 4 Dec 1994.

Overbury, Sir Thomas 1581–1613

English poet and courtier.

37 He disdains all things above his reach, and preferreth all countries before his own.

1632 'An Affected Traveller', collected in Miscellaneous Works.

Overton, Robert fl.1642–68

English soldier. He fought for Parliament in the English Civil War and was made governor of Hull. He was imprisoned in 1656 for two years after he fought under Cromwell in Scotland and was suspected of planning an insurrection against the government. When Cromwell fell, Overton was released, but the doubts about him remained and his further support for a republic led to imprisonment for almost the rest of his life. The date and place of his death are unknown.

38 Whatever our forefathers were, or whatever they did or suffered, or were enjoined to yield unto, we are the men of the present age, and ought to be absolutely free from all kinds of exorbitancies, molestations, or arbitrary power.

1646 Remonstrance to the House of Commons.

Ovid full name Publius Ovidius Naso 43 BC–AD 17

Roman poet, who trained for law but turned to poetry. His many works include the Ars Amatoria, the Metamorphoses and the Fasti. He was banished by Augustus in AD 8 to Tomi on the Black Sea, where he wrote the Tristia.

No species remains constant: that great renovator of matter

Nature, endlessly fashions new forms from old: there's nothing

in the whole universe that perishes, believe me; rather it renews and varies its substance. What we describe as birth is no more than incipient change from a prior state, while dying

is merely to quit it. Though the parts may be transported hither and thither, the sum of all matter is constant.

Metamorphoses, bk.15, l.252–8 (translated by Peter Green).

48 Donec eris felix, multos numerabis amicos

Tempora si fuerint nubila, solus eris.

So long as you are fortunate, you will count many friends; if your life should become clouded, you will be alone.

Owen, David Anthony Llewellyn Owen, Baron 1938–

English politician, one of the ‘Gang of Four’ who formed the Social Democratic Party (SDP) in 1981, becoming its leader in 1983. He resigned in 1987 rather than merge with the Liberal party, and led a minority, reconstituted SDP, dissolved in 1990. From 1992 to 1995 he was co-chairman (initially with Cyrus R Vance) of the international peace conference on the former Yugoslavia.

49 We are fed up with fudging and nudging, with mush and slush.

1980 Speech to Labour’s national conference shortly before leaving the party to found the Social Democratic Party, Oct.

Owen, Robert 1771–1858

Welsh social reformer and philanthropist.

50 All the world is queer save thee and me, and even thou art a little queer.

Attributed. Said to his partner W Allen when they ended their business relationship.

Owen, Wilfred 1893–1918

English poet. Injured in the trenches in 1917, he met Siegfried Sassoon while recuperating in Edinburgh. He died in the last week of the war, and most of his poems were published posthumously. Their vivid and unsentimental realism is a powerful indictment of war, and they were memorably used by Benjamin Britten in his War Requiem, first performed in Coventry Cathedral (1962).

51 What passing-bells for these who die as cattle?

Only the monstrous anger of the guns.
Only the stuttering rifles’ rapid rattle
Can patter out their hasty orisons.

1917 ‘Anthem for Doomed Youth’.

52 The pallor of girls’ brows shall be their pall;

Their flowers the tenderness of patient minds,
And each slow dusk a drawing-down of blinds.

1917 ‘Anthem for Doomed Youth’.

53 Red lips are not so red

As the stained stones kissed by the English dead.

1917 ‘Greater Love’.

54 This book is not about heroes. English poetry is not yet fit to speak of them.

1918 Poems (published 1920), preface.

55 Above all, this book is not concerned with Poetry. The subject of it is War, and the pity of War. The Poetry is in the pity.

1918 Poems (published 1920), preface.

56 All the poet can do today is to warn.

That is why the true Poet must be truthful.

1918 Poems (published 1920), preface.

57 If you could hear, at every jolt, the blood

Come gargling from the froth-corrupted lungs,
Bitter as the cud

Of vile, incurable sores on innocent tongues,—
My friend, you would not tell with such high zest
To children ardent for some desperate glory

The old Lie: Dulce et decorum est

Pro patria mori.

1918 ‘Dulce et Decorum Est’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

► See Horace 413:23.

58 It seemed that out of battle I escaped

Down some profound dull tunnel, long since scooped
Through granites which titanic wars had groined.

1918 ‘Strange Meeting’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

59 And by his smile, I knew that sullen hall,

By his dead smile I knew we stood in Hell.

1918 ‘Strange Meeting’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

60 ‘Strange friend,’ I said, ‘here is no cause to mourn.’

‘None,’ said the other, ‘save the undone years,
The hopelessness. Whatever hope is yours
Was my life also; I went hunting wild
After the wildest beauty in the world.’

1918 ‘Strange Meeting’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

61 I am the enemy you killed, my friend.

1918 ‘Strange Meeting’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

62 Move him into the sun—

Gently its touch awoke him once,
At home, whispering of fields unsown.

1918 ‘Futility’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

63 If anything might rouse him now

The kind old sun will know.

1918 ‘Futility’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

64 Was it for this the clay grew tall?

—O what made fatuous sunbeams toil
To break earth’s sleep at all?

1918 ‘Futility’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

65 So secretly, like wrongs hushed-up, they went.

1918 ‘The Send-Off’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

66 Whatever mourns when many leave these shores:

Whatever shares
The eternal reciprocity of tears.

1918 ‘Insensibility’, collected in Poems (published 1920).

Owens, Jesse James Cleveland 1913–80

US athlete. The greatest sprinter of his generation, he won four gold medals at the Berlin Olympics in 1936, embarrassing the Nazi hosts, who had hoped to demonstrate the supremacy of Aryan athletes.

67 I let my feet spend as little time on the ground as possible. From the air, fast down, and from the ground, fast up.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Ozick, Cynthia 1928–

US writer. She claimed to have begun her first novel, Trust (1966), an American writer and finished it six and a half years later a Jewish one. Other works include the short stories The Shawl (1989) and the novel The Puttermesser Papers (1997).

Pacheco, José Emilio 1939–

Mexican poet, novelist, critic and translator. His poetry expresses his metaphysical concerns in brilliant images. The novel Morirás lejos (1967) documents the purges of Jews throughout history.

69 Porque todo es irreal en este cuento. Nada sucedió como se indica. Hechos y sitios se deformaron por el empeño de tocar la verdad mediante una ficción, una mentira. Todo irreal, nada sucedió como aquí se refiere. Pero fue un pobre intento de contribuir a que el gran crimen nunca se repita.

For everything in this story is unreal. Nothing happened the way it was suggested. Facts and places were distorted by that persistent desire to touch the truth by means of fiction, a lie. All of it is unreal; nothing happened the way it is told here. It was a poor attempt to help ensure that the great crime is never repeated.

1967 Morirás lejos (translated as You Will Die in a Distant Land, 1991).

Packer, Kerry 1937–

Australian media executive.

73 If a British guy saw someone at the wheel of a Rolls-Royce, he'd say 'come the revolution and we'll take that away from you, mate', where the American would say 'one day I'll have one of those, when I have worked hard enough'. It's unfortunate we Australians inherited the British mentality.

Paderewski, Ignace Jan 1860–1941

Polish pianist, composer and statesman, director of the Warsaw Conservatory (from 1909). In 1919 he became premier of Poland. He retired from politics to return to his music, but in 1940 was elected President by Poland's provisional parliament in Paris.

76 If I don't practise for one day, I know it; if I don't practise for two days, the critics know it; if I don't practise for three days, the audience knows it.

Quoted in Nat Shapiro An Encyclopedia of Quotations about Music (1978).

US actress. She made her name with the lead role in Tennessee Williams's Summer and Smoke (1954).

77 Name me one character in literature or drama who can't be described as neurotic... We wouldn't want to know the people we get to see on the stage. How would you like to have Medea for dinner? Or Macbeth slurping your soup? Or Oedipus with his bloody, blinded eyes dripping all over your tablecloth?

Pagels, Heinz R(udolf) 1939–88

US theoretical physicist and social activist, the author of several works describing the complexities of modern physics for the public.

78 A good simulation, be it a religious myth or scientific theory, gives us a sense of mastery over experience.

To represent something symbolically, as we do when we speak or write, is somehow to capture it, thus making it one's own. But with this appropriation comes the realization that we have denied the immediacy of reality and that in creating a substitute we have but spun another thread in the web of our grand illusion.

1988 The Dreams of Reason.

79 Science provides a vision of reality seen from the perspective of reason, a perspective that sees the vast order of the universe, living and non-living matter, as a material system governed by rules that can be known by the human mind. It is a powerful vision, formal and austere but strangely silent about many of the questions that deeply concern us. Science shows us what exists but not what to do about it.

Paine, Thomas 1737–1809

English radical political writer. His Common Sense (1776) argued for complete American independence, and The Rights of Man (1791–2) supported the French Revolution. Arraigned for treason, he fled to Paris, and wrote The Age of Reason (1794) in favour of deism.

88 These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman.

1776 The Crisis, introduction, Dec.

89 Not all the treasures of the world, so far as I believe, could have induced me to support an offensive war, for I think it murder; but if a thief breaks into my house, burns and destroys my property, and kills or threatens to kill me or those that are in it, and to 'bind me in all cases whatsoever' to his absolute will, am I to suffer it?

1776 The Crisis, introduction, Dec.

90 Government, even in its best state, is but a necessary evil; in its worst state, an intolerable one. Government, like dress, is the badge of lost innocence; the palaces of kings are built upon the bowers of paradise.

Palmerston, Henry John Temple, 3rd Viscount 1784–1865

English politician, Foreign Secretary (1830–41, 1846–51) and Prime Minister (1855–8, 1859–65). His abrasive, bullying approach to foreign affairs and propensity for brinkmanship made him unpopular with his colleagues and the public.

- 19 Half the wrong conclusions at which mankind arrive are reached by the abuse of metaphors, and by mistaking general resemblance or imaginary similarity for real identity.
1839 Letter to Henry Bulwer, 1 Sep.
- 20 Diplomats and protocols are very good things, but there are no better peace-keepers than well-appointed three-deckers.
c.1840 Quoted in Denis Judd Palmerston (1975). A three-decker is a warship.

1847 On the Opium Wars of 1839–42. Election speech at Tiverton, Devon.

22 We have no eternal allies, and we have no perpetual enemies. Our interests are eternal, and it is our duty to follow them.

1848 Speech, House of Commons, 1 Mar.

23 Large republics seem to be essentially and inherently aggressive.

1848 Letter to the British Ambassador to Paris, 5 Mar.

24 I therefore fearlessly challenge the verdict which this house... is to give on the question now brought before it... whether, as the Roman, in days of old, held himself free from indignity, when he could say Civis Romanus sum; so also a British subject, in whatever land he may be, shall feel confident that the watchful eye and the strong arm of England will protect him against injustice and wrong.

1850 From his four-and-a-half hour Don Pacifico speech, Jun. Don Pacifico was a Portuguese Jew resident in Athens, born in Gibraltar and therefore a British subject. In support of his claims for compensation from the Greek government for damage done to his property by a mob, Palmerston sent the British fleet to blockade Piraeus and brought the two countries to the brink of war.

25 You may call it coalition, you may call it the accidental and fortuitous concurrence of atoms... but when gentlemen are in the habit of finding themselves in the same Lobby, it is not unnatural to suppose that they may, under certain circumstances, be ready to unite themselves together for the purpose of forming an Administration and becoming responsible for the opinions that they severally entertain.

1858 Speech on the rumoured Palmerston–Disraeli coalition, 5 Mar.

26 England is one of the greatest powers of the world. No event or series of events bearing on the balance of power, or on probabilities of peace or war, can be matters of indifference to her, and her right to have and to express opinions on matters thus bearing on her interests is unquestionable.

1859 Letter to Queen Victoria, 23 Aug.

1955 Lines delivered by Danny Kaye in The Court Jester.

Pangkor, Treaty of

The British signed a treaty (1874) with a claimant to the Perak Sultanate on the island of Pangkor, off the west coast of what is now peninsular Malaysia, and thereby formalized their economic and political interest in the region. It led to British control over the whole of the peninsula for the following 83 years.

28 A British officer to be called Resident who shall be 1874 Treaty, Nov.

Pankhurst, Christabel 1880–1958

English suffragette and religious writer. Co-founder with her mother Emmeline Pankhurst of the Women's Social and Political Union (1903), she studied law (LLB 1906) and applied to join Lincoln's Inn, but was rejected, as a woman.

29 How long you women have been trying for the vote. For my part, I mean to get it.

c.1890 Childhood remark, quoted by her mother, Emmeline Pankhurst, in My Own Story (1914), ch.2.

Pankhurst, Emmeline née Goulden 1858–1928

English suffragette, organizer of the Women's Social and Political Union. A militant campaigner, she was frequently imprisoned and undertook hunger strikes. During World War I she turned her attention to the industrial mobilization of women.

30 Women never took a single step forward without being pushed back first of all by their opponents.

1912 Speech, 14 Jan, during a tour of Canada.

31 There is something that Governments care for far more than human life, and that is the security of property. So it is through property that we shall strike the enemy... Be militant each in your own way... I incite this meeting to rebellion.

1912 Speech, Royal Albert Hall, 17 Oct.

32 Women had always fought for men, and for their children. Now they were ready to fight for their own human rights.

1914 My Own Story, ch.3.

33 What is the use of fighting for the vote if we do not have a country to vote in? With that patriotism that has nerved women to endure torture in prison for the national good, we ardently desire that our country shall be victorious.

1914 Declaring a truce on suffragette activities for the duration of World War I, 10 Aug.

34 There are women today who never thought to envy men their manhood, but who would, at least for this purpose, be glad to be men.

1914 Speech appealing for the right to fight, 30 Nov, at a meeting organized by the Women's Social and Political Union, in the Kingsway Hall, London.

1979 On relinquishing authority as last governor of the Panama Canal Zone. Quoted in Time, 15 Oct.

Park, Mungo 1771–1806

Scottish explorer. He explored the Niger in 1796, then returned to Scotland and worked as a doctor, publishing Travels in the Interior Districts of Africa (1799), before leaving in 1805 for Africa again, sending back journals and letters.

38 I think it not unlikely but I shall be in England before you receive this—You may be sure that I feel happy at turning my face towards home. We this morning have done with all intercourse with the natives; and the sails are now hoisting for our departure for the coast.

1805 Last letter to his wife before leaving Sansanding on the River Niger. Collected in Journal of a Mission to the Interior of Africa in the Year 1805 (published 1815). Park and his party reportedly drowned in the river when they were ambushed and their boat sank.

Parker, Charlie known as 'Bird' 1920–55

US saxophonist, bandleader and composer, architect of the bebop style. Despite addiction to heroin and alcohol and recurring mental illness, he led jazz groups until his death. His works include 'Now's the Time' and 'Ornithology'.

39 It's just music. It's trying to play clean and looking for the pretty notes.

1949 On bebop. Quoted in Gary Giddins Celebrating Bird (1987), ch.1.

40 There is no boundary line to art. Music is your own experience, your thoughts, your wisdom. If you don't live it, it won't come out of your horn.

1950 Quoted in Ross Russell Bird Lives! (1972), pt.4, ch.22.

Parker, Dorothy née Rothschild 1893–1967

US writer and humorist, a central figure of the legendary Algonquin Hotel Round Table. She was an influential book and drama critic, contributing incisive and caustic reviews to the New Yorker. Her works include Enough Rope (1926) and Here Lies (1939).

41 Brevity is the soul of lingerie, as the Petticoat said to the Chemise.

Parks, Rosa Lee née McCauley 1913–

US civil rights protester.

90 All I was doing was trying to get home from work.

On refusing to give up her seat to a white man in Montgomery, Alabama, which led to the 1955 Montgomery bus boycott and in turn to a Supreme Court ruling that bus segregation was unconstitutional, and fuelled the civil rights movement. Quoted in Time, 15 Dec 1975.

Parnell, Charles Stewart 1846–91

Irish politician, elected President of the Irish National Land League (1878). In 1886 he allied with the Liberals in support of Gladstone's Home Rule bill, but was forced to retire as leader of the Irish Nationalists in 1890 in disgrace when cited as co-respondent in a divorce case.

91 When a man takes a farm from which another has been evicted, you must show him on the roadside when you meet him; you must show him in the streets of the town; you must show him in the fair and the market place; and even in the house of worship, by leaving him severely alone—by putting him into a moral Coventry, by isolating him from his kind as if he were a leper of old. You must show him your detestation of the crimes that he has committed.

1880 Speech that established the practice of boycotting, Ennis, 19 Sep.

92 And it is a good sign that this masquerading knight-errant, this pretended champion of the rights of every other nation except those of the Irish nation, should be obliged to throw off the mask today, and to stand revealed as the man who by his own utterances is prepared to carry fire and sword into your homesteads unless you humbly abase yourselves before him, and before the landlords of the country.

1881 Speech successfully inciting Gladstone to arrest him, 9 Oct.

93 No man has a right to fix the boundary of the march of a nation. No man has a right to say to his country, 'Thus far thou shalt go and no further.'

1885 Speech, Cork, 21 Jan.

Parra, Nicanor 1914–

Chilean physicist, poet and lecturer. He addresses common problems in a clear and direct language, with black humour and a highly ironic vision.

94 Padre nuestro que estás en el cielo

Lleno de toda clase de problemas

Con el ceño fruncido

Como si fueras un hombre vulgar y corriente

No pienses más en nosotros.

Our Father who art in Heaven

Full of all kinds of problems

Ceaselessly frowning

As if you were a simple man:

Stop thinking about us.

1969 Obra gruesa, 'Padre nuestro' ('Our Father').

Parr-Davies, Harry 1914–55

An ascetic Christian and member of the Jansenist movement, he wrote much spiritual literature. Notes found after his death were published as Pensées in 1670.

- 5 Il y a deux sortes d'esprits, l'un géométrique, et l'autre que l'on peut appeler de finesse. Le premier a des vues lentes, dures et inflexibles; mais le dernier a une souplesse de pensée.
There are two kinds of mind, one mathematical, the other what one might call the intuitive. The first takes a slow, firm, inflexible view, but the latter has flexibility of thought.
c.1653 Discours sur les passions de l'amour (Discourse on the Passions of Love). This is usually attributed to Pascal.
- 6 Dans une grande âme tout est grand.
In a great soul everything is great.
c.1653 Discours sur les passions de l'amour (Discourse on the Passions of Love). This is usually attributed to Pascal.
- 7 Quelque étendue d'esprit que l'on ait, l'on n'est capable que d'une grande passion.
However vast a man's spirit, he is only capable of one great passion.
c.1653 Discours sur les passions de l'amour (Discourse on the Passions of Love). This is usually attributed to Pascal.
- 8 La netteté de l'esprit cause aussi la netteté de la passion; c'est pourquoi un esprit grand et net aime avec ardeur, et il voit distinctement ce qu'il aime.
Clarity of mind results in clarity of passion; that is why a great mind loves ardently and sees distinctly what it loves.

c.1653 Discours sur les passions de l'amour (Discourse on the Passions of Love). This is usually attributed to Pascal.

- 9 L'on a beau se cacher à soi-même, l'on aime toujours.
We vainly conceal from ourselves the fact that we are always in love.
c.1653 Discours sur les passions de l'amour (Discourse on the Passions of Love). This is usually attributed to Pascal.
- 10 La vraie éloquence se moque de l'éloquence, la vraie morale se moque de la morale.
True eloquence has no time for eloquence, true morality has no time for morality.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.4 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 11 La dernière chose qu'on trouve en faisant un ouvrage, est de savoir celle qu'il faut mettre la première.
The last thing one discovers in composing a work is what to put first.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.19 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 12 Quand on voit le style naturel, on est tout étonné et ravi, car on s'attendait de voir un auteur, et on trouve un homme.
When we see a natural style we are quite amazed and delighted, because we expected to see an author and find a man.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.29 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 13 L'homme n'est qu'un sujet plein d'erreur, naturelle et ineffaçable sans la grâce.
Man is nothing but a subject full of natural error that cannot be eradicated except through grace.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.83 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 14 Condition de l'homme: inconstance, ennui, inquiétude.
Man's condition. Inconstancy, boredom, anxiety.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.127 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 15 Notre nature est dans le mouvement; le repos entier est la mort.
Our nature consists in movement; absolute rest is death.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.129 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 16 Tout le malheur des hommes vient d'une seule chose, qui est de ne savoir pas demeurer en repos, dans une chambre.
The sole cause of man's unhappiness is that he does not know how to stay quietly in his room.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.139 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 17 Le nez de Cléopâtre: s'il eût été plus court, toute la face de la terre aurait changé.
Cleopatra's nose: if it had been shorter the whole face of the earth would have been different.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.162 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 18 Le silence éternel de ces espaces infinis m'effraie.
The eternal silence of these infinite spaces fills me with dread.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.206 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 19 Combien de royaumes nous ignorent!
How many kingdoms know nothing of us!
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.207 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 20 Le dernier acte est sanglant, quelque belle que soit la comédie en tout le reste; on jette enfin de la terre sur la tête, et en voilà pour jamais.
The last act is bloody, however fine the rest of the play. They throw earth over your head and it is finished forever.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.210 (translated by A Krailsheimer).

- 21 Pesons le gain et la perte, en prenant croix que Dieu est. Estimons ces deux cas: si vous gagnez, vous gagnez tout; si vous perdez, vous ne perdez rien. Gagez donc qu'il est, sans hésiter.
Let us weigh up the gain and loss involved in calling heads that God exists. Let us assess the two cases: if you win you win everything, if you lose you lose nothing. Do not hesitate then; wager that he does exist.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.233 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 22 Tout notre raisonnement se réduit à céder au sentiment. All our reasoning comes down to surrendering to feeling.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.274 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 23 Le cœur a ses raisons, que la raison ne connaît point. The heart has its reasons of which reason knows nothing.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.277 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 24 L'homme n'est qu'un roseau, le plus faible de la nature; mais c'est un roseau pensant. Man is only a reed, the weakest in nature, but he is a thinking reed.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.347 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 25 Le moi est haïssable. The self is hateful.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.455 (translated by A Krailsheimer).
- 26 À mesure qu'on a plus d'esprit, on trouve qu'il y a plus d'hommes originaux. Les gens du commun ne trouvent pas de différence entre les hommes. The more intelligent one is, the greater the differences one finds among men. Ordinary persons do not perceive differences among men.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.1, no.7.
- 27 Éloquence qui persuade par douceur, non par empire, en tyran, non en roi. Eloquence should persuade gently, not by force or like a tyrant or king.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.1, no.15.
- 28 Qu'est-ce que l'homme dans la nature? Un néant à l'égard de l'infini, un tout à l'égard du néant, un milieu entre rien et tout. What is man in nature? Nothing in comparison to the infinite, all in comparison to nothing, a mean between nothing and everything.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.2, no.72.
- 29 La chose la plus importante à toute la vie est le choix du métier: le hasard en dispose. The most important thing in life is to choose a profession: chance arranges for that.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.2, no.97.
- 30 Knowledge of physical science will not console me for ignorance of morality in time of affliction, but knowledge of morality will always console me for ignorance of physical science.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, no.23.
- 31 L'homme n'est ni ange ni bête, et le malheur veut que qui veut faire l'ange fait la bête. Man is neither angel nor beast. Unfortunately, he who wants to act the angel often acts the beast.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.6, no.358.
- 32 En un mot, l'homme connaît qu'il est misérable: il est donc misérable, puisqu'il l'est; mais il est bien grand, puisqu'il le connaît. In one word, man knows that he is miserable and therefore he is miserable because he knows it; but he is also worthy, because he knows his condition.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.6, no.416.
- 33 Il n'y a que deux sortes d'hommes: les uns justes, qui se croient pécheurs; les autres pécheurs, qui se croient justes. There are only two types of people: the virtuous who believe themselves to be sinners and the sinners who believe themselves to be virtuous.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.7, no.534.
- 34 Il est non seulement impossible, mais inutile de connaître Dieu sans Jésus-Christ. It is not only impossible, but also useless to recognize God without Jesus.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.7, no.549.
- 35 Je ne crois que les histoires dont les témoins se feraient égorger. I only believe in histories told by witnesses who would have had their throats slit.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.9, no.593.
- 36 Le silence est la plus grande persécution: jamais les saints ne se sont tus. Silence is the greatest of all persecutions: no saint was ever silent.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.14, no.920.
- 37 Console-toi, tu ne me chercherais pas si tu ne m'avais trouvé. Comfort yourself. You would not seek me if you had not found me.
c.1654–1662 Pensées, pt.7, no.553 (translated by L Braunschvicg, 1909).
- 38 Je n'ai fait plus longue que parce que je n'ai pas eu le loisir de la faire plus courte. I have made this letter longer than usual, only because I have not had the time to make it shorter.
1657 Lettres provinciales, letter 16.
- 39 FEU. Dieu d'Abraham, Dieu d'Isaac, Dieu de Jacob, non des philosophes et savants. Certitude. Certitude. Sentiment. Joie. Paix. FIRE. God of Abraham, God of Isaac, God of Jacob, not of the philosophers and scholars. Certainty. Certainty. Feeling. Joy. Peace.
c.1662 Note found after his death on a parchment stitched to his coat.

1994 In the New York Times, 31 Mar.

Pasternak, Boris 1890–1960

Russian poet and novelist. He was awarded a Nobel prize for literature in 1958, but refused it.

- 41 Yet the order of the acts is planned
And the end of the way inescapable.
I am alone; all drowns in the Pharisees' hypocrisy.
1958 Doctor Zhivago.

- 42 The whole wide world is a cathedral;
I stand inside, the air is calm,
And from afar at times there reaches
My ear the echo of a psalm.
1958 When It Clears Up (translated by Lydia Pasternak Slater).

Pasteur, Louis 1822–95

French chemist, the father of modern bacteriology. He promoted inoculation as a means of preventing diseases, and in 1888 he founded the Institut Pasteur and served as its first director.

- 43 Dans les champs de l'observation le hasard ne favorise que les esprits préparés.
Where observation is concerned, chance favours only the prepared mind.
1854 Speech at the inauguration of the Faculty of Science, University of Lille, 7 Dec.
- 44 Science proceeds by successive answers to questions more and more subtle, coming nearer and nearer to the very essence of phenomena.
c.1856 Études sur la bière, ch.6 (translated by René Dubois).
- 45 Il n'existe pas de sciences appliquées, mais seulement des applications de la science.
There are no such things as applied sciences, only applications of science.
1872 Speech, Lyons, 11 Sep.
- 46 I am imbued with two deep impressions; the first, that science knows no country; the second, which seems to contradict the first, although it is really a direct consequence of it... that science is the highest personification of the nation. Science knows no country because knowledge belongs to humanity, and is the torch which illuminates the world. Science is the highest personification of the nation because that nation will remain the first which carries the furthest the works of thought and intelligence.
1876 Toast at the banquet of the International Congress of Sericulture (translated by René Dubois).
- 47 Outside their laboratories, the physician and chemist are soldiers without arms on the field of battle.
Some Reflections on Science in France, pt.1.

- 48 For greatness is only the drayhorse that coaxes
The built cart out; and where we go is reason.
But genius is an enormous littleness, a trickling
Of heart that covers alike the hare and the hunter.
1939 First Will and Testament, 'The Character of Love Seen as a Search for the Lost'.
- 49 Dogs with broken legs are shot; men with broken souls write through the night.
1941 The Journal of Albion Moonlight.
- 50 God must have loved the People in Power, for he made them so very like their own image of him.
Quoted by Adrian Mitchell in The Guardian, 1 Feb 1972.

Pater, Walter 1839–94

English critic and essayist, whose highly polished prose style was very influential. He wrote many essays on Renaissance art, and won a wider audience with a romance, Marius the Epicurean (1885).

- 51 She is older than the rocks among which she sits; like the vampire, she has been dead many times, and learned the secrets of the grave.
1873 Of the Mona Lisa. 'Leonardo da Vinci' in Studies in the History of the Renaissance.
- 52 All art constantly aspires towards the condition of music.
1873 'The School of Giorgione' in Studies in the History of the Renaissance.
- 53 Of such wisdom, the poetic passion, the desire of beauty, the love of art for its own sake, has most. For art comes to you proposing frankly to give nothing but the highest quality to your moments as they pass, and simply for those moments' sake.
1873 'Conclusion' in Studies in the History of the Renaissance.

Paterson, Banjo (Andrew Barton) 1864–1941

Australian poet and journalist. He worked on a station near Yass and later practised as a solicitor, contributing to the satirical weekly Bulletin as 'The Banjo'. His first collection of bush ballads, The Man from Snowy River (1895), gained him massive popularity.

- 54 Oh there once was a swagman camped in the billabongs,
Under the shade of a Coolibah tree;
And he sang as he looked at the old billy boiling,
'Who'll come a-waltzing Matilda with me.'
- Who'll come a-waltzing Matilda, my darling,
Who'll come a-waltzing Matilda with me.
Waltzing Matilda and leading a water-bag,
Who'll come a-waltzing Matilda with me.
1885 'Waltzing Matilda', in the Bulletin, Apr.
- 55 I had written him a letter which I had, for want of better Knowledge, sent to where I met him, down the Lachlan, years ago.
He was shearing when I knew him, so I sent the letter
to him,
Just 'on spec', addressed as follows: 'Clancy, of the Overflow'.
And an answer came directed in a writing unexpected,
(And I think the same was written with a thumbnail dipped in tar)
'Twas his shearing mate who wrote it, and verbatim I will quote it:
'Clancy's gone to Queensland droving, and we don't know where he are.'
1895 'Clancy of the Overflow', first published in the Bulletin, collected in The Man from Snowy River and Other Verses (1895).
- 56 In all museums throughout the world one may see plaster casts of footprints of weird animals, footprints preserved for posterity, not because the animals were particularly good of their sort, but because they had the luck to walk on the lava while it was cooling. There is just a faint hope that something of the same sort may happen to us.
Of Henry Lawson and himself writing in a new land. Quoted in Rosamund Campbell and Philippa Harvie A Literary Heritage:
'Banjo' Paterson (1988), introduction.

Patmore, Coventry Kersey Dighton 1823–96

English poet. He was associated with the Pre-Raphaelite brotherhood. His best work, The Angel in the House (4 vols. 1854–63), was a poetic treatment of married love which delighted a generation devoid of cynicism to whom he and his first wife, Emily, epitomized Victorian values.

- 57 Oh, wasteful woman, she who may
On her sweet self set her own price,
Knowing man cannot choose but pay,
How has she cheapened paradise:
How given for naught her priceless gift,
How spoiled the bread and spilled the wine,
Which, spent with due, respective thrift,
Had made brutes men, and men divine.
1854 The Angel in the House, bk.1, The Betrothal, canto 3, prelude 3, 'Unthriff'.
- 58 Love wakes men, once a lifetime each:
They lift their heavy lids, and look;
And, lo, what one sweet page can teach,
They read with joy, then shut the book.
1854 The Angel in the House, bk.1, The Betrothal, canto 8, prelude 2, 'The Revelation'.
- 59 'I saw you take his kiss!' 'Tis true.'
'O modesty!' 'Twas strictly kept:
He thought me asleep—at least, I knew
He thought I thought he thought I slept.'
1854 The Angel in the House, bk.2, The Espousal, canto 8, prelude 3, 'The Kiss'.
- 60 A woman is a foreign land.
1854 The Angel in the House, bk.2, The Espousal, canto 9, prelude 2, 'The Foreign Land'.
- 61 It was not like your great and gracious ways!
Do you, that have naught other to lament,
Never, my love, repent.
1877 To the Unknown Eros, bk.1, no.8, 'Departure'.
- 62 With all my will, but much against my heart,
We two now part.
1877 To the Unknown Eros, bk.1, no.16, 'A Farewell'.
- 63 'O say,
Shall we no voluntary bars
Set to our drift? I, Sister of the Stars,
And Thou, my glorious, course-compelling Day!
1877 To the Unknown Eros, bk.2, no.2, 'The Contract'.
- 64 No writer, sacred or profane, ever uses the words 'he' or 'him' of the soul. It is always 'she' or 'her'; so universal is the intuitive knowledge that the soul, with regard to God who is her life, is feminine.
1896 The Rod, the Root, and the Flower, 'Aurea Dicta', no.21.
- 65 Those who know God know that it is a quite a mistake to suppose that there are only five senses.
1896 The Rod, the Root, and the Flower, 'Aurea Dicta', no.142.
- 66 May I know by love and speak by silence.
1896 The Rod, the Root, and the Flower, 'Aphorisms and Extracts'.
- 67 He that but once too nearly hears
The music of forfended spheres
Is thenceforth lonely, and for all
His days as one who treads the Wall
Of China, and, on this hand, sees
Cities and their civilities
And, on the other, lions.
1863 The Victories of Love, bk.1.

- 68 Some dish more sharply spiced than this
Milk-soup men call domestic bliss.
Olympus (published 1906).

Paton, Alan 1903–88

South African writer and educator. President of the South African Liberal Party (1953–60), he is best remembered for his novel Cry, the Beloved Country (1948), on racial divisions in South Africa.

- 69 Cry, the Beloved Country.
1948 Title of book.
- 70 No second Johannesburg is needed upon the earth. One is enough.
1948 Cry, the Beloved Country, bk.2, section 6.

St Patrick 5C AD

Bishop and Apostle of Ireland.

- 71 Christ for my guardianship today: against poison, against burning, against drowning, against wounding, that there may come to me a multitude of rewards;
Christ with me,
Christ before me,
Christ behind me,
Christ in me,
Christ over me,
Christ to right of me,
Christ to left of me,
Christ in lying down,
Christ in sitting,
Christ in rising up,
Christ in the heart of every person who may think of me,
Christ in the mouth of every person who may speak of me,
Christ in every eye, which may look on me!
Christ in every ear, which may hear me!
St Patrick's Breastplate, traditionally attributed to the saint.

Patrick, John pseudonym of John Patrick Goggan 1905–95

US playwright and screenwriter. He received the Pulitzer Prize for the play The Teahouse of the August Moon (1953) and his screenplays include Three Coins in the Fountain (1954) and Love is a Many Splendoured Thing (1955).

1991 On Boris Yeltsin's proposals for economic republican autonomy. Interview, The Independent, 18 Apr.

Pavlova, Anna 1882–1931

Russian ballerina.

- 83 Although one may fail to find happiness in theatrical life, one never wishes to give it up after having once tasted its fruits. To enter the School of the Imperial Ballet is to enter a convent whence frivolity is banned, and where merciless discipline reigns.
Quoted in A H Franks (ed) Pavlova: A Biography, 'Pages of My Life' (1956).

Paxman, Jeremy 1950–

1997 Question asked 14 times of Conservative politician Michael Howard, relating to the sacking of a prison governor by the director of the Prison Service, Derek Lewis. On BBC's Newsnight.
- 85 Once upon a time the English knew who they were.
1998 The English: A Portrait of a People.
- 86 Scots are Jocks, Welshmen Taffies, and Irishmen Paddies or Micks but... it is noticeable there is no similar designation for the English.
1998 The English: A Portrait of a People.
- 87 The more you look back into English history, the more you are forced to the conclusion that alongside civility and the deeply held convictions about individual rights, the English have a natural taste for disorder.
1998 The English: A Portrait of a People.

Paz, Octavio 1914–98

Mexican poet, writer and diplomat. He sided with the Republican cause during the Spanish Civil War. In Paris, he was strongly influenced by the Surrealist movement. He was awarded a Nobel prize in 1990.

- 88 Amar es combatir, es abrir puertas, dejar de ser fantasma con un número a perpetua cadena condenado por un amo sin rostro.
To love is to battle, to open doors, to cease to be a ghost with a number forever in chains, forever condemned by a faceless master.
1949 Libertad bajo palabra, 'Piedra de sol' (translated as 'The Sun Stone', 1963).
- 89 Sin duda la cercanía de la muerte y la fraternidad de las armas producen, en todos los tiempos y en todos los países, una atmósfera propicia a lo extraordinario, a todo aquello que sobrepasa la condición humana y rompe el círculo de soledad que rodea a cada hombre.
No doubt the nearness of death and the brotherhood of men-at-wars, at whatever time and in whatever country, always produce an atmosphere favorable to the extraordinary, to all that rises above the human condition and breaks the circle of solitude that surrounds each one of us.
1950 El laberinto de la soledad, pt.1 (translated as The Labyrinth of Solitude, 1961).
- 90 Technology is not an image of the world but a way of operating on reality. The nihilism of technology lies not only in the fact that it is the most perfect expression of the will to power... but also in the fact that it lacks meaning.
1967 Alternating Current.

Peace Pilgrim real name Mildred Norman c.1908–1981

US writer and mystic. From 1952 to 1981 she walked through North America, carrying only the bare minimum of necessities and teaching wherever she went; her intention was to stop walking only when there was total peace in the world.

91 I never give out my zodiac sign. Do you honestly think I can be pushed around by a planet? Good heavens, your divine nature is always free.

Quoted in Susan Hayward and Malcolm Cohen The Bag of Jewels (1988).

Peacock, Thomas Love 1785–1866

English novelist. He entered the service of the East India Company (1819–56) after producing three satirical romances, attacking common prejudices and affectations, and produced further works along similar lines.

92 Marriage may often be a stormy lake, but celibacy is almost always a muddy horsepond.

1817 Melincourt, ch.7.

93 Laughter is pleasant, but the exertion is too much for me.

1818 Nightmare Abbey, ch.5.

94 Sir, I have quarrelled with my wife; and a man who has quarrelled with his wife is absolved from all duty to his country.

1818 Nightmare Abbey, ch.11.

95 The mountain sheep are sweeter,

But the valley sheep are fatter;
We therefore deemed it meet
To carry off the latter.

We made an expedition;

We met a host, and quelled it;

We forced a strong position,

And killed the men who held it.

1829 The Misfortunes of Elphin, 'The War-Song of Dinas Vawr'.

96 But though first love's impassioned blindness

Has passed away in colder light,
I still have thought of you with kindness,
And shall do, till our last goodnight.

The ever-rolling silent hours

Will bring a time we shall not know,

When our young days of gathering flowers

Will be an hundred years ago.

1860 'Love and Age'.

Pearson, Karl 1857–1936

English mathematician and Professor of Mathematics and Eugenics at University College London. Pearson is generally considered one of the founders of modern statistical theory.

97 When every fact, every present or past phenomenon of [the] universe, every phase of present or past life therein, has been examined, classified, and coordinated with the rest, then the mission of science will be completed. What is this but saying that the task of science can never end till man ceases to be, till history is no longer made, and development itself ceases?

1892 The Grammar of Science, pt.1, ch.5.

Pearson, Lester Bowles 1897–1972

Canadian politician, president of the UN General Assembly (1952–3). He won the Nobel peace prize (1957). Opposition leader from 1958, he was Prime Minister 1963–8.

98 The grim fact, however, is that we prepare for war like precocious giants and for peace like retarded pygmies.

1957 Acceptance speech on receiving the Nobel peace prize, 11 Dec.

99 Politics is the skilled use of blunt objects.

Quoted in Canadian Broadcasting Corporation tribute on his death, 1972.

Peary, Robert Edwin 1856–1920

US admiral and explorer. He made eight Arctic voyages by the Greenland coast. In 1906 he reached latitude 87° 6 mins N and on 6 Apr 1909 was the first to reach the North Pole.

1 I have got the North Pole out of my system after twenty-three years of effort, hard work, disappointments, hardships, privations, more or less suffering, and some risks... The work is the finish, the cap and climax of nearly four hundred years of effort, loss of life, and expenditure of fortunes by the civilized nations of the world, and it has been accomplished in a way that is thoroughly American. I am content.

1909 Diary entry, Apr. Quoted in The North Pole (published 1910).

2 In a march of only a few hours, I had passed from the western to the eastern hemisphere and had verified my position at the summit of the world. It was hard to realise that on the first miles of the brief march we had been travelling due north, while on the last few miles of the same march we had been travelling due south, although we had all the time been travelling precisely in the same direction.

1909 Description of crossing and then passing the Pole. The North Pole (published 1910).

Peck, M(organ) Scott 1936–

US writer and psychiatrist, author of the seminal self-help work The Road Less Traveled (1978). Later works, combining Christian teaching with psychiatric principles, include The Different Drum (1987).

3 Once we truly know that life is difficult—once we understand and accept it—then life is no longer difficult. Because once it is accepted, it no longer matters.

1978 The Road Less Traveled, ch.1.

4 The evil in this world is committed by the spiritual fat cats who think that they are without sin because they are unwilling to suffer the discomfort of significant self-examination.

1985 What Return Can I Make?

5 What being a Christian means, at the very least, is that whenever there is a decision to be made, which may be several times a day, an alternative should not be discarded simply because it is sacrificial.

1985 What Return Can I Make?

6 Simply seek happiness, and you are not likely to find it. Seek to create and love without regard to your happiness, and you will likely be happy much of the time.

1987 The Different Drum.

7 The healthy life is hardly one marked by an absence of crises. In fact, an individual's psychological health is distinguished by how early he or she can meet crisis.

1987 The Different Drum.

Peel, Sir Robert 1788–1850

English Tory statesman, Secretary for Ireland (1812–18), known as 'Orange Peel' for his strong anti-Catholic spirit. As Home Secretary (1822–7, 1828–30), he carried through the Catholic Emancipation Act (1829) and reorganized the London police force (the 'Peelers' or 'Bobbies'). As Prime Minister (1834–5, 1841–6), his decision to repeal the Corn Laws (1846) split his party, and precipitated his resignation, though he remained in Parliament as leader of the 'Peelites'.

- 8 If the spirit of the Reform Bill implies merely a careful review of institutions, civil and ecclesiastical, undertaken in a friendly temper, combining with the firm maintenance of established rights the correction of private abuses and the redress of real grievances, I can for myself and my colleagues undertake to act in such a spirit and with such intentions.

1834 The Tamworth Manifesto.

- 9 During my tenure of power, my earnest wish has been to impress the people of this country with a belief that the legislature was animated by a sincere desire to frame its legislation upon the principles of equity and justice... Deprive me of power tomorrow, but you can never deprive me of the consciousness that I have exercised the powers committed to me from no corrupt or interested motives, from no desire to gratify ambition, or to attain any personal object.

1846 On the repeal of the Corn Laws, House of Commons, 15 May.

- 10 It asks more steadiness, self-control, ay, and manly courage, than any other exercise. You must take as well as give—eye to eye, toe to toe, and arm to arm.

Of boxing. Quoted in John Boyle O'Reilly Ethics of Boxing and Manly Sport (1888).

Peele, George c.1556–1596

English dramatist and poet.

- 11 Fair and fair, and twice so fair,
As fair as any may be;
The fairest shepherd on our green,
A love for any lady.

1584 The Arraignment of Paris, act 1, sc. 5.

- 12 What thing is love for (well I wot) love is a thing.

It is a prick, it is a sting,
It is a pretty, pretty thing;
It is a fire, it is a coal
Whose flame creeps in at every hole.

c.1591 The Hunting of Cupid.

Pei, I(eoh) M(ing) 1917–

Chinese-born US architect. He emigrated to the US in 1935 and was naturalized in 1954. A controversial and adventurous designer, his works include Mile High Center, Denver and the glass pyramid at the Louvre, Paris.

- 13 Let's do it right. This is for the ages.

1978 Quoted by J Carter Brown, Director, National Gallery of Art, Washington, in the Washington Post, 27 Aug 1995. On his design for the gallery's East Building which was soaring to an unbudgeted cost of $94.4m.

- 14 Comment respecter la tradition, et innover en même temps? Quel pari difficile!

How to respect tradition and to innovate at the same time? What a difficult challenge!

1989 Les Grands desseins du Louvre (with E J Biasini).

- 15 L'architecture est le miroir même de la vie. Il n'est que de jeter les yeux sur des édifices pour sentir la présence du passé, l'esprit d'un lieu; ils sont le reflet de la société.

Architecture is the very mirror of life. You only have to cast your eyes on buildings to feel the presence of the past, the spirit of a place; they are the reflection of society.

1989 Les Grands desseins du Louvre (with E J Biasini).

Pelé pseudonym of Edson Arantes do Nascimento 1940–

Brazilian footballer. He won World Cup medals with Brazil (1958 and 1970) and scored over 1,000 goals in first-class football.

- 16 A penalty is a cowardly way to score.

Quoted in Peter Ball and Phil Shaw The Book of Football Quotations (1989).

- 17 I was born for soccer, just as Beethoven was born for music.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

- 18 Football is like a religion to me. I worship the ball, and I treat it like a god. Too many players think of a football as something to kick. They should be taught to caress it and to treat it like a precious gem.

Quoted in David Pickering The Cassell Soccer Companion (1994).

Penecuik, Dr Alex 1652–1722

Scottish poet.

- 19 To curl on the ice, does greatly please,

Being a manly Scottish exercise;
It clears the Brains, stirs up the Native Heat,
And gives a gallant appetite for Meat.

1715 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Penfield, Wilder Graves 1891–1976

US-born Canadian neurosurgeon, who worked mainly at Montreal's Allan Memorial Institute, where he was first director (1934–60). He famously worked on the exposed brains of living human subjects, and on retirement turned to writing fiction and biography.

- 20 In all our studies of the brain, no mechanism has been discovered that can force the mind to think, or the individual to believe, anything. The mind continues free. That is a statement I have long considered. I have made every effort to disprove it, without success.

1970 Second Thoughts: Science, the Arts, and the Spirit.

Peniakoff, Vladimir 1897–1951

Belgian-born soldier and writer.

- 21 A message came on the wireless for me. It said: 'SPREAD ALARM AND DESPONDENCY'. So the time had come, I thought, Eighth Army was taking the offensive. The date was, I think, May 18th, 1942.

1950 Popski's Private Army.

Penn, William 1644–1718

English Quaker, imprisoned for his beliefs. In 1681, in settlement of Charles II's debt to his father, he was granted land in America, and founded the colony of Pennsylvania as a refuge for persecuted Quakers.

- 22 This day my country was confirmed to me under the great seal of England, with large powers and privileges, by the name of Pennsylvania; a name the king would give it in honor of my father.

1681 Letter to Robert Turner, 14 Mar.

23 Inquire often, but judge rarely, and thou wilt not often be mistaken.

1693 Some Fruits of Solitude.

People's Daily

The official daily newspaper of the Communist Party of China. Speaking for the Chinese government, in 1979 a series of articles denounced the Democracy Wall Movement. Changan Road in Beijing had been a centre for posters and news-sheets demanding democratic rights.

24 The imperialists brought the Chinese people cannons rather than flowers, death instead of 'human rights'... How can they be in a position to instruct us on 'civil rights'?

1979 People's Daily, 22 Mar.

Pepys, Samuel 1633–1703

English civil servant and diarist. He rose in the naval service to become Secretary to the Admiralty, 1672. His diary, covering the years 1660 to 1669, is an important historical and social document.

25 Boys do now cry 'Kiss my Parliament!' instead of 'Kiss my arse!' so great and general a contempt is the Rump come to among all men, good and bad.

1660 Diary entry, 7 Feb. The Rump Parliament was that which persisted after the fall of Richard Cromwell, and before the restoration of Charles II.

26 And so to bed.

1660 Diary entry, 20 Apr and passim.

27 A silk suit, which cost me much money, and I pray God to make me able to pay for it.

1660 Diary entry, 1 Jul.

28 I went out to Charing Cross to see Major-General Harrison hanged, drawn and quartered—which was done there—he looking as cheerfully as any man could do in that condition... Thus it was my chance to see the King beheaded at Whitehall and to see the first blood shed in revenge for the blood of the King at Charing Cross.

1660 Diary entry, 13 Oct.

29 A good honest and painful sermon.

1661 Diary entry, 17 Mar.

30 But methought it lessened my esteem of a king, that he should not be able to command the rain.

1662 Diary entry, 19 Jul.

31 I see it is impossible for the King to have things done as cheap as other men.

1662 Diary entry, 21 Jul.

32 To the King's Theatre, where we saw Midsummer Night's Dream, which I had never seen before, nor shall ever again, for it is the most insipid, ridiculous play that ever I ever saw in my life.

1662 Diary entry, 29 Sep.

33 But Lord! to see the absurd nature of Englishmen, that cannot forbear laughing and jeering at everything that looks strange.

1662 Diary entry, 27 Nov.

34 Then over the park (where I first in my life, it being a great frost, did see people sliding with their skates, which is a very pretty art).

1662 Diary entry, 1 Dec.

35 My wife, who, poor wretch, is troubled with her lonely life.

1662 Diary entry, 19 Dec.

36 After dinner to the Duke's house, and there saw Twelfth Night acted well, though it be but a silly play.

1663 Diary entry, 6 Jan.

37 Most of their discourse was about hunting, in a dialect I understand very little.

1663 Diary entry, 22 Nov.

38 To the Tennis Court, and there saw the King play at tennis and others; but to see how the King's play was extolled, without any cause at all, was a loathsome sight.

1664 Diary entry, 4 Jan.

39 Up, and by coach to Sir Ph. Warwicks, the street being full of footballs, it being a great frost.

1665 Diary entry, 3 Jan. Frost restricted the amount of horse traffic in the streets of London, making football a possibility.

40 This day, much against my will, I did in Drury Lane see two or three houses marked with a red cross upon the doors, and 'Lord have mercy upon us' writ there—which was a sad sight to me, being the first of that kind that to my remembrance I ever saw.

1665 Diary entry, 7 Jun. The houses were afflicted with bubonic plague, which lasted in London until the summer of 1666.

41 Up, all of us, and to Billiards.

1665 Diary entry, 17 Jul.

42 The people die so, that now it seems they are fain to carry the dead to be buried by daylight, the nights not sufficing to do it in. And my Lord Mayor commands people to be within at 9 at night, all (as they say) that the sick may have liberty to go abroad for ayre.

1665 Diary entry, 12 Aug.

43 And it is a wonder what will be the fashion after the plague is done as to periwigs, for nobody will dare to buy any hair for fear of the infection—that it had been cut off the heads of people dead of the plague.

1665 Diary entry, 3 Sep.

44 Strange to say what delight we married people have to see these poor fools decoyed into our condition.

1665 Diary entry, 25 Dec.

45 Music and women I cannot but give way to, whatever my business is.

1666 Diary entry, 9 Mar.

46 Poor people staying in their houses as long as till the very fire touched them, and then running into boats or clambering from one pair of stair by the waterside to another. And among other things, the poor pigeons I perceive were loath to leave their houses, but hovered about the windows and balconies till they were some of them burned, their wings, and fell down.

1666 Diary entry, 2 Sep. The Great Fire of London continued for four days, destroying four-fifths of the total area of the city.

47 A most horrid malicious bloody flame... It made me weep to see it.

1666 Observing the Great Fire of London. Diary entry, 2 Sep.

48 Hardly one lighter or boat in three that had the goods of a house in, but there was a pair of virginalls in it.

1666 Describing the chaos on the Thames as people attempted to rescue their possessions from the flames. Diary entry, 2 Sep.

49 But it is pretty to see what money will do.

1668 Diary entry, 21 Mar.

Percy, Walker 1916–90

US novelist. His best-known work of fiction is The Moviegoer (1961), but he wrote several novels, and volumes of collected essays and non-fiction.

- 50 As Einstein once said, ordinary life in an ordinary day in the modern world is a dreary business. I mean dreary. People will do anything just to escape this dreariness.
1977 Interview in Esquire, Dec.
- 51 Unlike God the artist does not start with nothing and make something of it. He starts with himself as nothing and makes something of the nothing with the things at hand.
1977 Interview in Esquire, Dec.

Philips, Katherine née Fowler 1632–64

English poet. Her reputation was greater during her brief life, when she was known as 'the Matchless Orinda', than after her death, but she proved a significant model to later female poets. Her poems were surreptitiously printed in 1664 and issued in 1667.

91 Thus our twin souls in one shall grow,
 And teach the world new love,
 Redeem the age and sex, and show
 A flame fate dares not move:
 And courting death to be our friend,
 Our lives, together too, shall end.

1664 'To Mrs. M. A. at Parting'.

92 I did but see him, and he disappeared,
 I did but touch the rosebud, and it fell;
 A sorrow unforeseen and scarcely feared,
 So ill can mortals their afflictions spell.
 'On the Death of My First and Dearest Child, Hector Philips'.
 (Issued 1667).

95 Some doubt the courage of the Negro. Go to Haiti and stand on those fifty thousand graves of the best soldiers France ever had, and ask them what they think of the Negro's sword.

1861 Address on Toussaint l'Ouverture, referring to the War of Haitian Independence, 1804.

Picasso, Pablo Ruiz y 1881–1973

Spanish painter, graphic artist, sculptor and ceramicist. The melancholy studies of his early 'blue period' (1902–4) gave way to a life-affirming 'pink period' (1904–6). In later works he moved towards Cubism, along with Georges Braque.

96 There is no abstract art. You must always start with something. Afterward you can remove all traces of reality.

1935 In an interview with Christian Zervos, editor of Cahiers d'Art, translated by Alfred H Barr Jr in his Picasso: Fifty Years of His Art (1946).

97 Art is not the application of a canon of beauty but what the instinct and the brain can conceive beyond any canon. When we love a woman we don't start measuring her limbs.

1935 In an interview with Christian Zervos, editor of Cahiers d'Art, translated by Alfred H Barr Jr in his Picasso: Fifty Years of His Art (1946).

98 No, painting is not done to decorate apartments. It is an instrument of war for attack and defense against the enemy.

1945 Responding to claims that his Communism was a mere caprice. Quoted in Alfred H Barr Jr Picasso: Fifty Years of His Art (1946).

99 I paint objects as I think them, not as I see them.
 Quoted in John Golding Cubism (1959).

1 God is really only another artist. He invented the giraffe, the elephant, and the cat. He has no real style. He just goes on trying other things.
 Quoted in F Gilot and C Lake Life with Picasso (1964), pt.1.

2 We all know that art is not truth. Art is a lie that makes us realize truth.
 Quoted in Dore Ashton Picasso on Art (1972).

Pickford, Mary originally Gladys Mary Smith 1893–1979

US actress, born in Canada. Known as 'America's sweetheart', she played innocent heroines in a series of silent films (1909–29), and made her sound debut in 1929.

- 4 Adding sound to movies would be like putting lipstick on the Venus de Milo.
 Recalled on her death, 29 May 1979.

Pierce, C(harles) S(aunders) 1839–1914

US philosopher.

- 5 It is the man of science, eager to have his every opinion regenerated, his every idea rationalized, by drinking at the fountain of fact, and devoting all the energies of his life to the cult of truth, not as he understands it, but as he does not yet understand it, that ought properly to be called a philosopher.
Selected Writings, 'Lessons on the History of Science'.

Piercy, Marge 1936–

US novelist and poet. Novels including Woman on the Edge of Time (1975) trace the emerging feminist consciousness of the post-1960s generation. Later works include the novel Three Women (1999) and the volume of poetry Colors Passing Through Us (2003).

- 6 Burning dinner is not incompetence but war.
1983 Stone, Paper, Knife, 'What's that smell in the kitchen?'
- 7 Your anger was a climate I inhabited like a desert in a dry frigid weather of high thin air and ivory sun, sand dunes the wind lifted into stinging clouds that blinded and choked me where the only ice was in the blood.
1983 Stone, Paper, Knife, 'The Weight'.
- 8 On this twelfth day of my diet I would rather die satiated than slim.
1983 Stone, Paper, Knife, 'On Mental Corsets'.

2004 In the Observer, 30 May.

Piglia, Ricardo 1941–

Argentinian novelist and critic.

- 14 Sencillamente se me ocurre que la parodia se ha desplazado y hoy invade los gestos, las acciones. Donde antes había acontecimientos, experiencias, pasiones, hoy quedan sólo parodias. Eso trataba a veces de decirle a Marcelo en mis cartas: que la parodia ha sustituido por completo a la historia.
 It's simply that I believe that parody has been displaced and that it now invades all gestures and actions. Where there used to be events, experiences, passions, now there are nothing but parodies. This is what I tried to tell Marcelo so many times in my letters: that parody had completely replaced history.
1980 Respiración artificial, pt.2, ch.4 (translated as Artificial Respiration, 1994).

Pinter, Harold 1930–

English playwright, director and actor. Such early plays as The Birthday Party (1958) were dismissed as obscure, but after The Caretaker (1960) his work underwent a reappraisal and he was acknowledged as one of the most interesting playwrights of his generation. Subsequent works for the stage have included The Homecoming (1965) and Celebration (1999). He has also written numerous filmscripts, including The Servant (1963) and The French Lieutenant's Woman (1981).

20 If only I could get down to Sidcup! I've been waiting for the weather to break. He's got my papers, this man I left them with, it's got it all down there, I could prove everything.

24 Drama is action, sir, action and not confounded philosophy.

1921 Six Characters in Search of an Author (translated 1922).

Pirsig, Robert M(aynard) 1928–

US writer. His most noted book is Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance (1974), a rumination on life and technology after a cross-country motorcycle trip.

25 The Buddha, the Godhead, resides quite as comfortably in the circuits of a digital computer or the gears of a cycle transmission as he does at the top of a mountain or in the petals of a flower.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.1, ch.1.

26 When people are fanatically dedicated to political or religious faiths or any other kind of dogmas or goals, it's always because these dogmas or goals are in doubt.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.2, ch.3.

27 Mental reflection is so much more interesting than TV it's a shame more people don't switch over to it. They probably think what they hear is unimportant but it never is.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.3, ch.17.

28 One thing about pioneers that you don't hear mentioned is that they are invariably, by their nature, mess-makers.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.3, ch.21.

29 One geometry can not be more true than another; it can only be more convenient. Geometry is not true, it is advantageous.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.3, ch.22.

30 Traditional scientific method has always been at the very best, 20-20 hindsight. It's good for seeing where you've been. It's good for testing the truth of what you think you know, but it can't tell you where you ought to go.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.3, ch.24.

31 That's the classical mind at work, runs fine inside but looks dingy on the surface.

1974 Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance, pt.3, ch.26.

Pissarro, Camille 1830–1903

French Impressionist artist. Most of his works were painted in or around Paris.

32 But as I see it, the most corrupt art is the sentimental—the art of orange blossoms which make pale women swoon.

1883 Letter to his son Lucien.

33 Watercolour is not especially difficult, but I must warn you to steer clear of those pretty English watercolourists, so skilful and alas so weak, and so often too truthful.

1883 Letter to his son Lucien, Jul.

34 Draw more and more often—remember Degas.

1883 Letter to his son Lucien, Oct.

35 Observe that it is a grave error to believe that all mediums of art are not closely tied to their time.

1898 Letter to his son Lucien.

Pitt, William, 1st Earl of Chatham known as the Elder 1708–78

English statesman and orator. In 1756 he became Secretary of State, virtual Prime Minister. Forced to resign in 1757 by George II, he was recalled by public demand but resigned again in 1761 when his Cabinet refused to declare war on Spain. He formed a new ministry in 1766, but resigned in ill health (1768).

36 The atrocious crime of being a young man, which [Walpole] has, with such spirit and decency, charged upon me, I shall neither attempt to palliate nor deny; but content myself with wishing that I may be one of those whose follies cease with their youth, and not of those who continue ignorant in spite of their age and experience.

1741 Speech to the House of Commons, 6 Mar.

37 It is now apparent that this great, this powerful, this formidable kingdom is considered only as a province of a despicable electorate.

1742 Speech to the House of Commons, 10 Dec.

38 I know that I can save this country and that no one else can.

1756 In conversation with one of his private secretaries, Nov.

39 I was called by my sovereign and by the voice of the people to assist the State when others had abdicated the service of it. That being so, no one can be surprised that I will go on no longer, since my advice is not taken. Being responsible, I will direct—and will be responsible for nothing that I do not direct.

1761 On informing Cabinet of his resignation, 3 Oct.

40 I rejoice that America has resisted. Three millions of people, so dead to all the feelings of liberty, as voluntarily to submit to be slaves, would have been fit instruments to make slaves of the rest.

1766 Speech to the House of Commons, 14 Jan.

41 Where laws end, tyranny begins.

1770 Speech to the House of Lords, 2 Mar.

42 The spirit that now resists your taxation in America is...the same spirit that established the great fundamental, essential maxim of your liberties—that no subject of England shall be taxed but by his own consent. The glorious spirit of Whiggism animates three million in America, who prefer poverty with liberty to gilded chains and sordid affluence; and who will die in defence of their rights as men, as free men.

1775 Speech to the House of Lords, 20 Jan.

43 You cannot conquer America.

1777 Speech to the House of Lords, 18 Nov.

44 If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country, I never would lay down my arms—never—never—never!

1777 Speech to the House of Lords, 18 Nov.

Pitt, William known as the Younger 1759–1806

English statesman and Prime Minister (1783–1801, 1804–6), son of William Pitt, the Elder. Elected MP in 1781, he became Chancellor in 1782 and Britain's youngest-ever Prime Minister in 1783. He resigned over the King's opposition to the union with Ireland in 1801 but returned in 1804 to lead a coalition of European powers against Napoleon.

45 I am sure that the immediate abolition of the slave trade is the first, the principal, the most indispensable act of policy, of duty and of justice the legislature of this country has to take, if it is indeed their wish to secure those important objects... For we continue to this hour a barbarous traffic in slaves, we continue it even yet, in spite of all our great and undeniable pretensions as civilisation.

1792 Speech to the House of Commons, 2 Apr. The House did not abolish slavery until 1806.

46 We must recollect... what it is we have at stake, what it is we have to contend for. It is for our property, it is for our liberty, it is for our independence, nay for our existence as a nation; it is for our character, it is for our very name as Englishmen, it is for everything dear and valuable to man on this side of the grave.

1803 Speech, 22 Jul, on the breaking of the Peace of Amiens and the resumption of the war with Napoleon. Quoted in Speeches of the Rt. Hon. William Pitt (1806), vol.4.

47 Amid the wreck and the misery of nations it is our just exaltation that we have continued superior to all that ambition or despotism could effect; and our still higher exaltation ought to be that we provide not only for our own safety but hold out a prospect for nations now bending under the yoke of tyranny of what the exertions of a free people can effect.

Pius XII real name Eugenio Pacelli 1876–1958

Italian-born churchman, Pope from 1939.

55 Sport, rightly conceived, is an occupation carried out by the whole man. It renders the body a more perfect instrument of the soul and at the same time makes the soul itself a finer instrument of the whole man in seeking for Truth and in transmitting it to others. In this way it helps a man to reach that End to which all other ends are subordinate, the service and the greater glory of his Creator.

59 Science cannot solve the ultimate mystery of nature.
And that is because, in the last analysis, we ourselves are part of nature and therefore part of the mystery that we are trying to solve.

1932 Where is Science Going? pt.4 (translated by James Murphy).

60 A new scientific truth does not triumph by convincing its opponents and making them see the light, but rather because its opponents eventually die, and a new generation grows up that is familiar with it.

72 I saw my life branching out before me like the green fig-tree in the story.

From the tip of every branch, like a fat purple fig, a wonderful future beckoned and winked. One fig was a husband and a happy home and children, and another fig was a famous poet. . . I saw myself sitting in the crotch of this fig-tree, starving to death, just because I couldn't make up my mind which of the figs I would choose. I wanted each and every one of them, but choosing one meant losing all the rest, and, as I sat there, unable to decide, the figs began to wrinkle and go black, and, one by one, they plopped to the ground at my feet.

Plato c.428–c.348 BC

Greek philosopher, a pupil of Socrates and the teacher of Aristotle. He wrote in the form of dialogues, often with Socrates as a leading character. Some 30 philosophical dialogues and some letters (not all considered genuine) have survived.

75 Let no one ignorant of mathematics enter here.

c.380 BC Inscription over the door of the Academy at Athens.

76 The wisest of you men is he who has realized, like Socrates, that in respect of wisdom he is really worthless.

Apology, 23b (translated by H Tredennick).

77 Socrates is guilty of corrupting the minds of the young, and of believing in deities of his own invention instead of the gods recognized by the state.

The formal indictment in Socrates' trial, quoted in the Apology, 24b (translated by H Tredennick).

78 For I spend all my time going about trying to persuade you, young and old, to make your first and chief concern

- not for your bodies nor for your possessions, but for the highest welfare of your souls, proclaiming as I go, Wealth does not bring goodness, but goodness brings wealth and every other blessing, both to the individual and to the state.
Apology, 30b (translated by H Tredennick).
- 79 The unexamined life is not worth living.
Apology, 38a (translated by H Tredennick).
- 80 Now it is time that we were going, I to die and you to live, but which of us has the happier prospect is unknown to anyone but God.
Apology, 42a (translated by H Tredennick).
- 81 It is not living, but living well, which we ought to consider most important.
Crito, 48b (translated by H North Fowler, 1923).
- 82 Your country is more precious and more to be revered and is holier and in higher esteem among the gods and among men of understanding than your mother and your father and all your ancestors.
Crito, 51a–b (translated by H North Fowler, 1923).
- 83 Men of sound sense have Law for their god, but men without sense Pleasure.
Epistulae, 8. 354e (translated by R G Bury, 1925).
- 84 To do wrong is the greatest of evils.
Gorgias, 469b (translated by W D Woodhead). There is a similar remark in the Crito, 49b.
- 85 Much more wretched than lack of health in the body, it is to dwell with a soul that is not healthy, but corrupt.
Gorgias, 479b (translated by W R M Lamb, 1967).
- 86 No one can escape his destiny.
Gorgias, 512e (translated by W R M Lamb, 1967).
- 87 All the gold upon the earth and all the gold beneath it, does not compensate for lack of virtue.
Leges, 728a (translated by Trevor J Saunders, 1970).
- 88 Every unjust man is unjust against his will.
Leges, 731c (translated by Trevor J Saunders, 1970).
- 89 Is virtue something that can be taught?
Meno, 70a (translated by W K C Guthrie).
- 90 If we are ever to have pure knowledge of anything, we must get rid of the body and contemplate things by themselves with the soul by itself.
Phaedo, 66d (translated by H Tredennick).
- 91 One should die in silence.
Phaedo, 117e (translated by D Gallop, 1993).
- 92 Crito, we ought to offer a cock to Asclepius. See to it, and don't forget.
Phaedo, 118a (translated by H Tredennick).
- 93 For myself I am fairly certain that no wise man believes anyone sins willingly or willingly perpetrates any evil or base act.
Protagoras, 345e (translated by W K C Guthrie).
- 94 We must now examine whether just people also live better and are happier than unjust ones. I think it's clear already that this is so, but we must look into it further, since the argument concerns no ordinary topic, but the way we ought to live.
Republic, bk.1, 352d (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 95 Justice is superior to injustice.
Republic, bk.1, 367b (translated by P Shorey, 1953).
- 96 The most important stage of any enterprise is the beginning.
Republic, bk.2, 377b (translated by R Waterfield, 1993).
- 97 Justice is doing one's work and not meddling with what isn't one's own.
Republic, bk.4, 433a (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 98 Until philosophers rule as kings or those who are now called kings and leading men genuinely and adequately philosophize, that is, until political power and philosophy entirely coincide... cities will have no rest from evils, nor, I think, will the human race.
Republic, bk.5, 473c (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 99 Every soul pursues the good and does whatever it does for its sake.
Republic, bk.6, 505e (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 1 The power to learn is present in everyone's soul, and the instrument with which each learns is like an eye that cannot be turned around from darkness to light without turning the whole body.
Republic, bk.7, 518c (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 2 If the study of all these sciences which we have enumerated, should ever bring us to their mutual association and relationship, and teach us the nature of the ties which bind them together, I believe that the diligent treatment of them will forward the objects which we have in view, and that the labor, which otherwise would be fruitless, will be well bestowed.
Republic, bk.7, 531d (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 3 Extreme freedom can't be expected to lead to anything but a change to extreme slavery, whether for a private individual or for a city.
Republic, bk.8, 564a (translated by G M A Grube, revised by C D C Reeve).
- 4 God is a geometrician.

Poe, Edgar Allan 1809–49

US poet and short-story writer, a pioneer of the modern detective story, whose poetry emphasizes the beauty of melancholy. He is best known for stories such as 'The Tell-Heart' (1843) and his poem 'The Raven' (1845).

16 I know not how it was—but, with the first glimpse of the building, a sense of insufferable gloom pervaded my spirit... There was an iciness, a sinking, a sickening of the heart—an unredeemed dreariness of thought which no goading of the imagination could torture into aught of the sublime.

1839 'The Fall of the House of Usher', in the Gentleman's Magazine, Sep.

17 As the strong man exults in his physical ability, delighting in such exercises as call his muscles into action, so glories the analyst in that moral activity which disentangles.

51 Some are bewildered in the maze of schools,
And some made coxcombs Nature meant but fools.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.26–7.

52 Some have at first for wits, then poets passed,
Turned critics next, and proved plain fools at last.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.36–7.

53 First follow Nature, and your judgement frame
By her just standard, which is still the same:
Unerring Nature, still divinely bright,
One clear, unchanged, and universal light,
Life, force and beauty must to all impart,
At once the source and end and test of art.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.68–73.

54 A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring:
There shallow draughts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers us again.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.215–8.

55 Poets like painters, thus unskilled to trace
The naked nature and the living grace,
With gold and jewels cover ev'ry part,
And hide with ornaments their want of art.
True wit is Nature to advantage dressed,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.293–8.

56 Expression is the dress of thought.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.318.

57 In Words, as Fashions, the same rule will hold;
Alike Fantastic, if too New, or Old;
Be not the first by whom the New are try'd,
Nor the last to lay the Old aside.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.333–6.

58 As some to church repair,
Not for the doctrine, but the music there.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.342–3.

59 True ease in writing comes from art, not chance,
As those move easiest who have learned to dance.
'Tis not enough no harshness gives offence,
The sound must seem an echo to the sense.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.362–5.

60 To err is human; to forgive, divine.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.525.

61 All seems infected that th'infected spy,
As all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.558–9.

62 The bookful blockhead, ignorantly read,
With loads of learned lumbars in his head.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.612–3.

63 For fools rush in where angels fear to tread.

1711 An Essay on Criticism, l.625.

64 What dire offence from am'rous causes springs,
What mighty contests rise from trivial things.

1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 1, l.1–2.

65 Now lap-dogs give themselves the rousing shake,
And sleepless lovers, just at twelve, awake.

1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 1, l.15–16.

66 They shift the moving Toyshop of their heart.

1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 1, l.100.

67 Bright as the sun, her eyes the gazers strike,
And, like the sun, they shine on all alike.

1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 2, l.13–14.

68 If to her share some female errors fall,

- Look on her face, and you'll forget 'em all.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 2, 1.17–18.
- 69 Belinda smiled, and all the world was gay.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 2, 1.52.
- 70 Whether the nymph shall break Diana's law,
Or some frail china jar receive a flaw,
Or stain her honour, or her new brocade,
Forget her pray'rs, or miss a masquerade.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 2, 1.105–8.
- 71 Here thou, great Anna! whom three realms obey,
Dost sometimes counsel take—and sometimes tea.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 3, 1.7–8.
- 72 At ev'ry word a reputation dies.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 3, 1.16.
- 73 The hungry judges soon the sentence sign,
And wretches hang that jury-men may dine.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 3, 1.21–2.
- 74 Let spades be trumps! she said, and trumps they were.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 3, 1.46.
- 75 Not louder shrieks to pitying heav'n are cast,
When husbands or when lapdogs breathe their last.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 3, 1.157–8.
- 76 Sir Plume, of amber snuff-box justly vain,
And the nice conduct of a clouded cane.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 4, 1.123–4.
- 77 Beauties in vain their pretty eyes may roll;
Charms strike the sight, but merit wins the soul.
1714 The Rape of the Lock, canto 5, 1.133–4.
- 78 Happy the man, whose wish and care
A few paternal acres bound,
Content to breathe his native air,
In his own ground.
1717 'Ode on Solitude'.
- 79 Is there no bright reversion in the sky,
For those who greatly think or bravely die?
1717 Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady, 1.9–10.
- 80 On all the line a sudden vengeance waits,
And frequent hearses shall besiege your gates.
1717 Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady, 1.37–8.
- 81 By foreign hands thy dying eyes were closed,
By foreign hands thy decent limbs composed,
By foreign hands thy humble grave adorned,
By strangers honoured, and by strangers mourned.
1717 Elegy to the Memory of an Unfortunate Lady, 1.51–4.
- 82 Oh happy state! when souls each other draw,
When love is liberty, and nature, law:
All then is full, possessing, and possessed,
No craving void left aching in the breast.
1717 'Eloisa to Abeldard'.
- 83 No, make me mistress to the man I love;
If there be yet another name more free,
More fond than mistress, make me that to thee!
1717 'Eloisa to Abeldard'.
- 84 Of all affliction taught a lover yet,
'Tis sure the hardest science to forget!
How shall I lose the sin, yet keep the sense,
And love th'offender, yet detest th'offence?
How the dear object from the crime remove,
Or how distinguish penitence from love?
1717 'Eloisa to Abeldard'.
- 85 How happy is the blameless Vestal's lot!
The world forgetting, by the world forgot.
1717 'Eloisa to Abeldard'.
- 86 And wine can of their wits the wise beguile,
Make the sage frolic, and the serious smile.
1726 Odyssey, bk.14, 1.520–1.
- 87 Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest.
1726 Odyssey, bk. 15, 1.83.
- 88 To endeavour to work upon the vulgar with fine sense, is like attempting to hew blocks with a razor.
1727 Miscellanies, 'Thoughts on Various Subjects', vol.2.
- 89 A man should never be ashamed to own he has been in the wrong, which is but saying, in other words, that he is wiser to-day than he was yesterday.
1727 Miscellanies, 'Thoughts on Various Subjects', vol.2.
- 90 It is with narrow-souled people as with narrow-necked bottles: the less they have in them, the more noise they make in pouring it out.
1727 Miscellanies, 'Thoughts on Various Subjects', vol.2.
- 91 When men grow virtuous in their old age, they only make a sacrifice to God of the devil's leavings.
1727 Miscellanies, 'Thoughts on Various Subjects', vol.2.
- 92 The most primitive men are the most credulous.
1727 Miscellanies, 'Thoughts on Various Subjects', vol.2.
- 93 Consult the genius of the place in all.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.57.
- 94 Still follow sense, of ev'ry art the soul,
Parts answering parts shall slide into a whole.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.65–6.
- 95 No pleasing Intricacies intervene,
No artful wildness to perplex the scene;
Grove nods at grove, each a mirror of the other.
The suff'ring eye inverted Nature sees,
Trees cut to Statues, Statues thick as trees,
With here a Fountain, never to be play'd,
And there a Summer-house, that knows no shade;
Here Amphitrite sails thro' myrtle bow'rs
There Gladiators fight, or die, in flow'rs
Un-water'd see the drooping sea-horse mourn,
And swallows roost in Nilus' dusty Urn.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.115–25.
- 96 To rest, the cushion and soft Dean invite,
Who never mentions Hell to ears polite.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.149–50.
- 97 Another age shall see the golden ear
Imbrown the slope, and nod on the parterre,
Deep harvests bury all his pride has planned,
And laughing Ceres re-assume the land.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.173–6.
- 98 'Tis use alone that sanctifies expense,
And splendour borrows all her rays from sense.
1731 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Burlington', 1.179–80.
- 99 How often are we to die before we go quite off this stage? In every friend we lose a part of ourselves, and the best part.
1732 Letter to Swift, 5 Dec.
- 1 Who shall decide, when doctors disagree,
And soundest casuists doubt, like you and me?
1733 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Bathurst', 1.1–2.
- 2 But thousands die, without or this or that,

- Die, and endow a college, or a cat.
1733 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Bathurst', 1.95–6.
- 3 The ruling passion be it what it will,
 The ruling passion conquers reason still.
1733 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Bathurst', 1.155–6.
- 4 Who sees pale Mammon pine amidst his store,
 Sees but a backward steward for the poor;
 This year a reservoir, to keep and spare,
 The next a fountain, spouting through his heir,
 In lavish streams to quench a country's thirst,
 And men and dogs shall drink him 'till they burst.
1733 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Bathurst', 1.173–8.
- 5 In the worst inn's worst room, with mat half-hung,
 The floors of plaister, and the walls of dung,
 On once a flock-bed, but repaired with straw,
 With tape-tied curtains, never meant to draw,
 The George and Garter dangling from that bed
 Where tawdry yellow strove with dirty red,
 Great Villiers lies.
1733 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Bathurst', 1.229–35.
- 6 Awake, my St. John! leave all meaner things
 To low ambition, and the pride of kings.
 Let us (since Life can little more supply
 Than just to look about us and to die)
 Expatiate free o'er all this scene of man;
 A mighty maze! but not without a plan.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.1–6.
- 7 Eye Nature's walks, shoot Folly as it flies,
 And catch the Manners living as they rise.
 Laugh where we must, be candid where we can;
 But vindicate the ways of God to man.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.13–16.
 ► See Milton 580:93.
- 8 Observe how system into system runs,
 What other planets circle other suns.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.25–6.
- 9 Who sees with equal eye, as God of all,
 A hero perish, or a sparrow fall,
 Atoms or systems into ruin hurled,
 And now a bubble burst, and now a world.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.87–90.
- 10 Hope springs eternal in the human breast:
 Man never Is, but always To be blest.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.95–6.
- 11 Lo! the poor Indian, whose untutored mind
 Sees God in clouds, or hears him in the wind;
 His soul proud Science never taught to stray
 Far as the solar walk, or milky way;
 Yet simple Nature to his hope has giv'n,
 Behind the cloud-topped hill, an humbler heav'n.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.99–104.
- 12 Pride still is aiming at the blest abodes,
 Men would be angels, angels would be gods.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.125–6.
- 13 The spider's touch, how exquisitely fine!
 Feels at each thread, and lives along the line.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.217–8.
- 14 All are but parts of one stupendous whole,
 Whose body, Nature is, and God the soul.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.267–8.
- 15 All nature is but art, unknown to thee;
 All chance, direction, which thou canst not see;
 All discord, harmony, not understood;
 All partial evil, universal good:
 And, spite of Pride, in erring Reason's spite,
 One truth is clear, 'Whatever Is, is RIGHT.'
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 1, 1.289–94.
- 16 Know then thyself, presume not God to scan;
 The proper study of mankind is man.
 Placed on this isthmus of a middle state,
 A being darkly wise, and rudely great:
 With too much knowledge for the sceptic side,
 With too much weakness for the stoic's pride,
 He hangs between; in doubt to act or rest,
 In doubt to deem himself a god, or beast;
 In doubt his mind or body to prefer,
 Born but to die, and reas'ning but to err;
 Alike in ignorance, his reason such,
 Whether he thinks too little, or too much.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 2, 1.1–12.
- 17 Created half to rise, and half to fall;
 Great lord of all things, yet a prey to all;
 Sole judge of truth, in endless error hurled;
 The glory, jest, and riddle of the world!
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 2, 1.15–18.
- 18 Vice is a monster of so frightful mien,
 As, to be hated, needs but to be seen;
 Yet seen too oft, familiar with her face,
 We first endure, then pity, then embrace.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 2, 1.217–19.
- 19 The learn'd is happy nature to explore,
 The fool is happy that he knows no more.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 2, 1.263–4.
- 20 For forms of government let fools contest;
 Whate'er is best administered is best.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 3, 1.303–4.
- 21 In faith and hope the world will disagree,
 But all mankind's concern is charity.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 3, 1.307–8.
- 22 Thus God and nature linked the gen'ral frame,
 And bade self-love and social be the same.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 3, 1.317–18.
- 23 Oh Happiness! our being's end and aim!
 Good, pleasure, ease, content! whate'er thy name:
 That something still which prompts th' eternal sigh,
 For which we bear to live, or dare to die.
1734 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, 1.1–4.
- 24 Order is Heaven's first law.
1733 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, 1.49.
- 25 A wit's a feather, and a chief a rod;
 An honest man's the noblest work of God.
1734 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, 1.247–8.
- 26 If parts allure thee, think how Bacon shined,
 The wisest, brightest, meanest of mankind:
 Or ravished with the whistling of a name,
 See Cromwell, damned to everlasting fame!
1734 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, 1.281–4.
- 27 Slave to no sect, who takes no private road,
 But looks thro' Nature, up to Nature's God.
1734 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, 1.331–2.

- 28 All our knowledge is, ourselves to know.
1734 An Essay on Man, epistle 4, l.398.
- 29 Alas! in truth the man but changed his mind,
 Perhaps was sick, in love, or had not dined.
1734 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Cobham', l.127–8.
- 30 'Tis from high life high characters are drawn;
 A saint in crape is twice a saint in lawn.
1734 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Cobham', l.134–6.
- 31 Search then the Ruling Passion: There, alone,
 The wild are constant and the cunning known;
 The fool consistent, and the false sincere;
 Priests, princes, women, no dissemblers here.
 This clue once found, unravels all the rest.
1734 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Cobham', l.174–8.
- 32 Odious! in woollen! 'twould a saint provoke!
1734 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To Lord Cobham', l.246.
- 33 Shut, shut the door, good John! fatigued I said,
 Tie up the knocker; say I'm sick, I'm dead.
 The Dog-star rages!
1735 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.1–3.
- 34 You think this cruel? take it for a rule,
 No creature smarts so little as a fool.
 Let peals of laughter, Codrus! round thee break,
 Thou unconcerned canst hear the mighty crack.
 Pit, box, and gallery in convulsions hurled,
 Thou stand'st unshook amidst a bursting world.
1735 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.83–8.
- 35 Destroy his fib, or sophistry; in vain,
 The creature's at his dirty work again.
1735 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.91–2.
- 36 Pretty! in amber to observe the forms
 Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms!
 The things, we know are neither rich nor rare,
 But wonder how the Devil they got there.
1735 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.169–72.
- 37 And he, whose fustian's so sublimely bad,
 It is not poetry, but prose run mad.
1735 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.187–8.
- 38 Damn with faint praise, assent with civil leer,
 And without sneering, teach the rest to sneer;
 Willing to wound, and yet afraid to strike,
 Just hint a fault, and hesitate dislike.
1735 Of Addison. 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.201–4.
- 39 But still the great have kindness in reserve,
 He helped to bury whom he helped to starve.
1735 Of a patron. 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.247–8.
- 40 Let Sporus tremble—'What? that thing of silk,
 Sporus, that mere white curd of ass's milk?
 Satire or sense, alas! can Sporus feel?
 Who breaks a butterfly upon a wheel?
1735 Of Lord Hervey. 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.305–8.
- 41 And he himself one vile antithesis.
1735 Of Lord Hervey. 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.325.
- 42 Unlearn'd, he knew no schoolman's subtle art,
 No language, but the language of the heart.
1735 Of Pope's father. 'An Epistle to Dr Arbuthnot', l.398–9.
- 43 Most women have no characters at all.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.2.
- 44 A very heathen in the carnal part,
 Yet still a sad, good Christian at her heart.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.67–8.
- 45 Chaste to her husband, frank to all beside,
 A teeming mistress, but a barren bride.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.71–2.
- 46 'With every pleasing, every prudent part,
 Say, what can Cloe want?'—She wants a heart.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.159–60.
- 47 Virtue she finds too painful an endeavour,
 Content to dwell in decencies for ever.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.163–4.
- 48 In men, we various ruling passions find,
 In women, two almost divide the kind;
 Those, only fixed, they first or last obey
 The love of pleasure, and the love of sway.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.207–10.
- 49 Men, some to business, some to pleasure take;
 But every woman is at heart a rake:
 Men, some to quiet, some to public strife;
 But every lady would be Queen for life.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.215–8.
- 50 Still round and round the ghosts of Beauty glide,
 And haunt the places where their honour died.
 See how the world its veterans rewards!
 A youth of frolics, an old age of cards.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.241–4.
- 51 Woman's at best a contradiction still.
1735 Epistles to Several Persons, 'To a Lady', l.270.
- 52 Who now reads Cowley? if he pleases yet,
 His moral pleases, not his pointed wit.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 1, l.75–6.
- 53 The people's voice is odd,
 It is, and it is not, the voice of God.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 1, l.89–90.
- 54 But those who cannot write, and those who can,
 All rhyme, and scrawl, and scribble, to a man.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 1, l.187–8.
- 55 Ev'n copious Dryden, wanted, or forgot,
 The last and greatest art, the art to blot.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 1, l.280–1.
- 56 There still remains, to mortify a wit,
 The many-headed monster of the pit.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 1, l.304–5.
- 57 The more you drink, the more you crave.
1737 Imitations of Horace, bk.2, epistle 2, l.212.
- 58 Not to go back, is somewhat to advance,
 And men must walk at least before they dance.
1738 Imitations of Horace, bk.1, epistle 1, l.53–4.
- 59 Not to admire, is all the art I know,
 To make men happy, and to keep them so.
1738 Imitations of Horace, bk.1, epistle 6, l.1–2.
- 60 The worst of madmen is a saint run mad.
1738 Imitations of Horace, bk.1, epistle 6, l.27.
- 61 Ask you what provocation I have had?
 The strong antipathy of good to bad.
1738 Imitations of Horace, epilogue to the satires, dialogue 2, l.197–8.
- 62 Yes, I am proud; I must be proud to see Men not afraid of God, afraid of me.
1738 Imitations of Horace, epilogue to the satires, dialogue 2, l.208–9.

- 63 Teach me to feel another's woe;
To hide the fault I see;
That mercy I to others show,
That mercy show to me.
1738 The Universal Prayer.
- 64 Books and the Man I sing, the first who brings
The Smithfield Muses to the Ear of Kings.
Say great Patricians! (since your selves inspire
These wond'rous works; so Jove and Fate require)
Say from what cause, in vain decry'd and curst,
Still Duncce the second reigns like Duncce the first?
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.1–6.
- 65 Poetic Justice, with her lifted scale,
Where, in nice balance, truth with gold she weighs,
And solid pudding against empty praise.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.52–4.
- 66 Here gay Description Aegypt glads with showers;
Or gives to Zembra fruits, to Barca flowers;
Glitt'ring with ice here hoary hills are seen,
There painted vallies of eternal green.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.71–4.
- 67 While pensive poets painful vigils keep,
Sleepless themselves, to give their readers sleep.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.93–4.
- 68 In each she marks her image full exprest,
But chief, in Tibbald's monster-breeding breast;
Sees Gods with Daemons in strange league ingage,
And earth, and heav'n, and hell her battles wage.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.105–8.
- 69 Or where the pictures for the page atone,
And Quarles is saved by beauties not his own.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.1, l.139–40.
- 70 A brain of feathers, and a heart of lead.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.2, l.44.
- 71 How little, mark! that portion of the ball,
Where, faint at best, the beams of science fall.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.3, l.83–4.
- 72 None need a guide, by sure attraction led,
And strong impulsive gravity of head.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.75–6.
- 73 A wit with dunces, and a duncce with wits.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.90.
- 74 Leave not a foot of verse, a foot of stone,
A Page, a Grave, that they can call their own;
But spread, my sons, your glory thin or thick,
On passive paper, or on solid brick.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.127–30.
- 75 Whate'er the talents, or howe'er designed,
We hang one jingling padlock on the mind.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.161–2.
- 76 The Right Divine of Kings to govern wrong.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.187.
- 77 How parts relate to parts, or they to whole,
The body's harmony, the beaming soul.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.235–6.
- 78 Isles of fragrance, lily-silver'd values.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.303.
- 79 Love-whispering woods, and lute-resounding waves.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.306.
- 80 —She marked thee there,
Stretched on the rack of a too easy chair,
And heard thy everlasting yawn confess
The pains and penalties of idleness.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.341–4.
- 81 O! would the Sons of Men once think their Eyes
And Reason giv'n them but to study Flies?
See Nature in some partial narrow shape,
And let the Author of the Whole escape.

- 82 Religion blushing veils her sacred fires,
And unawares Morality expires.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.649–50.
- 83 Lo! thy dread empire, Chaos! is restored;
Light dies before thy uncreating word:
Thy hand, great Anarch! lets the curtain fall;
And universal darkness buries all.
1742 The Dunciad, bk.4, l.653–6.
- 84 I am his Highness' dog at Kew;
Pray, tell me sir, whose dog are you?
'Epigram Engraved on the Collar of a Dog which I gave to His Royal Highness'.
- 85 Here am I, dying of a hundred good symptoms.
1744 His response to reassurance from his doctors that his health was showing signs of improvement. Quoted in Joseph Spence Anecdotes by and about Alexander Pope (1820).

Popova, Lyubov Sergejevna 1889–1924

Russian painter and theatre and textile designer.

- 86 Texture is the content of painterly surfaces.
Quoted in W Chadwick Women, Art and Society (1990).

Popper, Sir Karl Raimund 1902–94

Anglo-Austrian philosopher, professor (1949–69) at the London School of Economics. He expounded his political theory in The Open Society and Its Enemies (1945), and his philosophy of science in The Logic of Scientific Discovery (1934).

- 87 It must be possible for an empirical system to be refuted by experience.
1934 The Logic of Scientific Discovery.
- 88 Every scientific statement must remain tentative for ever.
1934 The Logic of Scientific Discovery.
- 89 In order that a new theory should constitute a discovery or step forward it should conflict with its predecessor ... it should contradict its predecessor; it should overthrow it. In this sense, progress in science—or at least striking progress—is always revolutionary.
1934 The Logic of Scientific Discovery.
- 90 It is not his possession of knowledge, of irrefutable truth, that makes the man of science, but his persistent and recklessly critical quest for truth.
1934 The Logic of Scientific Discovery.
- 91 We may become the makers of our fate when we have ceased to pose as its prophets.
1945 The Open Society and Its Enemies, introduction.
- 92 There is no history of mankind, there are only many histories of all kinds of aspects of human life. And one of these is the history of political power. This is elevated into the history of the world.
1945 The Open Society and Its Enemies, vol.2, ch.25.
- 93 The belief that we can start with pure observations alone, without anything in the nature of a theory, is absurd.

1953 Conjectures and Refutations (published 1963), ch.1.

- 94 Observation is always selective. It needs a chosen object, a definite task, an interest, a point of view, a problem.

1953 Conjectures and Refutations (published 1963), ch.1.

- 95 There is at least one philosophical problem in which all thinking men are interested. It is the problem of cosmology: the problem of understanding the world—including ourselves, and our knowledge, as part of the world. All science is cosmology, I believe, and for me the interest of philosophy, no less than that of science, lies solely in the contributions which it has made to it.

1959 The Logic of Scientific Discovery (1934), preface to 1959 edition.

- 96 In so far as a scientific statement speaks about reality, it must be falsifiable: and in so far as it is not falsifiable, it does not speak about reality.

1959 The Logic of Scientific Discovery (1934), appendix to 1959 edition.

- 97 What we should do, I suggest, is to give up the idea of ultimate sources of knowledge, and admit that all knowledge is human; that it is mixed with our errors, our prejudices, our dreams, and our hopes; that all we can do is to grope for truth even though it be beyond our reach.

1960 Conjectures and Refutations (published 1963), introduction.

- 98 The history of science, like the history of all human ideas, is a history of irresponsible dreams, of obstinacy, and of error. But science is one of the very few human activities—perhaps the only one—in which errors are systematically criticized and fairly often, in time, corrected. This is why we can say that, in science, we often learn from our mistakes, and why we can speak clearly and sensibly about making progress there.

1960 Conjectures and Refutations (published 1963), ch.10.

- 99 Science starts only with problems.

1960 Conjectures and Refutations (published 1963), ch.10.

- 1 For this, indeed, is the true source of our ignorance—the fact that our knowledge can only be finite, while our ignorance must necessarily be infinite.

1960 Lecture to the British Academy, 20 Jan.

- 2 Science may be described as the art of systematic oversimplification.

1982 Quoted in the Observer, 1 Aug.

Porter, Cole 1891–1964

1902 The Tale of Peter Rabbit.

19 In the time of swords and periwigs and full-skirted coats with flowered lappets—when gentlemen wore ruffles, and gold-laced waistcoats of paduasoy and taffeta—there lived a tailor in Gloucester.

1903 The Tailor of Gloucester.

Potter, Henry Codman 1835–1908

US religious leader. For 15 years he was rector of Grace Church, New York City. He was elected Bishop Co-Adjutor of New York in 1883 and Bishop in 1887. He was known for his diplomacy and was outspoken on corruption.

20 If there be no nobility of descent in a nation, it is all the more indispensable that there should be nobility of ascent; a character in them that bear rule, so fine and high and pure, that as men come within the circle of its influence, they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction—the royalty of virtue.

1889 Washington centennial address, 30 Apr.

Potter, Stephen 1900–69

English humorous writer.

21 How to be one up—how to make the other man feel that something has gone wrong, however slightly.

1950 Lifemanship.

22 Each of us can, by ploy or gambit, most naturally gain the advantage.

1950 Lifemanship.

Pound, Ezra Loomis 1885–1972

US poet, a key figure in the Modernist movement, whose chief work was the massive poetic cycle The Cantos (collected 1970). He spent much of his life in Italy, and was committed to an asylum for a time after World War II, during which he espoused Fascist sympathies.

23 Bah! I have sung women in three cities,
But it is all the same;
And I will sing of the sun.

1908 Personae, 'Cino'.

24 No good poetry is written in a manner twenty years old, for to write in such a manner shows conclusively that the writer thinks from books, convention and cliché; and not from life.

1912 'Prolegomena', in The Poetry Review, Feb.

25 All great art is born of the metropolis.

1913 Letter to Harriet Monroe, 7 Nov.

26 Poetry must be as well written as prose.

1915 Letter to Harriet Monroe, Jan.

27 Winter is icummen in,
Lhude sing Goddamm,

Raineth drop and staineth slop,
And how the wind doth ramm!
Sing: Goddamm.

30 I make a pact with you, Walt Whitman—
I have detested you long enough.
I come to you as a grown child
Who has had a pig-headed father
I am old enough not to make friends.

1916 Lustra, 'A Pact'.

31 Poetry must be read as music and not as oratory.

1917 'Vers Libre and Arnold Dolmetsch', in The Egoist, Jul.

32 A chryselephantine poem of immeasurable length which will occupy me for the next four decades unless it becomes a bore.

1917 On beginning the poetic series The Cantos, which remained unfinished on his death.

33 A man of genius has a right to any mode of expression.

1918 Letter to J B Yeats, 4 Feb.

34 Of all those young women
Not one has enquired the cause of the world
Nor the modus of lunar eclipses
Nor whether there be any patch left of us
After we cross the infernal ripples.

1919 Quia Pauper Amavi, 'Homage to Sextus Propertius'.

35 For three years, out of key with his time,
He strove to resuscitate the dead art
Of poetry; to maintain 'the sublime'
In the old sense. Wrong from the start—

No, hardly, but seeing he had been born
In a half savage country, out of date.

1 It was the same world then as now—the same,
Except for little differences of speed
And power, and means to treat myopia
To show an axe-blade infinitely sharp
Splitting things infinitely small.

1952 Towards the Last Spike. The poet is speaking of the building of the Canadian National Railway, from coast to coast.

Prescott, John 1938–

It's down at the end of lonely street
At Heartbreak Hotel.

1956 'Heartbreak Hotel' (with Mae Boren Axton and Tommy Durden).

6 I learned very early in life that: 'Without a song, the day would never end; without a song, a man ain't got no friend; without a song the road would never bend—without a song'. So I keep on singing. Goodnight. Thank you.

1971 Acceptance speech, Ten Outstanding Men of the Year Awards, 16 Jan.

7 I don't know anything about music—in my line you don't have to.

Quoted in David Pickering Brewer's Twentieth Century Music (1994).

Preston, James E 1933–

US businessman. He joined Avon Products in 1964 as a management trainee, becoming Chief Executive Officer (1988–98) and Chairman (1989–98).

8 A bad reputation is like a hangover. It takes a while to get rid of, and it makes everything else hurt.

Previn, André (George) 1929–

German-born US conductor and composer. A US citizen from 1943, he conducted major orchestras around the world from 1967. His own compositions include musicals, film scores and orchestral works.

9 The basic difference between classical music and jazz is that in the former music is always greater than its performance—whereas the way jazz is performed is always more important than what is being played.

1967 Quoted in The Times.

Prévost, Abbé Antoine-François 1697–1763

French novelist, educated in the Jesuit tradition. He enlisted in the army before eventually deciding on a religious life after an unhappy love affair.

Prial, Frank J

US writer and wine columnist for the New York Times.

13 Macaulay, Gibbon, Tolstoy, Francis Parkman and other immortals... never said anything in two pages that might possibly sound better in 10.

Quoted in the New York Times, 31 Mar 1990.

Price, Raymond

Nixon White House speechwriter.

14 The response is to the image, not to the man, since 99 percent of the voters have no contact with the man.

1967 Memo, 28 Nov. Quoted in the New York Times, 31 Oct 1993.

15 It's not what's there that counts, it's what's projected—and... it's not what he projects but rather what the voter receives... It's not the man we have to change, but rather the received impression.

1967 Memo, 28 Nov. Quoted in the New York Times, 31 Oct 1993.

Prichard, Katharine Susannah married name Throssell 1883–1969

Priestley, J(ohn) B(oynton) 1894–1984

English writer, whose works include the novel The Good Companions (1929) and plays such as Dangerous Corner (1932). He achieved national renown as deliverer of radio 'postscripts' during World War II.

17 To say that these men paid their shillings to watch twenty-two hirelings kick a ball is merely to say that a violin is wood and catgut, that Hamlet is so much paper and ink. For a shilling the Bruddersford United AFC offered you Conflict and Art.

1929 The Good Companions, bk.1, ch.1.

18 The earth is nobler than the world we have put upon it.

1939 Johnson Over Jordan, act 3.

19 This little steamer, like all her brave and battered sisters, is immortal. She'll go sailing proudly down the years in the epic of Dunkirk. And our great-great-grand-children, when they learn how we began this war by snatching glory out of defeat, and then swept on to victory, may also learn how the little holiday steamers made an excursion to hell and came back glorious.

Prior, Matthew 1664–1721

English poet and diplomat. His verse includes The Hind and the Panther Transvers'd to the Story of the Country Mouse and the City Mouse (with Charles Montagu, 1687, a satire on Dryden). He is remembered for his many witty, epigrammatic occasional verses.

30 They never taste who always drink;
 They always talk who never think.

1697 'Upon this Passage in Scaligerana'.

31 Nobles and heralds, by your leave,
 Here lies what once was Matthew Prior,
 The son of Adam and of Eve,

- Can Stuart or Nassaw go higher?
1702 'Epitaph'. In a later version 'Stuart' was changed to 'Bourbon'.
- 32 Be to her virtues very kind;
 Be to her faults a little blind;
 Let all her ways be unconfined;
 And clap your padlock—on her mind.
1705 'An English Padlock'.
- 33 And of the pangs of absence to remove
 By letters, soft interpreters of love.
1708 'Henry and Emma'.
- 34 But of good household features her person was made,
 Nor by faction cry'd up nor of censure afraid,
 And her beauty was rather for use than parade.
1708 'Jinny the Just' (first printed 1907). The title was given by A R Waller.
- 35 Cured yesterday of my disease,
 I died last night of my physician.
1714 'The Remedy Worse than the Disease'.
- 36 Venus, take my votive glass;
 Since I am not what I was,
 What from this day I shall be
 Venus never let me see.
1718 'The Lady Who Offered Her Looking-Glass to Venus'.
- 37 No, no; for my virginity,
 When I lose that, says Rose, I'll die:
 Behind the elms last night, cried Dick,
 Rose, were you not extremely sick?
1718 'A True Maid'.
- 38 They walked and eat, good folks: What then?
 Why then they walked and eat again:
 They soundly slept the night away:
 They did just nothing all the day.
1718 'An Epitaph', 1.9–12.
- 39 Their beer was strong; their wine was port;
 Their meal was large; their grace was short.
 They gave the poor the remnant meat,
 Just when it grew not fit to eat.
1718 'An Epitaph', 1.29–32.
- 40 On his death bed poor Lubin lies:
 His spouse is in despair.
 With frequent sobs and mutual cries
 They both express their care.
 A different cause, says parson Sly,
 The same effect may give:
 Poor Lubin fears, that he shall die:
 His wife, that he may live.
1718 'A Reasonable Affliction'.
- 41 What I speak, my fair Chloe, and what I write shows
 The difference there is betwixt Nature and Art:
 I court others in verse: but I love thee in prose:
 And they have my whimsies, but thou hast my heart.
1718 'A Better Answer', stanza 4.
- 42 So when I am wearied with wandering all day;
 To thee my delight in the evening I come:
 No matter what beauties I saw in my way:
 They were but my visits; but thou art my home.
1718 'A Better Answer', stanza 6.
- 43 And 'twould be a cruel thing,
 When her black eyes have raised desire,

- Should she not her bucket bring
 And kindly help to quench the fire.
 'Chloe Beauty Has and Wit'. (Date unknown. In Matthew Prior: Literary Works, edited by H B Wright and M K Spears, 2 vols, 1959.)
- 44 Rise not till noon, if life be but a dream,
 As Greek and Roman poets have express:
 Add good example to so grave a theme,
 For he who sleeps the longest lives the best.
 'Epigram'. (Date unknown. In Matthew Prior: Literary Works, edited by H B Wright and M K Spears, 2 vols, 1959.)

Pritchett, Sir V(ictor) S(awdon) 1900–97

- 45 The principle of procrastinated rape is said to be the ruling one in all of the great best-sellers.
1946 The Living Novel, 'Clarissa'.
- 46 A touch of science, even bogus science, gives an edge to the superstitious tale.
1946 The Living Novel, 'An Irish Ghost'.
- 47 The detective novel is...the classic example of a specialized form of art removed from contact with the life it pretends to build on.
1951 In the New Statesman, 16 Jun.
- 48 He watched his restless hands, surprised they had remembered to come with him.
1951 Mr Beluncle, ch.15.
- 49 If evil does not exist, what is going to happen to literature?
1951 Mr Beluncle, ch.23.
- 50 Dickens was not the first or the last novelist to find virtue more difficult to portray than the wish for it.
1953 'Oliver Twist', collected in Books in General (1981).
- 51 It is well known that, when two or three authors meet, they at once start talking about money—like everyone else.
1978 In The Author, Spring.
- 52 What Chekhov saw in our failure to communicate was something positive and precious: the private silence in which we live, and which enables us to endure our own solitude.
1979 The Myth Makers, 'Chekhov'.
- 53 It is the role of the poet to look at what is happening in the world and to know that quite other things are happening.
1979 The Myth Makers, 'Pasternak'.
- 54 The poet is a master of the quotidian, of conveying a whole history in two or three lines that point to an exact past drama and intensify a future one.
1979 The Myth Makers, 'Borges'.
- 55 A short story is always a disclosure.
1981 The Oxford Book of Short Stories (edited by Pritchett), introduction.
- 56 'The firm'—a proud Victorian word. It evokes the lost sense of Victorian regard for the pride of people in their daily trade.
 'Betjeman', in the New Yorker, 24 Jun.

Private Eye

British satirical magazine, founded 1962.

57 Kill An Argie—Win A Metro!

1982 Front page headline during the Falklands War, parodying the jingoism of tabloid coverage of the conflict.

Proctor, Adelaide Ann pseudonym of Mary Berwick
1825–64

English poet. She won renown with her Legends and Lyrics (1858–60), and her poem 'The Lost Chord' was set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan.

58 Seated one day at the organ,

I was weary and ill at ease,
And my fingers wandered idly
Over the noisy keys;
I know not what I was playing,
Or what I was dreaming then,
But I struck one chord of music,
Like the sound of a great Amen.

1858 'The Lost Chord'.

Profumo, John Dennis 1915–

English Conservative politician, Secretary of State for War in 1960. He resigned in 1963 during the 'Profumo Affair', admitting that he had deceived the House over the nature of his relationship with Christine Keeler, who was at the time also involved with a Russian diplomat. He turned to charitable service, and was awarded the CBE in 1975.

59 There was no impropriety whatsoever in my acquaintanceship with Miss Keeler... I shall not hesitate to issue writs for libel and slander if scandalous allegations are made or repeated outside the House.

1963 House of Commons, Mar.

Prokofiev, Sergei Sergeyevich 1891–1953

Russian composer, who lived in exile in the West (1918–36). His works include the Classical Symphony (1917), the opera The Love for Three Oranges (1919), the ballets The Prodigal Son (1928) and Romeo and Juliet (1936), Peter and the Wolf (1936) and the opera War and Peace (1943).

Propertius, Sextus 1c BC

Roman poet.

61 Navita de ventis, de tauris narrat arator,

Enumerat miles vulnera, pastor oves.

The sailor tells stories of the winds, the ploughman of bulls; the soldier lists his wounds, the shepherd his sheep.

Elegies, bk.2, no.1, l.43–4.

62 Cedite Romani scriptores, cedite Grai!

Nescioquid maius nascitur Iliade.

Make way, Roman writers, make way, Greeks! Something greater than the Iliad is born.

Of Virgil's Aeneid. Elegies, bk.2, no.34, l.65–6.

Protagoras c.490–c.420 BC

Greek Sophist and teacher, the first and most famous of the Sophists who, for a fee, offered professional training in public life and other skills. His works survive only as fragments in other writers (notably Plato).

63 Man is the measure of all things, of the existence of the things that are, and the non-existence of the things that are not.

Fragment quoted in Plato Theaetetus, 152a (translated by H North Fowler, 1977).

64 He said that there is no art without practice, and no practice without art.

Fragment quoted in H Diels and W Kranz (eds) Die Fragmente der Vorsokratiker, vol.2 (1952), 268, no.10.

65 Concerning the gods I am not in a position to know either that they are or that they are not, or what they are like in appearance; for there are many things that are preventing knowledge, the obscurity of the matter and the brevity of human life.

Quoted in G B Kerferd The Sophistic Movement (1981), ch.13.

Proudhon, Pierre Joseph 1809–65

French socialist and political theorist, the founder of French radicalism. His works include the great Système des contradictions économiques (1846, System of Economic Contradictions). Imprisoned for three years in 1849 and again in 1858, he spent the time writing further works arguing for liberty, equality and justice.

66 La propriété, c'est le vol.

Property is theft.

1840 Qu'est-ce que la propriété?

67 Universal suffrage is counter-revolution.

On Europe after the 1848 revolution. Quoted in A J P Taylor From Napoleon to the Second International (1993).

Proulx, Annie 1935–

US author whose works include The Shipping News (1993), which won a number of awards including the Pulitzer Prize (1994).

68 If you get the landscape right, the characters will step out of it, and they'll be in the right place.

1993 Time, 29 Nov.

69 At thirty-six, bereft, brimming with grief and thwarted love, Quoyle steered away to Newfoundland, the rock that had generated his ancestors, a place he had never been nor thought to go.

1993 The Shipping News, ch.1.

Proust, Marcel 1871–1922

French novelist who withdrew (c.1905) from society because of asthma, the death of his parents and disillusionment with the world. He introduced psychological analysis into fiction, notably in his 13-volume novel sequence À la recherche du temps perdu (1913–27).

70 Il vaut mieux rêver sa vie que la vivre, encore que la vivre ce soit encore la rêver.

It's better to dream your life than to live it, and even though you live it, you will still dream it.

1896 Les Plaisirs et les jours.

71 Le bonheur est dans l'amour un état anormal.

In love, happiness is abnormal.

1919 À la recherche du temps perdu; 'À l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs'.

72 Nous sommes tous obligés, pour rendre la réalité supportable, d'entretenir en nous quelques petites folies.
We must all indulge in a few follies if we are to make reality bearable.

- 1919 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'À l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs'.
- 73 L'adolescence est le seul temps où l'on ait appris quelque chose.
Adolescence is the only time when we can learn something.
1919 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'À l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs'.
- 74 On devient moral dès qu'on est malheureux.
We become moral once we are miserable.
1919 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'À l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs'.
- 75 On ne reçoit pas la sagesse, il faut la découvrir soi-même, après un trajet que personne ne peut faire pour nous, ne peut nous épargner.
We do not receive wisdom. We must discover it ourselves after experiences which no one else can have for us and from which no one else can spare us.
1919 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'À l'ombre des jeunes filles en fleurs'.
- 76 Il n'y avait pas d'anormaux quand l'homosexualité était la norme.
There was nothing abnormal about it when homosexuality was the norm.
1921 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Sodome et Gomorrhe'.
- 77 La médecine a fait quelques petits progrès dans ses connaissances depuis Molière, mais aucun dans son vocabulaire.
Medicine has made a few, small advances in knowledge since Molière, but none in its vocabulary.
1921 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Sodome et Gomorrhe'.
- 78 Neurosis has an absolute genius for malingering. There is no illness which it cannot counterfeit perfectly.
1922 Sodom and Gomorrah.
- 79 L'amour, c'est l'espace et le temps rendus sensibles au cœur.
Love is space and time made tender to the heart.
1923 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'La Prisonnière'.
- 80 La possession de ce qu'on aime est une joie plus grande encore que l'amour.
Possessing what one loves is an even greater joy than love itself.
1923 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'La Prisonnière'.
- 81 On a dit que la beauté est une promesse de bonheur. Inversement, la possibilité du plaisir peut être un commencement de beauté.
It has been said that beauty is a guarantee of happiness. Conversely, the possibility of pleasure can be the beginning of beauty.
1923 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'La Prisonnière'.
- 82 L'adultère introduit l'esprit dans la lettre que bien souvent le mariage eût laissée morte.
Adultery breathes new life into marriages which have been left for dead.
1923 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'La Prisonnière'.
- 83 L'idée qu'on mourra est plus cruelle que mourir, mais moins que l'idée qu'un autre est mort.
The idea of dying is worse than dying itself, but less cruel than the idea that another has died.
1923 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'La Prisonnière'.
- 84 [Music] a pederast might hum when raping a choirboy.
- Of Fauré's Romances sans paroles. Quoted in Musical Quarterly, 1924.

Leave the pretty women for the men without imagination.
1925 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Albertine disparue'.
- 86 Le mensonge est essentiel à l'humanité. Il y joue peut-être un aussi grand rôle que la recherche du plaisir, et d'ailleurs est commandé par cette recherche.
Lies are essential to humanity. They play perhaps as great a role as the pursuit of pleasure, and are indeed controlled by this pursuit.
1925 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Albertine disparue'.
- 87 Si notre vie est vagabonde, notre mémoire est sédentaire.
Even though our lives wander, our memories remain in one place.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.
- 88 Le temps qui change les êtres ne modifie pas l'image que nous avons gardée d'eux.
Although time changes people, it cannot change the image we have already made of them.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.
- 89 Le bonheur est salutaire pour les corps, mais c'est le chagrin qui développe les forces de l'esprit.
Happiness is healthy for the body, but it is sorrow which enhances the forces of the mind.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.
- 90 Le style, pour l'écrivain aussi bien que pour le peintre, est une question non de technique mais de vision.
For the writer as well as for the painter, style is not a question of technique, but of vision.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.
- 91 Pour écrire ce livre essentiel, le seul livre vrai, un grand écrivain n'a pas, dans le sens courant, à l'inventer puisqu'il existe déjà en chacun de nous, mais à le traduire.
To write the essential book, the only true book, a great writer does not need to invent because the book already exists inside each one of us and merely needs translation.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.
- 92 En réalité, chaque lecteur est, quand il lit, le propre lecteur de soi-même. L'ouvrage de l'écrivain n'est qu'une espèce d'instrument optique qu'il offre au lecteur afin de lui permettre de discerner ce que, sans ce livre, il n'eût peut-être pas vu en soi-même.
In reality, each reader reads only what is already within himself. The book is only a kind of optical instrument which the writer offers to the reader to enable him to discover in himself what he could not have found but for the aid of the book.
1927 À la recherche du temps perdu, 'Le Temps retrouvé'.

Puig, Manuel 1932–90

Argentinian novelist. He studied cinema in Rome and spent several years in New York. His novels, which often exploit society's popular icons, include El beso de la mujer araña (1976), adapted for stage, screen and Broadway musical.

1 Porque, sí, fuera de la celda están nuestros opresores, pero adentro no. Aquí nadie oprime a nadie. Lo único que hay, de perturbador, para mi mente... cansada, o condicionada o deformada... es que alguien me quiere tratar bien, sin pedir nada a cambio.

Because, well, outside of this cell we may have our oppressors, yes, but not inside. Here no one oppresses the other. The only thing that seems to disturb me... because I'm exhausted, or conditioned, or perverted... is that someone wants to be nice to me, without asking anything back for it.

1976 El beso de la mujer araña, ch.11 (translated as Kiss of the Spider Woman, 1978).

Pulitzer, Joseph 1847–1911

2 I want to talk to a nation, not to a select committee.
1909 In Pearson's Magazine, Mar.

3 We are a democracy, and there is only one way to get a democracy on its feet in the matter of its individual, its social, its municipal, its State, its National conduct, and that is by keeping the public informed about what is going on. There is not a crime, there is not a dodge, there is not a trick, there is not a swindle, there is not a vice which does not live by secrecy. Get these things out in the open, describe them, attack them, ridicule them in the press, and sooner or later public opinion will sweep them away.
c.1910 Quoted in Alleyne Ireland An Adventure with a Genius, ch.4.

4 What a newspaper needs in its news, in its headlines, and on its editorial page is terseness, humor, descriptive power, satire, originality, good literary style, clever condensation and accuracy, accuracy, accuracy.

Purdy, Al 1918–2000

Canadian poet. Born in rural Ontario, he settled there again after some years away. He published nearly 30 volumes of poetry, including The Cariboo Horses (1965), The Stone Bird (1981) and To Paris Never Again: New Poems (1997).

17 Uneasily the leaves fall at this season, forgetting what to do or where to go;
the red amnesiacs of autumn
drifting thru the graveyard forest.

What they have forgotten they have forgotten:
what they meant to do instead of fall is not in earth or time recoverable—
the fossils of intention, the shapes of rot.

1962 Poems for All the Annettes, 'Pause' (revised 1968).

18 This is the country of defeat.

1965 The Cariboo Horses, 'The Country North of Belleville' (revised 1972).

19 They had their being once and left a place to stand on.

1968 Poems for All the Annettes, 'Roblin Mills' (revised 1972).

Pushkin, Aleksandr Sergeyevich 1799–1837

Russian poet and writer. He is best known for the novel in verse Eugene Onegin (1833) and the tragic drama Boris Godunov (1825). He also wrote ballads and prose pieces. He was killed in a duel with his brother-in-law.

20 Moscow...what surge that sound can start
In every Russian's inmost heart!

1833 Eugene Onegin, ch.7, stanza 36 (translated by Adrian Room, 1995).

Putnam, Israel 1718–90

American general in the American Revolution.

21 Men, you are all marksmen—don't one of you fire until you see the white of their eyes.

1775 Order before the Battle of Bunker Hill. Quoted in R Frothingham History of the Siege of Boston (1873), ch.5.

Pu Yi 1906–67

Chinese puppet emperor. He was proclaimed Emperor at the age of two, but after the Chinese Revolution (1911) he was given a pension and a summer palace. He eventually became a private citizen. The story of his life was made into a film, The Last Emperor, in 1988.

22 For the past 40 years I had never folded my own quilt, made my own bed, or poured out my own washing. I had never even washed my own feet or tied my shoes.

1964 From Emperor to Citizen: The Autobiography of Aisin-Gioro Pu Yi (translated by W J F Jenner).

Puzo, Mario 1920–99

US novelist. His breakthrough as a writer came with his novel about the Mafia, The Godfather (1969). It became a bestseller and the basis of a trilogy of films directed by Francis Ford Coppola.

23 I'll make him an offer he can't refuse.

On Guillain-Barré syndrome. Quoted in Heller and Vogel No Laughing Matter (1986).

Pyke, Magnus 1908–92

British scientist and broadcaster.

29 Once a man or woman begins to take a serious interest in the way the universe works—that is to say in science
—there is no telling what may turn up.

1976 Butter Side Up.

Pyrrhus of Epirus 319–272 BC

Greek king, renowned for his wars against the Romans. From 281 BC he fought Rome on behalf of the Tarentines and won battles in 280 BC and 279 BC, but with very high casualties (hence the expression a 'Pyrrhic victory'). He was killed in a street fight in Argos during a war with the Macedonians.

30 One more such victory, and we are lost!

279 BC After defeating the Romans at Asculum. Quoted in Plutarch Regum et imperatorum apophthegmata, 184c.

Pythagoras 6C BC

Greek philosopher and mathematician. He founded a school in Crotona but was persecuted there and settled in Lucania. He taught an abstemious way of life and a doctrine of transmigration, but is best remembered for his mathematical work.

English biographer, Professor of English at Tokyo (1930). He wrote travel books, verse and novels, but is best known for his biographies of literary figures.

39 Every occupation, unless it employs the whole mind and satisfies the human creative instinct, is to some extent absurd; and about the advertising business what I chiefly disliked was not so much the work I did as its general atmosphere of unreality. We dealt in fairy-gold—in fugitive dreams and illusions.

1900 The Oxford Book of English Verse, preface.

44 Our fathers have, in process of centuries, provided this realm, its colonies and wide dependencies, with a speech as malleable and pliant as Attic, dignified as Latin, masculine, yet free of Teutonic guttural, capable of being precise as French, dulcet as Italian, sonorous as Spanish, and captaining all these excellences to its service.

1900 The Oxford Book of English Verse, preface.

45 Literature is not an abstract science, to which exact definitions can be applied. It is an Art rather, the success of which depends on personal persuasiveness, on the author's skill to give as on ours to receive.

1913 Inaugural lecture as Professor of English at Cambridge University.

46 Gilbert had a baddish streak or two in him; and one in particular which was not only baddish but so thoroughly caddish that no critic can ignore or, in my view, extenuate it. The man, to summarize, was essentially cruel, and delighted in cruelty.

And thus I'll take my pilgrimage.

1604 The Passionate Man's Pilgrimage.

1 What is our life? a play of passion;
Our mirth the music of division;
Our mothers' wombs the tiring-houses be
Where we are dressed for this short comedy.
Heaven the judicious sharp spectator is,
That sits and marks still who doth act amiss;
Our graves that hide us from the searching sun
Are like drawn curtains when the play is done.
Thus march we, playing, to our latest rest,
Only we die in earnest—that's no jest.

3 Even such is Time, which takes in trust
Our youth, our joys, and all we have,
And pays us but with age and dust,
Who in the dark and silent grave
When we have wandered all our ways
Shuts up the story of our days,
And from which earth, and grave, and dust
The Lord shall raise me up, I trust.

US businessman, Chief Executive Officer of Inland Steel. He wrote several books on business.

- 11 Every man who has lived his life to the full, should, by the time his senior years are reached, have established a reserve inventory of unfinished thinking.
1963 Sixty-Five Plus.

- 12 The leader must know, must know that he knows and must be able to make it abundantly clear to those about him that he knows.

1964 Making Good in Management.

Randall, Dudley 1914–2000

US poet and librarian. He established the Broadside Press, which prints the work of black US poets, including his own books.

- 13 Musing on roses and revolutions,
I saw night close down on the earth like a great dark wing.

1968 Cities Burning, 'Roses and Revolutions'.

- 14 I saw dawn upon them like the sun a vision of a time when all men walk proudly through the earth and the bombs and missiles lie at the bottom of the ocean like the bones of dinosaurs buried under the shale of eras.

1968 Cities Burning, 'Roses and Revolutions'.

- 15 Then washed in the brightness of this vision,
I saw how in its radiance would grow and be nourished and suddenly burst into terrible and splendid bloom the blood-red flower of revolution.

1968 Cities Burning, 'Roses and Revolutions'.

Ranjitsinhji, Prince 1872–1933

Indian nobleman and England cricketer. A star batsman with Sussex and England, he succeeded as Jam Sahib of Nawanagar in 1906 (Maharaja in 1918), and did much to modernize and improve conditions in his home state.

- 16 He turned the old one-stringed instrument into a many-chorded lyre... W.G. discovered batting; he turned its many narrow straight channels into one great winding river.

1897 Of W G Grace. The Jubilee Book of Cricket.

- 17 Find out where the ball is, get there; hit it.
Explaining his tactics as a batsman. Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Rankin, Ian 1960–

Scottish author, known for his detective novels featuring Inspector Rebus.

- 18 It was one of those cool, crepuscular days that could have belonged to any of at least three Scottish seasons, a sky like slate roofed and a wind that Rebus's father would have called 'snell'.

2001 The Falls.

Rankin, Jeanette 1880–1973

US pacifist and politician, the first woman in Congress. She voted against US entry into both World Wars and demonstrated against the war in Vietnam.

Quoted in Hannah Josephson Lady in Congress (1974).

20 You can no more win a war than you can win an earthquake.

Quoted in Hannah Josephson Lady in Congress (1974).

Ransom, John Crowe 1888–1974

US poet and critic. He was an influential figure in the rise of the New Criticism movement in the US, and an important Southern poet.

21 Here lies a lady of beauty and high degree.
Of chills and fever she died, of fever and chills,
The delight of her husband, her aunts, an infant of three,
And of medicos marvelling sweetly on her ills.
1924 Chills and Fever, 'Here Lies a Lady'.

22 The little cousin is dead, by foul subtraction,
A green bough from Virginia's aged tree.
1924 Chills and Fever, 'Dead Boy'.

23 Tawny are the leaves turned but they still hold,
And it is harvest; what shall this land produce?
A meagre hill of kernels, a runnel of juice;
Declension looks from our land, it is old.
Therefore let us assemble, dry, gray, spare,
And mild as yellow air.
1924 Chills and Fever, 'Antique Harvesters'.

24 The curse of hell upon the sleek upstart
That got the Captain finally on his back
And took the red red vitals of his heart
And made the kites to whet their beaks clack clack.
1924 Chills and Fever, 'Captain Carpenter'.

25 Two evils, monstrous either one apart,
Possessed me, and were long and loath at going:
A cry of Absence, Absence, in the heart,
And in the wood the furious winter blowing.
1924 Chills and Fever, 'Winter Remembered'.

26 And if no Lethe flows beneath your casement,
And when ten years have not brought full effacement,
Philosophy was wrong, and you may meet.
1924 Grace after Meat, 'Parting at Dawn'.

27 Old Hodge stays not his hand, but whips to kennel
The renegade. God's peace betide the souls
Of the pure in heart. But in the box that fennel
Grows around, are two red eyes that stare like coals.
1927 Two Gentlemen in Bonds, 'Dog'.

28 God have mercy on the sinner
Who must write with no dinner,
No gravy and no grub,
No pewter and no pub,
No belly and no bowels,
Only consonants and vowels.
1955 Poems and Essays, 'Survey of Literature'.

Raphael, Frederic 1931–

British novelist and screenwriter.

29 City of perspiring dreams.

1976 Of Cambridge. The Glittering Prizes, ch.3.

Rapoport, Anatol 1911–

Russian-born Canadian mathematician, social philosopher and peace advocate.

30 Cooperate on move one; thereafter, do whatever the other player did the previous move.

The two commands for his computer program, Tit for Tat, designed at the University of Toronto. It outperformed all other programs at an international computer tournament in 1979, and it continues to excel in tournaments. The program initiates reciprocal cooperation yet responds in kind to provocation.

Rattigan, Sir Terence 1911–77

 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Red Cloud original name Mahpiua Luta 1822–1909

Oglala Sioux chief who led the Indian war against the Americans.

71 You have heard the sound of the white soldier's axe on the Little Piney. His presence here is... an insult to the spirits of our ancestors. Are we to give up their sacred graves to be ploughed for corn? Dakotas, I am for war.
1866 Speech before war council at Fort Laramie, Wyoming.

Redmond, John Edward 1856–1918

Irish politician. A champion of Home Rule, he was Chairman of the Nationalist Party in 1900. He declined a seat in Asquith's coalition ministry (1915), but supported World War I, deplored the Irish rebellion, and opposed Sinn Féin.

72 The government may tomorrow withdraw every one of their troops from Ireland. Ireland will be defended by her armed sons from foreign invasion, and for that purpose the armed Catholics in the south will be only too glad to join arms with the armed Protestant Ulsterman. Is it too much to hope that out of this situation a result may spring that will be good not merely for the Empire but for the future welfare and integrity of the Irish nation?
1914 Speech, House of Commons, 3 Aug.

Redon, Odilon 1840–1916

French Symbolist painter and graphic artist, also well known for his work in pastel.

73 What distinguishes the artist from the dilettante? Only the pain that the artist feels. The dilettante looks only for pleasure in art.

c.1871 Journal entry, quoted in Portfolio, no.8, Spring 1964 (translated by Richard Howard).

74 All my originality consists... in giving life in human fashion to beings which are impossible according to the laws of possibility.
 Quoted in Edward Lucie-Smith Symbolist Art (1972).

75 I am repelled by those who voice the word 'nature', without having any trace of it in their hearts.
 Quoted in Edward Lucie-Smith Symbolist Art (1972).

Redtenbacher, Ferdinand 1818–83

German engineer, Professor of Mechanical Engineering and author on the construction of machinery.

76 Thanks to his bodily form and thanks to his mind, [man] is a universal machine, capable of an infinite diversity of movement.

1840 Resultate fur den Maschinenbau (published 1848).

Reed, Henry 1914–86

English poet and dramatist. He is best known for his war poems and for his radio plays, notably The Private Life of Hilda Tablet (1954). 'Chard Whitlow' (1946) is a parody of T S Eliot's 'Burnt Norton'.

77 Today we have naming of parts. Yesterday,
 We had daily cleaning. And tomorrow morning,
 We shall have what to do after firing. But today,
 Today we have naming of parts. Japonica
 Glistens like coral in all of the neighbouring gardens
 And today we have naming of parts.
1946 Lessons of the War, pt.1, 'Naming of Parts'.

78 We can slide it
 Rapidly backwards and forwards: we call this Easing the spring. And rapidly backwards and forwards
 The early bees are assaulting and fumbling the flowers:
 They call it easing the Spring.
1946 Lessons of the War, pt.1, 'Naming of Parts'.

79 There may be dead ground in between; and I may not have got
 The knack of judging a distance; I will only venture
 A guess that perhaps between me and the apparent lovers,
 (Who, incidentally, appear by now to have finished,)
 At seven o'clock from the houses, is roughly a distance
 Of about one year and a half.
1946 Lessons of the War, pt.2, 'Judging Distances'.

80 As we get older we do not get any younger.
 Seasons return, and today I am fifty-five,
 And this time last year I was fifty-four,
 And this time next year I shall be sixty-two.
1946 'Chard Whitlow (Mr Eliot's Sunday Evening Postscript)', a parody of T S Eliot's style.

81 It is, we believe,
 Idle to hope that the simple stirrup-pump
 Can extinguish hell.
1946 'Chard Whitlow (Mr Eliot's Sunday Evening Postscript)'.

82 Modest? My word, no... He was an all-the-lights-on man.
1953 A Very Great Man Indeed, radio play.

83 And the sooner the tea's out of the way, the sooner we can get out the gin, eh?

1954 The Private Life of Hilda Tablet, radio play.

84 In a civil war, a general must know—and I'm afraid it's a thing rather of instinct than of practice—he must know exactly when to move over to the other side.

1959 Not a Drum Was Heard: The War Memoirs of General Gland, unpublished radio play.

Reed, Ishmael Scott 1938–

94 Ich sitze in dem kleinsten Zimmer in meinem Hause. Ich habe Ihre Kritik vor mir. Im nächsten Augenblick wird sie hinter mir sein.

I am sitting in the smallest room of my house. I have your review before me. In a moment it will be behind me.

1906 Written in response to an unfavourable review by Rudolf Louis. Quoted in Nicolas Slonimsky Lexicon of Musical Invective (2nd edn, 1969), p.139.

Reid, Alastair 1926–

Scottish-born poet, essayist and translator of Spanish and Latin American literature. After serving in the Navy in World War II, he became a professional itinerant, his only permanent address the New Yorker. His witty poetry collections include Weathering (1978).

95 The point is the seeing—the grace beyond recognition, the ways of the bird rising, unnamed, unknown, beyond the range of language, beyond its noun. Eyes open on growing, flying, happening, and go on opening. Manifold, the world dawns on unrecognizing, realizing eyes. Amazement is the thing.

Not love, but the astonishment of loving.

1978 Weathering, 'Growing, Flying, Happening'.

Reid, Thomas Mayne 1818–83

Irish writer of boys' stories. After work as a journalist and soldier in the Mexican War of 1847, he won a wide readership with a string of adventure tales, which included such titles as The Rifle Rangers (1850), War Trail (1857) and Boy Tar (1859).

96 Praise the sports of the land

And water, each one—

The bath by the beach, or the yacht on the sea—

But of all the sweet pleasures

Known under the sun;

A good game of Croquet's the sweetest to me.

1863 Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Remarque, Erich Maria 1898–1970

French film director, son of Pierre Auguste Renoir. His La Grande Illusion (1937) and La Bête humaine (1939) are among the masterpieces of the cinema.

4 A director makes only one film in his life. Then he breaks it into pieces and makes it again.

Quoted in Leslie Halliwell Halliwell's Filmgoer's Companion (1993).

5 Goodbye Mr Zanuck. It certainly has been a pleasure working for 16th Century Fox.

On leaving Hollywood. Attributed.

Renoir, Pierre Auguste 1841–1919

French Impressionist painter, born in Limoges. He exhibited with the Impressionists, and his Moulin de la Galette (1876) with sunlight filtering through leaves epitomizes his colourful, happy art. His visit to Italy in 1880 was followed by a series of Bathers (1884–7) in a more cold and classical style. He then returned to reds, orange and gold to portray nudes in sunlight, a style which he continued to develop until his death. His works include The Umbrellas (c.1883) and The Judgement of Paris (c.1914).

6 There is something in painting which cannot be explained, and that something is essential. You come to nature with your theories, and nature knocks them all flat.

c.1915 Quoted in Ambroise Vollard Renoir, an Intimate Record (1930).

7 I have a horror of the word 'flesh', which has become so shopworn. Why not 'meat' while they're about it? What I like is skin, a young girl's skin that is pink and shows that she has a good circulation.

Quoted in Jean Renoir Renoir, My Father (translated by R and D Weaver, 1962).

8 The only reward one should offer an artist is to buy his work.

From Renoir's notebook, quoted in L Nochlin Impressionism and Post-Impressionism 1874–1904 (1966).

9 It is impossible to repeat in one period what was done in another. The point of view is not the same, any more than are the tools, the ideals, the needs, or the painters' techniques.

From Renoir's notebook, quoted in L Nochlin Impressionism and Post-Impressionism 1874–1904 (1966).

10 They were madmen, but they had in them that little flame which never dies.

On the Communards. Quoted in A J P Taylor From Napoleon to the Second International (1993).

Revlon, Charles Haskell 1906–75

US cosmetics salesman, founder with his brother Joseph and chemist Charles Lachman of Revlon Inc (1932). His success was due to initiatives such as giving exotic names to colours and also to intimidation and attacks on competitors.

19 I don't meet competition. I crush it.

1958 In Time, 16 Jun.

20 In the factory, we make cosmetics; in the store we sell hope.

Quoted in Andrew P Tobias Fire and Ice (1976), ch.8.

Reyes, Alfonso 1889–1959

Mexican poet, novelist, essayist, critic, educator and diplomat. His classical background and humanistic approach lend his writings a distinctive elegance.

21 El orbe hispano nunca se vino abajo, ni siquiera a la caída del imperio español, sino que se ha multiplicado en numerosas facetas de ensanches todavía insospechados... No somos pueblos en estado de candor, que se deslumbren fácilmente con los instrumentos externos de que se acompaña la cultura, sino pueblos que heredan una vieja civilización y exigen la excelencia misma de la cultura.

The Hispanic world never crumbled, not even after the Spanish Empire fell, but instead has multiplied itself in broad ways that are still largely unknown... Our people are not naive and are not blinded by the external tools that go together with culture; we are rather the inheritors of an old civilization, and we demand the excellence proper to culture itself.

1941 Páginas escogidas, 'Valor de la literatura hispanoamericana' (translated as 'The Value of Hispanic American Literature').

Reynolds, Sir Joshua 1723–92

English painter, writer on art and the first President of the Royal Academy. He is one of the most important figures in the history of English painting.

Rhodes, Cecil John 1853–1902

South African statesman. He entered the Cape House of Assembly, where he secured the charter for the British South Africa Company (1889), whose territory was later named Rhodesia. Prime Minister of Cape Colony (1890–6), he resigned after the Jameson raid (when the Boers defeated Dr Jameson's attempt to reach Johannesburg). During the Boer War of 1899–1902 he organized the defences of Kimberley.

23 Remember that you are an Englishman, and have consequently won first prize in the lottery of life.

Quoted in Peter Ustinov Dear Me (1977). This has also been attributed to Lord Milner.

Rhys, Jean pseudonym of Ellen Gwendolen Rees Williams 1894–1979

British novelist, born in the West Indies, of Welsh and Creole descent. Of her novels and short stories Wide Sargasso Sea (1966), redefining Charlotte Brontë's first Mrs Rochester, is the best known.

24 The perpetual hunger to be beautiful and that thirst to be 26 It's funny when you feel as if you don't want anything more in your life except to sleep, or else to lie without moving. That's when you can hear time sliding past you, like water running.

1934 Voyage in the Dark, ch.2.

27 Cold—cold as truth, cold as life. No, nothing can be as cold as life.

1934 Voyage in the Dark, ch.3.

28 The feeling of Sunday is the same everywhere, heavy, melancholy, standing still. Like when they say 'As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end'.

1934 Voyage in the Dark, ch.4, pt.1.

29 We will watch the sun set again—many times, and perhaps we'll see the Emerald Drop, the green flash that brings good fortune.

1966 Wide Sargasso Sea, pt.2.

30 There is no looking-glass here and I don't know what I am like now. I remember watching myself brush my hair and how my eyes looked back at me. The girl I saw was myself and yet not quite myself. Long ago when I was a child and very lonely I tried to kiss her. But the glass was between us—hard, cold and misted over with my breath. Now they have taken everything away. What am I doing in this place and who am I?

1966 The consciousness of Antoinette Mason/Bertha Rochester at a point of intersection with the text of Jane Eyre. Wide Sargasso Sea, pt.3.

Ricardo, David 1772–1823

English political economist. He set up in business as a young man, and in 1817 produced his chief work, Principles of Political Economy and Taxation. In 1819 he became an MP, and was influential in the free-trade movement.

31 It is not to be understood that the natural price of labour, estimated even in food and necessities, is absolutely fixed and constant. It varies at different times in the same country and very materially differs in different countries. It essentially depends on the habits and customs of the people.

1817 Principles of Political Economy and Taxation.

32 In every case, agricultural as well as manufacturing profits are lowered by a rise in the price of raw produce, if it be accompanied by a rise of wages. The natural tendency of profits is to fall; for in the progress of society and wealth, the additional quantity of food required is obtained by the sacrifice of more and more labour.

1817 Principles of Political Economy and Taxation.

33 Like all other contracts, wages should be left to the fair and free competition of the market, and should never be controlled by the interference of the legislature.

1817 Principles of Political Economy and Taxation.

34 Possessing utility, commodities derive their exchangeable value from two sources: from their scarcity and from the labour required to obtain them. By far the greatest part of those goods which are the objects of desire, are procured by labour.

1817 Principles of Political Economy and Taxation.

35 The interest of the landlord is always opposed to the interests of every other class in the community.

1817 Principles of Political Economy and Taxation.

36 The natural price of labour is that price which is necessary to enable the labourers, one with another, to subsist and to perpetuate their race, without either increase or diminution.

Rilke, Rainer Maria 1875–1926

German poet who travelled widely and lived throughout Europe.

83 Ach, aber mit Versen ist so wenig getan, wenn man sie früh schreibt. Man sollte warten damit und Sinn und Süßigkeit sammeln ein ganzes Leben lang und ein langes womöglich, und dann, ganz zum Schluss, vielleicht könnte man dann zehn Zeilen schreiben, die gut sind.
Ah, poems amount to so little when you write them too early in your life. You ought to wait and gather sense and sweetness for a whole lifetime, and a long one if possible, and then, at the very end, you might perhaps be able to write ten good lines.
1910 Die Aufzeichnungen des Malte Laurids Brigge (translated by Stephen Mitchell in The Selected Poetry of Rainer Maria Rilke, 1989).

84 Ich habe um meine Kindheit gebeten, und sie ist wiedergekommen, und ich fühle, dass sie immer noch so schwer ist wie damals, und dass es nichts genützt hat, älter zu werden.
I prayed to rediscover my childhood, and it has come back, and I feel that it is just as difficult as it used to be, and that growing older has served no purpose at all.
1910 Die Aufzeichnungen des Malte Laurids Brigge (translated by Stephen Mitchell in The Selected Poetry of Rainer Maria Rilke, 1989).

85 Und das Totsein ist mühsam und voller Nachholn, dass man allmählich ein wenig Ewigkeit spürt.
And being dead is hard work and full of retrieval before one can gradually feel a trace of eternity.

The reader [as well as the main character] does not view the work from outside. He too is in the labyrinth.

1959 Dans le labyrinthe.

9 Et une fois de plus je m'avançais le long de ces mêmes couloirs, marchant depuis des jours, depuis des mois, depuis des années, à votre rencontre.

And one more time, I advanced along these same hallways, walking for days, for months, for years, to meet you.

1961 L'Année dernière à Marienbad.

10 Car loin de le [le lecteur] négliger, l'auteur aujourd'hui proclame l'absolu besoin qu'il a de son concours actif, conscient, créateur. Ce qu'il lui demande, ce n'est plus de recevoir tout fait un monde achevé, plein, clos sur lui-même, c'est au contraire de participer à une création, d'inventer à son tour l'œuvre—et le monde—et d'apprendre ainsi à inventer sa propre vie.

Far from neglecting him [the reader], the author today proclaims the absolute necessity of the reader's active, conscious and creative assistance. What he demands of the reader is no longer to receive a ready-made world, complete, full, closed in upon itself. On the contrary, the reader is asked to participate in the creation, to invent for himself a work—and the world—and to understand thus how to invent his own life.

Roberts, Sir Charles George Douglas 1860–1943

Canadian poet, naturalist, novelist and short-story writer. His first book of poems, Orion, and Other Poems (1880), inspired the group later known as 'The Confederation Poets'. In 1892 he published his first animal story, of which there would eventually be about 20 collected volumes. Roberts also translated French–Canadian literature into English.

18 This is the voice of high midsummer's heat.

The rasping vibrant clamour soars and shrills
O'er all the meadowy range of shadeless hills,
As if a host of giant cicadae beat
The cymbals of their wings with tireless feet,
Or brazen grasshoppers with triumphing note
From the long swath proclaimed the fate that smote

The clover and timothy-tops and meadowsweet.

1893 'The Mowing'.

19 When Winter scourged the meadow and the hill
And in the withered leafage worked his will,
Then water shrank, and shuddered, and stood still,—
Then built himself a magic house of glass,
Iris'd with memories of flowers and grass,
Wherein to sit and watch the fury pass.

1898 'Ice'.

20 And I turned and fled, like a soul pursued,
From the white, inviolate solitude.

Robinson, Joan Violet née Maurice 1903–83

English economist, a leader of the Cambridge school which developed macroeconomic theories of growth and distribution based on the work of Keynes. Her works include The Economics of Imperfect Competition (1933) and Economic Heresies (1971).

38 The typical entrepreneur is no longer the bold and tireless man of Marshall, or the sly and rapacious Moneybags of Marx, but a mass of inert shareholders, indistinguishable from rentiers, who employ salaried managers to run their concerns.

1947 An Essay on Marxian Economics.

39 The purpose of studying economics is not to acquire a set of ready-made answers to economic questions, but to learn how to avoid being deceived by economists.

1955 Quoted in Contributions to Modern Economics (1978), p.75.

40 It is impossible to understand the economic system in which we are living if we try to interpret it as a rational scheme. It has to be understood as an awkward phase in a continuing process of historical development.

Roche, Sir Boyle 1743–1807

Irish politician. He joined the British army and fought in the war in America. On returning to Ireland he entered parliament in 1776 and remained an MP until the Act of Union (1800). He opposed Catholic emancipation and supported the Union. He was granted a pension for his constant support of the government.

45 Mr Speaker, I think the noble young man has no business to make any apology. He is a gentleman, and none such should be asked to make an apology, because no gentleman could mean to give offence.

c.1796 Debate on motion to expel Lord Edward Fitzgerald from Irish House of Commons, quoted in Sir Jonah Barrington Personal Sketches and Recollections of his own Times (1827).

46 Sir, there is no Levitical degrees between nations, and on this occasion I can see neither sin nor shame in marrying our own sister.

c.1800 Debate on the Act of Union between Great Britain and Ireland, Irish House of Commons, quoted in Sir Jonah Barrington Personal Sketches and Recollections of his own Times (1827).

47 What, Mr Speaker! and so we are to beggar ourselves for fear of vexing posterity! Now, I would ask the honourable gentleman, and still more honourable House, why should we put ourselves out of our way to do anything for posterity; for what has posterity done for us?

Debate in Irish House of Commons, quoted in Sir Jonah Barrington Personal Sketches and Recollections of his own Times (1827).

► See Addison 7:40.

48 The best way to avoid danger is to meet it plump.

Quoted in Sir Jonah Barrington Personal Sketches and Recollections of his own Times (1827).

Rochester, John Wilmot, 2nd Earl of 1647–80

English courtier and lyric poet. He is noted for his entertaining letters, for satires, including 'A Satyr Against Mankind' (1674), and for his verses and songs, many of which are sexually frank or defamatory.

49 I hold you six to four I love you with all my heart, if I would bet with other people I'm sure I could get ten to one.

c.1667 Letter from Newmarket to his wife. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

50 Naked she lay, clasped in my longing arms,
I filled with love, and she all over charms,
Both equally inspired with eager fire,
Melting through kindness, flaming in desire;
With arms, legs, lips, close clinging to embrace.

c.1672 'The Imperfect Enjoyment', l.1–6 (published 1680).

51 'Is there no more?'
She cries. 'All this to love, and rapture's due,
Must we not pay a debt to pleasure too?'

c.1672 'The Imperfect Enjoyment', l.22–4 (published 1680).

52 Restless, he rolls about from whore to whore,
A merry Monarch, scandalous and poor.

1673 Of Charles II, 'T' th' Isle of Britain', l.14–15. The poem resulted in a brief period of exile for Rochester.

53 Great Negative, how vainly would the wise
Enquire, define, distinguish, teach, devise,
Didst thou not stand to point their blind Philosophies.

c.1673 'Upon Nothing', stanza 10 (published 1679).

54 French truth, Dutch prowess, British policy,
Hibernian learning, Scotch civility,
Spaniards' dispatch, Danes' wit, are mainly seen in thee.

c.1673 'Upon Nothing', stanza 16 (published 1679).

55 Were I (who to my loss already am
One of those strange prodigious creatures, Man)
A spirit, free to choose for my own share
What case of flesh and blood I'd choose to wear,
I'd be a dog, a monkey, or a bear.

1674 'A Satyr Against Mankind', l.1–5 (published 1679).

56 Reason, an ignis fatuus in the mind,

Which leaving light of nature, sense behind,
Pathless and dangerous wandering ways it takes,
Through error's fenny bogs and thorny brakes;
Whilst the misguided follower climbs, with pain,
Mountains of whimsy heaped in his own brain.

1674 'A Satyr Against Mankind', l.12–17 (published 1679).

57 Then old age and experience, hand in hand,
Lead him to death, and make him understand,
After a search so painful and so long,
That all his life he has been in the wrong.
Huddled in dirt, the reasoning engine lies,
Who was so proud, so witty, and so wise.

1674 'A Satyr Against Mankind', l.25–30 (published 1679).

58 Birds feed on birds, beasts on each other prey,
But savage man alone does man betray.

1674 'A Satyr Against Mankind', l.129–30 (published 1679).

59 That cordial drop heaven in our cup has thrown
To make the nauseous draught of life go down.

c.1674 Of love. 'A Letter from Artemisia in the Town to Chloe in the Country', l.44–5 (published 1679).

60 What vain, unnecessary things are men,
How well we do without 'em!

c.1674–1675 'Fragment of a Satire on Men', l.1–2 (published in full 1953).

61 Dear Madam, You are stark mad, and therefore the fitter for me to love; and that is the reason I think I can never leave to be Your humble servant.

c.1675 Letter to his mistress, the actress Elizabeth Barry. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

62 To pick out the wildest and most fantastical odd man alive, and to place your kindness there, is an act so brave and daring as will show the greatness of your spirit and distinguish you in love, as you are in all things else, from womankind.

c.1675 Letter to his mistress, the actress Elizabeth Barry. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

63 They who would be great in our little government seem as ridiculous to me as schoolboys who... climb a crabtree, venturing their necks for fruit which solid pigs would disdain if they were not starving.

c.1676 Letter to Henry Savile. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

64 He is a rarity which I cannot but be fond of, as one would be of a hog that could fiddle, or a singing owl.

c.1676 Of Dryden. Letter to Henry Savile. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

65 Son of a whore, God damn you! can you tell
A Peerless Peer the readiest way to Hell?

c.1676 'To the Post-Boy', l.1–2 (published 1926). The postboy's answer is 'The readiest way, my lord, is by Rochester'.

66 My most neglected wife, till you are a much respected widow, I find you will scarce be a contented woman, and to say no more than the plain truth, I do endeavour so fairly to do you that last good service.

c.1677 Letter to his wife, 20 Nov. In The Letters of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester, edited by Jeremy Treglown (1980).

67 There can be no danger in sweetness and youth
Where love is secured by good nature and truth,
On her beauty I'll gaze, and of pleasure complain,
While every kind look adds a link to my chain.

'The Submission', l.13–16 (published 1680).

68 Farewell Woman, I intend,

Henceforth, every night to sit,
With my lewd well natured friend,
Drinking, to engender wit.

'Love a Woman!', l.9–12 (published 1680).

69 Since 'tis nature's law to change,

Constancy alone is strange.

'A Dialogue between Strepnon and Daphne', l.31–2 (published 1691).

70 An age in her embraces passed,
Would seem a winter's day;
Where life and light, with envious haste,
Are torn and snatched away.

But, oh how slowly minutes roll,
When absent from her eyes
That feed my love, which is my soul,
It languishes and dies.

'The Mistress', l.1–8 (published 1691).

71 Ancient Person, for whom I

All the flattering youth defy;
Long be it ere thou grow old,
Aching, shaking, crazy, cold;
But still continue as thou art,
Ancient person of my heart.

'A Song of a Young Lady to Her Ancient Lover', stanza 1 (published 1691).

72 God bless our good and gracious King

Whose promise none relies on,
Who never said a foolish thing
Nor ever did a wise one.

Of Charles II (published 1707). The verse was later changed to an epitaph ('Here lies a great and mighty king...').

Rockefeller, David 1915–

US banker and philanthropist, born into the wealthy Rockefeller dynasty, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Chase Manhattan Bank (1969–81).

73 One thing this family does not need to do is make itself resented by thousands more people.

Explaining his reluctance to join the management of the Chase Manhattan Bank. Quoted in Peter Collier and David Horowitz The Rockefellers (1976).

74 I was born into wealth and there was nothing I could do about it. It was there like food or air.

1990 In Merchants and Masterpieces, WETA TV broadcast, 31 Dec.

Rockefeller, John D(avison) 1839–1937

US industrialist and philanthropist. In 1875 he founded with his brother William the Standard Oil Company, securing control of US oil trade. After 1897 he devoted himself to philanthropy, and in 1913 established the Rockefeller Foundation 'to promote the wellbeing of mankind'.

75 The growth of a large business is merely a survival of the fittest... The American Beauty rose can be produced in the splendor and fragrance which bring cheer to its beholder only by sacrificing the early buds which grow up around it.

Quoted in W J Ghent Our Benevolent Feudalism (1902).

Rockefeller, John D(avison), Jr 1874–1960

US business and oil magnate. He took over his father's business empire in 1911 and continued the Rockefeller philanthropic tradition. He founded the Rockefeller Center, New York (1931, completed 1939).

76 The secretaries here have an advantage I never had. They can prove to themselves their commercial worth.

1950 Speech to the New York Chamber of Commerce, 6 Apr. Quoted in Peter Collier and David Horowitz The Rockefellers (1976).

77 The rendering of useful service is the common duty of mankind, and... only in the purifying fire of sacrifice is the dross of selfishness consumed and the greatness of the human soul set free.

Credo engraved in Rockefeller Center Plaza, New York.

Rockefeller, John D(avison), III 1906–78

US businessman and art collector, Governor of West Virginia.

78 If my name were John D Smith IV I wouldn't have been elected to anything.

Of the Medal of Freedom which he received from President Johnson after Eastern Airlines failed to receive permission to fly a coveted route. Quoted in Peter Collier and David Horowitz The Rockefellers (1978).

Rockefeller, Nelson A(Ildrich) 1908–79

US Republican politician. Director of the Rockefeller Center (1931–58), he became Governor of New York State (1958–73) and Vice-President (1974–7) under Ford, after failing to win the presidential nomination.

81 If there is anything more satisfying than dedicating a new building, it is dedicating eight new buildings.

1970 On Albany's Government Mall. In the New York Times, 13 Mar.

82 When you think of what I had, what else was there to aspire to?

Of his lifelong ambition to be US President. Quoted in Michael Kramer and Sam Roberts I Never Wanted to be Vice President of Anything (1976).

Rockefeller, Winthrop 1912–73

US businessman and politician, son of John D Rockefeller Jr, who ran a farm in Arkansas on experimental principles. He served as Republican Governor of Arkansas (1967–70).

83 In them one can see the spontaneous—and often aesthetic—expression of a people reflected, not in a gilt-framed drawing room mirror, but in an honest glass held up to the face of a nation.

1962 On an exhibition of American folk art at the US Embassy, London. In news summaries, 31 Jan.

84 In the springtime of America's cultural life, its itinerant folk artists took to the road to record the life and times of a people. Perhaps never again will we have an artistic record created in such direct and unassuming terms.

1962 On an exhibition of American folk art at the US Embassy, London. In news summaries, 31 Jan.

Rockne, Knute Kenneth 1888–1931

Norwegian-born US football coach. Coach for the University of Notre Dame team after World War I, he dominated US college football until his death in an air crash.

85 When the going gets tough, the tough get going.
His catchphrase, later adopted by John F Kennedy.

Rockwell, Norman 1894–1978

US popular illustrator, best known for his Saturday Evening Post covers. His style is typically anecdotal, idealized scenes of everyday American small-town life.

86 If the public dislikes one of my Post covers, I can't help disliking it myself.
Quoted in the New York Times, 28 Sep 1986.

Rodchenko, Alexander 1891–1956

Russian artist who was a leader of the Russian Constructivist painters before he took up photography in 1922 and became active in the field of typography and photographic journalism.

87 Tell me, frankly, what ought to remain of Lenin:
an art bronze,
oil portraits,
etchings,
watercolours,
his secretary's diary, his friends' memoirs—or a file of photographs taken of him at work and rest, archives of his books, writing pads, notebooks,
shorthand reports, films, phonograph records?
I don't think there's any choice.
Art has no place in modern life... Every cultured modern man must wage war against art, as against opium.

Photograph and be photographed!
Quoted in Robert Hughes The Shock of the New (1980).

Roddenberry, Gene 1921–91

US scriptwriter, producer and director. A former air force pilot, he made his name as the creator of the popular Star Trek television series.

1966 The mission of the starship Enterprise. Introductory voiceover to Star Trek.
- 90 Beam us up, Mr Scott.
1966 Star Trek. 'Gamesters of Triskelion'. The phrase is often misquoted as 'Beam me up, Scotty'.

Roddick, Anita 1942–

English retail entrepreneur, founder (in 1976) of the Body Shop.

91 I think that business practices would improve immeasurably if they were guided by 'feminine' principles—qualities like love and care and intuition.

1991 Body and Soul.

Rodgers, Richard and Hart, Lorenz 1902–79; 1896–1943

US composer and songwriter partnership. They wrote a series of popular musicals including Pal Joey (1940).

92 Sigmund Freud has often stated
Dreams and drives are all related.
Zip, I am such a scholar!
1940 'Zip', in Pal Joey.

Rodgers, T J

US businessman. He is founder, president and chief executive officer of Cypress Semiconductor Corporation.

93 Most entrepreneurs who have the guts to take on a big challenge are a lot like Babe Ruth—they set records for both home runs and strike outs.
1993 Letter about Steven Jobs of Next in the San Francisco Chronicle, 6 Dec.

Rodó, José Enrique 1872–1917

Uruguayan essayist and philosopher, a leading stylist and thinker of the Modernist group. His most famous work, Ariel, admonishes the youth of South America to cultivate spiritual (Ariel) rather than material (Caliban) values.

94 La visión de una América deslatinizada por propia voluntad, sin la extorsión de la conquista, y regenerada luego a imagen y semejanza del arquetipo del Norte, flota ya sobre los sueños de muchos sinceros interesados por nuestro porvenir... Tenemos nuestra nordomanía. Es necesario oponerle los límites que la razón y el sentimiento señalan.
The vision of an America de-Latinized of its own will, without threat of conquest, and reconstituted in the image and likeness of the North, now looms in the nightmares of many who are genuinely concerned about our future... We have our USA-mania. It must be limited by the boundaries our reason and sentiment jointly dictate.
1900 Ariel (translated 1922), pt.5.

Rodriguez, Richard 1944–

US writer and journalist.

95 The genius of American culture and its integrity comes from fidelity to the light. Plain as day, we say. Happy as the day is long. Early to bed, early to rise. American virtues are daylight virtues: honesty, integrity, plain speech. We say yes when we mean yes and no when we mean no, and all else comes from the evil one. America presumes innocence and even the right to happiness.
1990 Frontiers, 'Night and Day'.

96 In the modern city, it takes on the status of a cathedral, our Chartres, our Notre Dame, our marble museum of the soul.
1995 On San Francisco's new Museum of Modern Art. In the MacNeil-Lehrer Report, 27 Feb.

Rodriguez, Sue 1950–94

Canadian campaigner for euthanasia, who suffered from ALS (amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or Lou Gehrig's disease, a progressive and terminal illness).

97 I want to ask you gentlemen, if I cannot give consent to my own death, then whose body is this? Who owns my life?

1992 Videotaped presentation to the Justice Committee of the House of Commons, Ottawa, Nov. Reported by Deborah Wilson in The Globe and Mail, 5 Dec. The Supreme Court of Canada denied Rodriguez's request for a physician-assisted death.

Roethke, Theodore 1908–63

US poet. Professor of English at the University of Washington from 1948, he won a Pulitzer Prize for his collection The Waking (1953).

98 I have known the inexorable sadness of pencils,
Neat in their boxes, dolor of pad and paper-weight,
All the misery of manila folders and mucilage,
Desolation in immaculate public places.

1948 The Lost Son, 'Dolor'.

99 And I have seen dust from the walls of institutions,
Finer than flour, alive, more dangerous than silica,
Sift, almost invisible, through long afternoons of tedium.

1948 The Lost Son, 'Dolor'.

1 To know that light falls and fills, often without our knowing,
As an opaque vase fills to the brim from quick pouring,
Fills and trembles at the edge yet does not flow over,
Still holding and feeding the stem of the contained flower.

1948 The Lost Son, 'The Shape of Fire'.

2 And what a congress of stinks!—
Roots ripe as old bait,
Pulpy stems, rank, silo-rich,
Leaf-mold, manure, lime, piled against slippery planks.
Nothing would give up life:
Even the dirt kept breathing a small breath.

1948 The Lost Son, 'Root Cellar'.

3 I wake to sleep, and take my waking slow.
I feel my fate in what I cannot fear.
I learn by going where I have to go.

1953 The Waking, 'The Waking'.

4 Over this damp grave I speak the words of my love;
I, with no rights in this matter,
Neither father nor lover.

1953 Poem addressed to a dead student. The Waking, 'Elegy for Jane'.

5 Of her choice virtues only gods should speak,
Or English poets who grew up on Greek (I'd have them sing in chorus, cheek to cheek).

1958 Words for the Wind, 'I Knew a Woman'.

6 What's freedom for? To know eternity.
I swear she cast a shadow white as stone.
But who would count eternity in days?
These old bones live to learn her wanton ways:
(I measure time by how a body sways).

1958 Words for the Wind, 'I Knew a Woman'.

7 In a dark time the eye begins to see.
1963 Sequence, Sometimes Metaphysical, 'In a Dark Time'.

8 The self persists like a dying star,
In sleep, afraid.
1964 The Far Field, 'Meditation at Oyster River'.

Rogers, Carl Ransom 1902–87

US psychologist and pioneer of client-centred counselling. His Client-Centred Therapy (1951) and On Becoming a Person (1961) emphasized the value of genuine empathy with the patient.

9 Unconditional positive regard.

c.1950 The slogan of the Rogerian counselling movement.

Rogers, Richard George Rogers, Baron 1933–

English architect, concerned with advancing technology in architecture and pushing the limits of design. His works include the Beaubourg or Pompidou Centre, Paris (1971–9, with Renzo Piano), Lloyds Building, London (1979–85), the Millennium Dome (1999) and the National Assembly for Wales (1999).

10 'Form follows profit' is the aesthetic principle of our times. Thus, design skill is measured today by the architect's ability to build the largest possible enclosure for the smallest investment in the quickest time.

1990 22nd annual Walter Neurath lecture. Collected in Architecture: a Modern View.

11 Architects cannot work in a vacuum; unlike other artists they are totally dependent on a site, a brief and finance.

1990 22nd annual Walter Neurath lecture. Collected in Architecture: a Modern View.

12 The problem is not style but quality, not aesthetics but ethics.

Rogers, Will 1879–1935

US actor, rancher and humorist. Best known for his ready wisecracks, he had a syndicated column, and wrote a number of books, including a posthumously compiled Autobiography.

13 Will you please tell me what you do with all the vice presidents a bank has? ... The United States is the biggest business institution in the world and they only have one vice president and nobody has ever found anything for him to do.

1922 Speech, International Bankers' Association.

14 Well, all I know is what I read in the papers.

1923 In the New York Times, 30 Sep.

15 You know everybody is ignorant, only on different subjects.

1924 In the New York Times, 31 Aug.

16 The more you read and observe about this Politics thing, you got to admit that each party is worse than the other. The one that's out always looks the best.

1924 The Illiterate Digest, 'Breaking into the Writing Game'.

17 Everything is funny as long as it is happening to Somebody Else.

1924 The Illiterate Digest, 'Warning to Jokers: Lay Off the Prince'.

18 The Income Tax return has made more Liars out of the American people than Golf has. Even when you make one out on the level, you don't know when it's through if you are a Crook or a Martyr.

1924 The Illiterate Digest, 'Helping the Girls with Their Income Taxes'.

19 I bet you if I had met him and had a chat with him, I would have found him a very interesting and human fellow, for I never yet met a man that I didn't like.

1926 On Trotsky. In the Saturday Evening Post, 6 Nov.

20 Communism is like prohibition, it's a good idea but it won't work.

1927 Syndicated column, Nov. Collected in The Weekly Articles, vol. 3 (1981).

21 You can't say civilization don't advance, however, for in every war they kill you in a new way.

1929 In the New York Times, 23 Dec.

22 Half our life is spent trying to find something to do with the time we have rushed through life trying to save.

1930 In the New York Times, 29 Apr.

23 The United States is the only country ever to go to the poorhouse in an automobile.

c.1930 Attributed.

24 I was born because it was a habit in those days, people didn't know anything else.

27 It's great to be great but it's greater to be human.

The Autobiography of Will Rogers (published 1949), ch.15.

28 Being a hero is about the shortest-lived profession on earth.

Quoted in 'A Rogers Thesaurus' in The Saturday Review, 25 Aug 1962. Another form of the quote appeared in a syndicated newspaper article, 15 Feb 1925: 'Heroing is one of the shortest-lived professions there is'.

29 I don't make jokes—I just watch the government and report the facts.

Quoted in 'A Rogers Thesaurus' in The Saturday Review, 25 Aug 1962.

30 I guess there is nothing that will get your mind off everything like golf. I have never been depressed enough to take up the game but they say you get so sore at yourself you forget to hate your enemies.

Quoted in Michael Hobbs The Golf Quotation Book (1992).

Rogers, William Pierce 1913–2001

US lawyer and government official. As Deputy Attorney General (1953–7) he supported the 1957 Civil Rights Act, becoming Attorney General (1957–61). As Secretary of State (1969–73) he brought about a Middle East ceasefire.

31 Making foreign policy is like pornographic movies... more fun doing it than watching it.

1982 On becoming Under-Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, 7 Jun.

Rolleston, Humphrey 1862–1944

English physician.

32 Medicine is a noble profession but a damn bad business.

1944 Quoted in Who Said What When (1988).

Rollins, Sonny (Theodore Walter) 1930–

US jazz saxophonist. He is a leading figure in the development of jazz in the post-bebop era.

33 America is deeply rooted in Negro culture: its colloquialisms, its humour, its music. How ironic that the Negro, who more than any other people can claim America's culture as his own, is being persecuted and repressed, that the Negro, who has exemplified the humanities in his very existence, is being rewarded with inhumanity.

1958 Statement on sleeve of Freedom Suite.

Romani, Felice 1788–1865

Italian librettist, poet, essayist and critic. He provided libretti for more than 100 composers, striking a balance between Classicism and Romanticism. He is best known for his collaborations with Donizetti and Bellini.

34 Casta Diva.

Chaste goddess.

1831 Norma's aria. Norma, act 1 (music by Bellini, published 1832).

35 Una furtiva lagrima.

A furtive tear.

Romney, George W 1907–95

US politician. He was Governor of Michigan (1963–9) and member of the Nixon administration (1969–73).

36 I didn't say I didn't say it. I said I didn't say I said it. I want to make that very clear.

1967 Clarifying his policy. In the National Review, 12 Dec.

Roosevelt, (Anna) Eleanor 1884–1962

US humanitarian and diplomat, wife and adviser of Franklin D Roosevelt. After his death she was US delegate to the UN (1945–53, 1961), chair of the Human Rights Commission (1946–51) and US representative to the General Assembly (1946–52).

37 You always admire what you don't really understand.

1956 In Meet the Press, NBC TV broadcast, 16 Sep.

38 She can talk beautifully about democracy but doesn't know how to live democracy.

Of Madame Chiang Kai-shek. Recalled on Mrs Roosevelt's death, 7 Nov 1962.

39 Where, after all, do human rights begin? They begin in small places, close to home—so close and so small that they cannot be seen on any map of the world.

1965 Quoted in the New York Times, 26 Dec.

40 A woman is like a tea bag; when she is in hot water she just gets stronger.

Quoted by Hillary Rodham Clinton in the Wall Street Journal, 30 Sep 1994.

Roosevelt, Franklin D(elano) 1882–1945

US Democratic statesman, 32nd President (1933–45) despite being stricken with polio in 1921. He introduced a 'New Deal' for national recovery (1933), and was re-elected three times. He entered World War II after Pearl Harbor (1941), meeting Churchill and Stalin at Teheran (1943) and Yalta (1945), but died just before the German surrender.

41 I pledge you, I pledge myself, to a New Deal for the American people.

1932 Speech accepting the Democratic Convention's

- presidential nomination, Chicago, 2 Jul.
- 42 In the field of world policy, I would dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbour.
1933 Inaugural address, 4 Mar.
- 43 Let me assert my belief that the only thing that we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror that paralyses needed efforts to convert retreat into advance.
1933 Inaugural address, 4 Mar.
- 44 Better the occasional faults of a Government that lives in a spirit of charity than the consistent omissions of a Government frozen in the ice of its own indifference.
1936 Renomination acceptance speech, Philadelphia, 27 Jun.
- 45 I have seen war... I hate war.
1936 Speech at Chantauqua, New York, 14 Aug.
- 46 When peace has been broken anywhere, the peace of all countries is in danger.
1939 Radio broadcast, 3 Sep.
- 47 A conservative is a man with two perfectly good legs who has never learned to walk forwards. A reactionary is a somnambulist walking backwards. A radical is a man with both feet planted firmly in the air.
1939 Radio broadcast, Oct.
- 48 I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again and again: Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.
1940 Speech in Boston, 30 Oct.
- 49 We have the men—the skill—the wealth—and above all, the will... We must be the great arsenal of democracy.
1940 'Fireside chat' radio broadcast, 29 Dec.
- 50 In the future days, which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential freedoms. The first is freedom of speech and expression, everywhere in the world. The second is the freedom of every person to worship God in his own way, everywhere in the world. The third is freedom from want... The fourth is freedom from fear.
1941 Third inaugural address, 6 Jan.
- 51 Yesterday, December 7, 1941—a date which will live in infamy—the United States of America was suddenly and deliberately attacked by naval and air forces of the Empire of Japan.
1941 Address to Congress, 8 Dec, following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Roosevelt, Theodore 1858–1919

US Republican statesman and 26th President (1901–9). Elected Vice-President in 1900, he became President on McKinley's assassination and was re-elected in 1904. His expansionist policies included a strong navy, the regulation of trusts and monopolies, and his 'Square Deal' policy for social reform.

- 52 There is a homely adage that runs, 'Speak softly and carry a big stick, and you will go far.' If the American nation will speak softly and yet build, and keep at a pitch of the highest training, the Monroe Doctrine will go far.
1901 Vice-presidential speech, Sep.
- 53 In the western hemisphere, the adherence of the United States to the Monroe Doctrine may force the United States, however reluctantly, in flagrant cases of wrongdoing or impotence, to the exercise of an international police power.
1904 Message to Congress, 6 Dec.
- 54 The men with the muck-rakes are often indispensable to the well-being of society, but only if they know when to stop raking the muck.
1906 House of Representatives, 14 Apr.
- 55 I stand for the square deal... not merely for fair play under the present rules of the game, but for having those rules changed, so as to work for a more substantial equality of opportunity and of reward for equally good service.
1910 Speech, Osawatomie, 31 Aug.
- 56 Do not hit at all if it can be avoided, but never hit softly.
1913 Theodore Roosevelt: an Autobiography.
- 57 Practical efficiency is common, and lofty idealism is not uncommon; it is the combination that is necessary, and that combination is rare.
1913 Theodore Roosevelt: an Autobiography.
- 58 There is no reason why people should not call themselves Cubists, or Octagonists, or Parallelopipedonists, or Knights of the Isosceles Triangle, or Brothers of the Cosine, if they so desire; as expressing anything serious and permanent, one term is as fatuous as another.
1913 His opinion on the International Exhibition of Modern Art in New York, popularly known as The Armoury Show: 'A Layman's Views of an Art Exhibition', in The Outlook (9 Mar).
- 59 We are fighting in the quarrel of civilization against barbarism, of liberty against tyranny. Germany has become a menace to the whole world. She is the most dangerous enemy of liberty now existing.
1917 Speech at Oyster Bay, Long Island, Apr.
- 60 We have room in this country but for one flag, the Stars and Stripes. We have room for but one loyalty, loyalty to the United States. We have room for but one language, the English language.
1919 Message to the American Defense Society two days before his death, 3 Jan.

Rosebery, Archibald Philip Primrose, 5th Earl of 1847–1929

English statesman, Foreign Secretary (1886, 1892–4) under Gladstone, whom he succeeded as Prime Minister for a brief period in 1894 before the Liberals lost the election of 1895. He was noted for his racehorse stables, and as a biographer of British statesmen.

- 61 It is beginning to be hinted that we are a nation of amateurs.
1900 Rectorial address, Glasgow University, 16 Nov.
- 62 For the present at any rate, I must proceed alone. I must plough my own furrow alone—but before I get to the end of that furrow, it is possible that I may not find myself alone.
1901 On breaking from the Liberal Party, Jul.

Rosenberg, Harold 1906–78

US critic of the modern movement in painting and literature.

- 63 At a certain moment the canvas began to appear to one American painter after another as an arena in which to act—rather than as a space in which to reproduce, re-design, analyze or 'express' an object, actual or imagined. What was to go on the canvas was not a picture but an event.

1952 'The American Action Painters', in Art News, no.51, Dec.

64 A painting that is an act is inseparable from the biography of the artist.

1952 'The American Action Painters', in Art News, no.51, Dec.

65 Everyone knows that the label Modern Art no longer has any relation to the words that compose it. To be Modern Art a work need not be either modern nor art; it need not even be a work. A three-thousand-year-old mask from the South Pacific qualifies as Modern and a piece of wood found on a beach becomes Art.

1952 'The American Action Painters', in Art News, no.51, Dec.

66 As we have seen Modern Art does not have to be actually new; it only has to be new to somebody—to the last lady who found out about the driftwood.

1952 'The American Action Painters', in Art News, no.51, Dec.

Rosenberg, Isaac 1890–1918

English poet and artist. He published two volumes of poems before being killed in action in France. A third appeared posthumously, and his Collected Works (1937, rev edn 1973) revived his reputation.

67 The darkness crumbles away—
It is the same old druid Time as ever.

1916 'Break of Day in the Trenches'.

68 Droll rat, they would shoot you if they knew
Your cosmopolitan sympathies.

1916 'And God Knows What Antipathies'.

69 Earth has waited for them,
All the time of their growth
Fretting for their decay:
Now she has them at last.

1917 'Dead Man's Dump'.

70 Death could drop from the dark
As easily as song.

1917 'Returning, We Hear the Larks'.

Rosenblum, Robert 1927–

US art historian. His works include Cubism and Twentieth Century Art (1960) and Andy Warhol: Portrait of the 70s (1981).

71 She transformed junkyards of secular carpentry into almost sacred altarpieces.

1988 On sculptor Louise Nevelson. In Time, 26 Dec.

Ross, Edward Alsworth 1866–1951

US sociologist, Professor at the University of Wisconsin.

72 A society... which is riven by a dozen oppositions along lines running in every direction, may actually be in less danger of being torn with violence or falling to pieces than one split along just one line. For each new cleavage contributes to narrow the cross clefts, so that one might say that society is sewn together by its internal conflicts.

1920 The Principles of Sociology.

Rossetti, Christina Georgina 1830–94

English poet and sister of Dante Gabriel Rossetti. She helped found with her brother the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. A devout Christian, her poetry has a melancholic and religiously intense quality.

73 Because the birthday of my life
Is come, my love is come to me.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'A Birthday'.

74 Come to me in the silence of the night;
Come in the speaking silence of a dream;
Come with soft rounded cheeks and eyes as bright
As sunlight on a stream;
Come back in tears,
O memory, hope, love of finished years.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Echo'.

75 For there is no friend like a sister
In calm or stormy weather;
To cheer one on the tedious way,
To fetch one if one goes astray,
To lift one if one totters down,
To strengthen whilst one stands.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Goblin Market'.

76 The hope I dreamed of was a dream,
Was but a dream; and now I wake,
Exceeding comfortable, and worn, and old,
For a dream's sake.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Mirage'.

77 Oh roses for the flush of youth,
And laurel for the perfect prime;
But pluck an ivy branch for me
Grown old before my time.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Oh Roses for the Flush of Youth'.

78 Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far away into the silent land.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Remember'.

79 Better by far you should forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Remember'.

80 O Earth, lie heavily upon her eyes;
Seal her sweet eyes weary of watching, Earth.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Rest'.

81 Silence more musical than any song.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Rest'.

82 Does the road wind up-hill all the way?
Yes, to the very end.

Will the day's journey take the whole long day?
From morn to night, my friend.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'Up-Hill'.

83 When I am dead, my dearest,
Sing no sad songs for me;
Plant thou no roses at my head,
Nor shady cypress tree:

Be the green grass above me
With showers and dewdrops wet;
And if thou wilt, remember,
And if thou wilt, forget.

1862 Goblin Market and Other Poems, 'When I Am dead'.

84 In the bleak mid-winter
Frosty wind made moan,
Earth stood hard as iron,
Water like a stone;
Snow had fallen, snow on snow,
Snow on snow,

- In the bleak mid-winter,
Long ago.
1875 'Mid-Winter'.
- 85 Love came down at Christmas,
Love all lovely, Love Divine;
Love was born at Christmas,
Star and angels gave the sign.
1893 Verses, 'Love Came Down at Christmas'.

Rossetti, Dante Gabriel 1828–82

English painter and poet, who with his sister Christina Rossetti, Millais and Holman Hunt, founded the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood. His poetic works include Poems (1870) and Ballads and Sonnets (1881).

- 86 The blessed damozel leaned out
From the gold bar of Heaven;
Her eyes were deeper than the depth
Of waters stilled at even;
She had three lilies in her hand,
And the stars in her hair were seven.
1870 Poems, 'The Blessed Damozel', stanza 1.
- 87 Her hair that lay along her back
Was yellow like ripe corn.
1870 Poems, 'The Blessed Damozel', stanza 2.
- 88 As low as where this earth
Spins like a fretful midge.
1870 Poems, 'The Blessed Damozel', stanza 6.
- 89 And the souls mounting up to God
Went by her like thin flames.
1870 Poems, 'The Blessed Damozel', stanza 7.
- 90 'We two,' she said, 'will seek the groves
Where the lady Mary is,
With her five handmaidens, whose names
Are five sweet symphonies,
Cecily, Gertrude, Magdalen,
Margaret and Rosalys.'
1870 Poems, 'The Blessed Damozel', stanza 18.
- 91 I have been here before,
But when or how I cannot tell:
I know the grass beyond the door,
The sweet keen smell,
The sighing sound, the lights around the shore.
1870 Poems, 'Sudden Light'.
- 92 A sonnet is a moment's monument,—
Memorial from the Soul's eternity
To one dead deathless hour.
1881 The House of Life, introduction.
- 93 'Tis visible silence, still as the hour-glass.
1881 The House of Life, 'Silent Noon', pt.1.
- 94 Deep in the sun-searched growths the dragon-fly
Hangs like a blue thread loosened from the sky:—
So this winged hour is dropt to us from above.
Oh! clasp we to our hearts, for deathless dower,
This close-companioned inarticulate hour
When twofold silence was the song of love.
1881 The House of Life, 'Silent Noon', pt.1.
- 95 Lo! as that youth's eyes burned at thine, so went
Thy spell through him, and left his straight neck bent
And round his heart one strangling golden hair.
1881 The House of Life, 'Body's Beauty', pt.2.
- 96 They die not,—for their life was death,—but cease;
And round their narrow lips the mould falls close.
1881 The House of Life, 'The Choice', pt.1.
- 97 I do not see them here; but after death
God knows I know the faces I shall see,
Each one a murdered self, with low last breath.
'I am thyself,—what hast thou done to me?'
'And I—and I—thyself,' (lo! each one saith)
'And thou thyself to all eternity!'
1881 The House of Life, 'Lost Days', pt.2.
- 98 Give honour unto Luke Evangelist;
For he it was (the aged legends say)
Who first taught Art to fold her hands and pray.
1881 The House of Life, 'Old and New Art', pt.2.
- 99 When vain desire at last and vain regret
Go hand in hand to death, and all is vain,
What shall assuage the unforgotten pain
And teach the unforgetful to forget?
1881 The House of Life, 'The One Hope', pt.2.
- 1 Look in my face; my name is Might-have-been;
I am also called No-more, Too-late, Farewell.
1881 The House of Life, 'A Superscription', pt.2.
- 2 Sleepless with cold commemorative eyes.
1881 The House of Life, 'A Superscription', pt.2.
- 3 Unto the man of yearning thought
And aspiration, to do nought
Is in itself almost an act.
1881 Ballads and Sonnets, 'Soothsay', stanza 10.

Rossini, Gioacchino Antonio 1792–1868

Italian composer. His early operas including La Scala de seta (1812) and L'Italiana in Algeri (1813) were followed by his masterpiece, Il Barbiere de Seuglia (1816). His later works, mostly written in Paris, include La Gazza Ladra (1817), Semiramide (1823) and Guillaume Tell (1829).

- 4 I was born for opera buffa, as well Thou knowest. Little skill, a little heart, and that is all. So be Thou blessed and admit me to Paradise.
1863 Manuscript inscription on the score of his 'Petite Messe Solennelle'.
- 5 Monsieur Wagner has good moments, but awful quarters of an hour!
1867 Quoted in Emile Naumann Italienische Tondichter (1883).

Rosso, Medardo 1858–1928

Italian sculptor. Sometimes known as the 'Impressionist' sculptor, he was a major influence on the Italian Futurists.

- 6 When I make a portrait, I cannot limit it to the lines of the head, for that head belongs to a body, it exists in a setting which influences it, it is part of a totality that I cannot suppress. The impression you produce upon me is not the same if I catch sight of you alone in a garden or if I see you in the midst of a group of other people, in a living room or on the street.
Quoted in Edmond Claris De l'impressionisme en sculpture,
'Medardo Rosso' (1902).
- 7 One does not walk around a statue any more than one walks around a painting, because one does not walk around a figure to receive an impression from it. Nothing is material in space.

Quoted in Edmond Claris De l'impressionisme en sculpture, 'Medardo Rosso' (1902).

Rostand, Jean 1894–1977

French biologist and writer.

- 8 A body of work such as Pasteur's is inconceivable in our time: no man would be given a chance to create a whole science. Nowadays a path is scarcely opened up when the crowd begins to pour in.
1939 'Pensées d'un Biologiste', collected in The Substance of Man (translated by Irma Brandeis, 1962).
- 9 Nothing leads the scientist so astray as a premature truth.
1939 'Pensées d'un Biologiste', collected in The Substance of Man (translated by Irma Brandeis, 1962).

Rosten, Leo Calvin 1908–97

US writer, humorist and anthropologist. He is best known for his humorous compendium The Joys of Yiddish (1968), but has also written novels and stage plays (some as Leonard Ross).

- 10 The only thing I can say about W C Fields, whom I have admired since the day he advanced upon Baby LeRoy with an ice pick, is this: any man who hates dogs and babies can't be all bad.
1939 Speech at a Hollywood dinner in honour of W C Fields, 16 Feb.
- 11 The only reason for being a professional writer is that you just can't help it.
In D L Kirkpatrick (ed) Contemporary Novelists (1976).

Roth, Guenther 1931–

German-born US sociologist, Professor of Sociology at Columbia University.

- 12 My draft-dodging father proved that in the struggle for survival the fittest are most likely to get killed off.
'Partisanship and Scholarship', collected in Bennett Berger (ed) Authors of Their Own Lives (1990).

Roth, Henry 1906–95

US novelist. His novel of Jewish life in New York, Call It Sleep (1934), was rediscovered on its paperback publication in 1962. Apart from the shorter writings collected in Shifting Landscape (1987), he did not publish another until the first part of a massive six-book project, Mercy of a Rude Stream (1994).

- 13 The mind shuttles and reminds: we go this way only once; and shuttles again and rejoins: once is enough.
1960 'The Dun Dakotas', in Commentary, 30 Aug.
- 14 Detach the writer from the milieu where he has experienced his greatest sense of belonging, and you have created a discontinuity within his personality, a short circuit in his identity. The result is his originality, his creativity comes to an end. He becomes the one-book novelist or the one-trilogy writer.
1987 'The Eternal Plebeian and Other Matters', in Shifting Landscape.

Roth, Philip Milton 1933–

US novelist. His succès de scandale, Portnoy's Complaint (1969), was followed by a series of highly literary novels featuring his fictional alter ego, Nathan Zuckerman, all dealing with questions of Jewish identity.

- 15 Since I was a little girl I always wanted to be Very Decent to People. Other little girls wanted to be nurses and pianists. They were less dissembling.

1962 Letting Go, pt.1, ch.1.

- 16 It's the little questions from women about tappets that finally push men over the edge.
1962 Letting Go, pt.1, ch.1.
- 17 It's a family joke that when I was a tiny child I turned from the window out of which I was watching a snowstorm, and hopefully asked, 'Momma, do we believe in winter?'
1969 Portnoy's Complaint, 'The Most Unforgettable Character I've Ever Met'.
- 18 A Jewish man with parents alive is a fifteen-year-old boy, and will remain a fifteen-year-old boy until they die!
1969 Portnoy's Complaint, 'Cunt Crazy'.
- 19 Doctor, doctor, what do you say, LET'S PUT THE ID BACK IN YID!

1995 Of bureaucracy, compared to crab grass. In the Washington Times, 19 May.

Rothko, Mark originally Marcus Rothkovitch 1903–70

Latvian-born painter, who emigrated to the US as a child. A largely self-taught artist, he moved from Surrealism to a distinctively meditative form of Abstract Expressionism, filling large canvases with blocks of pure colour.

- 34 I am not interested in relationships of color or form or anything else... I am interested only in expressing the basic human emotions—tragedy, ecstasy, doom, and so on—and the fact that lots of people break down and cry when confronted with my pictures shows that I communicate with those basic human emotions. The people who weep before my pictures are having the same religious experience I had when I painted them. And if you, as you say, are moved only by their color relationships, then you miss the point!

Quoted in R Rosenblum Modern Painting and the Northern Romantic Tradition (1975).

Rothwell, Talbot 1916–74

British screenwriter who wrote for film and television, best known for his contribution to many of the Carry On... films.

Rous, Sir Stanley 1895–1986

English football administrator. A former player and referee, he became Secretary of the Football Association in 1934 and President of FIFA in 1961. His codification of the rules of football into 17 laws is still followed today.

- 39 If this can be termed the century of the common man, then soccer, of all sports, is surely his game... In a world haunted by the hydrogen and napalm bomb, the football field is a place where sanity and hope are still left unmolested.

1952 Quoted in Bryon Butler The Official History of the Football Association (1986).

Rousseau, Jean Jacques 1712–78

French political philosopher, educationalist and writer. The father of French Romanticism, he wrote in many different genres. He is best known for his novel Julie, ou la Nouvelle Héloïse (1761), his autobiography, his posthumously published Confessions, and for Du contrat social (The Social Contract, 1762).

- 40 Le premier qui, ayant enclos un terrain, s'avisait de dire: 'Ceci est à moi' et trouva des gens assez simples pour le croire, fut le vrai fondateur de la société civile.

The first person who fenced in a piece of land, ventured to say: 'This is mine,' and found others simple enough to believe him, was the true founder of civil society.

Runge, Philipp Otto 1777–1810

German painter and draughtsman, a member of the German Romantic movement.

74 Art of all periods teaches us that humanity changes, and that a period, once past, never returns.

1802 Letter, Feb. Quoted in L Eitner Neoclassicism and Romanticism 1750–1850 (1964).

75 But could we not reach the point of highest perfection in a new kind of art, in this art of landscape, and perhaps reach a higher beauty than existed before?

1802 Letter, quoted in L Eitner Neoclassicism and Romanticism 1750–1850 (1964).

76 Colour is the ultimate in art. It is still and will always remain a mystery to us, we can only apprehend it intuitively in flowers.

1802 Letter, quoted in L Eitner Neoclassicism and Romanticism 1750–1850 (1964).

77 We must become children again if we wish to achieve the best.

1802 Letter, quoted in R Rosenblum Modern Painting and the Northern Romantic Tradition (1975).

Runyon, (Alfred) Damon 1884–1946

US journalist, sportswriter and humorist. He is remembered for the colourful argot of his New York stories, which have been gathered in several collections, and provided the basis of the musical Guys and Dolls (1931).

78 'My boy,' he says, 'always try to rub up against money, for if you rub up against money long enough, some of it may rub off on you.'

1931 Guys and Dolls, 'A Very Honourable Guy'.

79 'You are snatching a hard guy when you snatch Bookie Bob. A very hard guy, indeed. In fact,' I say, 'I hear the softest thing about him is his front teeth.'

- 33 The greatest thing a human soul ever does in this world is to see something, and tell what it saw in a plain way. Hundreds of people can talk for one who can think, but thousands can think for one who can see. To see clearly is poetry, prophecy, and religion, all in one.
1873 Modern Painters, vol.3, pt.4, ch.16.
- 34 I have seen, and heard, much of Cockney impudence before now; but never expected to hear a coxcomb ask two hundred guineas for flinging a pot of paint in the public's face.
1877 On Whistler's Nocturne in Black and Gold. Fors Clavigera (published 1871–84), letter no.79, 18 Jun.
- 35 Men don't and can't live by exchanging articles, but by producing them. They don't live by trade, but by work. Give up that foolish and vain title of Trades Unions; and take that of Labourers' Unions.
1880 Open letter to English Trades Unions, 29 Sep.
- 36 Beethoven always sounds to me like the upsetting of a bag of nails, with here and there an also dropped hammer.
1881 Letter.
- 37 Of all the affected, sapless, soulless, beginningless, endless, topless, bottomless, topsituriest, scannel-pippiest, tongs and boniest doggerel of sounds I ever endured the deadliest of, that eternity of nothing was the deadliest.
1882 Of Wagner's Die Meistersinger. Letter to Mrs Burne-Jones, 30 Jun.
- 38 There was a rocky valley between Buxton and Bakewell...divine as the vale of Tempe; you might have seen the gods there morning and evening—Apollo and the sweet Muses of the Light... You enterprised a railroad...you blasted its rocks away... And, now, every fool in Buxton can be at Bakewell in half-an-hour, and every fool in Bakewell at Buxton.
1886–8 Praeterita, vol.3, pt.4, 'Joanna's Cave', note.

Russell, Bertrand Arthur William Russell, 3rd Earl 1872–1970

English philosopher and mathematician, a controversial public figure ('an enemy of religion and morality') who produced a stream of popular and provocative works on social, moral and religious issues. After 1949 he championed nuclear disarmament, and engaged in correspondence with several world leaders. He won the Nobel prize for literature in 1950.

- 39 Mathematics possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty—a beauty cold and austere, like that of sculpture.
1903 The Principles of Mathematics.
- 40 Philosophy, if it cannot answer so many questions as we could wish, has at least the power of asking questions which increase the interest of the world, and show the strangeness and wonder lying just below the surface even in the commonest things of daily life.
1912 The Problems of Philosophy, ch.1.
- 41 The essential characteristic of philosophy, which makes it a study distinct from science, is criticism. It examines critically the principles employed in science and in daily life; it searches out any inconsistencies there may be in these principles, and it only accepts them when, as the result of a critical inquiry, there is no reason for rejecting them.
1912 The Problems of Philosophy, ch.14.
- 42 Philosophy is to be studied, not for the sake of any definite answers to its questions, since no definite answers can, as a rule, be known to be true, but rather for the sake of the questions themselves; because these questions enlarge our conception of what is possible, enrich our intellectual imagination, and diminish the dogmatic assurance which closes the mind against speculation; but above all because, through the greatness of the universe which philosophy contemplates, the mind also is rendered great, and becomes capable of that union with the universe which constitutes its highest good.
1912 The Problems of Philosophy, ch.14.
- 43 Every proposition which we can understand must be composed wholly of constituents with which we are acquainted.
1917 A Free Man's Worship, 'Knowledge by Acquaintance and Knowledge by Description'.
- 44 The true spirit of delight, the exaltation, the sense of being more than man, which is the touchstone of the highest excellence, is to be found in mathematics as surely as in poetry.
1917 Mysticism and Logic.
- 45 The typical Westerner wishes to be the cause of as many changes as possible in his environment; the typical Chinese wishes to enjoy as much and as delicately as possible.
1922 The Problems of China.
- 46 In science men have discovered an activity of the very highest value in which they are no longer, as in art, dependent for progress upon the appearance of continually greater genius, for in science the successors stand upon the shoulders of their predecessors; where one man of supreme genius has invented a method, a thousand lesser men can apply it.
1923 A Free Man's Worship and Other Essays.
- 47 Machines are worshipped because they are beautiful, and valued because they confer power; they are hated because they are hideous, and loathed because they impose slavery.
1928 Sceptical Essays.
- 48 The scientific attitude of mind involves a sweeping away of all other desires in the interest of the desire to know.
1930 Interview in the New Statesman, 24 May.
- 49 It is, of course, clear that a country with a large foreign population must endeavour, through its schools, to assimilate the children of immigrants... It is, however, unfortunate that a large part of this process should be effected by means of a somewhat blatant nationalism.
1935 In Praise of Idleness, 'Modern Homogeneity'.
- 50 No rules, however wise, are a substitute for affection and tact.
1935 In Praise of Idleness, 'Education and Discipline'.
- 51 I think modern educational theorists are inclined to attach too much importance to the negative virtue of not interfering with children, and too little to the positive merit of enjoying their company.
1935 In Praise of Idleness, 'Education and Discipline'.
- 52 Two men who differ as to the ends of life cannot hope to agree about education.
1935 In Praise of Idleness, 'Education and Discipline'.
- 53 Can a society in which thought and technique are scientific persist for a long period, as, for example, ancient Egypt persisted, or does it necessarily contain within itself forces which must bring either decay or explosion?
1949 'Can a Scientific Community Be Stable?', Lloyd Roberts lecture to the Royal Society of Medicine, 29 Nov.
- 54 There is only one constant preoccupation: I have throughout been anxious to discover how much we can be said to know and with what degree of certainty or doubtfulness.
1959 My Philosophical Development, ch.1.
- 55 I do not think it possible to get anywhere if we start from scepticism. We must start from a broad acceptance of whatever seems to be knowledge and is not rejected for some specific reason.
1959 My Philosophical Development, ch.16.
- 56 Ever since I was engaged on Principia Mathematica, I have had a certain method of which at first I was scarcely conscious, but which has gradually become more explicit in my thinking. The method consists in an attempt to build a bridge between the world of sense and the world of science.
1959 My Philosophical Development, ch.16.
- 57 This idea of weapons of mass extermination is utterly horrible, and is something that no one with a spark of humanity can tolerate. I will not pretend to obey a Government that is organizing a mass massacre of mankind.
1961 Speech urging civil disobedience in support of nuclear disarmament, Birmingham, 15 Apr.
- 58 Obscenity is what happens to shock some elderly and ignorant magistrate.
1961 Quoted in Look magazine.

59 I've got a one-dimensional mind.

Quoted in R Crawshay-Williams Russell Remembered (1970), ch.2.

Russell, Dora 1894–1986

English feminist and pacifist, second wife of Bertrand Russell. In her many works she advocated sexual freedom and birth control.

1925 Hypatia: or Women and Knowledge, ch.4.

Russell, George William pseudonym Æ 1867–1935

Irish poet, painter, writer and economist. He met Yeats in Dublin and turned from his art studies to theosophy. His first book Homeward: Songs by the Way (1894) established his role in the Irish literary renaissance. He edited the Irish Homestead (1906–23) and subsequently the Irish Statesman (1923–30).

61 As Michael read the Gaelic scroll
It seemed the story of the soul;
And those who wrought, lest there should fail
From earth the legend of the Gael,
Seemed warriors of Eternal Mind
Still holding in a world gone blind,
From which belief and hope had gone,
The lovely magic of its dawn.

1922 The Interpreters, 'Michael'.

62 In ancient shadows and twilights
Where childhood had strayed,
The world's great sorrows were born
And its heroes were made.
In the lost boyhood of Judas,
Christ was betrayed.

1992 On the increasing luxuriousness of bathrooms. Looking Around.

Ryder, Albert Pinkham 1847–1917

US painter, whose works are characterized by dreamlike figures and landscapes, evoking a romantic, lonely mood, such as Toilers of the Sea. His experimental technique of loading paint on the canvas caused many works to deteriorate. He became misanthropic in later life.

76 The artist needs but a roof, a crust of bread, and his easel, and all the rest God gives him in abundance. He must live to paint and not paint to live.

Quoted in Sherman Albert Pinkham Ryder (1920).

77 The artist should fear to become the slave of detail. He should strive to express his thought and not the surface of it. What avails a storm cloud accurate in form and colour if the storm is not therein?

Quoted in Goodrich Albert Pinkham Ryder (1959).

Ryle, Gilbert 1900–76

English philosopher and Professor of Philosophy at Oxford. His most famous work was The Concept of Mind (1949) in which he denounced Cartesian ideas of mind.

78 The dogma of the Ghost in the Machine.

1949 The Concept of Mind.

79 The sorts of things that I can find out about myself are the same as the sorts of things that I can find out about other people and the methods of finding them out are much the same.

1949 The Concept of Mind.

80 As every teacher, like every drill-sergeant or animal trainer, knows in his practice, teaching and training have virtually not yet begun, so long as the pupil is too young, too stupid, too scared or too sulky to respond—and to respond is not just to yield. Where there is a modicum of alacrity, interest or anyhow docility in the pupil, where he tries, however faintheartedly, to get things right rather than awkward, where, even, he registers even a slight contempt for the poor performances of others, of chagrin at his own, pleasure at his own successes and envy of those of others, then he is, in however slight a degree, co-operating and so self-moving.

Quoted in R S Peters (ed) The Concept of Education (1966), ch.7.

Sala, George Augustus Henry 1828–95

English journalist, book illustrator and novelist, born in London of Italian ancestry. He was in the US during the Civil War, in Italy with Garibaldi, in France in 1870–71, in Russia in 1876 and in Australia in 1885.

- 50 The foaminess of the Falls, together with the tinge of tawny yellow in the troubled waters, only reminded me of so much unattainable soda and sherry, and made me feel thirstier than ever.
1865 On seeing Niagara Falls for the first time. My Diary in America in the Midst of War.

Salinger, J(erome) D(avid) 1919–

US novelist. His novel The Catcher in the Rye (1951) is one of the most widely read novels of the era. He has published little since, and lives as a recluse in New Hampshire.

- 51 If you really want to hear about it, the first thing you'll probably want to know is where I was born, and what my lousy childhood was like, and how my parents were occupied and all before they had me, and all that David Copperfield kind of crap, but I don't feel like going into it.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.1.
- 52 What really knocks me out is a book that, when you're all

- done reading it, you wish the author that wrote it was a terrific friend of yours and you could call him up on the phone whenever you felt like it.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.3.
- 53 Sex is something I really don't understand too hot. You never know where the hell you are. I keep making up these sex rules for myself, and then I break them right away.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.9.
- 54 That's the thing about girls. Every time they do something pretty, even if they're not much to look at, or even if they're sort of stupid, you fall half in love with them, and then you never know where you are.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.10.
- 55 He looked like the kind of guy that wouldn't talk to you much unless he wanted something off you. He had a lousy personality.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.11.
- 56 The thing is it's really hard to be room-mates with people if your suitcases are much better than theirs—if yours are really good and theirs aren't. You think if they're intelligent and all, the other person, and have a good sense of humour, that they don't give a damn whose suitcases are better, but they do.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.15.
- 57 The trouble with me is, I always have to read that stuff by myself. If an actor reads it out, I hardly listen. I keep worrying about whether he's going to do something phoney every minute.
1951 Of Hamlet. The Catcher in the Rye, ch.16.
- 58 Take most people, they're crazy about cars... I'd rather have a goddam horse. A horse is at least human, for God's sake.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.17.
- 59 The trouble with girls is, if they like a boy, no matter how big a bastard he is, they'll say he has an inferiority complex, and if they don't like him, no matter how nice a guy he is, or how big an inferiority complex he has, they'll say he's conceited. Even smart girls do it.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.18.
- 60 Sally said I was a sacrilegious atheist. I probably am. The thing that Jesus really would've liked would be the guy that plays the kettle drums in the orchestra.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.18.
- 61 Anyway, I keep picturing all these little kids playing some game in this big field of rye and all. Thousands of little kids, and nobody's around—nobody big, I mean—except me. And I'm standing on the edge of some crazy cliff. What I have to do, I have to catch everybody if they start to go over the cliff—I mean if they're running and they don't look where they're going I have to come out from somewhere and catch them. That's all I'd do all day. I'd just be the catcher in the rye and all. I know it's crazy, but that's the only thing I'd really like to be.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, ch.22.
- 62 Never tell anyone anything. If you do you start missing everyone.
1951 The Catcher in the Rye, last words.
- 63 For Esmé—with Love and Squalor.

64 Poetry, surely, is a crisis, perhaps the only actionable one we can call our own.

1959 'Seymour: An Introduction'.

65 A confessional passage has probably never been written that didn't stink a little bit of the writer's pride in having given up his pride.

1959 'Seymour: An Introduction'.

66 One of the reasons that I quit going to the theatre when I was about twenty was that I resented like hell filing out of the theatre because some playwright was forever slamming down his silly curtain.

1959 'Seymour: An Introduction'.

Salisbury, Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, 3rd Marquis of 1830–1903

English Conservative statesman. He succeeded Disraeli as Leader of the Opposition, and was subsequently Prime Minister (1885–6, 1886–92, 1895–1902), as well as holding other posts. He was head of government during the Boer War (1889–1902).

67 Horny-handed sons of toil.

1873 In the Quarterly Review, Oct.

68 No lesson seems to be so deeply inculcated by the experience of life as that you should never trust experts. If you believe the doctors, nothing is wholesome: if you believe the theologians, nothing is innocent: if you believe the soldiers, nothing is safe. They all require to have their strong wine diluted by a very large admixture of insipid common sense.

1877 Letter to Lord Lytton, 15 Jun. Quoted in Lady Gwendolen Cecil Life of Robert, Marquis of Salisbury (1921–32), vol.2, ch.4.

69 We are part of the community of Europe and we must do our duty as such.

1888 Speech at Caernarvon, 10 Apr. In The Times, 11 Apr.

70 By office boys for office boys.

Of the Daily Mail. The phrase recalls Thackeray's Pendennis who started a newspaper 'by gentlemen for gentlemen'. Quoted in S J Taylor The Great Outsiders: Northcliffe, Rothermere and the Daily Mail (1966), ch.2.

Sallust in full Gaius Sallustius Crispus 86–34 BC

Roman historian and politician. As Governor of Numidia he enriched himself enormously. He wrote Bellum Catilinae, Bellum Iugurthinum and Historiarum libri quinque, of which only fragments survive.

71 Alieni appetens, sui profusus.

Greedy for the belongings of others, extravagant with his own.

Bellum Catilinae, 5.

72 Esse quam videri bonus malebat.

He preferred to be good, rather than seem good.

Of Cato. Bellum Catilinae, 54.

73 Punica fide.

With Punic faith.

Used ironically (meaning treacherously) of the Numidian Bocchus, a double agent between Iugurtha and Sulla. Bellum Iugurthinum, 108.3.

Salter, Sir (James) Arthur, 1st Baron Salter 1881–1975

English economist and international civil servant.

74 The normal economic system works itself.

Quoted in Ronald H Coase Essays on Economics and Economists (1994), p.6.

Salvianus c.400–c.470 AD

Christian writer from Gaul. His surviving works include nine epistles, Ad Ecclesiam and the unfinished De Gubernatione Dei. He urged that all estates be bequeathed to the poor, and denounced inherited wealth.

75 Quot curiales, tot tyranni.

As many councillors, so many tyrants.
De Gubernatione Dei, 5.18.27.

Sampson, Anthony (Terrell Seward) 1926–

English journalist and writer. His most influential book was The Anatomy of Britain (1962), which was followed by other titles on the same theme. He was a staff member of the Observer (1955–66).

76 In America journalism is apt to be regarded as an extension of history: in Britain, as an extension of conversation.

1965 The Anatomy of Britain Today, ch.9.

Samuel, Herbert Louis, 1st Viscount Samuel

1870–1963

English Liberal statesman and philosophical writer, Home Secretary (1916, 1931–2) and High Commissioner for Palestine (1920–5). His philosophical works include Practical Ethics (1935), Belief and Action (1937) and In Search of Reality (1957).

77 The House of Lords must be the only institution in the world that is kept efficient by the persistent absenteeism of its members.

78 Hansard is history's ear, already listening.

1949 House of Lords, Dec.

Samuelson, Paul Anthony 1915–

US economist and journalist, professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (1940–85). His works include Foundations of Economic Analysis (1947) and the classic Economics (1948). He won the Nobel prize for economics in 1970.

79 The consumer, so it is said, is the king...each is a voter who uses his money as votes to get the things done that he wants done.

1948 Economics.

80 Commentators quote economic studies alleging that market downturns predicted four out of the last five recessions. That is an understatement. Wall Street indexes predicted nine out of the last five recessions!

1966 Quoted in The Samuelson Sampler (1973).

Samuelson, Sir Sydney 1925–

British film commissioner. He started in the film industry in 1939 and worked as a cinema projectionist, editor and cameraman. He founded Samuelson Film Service and in 1991 was appointed the first British Film Commissioner.

81 We welcome all enquiries about the UK climate—after all, we have more weather available in this country than anywhere else.

Sand, George pseudonym of Amandine Aurore Lucille Dupin, Baronne Dudevant 1804–76

French novelist, the illegitimate daughter of Marshal de Saxe, known for her scandalous bohemian lifestyle and her liaisons with Musset and Chopin, and later with prominent politicians.

82 L'amour, heurtant son front aveugle à tous les obstacles de la civilisation.

Love, knocking its blind forehead against all of civilization's obstacles.

1832 Indiana, preface.

83 En France particulièrement, les mots ont plus d'empire que les idées.

In France particularly, words reign over ideas.

1832 Indiana, pt.1, ch.2.

84 L'homme qui a un peu usé ses émotions est plus pressé de plaire que d'aimer.

The person who has used his emotions even a little is more anxious to please than to love.

1832 Indiana, pt.1, ch.5.

85 La société ne doit rien exiger de celui qui n'attend rien d'elle.

Society should not ask anything of the person who expects nothing from society.

1832 Indiana, conclusion.

86 Nous ne pouvons arracher une seule page de notre vie, mais nous pouvons jeter le livre au feu.

We cannot tear out a single page from our life, but we can throw the entire book in the fire.

1832 Mauprat.

87 Nulle créature humaine ne peut commander à l'amour.

No human being can give orders to love.

1833 Jacques.

88 Le vrai est trop simple, il faut y arriver toujours par le compliqué.

Truth is too simple; it must always be arrived at in a complicated manner.

1867 Letter to Armand Barbès, May.

89 L'art pour l'art est un vain mot. L'art pour le vrai, l'art pour le beau et le bon, voilà la religion que je cherche.

Art for art's sake is an empty phrase. Art for the sake of the true, art for the sake of the good and the beautiful, that is the faith I search for.

1872 Letter to Alexandre Saint-Jean.

Sandburg, Carl 1878–1967

US poet, originally a journalist in Chicago. His volumes of poetry, celebrating US life in free verse, include Chicago Poems (1916) and Good Morning, America (1928). - 14 The more rhyme there is in poetry the more danger of its tricking the writer into something other than the urge in the beginning.
Quoted in The Complete Poems of Carl Sandburg (1986), 'Notes for a Preface'.
- 15 There is a formal poetry perfect only in form... the number of syllables, the designated and required stresses of accent, the rhymes if wanted—they come off with the skill of a solved crossword puzzle.
Quoted in The Complete Poems of Carl Sandburg (1986), 'Notes for a Preface'.

Sanders, George 1906–72

British actor who became renowned for playing cads and sophisticated villains. Among his many roles, his parts in Rebecca (1940), The Moon and Sixpence (1942), The Picture of Dorian Gray (1944), All About Eve (1950) and A Shot in the Dark (1964) were particularly notable.

- 16 Dear World, I am leaving because I am bored. I feel I have lived long enough. I am leaving you with your worries in this sweet cesspool. Good luck.
1972 His suicide note.

Sandys, George 1578–1644

English translator and traveller, youngest son of the Archbishop of York. He published a verse translation of Ovid's Metamorphoses, written while treasurer to the colony in Virginia. He also wrote poetic versions of the Psalms (1636) and the Song of Solomon (1641).

23 Art is dedicated echo.

Quoted in John Gassner and Sidney Thomas (eds) The Nature of Art (1964).

24 Nothing is so poor and melancholy as an art that is interested in itself and not in its subject.

Quoted in John Gassner and Sidney Thomas (eds) The Nature of Art (1964).

25 A building without ornamentation is like a heaven without stars.

Quoted in the Christian Science Monitor, 14 Dec 1990.

26 Pure poetry is pure experiment... memorable nonsense.

Quoted in Helen Gardner (ed) The New Oxford Book of English Verse (1991).

Sappho 7c BC

Greek lyric poetess, born on Lesbos. Most of her surviving poems are from papyrus fragments discovered in recent times.

27 He looks to me to be in heaven, that man who sits across from you and listens near you to your soft speaking, your laughing lovely: that, I vow, makes the heart leap in my breast; for watching you a moment, speech fails me, my tongue is paralysed, at once a light fire runs beneath my skin, my eyes are blinded, and my ears drumming, the sweat pours down me, and I shake all over, shallower than grass: I feel as if I'm not far off dying.

28 Just as the sweet-apple reddens on the high branch, high on the highest, and the apple-pickers missed it, or rather did not miss it out, but could not reach it.

Sarduy, Severo 1937–93

Cuban novelist and essayist. He left his country for Paris in 1960. A practitioner and a theoretician of so-called neo-Baroque, he used in his novels a variety of experimental techniques, satire, parody and a carnivalistic approach.

29 ¡Ah sí, ponerse a escribir otra vez, qué vomitivo! ¡Como si todo esto sirviera para algo, como si todo esto fuera a entrar en alguna cabezota, a entretener a alguno de los lectores babosos, ovillados en sus poltronas, frente al sopón soporífero de cada día!

Ah yes, going back to writing, how disgusting! As if all this had some purpose, as if all this would penetrate some thick skull, amuse some drivelling reader curled up in his armchair before the soporific stew of every day!

1967 De donde son los cantantes (translated as From Cuba with a Song, 1972), 'La Dolores Rondón'.

We all have this double impulse within ourselves: the desire to integrate into society, and the need to fulfil ourselves outside of it, through our own efforts.

La Quinzaine littéraire, 50.

Sarton, George A 1884–1956

US academic and historian of science.

40 Definition—Science is systematized positive knowledge, what has been taken as such in different ages and in different places. Theorem—The acquisition and systematization of positive knowledge are the only human activities which are truly cumulative and progressive. Corollary—The history of science is the only history which can illustrate the progress of mankind. In fact, progress has no definite and unquestionable meaning in other fields than the field of science.

1957 The Study of the History of Science.

Sarton, May 1912–95

US poet and novelist. Her poetry collections include Inner Landscape (1939), The Land of Silence (1953) and The Silence Now (1988), and she wrote other works such as Mrs Stevens Hears the Mermaids Singing (1965).

41 The poet must be free to love or hate as the spirit moves him, free to change, free to be a chameleon, free to be an enfant terrible. He must above all never worry about his effect on other people. Power requires that one do just that all the time. Power requires that the inner person never be unmasked. No, we poets have to go naked. And since this is so, it is better that we stay private people; a naked public person would be rather ridiculous, what?

1965 Hilary Stevens. Mrs Stevens Hears the Mermaids Singing, pt.2.

42 I write poems, have always written them, to transcend the painfully personal and reach the universal. Quoted in Encore: A Journal of the 80th Year (1993).

43 When you're a poet, you're a poet first. When it comes, it's like an angel.

Quoted by Mel Gussow in her obituary, in the New York Times, 18 Jul 1995.

Sartre, Jean-Paul 1905–80

French existentialist philosopher and writer, a prominent intellectual and friend of Simone de Beauvoir. His works include the trilogy Les Chemins de la liberté (1945–9, The Roads to Freedom) and many plays. His philosophy is presented in L'Être et le néant (1943, Being and Nothingness). In 1964 he published his autobiography Les Mots (Words), and was awarded (but declined) the Nobel prize for literature.

44 Trois heures, c'est toujours trop tard ou trop tôt pour tout ce qu'on veut faire.

Three o'clock is always either too late or too early for anything one might want to do.

1938 La Nausée, 'Vendredi'.

45 L'homme est une passion inutile.

Man is a useless passion.

1943 L'Être et le néant (Being and Nothingness, 1957) pt.4, ch.2, section 3 (translated by Hazel Barnes).

46 L'Enfer, c'est les Autres.

Hell is other people.

1945 Huis clos.

47 Est-ce qu'au fond, ce qui fait peur, dans la doctrine que je vais essayer de vous exposer, ce n'est pas le fait qu'elle laisse une possibilité de choix à l'homme?

For at bottom, what is alarming in the doctrine that I am about to try to explain to you is—is it not?—that it confronts man with a possibility of choice.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

48 Ce qu'ils ont en commun, c'est simplement le fait qu'ils estiment que l'existence précède l'essence, ou, si vous voulez, qu'il faut partir de la subjectivité.

What [existentialists] have in common is simply the fact that they believe that existence comes before essence—or, if you will, that we must begin from the subjective.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

49 Qu'est-ce que signifie que l'existence précède l'essence? Cela signifie que l'homme existe d'abord, se rencontre, surgit dans le monde, et qu'il se définit après.

What do we mean by saying that existence precedes essence? We mean that man first of all exists, encounters himself, surges up in the world—and defines himself afterwards.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

50 L'homme n'est rien d'autre que ce qu'il se fait. Tel est le premier principe de l'existentialisme.

Man is nothing else but that which he makes of himself. That is the first principle of existentialism.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

51 L'homme est condamné à être libre.

Man is condemned to be free.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

52 Un homme n'est rien d'autre qu'une série d'entreprises. A man is no other than a series of undertakings.

1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).

53 Il n'y a pas d'autre univers qu'un univers humain, l'univers de la subjectivité humaine.

- There is no other universe except the human universe, the universe of human subjectivity.
1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).
- 54 Vous êtes libre, choisissez, c'est-à-dire, inventez. Aucune morale générale ne peut vous indiquer ce qu'il y a à faire.
You are free, therefore choose—that is to say, invent. No rule of general morality can show you what you ought to do.
1946 L'Existentialisme est un humanisme (Existentialism and Humanism, 1948) (translated by Philip Mairet).
- 55 The status of 'native' is a nervous condition introduced and maintained by the settler among colonized people with their consent.
1961 Preface to Franz Fanon Les Damnés de la terre (The Wretched of the Earth, 1967), translated by Constance Farrington). Tsitsi Dangarembga uses this sentence to supply both epigraph and title of her 1988 novel Nervous Conditions.
- Sassoon, Siegfried Louvain 1886–1967
English poet and novelist. He established his reputation as a war poet while serving in World War I. He wrote a semi-autobiographical trilogy, The Memoirs of George Sherston (1928–36), and several volumes of actual memoirs.
- 56 I am making this statement as an act of wilful defiance of military authority, because I believe that the War is being deliberately prolonged by those who have the power to end it.
1917 'A Soldier's Declaration'. Statement sent to his commanding officer which was read out in the House of Commons and printed in The Times.
- 57 I'd like to see a Tank come down the stalls,
Lurching to rag-time tunes, or 'Home sweet Home',—
And there'd be no more jokes in Music-halls
To mock the riddled corpses round Bapaume.
1917 'Blighters'.
- 58 How right it seemed that he should reach the span
Of comfortable years allowed to man!
Splendid to eat and sleep and choose a wife,
Safe with his wound, a citizen of life.
He hobbled blithely through the garden gate,
And thought: 'Thank God they had to amputate!'
1917 'The One-Legged Man'.
- 59 We'd gained our first objective hours before
While dawn broke like a face with blinking eyes,
Pallid, unshaved and thirsty, blind with smoke.
1918 'Counter-Attack'.
- 60 Soldiers are citizens of death's grey land,
—Drawing no dividend from time's to-morrows.
In the great hour of destiny they stand,
—Each with his feuds, and jealousies, and sorrows.
Soldiers are sworn to action; they must win
—Some flaming, fatal climax with their lives.
Soldiers are dreamers; when the guns begin —They think of firelit homes, clean beds and wives.
1918 'Dreamers'.
- 61 If I were fierce and bald and short of breath
I'd live with scarlet Majors at the Base,
And speed glum heroes up the line to death.
1918 'Base Details'.
- 62 And when war is done and youth stone dead
I'd toddle safely home and die—in bed.
1918 'Base Details'.
- 63 'Good-morning; good-morning!' the General said
When we met him last week on our way to the line.
Now the soldiers he smiled at are most of 'em dead,
And we're cursing his staff for incompetent swine.
'He's a cheery old card,' grunted Harry to Jack
As they slogged up to Arras with rifle and pack.

But he did for them both by his plan of attack.
1918 'The General'.
- 64 Does it matter?—losing your sight?...
There's such splendid work for the blind;
And people will always be kind
As you sit on the terrace remembering
And turning your face to the light.
1918 'Does It Matter'.
- 65 From you, Beethoven, Bach, Mozart,
The substance of my dreams took fire.
You built cathedrals in my heart,
And lit my pinnacled desire.
1918 'Dead Musicians'.
- 66 You have no part with lads who fought
And laughed and suffered at my side.
Your fugues and symphonies have brought
No memory of my friends who died.
1918 'Dead Musicians'.
- 67 Why do you lie with your legs ungainly huddled,
And one arm bent across your sullen cold
Exhausted face?
1918 'The Dug-Out'.
- 68 You are too young to fall asleep for ever;
And when you sleep you remind me of the dead.
1918 'The Dug-Out'.
- 69 Everyone suddenly burst out singing;
And I was filled with such delight
As prisoned birds must find in freedom,
1919 'Everyone Sang'.
- 70 But the past is just the same,—and
War's a bloody game.
1919 'Aftermath'.
- 71 When all is said and done, leading a good life is more important than keeping a good diary.
1923 Diary entry, 8 Jul.
- 72 In me the tiger sniffs the rose.
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.7, 'In me, past, present, future meet'.
- 73 And what is time but shadows that were cast
By these storm-sculptured stones while centuries fled?
The stones remain; their stillness can outlast
The skies of history hurrying overhead.
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.9, 'What is Stonehenge? It is the roofless past'.
- 74 Alone... The word is life endured and known.
It is the stillness where our spirits walk
And all but inmost faith is overthrown.
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.11, "When I'm alone"—the words tripped off his tongue'.
- 75 They have spoken lightly of my deathless friends, (Lamps for my gloom, hands guiding where I stumble,)
Quoting, for shallow conversational ends,

What Shelley shrilled, what Blake once wildly muttered...
How can they use such names and be not humble?
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.15, 'Grandeur of Ghosts'.

- 76 Who will remember, passing through this Gate,
The unheroic Dead who fed the guns?
Who shall absolve the foulness of their fate,—
Those doomed, conscripted, unvictorious ones?
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.21, 'On Passing the New Menin Gate'.
- 77 Here Vaughan lies dead, whose name flows on for ever
Through pastures of the spirit washed with dew
And starlit with eternities unknown.
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.23, 'At the Grave of Henry Vaughan'.
- 78 The skull that housed white angels and had vision
Of daybreak through the gateways of the mind.
1928 The Heart's Journey, pt.23, 'At the Grave of Henry Vaughan'.
- 79 A man may be born a poet, but he has to make himself an artist as well.
1939 On Poetry.

Satie, Erik Alfred Leslie 1866–1925

French composer. A pupil of Vincent d'Indy and Albert Roussel, he wrote ballets, lyric dramas and numerous whimsical pieces in which he rebelled against Wagnerism and orthodoxy in general. His music had some influence on Debussy, Ravel and others.

- 80 Before I compose a piece, I walk round it several times, accompanied by myself.
Quoted in Bulletin des éditions musicales (1913).
- 81 To be played with both hands in the pocket.
Instruction on one of his piano compositions. Quoted in Oscar Levant The Unimportance of Being Oscar (1968).
- 82 It is not enough to refuse the Legion d'Honneur. One should never have deserved it.
Of Maurice Ravel, who had declined the honour. Quoted by Alister Kershaw in The Australian, 1991.

Sayers, Dorothy L(eigh) 1893–1957

English detective-story writer. Her hero, Lord Peter Wimsey, is one of the most popular of the great detectives, and her books are distinguished by realistically created settings as well as stylish wit. She also wrote plays and poems.

- 83 I admit it is more fun to punt than to be punted, and that a desire to have all the fun is nine-tenths of the law of chivalry.
1935 Gaudy Night, ch.14.
- 84 I can't see that she could have found anything nastier to say if she'd thought it out with both hands for a fortnight.
1937 'Prothalamion'.
- 85 Plain lies are dangerous.
1937 'The Psychology of Advertising', in The Spectator, 19 Nov.
- 86 Those who prefer their English sloppy have only themselves to thank if the advertisement writer uses his mastery of vocabulary and syntax to mislead their weak minds.
1937 'The Psychology of Advertising', in The Spectator, 19 Nov.
- 87 The moral of all this... is that we have the kind of advertising we deserve.
1937 'The Psychology of Advertising', in The Spectator, 19 Nov.
- 88 As I grow older and older,

And totter towards the tomb,
I find that I care less and less
Who goes to bed with whom.
'That's Why I Never Read Modern Novels', collected in Janet Hitchman Such a Strange Lady (1975), ch.12.

Scargill, Arthur 1938–

English trade union leader, president of the National Union of Mineworkers (1981–2002). A powerful orator, his strong defence of miners and his socialist politics led to conflict with government, particularly in the miners' strike of 1984–5. He started a new socialist party in 1996.

- 89 My father still reads the dictionary every day. He says that your life depends on your power to master words.
1982 In the Sunday Times, 10 Jan.
- 90 I speak of that most dangerous duo—President Ray-Gun and the plutonium blonde, Margaret Thatcher.
1984 Quoted in Time, 3 Dec.
- 91 I wouldn't vote for Ken Livingstone if he were running for mayor of Toytown.
2000 In The Guardian, 3 May.

Scève, Maurice c.1510–c.1564

French poet of the École Lyonnaise. His most famous collection of poems, Délie, objet de plus haute vertu (1544), is a meditation on love.

- 92 *Car loi d'Amour est de l'un captiver,
L'autre donner d'heureuse liberté.
The law of love is to captivate one,
And to give another joyous freedom.
1544 Délie, no.40.*
- 93 *En toi je vis, où que tu sois absente;
En moi je meurs, où que je sois présent.
Tant loin sois-tu, toujours tu es présente;
Pour près que sois, encore suis-je absent.
I live in you, wherever you are, when you are absent;
I die in myself wherever I am.
No matter how far away you are, you are always present;
And no matter how near you are, I am always absent.
1544 Délie, no.144.*
- 94 *Tu es le Corps, Dame, et je suis ton ombre.
You are the body, lady, and I am your shadow.
1544 Délie, no.376.*

Schacht, Hjalmar Horace Greely 1877–1970

German financier. As president of the Reichsbank (1923) he ended inflation, and recalled by the Nazis from resignation in 1933, he restored the German trade balance by unorthodox methods. Dismissed after disagreement with Hitler, he was later acquitted at Nuremberg of crimes against humanity.

- 95 I wouldn't believe that Hitler was dead, even if he told me himself.
1945 Attributed remark, 8 May.

Schaw, Janet b.c.1730

Scottish traveller. She was distantly related to Sir Walter Scott and was well educated, but little is known of her other than what is told in her Journal of a Lady of Quality, an account of her travels in the West Indies in 1774–6.

- 96 At last America is in my view; a dreary waste of white barren sand, and melancholy, nodding pines. In the course of many miles, no cheerful cottage has blest my eyes. All seems dreary, savage and desert; and was it for this such sums of money, such streams of British blood have been lavished away? Oh, thou dear land, how dearly hast thou purchased this habitation for bears and wolves. Dearly has it been purchased, and at a price far dearer still it will be kept. My heart dies within me, while I view it.

c.1776 On her first sight of the country around Cape Fear. Journal of a Lady of Quality; Being the Narrative of a Journey from Scotland to the West Indies, North Carolina, and Portugal, in the years 1774 to 1776.

Schiaparelli, Elsa 1890–1973

Italian fashion designer who opened one of the first couture boutiques in Paris in 1935. She was known for introducing the colour 'shocking pink' into the fashion world.

98 So fashion is born by small facts, trends, or even politics, never by trying to make little pleats and furbelows, by trinkets, by clothes easy to copy, or by the shortening or lengthening of a skirt.

Schiller, Friedrich 1759–1805

German poet and playwright who was briefly a surgeon before turning his attention to writing and travelling.

1 In seinen Göttern malt sich der Mensch.

Humankind is reflected in its gods.

1789 Was heißt und zu welchem Ende studiert man Universalgeschichte?

2 Alle anderen Dinge müssen; der Mensch ist das Wesen, welches will.

All other things must; man is the being who wills.

1794 Über das Erhabene.

3 Man kann den Menschen nicht verwehren, Zu denken, was sie wollen.

One cannot prevent people from thinking what they please.

1800 Maria Stuart, act 1, sc.8.

4 Was man scheint,

Hat jedermann zum Richter; was man ist, hat keine.

What we appear to be is subject to the judgement Of all mankind, and what we truly are, of no one.

1800 Maria Stuart, act 2, sc.5.

5 Was man nicht aufgibt, hat man nie verloren.

What is not abandoned is never completely lost.

1800 Maria Stuart, act 2, sc.5.

6 Das Leben ist

Nur ein Moment, der Tod ist auch nur einer.

Life is but a moment. Death is but a moment, too.

1800 Maria Stuart, act 3, sc.6.

7 Den stolzen Sieger stürzt sein eignes Glück.

The victor is often vanquished by his own success.

1801 Die Jungfrau von Orléans, act 1, sc.5.

8 Mehr als das Leben lieb' ich meine Freiheit.

More than life, I cherish freedom.

1801 Die Jungfrau von Orléans, act 2, sc.2.

9 Mitt der Dummheit kämpfen Götter selbst vergebens.

Even the gods themselves struggle in vain against stupidity.

1801 Die Jungfrau von Orléans, act 3, sc.6.

Schlesinger, Arthur Meier 1888–1965

US historian. His works include New Viewpoints in American History (1922) and a History of American Life (13 vols, 1928–43).

10 The military struggle may frankly be regarded for what it actually was, namely a war for independence, an armed attempt to impose the views of the revolutionists on the British government and large sections of the colonial population at whatever cost to freedom of opinion or the sanctity of life and property.

1919 'The American Revolution Reconsidered', in Political Science Quarterly, Mar.

Schlesinger, Arthur M(eier), Jr 1917–

US historian and special assistant to President Kennedy (1961–3). His works include the Pulitzer prize-winning The Age of Jackson (1945) and A Thousand Days: John F Kennedy in the White House (1965). He became president of the American Institute of Arts and Letters (1981).

11 He read partly for information, partly for comparison, partly for insight, partly for the sheer joy of felicitous statement. He delighted particularly in quotations which distilled the essence of an argument.

1965 Of John F Kennedy. A Thousand Days.

Schnabel, Artur 1882–1951

Austrian pianist and composer. He studied under Leschetizsky and made his debut at the age of eight. Subsequently he toured throughout Europe and the US, where he settled in 1939. He was an authoritative player of a small range of German classics—notably Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert.

18 The notes I handle no better than many pianists. But the pauses between the notes—ah, that is where the art resides.

1958 In the Chicago Daily News, 11 Jun.

19 Applause is a receipt, not a bill.

Explaining why he did not play encores. Quoted in I Kolodin The Musical Life (1958).

20 I know two kinds of audience only—one coughing and one not coughing.

1961 My Life and Music.

21 I don't think there was ever a piece of music that changed a man's decision on how to vote.

Schopenhauer, Arthur 1788–1860

German philosopher, whose work is often characterized as a systematic philosophical pessimism. His major work was Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), published in 1819. A second enlarged edition followed in 1844.

28 Alle Befriedigung, oder was man gemeinhin Glück nennt, ist eigentlich und wesentlich immer nur negativ und durchaus nie positiv.

All satisfaction, or what is commonly called happiness, is really and essentially always negative only, and never positive.

1819 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.1, bk.4, ch.58 (translated by E F J Payne).

29 Wir tapfen im Labyrinth unsers Lebenswandels und im Dunkel unserer Forschungen umher: helle Augenblicke erleuchten dabei wie Blitze unsern Weg.

We grope about in the labyrinth of our life and in the obscurity of our investigations; bright moments illuminate our path like flashes of lightning.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.15 (translated by E F J Payne).

30 Das Ganze der Erfahrung gleicht einer Geheimschrift und die Philosophie der Entzifferung derselben.

The whole of experience is like a cryptograph, and philosophy is like the deciphering of it.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.17 (translated by E F J Payne).

31 Ist es an und für sich absurd, das Nichtsein für ein Übel zu halten; da jedes Übel wie jedes Gut das Dasein zur Voraussetzung hat, ja sogar das Bewusstsein.

It is in and by itself absurd to regard non-existence as an evil; for every evil, like every good, presupposes existence, indeed even consciousness.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.41 (translated by E F J Payne).

32 Unsterblichkeit der Individualität verlangen heißt eigentlich einen Irrtum ins Unendliche perpetuieren wollen. Denn im Grunde ist doch jede Individualität nur ein spezieller Irrtum, Fehltritt, etwas, das besser nicht wäre, ja wovon uns zurückzubringen der eigentliche Zweck des Lebens ist.

To desire immortality for the individual is really the same as wanting to perpetuate an error for ever; for at bottom every individuality is really only a special error, a false step, something that it would be better should not be, in fact something from which it is the real purpose of life to bring us back.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.41 (translated by E F J Payne).

33 Alle Verliebtheit [...] wurzelt allein im Geschlechtstrieb.

All amorousness [...] is rooted in the sexual impulse alone.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.44 (translated by E F J Payne).

34 Was man auch sagen mag, der glücklichste Augenblick des Glücklichen ist doch der seines Einschlafens wie der unglücklichste des Unglücklichen der seines Erwachens.

Whatever we may say, the happiest moment of the happy man is that of his falling asleep, just as the unhappiest moment of the unhappy man is that of his awakening.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.46 (translated by E F J Payne).

35 Es gibt nur einen Irrtum, und es ist der, dass wir dasind, um glücklich zu sein.

There is only one inborn error, and that is the notion that we exist in order to be happy.

1844 Die Welt als Wille und Vorstellung (The World as Will and Representation), vol.2, ch.49 (translated by E F J Payne).

36 Die Szenen unsers Lebens gleichen den Bildern in großer Mosaik, welche in der Nähe keine Wirkung tun, sondern von denen man fern stehn muss, um sie schön zu finden. The scenes of our life resemble pictures in rough mosaic; they are ineffective from close up, and have to be viewed from a distance if they are to seem beautiful.

1851 Paverga und Paralipomena, ch.11 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

37 Jede Trennung gibt einen Vorgeschmack des Todes—und jedes Wiedersehen einen Vorgeschmack der Auferstehung.

Every parting is a foretaste of death, and every reunion a foretaste of resurrection.

1851 Paverga und Paralipomena, ch.26 (translated by R J Hollingdale).

Schreiner, Olive Emily Albertina pseudonym Ralph Iron 1855–1920

South African feminist, novelist and polemicist. Educated at home against a strict religious background, she is best known for her semi-autobiographical novel, The Story of an African Farm (1883), which rejects the spiritual aridity of colonial life and loveless marriage.

38 This pretty ring... I will give it to the first man who tells me he would like to be a woman. It is delightful to be a woman; but every man thanks the Lord devoutly that he isn't one.

1883 The Story of an African Farm, ch.17, 'Lyndall'.

39 We are cursed, Waldo, born cursed from the time our mothers bring us into the world till the shrouds are put on us.

1883 Lyndall. The Story of an African Farm, ch.17, 'Lyndall'.

40 We sit... and look out at the boys in their happy play... we kneel still with one little cheek wistfully pressed against the pane... and we go and stand before the glass. We see the complexion we were not to spoil, and the white frock... Then the curse begins to act upon us. It finishes its work when we are grown women, who no more look out wistfully at a more healthy life; we are contented. We fit our sphere as a Chinese woman's foot fits her shoe, exactly, as though God made both—and yet he knows nothing of either.

1883 Lyndall. The Story of an African Farm, ch.17, 'Lyndall'.

41 Men are like the earth and we are the moon; we turn always one side to them, and they think there is no other, because they don't see it—but there is.

1883 Lyndall. The Story of an African Farm, ch.17, 'Lyndall'.

42 Give us labour and the training which fits for labour! We demand this, not for ourselves alone, but for the race.

1911 Women and Labour, ch.1.

43 With each generation the entire race passes through the body of its womanhood as through a mould, reappearing with the indelible marks of that mould upon it, that as the os cervix of woman, through which the head of the human infant passes at birth, forms a ring, determining for ever the size at birth of the human head... so exactly the intellectual capacity, the physical vigour, the emotional depth of woman, forms also an untranscendable circle, circumscribing with each successive generation the limits of expansion of the human race.

49 Jogging is very beneficial. It's very good for your legs and your feet. It's also very good for the ground. It makes it feel needed.

Quoted in Colin Jarman The Guinness Dictionary of Sports Quotations (1990).

Schumacher, E(rnst) F(riedrich) 1911–77

British economist and public servant, member of the Control Commission in Germany (1946–50) and economist of the National Coal Board (1950–70).

50 Small Is Beautiful: a Study of Economics as if People Mattered.

1973 Title of book.

51 I have no doubt that it is possible to give a new direction to technological development, a direction that shall lead it back to the real needs of man, and that also means: to the actual size of man. Man is small, and, therefore, small is beautiful. To go for giantism is to go for self-destruction.

Schumpeter, Joseph Alois 1883–1950

Austrian-born US economist, who emigrated to the US in 1932 and later became professor at Harvard. He emphasized the importance of the entrepreneur in the business cycle and traced the economic history of capitalism.

53 When I was a young man, I wanted to be three things: I wanted to be the world's greatest horseman, the world's greatest economist, and the world's greatest lover. Unfortunately I never became the world's greatest horseman.

1940s Attributed, Harvard oral tradition.

54 The cold metal of economic theory is in Marx's pages immersed in such a wealth of steaming phrases as to acquire a temperature not naturally its own.

Schweitzer, Albert 1875–1965

German medical missionary, theologian, musician and philosopher. In 1896 he vowed to live for science and art until he was 30, and then devote his life to serving humanity. He became principal of a theological college (1903) and wrote Von Reimarus zu Wrede (1906, The Quest for the Historical Jesus) and major works on St Paul. Despite his international reputation in music and theology, he turned to medicine in 1905, and with his wife set up a hospital in French Equatorial Africa. He was awarded the Nobel peace prize in 1952.

70 He comes to us as One unknown, without a name, as of old, by the lakeside, He came to those who knew Him not. He speaks to us the same word: 'Follow thou me!' and sets us to the tasks which He has to fulfil for our time. He commands. And to those who obey Him, whether they be wise or simple, He will reveal Himself in the toils, the conflicts, the sufferings which they shall pass through in His fellowship, and, as an ineffable mystery, they shall learn in their own experience who He is.

1906 Von Reimarus zu Wrede (translated by W Montgomery as The Quest for the Historical Jesus, 1910).

71 An optimist is a person who sees a green light everywhere, while the pessimist sees only the red stop-light. The truly wise person is colour-blind.

1965 Quoted in CBS News tribute, 14 Jan.

Scorsese, Martin 1942–

US film director. With films such as Taxi Driver (1976) and Raging Bull (1980), he established himself as one of the foremost directors of his generation.

72 I always tell the younger film-makers and students: Do it like the painters used to... Study the old masters. Enrich your palette. Expand the canvas. There's always so much more to learn.

Scott, C(harles) P(restwich) 1846–1932

English newspaper editor and Liberal MP (1895–1906). At the age of 26 he became editor of the Manchester Guardian, and made it a serious liberal rival of The Times by a highly independent and often controversial editorial policy and high literary standards.

74 The newspaper is of necessity something of a monopoly, and its first duty is to shun the temptations of a monopoly. Its primary office is the gathering of News. At the peril of its soul it must see that the supply is not tainted. Neither in what it gives, nor in what it does not give, nor in the mode of presentation, must the unclouded face of Truth suffer wrong. Comment is free, but facts are sacred.

1921 Of the newspaper industry. In the Manchester Guardian, special centenary issue, 6 May.

75 One of the virtues, perhaps almost the chief virtue, of a newspaper is its independence. Whatever its position or character, at least it should have a soul of its own.

1921 In the Manchester Guardian, special centenary issue, 6 May.

Scott, Duncan Campell 1862–1947

Canadian poet. One of the 'Confederation Poets', he also wrote short stories, biographies and a play.

76 How strange the stars have grown;
The presage of extinction glows on their crests
And they are beautied with impermanence.

1916 'The Height of Land'.

Scott, F(rancis) R(eginald) 1899–1985

Canadian poet. A lawyer, professor and politician (a founder of the Canadian social democratic party, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation), he established several important literary reviews. His collected poems were published in 1981.

77 I have sat by night beside a cold lake
And touched things smoother than moonlight on still water,

But the moon on this cloud sea is not human,
And here is no shore, no intimacy,
Only the start of space, the road to suns.

1945 'Trans Canada'.

78 Hidden in wonder and snow, or sudden with summer,
This land stares at the sun in a huge silence
Endlessly repeating something we cannot hear.
Inarticulate, arctic,
Not written on by history, empty as paper,
It leans away from the world with songs in its lakes
Older than love, and lost in the miles.

1954 Of Canada. 'Laurentian Shield'.

79 Newspapers are born free and everywhere are in chains.

1973 Aphorism, collected in John Robert Colombo (ed) Colombo's Canadian Quotations (1974).

Scott, Robert Falcon 1868–1912

English Antarctic explorer. In 1900–4 he commanded the National Antarctic Expedition to the Ross Sea. On his second expedition he reached the South Pole (Jan 1912), only to discover that Amundsen had beaten him by a month. He and his party died on the way back; their bodies and diaries were found by a search party eight months later.

80 Great God! This is an awful place and terrible enough for us to have laboured to it without the reward of priority.

1912 Journal entry, 18 Jan. Scott's Last Expedition: The Personal Journals of Captain R F Scott, CVO, RN, on His Journey to the South Pole (published 1923).

81 Had we lived, I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, endurance, and courage of my companions which would have stirred the heart of every Englishman. These rough notes and our dead bodies must tell the tale.

1912 Message to the public. Quoted in The Times, 11 Feb 1913.

82 It seems a pity but I do not think I can write more. For God's sake look after our people.

1912 Last entry in journal, 29 Mar. In Scott's Last Expedition: The Personal Journals of Captain R F Scott, CVO, RN, on His Journey to the South Pole (published 1923).

Scott, Rose 1847–1925

Australian feminist.

83 Life is too short to waste on the admiration of one man.

Her habitual response to offers of marriage. Quoted in Jennifer Uglow (ed) The Macmillan Dictionary of Women's Biography (2nd edn, 1989).

Scott, Sir Walter 1771–1832

Scottish novelist and poet. He studied law and became an advocate and later a sheriff, but achieved worldwide fame as a writer of epic poetry and as the author of the Waverley Novels, promoting a fundamentally romantic image of history and in particular of Scotland's past.

84 The way was long, the wind was cold,
The Minstrel was infirm and old;
His withered cheek, and tresses grey,
Seemed to have known a better day;
The harp, his sole remaining joy,
Was carried by an orphan boy,
The last of all the Bards was he,
Who sung of Border chivalry.
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, introduction.

85 He poured, to lord and lady gay,
The unpremeditated lay.
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, introduction.

86 And said I that my limbs were old,
And said I that my blood was cold,
And that my kindly fire was fled,
And my poor withered heart was dead,
And that I might not sing of Love?
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 1, stanza 1.

87 If thou would'st view fair Melrose aright,
Go visit it by the pale moonlight.
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 2, stanza 1.

- 88 The woodland brook he bounding crossed,
And laughed, and shouted, 'Lost! lost! lost!'
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 3, stanza 13.
- 89 The Harper smiled, well pleased; for ne'er
Was flattery lost on poet's ear:
A simple race! they waste their toil
For the vain tribute of a smile.
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 4, conclusion.
- 90 Call it not vain:—they do not err
Who say, that when the Poet dies,
Mute Nature mourns her worshipper,
And celebrates his obsequies.
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 5, stanza 1.
- 91 Breathes there the man, with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!
Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned,
As home his footsteps he hath turned
From wandering on a foreign strand!
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 6, stanza 1.
- 92 O Caledonia! stern and wild,
Meet nurse for a poetic child!
Land of brown heath and shaggy wood,
Land of the mountain and the flood.
Land of my sires! what mortal hand
Can e'er untie the filial band
That knits me to thy rugged strand!
1805 The Lay of the Last Minstrel, canto 6, stanza 2.
- 93 November's sky is chill and drear,
November's leaf is red and sear.
1808 Marmion, canto 1, introduction.
- 94 And come he slow, or come he fast,
It is but Death who comes at last.
1808 Marmion, canto 2, stanza 30.
- 95 Still is thy name in high account,
And still thy verse has charms,
Sir David Lindesay of the Mount,
Lord Lion King-at-arms!
1808 Marmion, canto 4, stanza 7.
- 96 O, young Lochinvar is come out of the west,
Through all the wide Border his steed was the best;
And save his good broadsword he weapon had none,
He rode all unarmed, and he rode all alone.
So faithful in love, and so dauntless in war,
There never was knight like the young Lochinvar.
1808 Marmion, canto 5, stanza 12, 'Lochinvar'.
- 97 Heap on more wood!—the wind is chill;
But let it whistle as it will,
We'll keep our Christmas merry still.
1808 Marmion, canto 6, introduction.
- 98 And dar'st thou then
To beard the lion in his den,
The Douglas in his hall?
1808 Marmion, canto 6, stanza 14.
- 99 Oh what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practise to deceive!
1808 Marmion, canto 6, stanza 17.
- 1 O Woman! in our hours of ease,
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By the light quivering aspen made;
When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel thou!
1808 Marmion, canto 6, stanza 30.
- 2 The stubborn spearmen still made good
Their dark impenetrable wood,
Each stepping where his comrade stood
The instant that he fell.
1808 Marmion, canto 6, stanza 34.
- 3 Still from the sire the son shall hear
Of the stern strife, and carnage drear,
Of Flodden's fatal field,
Where shivered was fair Scotland's spear,
And broken was her shield!
1808 Marmion, canto 6, stanza 34.
- 4 The stag at eve had drunk his fill,
Where danced the moon on Monan's rill.
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 1, stanza 1.
- 5 Hail to the Chief who in honour advances!
Honoured and bless'd be the evergreen Pine!
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 2, stanza 19, 'Boat Song'.
- 6 Time rolls his ceaseless course.
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 3, stanza 1.
- 7 He is gone on the mountain,
He is lost to the forest,
Like a summer-dried fountain,
When our need was the sorest.
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 3, stanza 16, 'Coronach'.
- 8 Like the dew on the mountain,
Like the foam on the river,
Like the bubble on the fountain,
Thou art gone, and for ever!
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 3, stanza 16, 'Coronach'.
- 9 Merry it is in the good greenwood,
When the mavis and merle are singing,
When the deer sweeps by, and the hounds are in cry,
And the hunter's horn is ringing.
1810 The Lady of the Lake, canto 4, stanza 12, 'Alice Brand'.
- 10 O, Brignal banks are wild and fair,
And Greta woods are green
And you may gather garlands there
Would grace a summer queen.
1813 Rokeby, canto 3, stanza 16.
- 11 A weary lot is thine, fair maid,
A weary lot is thine!
To pull the thorn thy brow to braid,
And press the rue for wine!
1813 Rokeby, canto 3, stanza 28, 'Song'.
- 12 Look back, and smile at perils past!
1813 The Bridal of Triermain, introduction.
- 13 He that steals a cow from a poor widow, or a stirk from a cottar, is a thief; he that lifts a drove from a Sassenach laird, is a gentleman-drover. And, besides, to take a tree from the forest, a salmon from the river, a deer from the hill, or a cow from a Lowland strath, is what no Highlander need ever think shame upon.
1814 Evan Dhu Maccombich to Edward Waverley. Waverley, ch.18.
- 14 I am heartily glad you continued to like Waverley to the end—the hero is a sneaking piece of imbecility and if he had married Flora she would have set him up upon the

- chimney-piece as Count Boralaski's wife used to do with him.
- 1814 Letter to John Morritt, 28 Jul. Joseph Borowlaski was a Polish dwarf known as 'The Little Count' who left France at the Revolution and exhibited himself at fairs throughout Britain.
- 15 Then strip lads, and to it, though sharp be the weather,
And if, by mischance, you should happen to fall,
There are worse things in life than a tumble on the heather
And life is itself a game of football.
- 1815 On a match between the Scottish teams Ettrick and Selkirk, published in the Edinburgh Journal.
- 16 But ruffian stern, and soldier good,
The noble and the slave,
From various cause the same wild road,
On the same bloody morning, trode,
To that dark inn—the Grave!
- 1815 The Lord of the Isles, canto 6, stanza 26.
- 17 Pro-di-gi-ous!
1815 Dominic Sampson. Guy Mannering, ch.8.
- 18 'That sounds like nonsense, my dear.'
'Maybe so, my dear; but it may be very good law for all that.'
- 1815 Mrs and Mr Bertram in conversation. Guy Mannering, ch.9.
- 19 Gin by pailfuls, wine in rivers,
Dash the window-glass to shivers!
For three wild lads were we, brave boys,
And three wild lads were we;
Thou on the land, and I on the sand,
And Jack on the gallows-tree!
- 1815 Guy Mannering, ch.34.
- 20 The frolicsome company had begun to practise the ancient and now forgotten pastime of High Jinks.
- 1815 Guy Mannering, ch.36.
- 21 'Why weep ye by the tide, ladie?
Why weep ye by the tide?
I'll wed ye to my youngest son,
And ye sall be his bride:
And ye sall be his bride, ladie,
Sae comely to be seen'—
But aye she loot the tears down fa'
For Jock of Hazeldean.
- 1816 'Jock of Hazeldean', stanza 1.
- 22 'A chain of gold ye sall not lack,
Nor braid to bind your hair;
Nor mettled hound, nor managed hawk,
Nor palfrey fresh and fair.'
- 1816 'Jock of Hazeldean', stanza 3.
- 23 They sought her baith by bower and ha';
The ladie was not seen!
She's o'er the Border and awa'
Wi' Jock of Hazeldean.

48 The ae half of the warld thinks the tither daft.
1824 Peter Peebles to Justice Foxley. Redgauntlet, ch.7.

49 'Then, gentlemen,' said Redgauntlet, clasping his hands together as the words burst from him, 'the cause is lost for ever!'
1824 Redgauntlet, ch.23.

50 Widowed wife, and married maid,
Betrothed, betrayer, and betrayed!
1825 The Betrothal, ch.15.

51 Came through cold roads to as cold news.
1826 Journal, 16 Jan, referring to the financial collapse of his publisher, Constable, which led directly to Scott's own bankruptcy.

52 We had better remain in union with England, even at the risk of becoming a subordinate species of Northumberland, as far as national consequence is concerned, than remedy ourselves by even hinting the possibility of a rupture. But there is no harm in wishing Scotland to have just so much ill-nature, according to her own proverb, as may keep her good-nature from being abused.
1826 Letters of Malachi Malagrowth on the Proposed Change of Currency, letter 1.

53 If I can but get the sulky Scottish spirit set up, the devil won't turn them.
1826 Journal, 25 Feb.

54 The Big Bow-wow strain I can do myself like any now going; but the exquisite touch, which renders ordinary commonplace things and characters interesting, from the truth of description and the sentiment, is denied to me.
1826 On Jane Austen. Journal, 14 Mar.

55 But if you unscotch us you will find us damned mischievous Englishmen.
1826 Letter to J W Croker, 19 Mar.

56 I would like to be there, were it but to see how the cat jumps. One knows nothing of the world, if you are absent from it so long as I have been.

1826 Journal, 7 Oct, expressing frustration and wonder at the machinations of London bureaucracy which prevented him accessing government papers for his Life of Napoleon.

57 Long life to thy fame and peace to thy soul, Rob Burns!
When I want to express a sentiment which I feel strongly, I find the phrase in Shakespeare—or thee. The blockheads talk of my being like Shakespeare—not fit to tie his brogues.
1826 Journal, 11 Dec.

58 To the Lords of convention 'twas Claver'se who spoke,
'Ere the King's crown shall fall there are crowns to be broke;
So let each Cavalier who loves honour and me,
Come follow the bonnet of Bonny Dundee.'
1830 The Doom of Devorgoil, act 2, sc.2, 'Bonny Dundee', stanza 1.

59 No repose for Sir Walter but in the grave. Friends, don't let me expose myself—get me to bed—that's the only place.
1832 Quoted in John G Lockhart Memoirs of the Life of Sir Walter Scott, Bart. (1837–8). Scott had fallen asleep in his bath-chair while trying to write a few words.

60 Be a good man—be virtuous—be religious—be a good man. Nothing else will give you any comfort when you come to lie here.
1832 Last words, addressed to Lockhart, quoted in John G Lockhart Memoirs of the Life of Sir Walter Scott, Bart. (1837–8). Scott concluded by saying 'God bless you all.'

Scottish Metrical Psalms

61 The Lord's my shepherd, I'll not want.
He makes me down to lie
In pastures green: he leadeth me
The quiet waters by.
My soul he doth restore again:
and me to walk doth make
Within the paths of righteousness,
ev'n for his own name's sake.

Yea, though I walk in death's dark vale,
yet will I fear no ill:
For thou art with me; and thy rod and staff me comfort still.
1650 Translation of Psalm 23:1–4.

62 God is our refuge and our strength,
in straits a present aid;
Therefore, although the earth remove,
we will not be afraid.
1650 Psalm 46:1–2.

63 How lovely is thy dwelling-place
O Lord of hosts, to me!
The tabernacles of thy grace
how pleasant, Lord, they be!
1650 Psalm 84:1.

64 All people that on earth do dwell,
Sing to the Lord with cheerful voice.
Him serve with mirth, his praise forth tell,
Come ye before him and rejoice.
Know that the Lord is God indeed;
Without our aid he did us make:

We are his folk, he doth us feed,
And for his sheep he doth us take.

1650 Psalm 100:1–3.

65 I to the hills will lift mine eyes,
from whence doth come mine aid.
My safety cometh from the Lord,
Who heav'n and earth hath made.

1650 Psalm 121:1–2.

Selden, John 1584–1654

English jurist, historian and antiquary. A member of the Long Parliament in 1640, he withdrew from politics after the execution of Charles I, of which he disapproved. His many writings on constitutional matters included Titles of Honour (1614), Analecton Britannicon (1615) and History of Tithes (1618). The most notable of his many tracts and treatises was the posthumous TableTalk (published 1689).

77 Every law is a contract between the king and the people and therefore to be kept.

TableTalk (published 1689).

78 Ignorance of the law excuses no man; not that all men know the law, but because 'tis an excuse every man will plead, and no man can tell how to confute him.

TableTalk (published 1689).

79 Those that govern most make least noise.

TableTalk (published 1689).

Self, Will 1961–

English novelist, columnist and critic. He was a cartoonist with the New Statesman, but turned to writing fiction. He was awarded the Geoffrey Faber Memorial Award in 1992.

80 No one ever complains if a great artist says that he was driven to create a masterpiece by a hunger for recognition and money. But a scientist? Well, he is meant to be disinterested, pure, his ambition merely to descry the cement of the universe. He isn't meant to use it to start laying his own patio.

 That want their leader, scatter up and down
 And care not who they sting.
1592 Warwick to Henry. Henry VI Part Two, act 3, sc.2, 1.125–7.
- 59 What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted?
 Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
 And he but naked, though locked up in steel,
 Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Two, act 3, sc.2, 1.232–5.
- 60 Forbear to judge, for we are sinners all.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Two, act 3, sc.3, 1.31.
- 61 The gaudy, babbling, and remorseful day
 Is crept into the bosom of the sea.
1592 Captain. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.1, 1.1–2.
- 62 I say it was never merry world in England since gentlemen came up.
1592 Second rebel. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.2, 1.9–10.
- 63 There shall be in England seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny, the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops, and I will make it felony to drink small beer.
1592 Cade. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.2, 1.67–9.
- 64 The first thing we do let's kill all the lawyers.
1592 The Butcher. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.2, 1.78.
- 65 And Adam was a gardener.
1592 Cade. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.2, 1.133.
- 66 Thou hast most traitorously corrupted the youth of the realm in erecting a grammar school; and, whereas before, our forefathers had no other books but the score and the tally, thou hast caused printing to be used and, contrary to the King his crown and dignity, thou hast built a paper-mill. It will be proved to thy face that thou hast men about thee that usually talk of a noun and a verb and such abominable words as no Christian ear can endure to hear.
1592 Cade. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.7, 1.30–8.
- 67 Ignorance is the curse of God,
 Knowledge the wing wherewith we fly to heaven.
1592 Saye. Henry VI Part Two, act 4, sc.7, 1.72–3.
- 68 It is great sin to swear unto a sin,
 But greater sin to keep a sinful oath.
1592 Salisbury to Henry. Henry VI Part Two, act 5, sc.1, 1.180–1.
- 69 Farewell, faint-hearted and degenerate king,
 In whose cold blood no spark of honour bides.
1592 Westmorland to Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 1, sc.1, 1.184–5.
- 70 O tiger's heart wrapped in a woman's hide!
1592 York to Margaret. Henry VI Part Three, act 1, sc.4, 1.138.
- 71 Women are soft, mild, pitiful and flexible—
 Thou stern, obdurate, flinty, rough, remorseless.
1592 York to Margaret. Henry VI Part Three, act 1, sc.4, 1.142–3.
- 72 Many strokes, though with a little axe,
 Hews down and fells the hardest-timbered oak.
1592 Messenger to Richard telling of his father York's death.
Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.1, 1.54–5.
- 73 To weep is to make less the depth of grief;
 Tears, then, for babes—blows and revenge for me!
1592 Richard. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.1, 1.85–6.
- 74 This battle fares like to the morning's war,
 When dying clouds contend with growing light,
 What time the shepherd, blowing of his nails,
 Can neither call it perfect day nor night.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.5, 1.1–4.
- 75 O God! Methinks it were a happy life
 To be no better than a homely swain.
 To sit upon a hill, as I do now;
 To carve out dials quaintly, point by point.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.5, 1.21–4.
- 76 Thereby to see the minutes how they run:
 How many makes the hour full complete,
 How many hours brings about the day,
 How many days will finish up the year,
 How many years a mortal man may live.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.5, 1.25–9.
- 77 Gives not the hawthorn bush a sweeter shade
 To shepherds looking on their seely sheep
 Than doth a rich embroidered canopy
 To kings that fear their subjects' treachery?
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.5, 1.42–5.
- 78 The common people swarm like summer flies.
1592 Clifford. Henry VI Part Three, act 2, sc.6, 1.8.
- 79 I know I am too mean to be your queen,
 And yet too good to be your concubine.
1592 Lady Gray to Edward. Henry VI Part Three, act 3, sc.2, 1.97–8.
- 80 Hasty marriage seldom proveth well.
1592 Richard of Gloucester. Henry VI Part Three, act 4, sc.1, 1.18.
- 81 What fates impose, that men must needs abide.
 It boots not to resist both wind and tide.
1592 Edward. Henry VI Part Three, act 4, sc.4, 1.31–2.
- 82 Fearless minds climb soonest unto crowns.
1592 Richard of Gloucester. Henry VI Part Three, act 4, sc.8, 1.62.
- 83 My pity hath been balm to heal their wounds.
1592 Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 4, sc.10, 1.9.
- 84 Lo now my glory smeared in dust and blood.
 My parks, my walks, my manors that I had,
 Even now forsake me, and of all my lands
 Is nothing left me but my body's length.
1592 Warwick wounded and dying. Henry VI Part Three, act 5,
 sc.2, 1.23–6.

- 85 Why, courage, then—what cannot be avoided
'Twere childish weakness to lament or fear.
1592 Margaret. Henry VI Part Three, act 5, sc.4, 1.37–8.
- 86 Down, down to hell; and say I sent thee thither!
1592 Richard of Gloucester to Henry. Henry VI Part Three, act 5, sc.6, 1.67.
- 87 Since the heavens have shaped my body so,
Let hell make crooked my mind to answer it.
I had no father, I am like no father;
I have no brother, I am like no brother;
And this word, 'love', which greybeards call divine,
Be resident in men like one another
And not in me—I am myself alone.
1592 Richard of Gloucester. Henry VI Part Three, act 5, sc.6, 1.78–84.
- 88 Wilt thou draw near the nature of the gods?
Draw near them then in being merciful.
1592 Tamora to Titus. Titus Andronicus, act 1, sc.1, 1.117–18.
- 89 Give me a staff of honour for mine age,
But not a sceptre to control the world.
1592 Titus. Titus Andronicus, act 1, sc.1, 1.198–9.
- 90 Vengeance is in my heart, death in my hand,
Blood and revenge are hammering in my head.
1592 Aaron to Tamora. Titus Andronicus, act 2, sc.3, 1.38–9.
- 91 Dost thou not perceive
That Rome is but a wilderness of tigers?
1592 Titus to Lucius. Titus Andronicus, act 3, sc.1, 1.52–3.
- 92 To weep with them that weep doth ease some deal,
But sorrow flouted at is double death.
1592 Marcus. Titus Andronicus, act 3, sc.1, 1.243–4.
- 93 My heart, all mad with misery,
Beats in the hollow prison of my flesh.
1592 Titus. Titus Andronicus, act 3, sc.2, 1.9–10.
- 94 I'll to thy closet and go read with thee
Sad stories chanced in the times of old.
1592 Titus to Lavinia. Titus Andronicus, act 3, sc.2, 1.81–2.
- 95 I have heard my grandsire say full oft
Extremity of griefs would make men mad.
1592 Young Lucius. Titus Andronicus, act 4, sc.1, 1.18–19.
- 96 The eagle suffers little birds to sing,
And is not careful what they mean thereby,
Knowing that with the shadow of his wings
He can at pleasure stint their melody.
1592 Tamora to Saturninus. Titus Andronicus, act 4, sc.4, 1.83–6.
- 97 If one good deed in all my life I did
I do repent it from my very soul.
1592 Aaron. Titus Andronicus, act 5, sc.3, 1.188–9.
- 98 Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this son of York.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.1, 1.1–2.
- 99 Grim-visaged war hath smoothed his wrinkled front,
And now—instead of mounting barbèd steeds
To fright the souls of fearful adversaries—
He capers nimbly in a lady's chamber
To the lascivious pleasing of a lute.
But I, that am not shaped for sportive tricks
Nor made to court an amorous looking-glass.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.1, 1.9–15.
- 1 Cheated of feature by dissembling nature,
Deformed, unfinished, sent before my time
Into this breathing world scarce half made up.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.1, 1.19–21.
- 2 I in this weak piping time of peace
Have no delight to pass away the time,
Unless to spy my shadow in the sun
And descant on mine own deformity.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.1, 1.24–7.
- 3 Teach not thy lip such scorn, for it was made
For kissing, lady, not for such contempt.
1592–3 Richard to Lady Anne. Richard III, act 1, sc.2, 1.159–60.
- 4 Was ever woman in this humour wooed?
Was ever woman in this humour won?
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.2, 1.215–16.
- 5 Were you snarling all before I came,
Ready to catch each other by the throat,
And turn you all your hatred now on me?
1592–3 Margaret. Richard III, act 1, sc.3, 1.185–7.
- 6 They that stand high have many blasts to shake them,
And if they fall they dash themselves to pieces.
1592–3 Margaret. Richard III, act 1, sc.3, 1.257–8.
- 7 And thus I clothe my naked villainy
With odd old ends, stol'n forth of Holy Writ,
And seem a saint when most I play the devil.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 1, sc.3, 1.334–6.
- 8 O Lord! Methought what pain it was to drown,
What dreadful noise of waters in my ears,
What sights of ugly death within my eyes.
Methoughts I saw a thousand fearful wrecks,
Ten thousand men that fishes gnawed upon,
Wedges of gold, great ouches, heaps of pearl,
Inestimable stones, unvalued jewels,
All scattered in the bottom of the sea.
1592–3 Clarence, shortly before he is murdered. Richard III, act 1, sc.4, 1.21–8.
- 9 Woe to that land that's governed by a child.
1592–3 Third Citizen. Richard III, act 2, sc.3, 1.11.
- 10 So wise so young, they say, do never live long.
1592–3 Richard, aside. Richard III, act 3, sc.1, 1.79.
- 11 Talk'st thou to me of 'ifs'? Thou art a traitor.—
Off with his head.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 3, sc.4, 1.75–6.
- 12 I am not in the giving vein today.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 4, sc.2, 1.119.
- 13 Thou cam'st on earth to make the earth my hell.
1592–3 Duchess of York to Richard. Richard III, act 4, sc.4, 1.167.
- 14 True hope is swift, and flies with swallows' wings.
1592–3 Henry, Earl of Richmond. Richard III, act 5, sc.2, 1.23.
- 15 The King's name is a tower of strength.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.3, 1.12.
- 16 Give me another horse! Bind up my wounds!
Have mercy, Jesu!—Soft, I did but dream.
O coward conscience, how dost thou afflict me?
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.5, 1.131–3.
- 17 Richard loves Richard; that is, I am I.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.5, 1.137.
- 18 My conscience hath a thousand several tongues,
And every tongue brings in a several tale,
And every tale condemns me for a villain.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.5, 1.147–9.
- 19 There is no creature loves me,

- And if I die no soul will pity me.
Nay, wherefore should they?—Since that I myself
Find in myself no pity to myself.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.5, l.154–7.
- 20 Methought the souls of all that I had murdered
Came to my tent, and every one did threat
Tomorrow's vengeance on the head of Richard.
1592–3 Richard on the eve of the Battle of Bosworth. Richard III, act 5, sc.5, l.158–60.
- 21 Conscience is but a word that cowards use,
Devised at first to keep the strong in awe.
Our strong arms be our conscience; swords, our law.
March on, join bravely! Let us to't, pell mell—
If not to heaven, then hand in hand to hell.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.6, l.139–43.
- 22 A thousand hearts are great within my bosom.
Advance our standards! Set upon the foes!
Our ancient word of courage, fair Saint George,
Inspire us with the spleen of fiery dragons.
Upon them! Victory sits on our helms!
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.6, l.77–81.
- 23 A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.7, l.7.
- 24 Slave, I have set my life upon a cast,
And I will stand the hazard of the die.
1592–3 Richard. Richard III, act 5, sc.7, l.9–10.
- 25 Frame your mind to mirth and merriment,
Which bars a thousand harms, and lengthens life.
1593 Messenger to Sly. The Taming of the Shrew, Induction 2,
l.131–2.
- 26 Think'st thou, Hortensio, though her father be very rich, any man is so very a fool to be married to hell?
1593 Gremio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 1, sc.1, l.122–4.
- 27 There's small choice in rotten apples.
1593 Hortensio to Gremio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 1, sc.1,
l.133–4.
- 28 I come to wive it wealthily in Padua;
If wealthily, then happily in Padua.
1593 Petruccio to Hortensio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 1, sc.2,
l.74–5.
- 29 O this learning, what a thing it is!
1593 Gremio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 1, sc.2, l.157.
- 30 She is your treasure, she must have a husband.
I must dance barefoot on her wedding day,
And for your love to her lead apes in hell.
1593 Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1, l.32–4.
- 31 I am rough, and woo not like a babe.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1, l.137.
- 32 Good morrow, Kate, for that's your name, I hear.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1, l.182.
- 33 You are called plain Kate,
And bonny Kate, and sometimes Kate the curst,
But Kate, the prettiest Kate in Christendom,
Kate of Kate Hall, my super-dainty Kate.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1, l.185–8.
- 34 Your father hath consented
That you shall be my wife, your dowry 'greed on,
And will you, nill you, I will marry you.
1593 Petruccio to Kate. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1,
l.263–5.
- 35 We will have rings, and things, and fine array;
And kiss me, Kate. We will be married o' Sunday.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 2, sc.1, l.319–20.
- 36 Preposterous ass, that never read so far
To know the cause why music was ordained!
Was it not to refresh the mind of man
After his studies or his usual pain?
1593 Lucentio to Hortensio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 3, sc.1,
l.9–12.
- 37 Old fashions please me best. I am not so nice
To change true rules for odd inventions.
1593 Bianca to Hortensio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 3, sc.1,
l.78–9.
- 38 Go, girl. I cannot blame thee now to weep.
For such an injury would vex a very saint.
1593 Baptista. The Taming of the Shrew, act 3, sc.2, l.27–8.
- 39 To me she's married, not unto my clothes.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 3, sc.2, l.117.
- 40 He took the bride about the neck
And kissed her lips with such a clamorous smack
That at the parting all the church did echo.
1593 Gremio, of Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 3, sc.3,
l.50–2.
- 41 This is a way to kill a wife with kindness.
1593 Petruccio. The Taming of the Shrew, act 4, sc.1, l.194.
- 42 How say you to a fat tripe finely broiled?
1593 Grumio to Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 4, sc.3,
l.20.
- 43 What, is the jay more precious than the lark
Because his feathers are more beautiful?
Or is the adder better than the eel
Because his painted skin contents the eye?
1593 Petruccio to Kate. The Taming of the Shrew, act 4, sc.3,
l.173–6.
- 44 Your plainness and your shortness please me well.
1593 Baptista to Pedant. The Taming of the Shrew, act 4, sc.4, l.38.
- 45 Then God be blessed, it is the blessed sun,
But sun it is not when you say it is not,
And the moon changes even as your mind.
What you will have it named, even that it is,
And so it shall be still for Katherine.
1593 Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 4, sc.6, l.19–23.
- 46 Thy husband is thy lord, thy life, thy keeper,
Thy head, thy sovereign.
1593 Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 5, sc.2, l.151–2.
- 47 I am ashamed that women are so simple
To offer war where they should kneel for peace.
1593 Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 5, sc.2, l.166–7.
- 48 Come on, and kiss me, Kate.
1593 Katherine. The Taming of the Shrew, act 5, sc.2, l.185.
- 49 Hunting he loved, but love he laughed to scorn.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 1, l.4.
- 50 Make use of time; let not advantage slip.
Beauty within itself should not be wasted.
Fair flowers that are not gathered in their prime
Rot, and consume themselves in little time.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 22, l.129–32.
- 51 Bid me discourse, I will enchant thine ear.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 25, l.145.
- 52 Love is a spirit all compact of fire,

- Not gross to sink, but light, and will aspire.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 25, 1.149–50.
- 53 Affection is a coal that must be cooled;
Else, suffered, it will set the heart on fire.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 65, 1.387–8.
- 54 Dismiss your vows, your feignèd tears, your flatt'ry;
For where a heart is hard they make no batt'ry.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 71, 1.425–6.
- 55 Melodious discord, heavenly tune harsh sounding, Ear's deep-sweet music, and heart's deep-sore wounding.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 72, 1.431–2.
- 56 Love comforteth, like sunshine after rain.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 134, 1.799.
- 57 Their copious stories, oftentimes begun,
End without audience, and are never done.
1593 Venus and Adonis, stanza 141, 1.845–6.
- 58 I to the world am like a drop of water
That in the ocean seeks another drop.
1594 Antipholus of Syracuse. The Comedy of Errors, act 1, sc.2, 1.35–6.
- 59 They say this town is full of cozenage,
As nimble jugglers that deceive the eye,
Dark-working sorcerers that change the mind,
Soul-killing witches that deform the body.
1594 Antipholus of Syracuse. The Comedy of Errors, act 1, sc.2,
1.97–100.
- 60 Am I so round with you as you with me,
That like a football you do spurn me thus?
You spurn me hence, and he will spurn me hither.
If I last in this service, you must case me in leather.
1594 Dromio of Ephesus. The Comedy of Errors, act 2, sc.1, 1.81–4.
- 61 They brought one Pinch, a hungry lean-faced villain,
A mere anatomy, a mountebank,
A threadbare juggler, and a fortune-teller,
A needy, hollow-eyed, sharp-looking wretch,
A living dead man.
1594 Antipholus of Ephesus. The Comedy of Errors, act 5, sc.1, 1.238–42.
- 62 Respect and reason wait on wrinkled age!
1594 The Rape of Lucrece, stanza 39, 1.275.
- 63 Thy beauty hath ensnared thee to this night.
1594 The Rape of Lucrece, stanza 70, 1.485.
- 64 To show the beldame daughters of her daughter,
To make the child a man, the man a child,
To slay the tiger that doth live by slaughter,
To tame the unicorn and lion wild,
To mock the subtle in themselves beguiled,
To cheer the ploughman with increasing crops,
And waste huge stones with little water drops.
1594 The Rape of Lucrece, stanza 137, 1.953–9.
- 65 Like an unpractised swimmer plunging still,
With too much labour drowns for want of skill.
1594 The Rape of Lucrece, stanza 157, 1.1098–9.
- 66 It cannot be, I find,
But such a face should bear a wicked mind.
1594 The Rape of Lucrece, stanza 220, 1.1539–40.
- 67 Let fame, that all hunt after in their lives,
Live registered upon our brazen tombs,
And then grace us in the disgrace of death
- When, spite of cormorant devouring time,
Th' endeavour of this present breath may buy
That honour which shall bate his scythe's keen edge
And make us heirs of all eternity.
1594–5 King. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.1–7.
- 68 Study is like the heavens' glorious sun,
That will not be deep searched with saucy looks.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.84–5.
- 69 Small have continual plodders ever won,
Save base authority from others' books.
1594–5 Biron to King. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.86–7.
- 70 How well he's read, to reason against reading!
1594–5 King. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.94.
- 71 At Christmas I no more desire a rose
Than wish a snow in May's new-fangled shows.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.105–6.
- 72 Necessity will make us all forsworn.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.147.
- 73 A man in all the world's new fashion planted,
That hath a mint of phrases in his brain.
One who the music of his own vain tongue
Doth ravish like enchanting harmony.
1594–5 King, of Armado. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.162–5.
- 74 A child of our grandmother Eve, a female, or, for thy more sweet understanding, a woman.
1594–5 Armado's letter. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.1, 1.255.
- 75 Assist me, some extemporal god of rhyme, for I am sure I shall turn sonnet. Devise wit, write pen, for I am for whole volumes, in folio.
1594–5 Armado. Love's Labour's Lost, act 1, sc.2, 1.174–6.
- 76 This wimpled, whining, purblind, wayward boy,
This Signor Junior, giant dwarf, Dan Cupid,
Regent of love-rhymes, lord of folded arms,
Th' anointed sovereign of sighs and groans,
Liege of all loiterers and malcontents,
Dread prince of plackets, king of codpieces,
Sole imperator and great general
Of trotting paritors—O my little heart!
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 3, sc.1, 1.174–81.
- 77 A giving hand, though foul, shall have fair praise.
1594–5 Princess. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.1, 1.23.
- 78 O thou monster ignorance, how deformed dost thou look!
1594–5 Holofernes, to Dull. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.2, 1.23.
- 79 He hath never fed of the dainties that are bred in a book.
He hath not eat paper, as it were, he hath not drunk ink.
1594–5 Nathaniel, of Dull. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.2, 1.24–5.
- 80 The elegancy, facility, and golden cadence of poesy.
1594–5 Holofernes. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.2, 1.123.
- 81 By heaven, I do love; and it hath taught me to rhyme, and to be melancholy.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.11.
- 82 What fool is not so wise
To lose an oath to win a paradise?
1594–5 Longueville. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.69–70.
- 83 Love's feeling is more soft and sensible
Than are the tender horns of cockled snails.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.313–14.
- 84 And when love speaks, the voice of all the gods
Make heaven drowsy with the harmony.

- 1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.320–1.
- 85 Never durst poet touch a pen to write
Until his ink were tempered with love's sighs.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.322–3.
- 86 From women's eyes this doctrine I derive.
They sparkle still the right Promethean fire.
They are the books, the arts, the academes
That show, contain, and nourish all the world,
Else none at all in aught proves excellent.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 4, sc.3, 1.326–30.
- 87 He draweth out the thread of his verbosity finer than the staple of his argument.
1594–5 Holofernes, of Armado. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.1, 1.16.
- 88 O, they have lived long in the alms-basket of words.
I marvel thy master hath not eaten thee for a word, for thou art not so long by the head as honorificabilitudinitatibus. Thou art easier swallowed than a flapdragon.
1594–5 Costard. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.1, 1.38–42.
- 89 A light heart lives long.
1594–5 Catherine. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.18.
- 90 There's no such sport as sport by sport o'erthrown.
1594–5 Princess. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.152.
- 91 Taffeta phrases, silken terms precise,
Three-piled hyperboles, spruce affectation,
Figures pedantical—these summer flies
Have blown me full of maggot ostentation.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.406–10.
- 92 Mirth cannot move a soul in agony.
1594–5 Biron. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.843.
- 93 A jest's prosperity lies in the ear
Of him that hears it, never in the tongue
Of him that makes it.
1594–5 Rosaline. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.847–9.
- 94 When icicles hang by the wall,
And Dick the shepherd blows his nail,
And Tom bears logs into the hall,
And milk comes frozen home in pail;
When blood is nipped, and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl:
Tu-whit, tu-who!—a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.
1594–5 Winter's song. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.897–904.
- 95 When all aloud the wind doth blow,
And coughing drowns the parson's saw,
And birds sit brooding in the snow,
And Marian's nose looks red and raw;
When roasted crabs hiss in the bowl.
1594–5 Winter's song. Love's Labour's Lost, act 5, sc.2, 1.905–9.
- 96 Our doctors say this is no time to bleed.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 1, sc.1, 1.157.
- 97 I am disgraced, impeached, and baffled here,
Pierced to the soul with slander's venom'd spear.
1595 Mowbray to Richard. Richard II, act 1, sc.1, 1.170–1.
- 98 Lions make leopards tame.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 1, sc.1, 1.174.
- 99 The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is spotless reputation; that away,
Men are but gilded loam, or painted clay.
- A jewel in a ten-times barred-up chest
Is a bold spirit in a loyal breast.
Mine honour is my life. Both grow in one.
Take honour from me, and my life is done.
1595 Mowbray to Richard. Richard II, act 1, sc.1, 1.177–83.
- 1 As gentle and as jocund as to jest
Go I to fight. Truth hath a quiet breast.
1595 Mowbray. Richard II, act 1, sc.3, 1.95–6.
- 2 This must my comfort be:
That sun that warms you here shall shine on me.
1595 Bolingbroke to Richard. Richard II, act 1, sc.3, 1.138–9.
- 3 How long a time lies in one little word!
Four lagging winters and four wanton springs
End in a word: such is the breath of kings.
1595 Bolingbroke. Richard II, act 1, sc.3, 1.206–8.
- 4 O, who can hold a fire in his hand
By thinking on the frosty Caucasus,
Or cloy the hungry edge of appetite
By bare imagination of a feast,
Or wallow naked in December snow
By thinking on fantastic summer's heat?
1595 Bolingbroke. Richard II, act 1, sc.3, 1.257–62.
- 5 Methinks I am a prophet new-inspired,
And thus, expiring, do foretell of him.
His rash, fierce blaze of riot cannot last,
For violent fires soon burn out themselves.
1595 John of Gaunt, to Richard. Richard II, act 2, sc.1, 1.31–4.
- 6 Small showers last long, but sudden storms are short.
1595 John of Gaunt. Richard II, act 2, sc.1, 1.35.
- 7 With eager feeding food doth choke the feeder.
1595 John of Gaunt. Richard II, act 2, sc.1, 1.37.
- 8 This royal throne of kings, this sceptred isle,
This earth of majesty, this seat of Mars,
This other Eden, demi-paradise,
This fortress built by nature for herself
Against infection and the hand of war,
This happy breed of men, this little world,
This precious stone set in the silver sea,
Which serves it in the office of a wall,
Or as a moat defensive to a house
Against the envy of less happier lands;
This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England.
1595 John of Gaunt. Richard II, act 2, sc.1, 1.40–50.
- 9 England that was wont to conquer others
Hath made a shameful conquest of itself.
1595 John of Gaunt. Richard II, act 2, sc.1, 1.65–6.
- 10 Each substance of a grief hath twenty shadows,
Which shows like grief itself.
1595 Bushy. Richard II, act 2, sc.2, 1.14–15.
- 11 Comfort's in heaven, and we are on the earth,
Where nothing lives but crosses, cares, and griefs.
1595 York. Richard II, act 2, sc.2, 1.78–9.
- 12 Hope to joy is little less in joy
Than hope enjoyed.
1595 Northumberland. Richard II, act 2, sc.3, 1.15–16.
- 13 I count myself in nothing else so happy
As in a soul rememb'ring my good friends.
1595 Bolingbroke. Richard II, act 2, sc.3, 1.46–7.
- 14 Things past redress are now with me past care.
1595 York. Richard II, act 2, sc.3, 1.170.

- 15 Not all the water in the rough rude sea
Can wash the balm from an anointed king.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.50–1.
- 16 O, call back yesterday, bid time return,
And thou shalt have twelve thousand fighting men.
Today, today, unhappy day too late.
1595 Salisbury. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.65–7.
- 17 Time hath set a blot upon my pride.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.77.
- 18 Cry woe, destruction, ruin, loss, decay;
The worst is death, and death will have his day.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.98–9.
- 19 And nothing can we call our own but death,
And that small model of the barren earth
Which serves as paste and cover to our bones.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.148–50.
- 20 For God's sake, let us sit upon the ground,
And tell sad stories of the death of kings—
How some have been deposed, some slain in war,
Some haunted by the ghosts they have deposed,
Some poisoned by their wives, some sleeping killed,
All murdered. For within the hollow crown
That rounds the mortal temples of a king
Keeps Death his court; and there the antic sits,
Scoffing his state and grinning at his pomp,
Allowing him a breath, a little scene,
To monarchize, be feared, and kill with looks,
Infusing him with self and vain conceit,
As if this flesh which walls about our life
Were brass impregnable; and humoured thus,
Comes at the last, and with a little pin
Bores through his castle wall; and farewell, king.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.2, 1.151–166.
- 21 O, that I were as great
As is my grief, or lesser than my name,
Or that I could forget what I have been,
Or not remember what I must be now!
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.3, 1.135–8.
- 22 What must the King do now? Must he submit?
The King shall do it. Must he be deposed?
The King shall be contented. Must he lose
The name of King? A God's name, let it go.
I'll give my jewels for a set of beads,
My gorgeous palace for a hermitage,
My gay apparel for an almsman's gown,
My figured goblets for a dish of wood,
My sceptre for a palmer's walking staff,
My subjects for a pair of carved saints,
And my large kingdom for a little grave.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 3, sc.3, 1.142–52.
- 23 Alack, why am I sent for to a king
Before I have shook off the regal thoughts
Wherewith I reigned? I hardly yet have learned
To insinuate, flatter, bow, and bend my knee.
Give sorrow leave awhile to tutor me
To this submission. Yet I well remember
The favours of these men. Were they not mine?
Did they not sometime cry 'All hail!' to me?
So Judas did to Christ. But He in twelve
Found the truth in all but one; I, in twelve thousand, none.
- God save the King! Will no man say 'Amen'?
Am I both the priest and clerk? Well then, Amen.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 4, sc.1, 1.153–164.
- 24 You may my glories and my state depose,
But not my griefs; still am I king of those.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 4, sc.1, 1.182–3.
- 25 Mine eyes are full of tears; I cannot see.
And yet salt water blinds them not so much
But they can see a sort of traitors here.
Nay, if I turn mine eyes upon myself
I find myself a traitor with the rest.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 4, sc.1, 1.234–8.
- 26 I am sworn brother, sweet,
To grim necessity, and he and I
Will keep a league till death.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 5, sc.1, 1.20–1.
- 27 The love of wicked friends converts to fear;
That fear to hate.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 5, sc.1, 1.66–7.
- 28 Had not God, for some strong purpose steeled
The hearts of men, they must perforce have melted.
1595 York. Richard II, act 5, sc.2, 1.34–5.
- 29 Say 'Pardon', king. Let pity teach thee how.
The word is short, but not so short as sweet;
No word like 'Pardon' for kings' mouths so meet.
1595 Duchess of York. Richard II, act 5, sc.3, 1.115–16.
- 30 Thoughts tending to ambition, they do plot
Unlikely wonders: how these vain weak nails
May tear a passage through the flinty ribs
Of this hard world.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 5, sc.5, 1.18–21.
- 31 How sour sweet music is
When time is broke and no proportion kept.
So is it in the music of men's lives.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 5, sc.5, 1.42–4.
- 32 Mount, mount, my soul; thy seat is up on high,
Whilst my gross flesh sinks downward, here to die.
1595 Richard. Richard II, act 5, sc.5, 1.111–12.
- 33 From forth the fatal loins of these two foes
A pair of star-crossed lovers take their life.
1595 Chorus. Romeo and Juliet, Prologue, 1.5–6.
- 34 Alas that love, so gentle in his view,
Should be so tyrannous and rough in proof.
1595 Benvolio to Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.1, 1.166–7.
- 35 'Tis not hard, I think,
For men so old as we to keep the peace.
1595 Capulet. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.2, 1.2–3.
- 36 Such comfort as do lusty young men feel
When well-apparell'd April on the heel
Of limping winter treads.
1595 Capulet. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.2, 1.24–6.
- 37 Is love a tender thing? It is too rough,
Too rude, too boist'rous, and it pricks like thorn.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.4, 1.25–6.
- 38 She is the fairies' midwife, and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate stone
On the forefinger of an alderman,
Drawn with a team of little atomi
Athwart man's noses as they lie asleep.
1595 Mercutio. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.4, 1.55–9.

- 39 Her chariot is an empty hazelnut
 Made by the joiner squirrel or old grub,
 Time out o' mind the fairies' coachmakers.
 And in this state she gallops night by night
 Through lovers' brains, and then they dream of love.
1595 Mercutio. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.4, 1.68–72.
- 40 I talk of dreams,
 Which are the children of an idle brain,
 Begot of nothing but vain fantasy.
1595 Mercutio. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.4, 1.96–8.
- 41 You and I are past our dancing days.
1595 Capulet to his cousin. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.5, 1.31.
- 42 O, she doth teach the torches to burn bright!
 It seems she hangs upon the cheek of night
 As a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear—
 Beauty too rich for use, for earth too dear.
1595 Romeo of Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.5, 1.43–6.
- 43 Did my heart love till now? Forswear it, sight,
 For I ne'er saw true beauty till this night.
1595 Mercutio. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.5, 1.51–2.
- 44 My only love sprung from my only hate!
 Too early seen unknown, and known too late!
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 1, sc.5, 1.137–8.
- 45 He jests at scars that never felt a wound.
 But soft, what light through yonder window breaks?
 It is the east, and Juliet is the sun.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.43–5.
- 46 O, speak again, bright angel; for thou art
 As glorious to this night, being o'er my head,
 As is a wingèd messenger of heaven.
1595 Romeo of Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.68–70.
- 47 O Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?
 Deny thy father and refuse thy name,
 Or if thou wilt not, be but sworn my love,
 And I'll no longer be a Capulet.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.75–8.
- 48 What's in a name? That which we call a rose
 By any other word would smell as sweet.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.85–6.
- 49 Call me but love and I'll be new baptized.
 Henceforth I never will be Romeo.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.93–4.
- 50 If thou think'st I am too quickly won,
 I'll frown and be perverse and say thee nay,
 So thou wilt woo.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.137–9.
- 51 O swear not by the moon, th'inconstant moon
 That monthly changes in her circled orb,
 Lest that thy love prove likewise variable.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.151–3.
- 52 My bounty is as boundless as the sea,
 My love as deep. The more I give to thee
 The more I have, for both are infinite.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.175–7.
- 53 Parting is such sweet sorrow
 That I shall say good-night till it be morrow.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.229–30.
- 54 Sleep dwell upon thine eyes, peace in thy breast.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.1, 1.231.
- 55 O mickle is the powerful grace that lies
 In plants, herbs, stones, and their true qualities,
 For nought so vile that on the earth doth live
 But to the earth some special good doth give.
1595 Friar Laurence. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.2, 1.15–18.
- 56 Virtue itself turns vice, being misapplied,
 And vice sometime's by action dignified.
1595 Friar Laurence. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.2, 1.21–2.
- 57 Care keeps his watch in every old man's eye.
1595 Friar Laurence to Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.2, 1.35.
- 58 Wisely and slow. They stumble that run fast.
1595 Friar Laurence to Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.2, 1.94.
- 59 A gentleman, Nurse, that loves to hear himself talk, and will speak more in a minute than he will stand to in a month.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.3, 1.138–9.
- 60 These violent delights have violent ends.
1595 Friar Laurence. Romeo and Juliet, act 2, sc.5, 1.9.
- 61 Thy head is as full of quarrels as an egg is full of meat.
1595 Mercutio to Benvolio. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.1, 1.20.
- 62 A plague o' both your houses.
 They have made worms' meat of me.
1595 Mercutio, dying stabbed by Tybalt. Romeo and Juliet, act 3,
 sc.1, 1.106–7.
- 63 Come, civil night,
 Thou sober-suited matron all in black.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.2, 1.10–11.
- 64 So tedious is this day
 As is the night before some festival
 To an impatient child that hath new robes
 And may not wear them.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.2, 1.28–31.
- 65 Steal immortal blessing from her lips.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.3, 1.37.
- 66 Hang up philosophy!
 Unless philosophy can make a Juliet.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.3, 1.57–8.
- 67 A joy past joy calls out on me.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.3, 1.172.
- 68 It was the nightingale, and not the lark,
 That pierced the fear-full hollow of thine ear.
 Nightly she sings on yon pom'granate tree.
1595 Juliet to Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, 1.2–4.
- 69 Night's candles are burnt out, and jocund day
 Stands tiptoe on the misty mountaintops.
 I must be gone and live, or stay and die.
1595 Romeo to Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, 1.9–11.
- 70 O, fortune, fortune, all men call thee fickle.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, 1.60.
- 71 Mistress minion, you,
 Thank me no thankings, nor proud me no prouds,
 But fettle your fine joints 'gainst Thursday next
 To go with Paris to Saint Peter's Church,
 Or I will drag thee on a hurdle thither.
 Out, you green-sickness carrion! Out, you baggage,
 You tallow-face!
1595 Capulet, to Juliet, ordering her marriage to Paris. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, 1.151–7.
- 72 Is there no pity sitting in the clouds,
 That sees into the bottom of my grief?
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, 1.196–7.

- 73 I think it best you married with the County.
O, he's a lovely gentleman!
Romeo's a dishclout to him.
1595 Nurse to Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 3, sc.5, l.217–19.
- 74 'Tis an ill cook that cannot lick his own fingers.
1595 Servingman to Capulet. Romeo and Juliet, act 4, sc.2, l.6.
- 75 I have a faint cold fear thrills through my veins
That almost freezes up the heat of life.
1595 Juliet. Romeo and Juliet, act 4, sc.3, l.15–16.
- 76 Out, alas, she's cold.
Her blood is settled, and her joints are stiff.
Life and these lips have long been separated.
Death lies on her like an untimely frost
Upon the sweetest flower of all the field.
1595 Capulet, of Juliet, as she feigns death. Romeo and Juliet, act 4, sc.4, l.52–6.
- 77 She's not well married that lives married long,
But she's best married that dies married young.
1595 Friar Laurence. Romeo and Juliet, act 4, sc.4, l.104–5.
- 78 I dreamt my lady came and found me dead—
Strange dream, that gives a dead man leave to think!—
And breathed such life with kisses in my lips
That I revived and was an emperor.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 5, sc.1, l.6–9.
- 79 Art thou so bare and full of wretchedness,
And fear'st to die? Famine is in thy cheeks,
Need and oppression starveth in thy eyes,
Contempt and beggary hangs upon thy back.
The world is not thy friend, nor the world's law.
1595 Romeo to Apothecary. Romeo and Juliet, act 5, sc.1, l.68–72.
- 80 Give me thy hand,
One writ with me in sour misfortune's book.
1595 Romeo to Paris, whom he has just killed. Romeo and Juliet, act 5, sc.3, l.81–2.
- 81 Here, here will I remain
With worms that are thy chambermaids. O, here
Will I set up my everlasting rest,
And shake the yoke of inauspicious stars
From this world-wearied flesh.
1595 Romeo. Romeo and Juliet, act 5, sc.3, l.108–12.
- 82 Never was a story of more woe
Than this of Juliet and her Romeo.
1595 Prince. Romeo and Juliet, act 5, sc.3, l.308–9.
- 83 To you your father should be as a god.
1595 Theseus to Hermia. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.1, l.47.
- 84 The course of true love never did run smooth.
1595 Lysander to Hermia. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.1, l.134.
- 85 Your eyes are lodestars, and your tongue's sweet air
More tuneable than lark to shepherd's ear
When wheat is green, when hawthorn buds appear.
1595 Helena. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.1, l.183–5.
- 86 Love looks not with the eyes, but with the mind,
And therefore is winged Cupid painted blind.
1595 Helena. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.1, l.234–5.
- 87 Marry, our play is The Most Lamentable Comedy and Most Cruel Death of Pyramus and Thisbe.
1595 Quince. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.2, l.11–12.
- 88 That will ask some tears in the true performing of it. If I do it, let the audience look to their eyes. I will move stones.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.2, l.21–3.
- 89 Nay, faith, let not me play a woman. I have a beard coming.
1595 Flute, on his reluctance to act the role of Thisbe. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.2, l.43–4.
- 90 SNUG: Have you the lion's part written? Pray you, if it be, give it me; for I am slow of study.
QUINCE: You may do it extempore, for it is nothing but roaring.
BOTTOM: Let me play the lion too. I will roar that I will do any man's heart good to hear me. I will roar that I will make the Duke say 'Let him roar again; let him roar again'.
1595 A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.2, l.62–69.
- 91 I will roar you as gently as any sucking dove. I will roar you an 'twere any nightingale.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 1, sc.2, l.77–8.
- 92 Over hill, over dale,
Thorough bush, thorough brier,
Over park, over pale,
Thorough flood, thorough fire:
I do wander everywhere
Swifter than the moon's sphere,
And I serve the Fairy Queen
To dew her orbs upon the green.
The cowslips tall her pensioners be.
In their gold coats spots you see;
Those be rubies, fairy favours;
In those freckles live their savours.
I must go seek some dewdrops here,
And hang a pearl in every cowslip's ear.
1595 Fairy. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.2–15.
- 93 Ill met by moonlight, proud Titania.
1595 Oberon. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.60.
- 94 Yet marked I where the bolt of Cupid fell.
It fell upon a little western flower—
Before, milk-white; now, purple with love's wound—
And maidens call it love-in-idleness.
1595 Oberon. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.165–8.
- 95 I'll put a girdle round about the earth
In forty minutes.
1595 Robin Goodfellow. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.175–6.
- 96 We cannot fight for love as men may do;
We should be woo'd, and were not made to woo.
1595 Helena. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.241–2.
- 97 I know a bank where the wild thyme blows,
Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows,
Quite overcanopied with luscious woodbine,
With sweet musk-roses, and with eglantine.
1595 Oberon. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.1, l.249–52.
- 98 You spotted snakes with double tongue,
Thorny hedgehogs, be not seen;
Newts and blindworms, do no wrong;
Come not near our Fairy Queen.
1595 First Fairy. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.2, l.9–12.
- 99 A surfeit of the sweetest things
The deepest loathing to the stomach brings.
1595 Lysander. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 2, sc.2, l.143–4.
- 1 A lion among ladies is a most dreadful thing.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.1, l.28.

- 2 FLUTE: (as Thisbe)
Most radiant Pyramus, most lily-white of hue,
Of colour like the red rose on triumphant brier;
Most bristly juvenile, and eke most lovely Jew,
As true as trust horse that yet would never tire:
I'll meet thee, Pyramus, at Ninny's tomb.
QUINCE: Ninus' tomb, man!
1595 A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.1, 1.87–92.
- 3 What angel wakes me from my flow'ry bed?
1595 Titania, of Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.1, 1.122.
- 4 I pray thee, gentle mortal, sing again.
Mine ear is much enamoured of thy note;
So is mine eye enthralled to thy shape;
And thy fair virtue's force perforce doth move me
On the first view to say, to swear, I love thee.
1595 Titania. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.1, 1.130–4.
- 5 I go, I go—look how I go,
Swifter than arrow from the Tartar's bow.
1595 Robin Goodfellow to Oberon. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.2, 1.100–1.
- 6 Lord, what fools these mortals be!
1595 Robin Goodfellow. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.2, 1.115.
- 7 Sleep, that sometimes shuts up sorrow's eye,
Steal me a while from mine own company.
1595 Helena. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 3, sc.3, 1.23–4.
- 8 I must to the barber's, monsieur, for methinks I am marvellous hairy about the face; and I am such a tender ass, if my hair do but tickle me I must scratch.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 4, sc.1, 1.23–6.
- 9 Methinks I have a great desire to a bottle of hay. Good hay, sweet hay, hath no fellow.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 4, sc.1, 1.32–3.
- 10 My Oberon, what visions have I seen!
Methought I was enamoured of an ass.
1595 Titania. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 4, sc.1, 1.75–6.
- 11 I have had a dream past the wit of man to say what dream it was.
1595 Bottom. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 4, sc.1, 1.202–3.
- 12 Lovers and madmen have such seething brains,
Such shaping fantasies, that apprehend
More than cool reason ever comprehends.
1595 Theseus. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.4–6.
- 13 The lunatic, the lover, and the poet
Are of imagination all compact.
One sees more devils than vast hell can hold:
That is the madman. The lover, all as frantic,
Sees Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt.
The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.
Such tricks hath strong imagination
That if it would but apprehend some joy
It comprehends some bringer of that joy;
Or in the night, imagining some fear,
How easy is a bush supposed a bear!
1595 Theseus. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.7–22.
- 14 [LYSANDER] (reads)
'A tedious 'brief' scene of young Pyramus
And his love Thisbe: very tragical mirth.'
THESEUS:
'Merry' and 'tragical'? 'Tedious' and 'brief'?—
That is, hot ice and wondrous strange black snow.
1595 A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.56–9.
- 15 A play there is, my lord, some ten words long,
Which is as brief as I have known a play;
But by ten words, my lord, it is too long.
1595 [Egeus]. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.61–3.
- 16 Anon comes Pyramus, sweet youth and tall,
And finds his trusty Thisbe's mantle slain;
Whereat with blade—with bloody, blameful blade—
He bravely broached his boiling bloody breast;
And Thisbe, tarrying in mulberry shade,
His dagger drew and died.
1595 Quince's prologue to Pyramus and Thisbe. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.143–8.
- 17 O dainty duck, O dear!
Thy mantle good,
What, stained with blood?
Approach, ye furies fell.
O fates, come, come,
Cut the thread and thrum,
Quail, crush, conclude, and quell.
1595 Bottom (as Pyramus). A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.276–82.
- 18 His eyes were green as leeks.
1595 Flute (as Thisbe). A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.1, 1.330.
- 19 If we shadows have offended,
Think but this, and all is mended:
That you have but slumbered here,
While these visions did appear.
1595 Robin Goodfellow. A Midsummer Night's Dream, act 5, sc.2, 1.1–4.
- 20 By how much unexpected, by so much
We must awake endeavour for defence,
For courage mounteth with occasion.
1596 Duke of Austria. King John, act 2, sc.1, 1.80–2.
- 21 Well, whiles I am a beggar I will rail,
And say there is no sin but to be rich,
And being rich, my virtue then shall be
To say there is no vice but beggary.
Since kings break faith upon commodity,
Gain, be my lord, for I will worship thee.
1596 Bastard. King John, act 2, sc.1, 1.594–9.
- 22 I will instruct my sorrows to be proud,
For grief is proud and makes his owner stoop.
1596 Constance. King John, act 2, sc.2, 1.68–9.
- 23 My grief's so great
That no supporter but the huge firm earth
Can hold it up. Here I and sorrows sit.
1596 Constance. King John, act 2, sc.2, 1.71–3.
- 24 Bell, book, and candle shall not drive me back
When gold and silver beck me to come on.
1596 Bastard. King John, act 3, sc.3, 1.12–13.
- 25 Grief fills the room up of my absent child,
Lies in his bed, walks up and down with me.

- 1596 Constance. King John, act 3, sc.4, 1.93–4.
- 26 Life is as tedious as a twice-told tale
Vexing the dull ear of a drowsy man.
1596 Louis the Dauphin. King John, act 3, sc.4, 1.108–9.
- 27 When Fortune means to men most good,
She looks upon them with a threat'ning eye.
1596 Pandolf. King John, act 3, sc.4, 1.119–20.
- 28 He that stands upon a slipp'ry place
Makes nice of no vile hold to stay him up.
1596 Pandolf. King John, act 3, sc.4, 1.137–8.
- 29 Strong reasons make strange actions.
1596 Louis the Dauphin. King John, act 3, sc.4, 1.182.
- 30 To gild refinèd gold, to paint the lily,
To throw a perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper-light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish,
Is wasteful and ridiculous excess.
1596 Salisbury. King John, act 4, sc.2, 1.11–16.
- 31 The rich advantage of good exercise?
1596 Pembroke. King John, act 4, sc.2, 1.60.
- 32 Think you I bear the shears of destiny?
Have I commandment on the pulse of life?
1596 John. King John, act 4, sc.2, 1.91–2.
- 33 Entreat the north
To make his bleak winds kiss my parchèd lips,
And comfort me with cold. I do not ask you much;
I beg cold comfort.
1596 John to Prince Henry. King John, act 5, sc.7, 1.39–42.
- 34 This England never did, nor never shall,
Lie at the proud foot of a conqueror.
1596 Bastard. King John, act 5, sc.7, 1.112–3.
- 35 Now, by two-headed Janus,
Nature hath framed strange fellows in her time:
Some that will evermore peep through their eyes
And laugh like parrots at a bagpiper.
1596–7 Solanio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.50–3.
- 36 I hold the world but as the world, Graziano;
A stage where every man must play a part,
And mine a sad one.
1596–7 Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.77–9.
- 37 Let me play the fool.
With mirth and laughter let old wrinkles come.
1596–7 Graziano to Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.79–80.
- 38 O my Antonio, I do know of these
That therefore only are reputed wise
For saying nothing.
1596–7 Graziano. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.95–7.
- 39 Fish not with this melancholy bait
For this fool gudgeon, this opinion.
1596–7 Graziano. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.101–2.
- 40 For silence is only commendable
In a neat's tongue dried and a maid not vendible.
1596–7 Graziano. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.111–2.
- 41 Graziano speaks an infinite deal of nothing, more than any man in all Venice. His reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff: you shall seek all day ere you find them, and when you have them they are not worth the search.
- 1596–7 Bassanio to Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.1, 1.114–18.
- 42 They are as sick that surfeit with too much as they that starve with nothing.
1596–7 Nerissa. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.5–6.
- 43 I can easier teach twenty what were good to be done than to be one of the twenty to follow mine own teaching.
1596–7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.15–17.
- 44 The brain may devise laws for the blood, but a hot temper leaps o'er a cold decree.
1596–7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.17–18.
- 45 He doth nothing but talk of his horse.
1596–7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.39–40.
- 46 I fear he will prove the weeping philosopher when he grows old, being so full of unmannerly sadness in his youth.
1596–7 Portia, of her suitor the County Palatine. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.47–9.
- 47 God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man.
1596–7 Portia, of her suitor M. le Bon. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.54–5.
- 48 I will do anything, Nerissa, ere I will be married to a sponge.
1596–7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.95–6.
- 49 There is not one among them but I dote on his very absence, and I pray God grant them a fair departure.
1596–7 Portia, of the suitors. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.2, 1.106–8.
- 50 Yes, to smell pork, to eat of the habitation which your prophet the Nazarite conjured the devil into! I will buy with you, sell with you, talk with you, walk with you, and so following, but I will not eat with you, drink with you, nor pray with you.
1596–7 Shylock, invited to dine with Bassanio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.31–5.
- 51 How like a fawning publican he looks.
I hate him for he is a Christian.
1596–7 Shylock, of Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.39–40.
- 52 The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose.
An evil soul producing holy witness
Is like a villain with a smiling cheek,
A goodly apple rotten at the heart.
O, what a goodly outside falsehood hath!
1596–7 Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.97–101.
- 53 Signor Antonio, many a time and oft
In the Rialto you have rated me
About my moneys and my usances.
Still have I borne it with a patient shrug,
For suff'rance is the badge of all our tribe.
1596–7 Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.105–109.
- 54 If thou wilt lend this money, lend it not
As to thy friends; for when did friendship take
A breed for barren metal of his friend?
1596–7 Antonio to Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.130–3.
- 55 I like not fair terms and a villain's mind.
1596–7 Bassanio. The Merchant of Venice, act 1, sc.3, 1.178.
- 56 It is a wise father that knows his own child.
1596–7 Lancelot. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.2, 1.72–3.

- 57 I'll take my leave of the Jew in the twinkling.
1596-7 Lancelot to Gobbo. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.2, l.161-2.
- 58 Alack, what heinous sin is it in me
 To be ashamed to be my father's child!
 But though I am a daughter to his blood,
 I am not to his manners.
1596-7 Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.3, l.16-19.
- 59 Then it was not for nothing that my nose fell a-bleeding on Black Monday.
1596-7 Lancelot. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.5, l.23-5.
- 60 There is some ill a-brewing towards my rest,
 For I did dream of money-bags tonight.
1596-7 Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.5, l.17-18.
- 61 But love is blind, and lovers cannot see
 The pretty follies that themselves commit.
1596-7 Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.6, l.36.
- 62 I will not choose what many men desire,
 Because I will not jump with common spirits
 And rank me with the barbarous multitudes.
1596-7 Aragon. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.9, l.30-2.
- 63 O, that estates, degrees, and offices
 Were not derived corruptly, and that clear honour
 Were purchased by the merit of the wearer!
1596-7 Aragon. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.9, l.40-2.
- 64 The ancient saying is no heresy;
 Hanging and wiving goes by destiny.
1596-7 Nerissa. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.9, l.81-2.
- 65 A day in April never came so sweet,
 To show how costly summer was at hand.
1596-7 Messenger, of Bassanio's arrival. The Merchant of Venice, act 2, sc.9, l.92.
- 66 The bird was fledged; and then it is the complexion of them all to leave the dam.
1596-7 Solanio, of Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.1, l.27.
- 67 Let him look to his bond.
1596-7 Shylock, of Antonio. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.1, l.45-6.
- 68 Hath not a Jew eyes? Hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions; fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer as a Christian is?
 If you prick us do we not bleed? If you tickle us do we not laugh? If you poison us do we not die? And if you wrong us shall we not revenge? If we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that.
1596-7 Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.1, l.54-63.
- 69 Let music sound while he doth make his choice.
 Then if he lose he makes a swanlike end,
 Fading in music.
1596-7 Portia to Bassanio. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.43-5.
- 70 There is no vice so simple but assumes
 Some mark of virtue on his outward parts.
1596-7 Bassiano, aside. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.81-2.
- 71 Look on beauty
 And you shall see 'tis purchased by the weight,
 Which therein works a miracle in nature,
 Making them lightest that wear most of it.
1596-7 Bassanio, aside. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.88-91.
- 72 Thou gaudy gold,
 Hard food for Midas, I will none of thee.
1596-7 Bassiano, aloud. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.101-2.
- 73 An unlesioned girl, unschooled, unpractisèd,
 Happy in this, she is not yet so old
 But she may learn.
1596-7 Portia, of herself. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.159-61.
- 74 Madam, you have bereft me of all words.
 Only my blood speaks to you in my veins.
1596-7 Bassanio to Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.175-6.
- 75 Here are a few of the unpleasant'st words
 That ever blotted paper.
1596-7 Bassanio, reading of Antonio's misfortunes. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.2, l.249-50.
- 76 Let it serve for table-talk.
 Then, howsome'er thou speak'st, 'mong other things
 I shall digest it.
1596-7 Lorenzo. The Merchant of Venice, act 3, sc.5, l.83-5.
- 77 Some men there are love not a gaping pig,
 Some that are mad if they behold a cat,
 And others when the bagpipe sings i'th' nose
 Cannot contain their urine.
1596-7 Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.46-49.
- 78 We turned o'er many books together.
1596-7 Bellario's letter of recommendation for Portia (as Balthasar). The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.154-5.
- 79 The quality of mercy is not strained.
 It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
 Upon the place beneath. It is twice blest:
 It blesseth him that gives, and him that takes.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.181-4.
- 80 It is enthronèd in the hearts of kings;
 It is an attribute to God himself,
 And earthly power doth then show likest God's
 When mercy seasons justice.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.190-4.
- 81 A Daniel come to judgement, yea, a Daniel!
 O wise young judge, how I do honour thee!
1596-7 Shylock, of the disguised Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.220-1.
- 82 Antonio, I am married to a wife
 Which is as dear to me as life itself,
 But life itself, my wife, and all the world
 Are not with me esteemed above thy life.
 I would lose all, ay, sacrifice them all
 Here to this devil, to deliver you.
1596-7 Bassanio. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.279-84.
- 83 Take thou thy pound of flesh.
1596-7 Portia to Shylock. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.305.
- 84 Nay, take my life and all, pardon not that.
 You take my house when you do take the prop
 That doth sustain my house; you take my life
 When do you take the means whereby I live.
1596-7 Shylock to the Duke. The Merchant of Venice, act 4, sc.1, l.371-4.
- 85 How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank!

- Here will we sit, and let the sounds of music
Creep in our ears.
1596-7 Lorenzo to Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.54-6.
- 86 Look how the floor of heaven
Is thick inlaid with patens of bright gold.
There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st
But in his motion like an angel sings.
1596-7 Lorenzo to Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.58-61.
- 87 I am never merry when I hear sweet music.
1596-7 Jessica. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.69.
- 88 The man that hath no music in himself,
Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds,
Is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils.
1596-7 Lorenzo. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.83-5.
- 89 How far that little candle throws his beams—
So shines a good deed in a naughty world.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.90-1.
- 90 A substitute shines brightly as a king
Until a king be by.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.94-5.
- 91 The crow doth sing as sweetly as the lark
When neither is attended.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.102-3.
- 92 A light wife doth make a heavy husband.
1596-7 Portia. The Merchant of Venice, act 5, sc.1, 1.130.
- 93 O, that it could be proved
That some night-tripping fairy had exchanged
In cradle clothes our children where they lay.
1596-7 King Henry of his son, Harry, and Northumberland's son, Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.1, 1.85-7.
- 94 What a devil hast thou to do with the time of the day?
Unless hours were cups of sack, and minutes capons, and clocks the tongues of bawds, and dials the signs of leaping-houses, and the blessed sun himself a fair hot wench in flame-coloured taffeta, I see no reason why thou shouldst be so superfluous to demand the time of the day.
1596-7 Prince Harry to Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.6-12.
- 95 How now, how now, mad wag? What, in thy quips and thy quiddities? What a plague have I to do with a buff jerkin?
1596-7 Falstaff to Prince Harry. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.44-6.
- 96 I would to God thou and I knew where a commodity of good names were to be bought.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.82-3.
- 97 'Tis my vocation, Hal. 'Tis no sin for a man to labour in his vocation.
1596-7 Falstaff, of stealing. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.104-5.
- 98 What says Monsieur Remorse? What says Sir John, sack-and-sugar Jack? How agrees the devil and thee about thy soul, that thou soldst him on Good Friday last, for a cup of Madeira and a cold capon's leg?
1596-7 Poins to Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.111-15.
- 99 He was never yet a breaker of proverbs: he will give the devil his due.
1596-7 Prince Harry. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.2, 1.117-8.
- 1 He made me mad
To see him shine so brisk, and smell so sweet,
And talk so like a waiting gentlewoman
Of guns, and drums, and wounds, God save the mark!
And telling me the sovereign'st thing on earth
Was parmacity for an inward bruise,
And that it was great pity, so it was,
This villainous saltpetre should be digged
Out of the bowels of the harmless earth,
Which many a good tall fellow had destroyed
So cowardly, and but for these vile guns
He would himself have been a soldier.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.3, 1.52-63.
- 2 To put down Richard, that sweet lovely rose,
And plant this thorn, this canker, Bolingbroke?
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.3, 1.173-4.
- 3 If he fall in, good night, or sink or swim.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.3, 1.192.
- 4 —O, the blood more stirs
To rouse a lion than to start a hare!
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.3, 1.195-6.
- 5 By heaven, methinks it were an easy leap
To pluck bright honour from the pale-faced moon,
Or dive into the bottom of the deep,
Where fathom-line could never touch the ground,
And pluck up drownèd honour by the locks.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 1, sc.3, 1.199-203.
- 6 I am joined with no foot-landrakers, no longstaff sixpenny strikers, none of these mad mustachio purple-hued maltworms, but with nobility and tranquillity, burgomasters and great 'oyez'-ers; such as can hold in,
such as will strike sooner than speak, and speak sooner than drink, and drink sooner than pray.
1596-7 Gadshill. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.1, 1.73-8.
- 7 I am bewitched with the rogue's company. If the rascal have not given me medicines to make me love him, I'll be hanged.
1596-7 Falstaff, of Prince Harry. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.2, 1.17-20.
- 8 A plague upon't when thieves cannot be true one to another.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.2, 1.27-8.
- 9 Hang thyself in thine own heir-apparent garters!
1596-7 Falstaff to Prince Harry. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.2, 1.43.
- 10 Out of this nettle danger we pluck this flower safety.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.4, 1.9-10.
- 11 Constant you are,
But yet a woman; and for secrecy
No lady closer, for I well believe
Thou wilt not utter what thou dost not know.
1596-7 Hotspur to Kate. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.4, 1.105-8.
- 12 I am not yet of Percy's mind, the Hotspur of the North
—he that kills me some six or seven dozen of Scots at a breakfast, washes his hands, and says to his wife, 'Fie upon this quiet life! I want work.'
1596-7 Prince Harry. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.5, 1.102-6.
- 13 There lives not three good men unchanged in England, and one of them is fat and grows old.
1596-7 Falstaff, of himself. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.5, 1.130-1.
- 14 Give you a reason on compulsion? If reasons were as

- plentiful as blackberries, I would give no man a reason upon compulsion.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.5, 1.242-4.
- 15 PRINCE HARRY: This sanguine coward, this bed-presser, this horse-backbreaker, this huge hill of flesh—
 SIR JOHN: 'Sblood, you starveling, you elf-skin, you dried neat's tongue, you bull's pizzle, you stock-fish—O, for breath to utter what is like thee!—you tailor's yard, you sheath, you bow-case, you vile standing tuck.
1596-7 Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.5, 1.245-52.
- 16 SIR JOHN: Sweet Jack Oldcastle, kind Jack Oldcastle, true Jack Oldcastle, valiant Jack Oldcastle, and therefore more valiant being, as he is, old Jack Oldcastle
 Banish not him thy Harry's company,
 Banish not him thy Harry's company.
 Banish plump Jack, and banish all the world.
 PRINCE HARRY: I do; I will.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 2, sc.5, 1.480-6.
- 17 I can teach thee, coz, to shame the devil,
 By telling truth: 'Tell truth, and shame the devil'.
1596-7 Hotspur to Glyndwr. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.1, 1.55-6.
- 18 Mincing poetry.
 'Tis like the forced gait of a shuffling nag.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.1, 1.130-1.
- 19 I understand thy kisses, and thou mine,
 And that's a feeling disputation.
1596-7 Mortimer to his wife. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.1, 1.200-1.
- 20 Now I perceive the devil understands Welsh;
 And 'tis no marvel, he is so humorous.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.1, 1.226-7.
- 21 Swear me, Kate, like a lady as thou art,
 A good mouth-filling oath.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.1, 1.249-50.
- 22 Do thou amend thy face, and I'll amend my life.
1596-7 Falstaff to Bardolph. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.3, 1.23.
- 23 Thou knowest in the state of innocency Adam fell, and what should poor Jack Oldcastle do in the days of villainy? Thou seest I have more flesh than another man, and therefore more frailty.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 3, sc.3, 1.165-7.
- 24 I am as vigilant as a cat to steal cream.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 4, sc.2, 1.58-9.
- 25 Rebellion lay in his way, and he found it.
1596-7 Falstaff, of Worcester. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.1, 1.28.
- 26 I would 'twere bed-time, Hal, and all well.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.1, 1.125.
- 27 Honour pricks me on. Yea, but how if honour prick me off when I come on? How then?
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.1, 1.129-131.
- 28 What is honour? A word.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.1, 1.133-4.
- 29 Who hath it [honour]? He that died o' Wednesday.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.1, 1.135-6.
- 30 Treason is but trusted like the fox,
 Who, ne'er so tame, so cherished and locked up,
 Will have a wild trick of his ancestors.
1596-7 Worcester. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.2, 1.9-11.
- 31 O gentlemen, the time of life is short.
 To spend that shortness basely were too long
 If life did ride upon a dial's point,
 Still ending at the arrival of an hour.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.2, 1.81-4.
- 32 Sound all the lofty instruments of war,
 And by that music let us all embrace,
 For, heaven to earth, some of us never shall
 A second time do such a courtesy.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.2, 1.97-100.
- 33 I am as hot as molten lead, and as heavy too.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.3, 1.33-4.
- 34 Time, that takes survey of all the world,
 Must have a stop.
1596-7 Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.4, 1.81-2.
- 35 Fare thee well, great heart.
 Ill-weaved ambition, how much art thou shrunk!
 When that this body did contain a spirit,
 A kingdom for it was too small a bound,
 But now two paces of the vilest earth
 Is room enough.
1596-7 Prince Harry, of Hotspur. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.4, 1.86-91.
- 36 The better part of valour is discretion, in the which better part I have saved my life.
1596-7 Falstaff. Henry IV Part One, act 5, sc.4, 1.118-20.
- 37 In poison there is physic; and these news,
 Having been well, that would have made me sick,
 Being sick, have in some measure made me well.
1597-8 Northumberland. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.1, 1.137-9.
- 38 I am not only witty in myself, but the cause that wit is in other men.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.9-10.
- 39 Your lordship, though not clean past your youth, hath yet some smack of age in you, some relish of the saltness of time.
1597-8 Falstaff, of the Lord Justice. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.98-9.
- 40 I am as poor as Job, my lord, but not so patient.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.128.
- 41 If it be a hot day and I brandish anything but my bottle, would I might never spit white again.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.211-13.
- 42 It was always yet the trick of our English nation, if they have a good thing, to make it too common.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.215-17.
- 43 I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse. Borrowing only lingers and lingers it out, but the disease is incurable.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.2, 1.237-9.
- 44 [He] lined himself with hope,
 Eating the air on promise of supply.
1597-8 Lord Bardolph, of Hotspur. Henry IV Part Two, act 1, sc.3, 1.27-8.
- 45 Away, you scullion, you rampallion, you fustilarian! I'll tickle your catastrophe!
1597-8 Page to Mistress Quickly. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.1, 1.61-2.
- 46 He hath eaten me out of house and home.
1597-8 Mistress Quickly, of Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.1, 1.75-6.
- 47 Thus we play the fools with the time, and the spirits of

- the wise sit in the clouds and mock us.
1597-8 Prince Harry. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.2, l.133-5.
- 48 He was indeed the glass
 Wherein the noble youth did dress themselves.
1597-8 Lady Percy, of Hotspur. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.3, l.21-2.
- 49 Shall pack-horses
 And hollow pampered jades of Asia,
 Which cannot go but thirty mile a day,
 Compare with Caesars and with cannibals,
 And Trojan Greeks?
 Nay, rather damn them with King Cerberus,
 And let the welkin roar.
1597-8 Pistol. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.4, l.160-6.
- 50 Thou whoreson little tidy Bartholomew boar-pig, when wilt thou leave fighting o'days, and foining o'nights, and begin to patch up thine old body for heaven?
1597-8 Doll Tearsheet, of Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.4, l.232-5.
- 51 Is it not strange that desire should so many years outlive performance?
1597-8 Poins. Henry IV Part Two, act 2, sc.4, l.262-3.
- 52 O sleep, O gentle sleep,
 Nature's soft nurse, how have I frightened thee,
 That thou no more wilt weigh my eyelids down.
1597-8 King Henry. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.1, l.5-7.
- 53 Canst thou, O partial sleep, give thy repose
 To the wet sea-boy in an hour so rude,
 And in the calmest and most stillest night,
 With all appliances and means to boot,
 Deny it to a king? Then happy low, lie down.
 Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.
1597-8 King Henry. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.1, l.25-31.
- 54 Death, as the Psalmist saith, is certain to all: all shall die.
 How a good yoke of bullocks at Stamford fair?
1597-8 Shallow. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.2, l.35-6.
- 55 We have heard the chimes at midnight, Master Shallow.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.2, l.211.
- 56 A man can die but once. We owe God a death.
1597-8 Feeble. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.2, l.233-4.
- 57 Lord, Lord, how subject we old men are to this vice of lying!
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.2, l.298-9.
- 58 When a was naked, he was for all the world like a forked radish, with a head fantastically carved upon it with a knife.
1597-8 Falstaff, of Shallow. Henry IV Part Two, act 3, sc.2, l.305-7.
- 59 An iron man,
 Cheering a rout of rebels with your drum,
 Turning the word to sword, and life to death.
1597-8 Prince John. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.1, l.234-6.
- 60 Sudden sorrow
 Serves to say thus: some good thing comes tomorrow.
1597-8 Westmorland. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.1, l.309-10.
- 61 A peace is of the nature of a conquest,
 For then both parties nobly are subdued,
 And neither party loser.
1597-8 Archbishop of York. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.1, l.315-17.
- 62 He saw me, and yielded, that I may justly say, with the hook-nosed fellow of Rome, 'I came, saw, and overcame'.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.2, l.39-41.
- 63 A man cannot make him laugh. But that's no marvel; he drinks no wine.
1597-8 Falstaff. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.2, l.85-6.
- 64 Will fortune never come with both hands full,
 But write her fair words still in foulest letters?
1597-8 Henry, receiving good news when ill. Henry IV Part Two,
 act 4, sc.3, l.103-4.
- 65 How quickly nature falls into revolt
 When gold becomes her object!
1597-8 King Henry, of his son Harry. Henry IV Part Two, act 4,
 sc.3, l.195-6.
- 66 Revel the night, rob, murder, and commit
 The oldest sins the newest kind of ways?
1597-8 King Henry to Harry. Henry IV Part Two, act 4, sc.3,
 l.254-5.
- 67 I know thee not, old man. Fall to thy prayers.
 How ill white hairs becomes a fool and jester!
1597-8 The newly-crowned King Harry, rejecting Falstaff. *Henry
 IV Part Two*, act 5, sc.5, l.47-8.
- 68 Here will be an old abusing of God's patience and the King's English.
1597-8 Mistress Quickly. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 1, sc.4,
 l.4-5.
- 69 His worst fault is that he is given to prayer; he is something peevish that way.
1597-8 Mistress Quickly. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 1, sc.4,
 l.11-12.
- 70 Why, then the world's mine oyster, which I with sword will open.
1597-8 Pistol. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 2, sc.2, l.4-5.
- 71 Thinkst thou I'll endanger my soul gratis?
1597-8 Falstaff. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 2, sc.2, l.16-17.
- 72 If money go before, all ways do lie open.
1597-8 Ford (as Brooke). The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 2, sc.2,
 l.164-5.
- 73 Money is a good soldier, sir, and will go on.
1597-8 Falstaff. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 2, sc.2, l.166.
- 74 There is money. Spend it, spend it; spend more.
1597-8 Ford (as Brooke). The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 2, sc.2,
 l.223-4.
- 75 I cannot tell what the dickens his name is.
1597-8 Mistress Page. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 3, sc.2, l.16.
- 76 He capers, he dances, he has eyes of youth; he writes verses, he speaks holiday, he smells April and May. He will carry't, he will carry't; 'tis in his buttons he will carry't.
1597-8 Host, of Master Feuton. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 3,
 sc.2, l.61-4.
- 77 O, what a world of vile ill-favoured faults
 Looks handsome in three hundred pounds a year!
1597-8 Anne. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 3, sc.4, l.31-2.
- 78 A woman would run through fire and water for such a kind heart.
1597-8 Mistress Quickly. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 3, sc.4,
 l.101-2.
- 79 Have I lived to be carried in a basket like a barrow of butcher's offal, and to be thrown in the Thames? Well, if I be served such another trick, I'll have my brains ta'en out

- and buttered, and give them to a dog for a New Year's gift. 'Sblood, the rogues slighted me into the river with as little remorse as they would have drowned a blind bitch's puppies, fifteen i'th' litter! And you may know by my size that I have a kind of alacrity in sinking.
1597-8 Falstaff. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 3, sc.5, l.4-12.
- 80 They say there is divinity in odd numbers, either in nativity, chance, or death.
1597-8 Falstaff. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 5, sc.1, l.3-4.
- 81 Let the sky rain potatoes, let it thunder to the tune of 'Greensleeves'.
1597-8 Falstaff. The Merry Wives of Windsor, act 5, sc.5, l.17-18.
- 82 A victory is twice itself when the achiever brings home full numbers.
1598 Leonato. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.8-9.
- 83 How much better is it to weep at joy than to joy at weeping!
1598 Leonato. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.27-8.
- 84 He wears his faith but as the fashion of his hat, it ever changes with the next block.

- 85 He is sooner caught than the pestilence.
1598 Beatrice, of Claudio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.82.
- 86 I wonder that you will still be talking, Signor Benedick. Nobody marks you.
1598 Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.110-11.
- 87 What, my dear Lady Disdain! Are you yet living?
1598 Benedick to Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.112-13.
- 88 I had rather hear my dog bark at a crow than a man swear he loves me.
1598 Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.125-6.
- 89 Were she other than she is she were unhandsome, and being no other but as she is, I do not like her.
1598 Benedick, of Hero. Much Ado About Nothing, act 1, sc.1, l.166-7.
- 90 If he send me no husband, for the which blessing I am at him upon my knees every morning and evening. Lord, I could not endure a husband with a beard on his face. I had rather lie in the woollen.
1598 Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.24-7.
- 91 He shows me where the bachelors sit, and there live we as merry as the day is long.
1598 Beatrice, of St Peter. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.42-4.
- 92 I have a good eye, uncle. I can see a church by daylight.
1598 Beatrice to Leonato. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.74-5.
- 93 Beauty is a witch
Against whose charms faith melteth into blood.
1598 Claudio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.169-70.
- 94 She speaks poniards, and every word stabs. If her breath were as terrible as her terminations, there were no living near her, she would infect to the North Star.
1598 Benedick, of Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.231-4.
- 95 Will your grace command me any service to the world's end? I will go on the slightest errand now to the Antipodes that you can devise to send me on. I will fetch you a tooth-picker now from the furthest inch of Asia, bring you the length of Prester John's foot, fetch you a hair off the Great Cham's beard, do you any embassy to the pigmies, rather than hold three words' conference with this harpy.
1598 Benedick, of Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.246-53.
- 96 O God, sir, here's a dish I love not. I cannot endure my Lady Tongue.
1598 Benedick, of Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.256-7.
- 97 Silence is the perfectest herald of joy. I were but little happy if I could say how much.
1598 Claudio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.287-8.
- 98 Your silence most offends me, and to be merry best becomes you; for out o' question, you were born in a merry hour.
1598 Don Pedro to Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.310-12.
- 99 But then there was a star danced, and under that was I born.
1598 Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.313-14.
- 1 There's little of the melancholy element in her, my lord. She is never sad but when she sleeps, and not ever sad then; for I have heard my daughter say she hath often dreamt of unhappiness and waked herself with laughing.
1598 Leonato, of Beatrice. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.321-5.
- 2 If they were but a week married they would talk themselves mad.
1598 Leonato, of Beatrice and Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.330-1.
- 3 Time goes on crutches till love have all his rites.
1598 Claudio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.1, l.334-5.
- 4 He was wont to speak plain and to the purpose, like an honest man and a soldier, and now is he turned orthography. His words are a very fantastical banquet, just so many strange dishes.
1598 Benedick, of Claudio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.3, l.18-21.
- 5 Is it not strange that sheep's guts should hale souls out of men's bodies?
1598 Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.3, l.57-9.
- 6 Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more.
Men were deceivers ever,
One foot in sea, and one on shore,
To one thing constant never.
1598 Balthasar's song. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.3, l.61-4.
- 7 He doth indeed show some sparks that are like wit.
1598 Don Pedro, of Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.3, l.178-9.
- 8 I will be horribly in love with her.
1598 Benedick, of Beatrice, having been tricked into thinking she secretly loves him. Much Ado About Nothing, act 2, sc.3, l.222-3.
- 9 Look where Beatrice like a lapwing runs
Close by the ground to hear our conference.
1598 Hero to Ursula. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.1, l.24-5.
- 10 From the crown of his head to the sole of his foot he is all mirth.
1598 Don Pedro, of Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.2, l.7-9.

- 11 He hath twice or thrice cut Cupid's bow-string, and the little hangman dare not shoot at him. He hath a heart as sound as a bell, and his tongue is the clapper, for what his heart thinks his tongue speaks.
1598 Don Pedro, of Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.2, 1.9–13.
- 12 Everyone can master a grief but he that has it.
1598 Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.2, 1.26–7.

1598 Claudio, of Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.2, 1.41–3.
- 14 Seest thou not, I say, what a deformed thief this fashion is, how giddily a turns about all the hot-bloods between fourteen and five-and-thirty...?
1598 Borachio to Conrad. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.3, 1.126–9.
- 15 The fashion wears out more apparel than the man.
1598 Conrad to Borachio. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.3, 1.134–5.
- 16 Comparisons are odorous.
1598 Dogberry to Verges. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.5, 1.15.
- 17 As they say, when the age is in, the wit is out.
1598 Dogberry. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.5, 1.32–3.
- 18 Well, God's a good man. An two men ride of a horse, one must ride behind.
1598 Dogberry to Verges. Much Ado About Nothing, act 3, sc.5, 1.35–6.
- 19 O, what authority and show of truth
Can cunning sin cover itself withal!
1598 Claudio, of Hero. Much Ado About Nothing, act 4, sc.1, 1.35–6.
- 20 'Tis all men's office to speak patience
To those that wring under the load of sorrow.
1598 Leonato. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.1, 1.27–8.
- 21 There was never yet philosopher
That could endure the toothache patiently.
1598 Leonato. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.1, 1.35–6.
- 22 Though care killed a cat, thou hast mettle enough in thee to kill care.
1598 Claudio, of Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.1, 1.133–4.
- 23 Marry, sir, they have committed false report, moreover they have spoken untruths, secondarily they are slanders, sixth and lastly they have belied a lady, thirdly they have verified unjust things, and to conclude, they are lying knaves!
1598 Dogberry to Don Pedro. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.1, 1.208–12.
- 24 I can find out no rhyme to 'lady' but 'baby', an innocent rhyme; for 'scorn' 'horn', a hard rhyme; for 'school' 'fool', a babbling rhyme. Very ominous endings. No, I was not born under a rhyming planet, nor I cannot woo in festival terms.
1598 Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.2, 1.35–9.
- 25 If a man do not erect in this age his own tomb ere he dies, he shall live no longer in monument than the bell rings and the widow weeps.
1598 Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.2, 1.69–72.
- 26 Good morrow, Benedick. Why, what's the matter
That you have such a February face,
So full of frost, of storm and cloudiness?
1598 Don Pedro. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.4, 1.40–2.
- 27 Let's have a dance ere we are married, that we may lighten our own hearts and our wives' heels.
1598 Benedick. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.4, 1.116–18.
- 28 Prince, thou art sad, get thee a wife, get thee a wife.
1598 Benedick to Don Pedro. Much Ado About Nothing, act 5, sc.4, 1.121–2.
- 29 O for a muse of fire, that would ascend
The brightest heaven of invention.
1598–9 Chorus. Henry V, prologue to act 1, 1.1–2.
- 30 When we have matched our rackets to these balls,
We will in France, by God's grace, play a set
Shall strike his father's crown into the hazard.
1598–9 King Harry, on the gift of tennis balls from the Dauphin. Henry V, act 1, sc.2, 1.261–3.
- 31 'Tis ever common
That men are merriest when they are from home.
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 1, sc.2, 1.271–2.
- 32 Now all the youth of England are on fire,
And silken dalliance in the wardrobe lies.
1598–9 Chorus. Henry V, prologue to act 2, 1.1–2.
- 33 O England! model to thy inward greatness,
Like little body with a mighty heart,
What might'st thou do, that honour would thee do,
Were all thy children kind and natural.
1598–9 Chorus. Henry V, prologue to act 2, 1.16–19.
- 34 Though Patience be a tired mare, yet she will plod.
1598–9 Nim. Henry V, act 2, sc.1, 1.22–3.
- 35 Treason and murder ever kept together,
As two yoke-devils sworn to either's purpose.
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 2, sc.2, 1.102–3.
- 36 I saw him fumble with the sheets, and play with flowers, and smile upon his finger's end.
1598–9 Hostess, describing Falstaff's death. Henry V, act 2, sc.3, 1.13–15.
- 37 NIM: They say he cried out of sack.
HOSTESS: Ay, that a did.
BARDOLPH: And of women.
HOSTESS: Nay, that a did not.
BOY: Yes, that a did, and said they were devils incarnate.
HOSTESS: A could never abide carnation, 'twas a colour he never liked.
1598–9 Of Falstaff's death. Henry V, act 2, sc.3, 1.26–32.
- 38 Look to my chattels and my movables.
Let senses rule. The word is 'Pitch and pay'.
Trust none, for oaths are straws, men's faiths are wafer-cakes,
And Holdfast is the only dog, my duck.
1598–9 Pistol to Nim. Henry V, act 2, sc.3, 1.45–8.
- 39 Let us do it with no show of fear,
No, with no more than if we heard that England
Were busied with a Whitsun morris dance.
For, my good liege, she is so idly kinged,
Her sceptre so fantastically borne
By a vain, giddy, shallow, humorous youth,
That fear attends her not
1598–9 Dauphin, to King Charles. Henry V, act 2, sc.4, 1.23–9.
- 40 In cases of defence 'tis best to weigh
The enemy more mighty than he seems.

- 1598–9 Dauphin. Henry V, act 2, sc.4, 1.43–4.
- 41 Self-love, my liege, is not so vile a sin
As self-neglecting.
1598–9 Dauphin, to King Charles. Henry V, act 2, sc.4, 1.73–4.
- 42 Once more unto the breach, dear friends, once more,
Or close the wall up with our English dead.
In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility.
But when the blast of war blows in our ears,
Then imitate the action of the tiger.
Stiffen the sinews, conjure up the blood,
Disguise fair nature with hard-favoured rage.
1598–9 King Harry rallying his men at the siege of Harfleur.
Henry V, act 3, sc.1, 1.1–8.
- 43 I see you stand like greyhounds in the slips,
Straining upon the start. The game's afoot.
1598–9 King Harry rallying his men at the siege of Harfleur.
Henry V, act 3, sc.1, 1.31–2.
- 44 Cry, 'God for Harry! England and Saint George!'
1598–9 King Harry rallying his men at the siege of Harfleur.
Henry V, act 3, sc.1, 1.34.
- 45 FLUELLEN: Captain Macmorris, I think, look you, under your correction, there is not many of your nation—MACMORRIS: Of my nation? What ish my nation? Ish a villain and a bastard and a knave and a rascal? What ish my nation? Who talks of my nation?
1598–9 Henry V, act 3, sc.3, 1.64–8.
- 46 From camp to camp through the foul womb of night
The hum of either army stilly sounds.
1598–9 Chorus. Henry V, prologue to act 4, 1.4–5.
- 47 A little touch of Harry in the night.
1598–9 Chorus. Henry V, prologue to act 4, 1.47.
- 48 There is some soul of goodness in things evil,
Would men observingly distil it out.
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.4–5.
- 49 The King's a bawcock and a heart-of-gold,
A lad of life, an imp of fame,
Of parents good, of fist most valiant.
I kiss his dirty shoe, and from my heartstring
I love the lovely bully.
1598–9 Pistol to King Harry, disguised. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.45–9.
- 50 Every subject's duty is the King's, but every subject's soul is his own.
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.175–6.
- 51 Be friends, you English fools, be friends. We have French quarrels enough, if you could tell how to reckon.
1598–9 Bates. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.220–1.
- 52 Upon the King.
'Let us, our lives, our souls, our debts, our care-full wives,
Our children, and our sins, lay on the King.'
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.227–9.
- 53 O God of battles, steel my soldiers' hearts.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.1, 1.286.
- 54 O that we now had here
But one ten thousand of those men in England
That do no work today.
1598–9 Warwick, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.116–18.
- 55 If it be a sin to covet honour
I am the most offending soul alive.
1598–9 King Harry. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.28–9.
- 56 He which hath no stomach to this fight,
Let him depart.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.35.
- 57 He that shall see this day and live t'old age,
Will yearly on the vigil feast his neighbours
And say, 'Tomorrow is Saint Crispian.'
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.44–6.
- 58 Then will he strip his sleeve and show his scars
And say, 'These wounds I had on Crispin's day.'
Old men forget; yet all shall be forgot,
But he'll remember.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.47–50.
- 59 Then shall our names,
Familiar in his mouth as household words...
Be in their flowing cups freshly remembered.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.51–5.
- 60 This story shall the good man teach his son,
And Crispin Crispian shall ne'er go by
From this day to the ending of the world
But we in it shall be remembered,
We few, we happy few, we band of brothers.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.56–60.
- 61 He today that sheds his blood with me
Shall be my brother; be he ne'er so vile.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.61–2.
- 62 And gentlemen in England now abed
Shall think themselves accursed they were not here,
And hold their manhoods cheap whiles any speaks
That fought with us upon Saint Crispin's day.
1598–9 King Harry, before Agincourt. Henry V, act 4, sc.3, 1.64–7.
- 63 Let life be short, else shame will be too long.
1598–9 Bourbon, returning to the battle. Henry V, act 4, sc.5, 1.19.
- 64 There is occasions and causes why and wherefore in all things.
1598–9 Fluellen. Henry V, act 5, sc.1, 1.3–4.
- 65 Not for Cadwallader and all his goats.
1598–9 Pistol, refusing to eat leeks. Henry V, act 5, sc.1, 1.27.
- 66 An angel is like you, Kate, and you are like an angel.
1598–9 King Harry, wooing Catherine. Henry V, act 5, sc.2, 1.109–10.
- 67 Thou wouldst find me such a plain king that thou wouldst think I had sold my farm to buy my crown.
1598–9 King Harry, wooing Catherine. Henry V, act 5, sc.2, 1.125–7.
- 68 You have witchcraft in your lips, Kate. There is more eloquence in a sugar touch of them than in the tongues of the French Council.
1598–9 King Harry, wooing Catherine. Henry V, act 5, sc.2, 1.274–6.
- 69 God, the best maker of all marriages,
Combine your hearts in one, your realms in one.
1598–9 Queen Isabel, on the marriage of King Harry and Catherine. Henry V, act 5, sc.2, 1.354–5.
- 70 Hence, home, you idle creatures, get you home!
1599 Flavius. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.1, 1.1.
- 71 You blocks, you stones, you worse than senseless things!
O, you hard hearts, you cruel men of Rome,
Knew you not Pompey?
1599 Murellus, to the citizens of Rome. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.1, 1.34–7.

- 72 Beware the ides of March.
1599 Soothsayer to Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.19.
- 73 Poor Brutus, with himself at war,
 Forgets the shows of love to other men.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.148–9.
- 74 Set honour in one eye and death i' the other,
 And I will look on both indifferently.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.88–9.
- 75 I cannot tell what you and other men
 Think of this life; but for my single self,
 I had as lief not be, as live to be
 In awe of such a thing as I myself.
 I was born free as Caesar, so were you.
1599 Cassius to Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.95–9.
- 76 He doth bestride the narrow world
 Like a Colossus, and we petty men
 Walk under his huge legs, and peep about
 To find ourselves dishonourable graves.
 Men at sometime were masters of their fates.
 The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
 But in ourselves, that we are underlings.
1599 Cassius, of Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.136–42.
- 77 Brutus and Caesar: what should be in that 'Caesar'?
 Why should that name be sounded more than yours?
 Write them together: yours is as fair a name.
 Sound them: it doth become the mouth as well.
 Weigh them: it is as heavy. Conjure with 'em:
 'Brutus' will start a spirit as soon as 'Caesar'.
1599 Cassius to Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.143–8.
- 78 Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed
 That he is grown so great?
1599 Cassius to Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.150–1.
- 79 Let me have men about me that are fat;
 Sleek-headed men, and such as sleep o' nights;
 Yond Cassius has a lean and hungry look;
 He thinks too much: such men are dangerous.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.193–6.
- 80 Seldom he smiles, and smiles in such a sort
 As if he mocked himself.
1599 Caesar, of Cassius. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.2, l.206–7.
- 81 Cassius from bondage will deliver Cassius.
 Therein, ye gods, you make the weak most strong;
 Therein, ye gods, you tyrants do defeat.
 Nor stony tower, nor walls of beaten brass,
 Nor airless dungeon, nor strong links of iron,
 Can be retentive to the strength of spirit;
 But life, being weary of these worldly bars,
 Never lacks power to dismiss itself.
1599 Cassius. Julius Caesar, act 1, sc.3, l.89–96.
- 82 It is the bright day that brings forth the adder,
 And that craves wary walking.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.1, l.14–15.
- 83 Between the acting of a dreadful thing
 And the first motion, all the interim is Like a phantasma or a hideous dream.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.1, l.63–5.
- 84 Let's carve him as a dish fit for the gods,
 Not hew him as a carcass fit for hounds.
1599 Brutus, of Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.1, l.173–4.
- 85 Am I your self
 But as it were in sort or limitation?
 To keep with you at meals, comfort your bed,
 And talk to you sometimes? Dwell I but in the suburbs
 Of your good pleasure? If it be no more,
 Portia is Brutus' harlot, not his wife.
1599 Portia. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.1, l.281–6.
- 86 You are my true and honourable wife,
 As dear to me as are the ruddy drops
 That visit my sad heart.
1599 Brutus to Portia. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.1, l.287–9.
- 87 When beggars die there are no comets seen;
 The heavens themselves blaze forth the death of princes.
1599 Calpurnia. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.2, l.30–1.
- 88 Cowards die many times before their deaths;
 The valiant never taste of death but once.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.2, l.32–3.
- 89 Of all the wonders that I yet have heard,
 It seems to me most strange that men should fear,
 Seeing that death, a necessary end,
 Will come when it will come.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.2, l.34–7.
- 90 Danger knows full well
 That Caesar is more dangerous than he.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.2, l.44–5.
- 91 The cause is in my will; I will not come.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.2, l.71.
- 92 Ay me! How weak a thing
 The heart of woman is!
1599 Portia. Julius Caesar, act 2, sc.4, l.41–2.
- 93 I could be well moved if I were as you.
 If I could pray to move, prayers would move me.
 But I am constant as the Northern star,
 Of whose true fixed and resting quality
 There is no fellow in the firmament.
 The skies are painted with unnumbered sparks;
 They are all fire, and every one doth shine;
 But there's but one in all doth hold his place.
 So in the world: 'tis furnished well with men,
 And men are flesh and blood, and apprehensive;
 Yet in the number I do know but one
 That unassailable holds on his rank,
 Unshaked of motion; and that I am he Let me a little show it even in this—
 That I was constant Cimber should be banished,
 And constant do remain to keep him so.
1599 Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, l.58–73.
- 94 Et tu, Bruté?—Then fall Caesar.
1599 Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, l.76.
- 95 Ambition's debt is paid.
1599 Brutus, after he has killed Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, l.82.
- 96 Fates, we will know your pleasures.
 That we shall die, we know; 'tis but the time
 And drawing days out that men stand upon.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, l.99–101.
- 97 He that cuts off twenty years of life
 Cuts off so many years of fearing death.
1599 Casca. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, l.102–3.

- 98 How many ages hence
Shall this our lofty scene be acted over,
In states unborn and accents yet unknown!
1599 Cassius, of the murder of Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, 1.112–14.
- 99 O mighty Caesar! Dost thou lie so low?
Are all thy conquests, glories, triumphs, spoils,
Shrunk to this little measure?
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, 1.149–51.
- 1 O pardon me, thou bleeding piece of earth,
That I am meek and gentle with these butchers.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, 1.257–8.
- 2 Caesar's spirit, ranging for revenge,
With Ate by his side come hot from hell,
Shall in these confines with a monarch's voice
Cry 'havoc!', and let slip the dogs of war,
That this foul deed shall smell above the earth
With carrion men, groaning for burial.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.1, 1.273–8.
- 3 This is my answer: not that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more.
1599 Brutus, explaining his reasons for killing Caesar. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.20–1.
- 4 As Caesar loved me, I weep for him. As he was fortunate,
I rejoice at it. As he was valiant, I honour him. But as he was ambitious, I slew him.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.24–7.
- 5 Friends, Romans, countrymen, lend me your ears.
I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him.
The evil that men do lives after them;
The good is oft interrèd with their bones.
So let it be with Caesar. The noble Brutus
Hath told you Caesar was ambitious.
If it were so, it was a grievous fault,
And grievously hath Caesar answered it.
Here, under leave of Brutus and the rest—
For Brutus is an honourable man,
So are they all, all honourable men—
Come I to speak in Caesar's funeral.
He was my friend, faithful and just to me.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.74–86.
- 6 When that the poor have cried, Caesar hath wept.
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.92–3.
- 7 O judgement! thou art fled to brutish beasts,
And men have lost their reason!
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.105–6.
- 8 Bear with me.
My heart is in the coffin there with Caesar,
And I must pause till it come back to me.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.106–8.
- 9 But yesterday the word of Caesar might Have stood against the world. Now lies he there,
And none so poor to do him reverence.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.119–21.
- 10 If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.167.
- 11 This was the most unkindest cut of all.
For when the noble Caesar saw him stab,
Ingratitude, more strong than traitors' arms,
Quite vanquished him.
1599 Antony of Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.181–4.
- 12 O now you weep, and I perceive you feel
The dint of pity. These are gracious drops.
1599 Antony to the crowd. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.191–2.
- 13 I am no orator as Brutus is,
But, as you know me all, a plain blunt man.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.212–13.
- 14 Fortune is merry,
And in this mood will give us anything.
1599 Antony. Julius Caesar, act 3, sc.2, 1.259–60.
- 15 Good reasons must of force give place to better.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 4, sc.2, 1.255.
- 16 There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 4, sc.2, 1.270–3.
- 17 We'll along ourselves, and meet them at Philippi.
1599 Cassius. Julius Caesar, act 4, sc.2, 1.277.
- 18 I should not urge thy duty past thy might.
1599 Brutus to Lucius. Julius Caesar, act 4, sc.2, 1.312.
- 19 Good words are better than bad strokes.
1599 Brutus to Octavius. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.1, 1.29.
- 20 Blow wind, swell billow, and swim bark.
The storm is up, and all is on the hazard.
1599 Cassius, at Philippi. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.1, 1.67–8.
- 21 Since the affairs of men rest still uncertain,
Let's reason with the worst that may befall.
1599 Cassius to Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.1, 1.95–6.
- 22 O that a man might know
The end of this day's business ere it come!
But it sufficeth that the day will end,
And then the end is known.
1599 Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.1, 1.123–6.
- 23 I prithee, Strato, stay thou by thy lord.
Thou art a fellow of a good respect.
Thy life hath had some smatch of honour in it.
Hold then my sword, and turn away thy face
While I do run upon it.
1599 Brutus, killing himself. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.5, 1.44–8.
- 24 Caesar, now be still,
I killed not thee with half so good a will.
1599 Brutus, killing himself. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.5, 1.50–1.
- 25 This was the noblest Roman of them all.
All the conspirators save only he
Did that they did in envy of great Caesar.
He only in a general honest thought
And common good to all made one of them.
His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that nature might stand up
And say to all the world 'This was a man'.
1599 Antony, of Brutus. Julius Caesar, act 5, sc.5, 1.67–74.
- 26 Let us sit and mock the good housewife Fortune from her wheel, that her gifts may henceforth be bestowed equally.
1599–1600 Celia to Rosalind. As You Like It, act 1, sc.2, 1.30–2.
- 27 Where is this young gallant that is so desirous to lie with his mother earth?
1599–1600 Charles to Orlando. As You Like It, act 1, sc.2, 1.188–9.
- 28 My pride fell with my fortunes.

- 1599–1600 Rosalind. As You Like It, act 1, sc.2, 1.241.
- 29 Fare you well.
Hereafter, in a better world than this,
I shall desire more love and knowledge of you.
1599–1600 Le Beau to Orlando. As You Like It, act 1, sc.2, 1.273–4.
- 30 Thy words are too precious to be cast away upon curs.
Throw some of them at me.
1599–1600 Celia to Rosalind. As You Like It, act 1, sc.3, 1.4–6.
- 31 Thou art thy father's daughter—there's enough.
1599–1600 Duke Frederick to Rosalind, explaining why he does not trust her. As You Like It, act 1, sc.3, 1.57.
- 32 What danger will it be to us,
Maids as we are, to travel forth so far!
Beauty provoketh thieves sooner than gold.
1599–1600 Rosalind to Celia. As You Like It, act 1, sc.3, 1.107–9.
- 33 Sweet are the uses of adversity
Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head.
1599–1600 Duke Senior. As You Like It, act 2, sc.1, 1.12–14.
- 34 And this our life, exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in everything.
1599–1600 Duke Senior. As You Like It, act 2, sc.1, 1.15–17.
- 35 Sweep on, you fat and greasy citizens.
1599–1600 First Lord, quoting Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.1, 1.55.
- 36 I love to cope him in these sullen fits,
For then he's full of matter.
1599–1600 Duke Senior, of Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.1, 1.67–8.
- 37 Unregarded age in corners thrown.
1599–1600 Adam. As You Like It, act 2, sc.3, 1.43.
- 38 He that doth the ravens feed,
Yea providently caters for the sparrow,
Be comfort to my age.
1599–1600 Adam to Orlando. As You Like It, act 2, sc.3, 1.44–6.
- 39 Though I look old, yet I am strong and lusty,
For in my youth I never did apply
Hot and rebellious liquors in my blood,
Nor did not with unbashful forehead woo
The means of weakness and debility.
Therefore my age is as a lusty winter.
1599–1600 Adam to Orlando. As You Like It, act 2, sc.3, 1.48–53.
- 40 Thou art not for the fashion of these times,
Where none will sweat but for promotion.
1599–1600 Orlando, of Adam. As You Like It, act 2, sc.3, 1.60–1.
- 41 I think you have no money in your purse.
1599–1600 Touchstone to Celia. As You Like It, act 2, sc.4, 1.12.
- 42 Now I am in Ardenne; the more fool I. When I was at home I was in a better place; but travellers must be content.
1599–1600 Touchstone. As You Like It, act 2, sc.4, 1.14–15.
- 43 Under the greenwood tree
Who loves to lie with me,
And turn his merry note
Unto the sweet bird's throat.
1599–1600 Amiens's song. As You Like It, act 2, sc.5, 1.1–4.
- 44 I can suck melancholy out of a song as a weasel sucks eggs.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.5, 1.11–12.
- 45 I'll go sleep if I can. If I cannot, I'll rail against all the firstborn of Egypt.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.5, 1.57–8.
- 46 A fool, a fool, I met a fool i'th' forest,
A motley fool—a miserable world!—
As I do live by food, I met a fool,
Who laid him down and basked him in the sun,
And railed on Lady Fortune in good terms,
In good set terms, and yet a motley fool.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.12–17.
- 47 'Thus we may see,' quoth he, 'how the world wags.
'Tis but an hour ago since it was nine,
And after one hour more 'twill be eleven.
And so from hour to hour we ripe and ripe,
And then from hour to hour we rot and rot;
And thereby hangs a tale.'
1599–1600 Jaques, quoting Touchstone. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.23–8.
- 48 All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances,
And one man in his time plays many parts.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.139–42.
- 49 The whining schoolboy with his satchel
And shining morning face.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.145–6.
- 50 Jealous in honour, sudden, and quick in quarrel,
Seeking the bubble reputation
Even in the cannon's mouth.
1599–1600 Jaques, of the soldier. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.151–3.
- 51 Second childishness and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.
1599–1600 Jaques, of old age. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.165–6.
- 52 Blow, blow, thou winter wind,
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude.
1599–1600 Amiens singing. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.175–7.
- 53 Most friendship is feigning, most loving, mere folly.
1599–1600 Amiens. As You Like It, act 2, sc.7, 1.182.
- 54 These trees shall be my books
And in their barks my thoughts I'll character.
1599–1600 Orlando. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.5–6.
- 55 Run, run, Orlando; carve on every tree
The fair, the chaste, and unexpressive she.
1599–1600 Orlando. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.9–10.
- 56 Hast any philosophy in thee, shepherd?
1599–1600 Touchstone to Corin. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.21–2.
- 57 I earn that I eat, get that I wear; owe no man hate, envy no man's happiness.
1599–1600 Corin. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.71–2.
- 58 This is the very false gallop of verses.
1599–1600 Touchstone, of Orlando's poem. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.111.
- 59 I was never so berhymed since Pythagoras' time that I was an Irish rat, which I can hardly remember.
1599–1600 Rosalind. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.172–4.
- 60 O wonderful, wonderful, and most wonderfulwonderful, and yet again wonderful, and after that out of all whooping!

- 1599–1600 Celia, on the arrival of Orlando. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.187–9.
- 61 Do you not know that I am a woman? When I think, I must speak.
1599–1600 Rosalind to Celia. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.244–5.
- 62 I do desire we may be better strangers.
1599–1600 Orlando to Jaques. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.253.
- 63 Time travels in divers paces with divers persons.
1599–1600 Rosalind. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.301–2.
- 64 Love is merely a madness, and, I tell you, deserves as well a dark house and a whip as madmen do.
1599–1600 Rosalind to Orlando. As You Like It, act 3, sc.2, 1.386–8.
- 65 I would the gods had made thee poetical.
1599–1600 Touchstone to Audrey. As You Like It, act 3, sc.3, 1.12–13.
- 66 The truest poetry is the most feigning.
1599–1600 Touchstone to Audrey. As You Like It, act 3, sc.3, 1.16–17.
- 67 Honesty coupled to beauty is to have honey a sauce to sugar.
1599–1600 Touchstone to Audrey. As You Like It, act 3, sc.3, 1.26–7.
- 68 His kissing is as full of sanctity as the touch of holy bread.
1599–1600 Rosalind. As You Like It, act 3, sc.4, 1.12–13.
- 69 Mistress, know yourself; down on your knees
And thank heaven, fasting, for a good man's love.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Phoebe. As You Like It, act 3, sc.5, 1.58–9.
- 70 I pray you do not fall in love with me,
For I am falser than vows made in wine.
Besides, I like you not.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Phoebe. As You Like It, act 3, sc.5, 1.73–5.
- 71 Dead shepherd, now I find thy saw of might:
'Who ever loved that loved not at first sight?'
1599–1600 Phoebe, in love with Rosalind (disguised as a young man). As You Like It, act 3, sc.5, 1.82–3.
- 72 It is a melancholy of mine own, compounded of many simples, extracted from many objects, and indeed the sundry contemplation of my travels.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.15–17.
- 73 A traveller! By my faith, you have great reason to be sad. I fear you have sold your own lands to see other men's.
1599–1600 Rosalind to Jaques. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.20–2.
- 74 I had rather have a fool to make me merry than experience to make me sad—and to travel for it too!
1599–1600 Rosalind to Jaques. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.25–7.
- 75 JAQUES: Nay then, God b'wi'you an you talk in blank verse.
ROSALIND: Farewell, Monsieur Traveller. Look you lisp, and wear strange suits; disable all the benefits of your own country; be out of love with your nativity, and almost chide God for making you that countenance you are, or I will scarce think you have swam in a gondola.
1599–1600 As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.29–36.
- 76 Come, woo me, woo me, for now I am in a holiday humour, and like enough to consent.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Orlando. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.64–5.
- 77 Men have died from time to time, and worms have eaten them, but not for love.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Orlando. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.99–101.
- 78 Can one desire too much of a good thing?
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Orlando. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.115–16.
- 79 Men are April when they woo, December when they wed. Maids are May when they are maids, but the sky changes when they are wives.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Orlando. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.139–41.
- 80 Make the doors upon a woman's wit, and it will out at the casement. Shut that, and 'twill out at the key-hole. Stop that, 'twill fly with the smoke out at the chimney.
1599–1600 Rosalind, in disguise, to Orlando. As You Like It, act 4, sc.1, 1.153–4.
- 81 'Tis no matter how it be in tune, so it make noise enough.
1599–1600 Jaques. As You Like It, act 4, sc.2, 1.8–9.
- 82 The horn, the horn, the lusty horn
Is not a thing to laugh to scorn.
1599–1600 Lords, singing. As You Like It, act 4, sc.2, 1.18–19.
- 83 I do now remember a saying: 'The fool doth think he is wise, but the wise man knows himself to be a fool.'
1599–1600 Touchstone to William. As You Like It, act 5, sc.1, 1.29–31.
- 84 To wit, I kill thee, make thee away, translate thy life into death, thy liberty into bondage. I will deal in poison with thee, or in bastinado, or in steel. I will bandy with thee in faction, I will o'errun thee with policy. I will kill thee a hundred and fifty ways. Therefore tremble, and depart.
1599–1600 Touchstone. As You Like It, act 5, sc.1, 1.51–6.
- 85 [They] no sooner looked but they loved; no sooner loved but they sighed; no sooner sighed but they asked one another the reason; no sooner knew the reason but they sought the remedy.
1599–1600 Rosalind, of Celia and Oliver. As You Like It, act 5, sc.2, 1.32–5.
- 86 How bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another man's eyes.
1599–1600 Orlando. As You Like It, act 5, sc.2, 1.41–2.
- 87 I can live no longer by thinking.
1599–1600 Orlando. As You Like It, act 5, sc.2, 1.48.
- 88 It was a lover and his lass,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey-nonny-no,
That o'er the green cornfield did pass
In spring-time, the only pretty ring-time,
When birds do sing, hey ding-a-ding ding,
Sweet lovers love the spring.
1599–1600 Pages' song. As You Like It, act 5, sc.3, 1.15–20.
- 89 A poor virgin, sir, an ill-favoured thing, sir, but mine own.
1599–1600 Touchstone, of Audrey. As You Like It, act 5, sc.4, 1.57–8.
- 90 I durst go no further than the Lie Circumstantial, nor he durst not give me the Lie Direct; and so we measured swords, and parted.
1599–1600 Touchstone. As You Like It, act 5, sc.4, 1.83–5.
- 91 O sir, we quarrel in print, by the book, as you have books for good manners. I will name you the degrees. The first, the Retort Courteous; the second, the Quip Modest; the third, the Reply Churlish; the fourth, the Reproof Valiant; the fifth, the Countercheck Quarrelsome; the sixth, the - Lie with Circumstance; the seventh, the Lie Direct.

1599–1600 Touchstone. As You Like It, act 5, sc.4, 1.88–94.
- 92 Your 'if' is the only peacemaker; much virtue in 'if'.
1599–1600 Touchstone. As You Like It, act 5, sc.4, 1.100–1.
- 93 He uses his folly like a stalking-horse, and under the presentation of that he shoots his wit.
1599–1600 Duke Senior, of Touchstone. As You Like It, act 5, sc.4, 1.104–5.
- 94 If it be true that good wine needs no bush,
'tis true that a good play needs no epilogue.
1599–1600 Rosalind. As You Like It, epilogue.
- 95 For this relief much thanks. 'Tis bitter cold,
And I am sick at heart.
1600–1 Francisco. Hamlet, act 1, sc.1, 1.6–7.
- 96 Thus twice before, and just at this dead hour,
With martial stalk hath he gone by our watch.
1600–1 Marcellus, of the ghost of Hamlet's father.
Hamlet, act 1, sc.1, 1.64–5.
- 97 And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons.
1600–1 Horatio, of the ghost. Hamlet, act 1, sc.1, 1.129–30.
- 98 The head is not more native to the heart,
The hand more instrumental to the mouth,
Than is the throne of Denmark to thy father.
1600–1 Claudius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.47–9.
- 99 A little more than kin and less than kind.
1600–1 Hamlet, of Claudius. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.65.
- 1 I am too much i' th' sun.
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.67.
- 2 Good Hamlet, cast thy nightly colour off,
And let thine eye look like a friend on Denmark.
Do not for ever with thy veiled lids
Seek for thy noble father in the dust.
1600–1 Gertrude. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.68–71.
- 3 Seems, madam? Nay, it is. I know not 'seems'.
1600–1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.76.
- 4 But I have that within which passeth show—
These but the trappings and the suits of woe.
1600–1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.85–6.
- 5 O that this too too solid flesh would melt,
Thaw, and resolve itself into a dew,
Or that the Everlasting had not fixed
His canon 'gainst self-slaughter!
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.129–32.
- 6 How weary, stale, flat, and unprofitable
Seem to me all the uses of this world!
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.133–4.
- 7 So loving to my mother
That he might not betwixt the winds of heaven
Visit her face too roughly!
1600–1 Hamlet, of his father. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.140–3.
- 8 Frailty, thy name is woman.
1600–1 Hamlet, of Gertrude. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.146.
- 9 We'll teach you to drink deep ere you depart.
1600–1 Hamlet to Horatio. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.174.
- 10 Thrift, thrift, Horatio. The funeral baked meats
Did coldly furnish forth the marriage tables.
1600–1 Hamlet to Horatio, on the reason for his mother's swift marriage to Claudius. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.179–80.
- 11 A was a man. Take him for all in all,
I shall not look upon his like again.
1600–1 Hamlet, of his father. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.186–7.
- 12 A countenance more
In sorrow than in anger.
1600–1 Horatio, of Hamlet's father's ghost. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.228–9.
- 13 I doubt some foul play. Would the night were come.
Till then, sit still, my soul. Foul deeds will rise,
Though all the earth o'erwhelm them, to men's eyes.
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.2, 1.255–7.
- 14 And keep within the rear of your affection,
Out of the shot and danger of desire.
1600–1 Laertes to Ophelia. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.34–5.
- 15 The chariest maid is prodigal enough
If she unmask her beauty to the moon.
1600–1 Laertes to Ophelia. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.36–7.
- 16 Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven,
Whilst, like a puffed and reckless libertine
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads.
1600–1 Ophelia to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.47–50.
- 17 The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.62–3.
- 18 Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel, but being in,
Bear't that th' opposèd may beware of thee.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.65–7.
- 19 Give every man thine ear but few thy voice.
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgement.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.68–9.
- 20 Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not expressed in fancy; rich not gaudy;
For the apparel oft proclaims the man.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.70–2.
- 21 Neither a borrower nor a lender be.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.75.
- 22 This above all—to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.
1600–1 Polonius to Laertes. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.78–80.
- 23 Ay, springs to catch woodcocks. I do know
When the blood burns how prodigal the soul
Lends the tongue vows.
1600–1 Polonius. Hamlet, act 1, sc.3, 1.115–7.
- 24 And to my mind, though I am native here
And to the manner born, it is a custom
More honoured in the breach than the observance.
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.4, 1.16–18.
- 25 Be thou a spirit of health or goblin damned,
Bring with thee airs from heaven or blasts from hell,
Be thy intents wicked or charitable,
Thou com'st in such a questionable shape
That I will speak to thee.
1600–1 Hamlet to the ghost. Hamlet, act 1, sc.4, 1.21–5.
- 26 I do not set my life at a pin's fee,
And for my soul, what can it do to that,
Being a thing immortal as itself?
1600–1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.4, 1.46–8.
- 27 Something is rotten in the state of Denmark.

- 1600-1 Marcellus. Hamlet, act 1, sc.4, 1.67.
- 28 I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes like stars start from their spheres,
Thy knotty and combinèd locks to part,
And each particular hair to stand on end
Like quills upon the fretful porcupine.
1600-1 Ghost to Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.15-20.
- 29 Murder most foul, as in the best it is,
But this most foul, strange, and unnatural.
1600-1 Ghost to Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.27-8.
- 30 O my prophetic soul! Mine uncle?
1600-1 Hamlet to the ghost. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.41.
- 31 [My] love was of that dignity
That it went hand-in-hand even with the vow
I made to her in marriage.
1600-1 Ghost, of Gertrude. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.48-50.
- 32 In the porches of mine ears.
1600-1 Ghost. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.63.
- 33 Let not the royal bed of Denmark be
A couch for luxury and damnèd incest.
1600-1 Ghost to Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.82-4.
- 34 O all you host of heaven! O earth! What else?
And shall I couple hell? O fie! Hold, hold, my heart,
And you, my sinews, grow not instant old,
But bear me stiffly up. Remember thee?
Ay, thou poor ghost, while memory holds a seat
In this distracted globe.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.92-7.
- 35 My tables—meet it is I set it down
That one may smile and smile and be a villain.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.108-9.
- 36 There's ne'er a villain dwelling in all Denmark
But he's an arrant knave.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.127-8.
- 37 Well said, old mole. Canst work i'th' earth so fast?
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.164.
- 38 There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in our philosophy.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.168-9.
- 39 The time is out of joint. O cursèd spite
That ever I was born to set it right!
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 1, sc.5, 1.189-90.
- 40 Lord Hamlet, with his doublet all unbraced,
No hat upon his head, his stockings fouled,
Ungartered, and down-gyvèd to his ankle.
1600-1 Ophelia. Hamlet, act 2, sc.1, 1.79-81.
- 41 This is the very ecstasy of love,
Whose violent property fordoes itself
And leads the will to desperate undertakings.
1600-1 Polonius, of Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.1, 1.103-5.
- 42 Brevity is the soul of wit.
1600-1 Polonius. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.91.
- 43 More matter with less art.
1600-1 Gertrude to Polonius, urging him to speak more plainly.
Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.96.
- 44 'To the celestial and my soul's idol, the most beautified Ophelia'—that's an ill phrase, a vile phrase, 'beautified' is a vile phrase.
1600-1 Polonius to Gertrude, quoting Hamlet's letter to Ophelia.
Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.110-12.
- 45 Doubt thou the stars are fire,
Doubt that the sun doth move,
Doubt truth to be a liar,
But never doubt I love.
1600-1 Polonius to Gertrude, quoting Hamlet's letter to Ophelia.
Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.116-19.
- 46 If circumstances lead me I will find
Where truth is hid, though it were hid indeed
Within the centre.
1600-1 Polonius, of Hamlet's madness. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.159-61.
- 47 To be honest, as this world goes, is to be one man picked out of ten thousand.
1600-1 Hamlet to Polonius. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.180-1.
- 48 POLONIUS: What do you read, my lord?
HAMLET: Words, words, words.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.193-5.
- 49 Though this be madness, yet there is method in't.
1600-1 Polonius (aside), of Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.207-8.
- 50 POLONIUS: My lord, I will take my leave of you.
HAMLET: You cannot, sir, take from me anything that I will more willingly part withal—except my life, my life, my life.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.215-19.
- 51 [We are] happy in that we are not over-happy,
On Fortune's cap we are not the very button.
1600-1 Guildenstern to Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.230-1.
- 52 HAMLET: What's the news?
ROSENCRANTZ: None, my lord, but that the world's grown honest.
HAMLET: Then is doomsday near.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.238-41.
- 53 There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.251-2.
- 54 I could be bounded in a nutshell and count myself a king of infinite space, were it not that I have bad dreams.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.256-8.
- 55 I hold ambition of so airy and light a quality that it is but a shadow's shadow.
1600-1 Rosencrantz. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.263-4.
- 56 I have of late—but wherefore I know not—lost all my mirth, forgone all custom of exercise; and indeed it goes so heavily with my disposition that this goodly frame, the earth, seems to me a sterile promontory. This most excellent canopy the air, look you, this brave o'erhanging, this majestical roof fretted with golden fire—why, it appears no other thing to me than a foul and pestilent congregation of vapours.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.296-304.
- 57 What a piece of work is a man! How noble in reason, how infinite in faculty, in form and moving how express and admirable, in action how like an angel, in apprehension how like a god—the beauty of the world, the paragon of animals! And yet to me what is this quintessence of dust?
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.305-10.
- 58 Man delights not me—no, nor woman neither.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.310-11.

- 59 If you delight not in man what lenten entertainment the players shall receive from you.
1600-1 Rosencrantz. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.317-19.
- 60 There is something in this more than natural, if philosophy could find it out.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.367-9.
- 61 I am but mad north-north-west; when the wind is southerly, I know a hawk from a handsaw.
1600-1 Hamlet to Guildenstern. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.380-1.
- 62 The best actors in the world, either for tragedy, comedy, history, pastoral, pastoral-comical, historical-pastoral, tragical-historical, tragical-comical-historical-pastoral, scene indivisible, or poem unlimited.
1600-1 Polonius. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.398-401.
- 63 Thy face is valanced since I saw thee last. Com'st thou to beard me in Denmark?
1600-1 Hamlet to one of the players. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.426-7.
- 64 The play, I remember, pleased not the million. 'Twas caviare to the general.
1600-1 Hamlet to one of the players. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.438-40.
- 65 Will you see the players well bestowed? Do ye hear? —let them be well used, for they are the abstracts and brief chronicles of the time.
1600-1 Hamlet to Polonius. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.524-7.
- 66 Use every man after his desert, and who should scape whipping?
1600-1 Hamlet to Polonius. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.532-3.
- 67 O, what a rogue and peasant slave am I!
Is it not monstrous that this player here,
But in a fiction, in a dream of passion,
Could force his soul so to his whole conceit
That from her working all his visage wanned,
Tears in his eyes, distraction in 's aspect,
A broken voice, and his whole function suiting
With forms to his conceit? And all for nothing.
For Hecuba!
What's Hecuba to him, or he to Hecuba,
That he should weep for her?
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.552-62.
- 68 But I am pigeon-livered and lack gall
To make oppression bitter
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.579-80.
- 69 Why, what an ass am I? Ay, sure, this is most brave,
That I, the son of the dear murdered,
Prompted to my revenge by heaven and hell,
Must, like a whore, unpack my heart with words.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.585-8.
- 70 Murder, though it have no tongue, will speak
With most miraculous organ.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.595-6.
- 71 The spirit I have seen
May be the devil, and the devil hath power
T'assume a pleasing shape.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.600-2.
- 72 The play's the thing
Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the King.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 2, sc.2, 1.606-7.
- 73 The harlot's cheek, beautied with plast'ring art,
Is not more ugly to the thing that helps it
Than is my deed to my most painted word.
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.53-5.
- 74 To be, or not to be; that is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And, by opposing, end them. To die, to sleep—
No more, and by a sleep to say we end
The heartache and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To die, to sleep.
To sleep, perchance to dream. Ay, there's the rub,
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil
Must give us pause. There's the respect
That makes calamity of so long life,
For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,
Th'oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,
The pangs of disprized love, the law's delay,
The insolence of office, and the spurns
That patient merit of th'unworthy takes,
When he himself might his quietus make
With a bare bodkin? Who would these fardels bear,
To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death,
The undiscovered country from whose bourn
No traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all,
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.58-90.
- 75 To the noble mind
Rich gifts wax poor when givers prove unkind.
1600-1 Ophelia to Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.102-4.
- 76 The power of beauty will sooner transform honesty from what it is to a bawd than the force of honesty can translate beauty into his likeness.
1600-1 Hamlet to Ophelia. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.113-15.
- 77 Get thee to a nunnery. Why wouldst thou be a breeder of sinners?
1600-1 Hamlet to Ophelia. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.123-4.
- 78 I am very proud, revengeful, ambitious, with more offences at my beck than I have thoughts to put them in, imagination to give them shape, or time to act them in.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.126-9.
- 79 What should such fellows as I do crawling between heaven and earth?
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.129-31.
- 80 Let the doors be shut upon him, that he may play the fool nowhere but in's own house.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Polonius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.134-5.
- 81 God has given you one face, and you make yourselves
another.
1600-1 Hamlet, of women. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.145-7.
- 82 I say we will have no more marriages; those that are married already—all but one—shall live. The rest shall

- keep as they are.
1600-1 Hamlet to Ophelia. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.150-2.
- 83 O what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!
1600-1 Ophelia, of Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.153.
- 84 Madness in great ones must not unwatched go.
1600-1 Claudius, of Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.1, 1.191.
- 85 Speak the speech, I pray you, as I pronounced it to you
—trippingly on the tongue; but if you mouth it, as many of your players do, I had as lief the town-crier had spoke my lines.
1600-1 Hamlet to the players. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.1-4.
- 86 Hold as 'twere the mirror up to nature, to show virtue her own feature, scorn her own image.
1600-1 Hamlet to the players. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.22-3.
- 87 Let those that play your clowns speak no more than is set down for them.
1600-1 Hamlet to the players. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.38-9.
- 88 A man that Fortune's buffets and rewards
Hath ta'en with equal thanks.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Horatio. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.65-6.
- 89 Give me that man
That is not passion's slave, and I will wear him
In my heart's core.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.69-71.
- 90 OPHELIA: 'Tis brief, my lord.
HAMLET: As woman's love.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.146-7.
- 91 Our wills and fates do so contrary run
That our devices still are overthrown.
1600-1 Player King. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.202-3.
- 92 The lady protests too much, methinks.
1600-1 Gertrude to Hamlet, of the Player Queen. Hamlet, act 3,
sc.2, 1.219.
- 93 No, no, they do but jest, poison in jest.
1600-1 Hamlet, of the play. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.224.
- 94 KING CLAUDIUS: What do you call the play?
HAMLET: The Mousetrap.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.225-6.
- 95 Let the galled jade wince, our withers are unwrung
1600-1 Hamlet, of the play. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.231.
- 96 'Sblood, do you think I am easier to be played on than a pipe?
1600-1 Hamlet to Guildenstern. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.357-8.
- 97 'Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yawn and hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.377-9.
- 98 I will speak daggers to her, but use none;
My tongue and soul in this be hypocrites.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.2, 1.385-6.
- 99 O, my offence is rank! It smells to heaven.
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.3, 1.36.
- 1 Try what repentance can. What can it not?
Yet what can it when one cannot repent?
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.3, 1.65-6.
- 2 O limèd soul that, struggling to be free,
Art more engaged! Help, angels! make assay.
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.3, 1.68-9.
- 3 My words fly up, my thoughts remain below.
- Words without thoughts never to heaven go.
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 3, sc.3, 1.97-8.
- 4 You shall not budge.
You go not till I set you up a glass
Where you may see the inmost part of you.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.18-20.
- 5 How now, a rat? Dead for a ducat, dead.
1600-1 Hamlet, hearing Polonius behind the arras. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.23.
- 6 A bloody deed—almost as bad, good-mother,
As kill a king and marry with his brother.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.27-8.
- 7 Thou wretched, rash, intruding fool, farewell.
I took thee for thy better.
1600-1 Hamlet to Polonius, whom Hamlet has just stabbed.
Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.29-31.
- 8 You cannot call it love, for at your age
The heyday in the blood is tame.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.67-8.
- 9 To flaming youth let virtue be as wax
And melt in her own fire.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.74-5.
- 10 Nay, but to live
In the rank sweat of an enseamèd bed,
Stewed in corruption, honeying and making love
Over the nasty sty.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.81-4.
- 11 Confess yourself to heaven;
Repent what's past, avoid what is to come.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.140-1.
- 12 In the fatness of these pury times
Virtue itself of vice must pardon beg.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.144-5.
- 13 Assume a virtue if you have it not.
1600-1 Hamlet to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 3, sc.4, 1.151.
- 14 I'll lug the guts into the neighbour room.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Polonius, whom he has killed. Hamlet, act 3,
sc.4, 1.186.
- 15 A man may fish with the worm that hath eat of a king, and eat of the fish that hath fed of that worm.
1600-1 Hamlet to Claudius. Hamlet, act 4, sc.3, 1.27-8.
- 16 He is dead and gone, lady,
He is dead and gone.
At his head a grass-green turf,
At his heels a stone.
1600-1 Ophelia, singing. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.29-32.
- 17 We know what we are, but know not what we may be.
1600-1 Ophelia. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.42-3.
- 18 Good night, ladies, good night, sweet ladies, good night, good night.
1600-1 Ophelia. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.71-2.
- 19 When sorrows come they come not single spies,
But in battalions.
1600-1 Claudius to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.76-7.
- 20 The people muddied,
Thick and unwholesome in their thoughts and whispers.
1600-1 Claudius to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.78-9.
- 21 There's such divinity doth hedge a king
That treason can but peep to what it would.
1600-1 Claudius to Gertrude. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, 1.122-3.

- 22 O, how the wheel becomes it!
1600-1 Ophelia. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, l.172.
- 23 There's rosemary, that's for remembrance. Pray, love, remember. And there is pansies; that's for thoughts.
1600-1 Ophelia. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, l.175-7.
- 24 Where th'offence is, let the great axe fall.
1600-1 Claudius. Hamlet, act 4, sc.5, l.216.
- 25 There is a willow grows aslant a brook
That shows his hoar leaves in the glassy stream.
Therewith fantastic garlands did she make
Of crow-flowers, nettles, daisies, and long purples,
That liberal shepherds give a grosser name,
But our cold maids do dead men's fingers call them.
1600-1 Gertrude, describing the scene of Ophelia's death. Hamlet, act 4, sc.7, l.138-42.
- 26 Her garments, heavy with their drink,
Pulled the poor wretch from her melodious lay
To muddy death.
1600-1 Gertrude, describing how Ophelia drowned. Hamlet, act 4, sc.7, l.153-5.
- 27 Too much of water hast thou, poor Ophelia,
And therefore I forbid my tears.
1600-1 Laertes. Hamlet, act 4, sc.7, l.158-9.
- 28 There is no ancient gentlemen but gardeners, ditchers,
and gravemakers; they hold up Adam's profession.
1600-1 First Clown. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.29-31.
- 29 This might be the pate of a politician which this ass o'er-offices, one that would circumvent God, might it not?
1600-1 Hamlet to Horatio. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.77-9.
- 30 HAMLET: Ay, marry, why was he [Hamlet] sent into England?
FIRST CLOWN: Why, because a was mad. A shall recover his wits there; or if a do not, 'tis no great matter there.
HAMLET: Why?
FIRST CLOWN: 'Twill not be seen in him there. There the men are as mad as he.
1600-1 Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.146-152.
- 31 Alas, poor Yorick. I knew him, Horatio—a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy. He hath borne me on his back a thousand times; and now, how abhorred my imagination is! My gorge rises at it.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Yorick's skull. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.180-4.
- 32 HAMLET: Dost thou think Alexander looked o' this fashion i'th' earth?
HORATIO: E'en so.
HAMLET: And smelt so? Pah!
1600-1 Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.193-6.
- 33 Imperial Caesar, dead and turned to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind away.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.208-9.
- 34 Hold off the earth a while,
Till I have caught her once more in mine arms.
1600-1 Laertes, of Ophelia, at her burial. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1,
l.245-6.
- 35 For though I am not splenative and rash,
Yet have I something in me dangerous,
Which let thy wiseness fear.
1600-1 Hamlet to Laertes. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.258-9.
- 36 Let Hercules himself do what he may,
The cat will mew, and dog will have his day.
1600-1 Hamlet to Laertes. Hamlet, act 5, sc.1, l.288-9.
- 37 There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them how we will.
1600-1 Hamlet to Horatio. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.10-11.
- 38 The bravery of his grief did put me
Into a tow'ring passion.
1600-1 Hamlet, of Laertes. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.80-1.
- 39 A hit, a very palpable hit.
1600-1 Osric. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.232.
- 40 I am more an antique Roman than a Dane.
1600-1 Horatio, intending to drink from the poisoned chalice. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.294-5.
- 41 Absent thee from felicity a while,
And in this harsh world draw thy breath in pain
To tell my story.
1600-1 Hamlet to Horatio. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.299-301.
- 42 O, I die, Horatio!
The potent poison quite o'ercrows my spirit.
1600-1 Hamlet. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.304-5.
- 43 The rest is silence.
1600-1 Hamlet's last words. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.310.
- 44 Good night, sweet prince,
And flights of angels sing thee to thy rest.
1600-1 Horatio. Hamlet, act 5, sc.2, l.312-13.
- 45 If music be the food of love, play on,
Give me excess of it that, surfeiting,
The appetite may sicken and so die.
That strain again, it had a dying fall.
O, it came o'er my ear like the sweet sound
That breathes upon a bank of violets,
Stealing and giving odour. Enough, no more,
'Tis not so sweet now as it was before.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.1, l.1-8.
- 46 O spirit of love, how quick and fresh art thou
That, notwithstanding thy capacity
Receiveth as the sea, naught enters there,
Of what validity and pitch so e'er,
But falls into abatement and low price
Even in a minute! So full of shapes is fancy
That it alone is high fantastical.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.1, l.9-15.
- 47 O, when mine eyes did see Olivia first
Methought she purged the air of pestilence;
That instant was I turned into a hart,
And my desires, like fell and cruel hounds,
E'er since pursue me.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.1, l.18-22.
- 48 He plays o'th' viol-de-gamboys, and speaks three or four languages word for word without book, and hath all the good gifts of nature.
1601 Sir Toby, of Sir Andrew. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.3, l.23-6.
- 49 He's a great quarreller, and but that he hath the gift of a coward to allay the gust he hath in quarrelling, 'tis thought among the prudent he would quickly have the gift of a grave.
1601 Maria, of Sir Andrew. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.3, l.28-31.
- 50 I'll drink to her as long as there is a passage in my throat and drink in Illyria.
1601 Sir Toby. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc.3, l.36-8.

- 51 I am a great eater of beef, and I believe that does harm to my wit.
1601 Sir Andrew. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 3, 1.83–4.
- 52 I have unclasped
To thee the book even of my secret soul.
1601 Orsino to Viola, disguised as Cesario. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 4, 1.13–14.
- 53 Many a good hanging prevents a bad marriage.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.18.
- 54 'Better a witty fool than a foolish wit.'
1601 Feste. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.32–3.
- 55 Virtue that transgresses is but patched with sin.
1601 Feste. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.44–5.
- 56 (He belches) A plague o' these pickle herring!
1601 Sir Toby. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.116–17.
- 57 I would be loath to cast away my speech, for besides that it is excellently well penned, I have taken great pains to con it.
1601 Viola, in disguise, to Olivia. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.165–7.
- 58 O sir, I will not be so hard-hearted. I will give out divers schedules of my beauty. It shall be inventoried and every particle and utensil labelled to my will, as item, two lips, indifferent red; item, two grey eyes, with lids to them; item, one neck, one chin, and so forth. Were you sent hither to praise me?
1601 Olivia to Viola (disguised as a young man). Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.233–8.
- 59 Make me a willow cabin at your gate
And call upon my soul within the house,
Write loyal cantons of contemnèd love,
And sing them loud even in the dead of night;
Halloo your name to the reverberate hills,
And make the babbling gossip of the air
Cry out 'Olivia!' O, you should not rest
Between the elements of air and earth
But you should pity me.
1601 Viola, describing how she would woo Olivia, were she in love with her. Twelfth Night, act 1, sc. 5, 1.258–65.
- 60 O mistress mine, where are you roaming?
O stay and hear, your true love's coming,
That can sing both high and low.
Trip no further, pretty sweeting.
Journeys end in lovers meeting,
Every wise man's son doth know.
1601 Feste's song. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 3, 1.38–43.
- 61 What is love? 'Tis not hereafter,
Present mirth hath present laughter.
What's to come is still unsure.
In delay there lies no plenty,
Then come kiss me, sweet and twenty.
Youth's a stuff will not endure.
1601 Feste's song. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 3, 1.46–51.
- 62 Is there no respect of place, persons, nor time in you?
1601 Malvolio to Feste, Sir Andrew and Sir Toby. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 3, 1.88–9.
- 63 Dost thou think because thou art virtuous there shall be no more cakes and ale?
1601 Sir Toby to Feste. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 3, 1.110–11.
- 64 Let still the woman take
An elder than herself. So wears she to him;
So sways she level in her husband's heart.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.28–30.
- 65 Then let thy love be younger than thyself,
Or thy affection cannot hold the bent;
For women are as roses, whose fair flower
Being once displayed, doth fall that very hour.
1601 Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.35–8.
- 66 Now the melancholy god protect thee, and the tailor make thy doublet of changeable taffeta, for thy mind is a very opal.
1601 Feste to Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.72–4.
- 67 My father had a daughter loved a man
As it might be, perhaps, were I a woman
I should your lordship.
1601 Viola, in disguise, to Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.107–9.
- 68 She never told her love,
But let concealment, like a worm i' th' bud,
Feed on her damask cheek.
1601 Viola, in disguise, to Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.110–12.
- 69 With a green and yellow melancholy
She sat like patience on a monument,
Smiling at grief.
1601 Viola, in disguise, to Orsino. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 4, 1.113–15.
- 70 By my life, this is my lady's hand. These be her very c's, her u's, and her t's, and thus makes she her great P's. It is in contempt of question her hand.
1601 Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 5, 1.84–7.
- 71 Be not afraid of greatness. Some are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon 'em.
1601 Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 5, 1.139–41.
- 72 He will come to her in yellow stockings, and 'tis a colour she abhors, and cross-gartered, a fashion she detests.
1601 Maria, of Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 2, sc. 5, 1.192–4.
- 73 Fools are as like husbands as pilchards are to herrings—the husband's the bigger.
1601 Feste to Viola. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.32–4.
- 74 Now Jove in his next commodity of hair send thee a beard.
1601 Feste to Viola. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.43–4.
- 75 Most excellent accomplished lady, the heavens rain
odours on you.
1601 Viola to Olivia. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.83–4.
- 76 O world, how apt the poor are to be proud!
1601 Olivia. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.126.
- 77 Then westward ho!
1601 Viola. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.133.
- 78 O, what a deal of scorn looks beautiful
In the contempt and anger of his lip!
1601 Olivia, of Viola (as Cesario). Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.143–4.
- 79 Love sought is good, but given unsought, is better.
1601 Olivia. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 1, 1.154.
- 80 You are now sailed into the north of my lady's opinion, where you will hang like an icicle on a Dutchman's beard unless you do redeem it by some laudable attempt either of valour or policy.
1601 Fabian, of Sir Toby. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc. 2, 1.24–8.

- 81 There is no love-broker in the world can more prevail in man's commendation with woman than report of valour.
1601 SirToby to SirAndrew. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.2, 1.34–6.
- 82 For Andrew, if he were opened and you find so much blood in his liver as will clog the foot of a flea, I'll eat the rest of th'anatomy.
1601 SirToby. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.2, 1.58–60.
- 83 Why, this is very midsummer madness.
1601 Olivia, of Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.54.
- 84 If this were played upon a stage now, I could condemn it as an improbable fiction.
1601 Fabian. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.125–6.
- 85 Still you keep o' th' windy side of the law.
1601 Fabian. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.162.
- 86 A terrible oath, with a swaggering accent sharply twanged off, gives manhood more approbation than ever proof itself would have earned him.
1601 SirToby to SirAndrew. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.176–8.
- 87 I am sure no man hath any quarrel to me. My remembrance is very free and clear from any image of offence done to any man.
1601 Viola (as Cesario) to SirToby. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.221–3.
- 88 In nature there's no blemish but the mind. None can be called deformed but the unkind.
1601 Antonio. Twelfth Night, act 3, sc.4, 1.359–60.
- 89 There is no darkness but ignorance.
1601 Feste to Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 4, sc.2, 1.43–4.
- 90 Thus the whirligig of time brings in his revenges.
1601 Feste. Twelfth Night, act 5, sc.1, 1.373.
- 91 I'll be revenged on the whole pack of you.
1601 Malvolio. Twelfth Night, act 5, sc.1, 1.374.
- 92 When that I was and a little tiny boy,
With hey, ho, the wind and the rain,
A foolish thing was but a toy,
For the rain it raineth every day.
1601 Feste. Twelfth Night, act 5, sc.1, 1.385–8.
- 93 Then everything includes itself in power,
Power into will, will into appetite;
And appetite, an universal wolf.
1602 Ulysses. Troilus and Cressida, act 1, sc.3, 1.119–21.
- 94 The general's disdain'd
By him one step below; he, by the next;
That next, by him beneath. So every step,
Exempl'd by the first pace that is sick
Of his superior, grows to an envious fever
Of pale and bloodless emulation.
1602 Ulysses. Troilus and Cressida, act 1, sc.3, 1.129–134.
- 95 The nature of the sickness found, Ulysses,
What is the remedy?
1602 Agamemnon. Troilus and Cressida, act 1, sc.3, 1.140–1.
- 96 In such indices, although small pricks
To their subsequent volumes, there is seen
The baby figure of the giant mass
Of things to come at large.
1602 Nestor. Troilus and Cressida, act 1, sc.3, 1.337–40.
- 97 The common curse of mankind, folly and ignorance, be thine.
1602 Thersites. Troilus and Cressida, act 2, sc.3, 1.26–7.
- 98 He that is proud eats up himself. Pride is his own glass, his own trumpet, his own chronicle.
1602 Agamemnon. Troilus and Cressida, act 2, sc.3, 1.153–5.
- 99 To make a sweet lady sad is a sour offence.
1602 Helen to Pandarus. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.1, 1.71.
- 1 I am giddy. Expectation whirls me round.
Th'imaginary relish is so sweet
That it enchants my sense.
1602 Troilus, on the prospect of an assignation with Cressida. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.2, 1.16–18.
- 2 Words pay no debts.
1602 Pandarus to Troilus. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.2, 1.54.
- 3 This is the monstrosity in love, lady—that the will is infinite and the execution confined; that the desire is boundless and the act a slave to limit.
1602 Troilus to Cressida. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.2, 1.77–80.
- 4 Some men creep in skittish Fortune's hall
Whiles others play the idiots in her eyes.
1602 Ulysses. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.3, 1.129–30.
- 5 Time hath, my lord,
A wallet at his back, wherein he puts Alms for oblivion.
1602 Ulysses to Achilles. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.3, 1.139–41.
- 6 Perseverance, dear my lord,
Keeps honour bright. To have done is to hang Quite out of fashion, like a rusty mail
In monumental mock'ry.
1602 Ulysses. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.3, 1.144–7.
- 7 One touch of nature makes the whole world kin.
1602 Ulysses to Achilles. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.3, 1.169.
- 8 I see my reputation is at stake.
My fame is shrewdly gored.
1602 Achilles. Troilus and Cressida, act 3, sc.3, 1.220–1.
- 9 The busy day,
Waked by the lark, hath roused the ribald crows,
And dreaming night will hide our joys no longer.
1602 Troilus to Cressida. Troilus and Cressida, act 4, sc.2, 1.10–11.
- 10 The kiss you take is better than you give.
1602 Cressida to Menelaus. Troilus and Cressida, act 4, sc.6, 1.39.
- 11 With too much blood and too little brain these two may run mad.
1602 Thersites, of Achilles and Patroclus. Troilus and Cressida, act 5, sc.1, 1.45–7.
- 12 Lechery, lechery, still wars and lechery! Nothing else holds fashion.
1602 Thersites. Troilus and Cressida, act 5, sc.2, 1.197–8.
- 13 Words, words, mere words, no matter from the heart.
1602 Troilus, on his letter from Cressida. Troilus and Cressida, act 5, sc.3, 1.111.
- 14 Scare Troy out of itself. But march away.
1602 Troilus. Troilus and Cressida, act 5, sc.11, 1.21.
- 15 Heaven doth with us as we with torches do,
Not light them for themselves.
1603 Duke. Measure for Measure, act 1, sc.1, 1.32–3.
- 16 I had as lief have the foppery of freedom as the morality of imprisonment.
1603 Lucio to Claudio. Measure for Measure, act 1, sc.2, 1.125–6.
- 17 Our doubts are traitors,
And makes us lose the good we oft might win,
By fearing to attempt.

- 1603 Lucio to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 1, sc.4, 1.77–9.
- 18 We must not make a scarecrow of the law,
Setting it up to fear the birds of prey,
And let it keep one shape till custom make it
Their perch, and not their terror.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.1, 1.1–4.
- 19 'Tis one thing to be tempted, Escalus,
Another thing to fall.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.1, 1.17–18.
- 20 I not deny
The jury passing on the prisoner's life
May in the sworn twelve have a thief or two Guiltier than him they try.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.1, 1.18–21.
- 21 The jewel that we find, we stoop and take't Because we see it, but what we do not see
We tread upon.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.1, 1.24–26.
- 22 Some rise by sin, and some by virtue fall.
1603 Escalus. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.1, 1.38.
- 23 The law hath not been dead, though it hath slept.
1603 Angelo to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.92.
- 24 ISABELLA: Yet show some pity,
ANGELO: I show it most of all when I show justice,
For then I pity those I do not know.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.101–3.
- 25 O, it is excellent
To have a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous
To use it like a giant.
1603 Isabella to Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.109–11.
- 26 But man, proud man,
Dressed in a little brief authority,
Most ignorant of what he's most assured,
His glassy essence, like an angry ape
Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven
As makes the angels weep.
1603 Isabella to Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.120–5.
- 27 Great men may jest with saints; 'tis wit in them,
But in the less, foul profanation.
1603 Isabella to Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.130–1.
- 28 Thieves for their robbery have authority,
When judges steal themselves.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.181–2.
- 29 When men were fond, I smiled, and wondered how.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.2, 1.191–2.
- 30 When I would pray and think, I think and pray
To several subjects; heaven hath my empty words,
Whilst my invention, hearing not my tongue,
Anchors on Isabel.
1603 Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 2, sc.4, 1.1–4.
- 31 The miserable have no other medicine
But only hope.
1603 Claudio to the Duke. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.2–3.
- 32 Reason thus with life
If I do lose thee, I do lose a thing
That none but fools would keep.
1603 Duke to Claudio. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.6–8.
- 33 If thou art rich, thou'rt poor,
For like an ass whose back with ingots bows,
Thou bear'st thy heavy riches but a journey,
And death unloads thee.
1603 Duke to Claudio. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.25–8.
- 34 The sense of death is most in apprehension,
And the poor beetle that we tread upon
In corporal sufferance finds a pang as great
As when a giant dies.
1603 Isabella to Claudio. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.76–9.
- 35 If I must die,
I will encounter darkness as a bride,
And hug it in mine arms.
1603 Claudio to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.81–3.
- 36 Sure it is no sin,
Or of the deadly seven it is the least.
1603 Claudio to Isabella, of fornication. Measure for Measure,
act 3, sc.1, 1.109–10.
- 37 Ay, but to die, and go we know not where;
To lie in cold obstruction, and to rot.
1603 Claudio. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.118–19.
- 38 The weariest and most loathèd worldly life
That age, ache, penury, and imprisonment
Can lay on nature is a paradise
To what we fear of death.
1603 Claudio to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.129–32.
- 39 Virtue is bold, and goodness never fearful.
1603 Duke to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 3, sc.1, 1.210.
- 40 Take, O take thy lips away
That so sweetly were forsworn.
1603 Boy, singing. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.1, 1.1–2.
- 41 Music oft hath such a charm
To make bad good, and good provoke to harm.
1603 Duke. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.1, 1.14–15.
- 42 You weigh equally; a feather will turn the scale.
1603 Provost to Abhorson. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.2, 1.28–29.
- 43 Every true man's apparel fits your thief.
1603 Abhorson. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.2, 1.41.
- 44 Drunk many times a day, if not many days entirely drunk.
1603 Provost, of Barnardine. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.2, 1.151–2.
- 45 Death's a great disguiser.
1603 Duke to Provost. Measure for Measure, act 4, sc.2, 1.175.
- 46 If she be mad, as I believe no other,
Her madness hath the oddest frame of sense.
1603 Duke to Isabella. Measure for Measure, act 5, sc.1, 1.60–1.
- 47 Haste still pays haste, and leisure answers leisure;
Like doth quit like, and measure still for measure.
1603 Duke. Measure for Measure, act 5, sc.1, 407–8.
- 48 They say best men are moulded out of faults,
And, for the most, become much more the better
For being a little bad. So may my husband.
1603 Mariana, of Angelo. Measure for Measure, act 5, sc.1, 1.436–8.
- 49 In following him I follow myself.
1603–4 Iago, of Othello. Othello, act 1, sc.1, 1.58.
- 50 For when my outward action doth demonstrate
The native act and figure of my heart
In compliment extern, 'tis not long after
But I will wear my heart upon my sleeve

- For daws to peck at. I am not what I am.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 1, sc.1, 1.60-5.
- 51 Though he in a fertile climate dwell,
 Plague him with flies.
1603-4 Iago, of Brabantio. Othello, act 1, sc.1, 1.70-1.
- 52 Even now, now, very now, an old black ram
 Is tuppung your white ewe.
1603-4 Iago to Brabantio. Othello, act 1, sc.1, 1.88-89.
- 53 I am one, sir, that comes to tell you your daughter and the Moor are now making the beast with the two backs.
1603-4 Iago to Brabantio. Othello, act 1, sc.1, 1.117-9.
- 54 Though in the trade of war I have slain men,
 Yet do I hold it very stuff o'th' conscience
 To do no contrived murder. I lack iniquity,
 Sometime, to do me service. Nine or ten times
 I had thought to've yerked him here, under the ribs.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 1, sc.2, 1.1-5.
- 55 But that I love the gentle Desdemona
 I would not my unhusèd free condition
 Put into circumscription and confine
 For the seas' worth.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 1, sc.2, 1.25-8.
- 56 Whether a maid so tender, fair, and happy,
 So opposite to marriage that she shunned
 The wealthy curlèd darlings of our nation,
 Would ever have, t'incur a general mock,
 Run from her guardage to the sooty bosom
 Of such a thing as thou.
1603-4 Brabantio to Othello. Othello, act 1, sc.2, 1.67-72.
- 57 My particular grief
 Is of so floodgate and o'erbearing nature
 That it engults and swallows other sorrows,
 And it is still itself.
1603-4 Brabantio, learning of Desdemona's marriage. Othello,
 act 1, sc.3, 1.55-8.
- 58 For nature so preposterously to err,
 Being not deficient, blind, or lame of sense,
 Sans witchcraft could not.
1603-4 Brabantio, of Desdemona's marriage. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.62-4.
- 59 Rude am I in my speech,
 And little blessed with the soft phrase of peace.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.81-2.
- 60 A maiden never bold,
 Of spirit so still and quiet that her motion
 Blushed at herself—and she in spite of nature,
 Of years, of country, credit, everything,
 To fall in love with what she feared to look on!
 It is a judgement maimed and most imperfect
 That will confess perfection so could err
 Against all rules of nature.
1603-4 Brabantio of Desdemona. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.94-100.
- 61 The Anthropophagi, and men whose heads
 Do grow beneath their shoulders.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.143-4.
- 62 She gave me for my pains a world of kisses.
 She swore in faith 'twas strange, 'twas passing strange,
 'Twas pitiful, 'twas wonderous pitiful.
 She wished she had not heard it, yet she wished
 That heaven had made her such a man.
1603-4 Othello, of his courtship of Desdemona. Othello, act 1,
 sc.3, 1.158-162.
- 63 She loved me for the dangers I had passed,
 And I loved her that she did pity them.
1603-4 Othello, of Desdemona. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.166-7.
- 64 My noble father,
 I do perceive here a divided duty.
1603-4 Desdemona. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.179-80.
- 65 For your sake, jewel,
 I am glad at soul I have no other child,
 For thy escape would teach me tyranny,
 To hang clogs on 'em.
1603-4 Brabantio to Desdemona. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.194-7.
- 66 When remedies are past, the griefs are ended
 By seeing the worst which late on hopes depended.
 To mourn a mischief that is past and gone
 Is the next way to draw new mischief on.
1603-4 Duke to Brabantio. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.201-4.
- 67 The robbed that smiles steals something from the thief;
 He robs himself that spends a bootless grief.
1603-4 Duke. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.207-8.
- 68 But words are words. I never yet did hear
 That the bruised heart was piercèd through the ear.
1603-4 Brabantio. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.217-8.
- 69 I never found man that knew how to love himself. Ere I would say I would drown myself for the love of a guinea-hen, I would change my humanity with a baboon.
1603-4 Iago to Roderigo. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.313-6.
- 70 Virtue? A fig! 'Tis in ourselves that we are thus or thus.
 Our bodies are our gardens, to the which our wills are gardeners.
1603-4 Iago to Roderigo. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.319-21.
- 71 Make all the money thou canst. If sanctimony and a frail vow betwixt an erring barbarian and a super-subtle Venetian be not too hard for my wits and all the tribes of hell, thou shalt enjoy her.
1603-4 Iago to Roderigo. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.352-6.
- 72 The Moor is of a free and open nature,
 That thinks men honest that but seem to be so,
 And will as tenderly be led by th' nose
 As asses are.
 I ha't. It is ingendered. Hell and night
 Must bring this monstrous birth to the world's light.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 1, sc.3, 1.391-6.
- 73 You are pictures out of doors,
 Bells in your parlours; wildcats in your kitchens,
 Saints in your injuries; devils being offended,
 Players in your housewifery, and hussies in your beds.
1603-4 Iago of women. Othello, act 2, sc.1, 1.112-15.
- 74 With as little web as this will I ensnare as great a fly as Cassio.
1603-4 Iago (aside). Othello, act 2, sc.1, 1.171-2.
- 75 If it were now to die
 'Twere now to be most happy, for I fear
 My soul hath her content so absolute
 That not another comfort like to this
 Succeeds in unknown fate.
1603-4 Othello to Desdemona. Othello, act 2, sc.1, 1.190-4.
- 76 The heavens forbid
 But that our loves and comforts should increase

- Even as our days do grow.
1603-4 Desdemona to Othello. Othello, act 2, sc.1, 1.194-6.
- 77 [I'll] make the Moor thank me, love me, and reward me
 For making him egregiously an ass.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 2, sc.1, 1.307-8.
- 78 Reputation, reputation, reputation! O—I ha' lost my reputation, I ha' lost the immortal part of myself, and what remains is bestial.
1603-4 Cassio to Iago. Othello, act 2, sc.3, 1.256-8.
- 79 Reputation is an idle and most false imposition, oft got without merit and lost without deserving.
1603-4 Iago to Cassio. Othello, act 2, sc.3, 1.262-4.
- 80 O God, that men should put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains!
1603-4 Cassio, of wine. Othello, act 2, sc.3, 1.283-5.
- 81 So will I turn her virtue into pitch,
 And out of her own goodness make the net
 That shall enmesh them all.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 2, sc.3, 1.351-3.
- 82 How poor are they that ha' not patience!
 What wound did ever heal but by degrees?
1603-4 Iago to Roderigo. Othello, act 2, sc.3, 1.360-1.
- 83 Excellent wretch! Perdition catch my soul
 But I do love thee, and when I love thee not,
 Chaos is come again.
1603-4 Othello, of Desdemona. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.91-3.
- 84 I know thou'rt full of love and honesty,
 And weigh'st thy words before thou giv'st them breath.
1603-4 Othello to Iago. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.123-4.
- 85 Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,
 Is the immediate jewel of their souls.
 Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something,
 nothing;
 'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands.
 But he that filches from me my good name
 Robs me of that which not enriches him
 And makes me poor indeed.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.160-6.
- 86 O, beware, my lord, of jealousy,
 It is the green-eyed monster which doth mock
 The meat it feeds on.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.169-71.
- 87 Poor and content is rich, and rich enough,
 But riches fineless is as poor as winter
 To him that ever fears he shall be poor.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.176-8.
- 88 I humbly do beseech you of your pardon
 For too much loving you.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.216-7.
- 89 If I do prove her haggard,
 Though that her jesses were my dear heart-strings
 I'd whistle her off and let her down the wind
 To prey at fortune.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.264-7.
- 90 If she be false, O then heaven mocks itself!
 I'll not believe't.
1603-4 Othello, of Desdemona. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.282-3.
- 91 Trifles light as air
 Are to the jealous confirmations strong
 As proofs of holy writ.
1603-4 Iago. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.326-8.
- 92 Not poppy nor mandragora
 Nor all the drowsy syrups of the world
 Shall ever medicine thee to that sweet sleep
 Which thou owedst yesterday.
1603-4 Iago, of Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.334-7.
- 93 He that is robbed, not wanting what is stol'n,
 Let him not know't and he's not robbed at all.
1603-4 Othello to Iago. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.347-8.
- 94 I had been happy if the general camp,
 Pioneers and all, had tasted her sweet body,
 So I had nothing known. O, now for ever
 Farewell the tranquil mind, farewell content,
 Farewell the plumed troops and the big wars
 That makes ambition virtue! O, farewell,
 Farewell the neighing steed and the shrill trump,
 The spirit-stirring drum, th'ear-piercing fife,
 The royal banner, and all quality,
 Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war!
 And O, you mortal engines whose rude throats
 Th'immortal Jove's dread clamours counterfeit,
 Farewell! Othello's occupation's gone.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.350-62.
- 95 But this denoted a foregone conclusion.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.433.
- 96 My bloody thoughts with violent pace
 Shall ne'er look back, ne'er ebb to humble love,
 Till that a capable and wide revenge
 Swallow them up.
1603-4 Othello to Iago. Othello, act 3, sc.3, 1.460-3.
- 97 Jealous souls will not be answered so.
 They are not ever jealous for the cause,
 But jealous for they're jealous. It is a monster
 Begot upon itself, born on itself.
1603-4 Emilia to Desdemona. Othello, act 3, sc.4, 1.156-9.
- 98 But yet the pity of it, Iago. O, Iago, the pity of it, Iago!
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 4, sc.1, 1.191-2.
- 99 Do it not with poison. Strangle her in her bed.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 4, sc.1, 1.202-3.
- 1 Is this the noble Moor whom our full senate
 Call all-in-all sufficient? Is this the nature
 Whom passion could not shake, whose solid virtue
 The shot of accident nor dart of chance
 Could neither graze nor pierce?
1603-4 Lodovico. Othello, act 4, sc.1, 1.266-70.
- 2 O thou weed,
 Who art so lovely fair, and smell'st so sweet,
 That the sense aches at thee—would thou hadst ne'er been born!
1603-4 Othello, of Desdemona. Othello, act 4, sc.2, 1.69-72.
- 3 I cry you mercy then.
 I took you for that cunning whore of Venice
 That married with Othello.
1603-4 Othello to Desdemona. Othello, act 4, sc.2, 1.93-4.
- 4 I will be hanged, if some eternal villain,
 Some busy and insinuating rogue,
 Some cogging, cozening slave, to get some office,
 Have not devised this slander.
1603-4 Emilia. Othello, act 4, sc.2, 1.134-7.

- 5 Mine eyes do itch. Doth that bode weeping?
1603-4 Desdemona to Emilia. Othello, act 4, sc.3, 1.56-7.
- 6 Let husbands know
 Their wives have sense like them. They see, and smell,
 And have their palates both for sweet and sour,
 As husbands have.
1603-4 Emilia to Desdemona. Othello, act 4, sc.3, 1.92-5.
- 7 It is the cause, it is the cause, my soul.
 Let me not name it to you, you chaste stars.
 It is the cause. Yet I'll not shed her blood,
 Nor scar that whiter skin of hers than snow,
 And smooth as monumental alabaster.
 Yet she must die, else she'll betray more men.
 Put out the light, and then put out the light.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.1-7.
- 8 When I have plucked thy rose
 I cannot give it vital growth again.
 It needs must wither. I'll smell thee on the tree.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.13-15.
- 9 Had all his hairs been lives, my great revenge
 Had stomach for 'em all.
1603-4 Othello, of Cassio. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.81-2.
- 10 Kill me tomorrow; let me live tonight.
1603-4 Desdemona to Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.87.
- 11 It is the very error of the moon,
 She comes more nearer earth than she was wont,
 And makes men mad.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.118-20.
- 12 Not Cassio killed? Then murder's out of tune,
 And sweet revenge grows harsh.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.124-5.
- 13 She's like a liar gone to burning hell.
 'Twas I that killed her.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.138-9.
- 14 May his pernicious soul
 Rot half a grain a day.
1603-4 Emilia, of Iago. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.162-3.
- 15 Thou hast not half that power to do me harm
 As I have to be hurt. O gull, O dolt,
 As ignorant as dirt!
1603-4 Emilia to Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.169-71.
- 16 Here is my journey's end, here is my butt
 And very sea-mark of my utmost sail.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.274-5.
- 17 O ill-starred wench,
 Pale as thy smock! When we shall meet at count
 This look of thine will hurl my soul from heaven,
 And fiends will snatch at it.
1603-4 Othello, of Desdemona. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.279-2.
- 18 Demand me nothing. What you know, you know.
 From this time forth I never will speak word.
1603-4 Iago to Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.309-10.
- 19 I pray you, in your letters,
 When you shall these unlucky deeds relate,
 Speak of me as I am. Nothing extenuate,
 Nor set down aught in malice. Then must you speak
 Of one that loved not wisely but too well,
 Of one not easily jealous but, being wrought,
 Perplexed in the extreme; of one whose hand,
 Like the base Indian, threw a pearl away
 Richer than all his tribe; of one whose subdued eyes,
 Albeit unused to the melting mood,
 Drops tears as fast as the Arabian trees
 Their medicinable gum. Set you down this,
 And say besides that in Aleppo once,
 Where a malignant and a turbaned Turk
 Beat a Venetian and traduced the state,
 I took by th' throat the circumcised dog
 And smote him thus.
1603-4 Othello's speech as he stabs himself. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.349-65.
- 20 I kiss thee ere I killed thee. No way but this:
 Killing myself, to die upon a kiss.
1603-4 Othello. Othello, act 5, sc.2, 1.368-9.
- 21 Be checked for silence,
 But never taxed for speech.
1604-5 Countess to Bertram. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.64-5.
- 22 'Twere all one
 That I should love a bright particular star
 And think to wed it, he is so above me.
1604-5 Helen, of Bertram. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.84-6.
- 23 The hind that would be mated by the lion
 Must die for love.
1604-5 Helen, of Bertram. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.90-1.
- 24 Virginity is peevish, proud, idle, made of self-love —which is the most inhibited sin in the canon. Keep it not.
1604-5 Paroles to Helen. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.141-3.
- 25 Get thee a good husband, and use him as he uses thee.
1604-5 Paroles to Helen. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.209-10.
- 26 Our remedies oft in ourselves do lie
 Which we ascribe to heaven.
1604-5 Helen. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.1, 1.212.
- 27 Though honesty be no puritan, yet it will do no hurt.
1604-5 Lavatch. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.3, 1.91-2.
- 28 He and his physicians
 Are of a mind: he, that they cannot help him;
 They, that they cannot help.
1604-5 Countess, of the King. All's Well That Ends Well, act 1, sc.3, 1.235-7.
- 29 They say miracles are past, and we have our philosophical persons to make modern and familiar things supernatural and causeless. Hence it is that we make trifles of terrors, ensconcing ourselves into seeming knowledge when we should submit ourselves to an unknown fear.
1604-5 Lafeu. All's Well That Ends Well, act 2, sc.3, 1.1-6.
- 30 Why, these balls bound, there's noise in it. 'Tis hard:
 A young man married is a man that's marred.
1604-5 Paroles. All's Well That Ends Well, act 2, sc.3, 1.294-5.
- 31 The soul of this man is his clothes.
1604-5 Lafeu. All's Well That Ends Well, act 2, sc.5, 1.43.
- 32 No legacy is so rich as honesty.
1604-5 Mariana to Diana. All's Well That Ends Well, act 3, sc.5, 1.12-13.
- 33 'Tis not the many oaths that make the truth,

- But the plain single vow that is vowèd true.
1604–5 Diana. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.2, 1.22–3.
- 34 My chastity's the jewel of our house,
 Bequeathèd down from many ancestors,
 Which were the greatest obloquy i' th' world
 In me to lose.
1604–5 Diana. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.2, 1.47–50.
- 35 A heaven on earth I have won by wooing thee.
1604–5 Bertram to Diana. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.2, 1.67.
- 36 The web of our life is of mingled yarn, good and ill together.
1604–5 First Lord Dumaine. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.3, 1.74–5.
- 37 Drunkenness is his best virtue, for he will be swine-drunk, and in his sleep he does little harm, save to his bedclothes.
1604–5 Paroles, of the Duke. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.3, 1.257–9.
- 38 'Twas a good lady, 'twas a good lady. We may pick a thousand salads ere we light on such another herb.
1604–5 Lafeu, of Helen. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.5, 1.13–15.
- 39 I am for the house with the narrow gate, which I take to be too little for pomp to enter. Some that humble themselves may, but the many will be too chill and tender, and they'll be for the flow'ry way that leads to the broad gate and the great fire.
1604–5 Lavatch to Lafeu. All's Well That Ends Well, act 4, sc.5, 1.50–5.
- 40 Praising what is lost
 Makes the remembrance dear.
1604–5 King. All's Well That Ends Well, act 5, sc.3, 1.19–20.
- 41 Th'inaudible and noiseless foot of time.
1604–5 King. All's Well That Ends Well, act 5, sc.3, 1.42.
- 42 I wonder men dare trust themselves with men.
1605 Apemantus. Timon of Athens, act 1, sc.2, 1.42.
- 43 Grant I may never prove so fond
 To trust man on his oath or bond.
1605 Apemantus' grace. Timon of Athens, act 1, sc.2, 1.63–4.
- 44 Men shut their doors against a setting sun.
1605 Apemantus. Timon of Athens, act 1, sc.2, 1.141.
- 45 Every man has his fault, and honesty is his.
1605 Lucullus, of Timon. Timon of Athens, act 3, sc.1, 1.27–8.
- 46 Men must learn now with pity to dispense,
 For policy sits above conscience.
1605 First Stranger. Timon of Athens, act 3, sc.2, 1.87–8.
- 47 Nothing emboldens sin so much as mercy.
1605 First Senator. Timon of Athens, act 3, sc.6, 1.3.
- 48 This yellow slave
 Will knit and break religions, bless th' accursed.
1605 Timon, of gold. Timon of Athens, act 4, sc.3, 1.34–5.
- 49 Thanks I must you con
 That you are thieves professed, that you work not
 In holier shapes; for there is boundless theft
 In limited professions.
1605 Timon to thieves. Timon of Athens, act 4, sc.3, 1.426–30.
- 50 Trust not the physician;
 His antidotes are poison, and he slays
 More than you rob.
1605 Timon to thieves. Timon of Athens, act 4, sc.3, 1.433–5.
- 51 Rich men deal gifts,
 Expecting in return twenty for one?
1605 Timon to Flavius. Timon of Athens, act 4, sc.3, 1.510–11.
- 52 I cannot heave
 My heart into my mouth. I love your majesty
 According to my bond, nor more nor less.
1605–6 Cordelia to Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.1, 1.91–3.
- 53 Thy youngest daughter does not love thee least,
 Nor are those empty-hearted whose low sounds
 Reverb no hollowness.
1605–6 Kent to Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.1, 1.152–4.
- 54 If for I want that glib and oily art
 To speak and purpose not—since what I well intend,
 I'll do't before I speak—that you make known
 It is no vicious blot, murder, or foulness,
 No unchaste action or dishonoured step
 That hath deprived me of your grace and favour,
 But even the want of that for which I am richer—
 A still-soliciting eye, and such a tongue
 That I am glad I have not, though not to have it
 Hath lost me in your liking.
1605–6 Cordelia to Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.1, 1.224–33.
- 55 Time shall unfold what pleated cunning hides.
1605–6 Cordelia. King Lear, act 1, sc.1, 1.280.
- 56 Fine word, 'legitimate'.
 Well, my legitimate, if this letter speed
 And my invention thrive, Edmond the base
 Shall to th' legitimate. I grow, I prosper.
 Now gods, stand up for bastards!
1605–6 Edmond. King Lear, act 1, sc.2, 1.18–22.
- 57 We make guilty of our disasters the sun, the moon, and stars, as if we were villains on necessity, fools by heavenly compulsion, knaves, thieves, and traitors by spherical predominance, drunkards, liars, and adulterers by an enforced obedience of planetary influence, and all that we are evil in by a divine thrusting on. An admirable evasion of whore-master man, to lay his goatish disposition on the charge of a star!
1605–6 Edmond. King Lear, act 1, sc.2, 1.118–26.
- 58 You base football player.
1605–6 Kent to Oswald. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.84–5.
- 59 Have more than thou showest,
 Speak less than thou knowest,
 Lend less than thou owest.
1605–6 Fool to Kent. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.117–19.
- 60 The hedge-sparrow fed the cuckoo so long
 That it's had it head bit off by it young.
1605–6 Fool, singing to Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.198–9.
- 61 As you are old and reverend, should be wise.
1605–6 Goneril to Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.218.
- 62 Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend,
 More hideous when thou show'st thee in a child
 Than the sea-monster.
1605–6 Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.237–9.
- 63 How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is
 To have a thankless child.
1605–6 Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.4, 1.268–9.
- 64 O, let me not be mad, not mad, sweet heaven!
 Keep me in temper. I would not be mad!
1605–6 Lear. King Lear, act 1, sc.5, 1.45–6.

- 65 Thou whoreson Z, thou unnecessary letter.
1605-6 Kent. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.163.
- 66 I have seen better faces in my time
Than stands on any shoulder that I see
Before me at this instant.
1605-6 Kent. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.91-3.
- 67 A good man's fortune may grow out at heels.
1605-6 Kent. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.148.
- 68 All the stored vengeances of heaven fall
On her ingrateful top!
1605-6 Lear to Regan. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.334-5.
- 69 Return to her, and fifty men dismissed?
No, rather I abjure all roofs, and choose
To be a comrade with the wolf and owl,
To wage against the enmity o' th' air,
Necessity's sharp pinch!
1605-6 Lear, of Goneril. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.380-4.
- 70 Touch me with noble anger,
And let not women's weapons, water-drops,
Stain my man's cheeks. No, you unnatural hags,
I will have such revenges on you both
That all the world shall—I will do such things—
That they are, yet I know not; but they shall be
The terrors of the earth. You think I'll weep.
No, I'll not weep. I have full cause of weeping,
But this heart shall break into a hundred thousand flaws
Or ere I'll weep.—O Fool, I shall go mad!
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 2, sc.2, l.450-9.
- 71 Blow, winds, and crack your cheeks! Rage, blow,
You cataracts and hurricanoes, spout
Till you have drenched our steeples, drowned the cocks!
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.1-3.
- 72 Thou all-shaking thunder,
Strike flat the thick rotundity o' th' world.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.6-7.
- 73 There was never yet fair woman, but she made mouths in a glass.
1605-6 Fool. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.35-6.
- 74 I am a man
More sinned against than sinning.
1605-6 Lear to Kent. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.59-60.
- 75 How dost, my boy? Art cold?
I am cold myself.—Where is this straw, my fellow?
The art of our necessities is strange,
And can make vile things precious.
1605-6 Lear to Fool. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.68-71.
- 76 He that has and a little tiny wit,
With heigh-ho, the wind and the rain,
Must make content with his fortunes fit,
Though the rain it raineth every day.
1605-6 Fool. King Lear, act 3, sc.2, l.74-7.
- 77 O, that way madness lies.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 3, sc.4, l.121.
- 78 Poor naked wretches, wheresoe'er you are,
That bide the pelting of this pitiless storm,
How shall your houseless heads and unfed sides,
Your looped and windowed raggedness, defend you
From seasons such as these?
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 3, sc.4, l.128-32.
- 79 Child Roland to the dark tower came,
His word was still 'Fie, fo, and fum;
I smell the blood of a British man.'
1605-6 Edgar. King Lear, act 3, sc.4, l.170-2.
- 80 Let them anatomize Regan; see what breeds about her heart. Is there any cause in nature that makes these hard-hearts?
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 3, sc.6, l.34-6.
- 81 Out, vile jelly!
Where is thy lustre now?
1605-6 Cornwall, pulling out Gloucester's other eye. King Lear, act 3, sc.7, l.81-2.
- 82 Turn out that eyeless villain. Throw this slave
Upon the dunghill.
1605-6 Cornwall to his servants. King Lear, act 3, sc.7, l.94-5.
- 83 The worst is not
So long as we can say 'This is the worst'.
1605-6 Edgar. King Lear, act 4, sc.1, 27-8.
- 84 As flies to wanton boys are we to th' gods;
They kill us for their sport.
1605-6 Gloucester. King Lear, act 4, sc.1, l.37-8.
- 85 GONERIL: I have been worth the whistling.
ALBANY: O Goneril,
You are not worth the dust which the rude wind
Blows in your face.
1605-6 King Lear, act 4, sc.2, l.29-32.
- 86 Alack, 'tis he! Why, he was met even now,
As mad as the vexed sea, singing aloud,
Crowned with rank fumitor and furrow-weeds,
With burdocks, hemlock, nettles, cuckoo-flowers,
Darnel, and all the idle weeds that grow
In our sustaining corn.
1605-6 Cordelia, of Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.3, l.1-6.
- 87 GLOUCESTER: The trick of that voice I do well remember.
Is't not the King?
LEAR: Ay, every inch a king.
1605-6 King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.106-7.
- 88 When I do stare, see how the subject quakes!
I pardon that man's life. What was thy cause?
Adultery? Thou shalt not die. Die for adultery!
No, the wren goes to't, and the small gilded fly
Does lecher in my sight. Let copulation thrive.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.108-12.
- 89 Down from the waist
They're centaurs, though women all above.
But to the girdle do the gods inherit;
Beneath is all the fiend's. There's hell, there's darkness, there is the sulphurous pit, burning, scalding stench, consumption. Fie, fie, fie; pah, pah! Give me an ounce of civet, good apothecary, sweeten my imagination.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.121-7.
- 90 O ruined piece of nature! This great world
Shall so wear out to naught. Dost thou know me?
1605-6 Gloucester to Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.130-1.
- 91 Hark in thine ear. Change places, and handy-dandy, which is the justice, which is the thief?
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.148-50.
- 92 A dog's obeyed in office.
Thou rascal beadle, hold thy bloody hand.
Why dost thou lash that whore? Strip thy own back.
Thou hotly lusts to use her in that kind

- For which thou whip'st her.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.154-9.
- 93 Get thee glass eyes,
 And, like a scurvy politician, seem
 To see the things thou dost not.
1605-6 Lear. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.166-8.
- 94 When we are born, we cry that we are come
 To this great stage of fools.
1605-6 Lear to Gloucester. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.178-9.
- 95 I know thee well—a serviceable villain.
1605-6 Edgar, of Oswald. King Lear, act 4, sc.5, l.250.
- 96 Mine enemy's dog though he had bit me, should have stood
 That night against my fire.
1605-6 Cordelia. King Lear, act 4, sc.6, l.30-1.
- 97 You do me wrong to take me out o'th' grave.
 Thou art a soul in bliss, but I am bound
 Upon a wheel of fire, that mine own tears
 Do scald like molten lead.
1605-6 Lear to Cordelia. King Lear, act 4, sc.6, l.38-41.
- 98 Pray do not mock.
 I am a very foolish, fond old man,
 Fourscore and upward,
 Not an hour more nor less; and to deal plainly,
 I fear I am not in my perfect mind.
1605-6 Lear to Cordelia. King Lear, act 4, sc.6, l.52-6.
- 99 Men must endure
 Their going hence even as their coming hither.
 Ripeness is all.
1605-6 Edgar. King Lear, act 5, sc.2, l.9-11.
- 1 [We'll] take upon 's the mystery of things
 As if we were God's spies.
1605-6 Lear to Cordelia. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.16-17.
- 2 The gods are just, and of our pleasant vices
 Make instruments to plague us.
1605-6 Edgar to Edmond. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.161-2.
- 3 The wheel is come full circle. I am here.
1605-6 Edmond to Edgar. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.165.
- 4 His flawed heart—
 Alack, too weak the conflict to support—
 'Twixt two extremes of passion, joy and grief,
 Burst smilingly.
1605-6 Edgar, of Gloucester. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.188-91.
- 5 Howl, howl, howl, howl! O, you are men of stones.
 Had I your tongues and eyes, I'd use them so
 That heaven's vault should crack.
1605-6 Lear, grief-stricken at the death of Cordelia. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.232-4.
- 6 Her voice was ever soft,
 Gentle, and low, an excellent thing in woman.
1605-6 Lear, of Cordelia. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.247-8.
- 7 Why should you a dog, a horse, a rat have life,
 And thou no breath at all? Thou'lt come no more.
 Never, never, never, never, never.
 Pray you, undo this button.
1605-6 Edgar. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.282-5.
- 8 The weight of this sad time we must obey,
 Speak what we feel, not what we ought to say.
 The oldest hath borne most. We that are young
 Shall never see so much, nor live so long.
1605-6 Edgar. King Lear, act 5, sc.3, l.299-302.
- 9 His captain's heart,
 Which in the scuffles of great fights hath burst
 The buckles on his breast.
1606 Philo, of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.1, l.6-8.
- 10 The triple pillar of the world transformed
 Into a strumpet's fool. Behold and see.
1606 Philo, of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.1, l.12-13.
- 11 There's beggary in the love that can be reckoned.
1606 Antony to Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.1, l.15.
- 12 Let Rome in Tiber melt, and the wide arch
 Of the ranged empire fall.
1606 Antony to Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.1,
 l.35-6.
- 13 In nature's infinite book of secrecy
 A little I can read.
1606 Soothsayer. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.2, l.9-10.
- 14 I love long life better than figs.
1606 Charmian. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.2, l.28.
- 15 The tears live in an onion that should water this sorrow.
1606 Enobarbus, of the death of Fulvia. Antony and Cleopatra,
 act 1, sc.2, l.161-2.
- 16 In time we hate that which we often fear.
1606 Charmian. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.3, l.12.
- 17 Eternity was in our lips and eyes,
 Bliss in our brow's bent; none our parts so poor
 But was a race of heaven.
1606 Cleopatra to Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.3,
 l.35-7.
- 18 The strong necessity of time commands
 Our services a while, but my full heart
 Remains in use with you.
1606 Antony to Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.3,
 l.42-4.
- 19 Age from folly could not give me freedom.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.3, l.57.
- 20 Sir, you and I must part; but that's not it.
 Sir, you and I have loved; but there's not it;
 That you know well. Something it is I would—
 O, my oblivion is a very Antony,
 And I am all forgotten.
1606 Cleopatra to Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.3,
 l.88-92.
- 21 Now I feed myself
 With most delicious poison.
1606 Cleopatra, thinking of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1,
 sc.5, l.26-7.
- 22 My salad days,
 When I was green in judgement.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 1, sc.5, l.72-3.
- 23 The barge she sat in, like a burnished throne
 Burned on the water. The poop was beaten gold;
 Purple the sails, and so perfumèd that
 The winds were love-sick with them. The oars were silver,
 Which to the tune of flutes kept stroke, and made
 The water which they beat to follow faster,
 As amorous of their strokes. For her own person,
 It beggared all description.
1606 Enobarbus, of Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.2,
 l.198-205.

- 24 Antony,
Enthroned i'th' market-place, did sit alone,
Whistling to th'air, which but for vacancy
Had gone to gaze on Cleopatra too,
And made a gap in nature.
1606 Enobarbus. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.2, 1.221–5.
- 25 I saw her once
Hop forty paces through the public street,
And having lost her breath, she spoke and panted,
That she did make defect perfection.
1606 Enobarbus, of Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.2, 1.235–8.
- 26 Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale
Her infinite variety.
1606 Enobarbus, of Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.2, 1.241–2.
- 27 If thou dost play with him at any game
Thou art sure to lose; and of that natural luck
He beats thee 'gainst the odds.
1606 Soothsayer. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.3, 1.23–5.
- 28 Give me some music—music, moody food
Of us that trade in love.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.5, 1.1–2.
- 29 Let it alone. Let's to billiards.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.5, 1.3.
- 30 I laughed him out of patience, and that night
I laughed him into patience, and next morn,
Ere the ninth hour, I drunk him to his bed.
1606 Cleopatra, of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.5, 1.19–21.
- 31 There is gold, and here
My bluest veins to kiss—a hand that kings
Have lipped, and trembled kissing.
1606 Cleopatra to a messenger bringing news of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.5, 1.28–30.
- 32 I will praise any man that will praise me.
1606 Enobarbus. Antony and Cleopatra, act 2, sc.6, 1.90.
- 33 If I lose mine honour,
I lose myself.
1606 Antony to Octavia. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.4, 1.22–3.
- 34 We have kissed away
Kingdoms and provinces.
1606 Scarus. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.10, 1.7–8.
- 35 I have offended reputation;
A most un noble swerving.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.11, 1.48–9.
- 36 Thou knew'st too well
My heart was to thy rudder tied by th' strings,
And thou should'st tow me after.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.11, 1.56–8.
- 37 Fortune knows
We scorn her most when most she offers blows.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.11, 1.74–5.
- 38 He wears the rose
Of youth upon him.
1606 Antony, of Caesar. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.13, 1.19–20.
- 39 I dare him therefore
To lay his gay caparisons apart
And answer me declined, sword against sword,
Ourselves alone.
1606 Antony's message to Caesar. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.13, 1.24–7.
- 40 Let's have one other gaudy night. Call to me
All my sad captains. Fill our bowls once more.
Let's mock the midnight bell.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 3, sc.13, 1.185–7.
- 41 Never anger
Made good guard for itself.
1606 Maecenas. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.1, 1.9–10.
- 42 To business that we love we rise betime,
And go to't with delight.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.4, 1.20–1.
- 43 O sovereign mistress of true melancholy,
The poisonous damp of night disponge upon me,
That life, a very rebel to my will,
May hang no longer on me.
1606 Enobarbus. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.10, 1.11–14.
- 44 There is left us
Ourselves to end ourselves.
1606 Antony to Eros. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.15, 1.21–2.
- 45 All strange and terrible events are welcome,
But comforts we despise.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.3–4.
- 46 Is it sin
To rush into the secret house of death
Ere death dare come to us?
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.82–4.
- 47 But I will be
A bridegroom in my death, and run into't
As to a lover's bed.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.15, 1.99–101.
- 48 Let him that loves me strike me dead.
1606 Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.15, 1.108.
- 49 So it should be,
That none but Antony should conquer Antony.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.16–17.
- 50 Of many thousand kisses the poor last
I lay upon thy lips.
1606 Antony to Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.21–2.
- 51 Shall I abide
In this dull world, which in thy absence is
No better than a sty?
1606 Cleopatra to Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.62–4.
- 52 There is nothing left remarkable
Beneath the visiting moon.
1606 Cleopatra, of the death of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.69–70.
- 53 What's brave, what's noble,
Let's do it after the high Roman fashion,
And make death proud to take us.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 4, sc.16, 1.88–90.
- 54 It is great
To do that thing that ends all other deeds.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.4–5.
- 55 I dreamt there was an Emperor Antony,
O, such another sleep, that I might see

- But such another man!
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.75–7.
- 56 His legs bestrid the ocean; his reared arm
 Crested the world.
1606 Cleopatra, of Antony. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.81–2.
- 57 The bright day is done,
 And we are for the dark.
1606 Iras. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.189–90.
- 58 Hast thou the pretty worm
 Of Nilus there, that kills and pains not?
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.238–9.
- 59 His biting is immortal; those that do die of it do seldom or ever recover.
1606 Clown. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.241–3.
- 60 Give me my robe. Put on my crown. I have Immortal longings in me.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.275–6.
- 61 Husband, I come.
 Now to that name my courage prove my title.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.282–3.
- 62 If thou and nature can so gently part,
 The stroke of death is as a lover's pinch,
 Which hurts and is desired. Dost thou lie still?
 If thus thou vanishest, thou tell'st the world
 It is not worth leave-taking.
1606 Cleopatra. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.289–93.
- 63 A lass unparalleled. Downy windows, close,
 And golden Phoebus never be beheld
 Of eyes again so royal.
1606 Charmian. Antony and Cleopatra, act 5, sc.2, 1.310–12.
- 64 When shall we three meet again?
 In thunder, lightning, or in rain?
1606 First Witch. Macbeth, act 1, sc.1, 1.1–2.
- 65 Fair is foul, and foul is fair,
 Hover through the fog and filthy air.
1606 Witches. Macbeth, act 1, sc.1, 1.10–11.
- 66 Fortune on his damnèd quarry smiling
 Showed like a rebel's whore.
1606 Captain. Macbeth, act 1, sc.2, 1.14–15.
- 67 A sailor's wife had chestnuts in her lap,
 And munched, and munched, and munched. 'Give me,' quoth I.
 'Aroint thee, witch,' the rump-fed runnion cries.
 Her husband's to Aleppo gone, master o'th' Tiger.
 But in a sieve I'll thither sail,
 And like a rat without a tail
 I'll do, I'll do, and I'll do.
1606 First Witch. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.3–9.
- 68 I'll drain him dry as hay.
 Sleep shall neither night nor day
 Hang upon his penthouse lid.
 He shall live a man forbid.
 Weary sennights nine times nine
 Shall he dwindle, peak, and pine.
 Though his barque cannot be lost,
 Yet it shall be tempest-tossed.
1606 First Witch. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.17–23.
- 69 The weird sisters hand in hand,
 Posters of the sea and land,
 Thus do go about, about.
1606 Witches. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.30–2.
- 70 So foul and fair a day I have not seen.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.36.
- 71 Live you, or are you aught
 That man may question? You seem to understand me
 By each at once her choppy finger laying
 Upon her skinny lips. You should be women,
 And yet your beards forbid me to interpret
 That you are so.
1606 Banquo. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.40–4.
- 72 If you can look into the seeds of time
 And say which grain will grow and which will not,
 Speak then to me.
1606 Banquo to the witches. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.56–9.
- 73 To be king
 Stands not within the prospect of belief.
1606 Macbeth to the witches. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.71–2.
- 74 The earth hath bubbles, as the water has,
 And these are of them.
1606 Banquo, of the witches. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.77–8.
- 75 What, can the devil speak true?
1606 Banquo, hearing that the first of the witches' predictions has come true. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.105.
- 76 The Thane of Cawdor lives. Why do you dress me
 In borrowed robes?
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.106–7.
- 77 Come what come may,
 Time and the hour runs through the roughest day.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.3, 1.145–6.
- 78 Nothing in his life
 Became him like the leaving of it. He died
 As one that had been studied in his death
 To throw away the dearest thing he owed
 As 'twere a careless trifle.
1606 Malcolm, of Cawdor. Macbeth, act 1, sc.4, 1.7–11.
- 79 There's no art
 To find the mind's construction in the face.
 He was a gentleman on whom I built
 An absolute trust.
1606 King Duncan, of Cawdor. Macbeth, act 1, sc.4, 1.11–14.
- 80 Yet do I fear thy nature;
 It is too full o'th' milk of human kindness
 To catch the nearest way.
1606 Lady Macbeth, of Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.5, 1.15–17.
- 81 Thou wouldst be great,
 Art not without ambition, but without
 The illness should attend it.
1606 Lady Macbeth, of Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.5, 1.17–19.
- 82 Come, you spirits
 That tend on mortal thoughts, unsex me here,
 And fill me from the crown to the toe top-full
 Of direst cruelty.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.5, 1.39–42.
- 83 Your face, my thane, is as a book where men
 May read strange matters.
1606 Lady Macbeth to Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.5, 1.61–2.
- 84 Bear welcome in your eye,
 Your hand, your tongue; look like the innocent flower,
 But be the serpent under 't.

- 1606 Lady Macbeth to Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.5, 1.63–5.
- 85 KING DUNCAN: This castle hath a pleasant seat. The air
Nimbly and sweetly recommends itself
Unto our gentle senses.
BANQUO: This guest of summer,
The temple-haunting marlet, does approve
By his loved mansionry that the heavens' breath
Smells wooingly here. No jutting, frieze,
Buttress, nor coign of vantage but this bird
Hath made his pedant bed and procreant cradle;
Where they most breed and haunt I have observed
The air is delicate.
1606 Macbeth, act 1, sc.6, 1.1–10.
- 86 If it were done when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly. If th'assassination
Could trammel up the consequence, and catch
With his surcease success: that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all, here,
But here upon this bank and shoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come. But in these cases
We still have judgement here, that we but teach
Bloody instructions which, being taught, return
To plague th'inventor.
1606 Macbeth, on the prospect of murdering Duncan. Macbeth,
act 1, sc.7, 1.1–10.
- 87 Besides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been
So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead like angels, trumpet-tongued against
The deep damnation of his taking-off,
And pity, like a naked new-born babe,
Striding the blast, or heaven's cherubin, horsed
Upon the sightless couriers of the air,
Shall blow the horrid deed in every eye
That tears shall drown the wind. I have no spur
To prick the sides of my intent, but only
Vaulting ambition which o'erleaps itself
And falls on th'other.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.16–29.
- 88 Wouldst thou have that
Which thou esteem'st the ornament of life,
And live a coward in thine own esteem,
Letting 'I dare not' wait upon 'I would',
Like the poor cat i'th' adage?
1606 Lady Macbeth to Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.41–45.
- 89 I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more is none.
1606 Macbeth to Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.46–7.
- 90 Screw your courage to the sticking-place
And we'll not fail.
1606 Lady Macbeth to Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.60–1.
- 91 Bring forth men-children only,
For thy undaunted mettle should compose
Nothing but males.
1606 Macbeth to Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.72–4.
- 92 Away, and mock the time with fairest show.
False face must hide what the false heart doth know.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 1, sc.7, 1.81–2.
- 93 There's husbandry in heaven,
Their candles are all out.
1606 Banquo. Macbeth, act 2, sc.1, 1.4–5.
- 94 Is this a dagger which I see before me,
The handle toward my hand? Come, let me clutch thee.
I have thee not, and yet I see thee still.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.1, 1.33–5.
- 95 Mine eyes are made the fool o'th' other senses,
Or else worth all the rest.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.1, 1.44–5.
- 96 Whiles I threat, he lives.
Words to the heat of deeds too cold breath gives.
I go, and it is done. The bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan; for it is a knell
That summons thee to heaven or to hell.
1606 Macbeth, steeling himself to murder Duncan. Macbeth, act
2, sc.1, 1.60–4.
- 97 That which hath made them drunk hath made me bold.
What hath quenched them hath given me fire.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.1–2.
- 98 Th'attempt and not the deed
Confounds us.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.10–11.
- 99 I laid their daggers ready;
He could not miss 'em. Had he not resembled
My father as he slept, I had done't.
1606 Lady Macbeth, of Duncan. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.11–13.
- 1 I had most need of blessing, and 'Amen'
Stuck in my throat.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.30–1.
- 2 Methought I heard a voice cry 'Sleep no more,
Macbeth does murder sleep'—the innocent sleep,
Sleep that knits up the ravell'd sleeve of care.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.33–5.
- 3 Still it cried 'Sleep no more' to all the house,
'Glamis hath murdered sleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall sleep no more, Macbeth shall sleep no more.'
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.39–41.
- 4 Infirm of purpose!
Give me the daggers. The sleeping and the dead
Are but as pictures. 'Tis the eye of childhood
That fears a painted devil.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.50–4.
- 5 Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood Clean from my hand? No, this my hand will rather
The multitudinous seas incarnadine,
Making the green one red.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.58–61.
- 6 A little water clears us of this deed.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.2, 1.65.
- 7 But this place is too cold for hell. I'll devil-porter it no further. I had thought to have let in some of all professions that go the primrose way to th'everlasting bonfire.
1606 Porter. Macbeth, act 2, sc.3, 1.15–18.
- 8 The labour we delight in physics pain.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 2, sc.3, 1.49.
- 9 Confusion now hath made his masterpiece.
Most sacreligious murder hath broke ope
The Lord's anointed temple and stole thence
The life o'th' building.
1606 Macduff, announcing Duncan's murder. Macbeth, act 2,
sc.3, 1.65–8.

- 10 There's daggers in men's smiles.
1606 Donalbain. Macbeth, act 2, sc.3, 1.139.
- 11 Go not my horse the better,
 I must become a borrower of the night
 For dark hour or twain.
1606 Banquo. Macbeth, act 3, sc.1, 1.26–8.
- 12 I could
 With barefaced power sweep him from my sight.
1606 Macbeth, of Banquo. Macbeth, act 3, sc.1, 1.119–20.
- 13 Things without all remedy
 Should be without regard. What's done is done.
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.2, 1.13–14.
- 14 Duncan is in his grave.
 After life's fitful fever he sleeps well.
 Treason has done his worst.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.2, 1.24–5.
- 15 Come, seeling night,
 Scarf up the tender eye of pitiful day.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.2, 1.47–8.
- 16 Light thickens, and the crow
 Makes wing to th' rooky wood.
 Good things of day begin to droop and drowse,
 Whiles night's black agents to their preys do rouse.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.2, 1.51–4.
- 17 Thou canst not say I did it. Never shake Thy gory locks at me.
1606 Macbeth to Banquo's ghost. Macbeth, act 3, sc.4, 1.49–50.
- 18 You make me strange
 Even to the disposition that I owe,
 When now I think you can behold such sights
 And keep the natural ruby of your cheeks,
 When mine is blanched with fear.
1606 Macbeth to Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.4, 1.111–15.
- 19 I am in blood
 Stepped in so far that, should I wade no more,
 Returning were as tedious as go o'er.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 3, sc.4, 1.135–7.
- 20 Double, double, toil and trouble,
 Fire burn, and cauldron bubble.
1606 Witches. Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.10–11.
- 21 By the pricking of my thumbs,
 Something wicked this way comes.
1606 Second witch. Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.61–2.
- 22 MACBETH: How now, you secret, black, and midnight
 hags,
 What is't you do?
 WITCHES: A deed without a name.
1606 Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.63–5.
- 23 Be bloody, bold, and resolute. Laugh to scorn
 The power of man, for none of woman born
 Shall harm Macbeth.
1606 Second apparition to Macbeth. Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.95–7.
- 24 Macbeth shall never vanquished be until Great Birnam Wood to high Dunsinane Hill
 Shall come against him.
1606 Third Apparition. Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.108–10.
- 25 No boasting like a fool;
 This deed I'll do before this purpose cool.
1606 Macbeth, intending to murder Macduff's family.
Macbeth, act 4, sc.1, 1.169–70.
- 26 Our fears do make us traitors.
1606 Lady Macduff. Macbeth, act 4, sc.2, 1.4.
- 27 He loves us not,
 He wants the natural touch.
1606 Lady Macduff, of Macduff. Macbeth, act 4, sc.2, 1.8–9.
- 28 Each new morn
 New widows howl, new orphans cry, new sorrows
 Strike heaven on the face.
1606 Macduff. Macbeth, act 4, sc.3, 1.4–6.
- 29 MACDUFF: Stands Scotland where it did?
 ROSS: Alas, poor country,
 Almost afraid to know itself.
1606 Macbeth, act 4, sc.3, 1.165–6.
- 30 MACDUFF: He has no children. All my pretty ones?
 Did you say all? O hell-kite! All?
 What, all my pretty chickens and their dam
 At one fell swoop?
 MALCOLM: Dispute it like a man.
 MACDUFF: I shall do so,
 But I must also feel it as a man.
 I cannot but remember such things were
 That were most precious to me. Did heaven look on
 And would not take their part?
1606 Macduff, of his murdered wife and children. Macbeth, act 4,
 sc.3, 1.217–26.
- 31 The night is long that never finds the day.
1606 Malcolm. Macbeth, act 4, sc.3, 1.242.
- 32 It is an accustomed action with her, to seem thus washing her hands. I have known her continue in this a quarter of an hour.
1606 Gentlewoman, of Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.1, 1.27–9.
- 33 Out, damned spot; out, I say. One, two,—why, then 'tis time to do't. Hell is murky. Fie, my lord, fie, a soldier and afraid? What need we fear who knows it when none can call our power to account? Yet who would have thought the old man to have had so much blood in him?
1606 Lady Macbeth, sleepwalking, of the murdered Duncan.
Macbeth, act 5, sc.1, 1.33–8.
- 34 The Thane of Fife had a wife. Where is she now? What, will these hands ne'er be clean?
1606 Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.1, 1.40–1.
- 35 Now does he feel
 His secret murders sticking on his hands.
 Now minutely revolts upbraid his faith-breach.
 Those he commands move only in command,
 Nothing in love. Now does he feel his title
 Hang loose about him, like a giant's robe
 Upon a dwarfish thief.
1606 Angus, of Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.2, 1.16–22.
- 36 The devil damn thee black, thou cream-faced loon!
1606 Macbeth to his servant. Macbeth, act 5, sc.3, 1.11.
- 37 I have lived long enough. My way of life
 Is fall'n into the sere, the yellow leaf,
 And that which should accompany old age,
 As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
 I must not look to have.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.3, 1.24–8.
- 38 Canst thou not minister to a mind diseased,
 Pluck from the memory a rooted sorrow,
 Raze out the written troubles of the brain,

- And with some sweet oblivious antidote
 Cleanse the fraught bosom?
1606 Macbeth to the doctor, of Lady Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.3, 1.42–5.
- 39 Throw physic to the dogs; I'll none of it.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.3, 1.49.
- 40 What rhubarb, cyme, or what purgative drug
 Would scour these English hence?
1606 Macbeth to the doctor. Macbeth, act 5, sc.3, 1.57–8.
- 41 I have supped full with horrors.
 Direness, familiar to my slaughterhouse thoughts,
 Cannot once start me.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.5, 1.13–14.
- 42 She should have died hereafter.
 There would have been a time for such a word.
 Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow
 Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
 To the last syllable of recorded time,
 And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
 The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle.
 Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
 That struts and frets his hour upon the stage,
 And then is heard no more. It is a tale
 Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
 Signifying nothing.
1606 Macbeth, hearing of Lady Macbeth's death. Macbeth, act 5, sc.5, 1.16–27.
- 43 They have tied me to a stake. I cannot fly,
 But bear-like I must fight the course.
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.7, 1.1–2.
- 44 YOUNG SIWARD: What is thy name?
 MACBETH: Thou'lt be afraid to hear it.
 YOUNG SIWARD: No, though thou call'st thyself a hotter name
 Than any in hell.
 MACBETH: My name's Macbeth.
1606 Macbeth, act 5, sc.7, 1.5–8.
- 45 Macduff was from his mother's womb
 Untimely ripped.
1606 Macduff. Macbeth, act 5, sc.10, 1.15–16.
- 46 Lay on, Macduff,
 And damned be him that first cries 'Hold, enough!'
1606 Macbeth. Macbeth, act 5, sc.10, 1.33–4.
- 47 Your cause of sorrow
 Must not be measured by his worth, for then
 It hath no end.
1606 Ross to Siward. Macbeth, act 5, sc.11, 1.10–12.
- 48 Kings are earth's gods; in vice their law's their will,
 And if Jove stray, who dares say Jove doth ill?
1607 Pericles. Pericles, sc.1, 1.146–7.
- 49 They do abuse the King that flatter him,
 For flatt'ry is the bellows blows up sin.
1607 Helicanus. Pericles, sc.2, 1.43–4.
- 50 'Tis time to fear when tyrants seems to kiss.
1607 Pericles. Pericles, sc.2, 1.84.
- 51 We'll mingle our bloods together in the earth
 From whence we had our being and our birth.
1607 Helicanus to Pericles. Pericles, sc.2, 1.118–9.
- 52 I'll take thy word for faith, not ask thine oath;
 Who shuns not to break one will sure crack both.
1607 Pericles to Helicanus. Pericles, sc.2, 1.125–6.
- 53 Shall we rest us here
 And, by relating tales of others' griefs,
 See if 'twill teach us to forget our own?
1607 Cleon to Dioniza. Pericles, sc.4, 1.1–3.
- 54 One sorrow never comes but brings an heir
 That may succeed as his inheritor.
1607 Cleon. Pericles, sc.4, 1.62–3.
- 55 He's a very dog to the commonalty.
1608 Fourth citizen. Coriolanus, act 1, sc.1, 1.27.
- 56 What's the matter, you dissentious rogues,
 That, rubbing the poor itch of your opinion,
 Make yourselves scabs?
1608 Martius. Coriolanus, act 1, sc.1, 1.162–4.
- 57 They threw their caps
 As they would hang them on the horns o'th' moon.
1608 Martius. Coriolanus, act 1, sc.1, 1.210–11.
- 58 Nature teaches beasts to know their friends.
1608 Sicinius. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.1, 1.6.
- 59 [I am] one that loves a cup of hot wine with not a drop of allaying Tiber in't.
1608 Menenius. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.1, 1.47–8.
- 60 What I think, I utter, and spend my malice in my breath.
1608 Menenius. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.1, 1.52–3.
- 61 That's a brave fellow, but he's vengeance proud and loves not the common people.
1608 First Officer, of Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.2, 1.5–6.
- 62 He seeks their hate with greater devotion than they can render it him.
1608 First Officer, of Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.2, 1.18–19.
- 63 Ingratitude is monstrous, and for the multitude to be ingrateful were to make a monster of the multitude.
1608 Third Citizen. Coriolanus, act 2, sc.3, 1.9–10.
- 64 'Shall remain'?
 Hear you this Triton of the minnows? Mark you
 His absolute 'shall'?
1608 Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 3, sc.1, 1.91–3.
- 65 On both sides more respect.
1608 Menenius. Coriolanus, act 3, sc.1, 1.183.
- 66 You common cry of curs, whose breath I hate
 As reek o'th' rotten fens, whose loves I prize
 As the dead carcasses of unburied men
 That do corrupt my air: I banish you.
1608 Coriolanus to the citizens. Coriolanus, act 3, sc.3, 1.124–7.
- 67 Now we have shown our power,
 Let us seem humbler after it is done.
1608 Brutus. Coriolanus, act 4, sc.2, 1.3–4.
- 68 Anger's my meat, I sup upon myself,
 And so shall starve with feeding.
1608 Volumnia. Coriolanus, act 4, sc.2, 1.53–4.
- 69 He'll shake your Rome about your ears.
1608 Cominius. Coriolanus, act 4, sc.6, 1.103.
- 70 Like a dull actor now
 I have forgot my part, and I am out
 Even to a full disgrace.
1608 Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 5, sc.3, 1.40–2.
- 71 O, a kiss
 Long as my exile, sweet as my revenge!
1608 Coriolanus to Virgilia. Coriolanus, act 5, sc.3, 1.44–5.

- 72 O mother, mother!
What have you done? Behold, the heavens do ope,
The gods look down, and this unnatural scene
Thay laugh at.
1608 Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 5, sc.3, l.183–6.
- 73 Cut me to pieces, Volsces. Men and lads, Stain all your edges on me. 'Boy'! False hound,
If you have writ your annals true, 'tis there
That, like an eagle in a dove-cot, I Fluttered your Volsceans in Corioles.
Alone I did it. 'Boy'!
1608 Coriolanus. Coriolanus, act 5, sc.6, l.112–7.
- 74 We were, fair Queen,
Two lads that thought there was no more behind
But such a day tomorrow as today,
And to be boy eternal.
1609 Polixenes to Hermione. The Winter's Tale, act 1, sc.2, l.63–6.
- 75 One good deed dying tongueless
Slaughters a thousand waiting upon that.
1609 Hermione. The Winter's Tale, act 1, sc.2, l.94–5.
- 76 He makes a July's day as short as December.
1609 Polixenes, of Mamillius. The Winter's Tale, act 1, sc.2, l.170.
- 77 Should all despair
That have revolted wives, the tenth of mankind
Would hang themselves.
1609 Leontes. The Winter's Tale, act 1, sc.2, l.199–201.
- 78 I saw his heart in's face.
1609 Polixenes, of Leontes. The Winter's Tale, act 1, sc.2, l.147.
- 79 A sad tale's best for winter.
1609 Mamillius. The Winter's Tale, act 2, sc.1, l.27.
- 80 It is an heretic that makes the fire,
Not she which burns in't.
1609 Paulina. The Winter's Tale, act 2, sc.3, l.115–6.
- 81 Exit, pursued by a bear.
1609 Stage Direction. The Winter's Tale, act 3, sc.3, l.57.
- 82 A snapper-up of unconsidered trifles.
1609 Autolycus, of himself. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.3, l.25–6.
- 83 Jog on, jog on, the footpath way,
And merrily hent the stile-a.
A merry heart goes all the day,
Your sad tires in a mile-a.
1609 Autolycus, singing. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.3, l.123–6.
- 84 Let's be red with mirth.
1609 Florizel. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.54.
- 85 Blasts of January
Would blow you through and through.
1609 Perdita, of Camillo. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.111–12.
- 86 Daffodils,
That come before the swallow dares, and take
The winds of March with beauty.
1609 Perdita. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.118–20.
- 87 When you speak, sweet,
I'd have you do it ever; when you sing,
I'd have you buy and sell so, so give alms,
Pray so; and for the ord'ring your affairs,
To sing them too. When you do dance, I wish you
A wave o'th' sea, that you might ever do
Nothing but that, move still, still so,
And own no other function. Each your doing,
So singular in each particular,
Crowns what you are doing in the present deeds,
That all your acts are queens.
1609 Florizel to Perdita. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.136–46.
- 88 Good sooth, she is
The queen of curds and cream.
1609 Camillo, of Perdita. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.160–1.
- 89 Garlic to mend her kissing with!
1609 Dorcas, of Mopsa. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.162–3.
- 90 He says he loves my daughter:
I think, so too, for never gazed the moon
Upon the water as he'll stand and read,
As 'twere, my daughter's eyes.
1609 Old Shepherd. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.172–5.
- 91 He has the prettiest love songs for maids, so without bawdry, which is strange, with such delicate burdens of dildos and fadings, 'Jump her, and thump her'; and where some stretch-mouthed rascal would, as it were, mean mischief and break a foul gap into the matter, he makes the maid to answer, 'Whoop, do me no harm, good man!'
1609 Servant. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.193–200.
- 92 Lawn as white as driven snow.
1609 Autolycus. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.219.
- 93 If I were not in love with Mopsa thou shouldst take no money of me, but being enthralled as I am, it will also be the bondage of certain ribbons and gloves.
1609 Clown to Autolycus (in disguise). The Winter's Tale, act 4,
sc.4, l.231–3.
- 94 I love a ballad in print, alife, for then we are sure they are true.
1609 Mopsa to Autolycus (in disguise). The Winter's Tale, act 4,
sc.4, l.258–9.
- 95 Though I am not naturally honest, I am so sometimes by chance.
1609 Autolycus. The Winter's Tale, act 4, sc.4, l.712–13.
- 96 Stars, stars,
And all eyes else, dead coals!
1609 Leontes. The Winter's Tale, act 5, sc.1, l.67–8.
- 97 Women will love her that she is a woman
More worth than any man; men, that she is
The rarest of all women.
1609 Servant, of Perdita. The Winter's Tale, act 5, sc.1, l.110–12.
- 98 My lord, your sorrow was too sore laid on,
Which sixteen winters cannot blow away,
So many summers dry. Scarce any joy
Did ever so long live.
1609 Camillo to Leontes. The Winter's Tale, act 5, sc.3, l.49–52.
- 99 O, she's warm!
If this be magic, let it be an art
Lawful as eating.
1609 Leontes, of the now animated statue of Hermione. The Winter's Tale, act 5, sc.3, l.109–11.
- 1 Thou art thy mother's glass, and she in thee
Calls back the lovely April of her prime.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 3.
- 2 Music to hear, why hear'st thou music sadly?
Sweets with sweets war not, joy delights in joy.
Why lov'st thou that which thou receiv'st not gladly?
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 8.
- 3 For thou art so possessed with murd'rous hate

- That 'gainst thyself thou stick'st not to conspire.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 10.
- 4 If I could write the beauty of your eyes
And in fresh numbers number all your graces,
The age to come would say 'This poet lies;
Such heavenly touches ne'er touched earthly faces.'
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 17.
- 5 Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?
Thou art more lovely and more temperate.
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,
And summer's lease hath all too short a date.
Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimmed,
And every fair from fair sometime declines,
By chance or nature's changing course untrimmed;
But thy eternal summer shall not fade
Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow'st,
Nor shall death brag thou wander'st in his shade
When in eternal lines to time thou grow'st.
So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,
So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 18.
- 6 Yet do thy worst, old time; despite thy wrong
My love shall in my verse ever live young.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 19.
- 7 A woman's face with nature's own hand painted
Hast thou, the master-mistress of my passion.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 20.
- 8 My glass shall not persuade me I am old
So long as youth and thou are of one date;
But when in thee time's furrows I behold,
Then look I death my days should expiate.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 22.
- 9 Presume not on thy heart when mine is slain:
Thou gav'st me thine not to give back again.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 22.
- 10 O let my books be then the eloquence
And dumb presagers of my speaking breast,
Who plead for love, and look for recompense
More than that tongue that more hath more expressed.
O learn to read what silent love hath writ;
To hear with eyes belongs to love's fine wit.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 23.
- 11 Now see what good turns eyes for eyes have done:
Mine eyes have drawn thy shape, and thine for me
Are windows to my breast, wherethrough the sun
Delights to peep, to gaze therein on thee.
Yet eyes this cunning want to grace their art:
They draw but what they see, know not the heart.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 24.
- 12 The painful warrior famous'd for might,
After a thousand victories once foiled
Is from the book of honour razèd quite,
And all the rest forgot for which he toiled.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 25.
- 13 Weary with toil I haste me to my bed,
The dear repose for limbs with travel tired;
But then begins a journey in my head
To work my mind when body's work's expired.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 27.
- 14 When, in disgrace with fortune and men's eyes,
I all alone beweepe my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself and curse my fate,
Wishing me like to one more rich hope,
Featured like him, like him with friends possessed,
Desiring this man's art and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least:
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Haply I think on thee, and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day arising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate;
For thy sweet love remembered such wealth brings
That then I scorn to change my state with kings'.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 29.
- 15 When to the sessions of sweet silent thought
I summon up remembrance of things past,
I sigh the lack of many a thing I sought,
And with old woes new wail my dear time's waste.
Then can I drown an eye unused to flow
For precious friends hid in death's dateless night,
And weep afresh love's long-since-cancelled woe,
And moan th'expense of many a vanished sight.
Then can I grieve at grievances foregone,
And heavily from woe to woe tell o'er
The sad account of fore-bemoanèd moan,
Which I new pay as if not paid before.
But if the while I think on thee, dear friend,
All losses are restored, and sorrows end.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 30.
- 16 Full many a glorious morning have I seen
Flatter the mountain tops with sovereign eye,
Kissing with golden face the meadows green.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 33.
- 17 As a decrepit father takes delight
To see his active child do deeds of youth,
So I, made lame by fortune's dearest spite,
Take all my comfort of thy worth and truth.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 37.
- 18 All days are nights to see till I see thee,
And nights bright days when dreams do show thee me.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 43.
- 19 O how much more doth beauty beauteous seem
By that sweet ornament which truth doth give!
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 54.
- 20 The rose looks fair, but fairer we it deem
For that sweet odour which doth in it live.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 54.
- 21 Not marble nor the gilded monuments
Of princes shall outlive this powerful rhyme,
But you shall shine more bright in these contents
Than unswept stone besmeared with sluttish time.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 55.
- 22 So, till the judgement that yourself arise,
You live in this, and dwell in lovers' eyes.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 55.
- 23 Being your slave, what should I do but tend Upon the hours and times of your desire?
I have no precious time at all to spend,
Nor services to do, till you require;
Nor dare I chide the world-without-end hour
Whilst I, my sovereign, watch the clock for you,

- Nor think the bitterness of absence sour
 When you have bid your servant once adieu.
 Nor dare I question with my jealous thought
 Where you may be, or your affairs suppose,
 But like a sad slave stay and think of naught
 Save, where you are, how happy you make those.
 So true a fool is love that in your will,
 Though you do anything, he thinks no ill.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 57.
- 24 Like as the waves make towards the pebbled shore,
 So do our minutes hasten to their end.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 60.
- 25 Since brass, nor stone, nor earth, nor boundless sea,
 But sad mortality o'ersways their power,
 How with this rage shall beauty hold a plea,
 Whose action is no stronger than a flower?
 O how shall summer's honey breath hold out
 Against the wrackful siege of battering days
 When rocks impregnable are not so stout,
 Nor gates of steel so strong, but time decays?
 O fearful meditation! where, alack,
 Shall time's best jewel from time's chest lie hid,
 Or what strong hand can hold his swift foot back,
 Or who his spoil of beauty can forbid?
 O none, unless this miracle have might:
 That is black ink my love may still shine bright.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 65.
- 26 Right perfection wrongfully disgraced.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 66.
- 27 Simple truth miscalled simplicity.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 66.
- 28 They look into the beauty of thy mind,
 And that in guess they measure by thy deeds.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 69.
- 29 No longer mourn for me when I am dead
 Than you shall hear the surly sullen bell
 Give warning to the world that I am fled
 From this vile world with vilest worms to dwell.
 Nay, if you read this line, remember not
 The hand that writ it; for I love you so
 That I in your sweet thoughts would be forgot
 If thinking on me then should make you woe.
 O, if, I say, you look upon this verse
 When I perhaps compounded am with clay,
 Do not so much as my poor name rehearse,
 But let your love even with my life decay,
 Lest the wise world should look into your moan
 And mock you with me after I am gone.
1609 Sonnets, sonnet 71.
- 30 That time of year thou mayst in me behold
 When yellow leaves, or none, or few, do hang Upon those boughs which shake against the cold,
 Bare ruined choirs where late the sweet birds sang.
